LINDY BEGINS FLIGHT TESTS IN NEW YORK

Returning From Honeymoon, Noted Flier Sends Congratulations To French Aces.

Mitchell Field, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—Mr. Charles A. Lindbergh, famed pilot, came back to work today as Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

After a three weeks honeymoon cruise during which he generally eluded reporters and photographers, the colonel and his bride, the former Anne Spencer Morrow, made their first public appearance at Mitchell Field for the state of the tests for the $150,000 offered for the first aircraft by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics.

Lindbergh and his wife drove to Mitchell Field in the colonel's car, and on their arrival posed for the photographers. After the pictures were taken the colonel introduced to his wife reporters he remembered from the time of his historic trans-Atlantic flight.

The newlyweds appeared ruddy and tanned after their cruise along the New England coast in the colonel's new motor yacht. The colonel wore a blue suit, the color in which he has appeared so often for the past two years. He carried a hat in his hand and his curly and sun-bleached hair was tousled by the wind at the field. Mrs. Lindbergh wore a blue summer frock, a close fitting blue hat and black pumps.

In an interview with reporters the colonel stuck to his custom of talking only about aviation. He made no reference to his honeymoon or to any of his plans, such as where he intends to live or whether he will immediately resume actual flying work. He is expected, however, soon to make a three week tour of the Trans-continental Air Transport Line, for which he is technical advisor.

"Aviation is now on a commercial basis," he said, "but it is necessary to perfect planes before the average person can fly them as they now operate automobiles. The planes must be safe and more fool proof, the airplane is not as yet a means of individual transportation."

The colonel formally inaugurated the tests. Although he is not a judge, he took up the biplane for his unofficial approval. The flight was his first since his marriage.

Two auto-gyro craft are among those which have been entered by 12 American and foreign designers. Entries do not close until October 1, when the tests end.

A "fool proof" plane is sought in the tests which include level flight at a speed not greater than 35 miles an hour; capacity to glide three minutes with engine shut off at 38 miles an hour; a landing within a 100 foot space; a 300-foot take-off; a variable speed in normal flight of 45 to 100 miles an hour; capability of the plane in an altitude of 25 feet within 500 feet of the point of starting the take-off.

Paris, June 19.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today cabled his congratulations to Jean Assolant, Rene Le Veure and Armand Lotti, Jr., for their trans-Atlantic flight from Old Orchard, Me., to Comillas, Spain, in the "Yellow Bird."

The colonel's message, addressed to all three of the aviators, said: "On returning to New York I have just learned of your successful crossing. Please accept my sincere congratulations and best wishes."

The French fliers immediately cabled him in answer: "We thank you most heartily for your affectionate telegram. Our greatest claim to glory has been to have followed the route you traced two years ago with incomparable mastery in your flight from New York to Paris."

Your magnificent example of courage and tenacity, of science as a pilot and navigator, guided us every instant of our route. We address to you our most cordial and respectful salutations.

Another cablegram was received from Mr. and Mrs. Schreiber, parents of the stowaway, Arthur Schreiber, the message tending further to mitigate the bad impression which he has created.

The cablegram said: "Accept our thanks for kindness and tolerance shown our son by France's three heroes of the air. Extend our appreciation to Mr. Lotti, Sr., and Madame Lotti for their parental guidance toward Arthur."

The governmental reception today for the three aviators alone, the stowaway not being included, was entirely out of the picture, pending his return Thursday to the United States and probably aboard the Leviathan.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN HONORED AT HARVARD

Zeno Brown To Be Awarded Master Of Business Administration At Finals.

(Special to the Reflector.)
Cambridge, Mass., June 19.—With its traditional impressive ceremonies Harvard University will celebrate its 230th annual commencement Thursday in sever quadrangle.

Zeno Holston Brown, of Greenville, N. C., will be among the candidates who will be honored at the exercises.

Mr. Brown will be awarded Master of Business Administration with honors in recognition of his proficiency in academic work. The Greenville honor man received his A. B. degree at the University of North Carolina in 1925. The Harvard business course requires two years graduate study.

As the big bell in Harvard Hall tolled Sunday morning, the Harvard candidates, clad in black caps and gowns, formed a procession in the old quadrangle of the Harvard Chapel for the baccalaureate services at which President Lowell spoke.

The commencement week program included the senior spread and dance, the celebrations of class day in the yard and at the stadium, and the Harvard-Yale baseball game at Soldiers' Field.

Today the class day exercises were held in Sanders Theatre. During the afternoon the seniors marched to the stadium for the ivy oration and confetti final.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, as chief marshal of commencement, will lead the academic procession Thursday. Friday is the date of the Harvard-Yale boat races at New London, the last event of the commencement program.

Completes Probe Into Clinic Fire

Cleveland, June 19.—(AP)—Making no attempt to fix the blame but pointing out that the Cleveland clinic had been warned of lack of X-ray film storage which cost 123 lives by fire and poison gases, Coroner A. J. Pearce completed his inquiry after a month of investigation in a report on the fire with official county records here today.

The warning was sent to the clinic by the Ohio inspection bureau of the Fire Underwriters Investigating Service last April 2. The disaster occurred May 15. It called attention to the fire hazard in the type of film used at the clinic and urged use of another kind.

The film was stored in the basement and was ignited by a means not determined in the investigation.

MILLS RESUME OPERATION AT WARE SHOALS

Several Hundred Strikers Return To Work; National Guards On Duty.

Ware Shoals, S. C., June 19.—(AP)—Guarded by two companies of national guardsmen, approximately 700 operatives of the Ware Shoals cotton mills returned to work today after being out on strike more than two weeks. The mills employ a total of approximately 1,700 workers in two shifts.

When the mills resumed operation at 7 o'clock approximately 300 persons, strikers and sympathizers gathered outside the gates of the mills and hooted and jeered those returning to work. About 150 of the sympathizers, it was asserted, came from Greenville, but departed immediately after the last worker had entered the mill.

The Butler guard, composed of 60 men, under Capt. H. H. Orr, arrived from Greenville during the night and early today machine gun company H arrived from Columbia by bus. The units total 90 men and are under the direct command of Maj. George Morgan, of Greenville.

The request for troops was made yesterday by three sheriffs of counties in this section. Sheriff Columbus L. Owens, of Laurens county, was joined in his request to Gov. John G. Richards for troops by Sheriffs F. D. McLane, of Abbeville county, and E. M. White, of Greenville county. The sheriffs, all from adjoining counties, looked over the situation and conferred here last night.

The strike at the mills of the Ware Shoals Manufacturing Company was caused by discharge of R. E. Stampell and O. H. Barnwell, employees of the mill, a week or more after the walkout closed the plant, there were reports that many employees wanted to return to work but feared to do so because of threats. It also was reported that several overseers from the mills had been visited at night by bands of men and threatened with violence if they did not leave the mill section.

On last Saturday the management of the mill announced that two special trains had been arranged for to take some 1,400 employees of the mill to Columbia to call on Governor Richards and ask that he send troops to protect them if they returned to work. The government frowned on the effort and it was abandoned. The re-opening of the mills was set for today and threats were renewed to such an extent that the sheriffs, after looking over the situation, asked for troops.

There is no union connection with the strike, although R. E. Stampell, one of the men around whom the strike grew, said today that approximately 800 employees of the mill had joined the United Textile Workers' Union. He said that there had been no election of local union officers.

Anti-Smiths Look To Republicans For Greater Support

Roaanoke, Va., June 18.—(AP)—With nominees in the field for governor and attorney general, and provision made to co-operate with other states where similar groups might desire to make the 1928 break with the Democratic party permanent, Virginia anti-Smith Democrats today looked to the Republican convention in Richmond, June 20, for support of their effort to wrest control of the state government from the Democrats.

Dr. William Moseley Brown, the Washington and Lee professor, nominated for governor by the anti-Smith Democrats in state convention here yesterday, was known to have the support of several of the most active leaders in the Republican state organization. No mention of expected Republican support came from the convention here, but Dr. Brown, in his pre-convention statement, had expressed willingness to run as an independent if nominated by both conventions.

Dr. Brown, and Captain E. E. Berkeley, the nominee for attorney general, expect to conduct a vigorous campaign in every section of Virginia from Cumberland Gap to the Eastern Shore, they said in discussing plans after the convention. It was stated that the campaign would probably not get actively under way, at least the speaking part of it, until after the August Democratic primary.

The anti-Smith convention failed to nominate a candidate for lieutenant-governor, although the executive committee was empowered to do so later if deemed advisable. This was taken by many observers as indicative that a Republican nominee might draw the anti-Smith support.

PROFESSOR QUESTIONED IN MURDER

Dr. James Snook, Ohio State university professor, was questioned by Columbus, Ohio, police in the slaying of pretty Theora Hix, a student. He denied knowledge of the hammer slaying but admitted the girl lived with him as his "wife" in a rooming house. Snook, who is married, is a former world's champion pistol shot.

Ask Senate For Action To Stop Killing Outrages

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—Calling attention to what he described as "outrageous killings" his state by government agents, Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, today called upon the Senate to give serious consideration to a remedy.

"This matter is of such great concern," he declared, "that I feel that the Senate is called upon to act. It is an outrageous thing that many innocent persons have been killed by government agents, and I have been very much disturbed about them."

He said he referred particularly to shootings near Plattsburgh, N. Y., and Niagara Falls, N. Y.

"I hope," he added, "that during the recess senators will give serious consideration to these killings so that some recommendations may be made."

HEAT CLAIMS ELEVEN LIVES IN THE EAST

With No Prospect Of Relief, Section Begins Seventh Day Of Sizzling Heat

(By the Associated Press.)

A withering heat wave which has held the eastern states in its grip for the past six days continued unabated today with temperatures running from one to seven degrees higher than at the same hours yesterday. Numerous deaths and prostrations have been reported. In New York and the Metropolitan area, which experienced the hottest weather of the summer yesterday at 93 degrees, the mercury indicated still higher altitude would be made before the day was over.

At 7 a. m. the thermometer registered 80 in New York City, which was seven degrees higher than at the same hour Tuesday. The mercury climbed steadily until at 11 a. m. it touched 83. Three degrees warmer than yesterday.

New Jersey, which reported six deaths from the heat yesterday, and experienced record temperatures for June 18, expected still higher records today. In Newark authorities issued a warning to citizens to use water sparingly as danger of a shortage exists.

Some New England cities reported higher temperatures today. The mercury registered at 84 degrees in Philadelphia at 8 a. m., the highest in the nation.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—With no immediate prospect of relief, the east today entered its seventh successive day of sizzling heat with a death toll of 11 for the last 24 hours.

Many others died of drowning while seeking relief from the oppressive weather at bathing beaches. Prostrations were numerous. It was the hottest day of the summer in most of the east and at some point the hottest June 18 ever recorded.

In New York City the temperature reached 93 degrees, the highest of the year and an all-time record for that date. Fifteen persons were prostrated but only one death occurred in the city.

Four other deaths, however, occurred in the metropolitan area. One death each was recorded for Newark, Waldwick, Westwood and Mountain View, all in New Jersey.

The highest temperature for the day was reported from Bloomsburg, Pa., where the mercury rose to 103 degrees. At Philadelphia two persons died and at Bellefonte, Pa., one.

At Pittsburgh, a 13-year-old girl fainted in a school room and fell from a third story window. She was injured seriously.

The heat wave continued general throughout New England where two additional deaths occurred and more than two score were prostrated.

Chicago, June 19.—(AP)—Thunderstorms early today attempted, without much luck, to shake from the Chicago territory the oppressive heat of the past two days. Predictions, however, were for somewhat cooler by nightfall, as compared with the 90-degree heat of Tuesday.

UNCOVER BIG LIQUOR RING AT NEW YORK

Hundred And Forty Indicted For Distribution Of Bogus Whiskey Equipment.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—One hundred and forty individuals and firms were under federal indictment today accused of participating in nation-wide organized for the distribution of bogus whiskey equipment.

Special Treasury agents said the conspiracy was the largest that has been uncovered, with ramifications into a score of cities across the continent.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act and with violation of a federal law forbidding the attaching of spurious revenue stamps to containers of spirituous liquors.

Their stock in trade included everything needed to pack and label ordinary bootleg whiskey in imitation of the product of foreign distilleries.

This included shavings from the inside of whiskey barrels, used to flavor synthetic liquor, bottles in imitation of the containers of widely known distilleries, labels, wrappers, corks, cases and bogus internal revenue stamps.

The establishments accused in the indictments include distilleries from which the barrels were obtained glass works, printing shops and manufacturers and dealers in other things needed for the business.

The firm of Glickstein and Turner in Brooklyn, one of those indicted, was said by federal agents to have been the headquarters of the ring. Other cities where the organization operated included Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Cleveland, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Atlantic City, Miami, Albany and Syracuse, N. Y., Providence and Woonsocket, R. I., New Haven and Hartford, Conn. and Los Angeles.

The defendants include the Overholt Distillery Corporation, Inc., of Bradford, Pa., and the Sherwood Distilling Company. These firms are accused of selling freshly bottled whiskey barrels without treating them to prevent extraction of liquor from the wood as required by law.

Japans Interested In Addresses by Dawes And MacDonald

Tokyo, June 19.—(AP)—Japanese officials were keenly interested, mostly sympathetically, with the speeches made by Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes last night.

The navy office spokesman was most cautious in discussing the details and expressed the opinion that Ambassador Dawes' "yardstick" might be more difficult to find than civilians believe, but nevertheless reiterated the navy's willingness to co-operate in a renewed attempt for limitation.

It is no secret that Ambassador Matsudaira's recent reports from London including Tuesday's speeches have been unusually voluminous indicating that he is close to the sources of developments. These reports are being closely studied from Premier Tanaka down.

STRIKERS GO BACK TO JAIL AT GASTONIA

Fourteen Await Grand Jury Action After Failure To Get Habeas Corpus Writ

Charlotte, N. C., June 19.—(AP)—Rebuffed in their second attempt to secure release on a writ of habeas corpus, 14 textile, mill strikers and union leaders remained in jail today to await grand jury action on the death of Chief of Police O. F. Aderholt, of Gastonia, with whose murder they are charged.

Bail was denied the 14 on a habeas corpus hearing held before Judge W. F. Harding yesterday. Eight others, charged with assault with intent to kill were granted privilege of bail and bond fixed at $750, but last night none of them had posted it.

Chief Aderholt and three patrolmen were wounded during a fight June 7 between police and guards posted at a Lorry mill strike camp in Gastonia. Chief Aderholt died the following day.

The court ruling yesterday followed a day of conflicting testimony during which strike sympathizers charged that the police fired the first shot of the fight and that two of the officers appeared drunk when they entered the camp.

Both charges were denied by state's witnesses, and W. M. McGinnis, one of the defendants, was accused by Otto Mason, who claimed to be an eye witness, as the man who shot first.

Among those charged with murder are Fred Erwin Beal, southern organizer for the National Textile Workers' Union; K. O. Byers, Beal's assistant; ear Bush, of New York, union leader; Amy Schechter, workers' international relief agent; Sophie Melvin, of the Communist Youth League; George Carter, of Mizpah, N. J., and Joseph Harrison, Passaic, N. J., union organizer.

McGinnis, Louis McLaughlin, J. C. Hearn, Robert Allen, Russell Knight, N. F. Gibson and E. Y. Hendricks, all Lorry strikers, are the others.

Congress To Get Away On Summer Vacation Tonight

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—Congress will start a summer recess tonight preparatory to finishing up the last and perhaps the most controversial of the recommendations placed before it by President Hoover.

The Senate will return August 19 by which time the finance committee promises to have completed its revision of the House tariff bill. The House, with its work all over except the negotiation of an adjustment with the Senate on the tariff, will remain in recess until September 23, when it hopes the Senate will be through with the bill. But Senate leaders concede that is an optimistic hope.

The extra session convened two months ago by Mr. Hoover to re-deem the Republican campaign pledge of farm relief, will take its breathing spell with three of the other four proposals recommended by him enacted into law—a farm relief measure and the combined census and reappropriation legislation. The other presidential proposition—suspension of the national origins immigration quota basis—was turned down by the Senate.

The break between the president and two of his outstanding pre-election campaigners—Senators Borah, of Idaho, and Brookhart, of Iowa—on the debenture issue, has emphasized the division within the Republican majority in the Senate. Efforts will be concentrated when the Senate reassembles on passage

COAL MAGNATE TESTIFIES AT POWER PROBE

Abner Aldridge Tells Of Loan Made Through Him To Alabama Paper.

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—Abner Aldridge, of Birmingham, Ala., president of two coal companies, testified today before the Federal Trade Commission that he borrowed $50,000 from Logan Martin, general counsel of the Alabama Power Company, which in turn he loaned to Joseph E. McGowan, Mobile capitalist, to be used in the establishment of the Mobile Press.

Since the commission's inquiry into the newspaper was started, he said, the loan has been paid back to him by McGowan and he also had returned his borrowings to Martin.

Aldridge explained he was president of the Southeastern Coal Company and the Union Coal Company, and said the stock of both concerns was controlled by the Southeastern Power and Light Company, a subsidiary of the Alabama Power Company.

Asked by Robert E. Healy, chief commission counsel, why he was interested in the establishment of the Mobile Press, the witness replied that "a good many years ago Frederick L. Thompson (publisher of two Mobile newspapers), attempted to ruin me and I thought if I could encourage this paper I would be glad to do it."

Aldridge said he first heard of the proposal to establish the Press from McGowan and a brother, Henry Aldridge, manager of the Commercial Finance Company of Mobile, owned by McGowan. This he said, was during a visit to Mobile about the first of this year. He added he talked with McGowan as the latter's office and that McGowan had expressed himself as "anxious that the paper be organized, and he had offered to loan McGowan some money to help him finance the Press."

The name of H. B. Chandler, editor and publisher of the Press, was mentioned in the conversation with McGowan at that time, Aldridge said, but only with reference to his ability as a newspaper man.

Two or three weeks after this visit Aldridge said he borrowed $25,000 from Logan Martin and went to Mobile and delivered this sum to McGowan. A copy of this check dated February 18, 1929, was placed in the record.

Under questioning by Healy, Aldridge testified he later borrowed another $25,000 from Martin which he also delivered to McGowan. In previous testimony before the commission it has been developed that McGowan loaned Chandler $100,000 so that the latter could purchase one-half of the stock of the Press which started publication last April 15th.

Aldridge declared he gave no note to Martin for the loan, but he repaid him at 8 per cent interest. McGowan, however, he added, gave him notes for the $25,000 loans.

The second $25,000 loan was made on April 5, 1929, according to a photostatic copy of a check placed in the record.

The transactions between Martin and himself were described by the witness as a loan and nothing else. "If it was Alabama Power Company money," he added, "I did not know it."

Aldridge testified he had only talked with Victor H. Hanson, publisher of the two Birmingham papers, about the establishment of the Mobile Press, "in a general way." He added he had never told Hanson about advancing the money to McGowan for the establishment of the newspaper.

Panama Brown New Ruler Of Bantam Weights

New York, June 19.—(AP)—The bantamweight division had a title today that the New York State A. C. at least, could recognize—Panama Brown.

Brown, whose 118 pounds is distributed over a frame six feet high, decisively outpointed Vidal Gregorio of Soain, in a 15-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium last night and thereby won recognition by the state commission as "defeating" a bantamweight champion of the world.

The Panama hero also laid claim to the N. B. A. 118 pound championship. He claims he was recognized as champion by Tom Donohue, the Connecticut boxing commission, or when Donohue was president of the N. B. A. Donohue, however, later was denounced and the N. B. A. announced last night that it no longer recognized any one as king of the 118 pounders.

Still Search For Women Missing In Crash Of Airliner

Folkstone, Eng., June 19.—(AP)—Search was still in progress today for the bodies of three women missing after the crash Monday of the air liner "City of Ottawa" near here. It was believed they had been washed into deep water and probably would not be recovered for several days.

Three of six survivors of the crash were expected to testify at the inquest late today at Tydd Town Hall. The other three were in a hospital recovering from shock. Four bodies of seven persons drowned in the crash have thus far been recovered.

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: Romance will not wait for murder solutions! Lucy, waging a fight to prove Jerry did not murder his father, dashed to the desert mine to warn him. She explains to her dumbfounded uncle that Jerry needed her aid, that without informing him of his father's death or the police charge, drove with him to a neighboring town, where they were married. Only then she advised Jerry of the serious case against him. Their daring wins—Deacon is convinced Jerry is innocent, that Dillon is the real murderer. The telephone bill interrupts them—Peebles answers.

Chapter 45.

A CHALLENGE FROM DILLON

When I hung up the receiver two minutes later Deacon, Lucy and Jerry were looking at me with varying degrees of interest. I had kept my expression casual, but it would hardly have been possible for them not to have sensed something of the emotion released in my breast.

"You'll have to excuse me, Deacon," I said carelessly. "A man has just called me about a matter I must attend to at once. I'm sorry. Your car is at the door, isn't it, Jerry? Do you mind if I use it?"

"Help yourself, Uncle John! Shall I drive you?"

"No, you'd better stay with Lucy." He didn't repeat the offer and I smiled understandingly. Lucy gave me a quizzical look and Henry a surprised one. Meanwhile, I had got out my little red notebook, and carefully fingered the pages. In the same careless fashion I now opened the right-hand bottom drawer of my desk, took out my automatic and slipped it into my coat pocket. From where they were none of the three could have seen the pistol.

"Whom are you going to see, Uncle John?" Lucy wanted to know.

"A man," I said irritably.

But as Deacon and I went out together I felt that she wasn't satisfied. Henry drove off.

"Uncle John!" Lucy had come running after me.

"Well?"

"Why did you take your pistol?" she demanded breathlessly. "Was it Mr. MacNair who telephoned? Does he know something about Dillon?"

It wasn't a bad guess and I was tempted to tell her, but I gave her an evasive reply.

The roadster slid forward and leaped into the avenue. A glance over my shoulder showed me Lucy still standing at the curb, distractingly pretty in the warm glow of the late afternoon sun. No wonder Jerry had let her persuade him into this fantastic episode!

How long would her suspicions allow her to remain inactive, I wondered.

It was just four now. Night would catch me halfway down Pitchfork. At the first oil station I tanked up with gas and water. I also filled the car's tank and got a supply of food. The open country was before me and I sent the roadster on at a terrific rate.

My mind was on Dillon's challenge. He had humiliated me over the wire with a dramatic sudden-

Suddenly a terrifying commotion broke out behind Peebles—trapped, quiet. I quietly took off my shoes and padded over to the stair. Still no sign of human presence, but I was not deceived. My senses knew I started softly up the stair. Halfway to the top a spring board creaked beneath my stockinged feet. It was the board that had betrayed me to Dillon on Sunday night. Reaching the top, I stood with my hand on the newel post.

It was nearly sunset when I got to the top of the skeletons. The last third of the descent was covered in darkness and I drove drenched in sweat and with death perched on my shoulder; but I reached the bottom without mishap. A draught of water refreshed me, and I swung onto the Torridity trail.

As the car throbbed over the cinder trail that subterranean life Peterson had sensed seemed to pulse beneath my hands. It roused in me something of dread, a hunch, expectancy, a suffocating suspense. The hot wind on my cheeks fanned these strange emotions. Tenuous fingers encircled my throat. I rode in a splendid tomb, but a tomb. Was it to be mine?

I made out a huddle of buildings in the ebon gloom ahead. I stopped at the head of the crooked street, shut off the engine, and got out. The brooding quietness of the place must have bewitched me for I neglected to switch off my lights. This error nearly cost me my life.

Crack! As the bullet whined past a matter of six or eight inches above my head, I dropped against the side of the car. The shock of this abrupt rending of the silence held me rigid for a moment; then I reached into the car and switched off the lights. The flash of the rifle had come from one of the upper side windows of Lundy's Place. Was it Dillon who had fired at me?

Pistol in hand, I slid around the back of the car and dived into the shadow of the first building at that end of the street. And then into the shadow of the next and the next until I had come into the shapeless shadow of Lundy's Place. Noiselessly entering the place, I stood with my back to the wall, expecting another shot. It did not come. A tomb couldn't have been quieter. I quietly took off my shoes and padded over to the stair. Still no sign of human presence, but I was not deceived. My senses knew I started softly up the stair. Halfway to the top a spring board creaked beneath my stockinged feet. It was the board that had betrayed me to Dillon on Sunday night. Reaching the top, I stood with my hand on the newel post.

I saw a light! A thin line of yellow light, it lay along the floor of the gallery at the bottom of the west end of the north wall and I knew it came from under the door of Lundy's room—the room I had fallen into. Pistol leveled, I entered the room. The door swung to behind me.

The room was just as I had expected. No one was there.

A dirty coal oil lamp hung crookedly from the ceiling and shed a feeble glow upon a flat-topped desk, several chairs, a cot with a broken leg, an old-fashioned safe, a door of which was open, and a round table with a deck of cards and stacks of poker chips on it. The north window was broken. Dust had deflected everything which had escaped constant human contact.

The wax figures faced each other across the table. Time and heat and dirt had blurred their resemblance to the famous warriors they counterfeited, but at first glance they looked fairly human and not untypical of the country. I could not resist a sheepish grin at myself for being such an ass Sunday night.

O large brewery calendar ornamented by the face and form of a voluptuous lady hung on the south wall. Its year was 1896 and the July sheet, yellow and flyblown, was uppermost. Sundry scribbling and initials defaced the mount. The calendar sheets were quite large and they had evidently shown a disposition to curl for three thumb tacks held them down at the lower corners and center. The calendar was a curio in more ways than one and I determined to have it before I left.

Trapped in that room of mystery—does it mean death for Peebles? The answer will be found in tomorrow's chapter.

Don't let your "economy" come too high

DeSoto
The man who feels that he cannot afford to buy the Chrysler-built De Soto Six is perhaps the very man who cannot afford not to buy it.

Obviously, if he buys a cheaper six he will do so entirely on the strength of its purchase price.

But purchase price is only one of the three major items entering into the expense of owning a car. There are also the costs of upkeep and of maintenance to be considered. The sum of these three actually represents what it costs you to drive any motor car.

De Soto Six is economical of fuel and oil. It will keep on running almost indefinitely with a negligible maintenance expense—records of De Sotos that have gone over 40,000 miles prove this. Consequently, in the course of a few months, your De Soto Six will easily save the difference between its price and that of a car inferior in engineering, design and materials.

This purely dollars-and-cents reason for preferring De Soto Six can be supplemented by the self-evident fact that all the time you are getting more comfort, pleasure, safety and pride of ownership from this Chrysler-built six than a cheaper car could possibly give you.

It will cost you nothing to take a demonstration—and no obligations implied.

TWO SINGERS SCORE HIT AT THE COLLEGE

Ethel Wright And Tom Fuson Present Artistic Entertainment At School Here

The audience at East Carolina Teachers College last evening found the concert by Ethel Wright, contralto, and Tom Fuson, tenor, one of the most enjoyable and artistic entertainments they had had in many a day. The program was remarkable for the combination of good taste and judgment shown in the selection and the renderings of the numbers. There were a number of popular and familiar selections, yet they were high class and met with the approval of the musicians present.

The two voices were singularly well matched for unison singing, as well as for straight duet work. Miss Wright, who, by the way, is in reality Mrs. Fuson, has a rich, beautiful contralto voice of great volume. Mr. Fuson has a tenor voice with the strain of sympathy and with the flexibility expected from the Irish. It would be difficult to say which the audience enjoyed more, the solo numbers or the duets.

They sang two Schumann numbers together and a Schubert number in their first group, then later gave a duet from "Il Trovatore." "Home To Our Mountains," and closed with a group of three: the lovely "It was Love and His Lass," from Shakespeare's "As You Like It," "Meet Me by the Moonlight," and the song from the comic opera "Veronique," "Trot Here and There." Their arrangement of a scene from Carmen was pleasing. He sang behind scenes and then she appeared, draped in the Spanish shawl, one always associates with "Carmen," and sang Habanera.

Miss Wright's first solo was Joyce Kilmer's "Trees," and her diction was so clear that every one could follow the words, so she at once had the audience with her. This was followed by the whimsical "The Second Minute," then by the lilting "Song of the Open." In her second group she sang well two Mexican folk songs, "Estrellita," and "Twilight."

Mr. Fuson opened the program with "Amarilli, mia Bella" and a recitative and air from the oratorio "Samson." His group of Irish songs from "Auld Sod" were greatly enjoyed. Mr. Fuson's informal introductions and comments on the songs broke down the barrier frequently found between artists and audience. The songs were easily understood and for the most part the words were English and the diction so clear that people could catch the words.

Miss Evelyn Smith was an excellent accompanist. She is a graduate of Salem College, formerly of North Carolina, but has been in New York for several years.

They are traveling in their own car, with Mrs. Wright, the mother, as their guest. They left this morning for Asheville.

The next entertainment, on the evening of June 24, will give the public another musical treat. Salvi, the great harpist, will give one of his famous harp programs. This instrument is one of the most beautiful of all but the one that people of this section rarely have the opportunity of hearing. Now the great master of the instrument himself will be here to play it. He should have a large audience.

Group Meetings Are Continued By Local Merchants

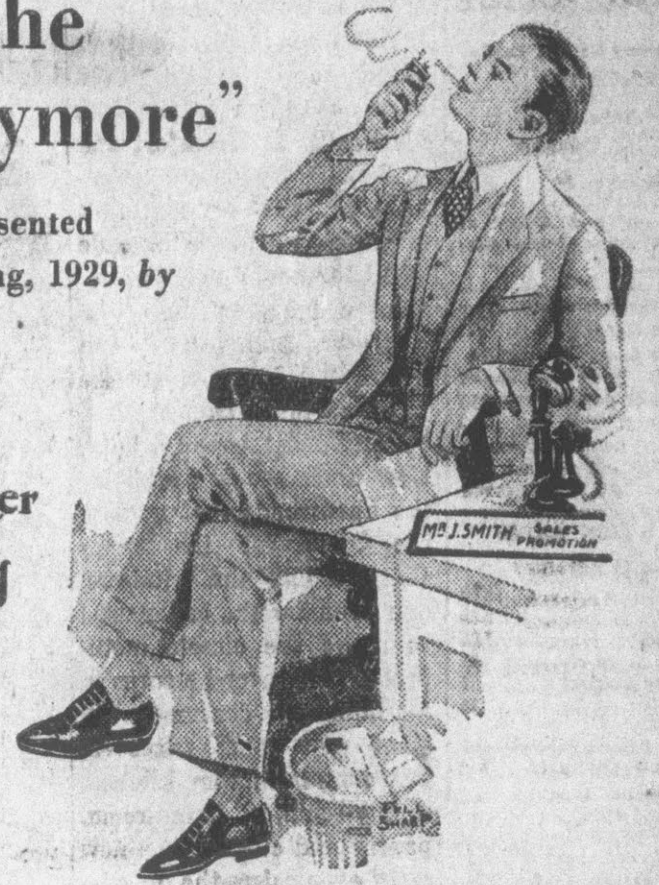

The series of group conferences continued at the Merchants' Association yesterday with the meeting of wood and coal dealers of the city. The principal matter taken up for discussion was the credit situation and co-operation with the secretary of the Merchants' Association by which plans for extension of credit would be improved.

Thursday morning at 10:30 a group of clothiers will meet at the office of the secretary for a discussion of problems affecting this branch of trade.

ESSEX the Challenger

VISIT our showrooms and see a remarkable display in motor car color design—a variety so wide as to give almost individual distinction, at no extra cost. It is a new industrial achievement!

More than 225 different color combinations on various models were delivered last month by the Hudson Motor Car Co. That is why, although nearly 200,000 Essex Challengers are in service; there is a sparkling variety and individuality about each car, instead of the monotonous sameness expected in big production.

The tremendous buying swing to Essex the Challenger—with nearly 200,000 in service in five months—is the popular answer to how it upholds its sweeping challenge to motorsom. Hydraulic shock absorbers and new type double-action 4-wheel brakes are standard—they do not cost one cent extra. The same with radiator shutters, air cleaner, windshield wiper, safety lock, chromium-plated bright parts. All valuable features—all features you want. Add up for yourself the extras Essex offers at no added cost and you will see above $100 in extra value in those items alone.

A SWINDLE AND AN ABOMINATION

If the great body of consumers in this country can be brought to understand how the new Tariff Bill in its present form will affect them under the guise of aiding the farmer, it is a safe assumption that the bill will be radically changed before it becomes a law. By recounting some of the simple but rather intimate details of an early hour of the average citizen's working day it is easy to see how closely the new tariff will touch his daily life.

His day begins with the ringing of an alarm clock, on which the duty has been increased 50 per cent. On the bed-covering which he throws off as he rises the duty has been advanced 33 per cent. His next act is to step into his bedroom slippers; they have been removed from the free list and made dutiable at 20 per cent. He walks across a rug (duty up 10 per cent.) to the bathroom. The duty on the mirror before which he begins his tonsorial operations has been raised 10 per cent. On the electric light bulb which facilitates his shaving the duty has been raised 50 per cent. The duty is 10 per cent higher on his shaving brush. On the sponge which assists his ablutions in the bathtub the duty has been increased 66 per cent; it has been raised 10 per cent on his tooth-brush and his hair-brush, and 11 per cent on the tumbler from which he takes his first morning draught. On the linoleum which covers his bathroom floor the duty has been increased 15 per cent.

Cleanliness may be next to godliness, but this has not prevented the Republican leaders in Congress from taxing it.

On the clothes cabinet from which the consumer extracts his wearing apparel, the duty has been raised 20 per cent. Practically every article which he puts on, from his shoes to his necktie, has been subjected to a higher duty. The new tariff is offered ostensibly as a means of farm relief, but now an increase of 10 per cent in the duty on silk neckties and of 11 per cent in the duty on linen handkerchiefs is going to save the American farmer from bankruptcy is yet to be explained.

Not only is the consumer taxed more heavily than ever on things essential to his health and comfort and a decent personal appearance, but the very materials of which his house is made will bear new taxes. The cement which goes into the concrete foundations and the brick which go into the walls are taken from the free list and subjected to a duty. New taxes are provided for the hardwoods that go into the floors, for the panes that go into the windows, and even for the cedar used to make the closets moth-proof. Wherever he turns in his home the consumer will meet new tariff taxes—in bedroom, bathroom, kitchen, dining-room, living-room, pantry and closets. The new tariff even raises the duty on trifles in his pockets, such as his matches, his cigaret holder and his lead pencil. On the umbrella which he saves against a rainy day the duty has been increased 50 per cent.

These are fair samples of the offenses which Congress has committed in the name of farm relief. In lieu of the limited provision for which the President has asked, the House has changed the existing law in some 2,000 particulars. For the farmers it is a poorly disguised swindle, and for consumers generally it is a bill of abominations. It is not a farm tariff at all, but just another protective measure for industry, and it is time that the consumers, including the farmers themselves, should begin to realize what the manufacturers, through subservient Congressmen, are trying to foist upon them.—N. Y. World.

ABOUT TOWN

"We are leaving on an extended trip to the west tomorrow, and I want you to be sure to send us a bundle of Reflectors at every stopping point," reminded a reader of this paper today, as he came into the business office to tell the crowd good-bye.

"Here's my itinerary. Be sure you file it away where you can find it. We want to get every issue of the paper, for it will seem like seeing somebody from home when we get a long way off."

"We missed several copies of the last extended trip we made, and you can't imagine how disappointed we were. We don't want any disappointment this time, however, and shall expect you not to forget us."

"Well, we managed to trim the Highlanders in the opening game of the series," gloated a baseball fan in this city yesterday.

"If we should be able to do the same thing with Kingston and Wilmington the remainder of the week it will not be so long before we shall find ourselves perched near the top of the standing of clubs column."

"The entire change in the lineup of the home team seems to have met with results. At least, we are able to win more games, and that's what we are out for. Several more victories in a row is what we want, and fans want to turn out to all games played here next week and help boost the boys on to victory."

"It matters not where you are going or how much of a hurry you may be in—take your time," was the warning of a citizen today, discussing the number of automobile fatalities over the state.

"It is much better to get there whole than in a broken, mangled condition, so take your time, and drive sanely. You may think the matter requiring such haste very important, but nothing is so important when human life is at stake."

"Beware of slick abutments. Automobiles traveling at a fast rate of speed can not stay on the road when they hit a rain-drenched abutment. If you are driving slowly, you should be able to right your car and save yourself from death or serious injury."

"Think this matter over and the next time you start anywhere, don't rush. Take your time, you have more of that to spare than the loss of your life and that of others."

"Farmers who are troubled with the Mexican bean beetle should spray under the leaves of their plants," said E. F. Arnold, director of the farm department today, in speaking of the ravages which the pest is making in the gardens in this county.

"A mixture of arsenic of lead sprayed under the leaves will put the insect on the run when everything else fails. But if you should make the mistake of spraying on the top of the leaf, you cannot expect to get the desired results. Get a spray with a curved spout and then get busy and see how long Mr. Beetle will play havoc with your beans."

"What's that thing?" questioned a visitor to the Reflector office yesterday morning, pointing in the direction of a cluster of beans containing several specimens of the Mexican beetle, an insect that is giving farmers of this section much trouble at the present time.

WHEN HOOVER SIGNED FARM RELIEF BILL

"Come down to see us before we break camp and see what a corking good meal these home demonstration girls are capable of getting up," invited one of the chaperones of the 4-H club boys and girls who left yesterday for annual encampment, at Camp Leach.

"Our meals will be of interest to anybody because we will have plenty to eat and it will be prepared in a way that should call for more. In fact, few people ever refuse to accept an invitation to visit us after having one acceptance.

"We will be in camp until next Saturday morning. While you are out riding, turn your car in the direction of Camp Leach and make us a visit."

Hoover Appeal In Dry Law Issue Causes Surprise

Albany, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—President Hoover's appeal to communities along the Canadian border "to help the treasury to prevent the systematic war being waged by international criminals against the laws of this country," caused considerable surprise in some quarters of the borderland.

Mayor John H. McCauley, of Plattsburgh, near which Arthur Gordon, 22, of that city, was shot fatally last Saturday, said: "The city of Plattsburgh has at all times stood ready to aid federal authorities in enforcement of law.

"I have, within the past few months, been compelled to protest to Collector Tulloch (collector of the port of Ogdensburg), of the customs department, against promiscuous uses of guns in the hands of enforcement officers chasing law-breakers through the streets of this city and using their guns as though they were on the open road.

"Collector Tulloch has promised protection. Nevertheless, several shootings have occurred since that time. We regard ourselves as good citizens of the United States and stand willing at any and all times to aid the president, even without being requested in the enforcement of all laws."

General Freeman Dies At Atlanta

Atlanta, June 19.—(AP)—The youngest veteran of the Confederate armies, General David B. Freeman, 77, commander of the Georgia division of the United Confederate Veterans, is dead. His passing was the result of a heart attack late yesterday.

General Freeman recently had returned from the Confederate reunion at Charlotte, N. C., and had been ill for the last three days.

Donning the gray at the age of 11, the general was said to be the youngest private in the war between the states. He was too young to shoulder a rifle, and was given the place as errand boy for his regiment. But after 18 months he was enlisted in the ranks of the Sixth Georgia Cavalry, under General Joe Wheeler and served throughout the war.

General Freeman returned to Georgia and published country newspapers until he retired 10 years ago.

ATHLETICS WIN FROM SENATORS

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Perhaps there ought to be a law, but even that might do little good. It is difficult to believe that any mere statute on the books could protect the Senators from the Athletics. It happened again yesterday at Washington in full view of the capital fans—13 victories for the Mackmen in 14 starts against Walter Johnson's men. If this is carried far enough, it may easily mean the margin by which the Athletics defeat the Yankees, presuming always that they do defeat the Yanks. The score of this latest outrage against Clark Griffith's peace of mind was 7 to 6.

The victory netted the Athletics a gain of half a game over the Yankees who now trail by eight full games again. The champions got no better than an even break against the Red Sox, despite the presence of Babe Ruth in the flesh—on the bench. Freddy Heimach exercised his customary spell over the Bostoners in the opener to win by 9 to 0, but Plogras, Zachary and Sherod shot the chutes in the nightcap, which Boston won by 7 to 4.

Lou Gehrig got his eighteenth home run in the opener, holding his tie with Hafey of the Cardinals, who broke out with a round trip at Chicago. Other terms in the American League were idle.

Inspired no doubt by the loose conduct of the Braves who brazenly took two one-run decisions from the Cardinals at St. Louis on Sunday, the roaring Robins hit the warpath in a most inopportune moment for the Giants. Not satisfied with winning the first game by 8 to 7, the Flatbush flock came right back in the second to win by 7 to 6 on home runs by Rube Bressler and Babe Herman in the eighth and ninth respectively.

The first game witnessed the rout of both Larry Benton and Dave Vance. Melvin Ott hit his fifteenth homer, and Bill Terry also hit for the circuit. Bill got nine out of ten in the two games, hitting his average to 400 and himself to the league leadership.

The Giants were not the only contending team to run into trouble yesterday. Red Lucari outpitched Irvn Brame at Cincinnati to shade Pittsburgh by 2 to 1, and the Cubs thumped the Cardinals by 13 to 6 at Chicago as Hack Wilson hit two homers. This round results left the Cardinals holding a three-point lead and their heads. The Pirates were second, three points ahead of the Cubs.

The 4 to 2 victory of the Phillies over the Braves was notable chiefly for the seventeenth home run of Mr. Charles Klein, the slugging outfielder of the Philadelphia team. Leste Sweetland pitched what ball against Ben Cantwell and Leveett.

Connie Mack Not Ready To Retire

Philadelphia, June 18.—(AP)—Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, today spiked reports frequently heard in baseball circles that he wanted to win one more pennant and would then retire.

He declared he had no intention of retiring and hoped still to be managing the Athletics when he is 70 years old. He is now 66.

"There is absolutely nothing to the report about winning a pennant and then retiring," said Mack. "I have no reason to quit. No one will have to tell me when it is time to give up managing. I'll know better than any one else when that time is at hand."

"The only thing that will ever make me arrive at that decision will be my health. If the time comes when to continue managing will have harmful effect on my well being, then I will step out. Not before."

Manager Mack revealed that he was on the verge of retiring during the southern training trip of the Athletics this spring, because of his health.

"I wasn't feeling so good then," he said. "The influenza had laid me low during the winter and I was still feeling its effects. I doubted that I would be able to go through with another season of managing, and I came closer to quitting than ever before."

This is Mack's 29th season as pilot of the Athletics and his 36th as a baseball manager, a record not approached by any one past or present.

By Horseback. Lexington, Ky.—Dr. Granville E. Terrell, 70, professor emeritus of philosophy of the University of Kentucky, is making a 700-mile trip by horseback to spend the rest of his life in his former home at Louisa, Va. The first day's jaunt of his old mare, Katy, was 25 miles.

Some Fence Here. Westbury, N. Y.—Because planes from Roosevelt Field, adjoining, have run on greens, flown low and otherwise caused annoyance, the old Westbury Golf Club proposed to erect a fence 125 feet high and 2,000 feet long.

Greensboro Rests Securely At Top

(By the Associated Press.)
Greensboro rested more securely atop the Piedmont League today, largely by the grace of a Winston-Salem strategic blunder and the home run proclivities of Dan Boone, the High Point pilot.

The Patriots took an 11 to 10 victory over the Winston Twins yesterday, while High Point was earning a 6 to 3 verdict over the Durham Bulls, closest contenders for Piedmont leadership.

Winston-Salem leading 10 to 9 in the ninth inning, with Greensboro at bat and two men out, blew the game when DuBouque walked Cox to get a shot at Tomp Marshall. The Greensboro outfielder hit a double, scored both runners and broke up the game.

Boone did his bit for the Patriots by beating the Bulls virtually single handed. With the score tied at 3 at in the ninth and two men on he slapped out his second home run of the game.

The Salisbury-Henderson cellar battle yesterday went to the latter by an 8 to 1 score.
Rocky Mount blanked Kinston in the only game of the Eastern Carolina loop. The score was 5 to 0. The Fayetteville-Greenville game was called in the third inning on account of rain and the Goldsboro-Wilmington affair was postponed for the same reason.

Drives Man Drunk.
