MANY NATIONS FILE PROTEST ON U. S. TARIFF

Europe, South And Central American Countries Comment On New Proposal.

Washington, July 10 (AP)—A flood of protests against the pending tariff bill sent by foreign trade associations, including one by Spain threatening to denounce the existing modus vivendi or most favored trade relations with the United States were made public today by the Senate finance committee.

The notice, couched in both emphatic and mild terms and expressing opinions on behalf of governments of Europe, South and Central America, and individual industries of those countries, were made public without comment. They will be considered by the committee in revision of the House tariff bill.

While Chairman Smoot, of the committee, regards the communications as nothing new in American tariff history the Democratic national committee in a statement last night said that while foreign protests were not unusual, the flood of communications in this instance was unprecedented and indicated universal resentment.

Some of the governments transmitted as many as five or six different communications. In all there were more than 50 separate notes.

The governments and colonies represented in the mass of memoranda were England, Australia, India, British West Indies, Bahamas, Bermuda, Island of Dominica, Irish Free State, France, Italy, Spain, Belgium, Mexico, Austria, Turkey, Norway, Greece, Netherlands, Denmark, Switzerland, Persia, Uruguay, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, and Honduras.

Austria declared "imports from the United States by far exceed the exports from Austria to the United States," and that the trade balance between the two countries in 1928 was $16,420,000 in favor of this country.

"This state of affairs," the note said, "is now seriously menaced by the tariff bill. In face there are provisions in the bill which, if maintained in the final wording of the act, would wipe out a large portion of Austrian trade with the United States."

Among the Austrian exports which the note declared would be "practically made impossible," were hides, and hats made of felt. Switzerland called attention to the bill's increases in duties affecting her two most nationally and economically important industries—watches and embroideries—and expressed the hope that the "tremendous increases proposed" would not be exacted until it is shown that they are a "real and unavoidable requisite for the safeguard of American general interests."

Greece declared that American products, agricultural and industrial "holds first place in Greek imports," and asked particular consideration in levying imports on rugs.

"A heavier taxation on rugs, the manufacture of which is an exclusive refuge industry," the Greek note said, "will have a disastrous effect on the well known efforts of Greece to establish these refugees and make them self-supporting."

The Spanish representation under date of April 26 and signed by Maques De Estalla, Spanish minister for foreign affairs and given to the American ambassador at Madrid was submitted to the Senate finance committee by Secretary Stimson bearing with it a letter of comment by Secretary Mellon.

Farm Survey In Progress Here

A survey of farm management of Pitt county is being conducted at this time under supervision of Dr. Foster, economist of State College. It was announced today.

The survey is being conducted for the purpose of determining the system of farming of this territory with an idea of later offering suggestions for improvement of the situation.

A corps of several workers are engaged in the work and several counties of the Eastern section of the state will be included in the survey.

SCORES INJURED WHEN BLEACHERS COLLAPSE

Fargo, N. D., July 10 (AP)—More than 150 persons were injured, 14 seriously, as a bleacher section collapsed at the North Dakota State fair last night.

Twelve hundred persons were in the stands that fell and it was estimated that one-third of them were precipitated into a heap.

City Asks School Board To Give Evans St. Site For Erection Of Library

The Library Commission of the city of Greenville is desirous of placing the $50,000 Sheppard Memorial Library, a gift of M. Harper D. Sheppard, of Hanover, Pa., on the old Evans street school site, but their plans received a slight setback last night when the Board of Aldermen, in regular monthly session, declined to assume the responsibility of $30,000 worth of Greenville school district bonds, which the school board required that the city fathers should do before they would turn over the property to the city.

But in failing to assume this financial obligation, the Board of Aldermen opened up a way for the immediate selection of a site by offering the Library Commission a deed to the site on Fifth street, in front of the high school building, which was years ago set aside as a library location, and then accepted a motion to ask the school board to make the Library Commission a gift of the Evans street site without any "strings" attached to the transfer.

While discussion of the library location was by far the outstanding problem confronting the board last night, its members, however, found plenty of material for oratorical fireworks in resolutions from the Ministerial Association requesting the body to join the organization in a fight to clean up the city of vice and crime, and discussion of the proposed erection of a filling station on Fifth street in close proximity to the college, the last matter resulting in a battle of words, which in turn, brought about a decision to look into the possibility of zoning the city with a view of preventing the establishment of filling stations where they are not wanted.

There were, of course, the usual number of minor matters receiving consideration, but the three big issues engaged the solons so long that they hardly had time to get to regular routine business before the hands of the clock pointed near the midnight hour.

The resolutions regarding the existence of evil were brought before the board by members of the Ministerial Association, headed by Rev. L. R. O'Brien, pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church and head of the ecclesiastical body. Mr. O'Brien told the board of their desire to place certain civic conditions before them, and introduced Rev. R. R. Chamber, pastor of the Eighth Street Church of Christ, who read the resolutions.

The resolutions merely set forth an indifference on the part of the public to the existence of evil influences operating in the city and asked the aldermen to use their influence in seeing that the law was more stringently enforced with a view of reducing the flagrant violations.

Mayor Lanier expressed appreciation of the sentiment contained in the resolutions and assured the ministers that the city would use every influence in handling the situation. He said it was impossible for the police department to completely enforce the law without determined support of the citizenship, and urged the ministers to arouse the people to the danger of sin in specially warned messages from their pulpits.

The mayor said that some of the evils referred to in the resolutions were of a moral nature and that the police department could not come with them. He noted an instance of where a citizen came to him several days ago and told of a married man meeting another man's wife on the street in front of their house. "How in the world are we going to deal with a question of this sort?" the mayor inquired. There is no law to stop that man from meeting the woman and the police department is helpless in the face of such a condition. It is purely a moral question."

But as to other forms of crime, principal among them being violations of the prohibition law, the mayor told the clerymen that the police department was heavily "on their toes," and were waging a relentless campaign against the lawbreakers. "We mean to reduce the amount of rum-running that is being carried on in this city, and every member of the department is setting for members of the profession in an effort to land them behind the bars."

The filling station question that precipitated one of the outstanding verbal battles in the form of a petition of Mr. C. A. White, giving permission of the board to establish a station at the corner of Harding and Fifth streets, in close proximity to the Teachers College. While the board granted the petition, it did so in the face of a strenuous protest from Alderman Herbert Waldrop, who declared it was not fair to the body to lend its approval to the placing of a filling station in a community without first determining the sentiment of the people living in that community.

The request apparently failed in its attempt to attach to its petition providing the erection of the filling station an expression "regretting erection of the filling station on the site referred to." Not content with the expression of regret, Alderman Waldrop then asked the board to appoint a committee to investigate the feasibility of zoning the city so that they might have power to prevent the establishment of filling stations in districts where objection was registered.

It was argued that the board was powerless to prevent the erection of a filling station in any residential section even should it register its objection and for that reason Alderman Waldrop declared that the time had come for zoning and that the sooner it was done, the better. While the mayor did not appoint any committee to investigate the matter, he assured the board that he would take it under his personal supervision and begin immediate action looking to plans for zoning.

Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and Miss Lill Wilson, appeared before the board and asked that regular appropriation of $300 to the Salvation Army be continued as formerly. Mr. Harden made a lengthy talk in which he set forth the hard time the organization was having in carrying on its work here and stressed the need of the appropriation from the city to make the work possible. Miss Wilson said she knew of the operations of the Salvation Army, that they were doing a worth-while work and deserved the assistance of the citizenship. Upon motion of Alderman Boyd, seconded by Ralph Garrett, the board granted the desired appropriation for the present year.

The question as to disposal of city garbage was continued until the next meeting. Mayor Lanier was granted a one week's leave of absence during the week of July 26. The fire department was allowed an appropriation of $150 to defray expenses of its members by the annual meeting of the North Carolina Firemen's Association, to be held at Hendersonville, N. C., on an early date. The board also authorized the purchase of a belt for the city street sweeper and authorized the grade of Jarvis street as presented on a map prepared by H. L. Rivers.

The library question came up when Mayor Lanier read a communication from the Board of Trustees of city schools in which it was agreed to turn over the Evans street school site for erection of the library if the board would assume responsibility for the $30,000 worth of Greenville school district bonds.

Alderman J. H. Boyd a member of the committee, who conferred with another committee from the Library Commission regarding selection of the library site, told the board that the Evans street site had received the unanimous approval of both committees, and that they had taken it up with the board of trustees. The letter to the aldermen was in response to negotiations between the school trustees and the library committee.

The mayor at this juncture explained to the board that a transfer of the school bonds to the city could not be made without being put to public vote, and that to attempt to do so would be unlawful. He said the city had a site on Fifth street that had been set aside for a library years ago, and suggested that it be offered to the library commission. He was against the city assuming the additional $30,000 burden and thought the matter could be worked out in a better way.

After the board had agreed to adopt this plan, J. Key Brown offered another proposition. This came in the form of a motion that the board ask the school trustees to turn over the Evans street school site to the Library Commission without condition. It was shown that the library was an educational feature and that the transfer could be made by the trustees and still remain within the law. Owing to the fact that the gift of $50,000 for erection of the library is already available, it was expected that some definite decision would be reached in the matter with a comparatively short time. At least, this desire was expressed by members of the committee negotiating with the library committee.

E. G. Flanagan, member of the Board of Trustees of city schools, and J. H. Rose, superintendent of the schools, were presented and answered certain questions which the aldermen desired to know before they could reach a decision in the matter.

The resolutions which members of the Ministerial Association presented to the board follow: To the Honorable Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Greenville, N. C. Gentlemen:

In the very beginning of your new administration we, the ministers of the city, address this communication to you in a most respectful and courteous spirit, believing that you will fully appreciate our purpose and understand our motive in so doing.

Believing also, that you have at

SHATTER ALL RECORDS AND STILL GOING

Fliers at Culver City, Calif., Passed 193-Hours In Air at 8:29 Today.

Culver City, Calif., July 10 (AP)—The ninth day of the record breaking endurance flight of the biplane Angelino began today with the ship passing its 193rd hour in the air at 8:29 A. M. shortly after eight o'clock at a 15 minute contact was made with a refueling ship and 100 gallons of gasoline transferred.

Culver City, Calif., July 10 (AP)—Having set a new world's record for endurance flight, L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart continued circling above Culver City in the biplane Angelino today, determined to stay aloft until their motor fails. At midnight they were passing their 185th hour in the air.

When the fliers would come down remained a question. Originally they hoped to remain up 400 hours. Airport officials conceded them a chance of stretching their time to 200 hours or more when they passed the former record of 174 hours 59 seconds, established in Cleveland, four days ago, without showing any marked signs of physical exhaustion.

Before taking on a full night's supply of fuel last night the pilots dropped a note reiterating that they would continue the record smashing flight until their engine falls apart. A. E. McManus, chief backer of the enterprise, declared then that "a true endurance test, to determine how long the motor would run," was the object of the continued flight.

The Cleveland record made by Roy L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb, was broken by Mendell and Reinhart at 2:30:29 P. M. yesterday. The fine physical condition of the fliers then was evidenced by their joyous antics. Reinhart stood in the rear cockpit waving jubilantly to the cheering crowd below. Mendell, chief pilot, dipped the plane low over the field, also raising his head to display a wide grin. The biplane then was spiraled high and dived down, once more to swoop close above the ground, and off again to add more hours to the record.

ASK TRIAL OF WOMAN HELD IN DOPE CASE

Chinese Society Would Put to Death Wife of Chinese Consul if Found Guilty.

San Francisco, July 10 (AP)—A demand that Mrs. Ying Kao, wife of the Chinese Vice Consul in San Francisco, be tried under Chinese law and put to death if convicted for her alleged part in bringing a large consignment of opium to this country, has been made here by the executive committee of the Kuanmintang of America.

The committee, representing the American section of the political organization behind the Nanking government, announced last night it had voted for the application of Oriental justice to Mrs. Kao's case and had demanded of C. C. Wu, Chinese minister in Washington, that the woman be returned to China for trial.

It was explained that the Nationalists government had enacted stringent laws against trafficking in opium in China and that such laws provided death penalty in case of their violation by persons connected with the government.

Ying Kao, upon the advice of friends, terminated his connection with the consulate. Neither Mrs. Kao nor her husband have been placed under arrest.

Customs officers are awaiting the translation of documents found among Mrs. Kao's personal effects in the hope that they would throw light on the identity of members of an alleged ring of international scope.

The opium was found in trunks and suit cases brought from China last week in Mrs. Kao's name. She protested her ignorance of the contents of the baggage and said she had been persuaded by "influential friends" in China to bring it in. Mrs. Kao declined to reveal their names.

SET NEW ENDURANCE MARK

R. B. Reinhart (left) and L. W. Mendell, who broke the world's airplane endurance record at 5:30 (E. S. T.) yesterday, continued their flight over Culver City, California, today. Shortly before noon today (E. S. T.) the airman passed their 193rd hour of continuous flight. Taking on 100 more gallons of gasoline at this hour was taken to indicate that the fliers are determined to surpass the 200-hour mark at least before they descend.

Trans-Atlantic Fliers To Continue Flight To Rome From Spain Today

Paris, July 10 (AP)—The Havas News Agency reported late today that the American trans-Atlantic plane Pathfinder flew over the Pyrenees airbase, this afternoon. The plane was reported over Biarritz, which is on the Bay of Biscay in southwestern France at 12:40 P. M. (E. S. T.). She was proceeding in the direction of Pau and flying at a high altitude. This would indicate that the American airman planned to cross southwestern France north of the Pyrenees Mountains.

Santander, Spain, July 10 (AP)—Undaunted by fatigue and illness, the American aviators, Captain Lewis A. Yancey and Roger C. Williams, set out to finish today what they could not quite conclude yesterday—their flight from Old Orchard, Maine, to Rome.

Lifting their plane from the abandoned airbase at Albericia, near here at 11:20 a. m. (E. S. T.) they dipped once in salute and headed due east along the 350-mile route to the Italian capital. They hoped to take less than ten hours flying for the trip, arriving at Ciampino airfield, south of the city before dark.

They were two tired and weary aviators. During their long flight from Old Orchard to Albericia, which ended in a landing forced by lack of fuel at 9:30 p. m. yesterday, the nervous tension kept them going.

But once here the reception snapped the last of their strength and it was difficult to set either Williams or Yancey from bed this morning. Yancey arose first but went back to sleep when Williams would only mutter "yes" to entreaties to get up. Williams finally got up at 8:30, Yancey joining him shortly afterward.

Then the two aviators had breakfast and looked over hundreds of various cablegrams of felicitation on their successful crossing of the Atlantic before leaving for the airfield five kilometers distant. They supervised refueling there, and completed inspection of their plane.

The fliers spent the night at the Hotel Royal, commanded and owned by an American, Williams who became slightly ill from the effects of so much food and drink on sea after the low altitude flying during the flight, retired first about 9 p. m. Yancey stayed longer at the entertainment and banquets offered by the Club Maritimo and did not go to bed until 4 a. m.

(By Captain Lewis A. Yancey) As told to the Associated Press Correspondent.

Santander, Spain, July 10 (AP)—Until we were very near the Azores we were not able to see the sea.

During the night I took the controls from Williams who had been slightly ill and went to sleep. At about two or three o'clock on Tuesday morning when we were about 250 miles from the Azores the fog cleared completely and I saw a ship beneath us.

I was unable to distinguish the nationality but I dropped down at once vertically until I was 500 feet or more, letting the crew know by my maneuvers that I wanted

THINK WILLYS TO BE TURKISH AMBASSADOR

American Automobile Manufacturer Believed to be Hoover's Choice.

Washington, July 10 (AP)—The post of ambassador to Turkey, where the market for American automobiles is complicated by severe Italian competition, is expected by a number of Washington observers to be offered to John N. Willys, veteran Ohio automobile manufacturer.

Contrary to the report circulated in Wall Street after it was learned that Willys was disposing of his industrial holdings that he was being considered for appointment to the diplomatic post at Paris, made vacant by the death of another Ohioan, Myron T. Herrick, the White House has disclosed that the president has another assignment in mind for the manufacturer.

What that assignment might be was not made known, but the president's choice for the Paris post is believed to have settled fairly definitely on Senator Edge, of New Jersey, furthermore, an offer of the Turkish post to Willys is regarded as fitting not only the competitive trade situation there but into the impression that Joseph C. Grew, the present ambassador, is to be transferred to a Latin American capital.

At the same time, it would meet the desires of the Ohio members of Congress to have their state represented again in the top rank of the foreign service. The linking of Willys' name with the Turkish post, however, has not been given anything approaching official confirmation, and it is understood that no preliminary move has been made to ascertain whether he would be "persona grata" to the Ankara government.

Because of the recent resignation of Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, the ambassadorship to Italy, as well as that to France, is vacant, but the two names most prominently mentioned for that assignment are those of John Work Garrett, of Baltimore, and Irvin Boyle Laughlin, of Pennsylvania. Garrett has made wide diplomatic experience since 1901, while Laughlin also has served extensively in the diplomatic corps and was at one time minister to Greece.

PRINCE CAROL HEADED PLOT IN RUMANIA

Bucharest, Rumania, July 10 (AP)—Documents allegedly confiscated by the government in its round-up of military conspirators against the present regime definitely have implicated the exiled Prince Carol in a projected coup d'etat.

The documents comprised proclamations to the people and to the army all bearing the signature, "In the name of His Majesty, King Carol II." It was said that it was the exiled prince who was fully aware of the preparations for the plot and gave his consent to it.

Several more arrests were made today and it was said the investigation was proceeding along lines which might implicate various important officials.

Five Cars Of North-bound Passenger Train No. 84 Leave Track And Plunge Into Swamp; Five Seriously Injured Rushed To Rocky Mount Hospital; Kink In Rails Said To Be Responsible For Derailment.

Rocky Mount, July 10 (AP)—From forty to sixty persons were injured, some of them seriously, when five cars on the fast north-bound train No. 84 on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad were derailed two miles north of Enfield, N. C., today. Five persons said to be seriously injured, were brought to the Atlantic Coast Line hospital here and hospital authorities said by noon that they were preparing for more.

The wreck occurred on what is known as Ruggles Swamp, and train men said, was due to a "sun kink" in the rails. The first five cars of the train passed over the bad spot. The rear end of the derailed car and four pullmans left the rails and after being dragged over the ties about 75 yards turned over into the swamp.

Engineer T. R. Pettit said the train was traveling at a speed of about 65 miles an hour. The track had kinked due to the fact that a cool night last night was followed by a hot day, he said.

The names of the injured were not available two hours after the wreck occurred. Hospital authorities said they hoped to have a list of those received there in a short time but that they had been so busy treating the five brought here in ambulances and preparing for others that they had not had time to complete a list of names.

There were varying reports as to the number of persons in the derailed cars. It was said, however, that virtually every person on that part of the train had required first aid treatment.

Richmond, Va., July 10 (AP)—Waverly White, of Enfield, N. C., told the Associated Press by long distance telephone today that 45 persons were injured, two seriously in the derailment of five pullmans on Atlantic Coast Line train No. 84.

White said he obtained his information from trainmen who declared the derailment due to expansion of the rails from heat. The last five pullmans on the train, a New York-Florida Limited, were the ones derailed.

White was unable to give the names of persons injured or the extent of their injuries.

Raleigh, July 10 (AP)—Mrs. James F. Wintend, wife of the chief of police of Enfield, near here, which five cars of a passenger train of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad were derailed this morning, told the Associated Press over long distance telephone at 11:25 this morning that "nobody is dead yet but several are expected to die," as a result of injuries sustained in the wreck she described the wreck as "very bad."

L. W. Ransome, a grocer at Enfield, said that approximately 60 injured persons were taken from the wreck out that none was dead. Two women were most seriously injured. Most of the injured were being taken to Rocky Mount hospitals, he said.

The wreck occurred on a sharp curve near the city limits of Enfield. Five pullman cars "went into the swamp" Ransome said.

Four Men Held In Murder Case

Norristown, Pa., July 10 (AP)—Four men were under arrest today in connection with the death of William Norman Heim, automobile salesman of Trappe, Pa., whose charred body was found beneath his wrecked automobile near Fort Washington on the night of June 21.

The prisoners, Robert M. Hallowell, Isaac E. Hallowell, Harry Hallowell and Charles Dull, were taken into custody last night after a coroner's inquest returned a verdict that Heim had met his death "by a blow on the head from an instrument in the hands of an unknown person." The jury was out only 18 minutes.

Robert Hallowell is owner of a garage in Ambler, where Heim was last seen alive. Isaac is Robert's brother and lives near the garage. Harry is Isaac's son, employed as manager of the garage, and Dull, who lives in Philadelphia, was a former salesman for the Hallowells. Heim was heavily insured in favor of Robert Hallowell.

An Unlimited Amount Of Money

*To Loan on Greenville Dwellings, Apartment
Houses, Business Property And Farm Lands of Pitt County*

While you may be able to obtain funds through other agencies, I am confident, that taken all-in-all, this loan system is far superior, more convenient, more easily handled and more to the general advantage of the borrower, for the following reasons:

Loans are for periods of five, ten or fifteen years.

All payments of both interest and principal are credited on your note immediately.

The loans are paid back through semi-annual or annual payments.

This loan program will enable you to sell your property, in my opinion, for at least ten to fifteen per cent more money due to the easy method of re-payment.

If you prefer, can arrange for no payments of either principal or interest to fall due except on an annual basis and that date to be November First of each year.

There is no life insurance required in connection with these loans.

There are no MONTHLY PAYMENTS, which is highly objectionable to many, and especially to the borrower who operates farms or depending upon revenues from the farms.

The money is always promptly available and no waiting for indefinite periods as is in the case with the smaller loaning companies and associations.

You are not subjected to fines.

Rate of interest six per cent and of course as you pay on your loan the interest item becomes less from year to year.

If your present loan is maturing and in need of re-financing, or if the loan you are now carrying is burdensome or not to your liking, it will pay you to inquire into this most satisfactory loan program.

I have made many loans in Greenville and Pitt County and have taken quite a few out of other loaning organizations, for the simple reason that this loan system is generally more satisfactory. Can be carried without undue or heavy payments as are always required through the short term periods and monthly payment method.

If you wish to borrow money, why not get your money from a source which will enable you to repay same without being pressed.

You won't regret seeing me. Ask the fellow who is now using this program.

LOCAL STORE GIVES SHOES TO SALVATION ARMY

The Salvation Army announced this morning that the local store of the Coburn chain of shoe stores, had donated one hundred pairs of shoes to be used among the needy people of Greenville. This is one of the greatest gifts the organization has received recently, and Ensign Cranford said it would come in good in their work of caring for the hundreds of poor people in this territory.

Washes, Carries Coal, Woman Gains 18 Lbs.

"I wash, iron and carry coal and don't get tired since taking Vinol. Also, I have gained 18 pounds."—Mrs. S. Cortese.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver phosphate, iron, etc. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Tastes delicious. Warren's Drug Store.

SOUTH SEA ISLANDERS AT COLLEGE THIS EVENING

The South Sea Islanders that will give a concert at East Carolina Teachers College this evening at 8:30, are the Hawaiian musicians who have been delighting radio audiences through the National Broadcasting Company. They are the foremost entertainers in America from the South Seas.

The five men in the company are natives who have acquired their musical lore from their native islands. As an orchestra they have appeared with various famous productions, among them "The Bird of Paradise," which started the craze for things Hawaiian. These are the men who have taught Americans the meaning of the sad moaning of the guitar, the maddening, insidious tom-tom of the taro patch and the throbbing of the crooning tenor. They sang these songs and played these instruments in childhood along with other brown skinned youngsters on their own islands.

Radio fans have felt that it was fitting that the strange strains should come from an invisible source, but those who have seen these men claim that the stamer of the South Seas is greatly increased as they play.

This is perhaps the most popular of all the attractions offered this summer by the college, therefore, the admission price is placed at a low figure. There is room in the auditorium for a number of people and the electric fans have been in good working order all the summer.

SHOULD GIVE OLD SCHOOL SITE FOR LIBRARY

The city school board has been requested by the board of aldermen to donate a site on the old Evans Street school property for erection of the Sheppard Memorial Library and it is to be hoped that the school board will readily grant the request. Indications now are that this property, owing to its size and location, will never again be used for the erection of a school building, therefore, it should be put to the next best possible educational use, which in our opinion, would be that if a public library that would serve not only our city but the surrounding territory. It goes without saying that this school property should be devoted to the public use and for the public good, and in our opinion this can best be done by erection of the public library there and converting the remaining property into a small park that would prove a great benefit to the public as well as a beautiful surrounding for the library building. That this property can ever be disposed of by the school board for business or residential purposes is out of the question, for such a move no doubt would not only bring about a tremendous howl from the citizenry but would result in court action as well.

As we see it, this is no time for bickerings regarding the property. A former citizen of our city has tendered us $50,000 for erection of a public library here if we will furnish the site and agree to maintain the library. The Library Commission and those working with them have carefully studied the situation and have reported that the former school site is more suitable for the library than other available sites. A modern public library in a community is an educational asset complementary to the schools and in view of the benefits to the entire community there should be no hesitancy on the part of the school board in turning over this property for library purposes. Such a move would be for the future good of our entire community.

Bank Guard Good
London—One of the most popular jobs in the army is an assignment to the bank guard. An officer and 50 men march nightly along the Thames and watch the Bank of England. The reason for the popularity, it has developed in debate in Commons, is the attention given to adequate refreshments. The bank pays nothing for the guard and hasn't for 150 years. One Laborite suggested that the guard be abolished.

Remindful of Tragedy
Washington—Those new smaller $10 bills, out today with other denominations, are starting in circulation on the anniversary of a tragedy. They bear the picture of Alexander Hamilton. One hundred and twenty-five years ago today Hamilton wrote a farewell note to his wife. The next day he was wounded fatally in a duel with Aaron Burr.

ABOUT TOWN

The Greenville ball club of the Eastern Carolina league returned home today for a two-game series with the Scots from Fayetteville.

This is the first appearance of the home club at the fair grounds since the opening of the second half and it is hoped as many people as possible will be present to lend their encouragement to the boys.

President Guy Smith issued a statement yesterday calling upon the public to support the team in every way possible during the last half, and should they listen to him it may be the boys will come through with decidedly more victories than in the first half.

"While we finished the first half in fifth position, the last step leading into the basement, this cannot be taken as evidence that we will finish in the same position in the final weeks of play. The boys are determined to show their supporters that they have the stuff in them of which conquerors are made and this will be exhibited in the only two games to be played on home soil this week.

"If you are interested in Greenville's standing in the Eastern Carolina league, go out to the game this afternoon and tomorrow and do your part by boosting the boys on to victory."

"An increase in dairying in Pitt county is the objective of the Department of Agriculture this year," E. F. Arnold, director of the Farm Department, told members of the Greenville Rotary club assembled in regular weekly session here Monday night.

"More cows scattered over the various farms of this county would result in increased revenues," the farm agent told the Rotarians. "The farmer must realize the important part which the lowly cow plays in the life of the nation and when that is done it is certain the financial standing of our growers will be greatly improved.

"Talk dairying to the farmers in your territory, Mr. Citizens, and rest assured that anything you may accomplish will bear rich fruits in the future."

"It is impossible to estimate the shortage of tax collections in Pitt county during the past year, but they will be decidedly more than the previous year," said a county official today.

"The delinquent tax list has already been turned over to the Board of County Commissioners by the sheriff and as soon as auditors can check up the shortage complete figures will be available to the public.

"The delinquency in Pitt county, however, is not confined to this immediate section alone. Other counties have suffered likewise and have been forced to use more care in the compiling of budgets for the present year."

"New telephone directories have been issued and I am so glad I don't know what to do," declared a patron of the local telephone exchange today, as she lured the new directory at her telephone table.

"Like lots of other people, I have had considerable trouble getting the right number since improvements have been under way at the telephone exchange the last several weeks. But now that the work has been completed and the new numbers definitely fixed in the directory, I guess we won't have much more trouble."

"I don't believe the tobacco shortage is going to be so great in Pitt county this year," declared a citizen today, returning from a trip over several tobacco fields of the county.

"While the crops looked like they were done for during the incessant downpour of rain that continued for a period of several weeks, they have come out right much under the influence of the sunshine the last few days.

"Someone said that days of sunshine would work wonders and the statement is amply borne out by the progress which the crops are making in some of the affected territories.

"While the crop will be short—nobody knows how short—the situation is going to be more favorable than expected and Pitt county people will find that their black cloud of doubt and fear actually has a silver lining after all."

"We are having a great time seeing the sites of the west," read a message received today from a party of Greenville people making a tour of the western section of the country.

SPORTS SLANTS

By EDDIE BREITZ,
Atlanta, July 10.—(AP)—Football coaches, who have visited Atlanta recently, expect to see the double and triple pass return to popular favor on the gridiron this season.

The new rule preventing opponents from advancing a fumbled ball makes the penalty on imperfect double and triple passes less severe, they say, and the spectacular criss-cross game perfected by Pop Warner is sure to bound back into the limelight.

The worst that can happen now is the loss of the ball at the point of fumble. The coaches say that with the return of triple and double passes there is going to be a widespread demand for fast ends who can fit into the triple play.

Some of the southern coaches already have had their squads experimenting with such plays as the change in the rules gave them an opportunity to include them in their spring drill repertoire.

Now that "Father" Lumpkin and Stumpy Thomason, two of the wheel horses of the Georgia Tech backfield, have decided not to cast their lot with the Pros at Portsmouth, Ohio, 1929 prospects of the national champions are looking up, although Head Coach Bill Alexander continues to talk in mournful tones about the outlook.

It may be that the Hon. Alexander's suffering is as real and that he is merely trying to do a double. Except for the loss of two or three stalwart linemen, including Captain Peter Pund, the all-American, and Raleigh Drennon, the ponderous guard, the Golden Tornado appears to be sitting about as prettily as it is possible to sit in such weather as we now are enjoying.

Young Stribling, the busy barn-stormer, having disposed of Babe Hunt with some difficulty and Tony Fuente with much ease, tries it again tomorrow night, this time against Jack DeLave, the burly Hollander, until lately one of the punch catchers in the camp of Paulino Zucceddu, the bounding basque.

The fight will be held at Knoxville, Tenn. Stribling left out a lot of prestige in Miami last February, but he is keeping busy.

GREENIES PUT EAGLE OUTTT DOWN A NOTCH

Kinston, July 9.—Elmore, who beat Greenville in a five-inning game yesterday, undertook to repeat today but saw the game thrown away by his mates in the eighth inning when the visitors scored four unearned runs by the aid of Eagle boots. The home team looked like a lot of sandlotters for a time. The Greensies counted a 6-5 decision. With the score 4 to 3 against them, the Eagles took the lead again in their half of the eighth when a man got on by error and Roper parked the ball, but the Greensies evened in the ninth when Kendall tripled and was sacrificed.

Sullivan succeeded Elmore in the ninth and stayed in until he loaded the bases in the eleventh with nobody down. Gray went in and walked in the winning run, then retiring the side. Ludke held the Eagles to one hit in the last three frames and they didn't get a chance to score.

Patriots Lick Winston-Salem

(By the Associated Press.) It took the patriots ten innings yesterday to defeat Winston-Salem and sweep the series, but they did it, 5 to 4. Brummitt's Double that brought home Parrish, turned the trick.

Henderson ended the Salisbury series with a perfect record, winning 3 to 2 behind Ormand's good pitching. Jones scored both runs for the Colonials, hitting a homer and tallying again later on O'Malley's double and an easy time minkinn from Durham. Conklin shut out the Bulls, while the Pointers hit 7 to 1 runs.

Greenville beat Kingston, 6 to 5, in an 11-inning game that was the Eastern Carolina League's feature. The Greensies scored four in the eighth and another in the ninth to force the game into extra innings.

The Highlanders kept their record for the second half clean by trimming Wilmington, 8 to 7, with a three-run rally in the ninth inning. Coletrane held Rocky Mount to three hits as Goldsboro won from the Buccaneers, 4 to 2.

For the Love of a Lady

By JEFFERY FARNOL

SYNOPSIS: Helen D'Arcy's fervent threat to kill Julian rings in Sir Richard's ears as he flees from the spot where Julian lies murdered. Beside the body is Sir Richard's ring—evidence sufficient to convict him, and to shield her, whom he believes to be a murderer. Richard rides through the woods, seeking a hiding-place, and finds the gypsy camp of Truffen, whose daughter he once befriended. Truffen gladly offers him the help of her clan and tells him that she will conduct him to a place of safety.

Chapter 15 SANCTUARY Sir Richard followed old Truffen where she rode before, crouched upon her pony, never at loss and never halting until they had reached a wind-swept desolation, void of trees, where rose a jagged outline of ruined wall and tower, and beyond this a dark, bush-like eminence crowned by a thing at which he recoiled instinctively, a shaft and cross-beam wherefrom dangled a grisly shape.

"What dreadful place is this?" cried he, starting up at the gibbet. "Dreadful indeed, my chavoy!" she answered. "The few dares venture a-night hereabouts of nights!" "And wherefore bring me?" he demanded. "Would ye put me in mind of my own possible end? Perchance to dangle so, in rogue's chains, 'tis only death."

"Yes, 'tis only death." "Ay, but in such fearful shape!" "True, my lord. And his soul may rest this night as well as if his poor bones lay in hallowed grave for he was kindly to the poor folk."

"Ha, you knew him?" She nodded. "Jams Ahearn, he was." "What, the highwayman?" "Even so, of the High Toby game were he indeed, . . . a kindly soul." "And how, poor wretch, a thing to shudder at! Come let us go!" "Nay!" said she, "for 'tis here ye must hide. For the shadow o' death is all 'bout ye, by reason o' that which should be on thy finger and is not! So come thy ways now!"

Forthwith she led the way down through a secluded valley until before them loomed a ruined arch flanked by crumbling masonry. And now they rode across the smooth turf, shut in from the blustering wind until old Truffen stopped suddenly in a deep recess beneath a narrow opening in the masonry, where ivy grew very thick; leaning from her pony she gazed amid these leaves and presently drew thence a cord, which she tugged at once, twice, thrice, and sat very silent and motionless. And after some while the ivy leaves in this particular corner parted, and from the very ground the pale oval of a face glimmered up at them, where-to the gypsy addressed herself: "All's well, pal," said she. "'Tis Truffen Camlo with a friend!" "Aha!" answered the face in jovial tones.

"Greetings, whats to do? Who is't ye bring, ma'am?" Sir Richard leant forward, peering, for this was voice he knew well. "Tis merely myself, Black Nick." "Lord!" gasped the voice, then was sound of scrambling, and Black Nick himself stepped lightly into the moonbeams.

"Why, Sir Richard!" he exclaimed. "What's amiss, sir?" "Murder, Nick! My cousin Julian lies dead and I am running for my life." "Murder, sir!" repeated Nick. "But sure 'tis killed in duel, ye mean?" "It is murder, and, Nick, my ring was beside Julian's body, sufficient evidence to damn me!" "Mebbe, sir, to them as don't know ye, but not to them as do."

"Such faith should hearten any man, Howbeit, a fugitive am I. So hither come I seeking sanctuary." "And you're heartily welcome! Moreover, there ain't another such likely place as this, as ma'am Truffen knows—"

"And faith," said Sir Richard, "Mrs. Camlo honour me by accepting this!" And he proffered her his purse. "Nay!" said she, shaking her head. "Though the Romansy be the poor folk, yet they are also the proud folk sometimes."

"A thousand pardons, good dame," answered Sir Richard. "Pray, then, wilt call a blessing down upon my head?" "A blessing?" repeated Truffen. "A gypsy's blessing, then, on ye, th' last o' th' Guyfords, and may ye be proved a worthy bearer of thy proud name."

Then she nodded, wheeled her pony and presently was gone. "Swounds!" exclaimed Nick. "But 'tis queer old soul, you, Sir Richard. This way, your honour, and look 't' your feet." "Tis strange place, this," said Sir Richard, as he followed.

"True enough, sir. 'Twas an heered. And, what's more, sir, 'tis haunted!" "And well might be, Nick." "Ay, 'tis marvellous well haunted by a goblin, your honour, also a friar as goes moaning in bloody robe, right horrible to be heered."

"Have you heard it, Nick?" "Sir—I have—often!" Which he only meant, seeing 'tis me does the moaning—when needful." "Aha, rogue! And 'tis only needful when prying strangers chance this way?" "Ay, true, sir. We 'kewise have a apparition as roars—Rob's a common good roarer—a bull's head, skin and horns, dressed w' stuff called froe-fross, as was contrived for us by George Potter. You know George, I think?"

"Ay, I know o' the lovely rogue; he heads the smugglers hereabouts. . . . But who is Rob?" "Why, sir, Rob's in my line o' business—a High Tobyman, and pretty well beknow'n; they call him the 'Galloping Parson'."

"Zounds, yes—I've heard o' the fellow, Nick! A desperate rascal, by all account, and with more than one death on his hands." "Why, sir, I'll admit as Rob be a bit quick w' his trigger-finger—but then, he be no d'urd-like! Ye see, they hanged his feyther for a act as he didn't commit, and like-wise topped his best friend, which was poor Jimmy Ahearn, for a act which was commit by Rob himself, so he's nat'rally a bit remorseful, which takes the form o' powder and shot at the least opportunity."

"A Norman crypt!" said Sir Richard, glancing about. "Our stables, your honour. Look now, your Caesar will do well here, plenty o' bedding and fodder!" Having thus stabled Caesar and littered him down, Nick blew out the light and, grasping Sir Richard's arm, led him through a narrow passage that, trending ever upwards with many sharp turns, showed a narrow opening whence shone a mellow light.

"Two steps down, and—here ye are!" A roomy chamber or cavern panelled with massive and aged timbering, against which hung whips, rusty spurs, a saddle, a weather-worn cloak, two or three swords, long-barreled pistols, and the like, while in opposite corners were two beds, which, together with a table and a richly carved elbow chair, completed the furniture.

"Tis rough, sir," said Black Nick, shaking his head, "but then 'tis safe, and when the fire's a-going 'tis pretty cosy. And now, sir, what d' ye say to a dish o' tea a bite o' supper?" "Tea!" Sir Richard requested. "Then please to be seated, sir, in the cheer. And likewise, if you're minded to eat, I can offer you cold ham, also a prime o' beef."

"Ye, Nick, I find myself ravenous." "And so, waited upon by this highwayman, Sir Richard supp'd, and made hearty business of it. "And pray," he inquired after some while, "where is your partner, this man Rob?"

"Why, tonight he's a-working the road 'twixt here and Lewes. But, sir, we ain't partners, I don't hold w' his methods, me never having shot man yet."

"I rejoice to hear it, Nick." "Though, I won't say as I ain't used my guns, now and then, butt end, sir—there be only one man as I'd like to be the death of and that's—Jonathan Wild!" "What, the thief-taker?" "Thief-taker and thief-maker, sir. Jonathan raises all manner o' criminals, boys and girls, and sells them—30 odd pounds for every thief, lives by the galkers. 'Twere one o' Wild's constables, and a black rogue too, as Rob shot last."
