STRIKE CASES HALTED UNTIL LATE IN WEEK

Judge Shaw Orders Holding of Seven Men in Charlotte Investigation

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Legal machinery in North Carolina textile centers, which has been clogged with charges ranging from kidnapping and flogging to conspiracy to overthrow the government and murder, all growing out of strike violence, rested today for the first time in almost a month, preparatory to resuming its dealing with strike cases the latter part of this week.

The courts became idle late yesterday after Judge Thomas J. Shaw, sitting as a magistrate in lieu of a grand jury, ordered seven men held as being members of the mob which early last week kidnaped three men affiliated with the National Textile Workers Union, and flogged one of them. Seven others arrested were released.

Other trials and hearings during the last week have included the case of 16 union leaders and members charged with slaying Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia, in which a mistrial was declared; the dismissal of charges of conspiracy to overthrow the government of North Carolina against eight unionists; recessing after arrest of the seven men of an inquest in the shooting to death of Ella May Wiggins, a union worker, during mob violence, and waiving of preliminary hearing by a union leader charged with carrying concealed weapons.

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Wiggins, whose funeral yesterday was occasioned for a call by Communists and union leaders of a strike of textile workers in this section, will be continued Saturday. The trial of the 16 for the slaying of Chief Aderholt will come up at the next term of Superior court here.

Seven Gastonia mill employes ordered held by Judge Shaw in connection with the flogging and kidnappings each were placed under $7,500 bond.

The men were alleged to have taken Ben Wells, British Communist, labor organizer, and C. M. Lell and C. D. Caylor, Gaston county members of the National Textile Workers Union, from Gastonia to a lonely spot in Carabus county where Wells was flogged. Judge Shaw, found probable cause after a week's hearing for charges of kidnapping, conspiracy to kidnap, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and false imprisonment and arrest.

Bonds were furnished by the seven for their appearance in Carrabus Superior court, October 14 and in Gaston Superior court October 21. J. A. Baugh, general manager of the Lora mill of Gastonia, and Dr. Lee Johnston, mill physician signed the bonds.

Fourteen men originally were arrested by John Holly, C. E. Jolly, Oscar Goodman, and Dr. Lee Johnston, employes of a cotton mill. A. Roach, former policeman and T. Gilbert and C. M. Ferguson, Gastonia policemen were released the end of the hearing.

Those held were A. G. Morehead, William Pickering, superintendent of the Lora mill of the Man-Jencks company; Carl Holl-Dewey Carver, Tom Carver, Smiley Lewis, Lora mill work, and Horace Lane, Myers mill, Lora.

The kidnapping was one incident in a series of mob violence which followed a mistrial September 9 in the case of 16 members of the National Textile Workers Union on the slaying of Chief Aderholt, of Textile strike disorders last week. The mistrial was ordered by a juror became insane.

Hands of armed men staged demonstrations that night and during the days following in Gaston, Pickensburgh and Cabarrus counties and on Saturday Mrs. Wiggins was slain by a mob which prevented 22 textile union members from proceeding to advertise union meeting. She was struck by a bullet fired at a wrecked truck in which the unionist had been riding.

The national textile workers union and the communist party leaders sought to make of her funeral an occasion of mass protest against the mob slaying and called a one-day strike of all cotton mill employes in this section. Although several hundred persons were present at the ceremonies, Mrs. Wiggins was buried, said no workers left their places to attend.

Commission Gives A. C. L. Permission to Remove Trains

Raleigh, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The State Corporation Commission today granted the Atlantic Coast Line railroad permission to discontinue its trains No. 52 and No. 53 between Kinston and Weldon effective October 20.

The commission held a hearing today at which it heard protests against the removal of the trains. Among those objecting were: N. G. Bartlett, secretary-manager of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce; H. U. Braxton, chairman of the transportation committee of the Kinston Chamber of Commerce; C. U. Alexander of Scotland Neck and C. O. Bell, of Caldwain Farms.

The trains discontinued left Weldon at 9 a. m., and arrived at Kinston at 2 p. m., and left Kinston at 3 p. m., and arrived at Weldon at 6:55 p. m. The removal leaves one train operated each way between the towns each day.

REPUBLICANS WIN IN FIRST TARIFF TEST

Regulars in Senate Victorious in Show of Strength on the Amendments

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Republican regulars of the senate stood as victors today after the first test of strength on amendments to the pending tariff bill.

The issue was drawn on one of the less controversial of the many amendments to the pending tariff bill.

The issue was drawn on one of the less controversial of the many amendments prepared by members of the finance committee, who drafted the bill and have the right of way in proposing changes in its provisions.

The amendment, requiring that imported articles be marked in a "reasonably conspicuous place" except in the event such marking would cause injury or involve expense which would be "economically prohibitive of importation," was adopted by a vote of 40 to 32.

Pres. Hoover Satisfied With Progress Made On Limitation On Armament

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Although failing to realize the maximum of the hopes he entertained at the outset of the Anglo-American negotiations, President Hoover is believed to be well satisfied with the progress that has been made toward further limitation of Naval armaments.

If the agreement in principle reached between the United States and Great Britain is ratified by the other three major naval powers through a limitation program for them consistent with the Anglo-American, the belief here is that much more substantial reductions in naval establishments will be possible at the expiration of the Washington arms treaty in 1936.

By that time, the navies of the world would have become stabilized under such an agreement as might be worked out at the projected conference next January and it would be possible to survey all categories of ships with a view to further limitation in each.

By stabilization naval men explain that they mean the various categories of ships will have been built up or reduced to the maximum prescribed by treaty. That being the case, it would be comparatively simple to survey the actual naval strength with a view to arriving at reductions.

President Hoover, in his memorial Day speech dealing with the Kellogg-Briand treaty to renounce war as an instrument of national policy, declared for not merely a limitation in naval armaments up to which the nations would have to build, but an actual reduction in existing fighting ships. In other words, he declared against continuation of naval building competition as productive of international suspicion and discord.

Administration officials claim that the Anglo-American agreement in principle would end competition which of itself will result in smaller cruiser fleets and great savings to the people of both Great Britain and the United States.

In addition, Great Britain would make an actual reduction in its fleet, retiring seven old cruisers without their replacement subsequently and abandoning two now under construction and three projected for this fiscal year. By 1936 its fleet would be reduced from a projected 62 ships to 50.

CANDIDATES NOW ACTIVE IN CAMPAIGN

Increased Interest In Automobile Campaign Expected During Present Week

Some increase in the activity of candidates in The Reflector's mammoth $6,000 free gift distribution may be expected this present week, according to the announced intentions of several of those who have been entered in the election and have so far given but little attention to the actual writing of subscriptions.

Such a development is gratifying to The Reflector for we have always believed that the generosity of the campaign would have attracted even more workers than are now enlisted and should at least keep those entered striving to do something big. As is known, everybody who does anything and carries on in this election, if they fall of winning one of the cars or one of the larger cash prizes, is guaranteed a ten per cent commission on all cash business. Although that feature is greatly worth while, assuring reward in proportion to what each individual does, yet the bigger possibilities are what should lead each one forward to real effort.

Just stop to think once in a while that four persons are going to be awarded with an automobile, brand new cars of real value—a $1275 Hudson coach; a $1,000 Oldsmobile coach; a $658.00 Chevrolet coach and a $625 Ford Tudor sedan. Every one of these cars will be brand new when it goes into the possession of its new owner. They are never driven and are taken from the show room floor of the dealer the same as if you had bought it yourself.

With only two more short weeks, in the first period before the first decrease in votes comes into effect, all candidates must strive to maintain present positions or better them if possible. Now is the time for action and candidates are the ones to act.

Strike Leader Whipped And Dynamiting Occurs In New Disorder Today

Kings Mountain, N. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Cleo Tessner, organizer for the National Textile Workers union kidnapped, and a speaking stand erected in a vacant lot here by the union was dynamited early today. The noise of the explosion awakened the entire city.

Tessner was reported early today to have been taken to a point across the South Carolina line and beaten. After being released Tessner went to Charlotte.

First word of the kidnapping came to the local police shortly after 3 o'clock this morning when Mrs. Tessner summoned Chief of Police C. S. Hedrick. She told the officer that a half hour before five men had come to the house seized her husband carrying him away.

Mrs. Tessner said that when the men knocked her husband was slow in answering. When he asked who was knocking and what they wanted, the men kicked in the front door of the house.

She said the men told Tessner they wanted him. He was in his night clothing and asked time to change. The men told him, she said, "You probably won't need them" and hustled him out of the house.

A speaker stand erected by the union on a vacant lot on Piedmont avenue and from which union leaders addressed mill workers every Saturday night was dynamited a half an hour before Tessner was seized. The blast awakened most of the people in the city. Otherwise no damage was done by the explosion.

Tessner yesterday moved from the Cora mill, where he had been trying to organize a local of the National Textile Workers Union, to the Bonnie mill. He was arrested two weeks ago on complaint of officials of the Cora mill when he posted circulars in the mill. County Recorder Horace Kennedy found him guilty of trespassing but gave him a suspended sentence.

Charlotte, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Tessner, 21-year-old organizer for the National Textile Workers union was taken from his home in Kings Mountain early today, spirited by three men across the South Carolina line and was beaten.

He was brought to Charlotte after reporting to Sheriff Wright of Gaffney, S. C.

His story for the most part, was told for him here by Liston M. Oak, publicity director for the International Labor Defense, Oak informing newspapermen that Tessner had been choked so badly his throat was sore.

Tessner was informed he was four miles from Blacksburg, S. C., and nine miles from Gaffney, S. C., and he called the police at Blacksburg, asking them to come get him. He was informed that the police could not come and he called Sheriff Wright at Gaffney.

Tessner said before calling the sheriff he showed Smith and his son where the flogging occurred and where they had no shoes he could wear he went to a neighbor's where he was given a pair of sandals. It was from the second house he called the officers.

Sheriff Wright brought Tessner to Blacksburg.

"He asked me if I wanted him to put me on a train. I told him I didn't in the clothes I was wearing. I said I would rather catch a ride on the highway."

Tessner then hailed a truck in which two negroes were riding and came from Gaffney to Charlotte with them.

He was seen in bed in a hotel room here which is occupied by Bill Dunne, secretary of the Communist party of America.

MILL OWNERS BRAND CHARGE OF UNION MEN

Company Officers At Elizabethtown Say They Are Not Interested in Accusations

Elizabethtown, Tenn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—A call of leaders of the United Textile Workers of America for a mass meeting tonight to place before mill workers charges of unfair working conditions in Elizabethtown Rayon plants and discrimination against former strikers, today had brought a statement from company officials that "the charges were ridiculous on their face," and they were uninterested in the accusations of "out side organizations."

Konsul Kummer, acting president of the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff corporations, authorized the statement which insisted further that relations with their more than 3,500 workers were satisfactory, and did not warrant the presence of Francis Gorman, international vice president of United Textile Workers of America.

Gorman, who has assumed charge of union activities here, claims the working conditions for women at the two plants were unfavorable that participants in the strike last spring, which was accompanied by serious strife between union and non-union factions, were discriminated against, and that others involved in the spring walkout had not been reemployed.

The union leader, who had declared, "We are ready to go to bat right away to get immediate adjustment," claims 2,600 union members and a corresponding ability of the organization to dictate terms. Company officials did not comment on this. The territory about Elizabethtown has been divided into six districts and in each meetings advocating union support are scheduled this week.

Bemberg and Glanzstoff officials, in stating the existence of satisfactory relations with workers, said, "The system of shop committees which have been established here is functioning perfectly and our employes know that any complaints they have to make will meet with a fair hearing and prompt action on the part of the management."

The truck collided head-on with the bus after passing another car on the road.

Hood, who was about 25 years of age, was the son of the Rev. J. B. Hood, Baptist minister, of Gastonia. His widow before her marriage, was Mrs. O. A. Wincoff of China Grove.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Bobby Franks memorial to perpetuate the memory of the child victim of the Loeb-Leopold "thrill murder" has been decided upon by the trustees named in the will of Bobby's father, who died 18 months ago.

The American Boys' Commonwealth has been chosen as beneficiary under the elder Franks' $100,000 bequest. The choice was made, the trustees explained, in keeping with the father's desire as expressed in the will.

"The type of memorial I desire my trustees shall establish shall be a fitting memorial to perpetuate the memory of my boy, who would desire that any memorial in his name should be one that would give pleasure, help and encouragement to boys, as he in his lifetime gave sympathy, encouragement and consideration to his playmates."

One half of the $100,000 will be devoted to improving the property of the American Boys' Commonwealth. The other half will be sequestered as a trust out of which my trustees shall establish shall be a fitting memorial to perpetuate the memory of my boy, who would desire that any memorial in his name should be one that would give pleasure, help and encouragement to boys, as he in his lifetime gave sympathy, encouragement and consideration to his playmates."

Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., are serving life sentences at Joliet for the murder of the Franks boy.

FLAMES STILL RAGE IN WOODS IN CALIFORNIA

Damage From Disastrous Forest Fires Today Stood at $3,500,000

Ventura, Cal., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The most disastrous fire in Ventura county's history was surrendering reluctantly today leaving 25,000 acres blackened in the triangular mountainous oil field section, bounded by Ventura, Ojai and Santa Paula. Damage stood at between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000, and one death was laid to the fire.

Flames still raged near Santa Paula, in Wheeler Canyon, Canada Larga, at the head of Santa Paula Canyon, and in several smaller canyons near the E. L. Doheny mansion at Ferndale, where the blaze started two days ago from a broken high tension wire in Sistr Canyon.

Four hundred men were concentrating their efforts in Wheeler and adjacent canyons and county fire wardens were hopeful that the fire would be placed under control barring unforeseen shifts of wind. The property destroyed included 126 oil rigs outside the main Ventura avenue field, which was not touched.

Scores of homes were burned, along with scattered oil field equipment, and many automobiles abandoned on impassable roads by fleeing residents were lost. Five small school buildings were consumed.

The fire indirectly caused one death. Norman Beems, national forest service official, riding a motorcycle along a smoke-choked highway, collided with a fire truck. He died in a hospital. Seven men were burned, more or less severely.

Concord, N. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—One man is dead, another in jail and six persons have injuries as a result of an automobile collision on the Concord-Charlotte highway near Jackson Training school yesterday.

DAVE MOORE HEADS LOCAL LEGION POST

Other Officers Elected at Monthly Meeting of Organization Last Night

D. C. Moore was elected commander of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion at the regular monthly meeting of the organization held at the Rotary building last night. He succeeds A. B. Corey, who served for a term of one year. Mr. Moore's term of office will begin at the next meeting.

The name of the new commander was placed in nomination by Dr. Grady Dixon, of Ayden, and election was unanimous. Mr. Moore made a short speech in which he attempted to decline the honor, but he was voted out of order and the nomination went through without the slightest hitch.

Other officers elected were J. S. Elliot, post adjutant; Hicks Corey, financial officer; Lee More, Chaplain. Dr. S. M. Crisp, service officer; Dr. J. M. Barrett, sergeant at arms; Charlie Moore, first vice-commander; O. C. White, second vice-commander; L. C. Evans, third vice-commander.

Aside from the election of officers, the legionnaires enjoyed their usual supper, sang several songs, and listened to reports of the state convention held at Raleigh last month. The reports were presented by W. H. Rogers, Jr., Dr. A. M. Schultz, J. B. Edrill and Dave Turnage. Each speaker declared that the convention was one of the most outstanding ever held in the state before, and had very high lights that proved of interest to the hundreds of legionnaires in attendance from different parts of the state.

In the midst of his remarks concerning the convention, Mr. Rogers stressed the need of more action in behalf of the disabled ex-service men. He said many of these men were receiving no compensation from the government and that they were finding it hard to make ends meet during this period of financial stringency. He cited a case of a man recently returned from the hospital. This man had a wife and several children and was without work and any compensation from the government. Something should be done in such cases, he declared, and he urged his hearers to give more attention to cases of this kind.

Commander Corey called attention to the home talent minstrel which the Post is to give on the night of October 25. He appointed Dr. A. M. Schultz, chairman of the minstrel committee, and left arrangements for the production in his hands. Plans are under way, the commander said, to make the show one of the greatest home talent affairs ever presented in the city before, and he called on all members to lend their support in making this ambition possible.

Commander Corey and his corps of officers were placed in charge of arrangements for the celebration to be staged on Armistice Day, November 11.

J. B. Kittrell proposed that a rising vote of thanks be extended to the retiring officers for the excellent service which they had rendered during their administration and this was given in a way that showed that the boys realized and appreciated what the officers had accomplished.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES ENTERTAIN FOR GUESTS

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the fall season was a buffet supper given by Mr. and Mrs. James Burton James on Saturday evening, honoring their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, Misses Margaret, Elizabeth and Ann Brown of Dallas, Texas.

The home on East Fifth street was never more attractive than on this occasion, profusions of pink and lavender asters, and pale pink candles in silver holders were used throughout the rooms.

On arrival the guests were served fruit cocktail in the sun room. Pink and lavender asters lent a pleasing color note in this room, with yellow furnishings and lavender and green draperies.

The dining room was a scene of rare beauty. The buffet was banked with lavender and pink asters, with a basket of asters and old-fashioned tube roses.

The dining table was covered with a cloth of Venetian cut work and centered with a silver bowl of pink and lavender asters and white clematis. Small silver baskets filled with pink and green mints were placed at intervals. Mrs. E. A. White and Mrs. E. B. Picklen seated at either end of the table, served. The ices were decorated with small pink flowers. Coffee and cheese straws were served later.

At ten o'clock a number of young people arrived and dancing was enjoyed until twelve o'clock.

The building was owned by J. Key Brown, Five Points druggist, who stated that his loss, roughly estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000 was covered by insurance. It could not be determined today whether or not the cafe equipment was insured.

The cafe was operated by Pete Balafas.

This will notify my friends that I am in the Reflector campaign and am working hard to win one of the splendid prizes to be given away in a few weeks. Any support that the folks in Pitt County can give me in the way of votes, will be genuinely appreciated.

View Guggenheim Appointment As Help to Aviation

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The appointment of Harry F. Guggenheim as ambassador to Cuba is viewed by aviation officials in general as a decided stimulus to inter-continental aviation development in the western hemisphere.

The view is taken for two reasons. The first is that Mr. Guggenheim backs his enthusiasm for flying with good United States currency. The second is that Cuba is regarded as the natural gateway, if there is such a gate in the air, for airplanes southbound from Central and South America and northbound for the United States and Canada.

Whether President Hoover had it in mind or not, aviation men say, the appointment of Mr. Guggenheim generally regarded as America's foremost aviation backer, will do much to forward the already rapidly developing air traffic between the United States and the countries to the southward. When Mr. Guggenheim arrives in Havana he will be the second flying ambassador the United States has sent to the south. Ambassador Morrow at Mexico City, not only has smoothed out many difficulties confronting his office when he went to Mexico, but has been instrumental in the development of air communication between this country and the neighboring republic. He has taken numerous airplane trips, including several with his son-in-law, Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh.

Believe Rothstein Killed by Gambler

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—District Attorney Jacob H. Banton revealed today that the police and his office are working on the theory that Arnold Rothstein was slain by another gambler for cheating at cards.

Replying to charges by Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia in his campaign for mayor that the city administration has been lax in prosecution of the Rothstein case, Mr. Banton said: "New York will be amazed and will readily see that the whole Rothstein case is nothing but one gambler killing another.

"There has been no laxity on the part of the police and district attorney in the investigation of the case. I understand Commissioner Whelan has 12 men detailed to locate Hyman Biller who is also indicted with George McManus for the murder of Rothstein. I believe Biller will soon be located."

A MEASURE OF GREATNESS

Parks and playgrounds are fully as essential to the upbuilding of a city as paved streets, lights, transportation lines and public water supplies. Every progressive community today recognizes this fact and arranges its budget so that these serviceable features may be regularly enlarged and improved as the population of the city increases. A community center crowded with young people enjoying wholesome recreations and social contacts under municipal auspices is a guarantee of better citizenship and something to be proud of. A commodious playground, teeming with youngsters every day of the year, is evidence of a city's greatness quite as impressive as smoking factory chimneys.—U. N. C. News Letter.

ABOUT TOWN

The window trimming contest yesterday was the great success we expected it to be," said a member of the Greenville Merchants association, sponsors of the event taking the place of annual Fashion Show.

"The decorators of the various firms displayed unsurpassed skill in the decoration of their windows and the winners are to be congratulated.

"This was the first time an occasion of this kind had been conducted in Greenville, but it is not the last time by any means. Enthusiasm of the decorators was fired as it never has been before and we expect better and more creations in the future."

"The American Legion elected officers last night and then pledged itself to renew activity during the new year," said a member of that organization today.

"The local Post has shown splendid gain in membership the past year, and it is believed similar success will attend efforts in this direction in the future."

"The boys who crossed the ocean to fight against German autocracy are taking an active interest in the growth of the Pitt county Post and the future for continued progress was never brighter than it is today."

"The incoming officers have a real job ahead of them and the sooner they get to work the better."

"Shoppers of this great territory should remember that Greenville is the principal shopping center of Eastern North Carolina while doing their trading for the fall and winter months," said a business man today, speaking of the splendid showing of goods on the shelves of local merchants at this time.

"These hundreds of values are being sold at bargain prices. In fact, the merchants are attempting to meet the present money stringency by offering goods at the lowest price possible, and the thrifty shopper should be able to obtain his wares at greatly reduced prices."

"When you contemplate doing your shopping, come to Greenville and see what the merchants have to offer."

"Improved prices on the Greenville tobacco market will be received with profound interest by the thousands of farmers who sell their leaf from day to day," observed a merchant this morning.

"The sharp upward trend which the price situation assumed Monday was exactly what hundreds of the farmers and business men had been literally praying for since the market opening, and if the situation will continue to show strength they will feel like their prayers have been answered.

"The money stringency in this immediate section has been awful the last few months, but there ought to be an improvement if the price of tobacco will continue to go upwards. It is the only salvation of a people who have spent the whole year in preparation of the premier crop of the section and it is to be hoped prices will come out more favorably than expected."

"Farmers who sell their tobacco on the Greenville tobacco market are more than pleased with increased facilities of the market," declared a well-known business man this morning.

"This is especially so of the man who sells here for the first time, and really gains some idea of the magnitude of the industry in this city. Numbers of new patrons have visited the market this week, and they expressed amazement at the thousands of feet of floor space afforded by both the warehouse and factories."

"A tobacco market is just a tobacco market in the mind of the average farmer, but the Greenville market is more than the ordinary market—it is one of the greatest centers of the tobacco industry in this section of the country. It is a place where thousands of men are busy night and day handling the products of the growers of the greatest bright leaf producing county in the world, and also of the farmers from surrounding districts. These same men pay out millions of dollars during a season for the offerings of the planters, and in that way cause business conditions to show an improvement over any other part of the year."

"The man who has never sold on this market would do well to visit Greenville and see what we have to offer in the way of facilities for handling the golden harvest of Carolina."

SUNDOWN STORIES

The Clock Dance
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The Indian chief was painting his face with all sorts of bright colors. He was adding more feathers to his costume. The feathered head dress he wore hung way down his back.

The squaw was painting dots of red and yellow over her face and the children were painting their faces, too.

Now they began painting the faces of John and Peggy! This was certainly wonderful. Only the little black clock did not have its face painted.

The little black clock was to be honored by the dance.

"Oh, small, but wonderful clock!" said the chief. "You have accepted the magic offered to you. No longer do you have to tell the ordinary time. You can turn to any time you wish."

"It is to you, small but wonderful clock, we are going to do honor with a dance specially for you!"

And now they all rushed out of the tepee. John and Peggy did not know what part they were to take in the dance, but as the Indians started beating a drum it made everyone want to leap and jump.

The little black clock took a place not far from the tepee, where he sat.

Other Indians joined them, and all about the little magic clock they danced.

"Ah-ee-oh-ee-oh-ee," they sang. The drum was being beaten more and more quickly.

"Ah-ee-oh-ee-oh-ee," shouted John and Peggy.

They jumped, they hopped, they took great steps and then little steps. And all the time the drum was being beaten with more force then more softly.

"Ah-ee-oh-ee-oh-ee-oh." Clock of mighty time! Clock of all the years! Clock of good luck!" cried the chief.

The clock was bowing low now. John and Peggy were bowing low. The Indians were saying goodby to them. The dance was over, but they had been invited to come back again some day.

The chief ordered horses to be brought—horses with handsome saddles, and decorated, too.

But the little black clock said one horse would do. So the clock and Peggy and John rode off along the prairie while the Indians sang a song.

Farmers Sell Your TOBACCO IN GREENVILLE

Greenville Tobacco Market averaged $14.64 Monday, which is the highest average we have seen on record for this season. Prices stronger today.

We are selling tobacco daily from practically every county in Eastern Carolina and the farmers say it is paying them to sell in Greenville, even though some of them travel at least 125 miles.

Those in position to absolutely know, say we are highest market and have keener buying competition than any market in the East.

Since Last Season—

Three of the warehouses have made large additions, which gives the market increased floor space of about two acres. Some of the factories have made enlargements to their buildings, installing additional redrying facilities and other equipment. The Greenville tobacco market is decidedly in better position to handle, daily, larger quantities of tobacco than ever before.

Tobacco Warehouses—

Greenville tobacco market has nine (9) large and modern brick warehouses with close to 14 acres floor space, sufficient to accommodate 2,225,000 lbs. of tobacco daily. These warehouses are managed by men of years of experience.

Buyers and Factories—

Greenville tobacco market has four (4) sets of buyers, representing all the important companies in the world, using bright tobacco. Nine (9) larger and modern tobacco factories are located here, additions having been made to several of them since last season, while one new plant has been built.

Roads and Locations—

LOCAL YOUTH SHOWS SPEED ON DUKE GRID

Durham, Sept. 18.—(Special)—Early scrimmage sessions at Duke are giving the coaching staff an encouraging line on their men, especially as to the merits of sophomores from whom much is expected this year. Glenn Robeson, the pass-receiving sensation of the squad, actually improved in his showing once two teams lined up and the play became spirited.

Not only did Robeson show form in snatching passes and eluding the defensive men, but when the team took the defensive Robeson was just as much in evidence. He plays a great game in all departments and seems a good bet for a starter in the big Pitt game here October 5.

But all the glory of the scrimmage sessions does not go to Robeson. Kid Brewer, sophomore quarterback, has displayed great speed in every work-out. He is a big man, standing 6 feet and weighing nearly 180 pounds but is probably the fastest man on the field. Brewer handles himself well at quarterback.

Buzz Rosky, veteran end, is showing up well in the backfield this year. The coaches have been working him at quarterback and he calls his plays well and handles the team with pep.

On the defense Don Hyatt, sophomore end, has shown best. He has been quite a sensation in breaking up plays. Mel Peeler, two-letter end, displayed the best tackling of the scrimmage session. Pat Rochell, sophomore back, has also done fine defensive work. He is adept in breaking up a pass.

Death Treasure

By R. A. J. WALLING

SYNOPSIS: Sanctuary in Belgium! Tom Grenofen and Somerfield flee to London where they are disappointed by Mrs. Fairfax's lack of knowledge about Veronica, but she does give them an address in Bruges, Belgium. The next day they visit this address and find Miss Vandenessen, Veronica's former teacher. But Miss Vandenessen can not—or will not—tell where Veronica can be found. The two fugitives are at their hotel when suddenly they spy a familiar figure on the street. It is Laxton, the detective, who has a warrant for Grenofen's arrest! They immediately plan an escape when an ominous boom is heard behind them—Laxton's—they are captured!

Chapter 33
AN IMPORTANT DATE
"What a small place the world is!" said Laxton, grinning at the two most astonished men in Europe. "I never heard that fatuous platitudes with more disgust."
"Who'd have thought of blowing into a restaurant in Bruges and finding two lost friends like you?"
"Don't overdo the irony, professor," said Somerfield. "And don't draw out the agony."
"Tut, tut! Irony—agony? What words to describe a pleasant meeting! Is there any place here where we can talk at our ease, Mr. Grenofen?"
"I opened my eyes wide at Laxton's tone. Whatever police job he had to do he was going to do it like a gentleman."
Quiet conversation was the last thing you could get in the Lion d'Or.

"Well, suppose we go round to my hotel? Would you mind?"
"Very nicely put, professor," said Somerfield.
"I'll do without the compliments, thanks," Laxton observed. "I'll take a truthful answer to a question instead. Mr. Grenofen—did you bring a certain black bag with you from England? Or the things it had contained?"
"No."

well executed—even in Belgium. And he would be quite justified in clapping the bracelets on Somerfield as well. So—how about it?
Somerfield leaned over to where Laxton sat on a hard little armchair, and held out his hands.

"Put 'em on, professor," said he. "But you won't! You want to do a deal, I'll tell you. You want to know—"
"Now, Mr. Somerfield," Laxton said, pushing his hands away. "I do want to do a deal, but on my own terms. You see, I have the trump in my own hand."
"That's a bluff," said Somerfield. "We hold a straight flush. We know where the boogie is—and you don't."

Laxton smiled upon him indulgently.
"You forget that you've committed an offense and there's such a thing as law, Mr. Somerfield. But if Mr. Grenofen will answer a few questions, I'll make a proposal. Why are you in Belgium?"
"I came to see a lady," said Laxton.

"Miss Vandenessen? Yes, I know through Mrs. Fairfax."
"But how did you know anything about Mrs. Fairfax?"
"As soon as it was evident that Miss Scabrooke had been mixed up in your escapade in the boat we had to find out everything that could be known about Miss Scabrooke. Naturally."

"Then you didn't track Somerfield and me?"
"Only to the end of the wood. And, by the way, I've got some property of yours. You are careless!"
And Laxton pulled out his bundle of notes and handed it to me. Somerfield burst into a laugh.

"Shall we tell him?" he said.
We did. Laxton listened to the account of our temporary burial with mixed amusement and astonishment. Then he repeated his question.
"Why have you come to Belgium? Not for the beautiful eyes of Miss Scabrooke, I presume. You have Vandenessen—don't tell me!"
I wondered how far I might go without compromising Veronica.

"Come—candor," said he. "In exchange for candor I'll drop the little business of the motor-boat escapade. Mr. Grenofen. That fellow got off into Europe and to search for him would be like looking for the proceeds of the burglary."
"What burglary, professor?" Somerfield put in.
"The burglary at Mr. Fotherbury's. That's the one I'm thinking of at the moment. If you know of another—"
"I'll ask you another question. Has Fotherbury missed it?"
Laxton kept silent for a moment. Then he said:
"Why do you ask that?"
"That's answer enough," said Somerfield. "Fotherbury hasn't missed it. Fotherbury doesn't keep stuff like that at Newplace if he owns it. Museum stuff—old stuff. I'm not a great judge, but I'll give a quarter of a million dollars for it. You know something about it, professor. Candor for candor, you know why you're in Belgium."
I had made up my mind by this time.

"All right," said I. "We take you at your word. There were two reasons for coming to Belgium. One was to get away from you. The other to try to strike the track of the mystery of Pell."

And I told him how we had worked out our plan, the suspicion we had of coercion applied by Scabrooke to Veronica, the certainty that the puzzle of the tragedy in Newplace Abbey could only be solved by discovering the identity of Pell, the nature of his previous relations with the Scabrookes, and the reason why they all found themselves in Blackwater.

Laxton listened attentively. He did not speak till I had done. Then he said:
"If you could get at Miss Scabrooke, you think you could find a light?"
"We might. That is—"

"I'll tell you how my attention was first drawn to Pell. Last May I had to arrest a familiar friend of mine. We had a little amicable talk and he not only gave me reminiscences, but told me I'd kept him out of a good thing. He had undertaken to go to a man named Pell at the Lord Nelson Inn, Blackwater, and gave him a date, and the date was June 24th. There was to be big money in it. He was vague about the source of the big money; but he had the name and the date pat enough.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

COTTON MARKET N. Y. STOCK LIST

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 2 to 6 points on buying profit of 3 by relatively steady cables reports of rains in the south and expectations of bullish features in the weekly report of the weather bureau.

There were some overnight sell orders which supplied the early demand and caused some irregularity right after the call, but appeared to be quite readily absorbed and by the end of the first half hour, prices were 8 to 11 points net higher with December selling at 18.91 and March at 19.20.

Liverpool cables said that there had been a very good buying, covering and trade calling with a comparatively scarcity of contracts in the market there.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Commission house selling broadened out on price advances in the wheat market today, and led to a sharp setback during the late dealing, at least for the time being, new purchases of wheat future deliveries proved to be of insufficient volume to support values.

Wheat closed unsettled, 3-8c to 7-8c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 3-4c lower, oats 1-4c off 3-8c up, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 2 to 5c.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Nervous trading again characterized today's stock market but indications of easing credit conditions strengthened bullish confidence, and the market headed upward in brisk fashion in the early afternoon.

Many of the early declines of 1 to 3 points were cut down, or wiped out, and a long list of issues were marked up 1 to 6 points, with a few high priced specialties whittled up 7 to nearly 15 points. Commercial Solvents soared 5 1/4 points to a new high record at 60.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent, as against a renewal rate of 7 1/2 and a closing rate of 10 yesterday, with indications that the rate would be maintained all day. Brokers reported an easier undertone in the market, and expect the rate to work lower later in the week. There were no changes in other accommodations.

Trade news was mixed in character. Weekly steel reviews reported a further recession in output, bringing it about in line with the rate at this period last year.

Car loadings in the first week of September fell below the previous week due to the observance of the Labor Day holiday, but were nearly 3 per cent above the corresponding week last year.

While the bulk of the day's activity was on the side of rising prices, the market was highly selective in character. American Telephone, which was under pressure last week, rallied 1 1/4 points to a new high at 308 3/4, which compares with the year's low at 153 1/4, on buying influenced by expectations of materially expanding earnings through royalties and sales on sound picture devices. U. S. Industrial Alcohol was again heavily bought, soaring about 12 points to 215, a new high record. Foster Wheeler, common and preferred, advanced 6 and 14 3/4 points, respectively, to new top prices for the year.

Allied Chemical, Auburn Auto, Western Union, Pacific Telephone, American Can, Westinghouse Electric and Columbian Carbon all sold 5 to 8 points higher, while among the host of 3 to 4 point gains were Alcohon, International Telephone, Simmons, U. S. Steel, American & Foreign Power, Union Tank Car and Continental Can.

LaGuardia Wins In N. Y. Primary

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia was the Republican candidate for mayor today as the result of his decisive defeat of William M. Bennett in the city primaries.

La Guardia will be the principal opponent of Mayor James J. Walker in his campaign for re-election this fall. Mayor Walker was renominated by the Democrats without opposition.

In a light vote which brought out about 20 per cent of the registered voters in the city, La Guardia assumed an early lead over Bennett which reached a ratio of about four to one when three-fourths of the returns were tabulated. In 2,680 of the city's 3,495 precincts, La Guardia had 37,622; Bennett 8,579.

The languid attitude of voters in the city at large was in sharp contrast to the spirited contest in the borough of Queens where Borough President George U. Harvey defeated John L. Karle, the organization candidate, for the Republican nomination, and three candidates for the Democratic nomination ran a close race.

William F. Brunner, designer of the clean government party; Edward W. Cox, regular organization candidate; and Bernard M. Patten, Independent Democrat, took turns leading as the returns were tabulated. The outcome was in doubt early today. Returns from 450 districts out of 619 gave Cox 23,098; Patten 22,197 and Brunner 21,135.
