BORAH SEES LONG FIGHT FOR TARIFF

Idaho Senator Declares Effect Abroad Is One Of The Elements Considered.

Washington, July 12.—(AP)—Further evidence that the international aspects of the pending tariff bill will consume considerable time in the Senate is given in the statement of Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee that "the effect abroad is one of the elements which ought to be considered in making a tariff."

At the same time, he has made it clear that he believes the "real kick" against the House tariff bill, which he describes as showing the greatest "disregard of the pledges of a party" in the history of such legislation, "is with our own people and not with the people abroad."

Citing the "mergers and the compromises which are being formed with reference to everything which goes into one's stomach and onto his back," and holding that the House bill encourages them, he emphasizes his opinion that "it is the American people who have justification for serious protest."

His comment on the numerous protests from foreign governments and interests against various proposals in the bill, which have been placed before the Senate Finance Committee, now in charge of the measure, for its consideration, as follows: "It is natural, and I think proper, for foreign people to call our attention to what they conceive to be the probable effect of our proposed legislation relative to the tariff. And, of course, we should always take into consideration what the probable effect should be because we are interested in foreign trade."

South Prevents His Mother From Getting Divorce

Chicago, July 12.—(AP)—Although little Bennie Weizer's parents, Isaac and Lena Weizer, came from Russia, Bennie knows about American divorces, and disapproves of them. A process server came to his house with a paper notifying Bennie's father that Mrs. Weizer had started suit for divorce. Bennie intercepted the summons. He did not want his parents divorced.

The child noted that the case was to be called yesterday, so yesterday he skipped school and slipped into the rear seat in Judge Gemmill's court room.

Pretty soon his mother took the witness stand. He heard her say her husband had beaten her and threatened her with a pistol. He had two other women corroborate the story.

Judge Gemmill was on the point of signing the decree when Bennie waved frantically from the rear of the court room.

The judge called the boy forward. "That's my mother," said Bennie. "She is a kind man. He does not know what she is doing. I do not want her to get a divorce."

Judge Gemmill told Bennie to run and get his father. On the way from the building his mother seized him to punish him for interfering. He told of being beaten by his mother.

The court refused the plea for divorce and said he would send Mrs. Weizer to jail for six months if she beat Bennie again.

LION HUNT OVER WHEN DOG RETURNS HOME

Binghamton, N. Y., July 12.—(AP)—The lion hunt in these parts was over today.

State police returned to routine duties and deputy sheriffs disbanded their posse. Farmers in the neighborhood put up their guns and went to work in the fields near the lion. A hunting party of state and local police reinforced by volunteers took the trail. A farmer reported a cow and calf killed.

REAL ROMANCE FOR STAGE STARS

Basil Sidney and Mary Ellis, prominent stage folk, co-starred in a wedding while on a house party at the home of a friend. They had appeared together in "Meet the Prince."

Wild Disorder Follows Seizure By Chinese of Railroad In Manchuria

Harbin, Manchuria, July 12.—(AP)—Northwestern China boiled today in a ferment of Sino-Russian antagonism.

Harbin itself spent a night bordering on panic, with near riots and wild scenes occurring every time a train of Chinese eastern railway, seized yesterday by the Chinese authorities, left the station.

Russian fought with Manchurian police in many parts of the wealthy province, and it was reported here that Soviet troops in eastern Siberia were ready to move eastward into Manchuria at a moment's notice.

Thirty expelled Russian officials of the railroad were started at 6 P. M. yesterday for exile in eastern Siberia, and nearly 800 others, with orders to move in 12 hours, were leaving the province today.

Chang Ching-Hui, governor of the Harbin district, handed B. N. Melnikov, Soviet consul general, passports for the expelled Russians. M. Zmschanov, manager of the railway, was confined to his residence under heavy guard after being forced to give up his post.

Fan Chih-Kuang, a Chinese, was appointed to replace him, the new manager issuing a statement in which he said the expelled Russians would be replaced by Russians naturalized as Chinese or by white Russians. It was even reported M. Ostroumoff, manager of the railway line Ozarist days, would become manager.

Lu Yung-Huang, president of the Chinese eastern directorate issued a statement charging Soviet Russia with responsibility for the expulsion of the Russian railroad officials and employees, and the rupture in represented. He concluded with the ominous words China was prepared to combat Russia retaliatory measures.

His statement said: "Five years have elapsed since Mukden agreement of October 8, 1924, during which Soviet violations of the agreement have been so numerous that Russian actions cannot be construed otherwise than as a manifestation of deliberate intention to repudiate the act.

"Only China's conciliatory attitude has saved the situation heretofore, China repeatedly called the attention of Russia concerning the latter's violations of the 1924 agreement but without avail owing to Russian insincerity. Hence the Mukden agreement is void because of Russian non-observance.

"Moreover Soviet communist propaganda through all agencies connected with the railway is proved by documentary evidence seized in the recent raid at the Soviet consulate general in Harbin, consequently I am constrained to take the present drastic measures to safeguard China's interests in the Chinese eastern railway.

DAWES TALKS DISARMAMENT WITH BRITON

American Ambassador and Ramsay MacDonald Meet For Third Time In Last Few Days.

London, July 12.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes for the third time since the Ambassador arrived in Great Britain, have met and discussed naval disarmament.

But aside from a promise from the British Premier that he would make a statement soon on the matter there was nothing to indicate after the meeting, which lasted several hours, what took place there.

The Ambassador said he had had a talk with Mr. MacDonald but could make no further statement at present.

About the same time the American Embassy issued the following statement: "When the preparatory commission at Geneva adjourned in May it was for the purpose of giving time for some direct discussions between the governments in regard to the naval problem. The exchanges are now in progress and Mr. Gibson's visit was for consultation in connection with this."

It was assumed from the statement Ambassador Gibson had come here from Brussels on another visit since his trip of June 24, and had conferred with Mr. Dawes and probably others.

Some construed the statement, too as indicating a greater intention to collaborate with the disarmament machinery of the League of Nations than has been manifest heretofore.

Meanwhile there has been general acceptance—although not confirmed—of the government's intention to cut six submarines from its naval construction program. The matter was said to have been discussed further at a cabinet meeting yesterday, at which an attempt was made to find another niche for the men who will thus be thrown out of employment.

Ambassador Gibson arrived in London from Brussels Tuesday night and left again for his Belgium post Thursday morning. It was said he confined himself to conversations with Ambassador Dawes over pending naval topics.

Authoritative quarters explained his run across the channel was one he might be expected to duplicate at intervals at any time in the near future, such visits being for the purpose of keeping in touch with the Ambassador or on any developments and consulting with him.

ABANDON ALL HOPE TO SAVE CREW OF H-47

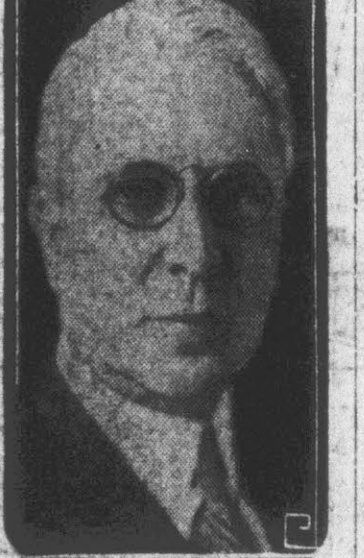

British Navy Sends Out Fleet To Pay Last Tribute To Victims Of Disaster.

Pembroke, Wales, July 12.—(AP)—The British navy has said its goodbye to the 20 men who went to death in the sunken submarine, H-47.

Just at sunset last night the mighty battleship Rodney led six destroyers and five submarines over the spot where the submarines went down Tuesday, after collision with the L-12, and rendered impressive last honors to the men 330 feet below them. The admiralty previously had given all up for dead.

The ceremony was in accordance with British naval custom. Ashore memorial service was conducted aboard the Rodney, wreaths were cast into the sea, and the big guns of the battleship and her auxiliaries boomed in final salute to the gallant dead.

SEVERAL HURT IN TORNADO IN NORTH DAKOTA

Wreck And Ruin Follow Disastrous Cloudburst At El Paso, Texas.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 12.—(AP)—Eighteen persons were injured, thousands in property damage and telephone and telegraph communication interrupted in a tornado which struck this city. Cray and Ardock last night.

John and Frank Vanderlyn, farmers, living near Cray, were severely injured when a barn on their farm was demolished, and George Jacobson, hired hand on a farm near Cray, received a broken leg.

Fifteen laborers were injured, none seriously, when eight cars of a Great Northern Railway work train were blown from the rails near here.

Buildings were damaged at Devil's Lake, Cray and Ardock, while a number of farm structures were razed in the vicinity of those towns. Hail leveled crops in some sections.

El Paso, Texas, July 12.—(AP)—El Paso today surveyed wreckage and ruin in the wake of one of the most disastrous cloudbursts in its history that hit an exclusive residential district yesterday.

Damage was estimated at a quarter of a million dollars. Without warning, a solid blanket of water was released from clouds over the Franklin mountains on the edge of the town. A wall of water swept into the streets, carrying boulders as large as office desks.

The stone foundation of one house was swept from under the building. Parked wagons and automobiles were picked up by the current and smashed into poles and buildings. Chunks of asphalt pavement were torn up and carried away.

Homes of Mexicans in the lowlands were washed away by the water which stood three feet deep until late last night.

Southern Pacific trains were delayed, but service today was normal and clearing away of debris was under way.

Bridegroom Jailed After His Wedding

Bakersville, N. C., July 12.—(AP)—The romance of a young couple, George Moseley and Josie Bennett, both of Baldine, Mitchell county, was rudely shattered here yesterday afternoon when the groom was jailed immediately after the wedding ceremony.

YOUNG MOTHER CONFESSES TO BOLD HOLD-UP

Mrs. Vivian Scrapper Tells Of $14,000 Daylight Robbery In Topeka; Two Men Held.

Topeka, Kan., July 12.—(AP)—A comely young brunette, mother of a 7-year-old daughter, and two others were in jail today following her alleged confession that she committed the $14,000 daylight hold-up of two employees of the Security Benefit Association here June 28.

The woman, Mrs. Vivian Craper, 25, and Cecil Streit, 24, employee of the association, were arrested yesterday in an apartment where they were living together. Marie Rainey, 16, who lived with them as their "niece," and Mrs. Scrapper's only confidant, after the crime, was held for investigation.

Officers found $13,600 hidden in an overstuffed chair and behind a picture in the couple's apartment.

Mrs. Scrapper told Sheriff Wayne Horning, he said, that it was because of her love for Streit that she committed the hold-up after forcing A. G. Perlich, Kansas City salesman, to drive her to the scene of the robbery in front of the Security Benefit Association building, Streit is a brother of Louis Streit, one of the association's employees whom she robbed.

Sheriff Horning said Mrs. Scrapper had refused to implicate Streit or any one else in her confession.

Mrs. Scrapper admitted, according to the sheriff, that she planned the hold-up a month before but delayed it because she "lost her nerve." She also said the revolver she used was not loaded. There were no cartridges in the gun when it was found shortly after the robbery.

The arrest of the three was said to have resulted from information given to the authorities by the Rainey girl's mother.

Mrs. Rainey said Mrs. Scrapper and Cecil Streit appeared at her home within an hour after the robbery carrying two blankets. Officers were inclined to believe the money was hidden in them. Two days later she said the couple returned and took away a shoe-box which, officers said, apparently contained the loot.

ELEVEN BURN TO DEATH AT CHARITY SHOW

Boy Cadets Meet Death While Taking Part In Fire Demonstration in England.

Gillingham, Eng., July 12.—(AP)—Eleven boy cadets from the Chatham barracks were burned to death last night when a dummy house at a charity bazaar took fire and was consumed before they could leave it.

Three firemen and three or four other would-be rescuers were injured seriously.

The house, a three-story structure of wood frame and canvas, had been constructed to allow the local firemen to demonstrate a rescue for the charity fete, the boys climbing to the upper stories to represent occupants.

Spectators saw it suddenly burst into flames but thought it part of the program. The boys, gesticulating wildly from the windows high above the ground, were applauded as being good actors by the large crowd.

Mendell and Reinhart Off On Eleventh Day Of Gruelling Flight

Dr. Michelson Plans To Stage Speed Test In Pasadena, Calif.

Washington, July 12.—(AP)—Dr. A. A. Michelson again will measure the incredible speed of light—and this time hopes to achieve the result in which the probable error is reduced to one part in a million.

Two years ago, in a speed test made between Mount Wilson and Mount Old Baldy, the noted University of Chicago physicist determined that light in a vacuum traveled 186,284 miles a second. This means value, was held correct within one part in 100,000.

The famous Nobel prize winner wants to reduce the uncertainty to one-tenth of that figure and the War Department has approved an application of Mount Wilson observatory, Pasadena, Calif. for permission to use a part of Ross flying field for the experiment.

A straight path, one-half mile long, is available on the field. Along the course, the light will be reflected by mirrors and timed. The resultant speed figure, besides being freer from error, will serve as a check on previous values.

Initial steps in the project will be made with the light traveling through air, to test the apparatus, after which the plan is to lay down a sheet iron pipe, three feet in diameter and one-half mile in length.

Dr. Michelson plans to pump the air from the long pipe and have a beam of light reflected back and forth by special mirrors like a ball on a billiard table.

A rotating prism, operated by an air turbine and timed by a vibrating tuning fork, and a series of mirrors will cast a beam of light over the accurately measured course. Because the pipe will be evacuated, the errors due to air resistance are expected to be eliminated.

The prismatic mirror will be eight sided. When its rotation is such that the image of the light beam, traveling to the end of the pipe, cast back to one of the facets, and over to the eye of the physicist, is stationary, the ray's velocity can be calculated from the speed at which the mirror is whirling.

"The millionnaire pilot" commented yesterday that "Mendell and Reinhart stayed up so long I had a birthday." It was Whittier's 25th yesterday.

A. E. McManus, partner with Whittier and W. G. McAdoo, Jr., in the Culver City airport, was a lieutenant in the Royal Air Corps during the world war. He is well known in Toronto, Canada.

He trained the military training received by Mendell and Reinhart as playing large part in their success.

Spanish Steamer Sinks British Ship; All Of Crew Saved

London, July 12.—(AP)—Lloyd's and Landend wireless station received a message from the Spanish steamer Christians today stating that she collided with and sank the British steamer Seaforth, 340 tons, during a fog near the Bristol channel.

The Seaforth's crew was saved and is aboard the Christians which is proceeding to New Port.

For the Love of a Lady

By JEFFERY FARNOL

SYNOPSIS: Sir Richard leaves his ring beside the body of Julian, because he believes Helen D'Arcy killed him and he wishes to cast suspicion on himself, thus shielding her. He finds sanctuary in the hair of two notorious highwaymen, Black Nick and the Galloping Parson. Shortly after Richard's arrival, the Parson rides in with a bullet wound in his arm, and some startling news—Capt. Despard and Helen riding through Fallowdene Wood discovered Julian's body with Richard's ring beside it. Both recognized the ring and Despard, yielding to Helen's pleas to hide the damning evidence against Richard, gave it to her.

Chapter 17 A CONFESSION—OF LOVE

Helen sat staring with eyes of horror on the signet-ring upon the table.

"And now," said the Duchess, starting also at the ring, "now that you are more composed, tell me all over again."

Helen shivered, bowed her head and spoke:

"Last evening, as I rode, I met Captain Despard, and I would have left him, for I hate the man, but he persisted. We reached the little wood they call the Fallowdene Dingle, and he suggested we ride through it—"

"Ah—'twas himself suggested the wood?"

"Yes, aunt; I did so because 'tis the shortest way back to the village. . . . And there lay Julian Guyfford—dead. And besides his dead hand—this! And she pointed trembling finger at Sir Richard's signet-ring.

"And," inquired the Duchess, "surely the captain saw it too?"

"'Twas he who picked it up. He said: 'Surely I have seen this ring before. Ay, this is Sir Richard Guyfford's signet!' and then, 'Here is evidence shall verily hang him—if found! He quarrelled with this unfortunate gentleman so bitterly! And now we find his ring beside the murdered body of this poor gentleman! If found here, this shall assuredly hang Sir Richard!'

"Now tell me phwat you said, every syllable, me dear."

"Then, aunt, I told him it must not be found, and tried to snatch the ring from him. 'Give it to me. And he not complying—I—found myself . . . stooping to plead with him."

"And phwat says he?"

"Shook his head, aunt. 'But, Helen,' says he, 'if we suppress such evidence, we make ourselves accessories after the fact, which is grave and heinous offense. No matter, says L. 'Give me that ring!'

"And then he gave it thee, av course."

"He did," answered Helen. "Take it, Helen," says he; 'henceforth we are fellows in crime.' And he—smiled!"

"And no wonder!" nodded the Duchess, frowning, "for fellows in crime 'y' are indeed, miss!"

Helen shivered. "Ah! . . . What do you mean?"

"That 'y' are to be the price of this gentleman's silence."

"Oh!" gasped, my lady. "Oh, aunt, what other could I have done—?"

"Well, you might ha' left this lying ring—lying."

"Lying ring? Then, oh, then you think it would ha' borne false testimony? You don't think he—"

"What I think is neither here nor there—'tis phwat I know!"

"And what . . . do you know?"

"Howbeit, you love Sir Richard Guyfford."

My lady sat silent for quite one moment then, sighed she:

"Dear aunt, let us consider! Is it love to . . . dread his dishonour, to fear for his safety, to pity him in his loneliness, to long to comfort him, yearn to plague him, anger him, soothe him, aid him, share his dangers, belong to him? If this be so . . . why then—"

"Rogue," chuckled the Duchess. "Come, kiss me!"

"And you believe in him, despite his ill repute?"

Here was knocking on the door, and Betty, my lady's maid, appeared, breathless, flushed and agog with news:

"Oh, my ladies!" she exclaimed. "This horrible murder! Such tales! Some do say as the poor, murdered gentleman were slew by highwaymen, the Galloping Parson, or Black Nick, but most folks sms to think 'twix nether, ma'am, but another as—"

"Another, who girl?" demanded Helen.

"Why, ma'am, they do say, as this deed were commit by the wicked 'and of his cousin, Sir Richard Guyff. . . ."

Up sprang my lady, graceful (and fierce, almost) as a panther.

"Woman," cried she, "hold that wicked tongue! Begon, let I tar thy hair—go!"

Betty fled, but beyond the door ventured to turn:

"Oh, my lady!" she gasped, "no offence, but, oh, ma'am, if poor Sir Richard ain't guilty—why has he run off and vanished himself away?"

"Vanished? . . . What do you mean?"

"Only what every one's a-saying, how as Sir Richard on the very night o' the horrible deed, my lady, he mounts his fastest horse, and gallops away. And no eye had seed nor ear yet heered him since, my lady."

Here, at imperious sign from her mistress, Betty curtsied again and closed herself out of the room.

"To—run away!" whispered Helen. "Why should he? What can we do?"

"Nothing!" answered the Duchess, "now, but, we'll have him paying us surprise visit on o' these foine nights if—'y' do as I bid ye."

"What? Oh, tell me!"

"Whist, me dear—let me whisper."

The Marquis of Merivale sighed, moaned, and opening unwilling eyes, blinked at his servant, Francoise.

"S matter, Francoise," he inquired drowsily.

"Sir Richard Guyfford's gentleman, Mr. Gregory, waits below."

"Gregory—eh?" quoth the Marquis. "early too! I wonder what—? Send him up and let nobody disturb us!"

The Marquis had achivd complete wakefulness when Gregory entered, bowed, closed the door and showed a visage unwontedly troubled.

"Well, Greg, what news?"

"Non, my lord. Sir Richard has not com hom."

"Odd, Grgory, curst odd, eh? It ain't like Richard 't turn tall—And 'Where indeed, my lord! For already there are ugly rumours aboard coupling his name with this horrid murder . . . and himself not hr to giv such base rumours the lie!"

"'Tis curst censorious world," sighed the Marquis, "and Dick's not loved by his neighbors . . . An' he disappeared two nights since—the very night o' the murder, Greg?"

"Yes, my lord. He left at about six o'clock."

"And the murder was discovered about eight o'clock."

The Marquis frowned at his bed-curtains blacker than ever.

"But that same night, Greg, I was 'tacked by highwayman—'flow shot m' horse, though I had the luck 't wing th' rogue,—this ud be 'about ha'-past eight. Now who's 't say the murder was not committed by some such rogue—eh?"

"My lord," sighed Gregory, "Mr. Julian had not been robbed."

"Ay, true!" said the Marquis.

"Ha, but," quoth he, brightening suddenly, "the rogues may ha' been scared off 'fore they could rob th' body—eh?"

"Possibly, sir, though the wood is a lonely spot."

"But th' question is—what's become o' poor Dick? He left in a hurry, I understand?"

"At a moment's notice, my lord. 'He wore his sword, of course."

"Yes, sir! His pistols were in his saddle-holsters."

"Hum!" quoth the Marquis, and was gloomily silent for a while.

"My lady Helen, 'the D'Arcy,' called that afternoon, you tell me; poor Dick's enemies are busy 'ready, eh? Ah, well, though 'tis s' curst early, I perceive I must be up 'n' doing, Greg, up 'n' doing."

Having breakfast hastily, the Marquis suffered himself to be washed, shaved and dressed, lost meanwhile in profound abstraction of thought, interrupted the nice adjustment of his lace neckcloth with command for haste, tossed off silken dressing-robe and slid into embroidered coat, and all with such unheard-of celerity as left his Francoise gasping.

"M sword—Francoise!" said he. "No, not that; 'tis too light. I'll wear the solichemarde."

Francoise started slightly, but brought the deadly duelling-word and adjusted it to his master's hip.

"M' hat, Tom . . . m' cane, Francoise! And now, Greg, we'll take th' air."

One of the features of this popular resort is the new band, Selbys Syncopators. Three local boys, Archie Suggs, Troy Burnette and Raymond Walters are members of this organization and their work has received very favorable comment.

Miss Eleanore Tyson was a charming hostess last evening when she entertained at bridge complimenting her house guest, Miss Jane King of New York.

Profusions of summer flowers were used for decorations. Bridge was played at six tables. Miss Annie Dare Hooker was given a bridge set for ladies' high score and Buster Starkey a deck of cards for high score for the boys. Miss King was given an attractive compact. Miss Lena Best Turnage served a tempting ice course with salted nuts.

STABLE OF NOTED HORSES TO BE SOLD SATURDAY

Chicago, July 12. — (AP) — The stable of Hal Price Headley of Kentucky, with the exception of four horses, will be sold at public auction in the Arlington Park paddock Saturday, July 27.

Mr. Headley said the stable, with the exception of Alcibides, Bossie, Miss Peggy and Peggy Mac, would be sold because of the large number of young horses at his farm in Kentucky which will be ready for racing next year.

R. L. Robbins (left) and James Kelly, co-pilots of the airplane, Fort Worth, holder of the world's sustained flight aviation record, with their new plane and Robbins' new Roosevelt eight sedan. Kelly also is the owner of a new Roosevelt coupe. The two famous fliers assisted in the test on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway during which a Roosevelt car was run without stopping motor or car for more than twice the time the Fort Worth plane stayed in the air. The Roosevelt broke all previous automotive non-stop endurance records.

The engine and driving mechanism of the Roosevelt straight-eight holder of the new world's non-stop automotive endurance record of 440 hours and 30 minutes, showed far less wear than was expected after the gruelling test, a minute examination of the car revealed immediately following the completion of the run.

To conform to official rules of the American Automobile Association, under whose supervision the test was conducted, the Roosevelt was disassembled at once and inspected, part for part, to determine that it was strictly a stock car in every mechanical detail. This examination was conducted by Louis Chevrolet, veteran racing engineer, Charles Merz, A. A. A. representative, and S. E. Rowe, chassis engineer of the Stutz Motor Car Company.

Afterwards, every part of the car was subjected to careful scrutiny by Thomas J. Little, Jr., chief engineer and other members of the Morman engineering staff. The engine was found to be in perfect working order and examination of the pistons, valves and other engine mechanism failed to disclose appreciable wear or defects. Axles, wheels, steering gear, transmission and ignition system were thoroughly inspected and found in their original condition.

The end of the record-breaking run literally was forced upon the drivers of the car, pitmen, A. A. A. representatives and others connected with the test who had maintained improvised headquarters at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for nearly

GUGGENHEIM BEGINS ACTION TO ANNUL MARRIAGE

New York, July 12.—(AP)—The New York American says today that Edmond A. Guggenheim has begun action to annul the marriage of his 18-year-old daughter, Nanaite, to Thomas M. Gorman, son of a Long Island railway station master.

Miss Guggenheim, one of the heiresses to the Guggenheim copper fortune, and Gorman, a young real estate operator, were married secretly last April 6 by the Rev. Kirkland Huske, rector of All Saints Protestant Episcopal church at Great Neck, Long Island.

After the ceremony Gorman and his bride returned immediately to the homes of their respective parents. The fact of the marriage became known a week later. Mr. Guggenheim, upon learning of the marriage, returned from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and friends of the family were quoted as saying he was strongly opposed to his daughter's marriage.

ABOUT TOWN

The opening game with the Fayetteville Highlanders was just as good as anybody should want to see," declared one of the most ardent supporters of the Greenville ball club of the Eastern Carolina league, speaking of the Tobaccoists' 6 to 3 victory over the Sco's here Wednesday afternoon.

Both clubs played real baseball, but Greenville happened to produce a circuit clout with two men on the paths in time to give them a lead the Highlanders found it impossible to overcome. I don't know whether the lead had any psychological effect upon the visitors or not, but they seemed helpless except in the ninth frame when they showed two runners over the rubber.

This is the brand of baseball Greenville fans have been wanting for many a day and if the club can keep the pace, well, it is an assured fact that the grandstand and bleachers will be packed at the remainder of the games played on this diamond this season.

I would like to see a sufficient number of traffic lights installed in the business district of Greenville to guarantee the citizens the same safety enjoyed by other towns of similar size," declared a business man today, referring to the safety which automobile drivers feel when protected from reckless driving by signal lights.

With the general increase of automobiles and other forms of vehicular traffic in Greenville it seems to me the time has come for the establishment of signal lights in the busiest sections of town. Five Points, especially, is badly in need of traffic protection of this kind and the sooner it is provided the sooner the traffic situation will be improved in this town.

Many towns much smaller than Greenville have found it to their interest to provide signal lights, and if they found it advisable, certainly Greenville also should. Traffic lights are not confusing. Anybody knows that a red light means stop and that green means the way is clear. Instead of confusing anybody, the signals would safeguard the lives of the citizenship and enable everybody to traverse the business district with a greater feeling of safety.

Baseball fans at Henderson are said to have thrown away all hammers, and are boosting their team whether they win or lose, reminded a Greenville man today.

This is a mighty good plan and should bring good results. Knocking doesn't do any good, and the sooner other towns adopt the Henderson plan the sooner they will have the kind of ball club they want.

Baseball is like anything else. It has its good days and its bad days. And when the bad days come fans should remember the good days and try to refrain from unjust criticism that doesn't accomplish anything and only creates an adverse sentiment among the players.

Fans should keep this fact in mind and instead of razzing the players when a boneheaded play is made, they should pass it up and watch for another play that will completely overshadow anything in the error class.

Features of the State Firemen's convention to be held at Hendersonville, July 15-19 are the most interesting in years," declared a member of the local fire company today as he made preparations for the annual trek to the state meeting.

The outstanding features of the meeting will be discussion of the Firemen's Relief Fund, Firemen's Fraternal Insurance, report on the Fire College, Monument to James McNeill, matters pertaining to International Association of Fire Chiefs. The tournament will also be one of the outstanding attractions and many cities are expected to participate.

Greenville firemen have already been granted an appropriation of $150.00 to defray their expenses to the convention, and they are going to establish a record town-people will be proud of."

"We are having a mighty good time up here in New York," stated a letter from two Greenville citizens who are spending several weeks in the nation's metropolis.

"But we miss the folks back home and the hundreds of associations that endear the town of one's birth. The Reflector, however, keeps us fully informed regarding happenings around the section and this news is one of the bright spots in our daily life.

"We shall be home before the fall of the year, so keep the boys straight and continue sending us the Reflector without missing a single copy."

A cow on every farm is the objective of the leading farmers of this county at the present time," a well known agriculturalist told the writer of this column today.

"When this objective has been accomplished we feel satisfied general conditions in this community will be greatly improved. The farmer will not only be on a sounder financial footing but will have enough money in the banks the beginning of each year to carry them through the planting season without incurring debt. This one thing alone will mean their salvation."

CAPTAIN BILL LUCKETT DIES AT WASHINGTON

Washington, July 12.—(AP)—Captain Bill Lockett, who began life as William Edward Lockett and became the "grand old man of the Potomac," is dead at the age of 74.

In his career of more than 50 years as a river pilot, he knew intimately a long line of presidents and other government dignitaries, visiting kings, princes, generals and statesmen, and the youngsters of many celebrated families.

As the civilian pilot of the Mayflower from the time it was put into service as the yacht of the presidents until it was ordered decommissioned recently, he was the responsibility for their safety and that of their guests on all of his trips.

King Albert of Belgium was one of his correspondents.

TWO TRAIN DYNAMITERS SENTENCED TO PRISON

Chicago, July 12.—(AP)—Virgil L. Litzinger and John "Red" Flannery, the last of the band that dynamited a Grand Trunk mail car 17 months ago and fled with $133,000 loot, were sentenced to 25 years in prison today.

The jury that deliberated less than an hour last night returned a sealed verdict of "guilty" before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, who passed sentence and overruled all motions for new trial and stay of execution.

A few weeks after the holdup, Charles "Limpy" Cleaver, most desperate of the bandits, was captured and confessed, implicating Ex-Congressman Charles Wharton, Litzinger, Flannery and five others.

Wharton was sent to Leavenworth penitentiary for two years as a conspirator, the robbery having been planned in his home. Two of the others were slain, one in a battle with police and the other

RAIN SCORED IN PIEDMONT, TWO FOR E. C.

(By the Associated Press)
Rain scored a 2-1 decision over the Piedmont League yesterday, but lost to the Eastern Carolina by the same count.

The Salisbury-Winston-Salem and Greensboro-HighPoint games in the Piedmont were drowned completely out. Henderson and Durham got through their despite occasional showers, the Bunnis winning, 6 to 3. Patterson, Bull twirler, was wild and hit pretty freely besides.

The Fayetteville-Greenville game was the only contest to go by the boards in the Eastern Carolina. Rocky Moun; combined 15 hits with wildness on the part of three Kingston pitchers and four Eagle errors staged a seventh-inning rally to win from Wilmington, 5 to 4. Three Bug counters crossed the plate in the big inning.

Oriando, Fla.—Gordon Fortenberry, Cocoa, Fla. knocked out Spike Kelly, Lakeland, Fla. (3); Bob Baker, St. Cloud, won a technical knockout over Red Graves, Loughman, Fla. (3).

LOSES ELEVEN POUNDS IN ONE BALL GAME

New York, July 12.—(AP)—William Watson Clark, young southpaw of the Brooklyn Robins, knows why pitchers weaken in the closing innings of a game, especially during hot weather.

Clark pitched the Dodgers to a 9 to 6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals the other day but was lucky to last out the game. He explained it this way:

"Before the game I got on the scales and weighed 167 pounds. After the game I weighed 156 pounds, a loss of 11 pounds."

Clark, however, draws some satisfaction out of the fact that a big dinner, plenty of water, a good night's sleep and a heavy breakfast brought him back to his original weight the following day.

WHAT! NEW TIRES FOR OLD?

WE'LL TAKE THAT TIRE! Not much good to you any more. Looks like it's apt to blow most any time. But we'll take it in on a brand new Silvertown.

HERE'S good news for keen tire buyers. For a short time only we're offering motorists of this city a real trade-in proposition on tires.

Perhaps the tires on your car are getting old. Just bring them to us. We'll fix you up with brand new Silvertowns... then deduct the value of your old tires from the bill. Surely that sounds like a fair proposition, doesn't it.

And when it comes to tires... you just can't beat Goodrich Silvertowns. We've sold tires for a long time... and we know the kind of stuff that Silvertowns are made of.

Come in and talk it over! Get this proposition in detail... and without delay.

Can we expect you—today?

HERE IT IS! The famous Silvertown, tire standard of the country. Made of stretch-matched cord, cured by the special Goodrich water-cure process. It's a big value, all right!

COTTON MARKET

New York, July 12--(AP)--The Cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 9 points to a decline of 2 points. There was a little covering by July shorts, and some buying of later deliveries on relatively steady Liverpool cables, but the demand was supplied by selling on a favorable view of the early weather reports.

October eased off from 18.29 to 18.26 right after the call but the offerings were not heavy and the market while somewhat irregular, held fairly steady within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing quotations at the end of the first half hour.

Cable advices received from Liverpool said that local and continental liquidation in that market had been absorbed by the trade buying and covering but that Manchester was inactive with buyers of col-

STOCK MARKET

New York, July 12--(AP)--With a violent bidding up of utilities and several off he industrials, particularly steels the B Q L party celebrated the first reduction in brokerage loans since late May on the stock market today. Although the reduction was but $14,000,000, it was interpreted as indicating that the gain of about $485,000,000 during July was due largely to the exercising of rights to heavy new securities offerings.

The upturn, which took about two score of issues up 2 to more than 20 points to record levels, was too violent to hold, however, and considerable profit taking broke out in the early afternoon, when the bears launched another drive on the market. Call money still held at 9 per cent, and a less favorable development in the overnight news were the Federal Reserve conditions statements, showing that in the past week New York banks had not reduced their heavy mid-year borrowing at the reserve institution, and promising Wall Street believed comparatively firm money for several days more. A conspicuous feature of the days news were the June copper statistics, showing that producers were meeting with some success in curtailing output, as production was cut by 3 per cent. Small shipments, however, resulted in a 13,000 tons gain in stocks during the month. A few half year earnings statements appeared. Otis Elevator reporting net of $3,761,555, contrasted with $3,600,120 in the like period of last year. Buapance of Youngstown Sheet and Tube was accounted for by the declaration of a 20 per cent stock dividend.

Commercial Solvents was a high flier, mounting over 20 points to a record price, while Allis Chalmers, Case Threshing, Detroit Edison, Midland Steel Products preferred, Consolidated Gas and Underwood Elliott Fisher soared 7 to more than 10 points to new peaks.

U. S. Steel was sent up 5 points to a record price at 203, 40 points above its 1929 low, and such shares as American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Union Pacific, were bid up 4 points and more to record price.

Buying of the utilities was particularly heavy, several blocks of 10,000 to 20,000 shares changing hands.

Columbia Gas, United Gas Improvement, and Brooklyn Union Gas were among about a dozen reaching new high ground. Western Union, American Bank Note, General Electric, Pere Marquette and Electric Auto Lite were other shares showing marked strength.

In the afternoon selling, De Pont dropped 5 points, Chrysler and Packard and General Motors and Goodyear a point and more although Pan American B was in demand, some of the Oils were heavy Houston and Atlantic Refining sagging a couple of points, Coty Industrial Rayon, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and National Bellas Hess lost 2 points and more, the last named reaching a new 1929 low.

WID DISORDERS FOLLOW SEIZURE BY CHINESE OF RAILROAD IN MANCHURIA

ten, half Russian and half Chinese. It has a length of less than 1,100 miles and forms an important extension of the trans-Siberian railway with the important all Russian, skirting northern Manchuria, is much longer and less highly developed rail organization. Chinese eastern profits last year were nearly $8,000,000 in gold.

The Japanese in Manchuria are especially interested observers in the present turmoil, some feeling the action may eventuate in seizure of the Chinese southern railway, a connecting Manchurian link, which operates under Japanese control under not dissimilar conditions.

Dusty in Smoky City

Pittsburgh, Pa.--Over the 49 square miles of "The Smoky City" extending 200 feet up are 5,103 cubic feet of dust and dirt. Calculations were made by engineers from data afforded by air purification in a theatre. But the air, they say is no dirtier than New York City.

Renew Your Health By Purification

Any physician will tell you that "Perfect Purification of the System is Nature's Foundation of Perfect Health." Why not rid yourself of chronic ailments that are undermining your vitality? Purify your entire system by taking a thorough course of Calotabs--once or twice a week for several weeks--and see how Nature rewards you with health. Calotabs are the greatest of all system purifiers. Get a family package with full directions. Only 35 cts. at drugstores. (Adv.)
