OVER HUNDRED GRADUATED AT THE COLLEGE

Largest Class of Summer School Students in History Receive Diplomas.

East Carolina Teachers College closed its twelfth summer school today. It graduated the largest summer school class in its history, there being 103 who received diplomas. While the summer school attendance was smaller than it has been in several years a larger percentage graduated than usual, showing that a higher type of professional training is in evidence among the teachers who attend summer school in the past.

The commencement address was delivered by Dr. Rob. H. Wright, president of the college. Dr. Wright in his address discussed what he termed the greatest revolution in America since 1776. He said in part:

I want to talk to you today about America and the trend in this great Republic of ours. As I see it, America is in the midst of the greatest revolution she has had since 1776. The revolutions of this world are not measured by great wars. To every careful student of statecraft it is perfectly clear that, as a nation, we are having steadily and rapidly toward some form of absolute government. I think any student in statecraft will tell you that this is true. I may be a little wrong in our nation, but I am sure that the school will rise to the challenge of the great world combat and begin the beginning of it, voluntarily and unasked, as a people. We are in the central government in duty bound to take away any suggestion to give up prior to that time. We allowed the government to take what kind of food to eat. Hooverized at the suggestion of a man who is now our President. We did this in order that we might meet the military power of Germany. We confidently expected to reclaim all that we had given up but we have not done so. If one studies the situation without prejudice, he is forced to admit that America has moved toward the same form of government that is found in Europe, and that Europe on the other hand, has moved toward the form of government that we had in America before the World War. It is barely possible that the nations of the world will come day work out the most efficient, the most satisfactory form of government that the world has ever seen.

We have recently passed thru Congress what is known as the Farm Relief Bill and an appropriation of more than a hundred million dollars to relieve the farmers. The Farm Relief Board is taking ten million dollars of this money for those who grow grain and ten million for those who grow cotton in the United States. Are those millions of dollars to be given to the people? The Farm Relief Board says it will grow agricultural products? No, he used to lend to only the farmers of America who are organized.

What does that mean? It means legislation by the Federal Government of this country millions of dollars will be set aside to one third of the population in the United States to a more centralized organization. It means an appropriation from Congress for the purpose of centralizing in industry for a large per cent of the population for this country. They have made it clear that there will be no help for a farmer not in one of these organizations.

Business methods in government is almost a slogan with us today. Big business is a form of absolutism and we cannot get away from it. The organization of the farmers on such a basis simply means the centralization of power. The budget of the United States government is the President's budget. It is not a budget of the various departments of government, but it is an executive budget, and while in theory our legislators can change it, in practice they leave it as it was made by the President of the United States. In actual practice we are thirty near the point where we have taxation without representation. In our State government we have practically the same thing. In theory we have representation, but the budget is passed almost as written by the governor. The same principle is in operation in almost every state in the union.

Therefore our slogan in government means a little more centralization, a little more standardization. We have today standardized and centralized everywhere and in every thing. Individualism is counting for less and less. He is swallowed up in the mass. He is no longer a free individual. Only the overpowering

Votes Of Candidates To Appear In Monday's Paper

Important For All to Report Today

Monday is destined to be an outstanding day in The Reflector great prize campaign. In The Reflector Monday will appear for the first time all votes of candidates cast for publication. It will be the real beginning of the now famous election through which this newspaper will soon distribute almost $6,000 in awards to those who participate.

To date many people who have entered their names as candidates in the campaign. More than half of this list are candidates in name only. Some have actively started to gather votes and write subscriptions. These latter will stand out in his vote score of Monday.

To Report Today Today, Saturday, is report day in the campaign. It is a day during which every single person entered should make a real effort to report with at least one club of subscriptions—that is a mere $25.00 worth—so that they may reflect actively in their votes Monday.

If it is shown they are trying themselves, then their friends and acquaintances, who will be watching their progress, will be more ready and willing to swing their support in their direction. A lack of interest and effort on the part of the entrant is sure to foster an attitude of indifference from their friends.

During the past day or so there has been something of an improvement in the progress of the campaign as a whole. A few more have entered and some have become active. It may be a turn in the tide of this most generous offer that will lead on to a successful outcome of worthy undertaking.

Right now is the psychological time to get under way if you are entered, and to enter if you have permitted the first week or two of the election to be given over to consideration of it.

There is room without limit for any number of ambitious people to step in and get started now for any of the valuable automobiles and cash prizes. It should be remembered that nobody can lose in this pant will absolutely receive either a new car or a cash return.

There is something big or something smaller to be made out of it, depending solely upon the desires and success of the person entered. There will be just as many prizes as there are active candidates.

Now, don't forget that today, Saturday, up until 8 o'clock tonight, is report day. All business received up to that hour will figure in the preparation of the first published vote score of Monday afternoon. Show that you mean business today. Get away from the barrier with the rest.

Negro Confesses Murder.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 24.—(AP)—John Smith, 22-year-old negro, has confessed to the murder here Friday afternoon of R. A. Reeves, a grocer, according to information received from Chief of Police Shumons, of Jackson, who went to Hammond, La., to return the negro here.

Father Leads Officers To Son's Still

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A 26-year-old boy was in jail here today because his father who had "done time" for making machine whistles, led federal officers to his son's still and asked them to arrest him. The father, James Moore, insisted that he was "doing the best thing for the boy," and that "it was the only way to teach him a lesson." The son, William Arthur Moore, on the other hand, was bitter, blaming his crime on the father. Moore led the officers to the still in the country about 20 miles from here, yesterday. His son and Eugene McWhorter, 46, were sending it. Taking the youth by the arm, Moore said: "Take the boy and let the rest go. I want to teach him not to mess with whiskey."

General Lawrence Tyson, Distinguished War Hero, Dies At Stafford, Penn.

United States Senator Lawrence D. Tyson, Democrat of Tennessee, and native Pitt county, died early today in the Mantra Manor Sanitarium, Stafford, near Philadelphia. He was 68 years of age, the recipient of the distinguished service medal for "exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service" during the world war.

Senator Tyson's death followed a relapse suffered late yesterday. At his bedside when the end came were his wife and daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Gilpin. Senator Tyson is survived by numbers of relatives in Greenville and Pitt county whom he visited several times in recent years. Funeral services for Senator Tyson will be held at Knoxville, Wednesday at 4 p. m., in the St. Johns Episcopal church.

A veteran of the world and Spanish American wars, Senator Tyson's five years in the Senate were characterized by his interest in soldier legislation. The Tennessee Senator was brought to Jefferson hospital at Philadelphia July 29, from his home in Knoxville, Tenn., and at the time he was said to be suffering from a nervous breakdown. Shortly afterwards he was removed to Dr. George F. Phelps' private sanitarium and Dr. Francis X. Dergum, eminent neurologist, and one of the late President Wilson's physicians, was summoned in consultation.

Still the gallant warrior that won him the distinguished service award for the offensives in the engagements of Ypres and the Somme, he fought desperately for life until the end against the odds of a weakened heart and a state of utter exhaustion.

Lawrence Davis Tyson was born July 4, 1861, on a farm near Greenville, N. C. He was the son of Richard Lawrence and Margaret Louise (Turnage) Tyson. He married Bettie H. McGee, of Knoxville, February, 1886. Two children, Charles McGee Tyson and Isabella M. Tyson survive the union. His only son married Miss Bettie Carson, of New York, volunteered and was lieutenant in the Naval Air Service, and was killed in the World War. Isabella M. Tyson married Kenneth N. Gilpin, Boyce, Va.

General Tyson was graduated from West Point in 1883, and was assigned to the Ninth Regiment United States Infantry. He served 12 years in Wyoming, Kansas, Arizona, New York, New Mexico, and Tennessee. He was professor of military science and tactics at the University of Tennessee. He graduated in law at the University of Tennessee with the degree of B. L. He received his honorary degrees LL.D. from Tusculum College, 1925, and the University of the South, 1928. He resigned his United States army commission in 1895 to practice law in Knoxville. He volunteered for the Spanish American war in 1898 and was appointed by President McKinley as colonel of the Sixth Regiment, United States Volunteer Infantry, which he took to Porto Rico for service. He was mustered out of service March 15th, 1899. He was later interested in the National Guard of Tennessee and was brigadier general and inspector general under four governors. He volunteered at the outbreak of the World War and was commissioned brigadier general in command of National Guard troops of Tennessee. He was later commissioned by President Wilson as brigadier general, and assigned to the Fifty-ninth Brigade, Thirtieth Division, composed of men from Tennessee, and embarked for France May 10, 1918, in command of the Thirtieth Division, landing at Calais. General Tyson participated in engagements as Canal Sector, Belgium, July 1 to August 30, 1918. He was in the Ypres-Lys offensive, Belgium, August 30 to September 2, 1918; the Somme offensive, France, September 5 to October 20, 1918. He embarked with the brigade for the United States March 15, 1919, and was mustered out of service April 16, 1919. He was awarded the distinguished service medal for exceptional meritorious and distinguished service. He re-engaged in business after the war, organized numerous industrial plants and was at the head of them for many years. He was also interested in other business enterprises, and was constantly more or less active in politics. General Tyson was elected to the Legislature of Tennessee in 1903 and was made speaker of the House. He was delegate at large to the Democratic National Convention in 1908. He received 62 votes for United States Senator in the legislature of 1913, 67 votes being necessary for choice. He was endorsed in 1920 by Tennessee for the Democratic nomination for vice-president. He was nominated in the Democratic State primary, August, 1924 for United States Senator. He was elected as United States Senator, November 4th, 1924, over Judge H. B. Lindsay, Republican nominee. His term would have expired March 3, 1931.

TURNER OFF ON FLIGHT ACROSS UNITED STATES

Flier With Four Passengers Attempts to Break East to West Flight Record.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Captain Roscoe Turner with four passengers took off from here at 6:21 a. m. E. S. T., today in an attempt to break the east-to-west transcontinental flight record. The record which Captain Turner seeks to lower is 19 hours 10 minutes and 32 seconds, held by Captain Frank M. Hawks. Captain Turner planned to make stops for fuel at Cincinnati Ohio, Tulsa, Okla., and Albuquerque, N. M., his destination is Glendale, Calif.

He flew here Wednesday from Glendale in 19 hours, 53 minutes, the flight was to demonstrate the feasibility of one-day trans-continental passenger air service. On the eastward trip he made four stops and carried Fred O. Troser and Gussell Pecht of Los Angeles and Dr. R. Lane of Berkeley, Calif., and H. C. Gatty of Los Angeles. They made the return trip. The start of the westward trip was delayed about two hours by a slight accident to the plane, when a mechanic at the field backed an automobile into the tail of the plane, slightly damaging one of the fins. A heavy fog hung over the field at the take off. Captain Turner said he hoped to reach Glendale in about 17 hours with 15 minutes stops at the refueling points.

JACKSON IS WINNER OF NOTE CASE

Ayden Man Recovers Amount Paid to J. C. Raspberry in Land Deal.

R. G. Jackson, Ayden township farmer, won out in his suit against J. C. Raspberry, Kinston banker, in the civil term of Pitt county Superior court which came to a conclusion in this city yesterday. Attorneys for Jackson and Raspberry reached a compromise after the case had consumed more than a day in court and had received attention of the jury. The compromise provided that Raspberry should pay to Jackson the sum of $1,700. The original suit was for $2,500.

The case originated over the purchase by Jackson of a piece of farm land in the Ayden community. He is said to have given the Kinston banker $2,500 worth of notes in the deal and that when the time came to close negotiations the deed called for the wrong piece of property.

Jackson is alleged to have asked Raspberry to return his notes or to make the deed call for the piece of property they had first agreed upon. This Raspberry failed to do and Jackson immediately appealed to the court for relief.

READY TO END TARIFF FIGHT BY DECEMBER

Both Democrats and Republicans Want Decision Before Congress Convenes.

Washington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The contending tariff factions in the Senate are again protesting a willingness to bring the issue to a decision before the regular session begins in December.

Leaders of the Democrats and the Republican independents give this informal assurance coincident with the rumor of the threat from the Republican camp that unless the tariff bill is acted upon by January 1, it will be laid aside until next year's political campaigns are over.

That threat seems to have emanated from high authority in the administration leadership at the capitol, which neither confirms nor denies it. The administration apparently is determined not to have that controversy over such a vital issue dragged along and injected into the primary campaigns which begin next year. The Republican leadership also holds that President Hoover deserves to have his program for the extra session acted upon during that session and other work attended to in the regular session.

Democratic leaders have replied that they concur. Their answer is that they feel that Republican tariff bill is good campaign material for the Democrats and they are ready to settle the question in Congress and go to the polls on the result. Also, the Democrats say they are willing that Mr. Hoover's extra session program be disposed of in the extra session.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, a spokesman for the western Republicans who are opposed to the tariff measure framed by the administration Republicans, says he has no intention of delaying a final vote. "As a matter of fact," he declared "if that bill were re-written in 10 days to meet my views I would be ready to vote upon it."

Whether President Hoover would concur in the rumored proposal to put the tariff bill aside after the first of the year if not accepted upon then, is problematical, and none of his advisers at the capitol will hazard a guess.

EXPORT LEAF PLANT BUILDS BIG ADDITION

Large Additions Made to Main Building and Storage Department.

Continuing their building program which has been in progress during each summer for the past several years, the local plant of the Export Tobacco Co., has just completed one of the largest additions made to their local unit since operating at the Greenville market.

The improvements include additions to their main building as well as the storage department. And they now have a combined floor space of 150,000 square feet which is one of the largest in the bright leaf belt. Other improvements include the installation of another refrying machine as well as various equipment necessary in the operation of the factory.

The Export Tobacco Company is one of the largest buyers of the bright leaf on the Greenville market and they employ a force of several hundred laborers, and have a handling capacity of about one-quarter of a million pounds of tobacco daily, which will equal, if not exceed that of any large buying interest of the east.

Mr. A. E. Hogswood who has served the local department as manager and chief buyer for several years, will continue in such capacity the coming season, and other buyers representing the company include V. E. Wells and W. S. Cleary, Jr. R. B. Greene will continue as head bookkeeper and head of the office force while A. W. Hodnett has been retained as factory manager.

Bruce Sugg Discusses Tobacco Situation At Meeting Of Kiwanians

The great part which the tobacco industry is playing in the development of Greenville and Pitt county was set forth in an interesting way at the regular twice-a-month meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis club last night by B. E. Sugg, one of the best known tobaccoists in Greenville. Mr. Sugg not only told of the rapid growth which the market had experienced in past years, but showed the Kiwanians how they might use their influence in making this growth more permanent in the years to come.

The program last night was scheduled to have been in charge of Guy Smith, Mr. Sugg's associate in the tobacco business, but he was called out of the city unexpectedly and could not fill his engagement at the club. President Ralph Deal was at a loss to know what to do in the emergency, but he appealed to Mr. Sugg to come to the rescue which he did in a way that left no doubt as to his ability as a pinch hitter, not only in the tobacco industry which he has followed since he was knee-high, but as an impromptu speaker whose mass of knowledge about the tobacco market stood him in good stead last night.

Aside from the usual supper, the singing of club songs, with Miss Edna Smith acting as instrumental accompanist, the Kiwanians heard President Deal tell of the annual district Kiwanian convention to be held in Atlanta during the month of November, after which Mr. Sugg and Jack Kilgo were invited to present some information in connection with the tobacco industry.

Mr. Sugg started out by saying that tobacco was an old, old story to the people of this section, but one that presented many new phases with the coming of each season. He told of the rapid growth of the market during the period between 1924 and 1928, showing that the Greenville market during that four-year period had increased its sales from 28,000,000 to 71,000,000 pounds. He said tobacco was the chief money crop of the section and there fore demanded more widespread interest than any other form of industry. Every man, woman and child is vitally affected by the success of the crop each season, he declared, as their financial condition is largely determined by the way the bright leaf sells.

The Greenville market has grown more than any other market in the state, the speaker pointed out. The

Several Buildings Destroyed by Fire At Spokane, Wash

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A mass of glowing embers causing damage estimated from $350,000 to $500,000 was all that remained here today of a dozen dwelling houses, an apartment building, a sanitarium and the storage and fuel yard of the McGoldrick Lumber company. They were destroyed when an unexplained blaze started early last night in a lumber pile and soon was whipped into a conflagration by a gale-like wind.

Every piece of fire fighting equipment in the city together with a pumper from Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, fought the blaze for six hours before it was brought under control. Industrial property, including factories and warehouses, worth several million dollars, was menaced. Three firemen were treated in hospitals for injuries.

Twenty patients in the Payne sanitarium, raised soon after the fire started, were taken from their beds and the first tongue of flame was licking the sides of the building. Children in a nearby orphanage were taken to safety, but a shift in the wind saved the building.

Forest Fires Still Raging In Montana

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 24.—Fanned by high winds, the half moon forest fire which already has burned over 75,000 acres of timberland, today was spreading beyond control of hundreds of fighters.

The Lewis Hotel, at the head of Lake McDonald, was evacuated last night, and it was feared would be destroyed by the fire. The blaze is the most disastrous of any in the state this season.

Endurance Plane Still Moving Over Chicago, Illinois

Chicago, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The triplane "Chicago-We Will," which took off at 11:31 a. m. (CDT) yesterday on an endurance flight to seek the world's record, now held by the "St. Louis Robin," was soaring over the Sky Harbor airport early today with every indication that all was well with the pilots, C. E. Steele and Russell Mosman. Two refueling contacts were made yesterday and the third was scheduled for this morning.

The "Chicago-We Will" previously made two attempts to break the record, but landed each time after less than four hours of flying. Wilson Herrin, who accompanied the other two on the previous flights, held the flip of a coin and yesterday was left on the ground.

Speaking of the improvements being made on the Greenville market to care for the millions of pounds of tobacco sold here from year to year, he pointed out that all of the large factories were enlarging their plants in an effort to give quicker service than ever before. The companies are spending millions of dollars in development of this market because they have faith in it as one of the greatest tobacco markets in the country.

Mr. Kileo said the growth of the local market was due largely to the spirit of fellowship existing among the tobaccoists and the business men of Greenville. He urged them to continue to pull together and to realize the responsibility resting upon them in this connection.

GRAF ZEPPELIN CRUISING OVER PACIFIC TODAY

Big Airship Headed Toward Los Angeles on Third Lap of Trip Around World.

San Francisco, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Boring her way through thick fog near the center of the north Pacific the dirigible Graf Zeppelin today rapidly approached the half-way mark in her pioneer flight from Tokyo to the United States.

In touch with radio stations on both sides of the Pacific, the bulky mistress of the air was able to make the most of weather reports. The story of the flight pieced together from wireless messages intercepted in American shores, showed that the airship was increasing her speed, heading more directly east all the time at an altitude of 1,300 feet above the water.

A message sent by the dirigible at 4 a. m. (E. S. T.) gave word that the ship had covered 1,660 miles in the little more than 24 hours since leaving Japan. She was making 60 knots (about 37 miles an hour).

Maintaining that pace she would reach the American coast some time Monday. At that time she had averaged better than 62 miles an hour since leaving Tokyo. This takes into account her slow progress during the first few hours of the flight.

Flies were swarmed near the 170th eastern longitude line as the dirigible approached that area but there was something in the elements in the air which kept the airship from being bothered through the flight. The weather was of the best of the stratosphere.

Reports of the dirigible's position indicated that she was steadily making her way toward the Hawaiian Isles. At the outset of the flight the great dirigible seemed to be in the best of the weather conditions. Up to this morning she had had generally a more favorable sailing, getting 22 knots of the wind which circle in a westerly direction toward the east.

Arrival of the dirigible at the 170th meridian of longitude east of Greenwich marked completion of almost one-third of the distance between Tokyo and Los Angeles as mapped by the dirigible's course. Technically the dirigible will leave the stratosphere and cross the international date line at the 180th meridian. Maintaining her present speed she should arrive there between 4 and 5 p. m. (E. S. T.) today.

Local Youth Hurt When He Jumps off Top of Freight Car

Jack Gurley, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gurley is confined in the Pitt Community hospital in this city today suffering from a broken leg and other injuries received when he jumped from the top of a freight car to the tracks on one of the local railroad yards yesterday afternoon. Aside from breaking his left leg between the knee and the thigh, the young man suffered severe cuts and bruises about the face and arms.

The youth and several companions had been jumping from the top of the cars to another car loaded with sand during the morning. Yesterday afternoon they returned to resume play, not noticing that the carload of sand had been shifted to another part of the yards. Young Gurley ran along the tops of the cars and jumped before he discovered that the car of sand had been moved.

He was immediately rushed to the local hospital where he received medical aid. He was reported as getting along nicely today.

personalities count. There is a very grave danger here. The great Republic of free people is about to have history and a new day, a new order of things, before us. Is it going to be good for us or is it going to consume us as a people? As I see it the hope is in the public school.

The people of America see this and are going to demand an equal educational opportunity for all the children of all the people. I believe the folks in America understand it. It may not be in their thinking in the words that I have used in presenting it to you today, but the American people realize that the hope of this nation of ours is in an educated citizenship.

The octopus of centralization sees its danger lies in the public education and so a nationwide attack is being made upon the public school. This comes from Cleveland, Ohio.

At the close of Dr. Wright's address Dr. L. R. Meadows, Director of summer school read the following list of names to receive diplomas:

BROTHERHOOD

By The Rev. Arthur T. Eaton, (Pastor of the Laurelhurst Christian Church, Portland, Ore.)

The church's message is "brotherhood." Her business is to interpret that message in terms of life, seeking, lifting, serving, loving, saving. It is a message of universal brotherhood and its divinity is proved by the God-like scope of its operations.

Brotherhood is a word big and beautiful, with the promise in it of a new heaven and a new earth. Without it, neither is possible.

Without a realized brotherhood, whatever our creed, our theology, there is no true church, no possibility of a kingdom of God on earth.

AIR TRIUMPHS AND TRAGEDIES

Having twice crossed the continent without touching wheel to earth, the crew of the airplane Sun God had enough energy left to circle over the landing field at Seattle for some hours and give a final exhibition of the method of refueling in air before they were ordered down. Mamer and Walker are to be congratulated upon having broken all records of sustained distance flight, and especially upon the fact that in order to do this they took no risks. By refueling in the air they did not need to risk their necks by overloading with gas.

While the Seattle flyers were accomplishing this creditable feat there were sad examples of less well-considered attempts at air mastery. At the very beginning of the women's air derby there were complaints of the inadequacy of the first landing place provided, followed by charges of sabotage to the machines in the airports. The death of Miss Crosson, the precise manner of which may never be known, saddened the whole country and called wider attention to the grievances of the contestants. Meanwhile, Oscar Kaeser and Kurt Luescher, two inexperienced Swiss lads, who had set out from Lisbon to cross the Atlantic in a plane which experts thought unequal to the task, were long overdue. They may have landed in some remote spot; they may be afloat in the rubber suits prepared against disaster; it is more likely that they are lost, another sad proof of the recklessness of such undertakings.—New York World.

ABOUT TOWN

"It is gratifying to note that the soliciting committee of the Merchants Association is meeting with such marked success in raising the $3,500 for the local advertising campaign," declared a business man today.

"The last report from the committee indicated that they had raised practically half of the desired amount and hoped to complete their work by next Tuesday.

"This indicates that Greenville business and professional men are contributing liberally to this great cause, and are fully cognizant of the great good obtained through advertising in recent years.

"It is said that the program for the present year is decidedly more ambitious than in previous years, and this is taken to mean that the Merchants Association is reaching out in an effort to enable the city to experience even greater growth than in the past."

"That Carolina league is certainly furnishing a fast brand of ball these days," said a citizen yesterday, talking about some of the games he had witnessed on his home-town diamond.

"I have seen many a game in my day about that one last Thursday was about the most spectacular I ever saw before. Macleesfield nosed out Fountain by the score of 3 to 0 after Rose furnished one of the most brilliant pitching exhibitions seen on the circuit this season.

"Numbers of players of the Eastern Carolina league who haven't been able to make the grade on that circuit, have joined the Carolina league and they are showing up splendidly. In fact, Rose, Macleesfield hurler, is a former member of the Greenville club. He not only showed great form in blanking Fountain but he also provided the necessary hit to score the only three runs of the game.

"People in our section are intensely interested in the way the boys are playing and even the busy farmers find time to drop their work in the fields to attend a majority of the games."

"It seems as if the sheriff and his department are planning to clean up the rum-running business in the county judging by the number of captures made during the past few weeks," remarked a citizen today.

"Several stills have fallen into the hands of the officers during recent raids and three of four operators are now awaiting court action charged with whiskey manufacture.

"The captures are severe blow to the traffic this season of the year when practically every still is working full time in order to provide enough booze for consumers during the fall and winter months. With the easing up of money in the fall, the appetites of the drinker increases and the demand for good whiskey is greater than any other season of the year.

"Somebody has said that two stills go in operation every time one is captured. But this is a mistake as any sane-minded person should know. The bootleggers are not immensely rich and when the stills of the majority are captured they are unable to replace them because of lack of finances.

"With the officers holding out a dragnet of this kind at one of the busiest seasons of the year it is going to be more difficult than ever before for the whiskey element to carry on its traffic. It is a dangerous business at the best and it is doubly dangerous now with the sleuths of the sheriff's department, augmented by township constables and city police, are attempting to break up the traffic."

"It was fitting that a tobaccoist like Bruce Sugg should have been the principal speaker of the program at the Kiwanis club last night when the subject of tobacco was featured," said a member of the club today.

"Bruce knows tobacco and what is more, he knows the people who produce it, the people who buy it, and the people who use it, therefore, he was in position to furnish many interesting facts regarding the industry."

"The discussion of the major industry of the season always holds interest for the public, and that last night was no exception. Kiwanians who knew that Greenville was rated as one of the greatest bright leaf centers in the world were amazed at the magnitude of the industry as presented by hose on the program.

"It was a big night for tobacco, a big night for Kiwanians, and a night that should be instrumental in causing numbers of men to more fully appreciate the greatness of an industry that takes first place in the wealth of the community."

"June Rose, superintendent of city schools, has as many worries as anybody in town, and all of them are not confined exclusively to teaching and preaching," remarked a citizen today, noticing the write-up in the Reflector regarding the delay in opening the schools this session.

"Just about the time the school head was getting everything all lined up for his opening September 9th, along came the contractors in charge of erecting the Fourth street building to say that they would not be able to get their work done by the 16th, and that they were not sure it would be done by the 18th.

"That sounds trivial to other people, but to June Rose it means the disruption of plans for his opening, and when you upset plans of this kind you have done something in which hundreds of children in and around Greenville are intensely interested as well as the superintendent.

"But Mr. Rose has met the emergency in a way that will prevent delay longer than the 16th of the month. He plans to shift classes in such way to enable him to get along somehow until the new building is completed and then he expects to settle down to normal and accomplish more than any other session in years."

Death Treasure by R. A. J. WALLING

SYNOPSIS: Pell was murdered—and not one of seven witnesses to his death could tell who fired the fatal shot. Inspector Wayne's search of all fails to reveal a pistol. No one else has been in the room where Pell played his dramatic scene climaxed by death—his threatening of Parson Marling, most bitter of Pell's five enemies among the seven. Pell's promise to produce a "ghost." The police grasp eagerly at a startling theory—that Pell was shot through the keyhole as he stooped to unbolt the door. Another mystery—Professor Laxton was knocked unconscious by an unseen assailant in the corridor. Tom Grenofen returns home from the death scene and finds Mrs. Seabroke with a peculiar request—one that involves her daughter, Veronica, whom Grenofen loves.

Chapter 12 A WOMAN'S INTRIGUE

Mrs. Seabroke's peculiar agitation and strange request were uppermost in my thoughts during dinner. My mother did not appear to observe my abstraction and did not mention Newplace until she had seen me well through my food. Then—"That Professor Laxton—"

"He seems a remarkable man. Is he coming back here tonight?" That was a startling possibility which had not occurred to me. But I thought not. When the police had finished with him, Laxton would probably go to the inn where he had left his car, or he might even drive back to London.

"My yes," said my mother, "he is a night-bird, isn't he?" So at least one person knew of our escapade the night before! I got away at half past nine and walked out through the sand dunes to the little cliffs past the Seabrokes'. I had not reluctance to meet Veronica, whatever the occasion. But the more I reflected upon Mrs. Seabroke's commission, the stranger it appeared.

First, if Veronica had been visiting in Hollam Bay the most natural thing for her to do would be to take the train to Blackwater. Ruling out the train, a taxi. Ruling out both, to walk home by the road, which was three miles shorter. Walking seven miles round the coast as a late evening excursion was, to say the least, eccentric.

But I should not have hogged over it save for Mrs. Seabroke's manner of making the request. And I should have forgotten all about both if I had met Veronica at 10 o'clock stepping out in her customary business-like style. The meeting with Veronica was very different.

On the 25th of June, not far off the longest day of the year, ten o'clock at night is broad daylight. At the very turn where I had stopped in the morning I looked ahead and saw Veronica standing on the cliff, as if she had never moved since. She might have seen me again quite plainly but again she made no movement. This time I walked on and up to her.

Veronica held out her hand. "Your mother told me," said I, "you'd be coming back this way." She asked me to meet you and tell you a rather sad and startling bit of news—"About poor Mr. Pell I suppose," said Veronica, amazing me. "Oh, it's all over the place." "Even in Hollam Bay already?" "Idaresay—well, yes of course in Hollam Bay. Has father got back yet?"

"Undoubtedly." "I told mother you were an understanding person, Mr. Grenofen."

"Mrs. Seabroke was good enough to pass on the compliment, but this evening I feel that I deserve it less than ever. Believe me, Miss Seabroke, I understand nothing. In 24 hours since I saw you back there, half a dozen astounding things have happened and I comprehend not one of them."

"But," said Veronica, "you understand enough to realize when two women are in grievous trouble, don't you?"

"I hope I should never fall a woman in trouble, Miss Seabroke."

Veronica looked me straight in the eyes. "I don't think you ever would But do you think I am capable of asking you to do anything wrong?—morally wrong, I mean."

"No," I answered. "I don't think you would ask me to do anything you considered morally wrong."

Veronica looked along the path to the right and left, and back over the cliff waste behind us.

"Mr. Grenofen," she said, "I've had a man concealed near by."

"I am not surprised—I saw him this morning. He dodged down a moment too late."

"You were not nearly so understanding this morning as you are now," said she.

"I gaped for an instant, and then it broke on me."

"Your mother—" "Didn't say where you could find me for nothing. But you didn't come on. So I couldn't tell you. And stranger it appeared."

Her breast heaved. "Mr. Grenofen," she went on. "I'm going to ask you to take me on trust and help this man. I wish you not to see him—simply because I don't want you to be compelled to lie about him."

It may even be that if Veronica had said to me bluntly, "Look here, I'm concealing a murderer and I want you to help me," I should have have answered, "Right!"

But she did not put it that way; if I had sought a crafty excuse for my conduct, I could have said to myself, "Veronica never told me anything about this man, and how was I to know?"

Still it was useless to try to justify oneself. The coincidences of this endless day were too powerful. Accordingly I disregarded all ulterior consequences and satisfied myself with the gratitude of Veronica's blue eyes.

What did it matter? The Seabrokes might have had some connection with Pell in the past. The Seabrokes might be mixed up with the mysterious person whom we called Pell's ghost.

The very man I was now asked to protect might have lurked that afternoon in the dark passage to Fotherbury's wine cellar. And still I should have put my confidence in Veronica's blue eyes.

Even so, the next thing she said was startling.

"I want to ask you, if you go home and find your mother entertaining an old friend of her family of whom you've never heard, not to look astonished, but just fall in with everything and pick up every cue."

"At Woodcot?" I gasped when I realized the intention of this.

"Yes, at Woodcot." "My mother!" I gasped.

"Yes, your mother. She's a tramp."

She's even more understanding than her son." So my mother was in it! This monstrous conspiracy of women! First, Mrs. Seabroke's unwelcome perturbation, her strange request. Then Veronica—her hidden companion—her unusual conduct all day. And finally—my mother's party to this intrigue. The ghost of Roger Pell had started to dog my footsteps, to haunt the dreams that formerly concerned themselves only with Veronica Seabroke's blue eyes. (Copyright, 1929, Wm. Morrow Co.)

HERMAN SETS FAST PACE IN THE NATIONAL

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—Babe Herman, the Brooklyn super-slugger, continues to set a dizzy pace at the head of the National league batting table, this week with 409 according to figures issued today including games of last Wednesday.

Frank O'Doul, the Philadelphia puncher, has made important gains upon Herman, and this week rests only eleven points out of the lead at 398.

Other leading regulars are: Terry, New York, 385; Hornsby, Chicago, 362; Traynor, Pittsburgh, and Hendrick, Brooklyn, 385; Klein, Philadelphia, 357; L. Waner, Pittsburgh, 353; Frisch, St. Louis, 348; and Stubby Leon, Chicago, 346.

Hornsby leads in runs scored with 112, and Ott of New York, in runs batted in with 117. O'Doul has the greatest total of hits, 186, and Fredrick of Brooklyn the largest crop of doubles, 41.

L. Waner sets the pace in 15 triples, and Klein with 10 in line runs. Kiki Cuyler of St. Louis is out in front with 31 stolen bases.

Burleigh Grimes slipped back to the top of the pitching chart when Guy Bush lost a 4 to 1 decision to the Giants at the Polo Grounds on Tuesday. That defeat left Bush with a record of 17 victories and 3 losses for a percentage of .850; while Grimes retained his record of 16 games won and only two lost.

Philadelphia leads in team batting with .307, and has two rivals in the 300 class—Pittsburgh and Chicago which rest just even with the 300 mark. New York is only three points away.

The Cubs lead in team fielding with .975, one point more than the Giants can show. Cincinnati is one point behind New York.

Winston-Salem Beats Pointers

(By the Associated Press.)

Winston-Salem defeated High Point 4 to 3 yesterday in the Piedmont league's only game, rain halting the Durham-Salisbury and the Greensboro-Henderson battles.

The Twins broke an old jinx that Howard Conklin has held over them in winning from the Pointers. Conklin held them scoreless in the first three innings, but was touched for hits regularly in the latter frames. Rain in the Twins' half of the ninth broke up the game and caused a timmer to lose credit for a homer smacked just before the show was broke.

Wilmington halted Rocky Mount's winning dash at the head of the Eastern Carolina by taking both ends of a double header in the seaside city. The Pirates rallied for three runs in the seventh and for the same number again in the eighth to take the first game 7 to 6, and then jumped on Patterson in the early innings of the second to win it 6 to 4.

Greenville outdid Goldsboro 19 to 7, but failed to get the necessary blows in the pinches and lost 3 to 1. The Bugs backed up Coltrane with a pair of double plays.

The Highlanders hit at opportune times to defeat Kinston 3 to 1. Thomas limited the Pirates to six safeties and got errorless support.

Knoxville Regains Lead in the Sally

Atlanta, Aug. 24 (AP)—Knoxville regained the lead in the South Atlantic Association by trimming Greenville 13 to 2 before an Anderson, South Carolina, crowd, while the Augusta Wolves were losing to Columbia. Frank Waddy led the Smoke attack with two homers and a pair of singles. The difference between the two teams for first place is one-half game.

Columbia scored runs in the last two innings to break a tie and eke out a 4 to 2 win over Augusta. The Wolves rallied in the seventh for all of the runs.

Charlotte turned back Macon 5 to 4 in 11 innings to remain in the leadership race. Jim Richardson held the Bees to nine hits, but wildness in the early innings cost him heavily.

Rain stopped the Asheville-Spartanburg game.

FOXX STILL LEADS RACE IN AMERICAN

Chicago, Aug. 24. (AP)—The familiar figure of Jimmy Foxx, the Philadelphia first baseman, remains in the van of the American league batting procession, a position Connie Mack's all-around star has owned except for a two-day interruption since the first week in June.

Figures released today, which include Wednesday's games, give Foxx an average of .382, one point shy of last week's mark.

Since Héinie Mahush of St. Louis topped Foxx in July, the Athletic slugger has connected consistently, while candidates for the runner-up position have changed frequently.

Low Ponceca, Cleveland first baseman, finished the week in second place, 13 points behind Foxx, having passed Al Simmons. The latter dropped to third through a loss of nine points during the week.

Regulars follow Foxx and Ponceca were: Simmons, Philadelphia, .365; Manush, St. Louis, .362; Combs, New York, .362; Lazzeri, New York, .356; Ruth, New York, .354; Pothergill, Detroit, .354; Hellmann, Detroit, .348; Dickey, New York, .343.

Cudahy, Forces $5,000 Fine
Los Angeles, Aug. 24. (AP)—Michael J. P. Cudahy, 21, son of the late Jack Cudahy, meat packing official, today faced a fine of $5,000 recommended by a jury which last night found him guilty of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Sentence will be pronounced on the youth next Tuesday. The court is bound to the decision of the jury in fixing the fine, which came after three hours of deliberation.

BUGS BEAT GREENIES

Goldsboro, Aug. 24.—Superior base running and ability to hit in the pinches enabled Goldsboro to take the opening game of the series from Greenville here yesterday 3 to 1.

Both teams played a superb game in the field, but the locals got the better of the visitors even in this department by completing two double plays. The visitors out hit the Bugs but were unable to make the bingles count, except that lone tally in the ninth stanza.

Anders, on the mound for the Greenies, pitched a nice game allowing only seven hits. He made a wild pitch, however, allowing one runner to score. The visitors nicked Paul Coltrane for ten smacks.

Nalbock led the Greenie offensive with two hits in three trips to bat. Zip King was the only Bug player to get more than one bingle. He secured two out of four trips.
