VACATION IS THREATENED BY TARIFF

Congress At Loss To Know What To Do With So Much Work Ahead Of Tariff.

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—Congress today confronted a situation in the Senate contest over restriction of tariff revision, which many leaders regarded as threatening to put the plan for a summer vacation definitely into the limbo of lost causes.

The issue was drawn on the resolution of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, to restrict the tariff changes to rates affecting agricultural and related products, together with an amendment by Senator Jones, of Washington, assistant Republican leader, to bring industrial products which have been "depressed" in recent years by increasing competitive imports within the scope of the limitations proposed.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, has taken command of the opposition to the Borah proposal, but members of both groups conceded today that its adoption was possible if not probable. The Indiana senator is counting on his main support from the group of Republican regulars who lined up with him in support of the opposition to the export debenture plan of farm relief, but some of these already have disclosed their preference for the Borah restrictions.

One of those who now finds himself lined up with Borah and the Democrats and Republican independents who twice put the debenture plan into the farm legislation, is Allen, of Kansas, vigorous opponent of their stand in this contest. He has expressed a desire for "limited" tariff adjustments, the Borah proposal comes closer to administration ideas than the House bill, Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, has taken a similar position.

Leaders of each side believe adoption of the other's policy will prolong tariff revision considerably beyond the limits of the special session. Watson holds that only the sort of general revision approved by the House is possible and that if it has to be accomplished on the floor rather than through the finance committee, many months will be consumed in the work. Borah reports that general revision will require months of consideration.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, meanwhile, has worked out a revised export debenture proposal as an amendment to the tariff bill which is expected to revive the controversy during the coming debate. To prevent speculation in debenture certificates which would be issued to farmers exporting surplus crops, he would provide for their redemption by the treasury as 98 cents on the dollar.

In the face of the restriction move in the Senate, four sub-committees of the finance committee were called today to proceed with hearings on the cotton, chemicals, agricultural and wood schedules of the House bill. The Republican members already have voted down a committee proposal similar to that of Borah.

Assolant Talks To Wife In N. Y.

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Mme. Jean Assolant, bride of the pilot of the French plane, Yellow Bird, set about getting a passport today after hearing her husband's voice span the ocean he flew across.

An exchange of "hello darling" and "I love you," occupied the greater part of a three-minute trans-Atlantic telephone conversation yesterday between the young French flyer and the wife he married three days before he took off with his companions from Old Orchard, Me., last Thursday.

Mme. Assolant waited at a telephone instrument three hours until her husband, who had just landed at Le Bourget field on the last leg of the interrupted flight from America, could disengage himself from admirers and reach a telephone in the hotel.

FOUR DROWNED IN N. C. OVER THE WEEK-END

Two Lives Are Claimed By Streams In Mecklenburg County Yesterday.

Charlotte, N. C., June 17.—(AP)—Four drownings occurred in North Carolina during the week-end. Herchel Williams, 21, of Charlotte, was drowned while swimming in the Catawba river and Wesley Green, 8, of Granport, fell from a bridge near there into the South Fork river, 40 feet below.

Mrs. Henry K. Walters, of Fairmount, was drowned in a mill pond, when an automobile driven by her husband plunged from a bridge. The woman was imprisoned in the automobile, and efforts of Walters, who escaped, to free her failed. Walters said he was blinded by the lights of another car.

"Japan will be quite ready to offer co-operation in such negotiations as she is always anxious to do her utmost to promote universal peace."

FLORIDA IS DOWN BEHIND SOCIAL ISSUE

Tallahassee, Fla., June 17.—(AP)—The Florida House of Representatives today adopted by a vote of 71 to 13 a resolution condemning what the resolution termed "certain social policies of the administration in entertaining negroes in the White House on a party with white ladies."

The resolution before the vote was taken had been amended so as to eliminate the language which would have protested "the act of Mrs. Herbert Hoover in entertaining the wife of Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from Illinois," at the White House and the criticism was directed at the White House in general terms.

It was introduced by Rep. Way, Democrat, and was discussed for one hour and fifty minutes before the vote was taken. The resolution called on Glenn B. Skipper, Republican national committeeman from Florida to "convey to the President of the United States the earnest protest of the House of Representatives and that he use his influence with the President to the end that incidents hereinafter alluded to be discontinued."

Near Riot Occurs At Chicago Game

Chicago, June 17.—(AP)—Two Cubs fans today faced charges of disorderly conduct, following a near riot at the Phillies-Cub game yesterday.

The trouble started when Dennis Southern, Philadelphia outfielder, was said to have spat in the face of Charles Barron, secretary to Jim Mullen, Chicago boxing promoter and matchmaker. Barron was said to have "ridden" Fresno Thompson, Phillie infielder, causing Southern to break into the argument.

Barron struck Southern, and was arrested. He later was released when a crowd of several hundred Cub fans staged a demonstration in front of the town hall police station. The police arrested Herman Velle and Warren Harrison on disorderly charges as leaders of the demonstration.

Japanese Volcano In Eruption Today

Ofari, Japan, June 17.—(AP)—The volcano Komagatake, north of Hakodate, which has been quiet for a decade, erupted today, the lava flow firing forests on the mountain side. The ashes fell in nearby villages three and five inches in depth, inhabitants deserting their homes.

The eruption was accompanied by earth tremors. There have been no casualties but it was feared the damage was considerable.

Despite the cut, Nashapur came in second in the $50,000 race behind Windy City.

SEVEN KILLED WHEN ENGLISH PLANE FALLS

Four Also Injured When Airliner Plunges Into The English Canal Today

London, June 17.—(AP)—The Imperial Airways announced late today that seven passengers lost their lives in the crash of a trans-Channel airplane off Folkestone.

Four passengers, the pilot and mechanic, were injured. The Imperial Airways statement said: "The directors of the Imperial Airways announce with regret that the airliner which left Croydon at 10:30 a. m. today on the London-Zurich-Basel service sent out distress signals when fifteen miles across the channel.

"The pilot turned back and when three miles from shore came down in the channel. The pilot reported by wireless that he was landing alongside a trawler which he did.

"Further marine assistance was dispatched understanding emergency arrangements immediately upon receipt of the pilot's distress signals.

"The directors deeply regret that seven passengers' lives were lost. Four passengers and the pilot and mechanic were injured, but it is hoped not seriously.

"The air ministry inspector of accidents will make the prescribed investigation and until he has done so the company is unable to state precisely the cause either of the accident or the consequent loss of life. The liner has been salvaged and a thorough investigation can therefore be made."

Folkestone, England, June 17.—(AP)—Two bodies were said here today to have been recovered from the Imperial Airways airliner, City of Pretoria, which came down in the channel this morning. The bodies were landed at Dungeness. Five more bodies were thought to be in the cabin of the submerged plane.

A channel trawler had gripped the plane, the cabin of which was under water. The machine was a land plane and had no pontoons or floats.

The bodies landed at Folkestone were not identified. The trawler, with the half-submerged plane, was expected to make an attempt to beach the plane at high tide this evening. The number and identity of the bodies in the cabin may not be known before that time.

While London newspapers in flaring headlines reported that the passengers had all escaped in a trawler, telephone messages from Folkestone said that instead of the passengers being rescued unharmed, one was known to have been drowned while the four injured had to be taken to a hospital.

Every effort was being made to determine what happened to the seven missing.

The advice indicated that the plane, which was not equipped with special floats, was waterlogged.

The plane, named the City of Pretoria, left Croydon at 10:30 o'clock this morning and made a forced landing for reasons which have not yet been determined, shortly after leaving the coast.

QUAKE CLAIMS SIX LIVES IN NEW ZEALAND

Four Men Reported Killed In Landslide That Blocked Westland River.

Wellington, New Zealand, June 17.—(AP)—Half a dozen lives at least were lost in a disastrous earthquake which rocked northern New Zealand today.

Four men were reported to have been killed by a heavy landslide which blocked the Westland river. Two other men were missing in the Westland district. Another man was killed at the Fall Rock Cement Works.

Wellington, New Zealand, June 17.—(AP)—A sharp earthquake was felt throughout New Zealand at 10:30 a. m. today. Some chimneys fell in the Westland area, but there was no serious damage.

London, June 17.—(AP)—The Exchange Telegraph Company received a dispatch from Wellington, New Zealand, today which said an earthquake was felt throughout the archipelago with the exception of South Island.

One death was caused by a landslide, while three were seriously injured. The severity of the quake varied in different places, the most violent shock being at Nelson and Westport where buildings were considerably damaged.

Dry Forces Cross Border To Canada

Windsor, Ont., June 17.—(AP)—Police at La Salle, Ont., a down river export point, have discovered that United States prohibition agents are operating on the Canadian side of the Detroit river in the Detroit area.

Chief of Police Henry Langlois, of La Salle, said that Canadian customs men brought a man to his office whom they had found prowling on private property, armed with a spy-glass.

The man identified himself as F. Martin, an undercover agent for the United States prohibition enforcement service. He said he recently had been transferred to the Detroit area from Richmond, Va., and had been sent over to the Canadian side with other agents.

Chief Langlois said United States agents were free to make all the investigations they chose in his community, but warned them to keep off private property.

He said there was a danger that innocent Canadians might become involved with the United States agents because of the practice of taking license numbers of automobiles parked at breweries.

A Canadian whose car number had been recorded by agents might be mistaken for a bootlegger if he drove his car to Detroit on business, the chief pointed out.

AGED LEADER OF SALVATION ARMY IS DEAD

General Bramwell Booth Passed Away At English Home Last Night After Long Illness.

Mrs. Booth received a message of sympathy from the king reading as follows: "The Queen and I have heard with regret of the death of General Bramwell Booth, and we offer you our sincere sympathy in your bereavement. With his father, he will always be gratefully remembered as the promoter of the widespread and beneficent activities of the Salvation Army."

Whitley Wood, Eng., June 17.—(AP)—Covered with a Salvation Army banner, the body of General William Bramwell Booth lay in his pleasant suburban home here today. His passing last night was unrecognized by any outward sign of mourning either officially or among the rank and file of the Salvation Army, which he headed until deposed recently.

Not a flag was lowered at the international headquarters in Queen Victoria street. "We keep our standard flying high," said a high official. "For General Booth is not dead—he has passed to glory."

But though the Army tradition does not admit loss there was in evidence everywhere among the Salvationists a deep sense of personal loss that they felt at the 72-year-old general's death, so quietly and suddenly last night after final months of life which had been filled with the agony of ill health, distasteful conflict, and defeat.

The general spoke to his family yesterday afternoon before he lapsed into unconsciousness. What his words were, however, has not been revealed. One who was near to him said today, "he didn't know the end was so near."

The peace of the shaded street in Hadley Wood where he lived was broken today only by the opening and shutting of the gate as messenger boys brought cables with messages of sympathy and condolence to Mrs. Booth and her children from all parts of the world.

With the exception of Colonel Mary Booth, who is returning from Germany, all members of the family are here and were at the bedside when he died.

The Salvation Army probably will be entrusted with arrangements for the funeral. The general's parents are buried in Abney Park cemetery in North London and it was his family's wish he lie at the side of the Salvation Army's founder, his own father.

Various Stories Feature Probe Of Rum Runner's Death

Plattsburgh, N. Y., June 17.—(AP)—The death of Arthur Gordon, of this city, 22 shot while running 37 cases of beer from Canada, today presented problems for county officials, after John C. Tulloch, collector of the port of Ogdensburg, had explained the shooting was "accidental."

County authorities had for their consideration conflicting stories of the shooting. Persons told District Attorney E. Loyal O'Connell they had heard five shots fired the night Gordon was killed. Patrolman Cheatham reported that one shot from his rifle fatally wounded Gordon. He said this shot was fired unintentionally when he fell while chasing Gordon.

The statement of the border patrol that the chase took place in broad daylight, was another disputed story the district attorney's office said was hard to explain. The prosecutor's men said hospital attendants told them the border patrolman left Gordon's body at their institution, about 6 o'clock Saturday morning.

Tulloch said Patrolmen Coveney and Cheatham tried to block Gordon's car with their two machines after they had sighted him coming down one of the "boozie trails" not far from the bridge, Gordon, they said, wrecked his car and then started running.

The custom collector's statement quoted both Cheatham and Coveney as saying that Gordon could distinguish their uniforms and that they ordered him to stop with the customary command of "United States customs, halt!"

He was within a few feet of the border when brought down.

Atlantic Fliers Arrive At Paris Flying Field With Stowaway Aboard

Paris, June 17.—(AP)—Refreshed by their first good sleep since leaving America Thursday, three French trans-Atlantic birdmen were plunged today into a long program of receptions, dinners and celebrations. Although Paris seemed bliss enough to ocean lights there was no disposition anywhere to let the feat of Jean Assolant, Rene Lefevre and Armino Loti pass without recognition.

The grinning, garrulous stowaway by their first good sleep since leaving America Thursday, three French trans-Atlantic birdmen were plunged today into a long program of receptions, dinners and celebrations. Although Paris seemed bliss enough to ocean lights there was no disposition anywhere to let the feat of Jean Assolant, Rene Lefevre and Armino Loti pass without recognition.

When the fliers arrived at Le Bourget from Comillas, Spain, yesterday at 8:47 p. m. (2:47 p. m. E. S. T.) not more than 6,000 people awaited them, the long wait of Friday and Saturday having militated against a greater number. He lattes hugged, kissed and cheered them while members of the large crowd put them on shoulders and carried them from the field.

The first formal reception for the three aviators was that of the Aero club of France, set for this afternoon, with other festivities to follow which probably will continue through several days. It continued doubtful whether the City of Paris or the government would give the fliers an official reception.

The air ministry some time ago put a ban on trans-oceanic flights and was on record as definitely opposed to the attempt of Assolant, Lefevre and Loti. When M. Lorient-Lynac, the French minister of air, facilitated the fliers last night at Le Bourget in the name of the government he said: "You have succeeded in achieving one of the finest exploits in aviation, undisciplined perhaps, but quite pardonable since you achieved your purpose."

With a smile Assolant replied, "undisciplined I have often been. My old chief commandant Weiss can tell you that." As a matter of fact only a few minutes before he had violated the regulation against low flying over the City of Paris as he came from Spain.

To most Frenchmen the young stowaway, Schreiber, remained a great puzzle today with the French morning press giving him a great deal of space but largely as a curiosity.

His talkativeness in his own language, his incessant repetition of three French words, "Vive la France" his waving of an American flag, and his general demeanor were quite inexplicable to the logical French mind.

The French newspapers have dubbed him with the word applied by the three Frenchmen who were infuriated at finding him aboard the plane last Thursday but later befriended him, the word being, "Le Polisson," which in its mildest form may be translated, "the Rascal."

Completion of the flight began last Thursday at Old Orchard, Me., occurred at dusk when it was almost dark and very rainy and dismal. The plane appeared over the field to the accompaniment of cheers from many throats. It circled the famous airbase once or twice and finally came down, zooming toward the ground at 125 miles an hour and throttling down to land, perfectly.

HOPES STRIKE CAN BE ENDED IN CONFERENCE

Governor Of S. C. Thinks Workers And Operators Will Reach Settlement.

Columbia, June 17.—(AP)—Governor Richards last night expressed himself as being "hopeful" the strike at the Ware Shoals Manufacturing Company's plant could be settled after a conference with mill owners and members of the state board of conciliation.

Plans had been made by mill officials at Ware Shoals to bring 1,500 employees here in two special trains to make personal appeals to the governor to use his influence to settle the strike but Governor Richards said it would be "most unfortunate" to do so at this time. Mill officials decided not to bring workers here when the governor expressed his disapproval.

Governor Richards would not elaborate on his statement about the visit of the workers here. Approximately 2,000 persons are on strike.

League Committee Studies Complaint By The Japanese

Tokyo, Japan, June 17.—(AP)—The long-drawn conflict over the phrase "in the name of their respective peoples" in the Kellogg pact entered what was expected to be its final phase at a meeting today of a special committee of nine of the privy council. Count Niyoji to act as chairman.

The committee began a study of the pact together with the Japanese cabinet's proposed "interpretation" of the phrase, to which is strong conservative opposition because of what is looked upon as a slight to the Emperor's sole treaty-making power.

Premier Tanaka, supported by foreign office experts, explained the government's position.

The controversy is not concerned with the merits of the treaty itself but has rallied diverse and powerful elements in an attempt to pull down Tanaka cabinet in the grounds of remissness in accepting a phrase allegedly contrary to the spirit of Japanese constitution and disrespectful to the sovereign.

One of the keynotes is the attitude of Count Uchida, who signed the treaty in Paris and who is threatening to resign his seat in the privy council taking responsibility for his share in this "remissness."

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: The body of his brother entombed in the mine, Alex Peterson ends his picturesque career to become Andrew Ogden. His irrigation projects make him immensely wealthy. Anxious to shield, first his wife and later his son, from threatened scandal, he yields to Dillon's blackmail and pays $5,000 a year for 25 years to buy Dillon's silence on the killing of Joe Lundy. Dillon becomes bold, demands $100,000 and Ogden refuses. By a queer chance he meets Mrs. Lundy and learns that her husband is still living. Furie, the desert rat, discovers the new gold vein and comes to see Ogden but does not recognize him as the former Peterson.

Chapter 43.

THE LEAD BULLET

Jerry's vivid description had brought a realistic picture of the meeting between Furie and Andrew. Our eyes were fixed on the boy as he continued his long story.

"Furie brought a specimen from the new vein and he said he figured he was entitled to a 50-50 share in the profits. He has some claim, of course, but when dad realized Furie had violated Uncle Jerry's tomb he went crazy. What else had Furie done or found in the mine? Well, Furie had found a gold-mounted .45 and a passel o' bones. One of the back rib bones had a 'bullet stickin' in it. Dad must have gone mad for the moment. Where was the gun? Furie had told it that morning. Dad seized him by the throat. To whom had he sold it? That seemed old stick, Nathan Hyde, it seemed. Dad sprang to the telephone, but Hyde had already sold the .45 to you.

"Furie was whimpering and snarling on the floor when dad had dropped him. But he was scared and he must have got it into his head that dad was raving because of the value of the pistol. Anyhow, he pulled out the contents of one of his trousers pockets and plunked them down on the desk. 'That's the price o' the six gun.' Among the trash mixed up with the money was a bit of metal. Furie pounced on it. All that the bullet that was stuck in his rib! he shouted. Dad got the shock of his life, then. It had never occurred to him in all these years that Jerry hadn't committed suicide. Now, if Jerry had killed himself, the bullet would be gold.

"It was lead!"

"I sat bolt upright in my chair and Deacon all but leaped out of his. 'Dad was stunned. He put Furie out. It meant upsetting the assumptions of a lifetime, but he soon got it straight. Do you see it, Uncle John?'"

"See it? I shouted. 'Of course I see it! And so does Deacon. Lundy hired Dillon, the ex-Pinkerton man to trap Jerry. Dillon got him and doubt-exposed Lundy by persuading or forcing Jerry to go in with him on something bigger. Jerry agreed and he was caught. Lundy naturally set Dillon on guard outside the mine. As soon as the crowd had some Dillon spoke to Jerry told him to push out the key your father had used to open the door. Jerry, thinking he was to be freed, obeyed. Dillon opened the door and shot him.

"Why? Because he reasoned that when Jerry felt a rope around his neck he'd try to save his own life by exposing the plot and naming his accomplices. Dillon saw no danger in shooting Jerry. He would report he had heard a shot in the mine. The miners and your father would find the door locked, the key under it, and Jerry dead with his brother's pistol at his side, one chamber exploded. Being a stranger, he probably knew nothing of Peterson's gold bullets and he reasoned his alibi was perfect.

"But before Dillon could get hold of Jerry's gold-mounted pistol and discharged it to account for the bullet hole in Jerry's body, Jerry, who was mortally wounded, managed to put a bullet in him. The impact knocked Dillon down. Jerry was dying, but he penciled those few words we found, stowed them away in the cartridge case, and reloaded the gun. I expected he reasoned like this: If he concealed it in an unexploded cartridge Peterson was bound to see that the cartridge had been tampered with, as soon as he broke the gun to replace the empty shell. It never occurred to him that Peterson would leave the soldier his weapon. Jerry died a minute or so later.

"Dillon now came to himself. Seeing that Jerry was dead, he crawled out of the mine, locked the door, thrust the key under it, and took himself off. Are these the conclusions your father came to, Jerry?" "Just about, Uncle John."

"And you, Henry?" "I'd like to hear about the young man's departure from his home the night Andrew was killed," Deacon responded.

"I was coming to that," Jerry went on. "Dad was wild to bring Dillon to justice. First, he'd have to take me into his confidence, though, and he called me in and told me everything.

"Uncle Jerry must have proper burial. The mine was open. Other people would be getting into it. If Furie talked, as he probably would, we'd have a rush on our hands.

"Meanwhile, the mine was still Uncle Jerry's tomb and intruders must be kept out of it. Some one must go down there. I was the logical one and Dad said I'd better leave in the morning. But morning wasn't quick enough for me. I was going that night—at once. Dad finally agreed and I asked him what he was going to do about Dillon.

"Hang him if it takes every dollar I've got!" he said grimly. You'd better be off, if you are going tonight, son, he went on. "I'll follow you in a day or two. Stay there until I come." Those were about his last words to me."

Jerry paused, that brooding look in his eyes again, and we respected his silence.

"It was around nine, now," he resumed. "Driving into town, I stocked up with water, food, and gasoline, and set off. It was nearly dawn when I got to Torridity. I drove out to the mine at once.

"Uncle Jerry was there, just as Furie had said. I put in most of the day looking over the new vein and the old workings.

"In the afternoon I drove back to the village and went into Lundy's Place. I went up to the 'secret' room. And there were the dummies, pretty nearly as dad had left them 30 years ago! And Furie was with 'em. He often does, it turned out. There were chips on the table. It was a showdown. Sittin' Bull had three aces! I thought Furie was going to shoot me when I walked in on him, but I calmed him down and he talked a little. The room was a sort of 'holy place' to him, too.

"The next day a car drove into the village, but it didn't come up to the mine. And a couple of hours later—Lucy came. We didn't see you, Uncle John."

"There was more to follow, I suspected, for with the finish of his story Jerry's voice had dropped oddly and that queer defiant expression had come into Lucy's eyes. Deacon looked at me grimly and afterwards I wondered if he had guessed.

"What then?" I asked encouragingly.

Lucy slowly drew out of her breast a slender pink ribbon which hung around her neck. "We were married in San Miguel yesterday afternoon, Uncle John," she said. (Copyright, 1929, Wm. Morrow Co.)

Value Of Dollar Increased In May

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—The bureau of labor statistics announced today that the rising value of the dollar with downward trend of wholesale prices continued through May, the latter declining one percent from the April level.

Farm products, notably the grains, meat animals, cotton, hay and wool, continued to lead the decline, but of 500 commodities considered, only 82 showed increases, while 178 decreased and 290 were unchanged.

Take Action For Improvements To Power Projects

Nashville, Tenn., June 17.—(AP)—The Tennessee public utilities commission announced today the awarding of certificates of necessity and convenience to the Holston River Power Company for three power projects on the Holston river in East Tennessee. The Holston Power Company which is a subsidiary of the American Cyanamid Company, stated in its application that the parent company would develop the sites and spend approximately $35,000,000 on the projects.

If the Federal Water Power commission concurs in the opinion, the Holston company must start work within thirty days after a final permit is granted.

The Holston company agreed to erect three dams and three power plants. One 79 foot dam to generate 24,000 horse-power, will be built six miles north of Kingsport. Another 30,000 horse-power capacity, would be erected just below the confluence of the south fork of the Holston river and the Watauga river, while the third, 130 feet high, would be on the south fork near Bluff City.

One Life Lost In Rescue Of Crew Of Lumber Steamer

Portland, Ore., June 17.—(AP)—The rescue of 24 members of the crew of the lumber steamer Laurel and the loss of one life was reported early today by life saving crews near the mouth of the Columbia river, where the ship was broken in two yesterday by a storm. The gale played havoc with shipping along the Oregon-California coast.

Reports from the life savers said that the fate of eight others on the wreck of the Laurel still was in doubt. The remaining eight were believed to be on the stern half of the vessel which is on a sand pit half a mile off the north jetty at the mouth of the river.

The Laurel passed out of the river yesterday, carrying 7,208,400 feet of lumber for New York and Philadelphia. Her steering gear became disabled and the storm carried her onto the sand pit. Life saving crews and tugs summoned by radio found her at daybreak but were unable to get close to her, owing to the tremendous seas and floating lumber. At 7 a. m. she broke in two. One man was drowned and the other 32 were left on the stern.

Shortly after the Laurel was driven aground the steamer Multnomah in the coast-wise service of the McCormick Steamship Company, flashed calls for help reporting that the storm had resulted in boiler trouble and that she had lost her deck load of 600,000 feet of lumber.

A pilot schooner was dispatched and took off the 15 passengers on the Multnomah. All the members of the crew remained at their posts and with the boiler trouble apparently ended, the vessel returned to the river under her own power.

Two fishermen, P. and H. Anderson, brothers, of Sausalito, Calif., were believed to have perished in the storm off Shelter Cove, near Fort Bragg, Calif. Their launch came ashore bottom up yesterday.

Mrs. Coolidge Awarded Degree Doctor Of Laws

Northampton, Mass., June 17.—(AP)—Grace Goodhue Coolidge, wife of former President Calvin Coolidge, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws at the 51st commencement at Smith College today.

In conferring the degree upon Mrs. Coolidge, President William Allan Neilson spoke on the "Perfection of Graciousness and Dignity" with which Mrs. Coolidge occupied the most "conspicuous position opened to a woman in America."

Dr. Raymond Fosdick of New York, delivering the commencement address, said: "A capacity to be different; a contempt for majorities; a determination to climb mountains; if one climbs alone—this is the true end of education."

Taking for his text the recently published "Middletown," a scientific scrutiny of the way life is lived in a typical American community, the speaker added:

"My fear is that returning to the middle-towns of the United States, your lives will be very respectable and very dull.

"I am not afraid of your non-conformity, I am afraid of your conformity. The thing I dread for you is the cloud of dullness settling over your lives.

"The only life worth living at any time in any age is the adventurous life. By the adventurous life I mean primarily the life that has a capacity to be different."

ARE SOUTHERN STATES THE 'SHAME OF THE NATION?'

In a scathing reply to the editorial of a Chicago newspaper, quoted as pointing the finger of shame at the South, Holland's, The Magazine of the South, in the current issue says: "Utter and amazing ignorance, not only of the South but of our country as a whole, is revealed in a recent editorial in the Chicago Daily Tribune entitled 'Public Life in the Sticks States,' which takes note of Louisiana and her political problems, of Oklahoma's impeachment trials, of the 'Ma' Ferguson episode in Texas, and of Bilbo of Mississippi—but which does not mention, oddly enough, Al Capone or Len Small of Illinois—and goes on to say that the Southern States are remote from centers of commercial activity, culture and learning, and are the 'shame of the Nation.'"

"After the first wave of surprise at a so crass display of sheer ignorance, we are amused at being termed the 'shame' of anything by a newspaper in such an abattoir as Chicago, with its putrid politics, its guarded elections, its gangster-ruled streets, its St. Valentine's Day slaughters, its beer barons, and its neighboring Herrins and Ciceros. Political disputes in the Southern States at least are settled in courts of law, and not with machine guns. The Southern States have no unseated United States senators, nor does any of their senators send a floral offering and his personal card to a gangster's funeral.

"The South, in six years, increased its manufactured-products values $567,000,000. In those same six years, manufacturing decreased $279,509,000. Southern ports handle 42 per cent of the country's water-borne tonnage. Over 61 per cent of all active cotton spindles in the Nation are in the South. Such facts as these are endless. If this be remoteness from commercial activity, make the most of it.

"The South was steeped in culture and learning, and its cities were the sites of recognized colleges and universities, more than three-quarters of a century before Chicago came into existence. Its first college was founded over 140 years before Chicago. In fact, when Chicago was founded, there already were 40 universities and colleges in the South—as against only 20 in the Middle West and 36 in the remaining states. Two of these Southern colleges were in Louisiana and Mississippi.

"The second college founded on American soil was in a Southern state—the College of William and Mary, at Williamsburg, Virginia, in 1693. Only one other university was founded in America during that century—Harvard, in 1636, located in Massachusetts, which is not a Middle West state.

"In the eighteenth century, beginning with the founding of Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Virginia, in 1749, the South saw 13 colleges and universities founded within its borders, and 14 founded in the rest of the country. No college or university was founded in the Middle West during that century.

"The first American college established in the nineteenth century was the University of South Carolina, at Columbia, in 1801—the fifteenth Southern university to be founded prior to the establishment of any such institution in the Middle West. Before the founding of Chicago's first university the South had 58 colleges and universities. Of these, three were in Texas, two in Louisiana, and one in Mississippi—states, according to the learned Tribune, 'remote from culture and learning.'

"Of the two score Southern universities founded while Chicago was still but an idea in a trader's mind, one was Wesleyan, in Macon, Georgia, the oldest woman's college in the world, and the first to award a degree to a woman. Subsequent Southern colleges, preceding Chicago's first, included the famous Baylor in Texas, in 1845—Baylor College for women and Baylor University.

"Today, there are in the Southern States 189 recognized colleges and universities. The Middle West has only 116. The remainder of the country has 275.

"In justice to the Middle West, the North and the East, it should be understood and stated that this ridiculous editorial in the Tribune does not reflect the attitude and opinion of the public in those sections toward and regarding the Southern States, but is actuated probably by jealousy and is indicative of a narrow policy that has characterized the Tribune's attitude toward the South for many years. Business men in Chicago and the Middle West know its utter falseness, and it is to the interest of those same business men—many of whom seek Southern patronage—to see that such misstatements are not circulated at this time to take care of itself, and in a few weeks, rain or no rain, the growers will be housing it in preparation for opening of the market."

"The way the cellarites of this city have been defeating the league leaders the last few days justifies belief that we are not destined to remain in the low-grounds much longer," declared a fan today. "This kind of ball playing is what fans have been wanting all the season, and now that they have it we may expect to see attendance pick up during the next several days.

ABOUT TOWN

"Violators of the game laws of North Carolina will be vigorously punished," the assistant state game warden, told members of the Greenville Kiwanis Club here last Friday night.

"We had regular police operating along the streams and in the forest of the various sections of the city. These men are no respecters of person, and make arrests wherever violations exist."

"We didn't bring back any loving cups from the State convention recently held in Hickory," said a member of the Merchants' Association, "but we had the consolation of having found a good fight."

"We went to Hickory firmly believing that our hundred percent increase in membership would win us a cup, but there was one other town that had a better record than we did and they walked away with the honors."

"However, we are not discouraged. There are other conventions coming, and Greenville is growing rapidly enough to assure us of continued growth in membership and many other ways."

"Come to Greenville to do your shopping," invited a business man today, speaking to a visitor here from quite a distance. "Our stocks are always complete with some of the best merchandise to be found anywhere. Our business men are trying to make this the shopping center of the section, and in doing so are carrying a brand of goods in keeping with the high position to which they aspire."

"The next time you come to Greenville, go around to the stores and then compare their offerings with the other stores you visit in many cities of the country."

SAN FRANCISCANS SEEK ENDURANCE RECORD

STRIKERS WAIVE HEARING IN GASTONIA COURT TODAY CASE SENT TO HIGHER COURT

(Continued From Page One) Denny said there were about 300 persons in the delegation, including former strikers who offered any assistance they could give in prosecution of the cases.

All tents except two had been removed from the strikers' colony today by the city and stores. The action was taken by the city council because officials said they could not afford to keep guards around the deserted tents. They said guards were necessary to prevent possible damage to the property.

Alberg Wagenecht, national secretary of the Workers' International Relief, announced yesterday that Attorney R. L. Sigmon had been engaged to start civil action for recovery of the tents. Sigmon said today that he had been retained as defense counsel by four of those held but had not yet been retained in the tent case.

ATHLETICS LOSE OUT TO CLEVELAND

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The first third of the way has been traveled, but for the Athletics it has been anything but the hardest. Even though Cleveland out-smacked the Mackmen by 10 to 9 yesterday, as the Yankees were sinking the Tigers by 11 to 7 for the third time in four days, the Philadelphia passed the 51-game mark with 39 victories and only 12 defeats for a percentage of .765—and a lead of eight games over the Yankees.

This record is two games below the figure reached by the Mack the figure reached by the Huggins in the first 51 engagements last year, but is five times better than the mark of the 1927 Yankees, who set an American League record with 114 victories and a percentage of .714. The Yankees in 1926, the first years of their current reign, showed 37 victories and 14 defeats in their first 51 skirmishes.

If precedent holds good, the advantage of the Mackmen will prove sufficient. From this point to the finish, Prof. McGillicuddy can play .553 baseball and close the season with 96 victories and 46 defeats. To beat such a mark, the Yankees will have to win 66 and lose only 37.

Both Rube Walberg and Walter Miller fell before enemy bats in the melee at Cleveland, but the Indians just managed to shade the Athletics at the finish.

The Tigers were tempered by the sight of Herbert Pennock, the one time incomparable left hander, on his way to the showers once more. Pennock blew a good early lead in the fifth and Wiley Moore held off the Tigers just long enough to pick up credit for the victory. Walter Hoyt was in there at the finish.

Bob Meusel got back into action as a pinch batsman for Benny Paschal and remained in the game. He got a single his first time up, and homered the second, driving in two runs.

Washington defeated Chicago by 5 to 3 and St. Louis turned back Boston by 5 to 2 in the remaining American League fixtures.

The National League became even warmer through the turn of games

SALO WINS PYLE RACE

Los Angeles, Cal., June 17.—(AP) Bronzed of skin, haggard of face and worn to the point of exhaustion, Johnny Salo, 36, has conquered 3,830 miles of deserts and mountains to win C. C. Pyle's trans-continental foot race and the $25,000 first prize.

By a margin of but two minutes and 47 seconds Salo triumphed in the gruelling grind from New York city. That slim lead he held over Pete Gavuzzo, 115-pounder British born Italian, in the total elapsed time standing when the trans-continental event came to an end here last night. Under the schedule Gavuzzo is entitled to a prize of $10,000.

Salo crossed the continent in 525 hours, 57 minutes and 20 seconds. Gavuzzo did it in 526 hours and 7 seconds.

More than 12 hours behind Gavuzzo, but in position for third place money—$6,000—came Giusto Emek, of Italy, who plodded from coast to coast in 538 hours, 46 minutes and 52 seconds.

Sam Rivman, of New York, was next, ready to take the $3,500 prize for fourth place with a total of 571 hours, 29 seconds.

A college youth, Paul Simpson, of Burlington, N. C., registered 536 hours, 30 minutes and 52 seconds to garner fifth place and $2,500. Sixth in line was Phillip Granville, Indian from Hamilton, Ont., who walked and loped an aggregate of 618 hours, 54 minutes and 23 seconds for $2,250 of the "pot of gold" at the trans-continental rainbowl's end.

SPORTS SLANTS

Next week, if the experts are not rendered groggy in the mean time, they can take up such issues as whether Columbia or Cornell can halt California's championship crew at Poughkeepsie; whether Max Schmelling can stop Paulino Uzcudun, or vice versa; and what chance the golfing field has against Bobby Jones, Horton Smith, Walter Hagen or Johnny Farrell in the national open at Winged Foot.

For about the eighth consecutive year, Yale will be the favorite in the classic four-mile race up the picturesque Thames from the railroad bridge to Bartlett's cove. Seven times in the last eight years, the Blue has led the Crimson across the finish. Since Ed Leader took charge at New Haven in 1923, only one Eli varsity has tasted defeat. That was in 1927.

No member of the Athletics will be more anxious to tie the Yankees into a collection of bow-knots this week-end than Robes Moses (Left) Grove, the celebrated southpaw. Whether or not it was because he bore down too hard, Grove has found the Yankees a jinx to his pitching skill ever since he came up from Baltimore to demonstrate to Connie Mack he was worth $100,000.

In 1927, Grove failed to beat the Yankees until September and then, as Mack said at the time, "it took the greatest game he has pitched all season to shut out the New Yorkers."

Last year Grove lost six out of seven starts against the world's champions as compared with his record of 23 victories and only two defeats against the other six clubs. On four occasions alone, the famous southpaw was mastered by John Henry Johnson of the Yankees.

This season Grove already has one Yankee scalp at his belt in addition to four victories over Boston, two from Cleveland and one each from Chicago, Detroit and Washington. Against these ten triumphs he has only one setback received at the hands of the lowly White Sox on May 7.

Ralph Williams Given Release

Ralph Williams, second baseman of the Greenville club of the Eastern Carolina League, was given unconditional release by the management of the local club last night, according to information given out this morning by club officials.

Although Williams had not intimated whether he would continue to play ball in this circuit, it was rumored, however, that he had decided to go with the Wilmington Pirates.

Williams was one of the outstanding players of the local club the most of last season. He was called back here to fill his old position this season. He appeared in every game up until Saturday night and rendered splendid service both in the field and at the bat. Beside occasional slumps with the stick, it was not known who would fill the second sack this afternoon, but it was believed that Young would be given a trial for the position.

TASTE above everything

It takes better tobaccos to make Chesterfield, more thorough aging, a blend and "cross-blend" that are all our own.

But Chesterfields satisfy millions—and such popularity must be deserved. Isn't it clear that the same thing counts with smokers as with us—"TASTE... above everything?"
