PLANS FOR NEW LIBRARY TAKE DEFINITE FORM

Wilmington Architect Talks With Library Committee Regarding $50,000 Structure

Mr. Lester N. Boney, of Wilmington, N. C., architect who has charge of the drafting of plans for the $50,000 Sheppard Memorial Library building in the city yesterday conferring with members of the library board and the building committee regarding details for the new building.

Members of the committee reported today that satisfactory progress had been made and that the plans would be ready to submit to the board in the near future.

The new library is the gift of Mr. Frank D. Sheppard, of Hanover, Pa., and is a memorial to his father, a former official of Pitt county. The site of $50,000 was paid over to the library commission some time ago, and since that time plans for construction have been rapidly assuming form.

While some difficulty was at first incurred in finding a suitable location for the new building, the committee at last decided upon the old Evans street school site and the school board donated the location to the city to be used for the library.

The location is to be ratified at the next session of the legislature. Members of the committee said that little time would be lost in beginning construction as soon as the plans are submitted and approved. Bids will be advertised and contracts awarded as hurriedly as possible, and at the latest, construction work will be well under way by the end of the year.

Pantages Trial Is Continued Until Monday Morning

Los Angeles, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Bombardment of the state's contention that Mrs. Louis Pantages was intoxicated when her automobile crashed into the car of Juro Rokumoto last June, fatally injuring the Japanese, temporarily was stilled today by adjournment over the week-end of Mrs. Pantages' trial for second degree murder.

In a day and a half of testimony, defense witnesses attacked the state's contention with a vigorous barrage of testimony furthering attempts of Mrs. Pantages' counsel to show that she was neither intoxicated nor responsible for the accident which the state charges caused the death of Rokumoto.

Phillip Esterly, a chauffeur employed by a film producer, carried the defense case to its climax yesterday by stating under oath that Rokumoto's car turned directly into the path of the machine driven by the wife of Alexander Pantages, vaudeville impresario. He also mentioned a third automobile having forced Mrs. Pantages toward the left side of the street, but said he could not identify it.

A desperate attempt on the part of Deputy District Attorney James Costello failed to break down the story told by Esterly. Costello charged him with having withheld information.

Eight More Warrants Out For Bootleggers In Raid By Federal Officers Here

Efforts of prohibition enforcement officers to roundup additional members of the illicit whiskey traffic of this county continued here today. It was indicated that warrants had been issued for eight more men all of whom are expected to be brought before U. S. Commissioner Thomas E. Beaman for hearing sometime today or early next week.

The arrests will bring the total number captured during the raid up to 53, a majority of whom were captured during the wholesale raids conducted by federal, county and city officers Thursday. Virtually all of the bootleggers, except the eight named in the warrants in the hands of officers today, have been given preliminary hearing before Commissioner Beaman and bound over to the next term of Federal court under bonds ranging from $500 to $1,000.

Government officers stated that they were highly pleased at the successful outcome of the raids, and expressed belief that the capture would have a salutary effect on the various communities involved. Some of the traffic members are old offenders, having handled whiskey through filling stations and stores located on the several highways of the county over a period of many months, and possible, even years.

The federal officers also heartily commended members of the county and city law enforcement departments for the splendid service they rendered in making the roundup possible. The co-operation of these officers, said M. Caudle, Deputy prohibition commissioner of this district, who had charge of the raid, cannot be too highly commended. They rendered invaluable assistance at all times and greatly facilitated the general roundup Thursday. The drive was the most far-reaching

FORTY HELD IN RIOTING AT NEW YORK

Police on Alert Today to Prevent Recurrence of Riots in Harlem

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Police were on the alert today to prevent further disturbances after a series of riots in connection with Communist street meetings which resulted in 40 arrests within 24 hours.

Reserves battled a crowd of 2,000 whites and negroes in Harlem last night when police attempted to break up a Communist open-air meeting, which they said was being held without a permit. Eight were arrested. The meeting had been called to further the candidacy of a negro Communist candidate for Congress.

Earlier in the day 20 were arrested, including Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker, a radical publication, during a Communist demonstration in front of the Mexican consulate on 34th street near the Pennsylvania station. The battle was precipitated when a mounted patrolman pulled a speaker from a packing case. Another promptly mounted the box and attempted to speak. Orators and arrests followed in quick succession until nine had been pulled from the makeshift rostrum. The speakers attacked the Mexican government for deportation of radicals.

Mr. Parker was 77 years of age and had been ill about a month when a turn for the worse in his condition brought about his death. He is survived by his wife, three daughters and one son, Mrs. T. R. Sugg, Mrs. Frank Eason, of Snow Hill, Mrs. Jack Thomas, Hookerton, and W. G. Parker, Jr., of Ayden. He was a native of Pitt county, having been reared on a farm in the Bell's Cross Roads community.

Probe Of Mob Violence Continues At Charlotte; Hear Story Of Flogging

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—It was just midnight when Ben Wells, British textile worker and organizer for the National Textile Workers Union in this section, was flogged R. B. McDonald, Cabarrus county fox hunter told Judge Thomas J. Shaw of Mecklenburg Superior court, on resumption today of Judge Shaw's inquiry into Mob violence of last Monday.

McDonald said that he and Forrest Leigh were fox hunting last Monday night when they saw three cars going toward Concord. He said that they heard noises like men being lashed and went to the spot where the automobiles had been seen.

They found three men, two of whom were identified in the courtroom as C. D. Saylor and C. M. Lell. The third, McDonald said, could hardly walk.

Saylor, Lell and Ben Wells were kidnapped by a mob from a Gastonia boarding house and carried to a point several miles from Concord in Cabarrus county. Wells was flogged. The three were released when McDonald and Leigh were heard approaching. McDonald said that the men told him they had been beaten and that one man said he could identify four of the floggers.

The men then started walking toward Concord, McDonald said. Attorneys representing the fourteen Gastonia men arrested Thursday night after a private inquiry in Judge Shaw's chambers, did not cross-examine McDonald.

Judge Shaw's inquiry was delayed this morning by the inability of Solicitor John G. Carpenter to reach court at the set. Mr. Carpenter's wife is critically ill at Gastonia. Lell and Saylor also had to attend court in the city records court to answer a charge placed against them after police and deputy sheriffs seized a quantity of arms and ammunition Thursday night when they arrested eight men.

Dewey Martin, one of the defendants in the conspiracy case continued in City court this morning, was brought from the county jail. Martin told Judge Shaw he was in Charlotte the night the Gastonia mob visited the international labor defense offices in the Arcade building.

Martin said that several glass windows and doors in the office were broken but that he did not see the breaking.

"Did they tear up any papers in the Arcade," Solicitor Carpenter asked.

"I don't know," Martin replied. "I wasn't dumb enough to go into that mob."

Two boys who were with him went into the mob, however, he said and they were asked by mob members what they wanted and what they were doing.

Martin said one boy was named Frank Grayson. The solicitor ordered the sheriff to summon Grayson to court.

Martin told Attorney John A. Morse, of the defense counsel, that he spoke at a meeting in North Charlotte several days ago.

"What did you say?" asked Morse. "I said it was the duty of every union member to be present at the South Gastonia meeting Saturday."

"Didn't you say all union members would be taken care of?"

"No, sir."

"You were arrested here a few nights ago?"

"Yes."

"Who was with you?"

"Eiley Ritch and Paul Shepard."

"How many guns did you see?"

"Four or five."

"Who brought them in?"

"I don't know."

PLAN TO CALL WITNESSES IN SHEARER CASE

Senate Naval Committee Prepares List For Consideration Next Week

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The formulation of a list of witnesses to be called in their investigation of charges of interference by American shipbuilders at the Disarmament conference at Geneva, by American shipbuilders were today called together the three members of the Senate Naval committee appointed to pursue the inquiry.

For its guidance, the sub-committee had before it copies of a document filed in the New York Supreme court by William B. Shearer, self-styled naval expert, in a suit for compensatory damages against three large shipbuilding corporations for services he alleged, he rendered them in opposing naval limitation at Geneva and elsewhere.

The disclosures of Shearer in bringing this action in which the Bethlehem shipbuilding corporation, The American Brown Boveri electric corporation and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company are defendants. Aroused President Hoover to the issuance of a public denunciation and brought on the sub-committee's inquiry and another by the Department of Justice at the specific command of the Chief Executive.

Senators Shortridge of California, and Allen of Kansas, Republicans, and Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic make up the sub-committee. It was indicated that Shearer himself would be the first witness to be called when hearing is opened next week, with directors of the three corporations following him on the stand. There was also a possibility that several high ranking officers of the navy might be asked to testify, should it develop that information which Shearer asserts he received from the Navy department prior to the Geneva conference was of an important or confidential nature.

With the administration planning a general disarmament conference for December, the sub-committee was determined to go to the bottom of the charges that it is investigating in the hope that its activities might have a part in preventing outside influences from affecting the trend of the coming perley.

IRISH OPPOSE LIMITING OF TARIFF RATES

First Stone Tossed into Machinery Looking to Confederation of States

Geneva, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The Irish Free State today tossed the first stone into the machinery being assembled for the limitation of European tariffs looking toward a European confederation of states when Prof. John O'Sullivan, speaking before a league committee, declared his country could not undertake to participate in a two-year tariff truce proposed by the British and French delegation at the League assembly.

The Saorstad already has set up a commission to study the demand for increased tariff to which the Irish government is pledged if the commission reports favorably on the demands said O'Sullivan. "Asking us to relinquish tariffs is equivalent to asking us to commit industrial and economic suicide," he added.

W. D. Euler, of Canada, reserved for his government entire freedom of action regarding the French and British proposal for a tariff truce. Part of the League assembly's work during today's afternoon session was to carry through to a final stage, so far as the League is concerned, the protocol for admission of the United States to the World Court for International Justice and at the same time to adopt the protocol for the revision of the statutes of this tribunal.

Speed Boat Driver and Mechanic Hurt As Boat Overturns

Venice, Italy, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Phil Wood, pilot of Miss America VII, and his mechanic, Orin Johnson, were injured when they were thrown from the boat during the competition for the Count Volp cup today. They were taken to a hospital. Wood was hurt about the hips and Johnson suffered from submersion. The America VII overturned and was removed from the competition with a split keel.

PRICES STILL FIRM ON LEAF MARKET HERE

Sales and Prices Here this Week Show Increase Over Opening Week

Official figures of activities on the Greenville tobacco market, made public this morning by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, indicate that the market during the week just closed sold more tobacco at a higher general average than during the opening week.

Sales for the week amounted to 3,044,184 pounds, bringing the season's total to 5,405,050. The amount paid out to the farmers during the week was estimated at $374,080.57 at a general average of $12.22. The total amount of money paid out by the market during the season was $653,246.81, with a general average of $12.98. This was somewhat less than for the same period last year.

The market disposed of 581,966 pounds in concluding sales of the week yesterday, and all floors were cleared by the early afternoon. The farmers were paid $73,565.11, at an average of $12.64.

The report of the supervisor of sales also showed that prices reflected decidedly more strength on certain grades of tobacco during the week just closed and this gave the general market average the first real boost upwards of the season. Bidding was described as more lively, two of the large buyers concern showing more activity than any other period since the opening.

Farmers were again urged to keep their tobacco as dry as possible and to carefully prepare it for marketing. Carefully graded tobacco properly marketed always receives more attention of the buyers than that not receiving similar attention, it was stated.

While there has been some good tobacco marketed from time to time during the last few days, the general price average has been held down considerably by large offerings of black tips and other inferior grades. The situation is expected to undergo a perceptible change with the offering of better grades during the next few weeks.

Trial Of Communists Continued Until Next Monday At Charlotte

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Acting over the protest of the defendants City Solicitor E. M. Curry, today continued until Monday the cases of eight men arrested here Thursday night and accused of conspiracy to overthrow the state government.

The defense in opposing the continuance charged that the continuance, which was granted at the request of the State was "merely a subterfuge to keep the defendants from performing their constitutional right in attending to their business in South Carolina today."

Bond for the eight was fixed at $1,000; Acting City Solicitor Merl E. Long and Edwin M. Bridges and A. B. Justice assisting him, argue that they had not had time to prepare their case.

The defense sought to have bond reduced to $500 each Judge Curry declining on the ground that there was a serious charge against them.

TARIFF BILL FIGHT IS STILL IN PROGRESS

Anxious to Avoid Delay, Senate Continues Sitting at Washington Today

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Anxious to avoid all possible delay in the consideration of the tariff bill, the Senate debate today dispensed with its usual Saturday holiday.

Although the administrative provisions of the measure framed by the Republicans of the finance committee were the official subject of debate, general attacks upon the bill by Democratic members and replies from the Republican side of the chamber were proving the accepted order of procedure.

Thus far, two Democrats, Simmons of North Carolina, the minority leader of the finance committee, and Harrison of Mississippi, together with Brookhart of Iowa, a member of the Independent Republican group that has allied itself with the Democrats in opposing the Republican measure, have assailed the bill with denunciatory speeches. There have been replies from Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, and several others.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, last night made his first public utterance on the Senate committee bill in a radio address asserting it was safe to assume that a measure would be passed very largely carrying out the ideas expressed by the President.

Recalling that the Underwood-Simmons tariff act, placed practically all agricultural products on the free list, Watson declared that the "very men who foisted that policy on the country are the ones who are now demanding the highest possible rates for these same agricultural products."

He argued that protests from foreign governments were no cause for alarm. "The bald fact is," he said, "that every time the American Congress has enacted a protective tariff measure, from Lincoln's day down to this time, foreign governments have interposed and have done their level best as far as they could under the conditions that surrounded them to prevent its enactment."

Murder Case Will Go to S. C. Jury Sometime Today

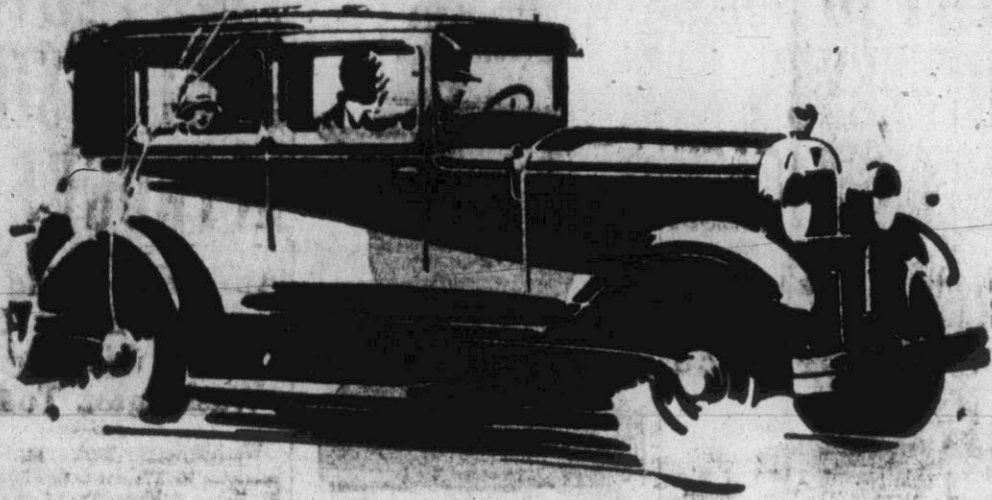

Anderson, S. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The case in which J. R. Thomas, Jr. is charged with killing his 15-year-old son, Maxie, was expected to be in the hands of a jury here sometime today. The defense likely will complete its evidence during the morning.

Dr. Francis Parker, chemist at the Medical College of South Carolina at Charleston, and William Schriener, another chemist, told the jury yesterday they found no poison in vital organs of the victim. Clemson College chemists had testified previously they found a small portion of poison in the boy's stomach.

Thomas himself took the stand and said he and his son, Maxie, were constant companions. That they were on the best of terms and that he took heavy insurance on him because he wanted his son to have something to start life on when he became of age. He testified he could not swim, and that when the boy fell in the river he was powerless to do anything other than run for help.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the many kindnesses shown us during the illness and death of our father, the late John E. Galloway. We shall never forget the loyalty of our many friends.
J. C. Galloway and Mrs. E. B. Galloway.

CORRECTION.
In the advertisement of Mose and Jaelt, Centre Brick Warehouse that appeared in this paper yesterday, a typographical error was made that changed entirely the meaning of one of the sentences in the ad. The way the ad appeared was that Messrs. Mose and Jaelt were making a fight to protect the interests of the farmers. The way the ad should have read was: "WE ARE MAKING THE FIGHT OF OUR LIVES TO PROTECT THE INTERESTS OF OUR FARMERS." We regret this error occurred and gladly make this correction.

O. L. Joyner & Sons

The Tobacco Market and Marketing Conditions

This space has been purchased by the firm of O. L. Joyner & Sons, proprietors of Joyner's Warehouse, for the purpose of placing before the tobacco farmers and all others interested, the facts as we understand them, about the tobacco markets and marketing conditions in Eastern North Carolina.

While our purpose in buying newspaper space is to advertise our own business, we want it distinctly understood that under no circumstances or conditions shall we publish anything in boosting our business that is not supported by facts. As an illustration of our purpose, we shall endeavor to convince everyone having tobacco to sell that Greenville is the best tobacco market in the state. This is the truth and is supported by facts and figures sworn to before a representative of the government, for government purposes as well as for the public information during the past few years in succession. On the other hand, we shall not tell you that farmers appeared pleased with the opening of the market prices anywhere in the state, and while prices on the Greenville market are, and have been just as high, and higher in some instances than any market in the eastern section, they are neither satisfying to the farmers, nor as high as most of us expected they would be. In other words, we were all disappointed at the opening prices.

But prices are advancing, and before very long we believe that they will be generally satisfactory. On all the better grades, prices are higher today than yesterday and we think will be higher next week than now, and with the elimination of the trashy, scrappy primings the market will continue to advance until, generally speaking, satisfactory prices will prevail.

Before the market is a month older the buying interests will realize that Eastern North Carolina this year has produced the highest crop per acre that it has produced since this section became an important tobacco producing country.

We have 1st Sale—Monday, Sept. 16.
We have 2nd Sale—Tuesday, Sept. 17.
We have 1st Sale—Wednesday, Sept. 18.
We have 2nd Sale—Thursday, Sept. 19.
We have 1st Sale—Friday, Sept. 20.
We know tobacco and know how to sell it. If you don't believe this, bring us your next load and believe you will keep coming.

With sincere appreciation for the patronage the tobacco farmers have given us, we are,

Yours truly,

O. L. Joyner & Sons

REMEMBER
By The Rev. Jason Noble
Pierce, D. D.
(Pastor of the First Congregational Church, Washington, D. C.)

If we are to have a Christian and not a Pagan civilization we must remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy.

Memory is the joy of the past and the hope of the future. We go forward wiser and stronger because we can remember. We learn by experience, a valuable teacher, but we could have none of the teachings of experience
unless we remembered.

If we make the right use of our opportunities we shall find ourselves growing and broadening.

Although remembering is valuable, it is a good thing sometimes to forget. We should remember friendships and forget enemies;
remember favors and forget injuries. Even as we remember things we must remember persons.

CHECKING UP ON TARIFF
CLAIMANTS

The Senate's adoption, by a vote of nearly two to one,
of the Simmons resolution calling for publicity of the tax returns of those who have been seeking tariff
favors during the present session is something for the Republican leaders to ponder.
The resolution had been denounced by some of the party regulars as merely a device for delaying or preventing legislation. If they were right in this assertion,
it appears that a large proportion of the Republican Senators are quite lukewarm toward the Tariff Bill; for twenty-one of the forty-Republican who voted lined up with the Democrats for the resolution.

The reports of a breach in the Republican ranks, concerning revision thus appear to be well founded. The party leaders have been confronted with opposition from a group which is considerably larger than a coalition of Democrats and insurgents; it includes regular Republicans as well. It is certain that the attitude of the majority party toward the bill is going to be quite different in the Senate from what it was in the House,
where opposition was rendered inaudible by the steam-roller tactics of Messrs.
Longworth and Snell.

An opening of the incometax returns is a fitting response to the pleadings of poverty by the spokesmen for protection who have appeared before the Senate and House committees.
Whenever the tariff is to be revised Washington witnesses the doleful spectacle of hundreds of representatives of the depressed industries

of America besieging these committees with their tales of woe and confessions of incompetence. One and all declare that they face ruin unless the barriers against imports are raised still higher.

The Senate now proposes to check up on these plaintive stories. An examination of the income-tax returns should indicate whether they are well founded. This is entirely fair, as the tax returns will certainly not give an exaggerated picture of prosperity. Tariff petitioners, moreover, will presumably
be more cautious hereafter
in pleading their necessities,
now that they know that the tax returns will speak louder than words. The broadening of the resolution to include a study of wages paid
by corporations benefitting from the tariff will serve an equally good purpose.—New York World.

ABOUT
TOWN

"City schools will open Monday
with largest enrollment in history," remarked a carrier today, speaking of the story carried in the columns of the Reflector yesterday.

"The schools are a week late getting started this year by reason of the delay in completing the new building on Third street, but they will also be a week late in closing in order to make up for the lost time.

"It is gratifying to note that there this year. This comes about through the fact that the schools
before the Hancock law became effective had no more teachers than the law provided for. Other schools with larger facilities had to reduce,

and many of them no doubt will suffer this year because of the fact.
"The public school system has admitted an additional 1,000 pupils
this year. With five cents whacked off the tax rate, it is attempting to operate by a budget cut to fit the occasion.

"The operation of the schools
throughout the state will be watched with interest this year as it will be the first experiment since the economy program brought about
through the new school bill."

"Federal and county officers continue their drive against the illicit whiskey traffic of the county with new results," observed a business man today, referring to the four additional captures reported yesterday.

"This brings the total number of captures up to 47. At this rate it should not be long before the majority of the offenders are in toils
of the law. In fact, it is apparent now that officers have this plan
in view, and are going to continue the drive until the roundup covers ever community where the liquor business has been thriving, within a stone's throw of the police headquarters.

"Pitt county has been needing a campaign of this nature for a long time and the public should lend their support to the movement until it is apparent that desired results have been accomplished."

"Don't forget the Window
Trimming contest to be conducted through the Merchants Association next Tuesday," said a member of that organization today.

"Every member of the organization will be given an opportunity to compete for the best dressed windows and it is the hope of the officers that every firm possible will participate.

"Get your decorators busy, Mr.
Merchant, and see to it that they put out their best effort to capture one of the two prizes which the association is offering. If you win it will reflect great credit upon your firm and give it greater recognition than formerly.

"Out-of-town men will be chosen to judge the windows so that there can be no complaint of partiality."

"Some contend that the capture of bootleggers in recent raids by government and county officers will only tend to increase the price of whiskey and not actually reduce the output," mentioned a citizen
today.

"While the first part of the statement may be true, I do not believe that the production of the beverage will not be effected. Take such a large group of traffic members from the industry and you have crippled it extensively, especially when all of them come from the same county. The price of liquor will not only bound upwards but the beverage will be more difficult to obtain than it has ever been before.

"These bootleggers are scared of the federal officers because they never know where they are going
when the government takes charge of them. In fact, many of them see sentences to federal prisons starting them in the face and that isn't a very pleasant prospect by any means."

"The first advertisement in connection with Pay Up Period to be conducted in this city from October 1 to 15 appeared in the columns of the Reflector today," said a member of the Merchants Association
today.

"Similar advertisements will appear from time to time urging the public to prepare to settle up as many accounts as possible when the pay up days roll around.

"The business men have been mighty lenient in the past and they will continue to be lenient with the man and woman who see to it that they meet their just obligations. But the persons who fail to settle their just obligations will be listed accordingly in a list of creditors to be compiled by the association immediately after the Pay
Up event comes to an end.

Death Treasure

G. B. A. J. WALLING

SYNOPSIS: The secrets of the black bag—priceless jewelry and gems—carried off under the noses of zealous policemen! The Grenofen home is surrounded by officers when Somerfield scoops up into a camera case and walks away just as the officers enter. They have a search warrant and seek certain property, stolen from the Fotherbury library. While the officers are searching the house, Tom suddenly remembers the abbey history—did Somerfield take it? But the policemen leave empty-handed and Tom dashes to his bedroom and finds in the cover of a prized volume, from which all the leaves have been torn—the much-sought abbey history, still in the house!

Chapter 30

FUGITIVES

Mother smiled at my amazement finding the much sought abbey book inside the cover of my Sheldon.

"Had to do it," she said. "When I met the man outside the drawing room window I ran up to find you. This lay on the floor. There seemed to be about 10 seconds to decide what to do—"

"Oh, what luck!" I said. "And what a genius you are!"

There was a little glow of mingled fun and pride in her face when she said:

"We seem to have walked right into it, don't we?"

"Up to the middle," I confessed, but this conversation with my mother proved the last I was to have for some time. And the miserable end of it! She had run these risks because of Veronica Seabroke. And now it appeared Veronica was going to let us down.

While we talked Millie brought me a letter. I felt as if someone had hit me between the eyes when I read it. The address given was just "London." It contained merely three sentences:

Dear Mr. Grenofen—
My father summoned us to London suddenly last night. He has urgent business abroad and we are to go with him. It is impossible to say when we shall return to Blackwater. Yours sincerely,

VERONICA SEABROKE.

I felt literally sick. This—after all that had happened! I passed the note to my mother and sat down.

But there was hardly time for her to say:

"Tom—there's more in this than you can see—"

A prolonged ringing of the bell had loudly raised voices caused me to rush into the hall.

On the doorstep stood young Fotherbury, and beside him the man Hallett. When he saw me he said:

"Ah, there you are. Now perhaps you'll tell us where Veronica Seabroke is."

"Perhaps," said I to the cub, "if you don't stop snouting and remove yourself from my premises, I'll fling you into the road for an ill-conditioned cad."

And I walked out to him with the appropriate gesture.

Fotherbury flinched visibly and then backed down a step.

"What does this mean?" I asked his companion. "I thought you'd finished your nasty job."

It appeared that Mr. Hallett had called out with two search warrants that afternoon—one for

"We can't crawl in these without breaking it up and shouting to the world where we've gone."

"I know," said I, "but you can't carry that about with you for ever."

I indicated the camera case. "Don't you think—"

"Sure!" said he. "That's a cute little idea."

In that brake we hid the evidence for which Laxton was searching, and not a minute too soon, as it proved.

For even while we replaced the branches and bracken fronds and took our bearings, we became conscious that they were beating the wood. There were voices calling to each other from a distance. There was whistling. We looked our questions.

"It's a bigish wood," said Somerfield. "They've not got enough men for a cordon. If we're sharp—"

Somerfield argued that if we separated we should double their chance. They would come in a line keeping touch as near as their numbers would allow.

We moved away from the brake 100 yards to a region where the timber grew bigger.

"I wish I could see a beech or two," said Somerfield.

There were beeches in the wood I knew. I asked why he wanted beeches.

"Beech leaves keep dry and last a long time," he said.

"Try higher up! I think I remember a clump of beeches, but it's almost on the edge."

"No matter. We can double back if it won't do."

Moving quietly and swiftly, we climbed the hill and found the little group of trees. They were rather sparse and the jungle had disappeared. But on the ground was what Somerfield wanted—a deep, mass of gold-brown leaves. We selected a spot immediately behind a big bole.

In the irony of circumstances the first voice we heard was Laxton's. He and Hallett were together. They passed close to us—or were about to pass.

I had a nerve explosion when I heard Laxton cry out:

"Hullo! What's that?"

Their rustling footsteps among the leaves crashed so close to me as to be deafening. Then they ceased.

"Ten—20—30—and one, two, three, four, five, six treasury notes, all in a nice little parcel. Well, well—"

Laxton seemed to be shouting in my ear. I thought it was all over. I lay on my face with arms stretched out. Some part of me must be uncovered!

OLDSMOBILE RECOGNIZES THESE RESPONSIBILITIES TO EVERY OWNER

The ever-increasing owner loyalty for Oldsmobile may be traced directly to Oldsmobile's fair-minded attitude toward those who purchase Oldsmobile cars. For Oldsmobile does not rest content merely with building a good car. Oldsmobile goes farther—and assumes this four-fold responsibility to every Oldsmobile owner: to design progressively... to build faithfully... to sell honestly... to service sincerely.

To insure sound, progressive engineering, Oldsmobile has brought together a staff of engineers whose joy lies in accomplishment and whose ambition is to contribute some new advancement to Oldsmobile and, through Oldsmobile, some progress to modern motoring. Changes in Oldsmobile design are always made for the sake of progress—never for the sake of change alone. Back of these men are the complete facilities of their own fine engineering laboratories and the vast resources of the General Motors Research Laboratories and General Motors Proving Ground.

Oldsmobile principles of manufacture are expressed in the pledge that every worker follows, from the highest executive to the newest shop employee... "Anything short of my best is not acceptable." Faithfulness of manufacture results from allegiance to this ideal... faithfulness that means not only fine materials and exacting limits of accuracy, but careful, precise workmanship and rigid inspection.

Oldsmobile firmly believes that absolute honesty in selling and in advertising is the only sure road to long continued public favor. The public is thoroughly capable of judging both quality and value. And the public has conferred upon Oldsmobile the highest reward of merit—constantly increasing preference. Oldsmobile will not risk this priceless good-will by deviating, though it be ever so slightly, from the facts.

Oldsmobile has instituted a service policy that recognizes the equities not only of Oldsmobile owners, but of Oldsmobile dealers as well. Oldsmobile backs up its dealers by accepting responsibilities which are commonly left to the dealer, because Oldsmobile's interest in every sale goes far beyond the time of purchase. This policy is made possible by Oldsmobile's quality, dependability, and fine performance. And it contributes largely to the loyalty and enthusiasm of the mounting thousands of Oldsmobile owners.

To design progressively. To build faithfully. To sell honestly. To service sincerely. Four great responsibilities—recognized by Oldsmobile and willingly assumed in order that every Oldsmobile owner shall be a friend of Oldsmobile.

Gorman's Market Report
Sell Your Tobacco In Greenville and at GORMAN'S

The sales this week have been light and all sales have finished each day by the dinner hour with the exception of Friday when they finished around three o'clock. The prices on the better grades on Friday showed up better and we believe these grades will go higher yet. The prices on Lugs and Common Tips are about like they were and do not show any signs of getting better. The Lugs and Common Tips are very inferior in quality and it is hard sailing to get anything like a fair price for them. We are working harder for the Farmer this year than ever before, realizing what they are facing, and while tobacco is low, we have had numbers of Farmers to tell us that we were running the best sale in town, and that our prices were fully a cent per pound higher than the other sales on the same days. Bring us your next load and we will show you that GORMAN'S is the place to sell your tobacco. We know tobacco, have the confidence of the Buyers, have the experience and the best sales force in town. We want to see you get every dollar you can for your tobacco and you can do this by selling at GORMAN'S.

We have Second Sale Monday, First Tuesday, Second Wednesday, First Thursday and Second Friday.

COTTON MARKET

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 10 to 14 points today under overnight selling orders which were supposed to include some southern heaving. There was also selling on the indifference showing of Liverpool and prospects for clearing weather over the southwest.

Buying for trade account and covering steadied the market at the decline, but offerings increased on moderate bulges and by the end of the first half hour prices were about 16 to 18 points net lower with December selling at 18.94 and March at 19.23.

Liverpool cables said there had been continental buying, and trade calling in there but that the demand had been supplied by selling.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week as estimated at 120,000 bales against 56,000 last year.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Wheat values receded today, forced especially by rain reports from the drought region of Argentina. Lowest prices of the day were reached in the late dealings, although at times good buying support was in evidence, credited to the northwest. Unwelcome dry weather in the domestic spring wheat area northwest was forecast for the coming week, but the wheat market was dominated largely by persistent selling on the part of houses with connections east.

Wheat closed heavy 1 1/4 to 1 3/8 under yesterday's finish; corn closed 1-4 down; oats 3-8 to 5-8 off, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 1/2c.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—extensive week-end readjustment of speculative accounts imparted a decidedly irregular trend to price movements in today's stock market, although major activity appeared to be on the side of rising prices. Some of the selling was on fears of a credit stringency next week when the mid-month and Federal income tax payments become due. Week-end mercantile reviews indicated that fall trade was off to a good start, and that there were

NO USE TO SUFFER LIKE HE ONCE DID

Man Finds Relief From Constipation Troubles by Taking Black-Draught.

Seneca, S. C.—"I am forty-four years old, and I might say," relates Mr. W. A. Bruce, of this city, "that I have taken Black-Draught, at intervals, all my life.

"I remember that, when just a small child, my mother made tea from Black-Draught and gave it to me.

"As I grew up, when I needed a medicine for biliousness, or for constipation, I would take Black-Draught.

"A few years back, I noticed that if I took the least cold, and my stomach was out of order, I would have very severe headache. The cold seemed to settle there. My eyes would burn, and I would suffer a good bit of pain. I took Black-Draught for this, and I do not have that trouble now.

"I found, too, that there was no use suffering from constipation, as I once did. Black-Draught relieved me, and I am feeling fine, now.

"I recommend Black-Draught to others, and have had them to tell me how much good it did them."

In successful use nearly 100 years. In two sizes, 25¢ and $1. Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness
