

British Prime Minister Given Lavish Welcome By the Nation's Capital

Washington Makes Gala Occasion of Arrival of Ramsay MacDonald and His Daughter

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, en route to Washington to visit President Hoover, was enthusiastically welcomed today as the set foot on American soil.

The distinguished visitor felt the first warmth of his reception at the quarantine station, shortly after he arrived there on the liner Berengaria, which was escorted by the American cruisers, Memphis and Trenton. A welcoming committee, which had gone down the bay on the tug Macdon, boarded the liner and formally welcomed him to the city and nation.

These preliminaries over, Premier MacDonald, his daughter, Miss Isabel, and members of his party, were taken on board the Macdon, which proceeded to the tip of Manhattan island at the Battery. Vessels of all descriptions in the harbor gave the party a mighty whistle salute.

Washington, Oct. 4.—(AP)—A welcome from all America was embodied today in the capital's greetings to Britain's premier.

Here, as he expressed it, on a "voyage of peace," the acclaim at hand was of a warmth seldom extended to a visitor from a foreign land.

Although forced to wait until New York had checked its salutation immediately after his arrival, the premier at quarantine, the seat of government had cancelled all else in his honor for late in the day.

The capital's celebrated street flags were early unfurled, and a touch of old world splendor was added in honor of the occasion.

Accustomed to the entertainment of distinguished visitors, care had been taken by State Department officials to omit no detail from the reception.

Nearly uniformed marines, a battalion of field artillery and two troops of cavalry were ordered to the station to meet MacDonald upon his arrival. These were the escort, along Pennsylvania avenue, to the British embassy.

From the embassy, after a brief rest, Mr. MacDonald's first point of call will be the White House and the long awaited meeting with President Hoover.

This visit will be of short duration—long diplomatic custom requiring the first official act to be an exchange of greetings between the visitor and the chief executive.

That formality over, the prime minister will be left free to look forward to an evening of informality and rest after a brief meeting with newspaper correspondents.

Another round of formal calls on Saturday morning—on the vice-president, chief justice, speaker of the House and secretary of state—confronted him, however, before his departure from the British embassy to be the guest of President Hoover.

Whether the President would whisk him away to the quiet of his fishing camp in Virginia depended on the results of a survey of the weather. The temperature didn't meet the condition of the roads after heavy rains was important.

Except during his visit with the president, which is expected to bring the real purpose of his trip close to fruition—the prime minister's days in America will be a "never" train, despite efforts to keep the program as informal as possible.

Until he leaves October 10 for Philadelphia, New York and Canada, he will have only a few hours to do with as he pleases, sandwiched in between formal and informal social functions and the meetings incident to the business of his history-making trip.

CAN'T PUNISH LIQUOR BUYER COURT RULES

Says Arrangement for Purchase and Delivery is Not Con- spiracy to Transport

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Bootleggers' customers cannot be punished under the prohibition law, in the opinion of the United States circuit court of appeals.

In a decision yesterday in the case of Alfred E. Morris, New York broker and clubman, the appellate court held that to buy liquor and even arrange for its delivery, as Mr. Morris did, was not punishable as a "conspiracy to transport intoxicants" or otherwise actionable under federal law.

The decision reversed Federal District Judge William H. Kirkpatrick, who agreed with the contention of prohibition authorities that buyers of liquor might be prosecuted for "conspiracy" where the element of transportation was involved.

Mr. Morris appealed from a $200 fine imposed by Judge Kirkpatrick after the defendant had admitted that he had purchased the liquor from Joel D. Kerper, alleged "society bootlegger." Kerper was convicted and sentenced to a year and three months imprisonment and $50,000 fine.

By a two to one vote the circuit judge upheld the appeal, declaring that although Morris may have induced Kerper to transport the liquor to him in New York, he was not guilty of aiding and abetting Kerper's sale or delivery.

"It is conceded," the circuit judge's opinion stated, "that under the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, the purchase of liquor is not made an offense. While the seller of liquor, who delivers it to the purchaser, is liable under the law both for the sale and transportation, the purchaser to whom the goods are delivered is charged with neither the purchase nor the transportation," it was stated.

Whether the purchase nor the transportation, it was stated, may appeal the case for final decision to the supreme court of the United States.

Death Toll In Marion Riot Mounts To Five; Victims Buried Today

Marion, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Official investigation of the riot at the Marion Manufacturing Company's plant on Wednesday, which cost the lives of five men, was temporarily halted today while many of the principals in the case attended a public funeral for four of the five strikers shot down in the early morning battle.

The fifth victim of the flare-up, an 18-year-old boy, died only a short time before the hour set for the funeral rites of his fellow strikers.

Two of the dead men, Randolph Hall and Sam Vickers, were killed outright during the fight. John Jones died a few hours after the affair ended, and Luther Bryson died at the Marion General hospital yesterday.

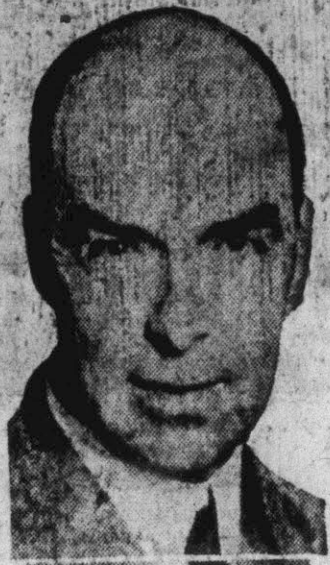

The Rev. A. J. Muste, of the Brookwood Labor College, Katonah, N. Y., conducted the services from a small speakers stand erected near the center of the Marion Manufacturing Company's mill village. Tom Typpett, a fellow teacher of the minister, assisted.

Judge W. F. Harding, under orders from Governor Gardner to sit as a committing magistrate in the state's investigation of the riot, ordered that all those wishing to attend the funeral be allowed to do so, but not go anywhere else.

A total of 38 arrests have been made among the strikers and their sympathizers charging rebellion and resisting an officer. Many of these defendants were relatives of the slain men. Sheriff O. F. Adkins and fourteen deputies and special deputies have been arrested charged with murder and conspiracy to murder. The strikers are free under $500 bonds and the officers under $20,000 bonds.

The ordering of Judge Harding, a justice of the North Carolina Superior Court, to Marion, speeded up the state's investigation by eliminating the necessity of a coroner's inquiry. He convened his special court yesterday afternoon and ad-

HEAVY SALES ON TOBACCO MARKET HERE

More Than Million Pounds Sold Yester- day for An Average Price of $15.35

Tobacco sales on the Greenville market yesterday were 1,005,320 pounds according to announcement made today by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales. The average price for the entire sales was given as $15.35 per hundred pounds.

Offerings on the market today will reach a million and a quarter pounds and the display of speed on the sales during the morning hours indicated that the floors would all sell out by closing time this afternoon. The price situation remains steady apparently about the same as yesterday's sales.

SOVIET FLIERS FAIL TO REACH SEATTLE, WASH.

Some Believe Sea- plane Was Forced to Land At Isolated Spot Along Coast

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 4.—(AP)—The sparsely inhabited coast line of British Columbia continued to hold the secret of the whereabouts of the Russian aviators who are piloting the monoplane "Land of the Soviets," from Moscow to New York.

They departed into the mist-obscurd atmosphere at 6:42 a. m. Pacific time, Thursday, from Sitka, Alaska, on a flight of 900 miles to Seattle and since that time nothing has been heard from them.

It was thought that because of the poor visibility they might put in at Port Angeles, Wash., 100 miles northwest of here. When they did not arrive there yesterday afternoon coast guard cutters began patrolling the straits of Juan de Fuca as a precautionary measure.

There was no great fear felt here for the safety of the crew of four, however, as they were to take the outward passage, which is to the westward of the islands skirting the shore. Those familiar with the west shores of the islands said the Russians might easily come down in their seaplane at any one of several safe harbors and yet be out of communication with the outside world.

FLOOD WATERS STILL RISING

Many Rivers Reach New High Water Marks; Tar River to Reach 20 Feet Mon.

Raleigh, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Flood waters in eastern North Carolina were still rising slowly at most points today. Lee A. Denson, meteorologist of the United States weather bureau here, announced.

"The Cape Fear was still rising at Fayetteville but had dropped six feet at Monrovia today. The Neuse at Smithfield had fallen three-tenths of a foot at Smithfield after going two tenths of a foot above the previous all time high mark of 1919, reaching 21.5 feet.

The Neuse, however, Mr. Denson said was undergoing a second rise at Neuse Station where it stood at 23.7 feet today, or two feet higher than the previous mark of 21.5 feet made on the first run-off this week. This second rise in the upper stream will only continue the highwater stage at Smithfield, Mr. Denson said, with little probability of it going much higher there.

The Cape Fear stood at 63.9 feet at Fayetteville this morning and was still going up slowly, expected to reach about 65 as a crest.

The Tar river at Tarboro stood at 23.3 feet today and will probably reach 28 Sunday. With it standing at 14.7 feet at Greenville today, nearly out of its banks, indications were for a further rise of six feet and a crest of 20 feet Monday.

The Tar was falling at Rocky Mount but its main tributary between Rocky Mount and Tarboro, Fishing creek, was up another foot today.

The men buried today were the victims of a riot which started when a part of the night shift at the textile plant went on an unexpected strike and picketed the company's grounds. Sheriff Adkins said he intervened when a fight started between the picketers and members of the day shift and that the firing started immediately. The sheriff said he believed the first shot came from the group of strikers but the strikers maintain that it came from the sheriff's party. A score of persons were injured in addition to those killed.

Among the developments following the fight was the display of a decided coolness between the officials of the United Textile Workers Union of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and the officials of the International Labor Defense, a communist organization.

William Ross, a union official, said he resented the presence of communists in Marion. Linton Oaks, publicity man of the International Labor Defense referred to the union officials as "bureaucrats of the American Federation of Labor."

The coffins of the four slain men were draped with gray and covered with wild mountain flowers gathered from nearby ranges. A few artificial wreaths were scattered among the goldenrod.

On the platform behind the speakers were men and women strikers and sympathizers and in front of the stand the relatives of the dead men were standing in small, hysterical groups.

As the first hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," was being sung, a daughter of Jones, one of the eight children left orphaned, interrupted with a high pitched cry of "Oh God, how can I give up my

Large Packhouse Destroyed by Fire

A large two-story packhouse on the farm of Mrs. Ella Moore, at Cox Mill, was completely destroyed by fire about 11 o'clock this morning. With the exception of a few primings and tips already sold, the packhouse contained fifteen acres of tobacco of which was the property of Norwood Bradshaw and five to Tom Moore.

Tobacco graders having finished two barns of tobacco left the packhouse earlier in the morning and no one was near the building at the time the fire was discovered by a man who was picking cotton in a nearby field and saw the flames burst from the roof of the structure.

The building and contents were partially covered by insurance. Residents of the neighborhood stated that the loss would prove great in view of the tobacco was probably one of the best crops in the county this year and what had been sold from it had brought far more than the average prevailing price this year.

Four men today bore marks of a physical encounter in the courtroom where two Los Angeles ministers are being tried for contempt as a result of remarks they made about the recent trial of Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of the theatrical magnet.

Those involved in the clash and the injuries received are the Rev. Robert P. "Fighting Bob" Shuler, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, south, a bruised eye; the Rev. G. A. Briegleb, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, scratches and bruises; Deputy District Attorney James Costello, bruised right cheek and Ira P. Gay, juror in the trial of Mrs. Pantages, bruised knuckles, scratched face.

Gay, alleged to have been the subject of recent radio remarks by Shuler, in which the minister charged that "the Lois Pantages jury was hung before taking of testimony was begun, and I can name the man who will hang it," accused the pastor at adjournment of the latter's hearing yesterday on contempt charges.

"Take off your glasses," Gay demanded of Shuler before the bench upon which three Superior court judges sat in banc.

"Why should I?" the minister asked.

"Because you have treated me unjustly. You have asked me questions which have placed me in a bad light, and you have given me no opportunity to clear myself. So take 'em off."

Shuler attempted to pacify Gay. The latter, however, shot out his right fist and blackened Shuler's eye. Shuler missed a return blow and caught Costello on the cheek, nearly flooring him. Briegleb, co-defendant with Shuler in the contempt charges, whose case was taken under advisement, stepped between the antagonists and was jostled and bruised. Gay's face was scratched in the melee before he was led into Superior Court Judge Carlos Hardy's chambers, where he was placed under arrest. He later was released pending filing of any charges by Shuler.

Competition Waxing Hot As End of Second Period Nears

Swinging into line with high hopes and ambition, candidates in the election department are expressing new determination to put forth their best efforts during this candidates in all districts and their important period. Reports from friends filled with the same sort of enthusiasm, make one believe that the remainder of the race will be very spirited.

The "second period" is now on and the present vote schedule will be in effect for seven more days—then the schedule is very sharply reduced. The longer you delay in getting in "full swing," the less valuable your subscription will be from a vote standpoint. Gaston Sheriff Was Chief Witness Heard Today In Trial Of Strikers

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Confessions by George Carter and Louis McLaughlin, two of seven men on trial in Superior court on charges of murder growing out of the death of O. F. Adholt, chief of police of Gastonia, in a textile mill strike shooting, today were related to I. M. Allen, sheriff of Cleveland county.

The confessions were admitted in evidence by Judge M. V. Barnhill presiding after a hard battle on the part of the defense to prevent being used.

Taking of testimony in the case started this morning. The jury had been completed late yesterday. Besides the murder charge the men are charged with assaulting three other policemen.

Dr. H. R. McConnell, who treated Adholt after he was shot and until he died on June 14 hours after the shooting, described the shotgun wounds and gave as the cause of death 16 shot in a lung. After hearing a number of minor witnesses as to the location of the tent colony where the shooting occurred Sheriff Allen was placed on the witness stand.

The sheriff was allowed to qualify and then the defense raised an objection to his testimony. The jury was sent from the room and the sheriff was questioned by the defense. He said that he had not warned the men that their statements might be used against them and Attorney Frank Flowers for the defense argued that this should bar the testimony.

The sheriff, after the jury returned, testified that Carter told him he did not do any of the shooting. McLaughlin, he said, told him he had fired the second shot from the union hall.

Carter, the sheriff said, asserted that when the shooting began he threw down his gun and ran. Later he procured the gun but did not use it.

Charles Mason, who lived in the house adjoining the union grounds, testified that he heard Fred Erwin Bral tell the people that "the mill thugs and stool pigeons had come down there to raise trouble and we are not going to have it. I want the guards to arrest anyone that tries to come in and bring them in, and what I'll do won't be good for them." Bral then told the people to "go to the mill, picket the mill and go in the mill."

The crowd then went off and by the time a few of the people had returned Chief Adholt, Gilbert and Roach came up the witness stand. (Continued on page 4)

GERMANY TO PAY TRIBUTE STRESEMANN

Funeral Services for Fallen Leader Will Be Held Saturday Evening

Berlin, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Arrangements for forward rapidly today for impressive state tribute to the mains of Dr. Gustav Stresemann, Reich foreign minister, who died of a heart attack early yesterday morning.

The statesman, who more than any other, molded post-war Germany will be buried in the small Lutzenstaedtwische cemetery in the northern part of Berlin, in accordance with wishes he expressed in a recent last will.

Saturday evening his body will be taken from his home, where death overtook him, and placed on a bier in the session hall of the Reichstag, scene for years of Dr. Stresemann's political victories.

Chancellor Mueller will deliver the funeral oration, after which the body will be removed to the front of the Reichstag building and the public allowed to pass by. The public's part in the funeral ceremony will end at the cemetery gates, however, only a few person friends, prominent officials and co-workers remaining to witness interment.

A number of Dr. Stresemann's favorite songs, including a hymn or two, will be sung at the graveside. Whether the funeral procession will include a military parade was to be left to President von Hindenburg, arriving in Berlin today. Most of the other details of the funeral were arranged in accordance with wishes of Frau Stresemann and their two sons. Mourning for the dead statesman deepened with the realization of the full extent of his work for the Fatherland. Messages of condolence poured in from all over the world.

Warfare and minister had torn the peace plan into an inferno for almost a day.

A band of desperate prisoners, barricaded in one of the cell houses, killed guards they held at bay and battled furiously at their repeated demands for a "free getaway" had been refused.

Under a barrage of rifle and machine gun fire, a Catholic Priest, Father Patrick O'Neill, placed two charges of dynamite beneath the walls of their stronghold to open a breach for a mass attack of hundreds of besiegers. The explosion failed to break down the walls.

Cold blooded execution of guards held captive by the convicts added horror to the mutiny. Four guards were known to have been shot down in retaliation after the demand had been refused. Others were killed in the fighting soon after the mutiny broke out at noon yesterday.

Several prisoners were reported dead and wounded. It was likely the death list would total twenty. Warden Francis E. Crawford, who defied the convicts, was shot in the battle but was not believed seriously hurt. There were other casualties among the besiegers, how many it was impossible to tell.

Throughout the night of battle flames flickered and smoke rolled from the buildings fired by the mutinous prisoners. From every vantage point, the besiegers,

SUNDOWN STORIES

THE CRICKETS DECIDE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I'm ready," said the little black clock, as John and Peggy stole quietly to the back hall where the clock was sitting, waiting for them. He got down from the desk, managing his father's small legs perfectly. "We're ready, too," John said. "But where are you going to take us tonight?" "I made an engagement," said the little black clock, "to visit some crickets. And I've turned the time back when the crickets first decided something. We'd better hurry."

So the little black clock took hold of one of Peggy's hands, and with his other hand he took hold of one of John's. "It's so much better," said the little black clock, "to use my hands to guide you away to adventures than merely to tell the correct time, which any ordinary clock can do."

"That's what we think," John said. "There they are!" said the little black clock. "They're having their big meeting now. The children found themselves in a big field. It was getting a little dark, but they could see a great many crickets sitting around. One cricket, on a tiny platform made out of a piece of bark from a tree, was talking to the others."

"Well, has it been decided?" The crickets all agreed it had. "To be perfectly fair, we'd better vote upon it."

So one cricket went around to all the others and took up their votes. If they used a piece of grass it meant they were voting one way, and if they used a piece of weed it meant they were voting the other way. "They've decided," the little black clock explained. "But what have they decided?" John asked. "The leader cricket is about to announce that new. Shall we stay and listen?" "Yes, please," Peggy urged.

BEST SOUTH

In discussing the labor conditions in the textile mills of his State, Governor Gardner of North Carolina measures up to the stature of a real leader. "We cannot build a prosperous citizenship on low wages," he says. "We cannot build an efficient labor force on extremely long hours. . . . We do not want docile citizens or docile employees." All this is sound economics and sound statesmanship. It is also in direct contravention of the advertising and preachments of local chambers of commerce in North Carolina and other Southern States, where the prospect of cheap, abundant and easily managed labor has been held out as a lure to Eastern capital.

Much of the industrialization of the South has been achieved under the dominance of economic ideas and principles which belong to the mid-Victorian period rather than to the twentieth century. Governor Gardner sees that this is all wrong, and he does not hesitate to say so. He makes no attempt to minimize the problems of industrial readjustment. He points out that other States, more industrially advanced, have at one time or another faced a similar situation and have found its solution and that the task is no more impossible for North Carolina and her neighbors than it was for them.

Governor Gardner has stated truths which every intelligent and far-sighted mill owner in the South fully knows, and which many of them will candidly admit. Some of them undoubtedly are willing to do their part toward the improvement of working conditions and the advancement of the workers' standards of living, but they cannot change the situation in their own plants on their sole initiative without playing into the hands of less enlightened employers. The same principle applies to the individual States. As Governor Gardner says, the wage levels in a given State must compare favorably, from the employer's point of view, with those in neighboring and competing States, or else the more backward States will reap the rewards while the progressive communities are penalized.

Let this situation, the suggests that the working conditions in North Carolina are not as good as those in other States. The fact that the State is not as well equipped as other States for the handling of the labor problem is a fact. The fact that the State is not as well equipped as other States for the handling of the labor problem is a fact. The fact that the State is not as well equipped as other States for the handling of the labor problem is a fact.

a vast amount of steam behind it if it is to be put into effect. In thus boldly pointing the way to a better day in the industrial South Governor Gardner has done his State and his section a noble service. It is to be hoped that there will be an equally bold response to his leadership.—N. Y. World.

OPEN FORUM

"I'll swear I'll swear!" the foregoing expression, fell from the lips of a girl born and bred in a refined, cultured religious home. Of course it was an outrageous reflection upon parents and home training. But with some of these empty-headed flappers cannot be accounted for if they have any sense at all, they should know that no girl can swear herself into fame, but always into infamy. Never into the respect of decent people, but ever sink herself into the very dregs of filth and the outcropping of humanity. Others may be tolerated in brothels and dens of vice but never among the pure and innocent.

It is to be hoped that the air our beautiful city of Greenville will never more be polluted with such fench.

The above letter was by one of our citizens.

DEATH LIST IN PRISON
RIOT AT CANTON CITY
PROBABLY REACH TWENTY

The prison. Three guards were killed outright in the beginning of the riot. Buildings were set afire as the riot progressed.

Late in the afternoon a counter attack by massed guards resulted in the surrender of 200 prisoners who refused to continue the battle.

These were herded into the "bull pen," while at least 100 of the convicts took refuge in cell house No. 3, from which they directed the fight.

Starting at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the ringleaders began sending out ultimatums demanding their freedom and threatening to kill the guards they held as hostages.

They demanded the warden furnish them with automobiles for safe transportation to a safe distance, where the hostages would be released unharmed.

These demands the warden refused and at 7 o'clock the body of Jack Ellis, guard, was hurled from a window of the embattled cell house. His death was followed at intervals by the killing of three other guards.

Early today the death list available was as follows:
C. W. Rinker, guard, killed in the early fighting.

J. G. Irwin, guard, shot in the first outbreak.
E. P. Brown, guard, shot down from the top of a wall.

Abe Higgins, guard, slain by Daniels in the cell house.
J. J. Ellis, guard, slain in cell house.

James Pardue, ringleader, killed in the fighting.
Burrell, a guard, his throat cut by Red Riley, convict ringleader.

Two Mexican convicts whose throats also were said to have been cut by Riley.
Fifteen feet inside of the door of the body of one of the guards, murdered last night by Daniels, the convicts said. A few feet further along lay the body of Daniel himself, leader of the riot and known executioner of at least three defenseless guards.

The entering men came also upon the bodies of James Pardue and Major Davis, other ringleaders. It was evident they had shot them. The shots that killed them having been fired at close range. The features of the dead mutineers were mutilated.

Investigation of Shipping Board Now
Looms in Congress

Washington, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The possibility of a new congressional investigation arose today on the basis of Comptroller General McCarl's report that millions of dollars of government money had been lost through activities of the Shipping Board's Merchant Fleet Corporation.

Few members of congress had had time to study the report, but the suggestion was advanced that McCarl's proposal for legislation to make the corporation's activities under scrutiny of his office called for an investigation.

Farmers Sell Your
TOBACCO IN GREENVILLE

Prices continued to move upward last week, the sales for the week totaling 3,082,026 pounds for an average price of $14.21 per hundred.

We are selling tobacco daily from practically every county in Eastern Carolina and the farmers say it is paying them to sell in Greenville, even though some of them travel at least 125 miles.

Those in position to absolutely know, say we are highest market and have keener buying competition than any market in the East.

Since Last Season—

Three of the warehouses have made large additions, which gives the market increased floor space of about two acres. Some of the factories have made enlargements to their buildings, installing additional redrying facilities and other equipment. The Greenville tobacco market is decidedly in better position to handle, daily, larger quantities of tobacco than ever before.

Tobacco Warehouses—

Greenville tobacco market has nine (9) large and modern brick warehouses with close to 14 acres floor space, sufficient to accommodate 2,225,000 lbs. of tobacco daily. These warehouses are managed by men of years of experience.

Buyers and Factories—

Greenville tobacco market has four (4) sets of buyers, representing all the important companies in the world, using bright tobacco. Nine (9) larger and modern tobacco factories are located here, additions having been made to several of them since last season, while one new plant has been built.

Roads and Locations—

Greenville tobacco market is located in the heart of Eastern North Carolina. Seven fine hard surfaced roads lead into Greenville. Tobacco growers living 125 miles from Greenville to tobacco market sell their tobacco in Greenville and return home same day.

Where Will You Stand After Saturday

STATE GRID TEAMS GET INTO ACTION

Football teams of this section to-day will find themselves preparing to enter the field of the foe, en route to the scene of the clash. Tomorrow's North Carolina game at College Park, Me., in the afternoon today, will set the University of Maryland to work in a game that many believe will turn out to be as thrilling as last season's free-scoring affair. "Monk" Younger's Davidson college Wildcats were scheduled to leave early today for Spartanburg to meet the Wofford Terrors tomorrow afternoon. The game will be another in which the critics will have a hard time attempting to dope the outcome. Davidson's showing against Clemson last week, and the manner in which Wofford disposed of Hig Point indicates that Terrors and Wildcats will have quite a battle of it before they call a halt to the day's activities.

Wake Forest goes into Richmond. The game brings together two evenly matched teams, but the eleven are below the standard of the schools.

These three contest complete the major invasions by teams in this section, but there will be "extensive entertaining" as the society editor would phrase it, on the part of four southern conference teams during the week-end.

"Open House" begins today in Raleigh, when the North Carolina State college Wolfpack plays host to the Washington and Lee Generals. State will enter the game with its Captain John Lepo, its tackle at his regular berth. It had been feared that Lepo would be missing, due to a stomach disorder. Melton, backfield star, however, is nursing injuries, and will watch the opening game of his team from the bench.

Tomorrow will find Duke University, South Carolina and Clemson providing entertainment for stalwart opponents. Duke will christen its new stadium in Durham with the University of Pittsburgh. South Carolina meets University of Virginia, at Columbia, and Oglethorpe takes on the Citadel, at Charleston.

Duke sees no cloud on the horizon, except an injury to the knee of Captain Henry Kistler. The Charlotte boy has been bothered with his old trouble, but trainers are hoping to have him in shape to take the field against the Panthers. Kistler led the Blue Devils in practice yesterday, but scampers up and down the field in drills as one thing, and bucking stiff opposition in a real game is another.

HEELS TO SEND A HEAVY LINE AGAINST FOE

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 4.—The North Carolina-Maryland game at College Park Saturday, opening the Southern Conference season for both eleven, promises to be a large affair.

The Tar Heels will hurl a ton of human power, lacking just nine pounds, at the Old Liners in their first eleven. And, from the reports, the old liners are likewise packing a heavy attack this year.

From the probable starting line-up announced today by Head Coach Chuck Collins as the squad entrained the Tar Heel line that will start against Maryland will average 191 pounds.

Don Holt and Julian Fenner, who will be the ends, weigh 180 each. Bill Koenig, left tackle, weighs 190, and the right tackle,

CONNIE MACK SAYS WORLD SERIES JUST SOME GAMES BETWEEN TWO GOOD TEAMS

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—(AP)—"I don't think the Philadelphia Athletics, the World Series is 'just a set of games between two good ball clubs.'"

The 67-year-old pilot said today he had not "even given the coming series with the Chicago Cubs much thought yet."

"To me it's just a set of games between two good ball clubs. In fact I haven't given it much thought yet; I've been so busy with other things. But I'm going to begin thinking about it soon, now."

SMALL CROWDS WITNESS GAME IN THE MAJORS

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Major league baseball outpointed the weather man yesterday, but easily lost all decisions to the fans who refused all along the line to give the turnstiles a work-out. On the Giant-Philly game was postponed in a schedule of four, and that postponement was ordered more to make a double-bill with which to close the Baker Bowl season on Saturday than from any necessity imposed by the weather.

The Cubs and the Reds again had the National League stage to themselves, the Bruins seized the opportunity to win another game and so to forge ahead of the Hendricks forces in the series by two decisions to one. The score was 8 to 1.

Rogers Hornsby got only one safe blow in five attempts, and faded definitely from the race for the National League batting championship, which seems to belong to Frank O'Doul of Philadelphia. The Braves' chances of finishing second now are none too good. The Browns noted out the Dodgers by 3 to 2 in ten innings, and two late rallies against Willis H. Hall, and retained a chance to tie Peck's club for third place. The Browns must take three more in succession to turn the trick.

In the other American League game, Ted Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 3 to 1 victory over Detroit at Chicago. It was Lyons' fourteenth victory of the season for the seventh-place Pale Hose.

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

SYNOPSIS: A wealthy girl vows she will marry a penniless musician against his will! Barbara Landon on ship-board unexpectedly meets Ray Lowther, who disappeared mysteriously three years before just after they had become engaged. Ray reluctantly explains that he fled because his fortune had been lost and regards Barbara's millions as an insuperable barrier to their marriage. Barbara's three years of mad passion have not enabled her to forget her lover, and she begs him to marry her. He refuses but acknowledges he still loves her. Barbara, determined to change his opinions and marry him, makes a mad threat—if he does not marry her, she will see that no other man ever wants her!

Chapter 5 A GIRL PLOTS

In the days that followed Barbara made it painfully clear that she did intend carrying out her threat and, moreover, she set about doing so with a thoroughness that secretly delighted but openly scandalized everyone from 40 up.

As she strode around the deck with two or usually more men in tow gray heads would be bent together and as like as not their owners would be whispering.

"Did you see Barbara Landon at the dance last night? My dear o. . . if it weren't for her money she never would get away with it!"

Ralph Henderson was Barbara's constant escort and she now encouraged the Englishman in a manner that made his hopes soar high. She even permitted him to kiss her, although he found it disturbing that she invariably selected the most public places.

With his English viewpoint he felt that he would not have tolerated her conduct, and he not thought that it suited his interests to do so.

Although he scarcely relished the thought of his future wife making herself as conspicuous as Barbara was doing, he felt that her bank account at his disposal would eventually prove sufficient compensation.

It was inevitable that the news of Barbara's escapades should reach Ray and, although Barbara and he had not spoken since that first night, she waved to him gaily when she and her partner first stepped on the dance floor.

"Baby millions seems sweet on you," Len once remarked.

Ray did not deign to reply, but he could not help a hot color coming into his face.

"Your girl friend's getting herself talked about," Len observed one night.

"Can't you let her alone? She's only having a good time!" Len mimicked him. "Then she might as well broadcast her love scenes with that English fellow and have done with it!"

But that was too much for Ray. "I've stood about enough of your talk," he said angrily. "If you don't keep your mouth shut about Miss Landon, I'll thrash you within an inch of your life!"

He looked capable of doing it too, and it was this rather than his actual words that had a chastening effect upon the banjoist.

"Sorry. Didn't mean you to take me seriously. No harm meant, old man."

All the same, it was not likely that Ray would sleep any too well. Barbara's conduct both hurt and infuriated him and, although he felt decidedly that something should be done, aside from marrying her he failed to see what he could reasonably do.

Sometimes, as he tossed sleep-lessly to the tune of Len's heavy breathing, he would feel his resolutions waver. Supposing that it should be best for Barbara to marry him? Supposing that it be the only way to stop her present madness?

And, although he played continuously with this idea, he was too stubborn by nature to accept it readily. He was wont at such moments to console himself with the thought that things couldn't possibly get any worse than they were already.

But, he had not taken into account Barbara's ingenuity. That things could and did get worse was evident and the climax was reached the night of the fancy dress ball.

It was common property that Barbara was well under way before she even appeared on the dance floor. She seemed to have omitted much of her costume. A hula-hula dancer she represented and it seemed that the largest item of her get-up had been the tin of cocoa which she had smeared her body.

Ralph Henderson nearly lost his eyeglass—he did not usually wear one, but he was sporting one that night in his impersonation of a foreign diplomat—when he saw her.

However, he managed to assume a semblance of appreciation, and having bowed himself double he replaced his monocle and said, "Ripping, what?"

Immediately she seized it from him and stuck it into her own eye. "Simply topping, don't cher know," she mimicked him then, linking her arm laughingly through his.

"Come on, Henly, and buy me a

He regarded her doubtfully. "I say, old girl, don't you think you'd better wait a little . . ." but she interrupted.

"What's the matter? Never mind then, I'll get one of the others." And knowing that she would, obediently, he followed her into the smoke room.

Naturally her costume was not lost upon Ray, nor, for that matter, upon the other boys in the orchestra.

Len whistled and opened his mouth to comment but immediately shut it again. Ray looked too calm.

During one of the intervals, Barbara and Henderson were sitting in the smoke room discussing the various costumes. So good humored did she seem that the man judged a plan on which he had been cogitating for days.

"I say, Barbara, I've had a brain wave! Supposin' we leave this boat at Southampton—I'm getting fed up with it, aren't you? We could run down to my place in Surrey and I'd put on a house party for you; what do you say?"

"Wonderful, Henry! At times you're almost clever!"

His eyes lit suddenly and leaning towards her he squeezed her hand. He was too excited to notice that she moved hers out of his instantly.

"That's splendid—absolutely. I'll begin making plans at once. It's a promise, what?"

Barbara agreed recklessly, "Yes, it's a promise."

Then she laughed. If her own plans miscarried it did not matter what became of her after that night!

Barbara puts an impulsive plan into action in tomorrow's chapter.

ECONOMY DEMANDS

That every automobile owner should have the oiling, greasing, washing and polishing of his car done at the place of business of the dealer who is best qualified to render efficient service. Especially so when you know the dealer to have an efficient shop, modern equipment, and a true knowledge of the car. In our shop we have all of this combined with neatness and courtesy. It is to the especial interest of the Ford owner to bring his or her car to our shop for service for more than one reason.

FIRST: Our mechanics know the Ford car so well that in greasing it we do not overlook any of the numerous and often vital points of the car to be greased. The average greaser only greases these parts that are immediately visible.

SECOND: We know paint and what is best for it. We know how to prolong life and luster by properly washing and polishing. Our knowledge of paints and varnishes is such as is not found outside of first class body plants.

THIRD: The oils and greases that we use are of the very best. We challenge anyone to prove the contrary.

FOURTH: A visit to our garage will readily show that for neatness and modern mechanical equipment we are unexcelled. There is nothing that could happen to any automobile that we cannot fix or repair.

FIFTH: Our charges are reasonable. We will wash your car for $1.00, oil and grease with genuine Alemite for $1.00. All other work is priced accordingly.

COTTON MARKET

New York, Oct. 4. (AP)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 2 to 5 points with active months selling about 6 to 8 points net higher during the early trading. The market was relatively steady and active, with the central and western sections of the eastern belt. This advance carried December up to 18.75 and March to 18.17, but the market met considerable resistance at these figures, and there was a little more selling later on after talk of larger private crop figures.

Liverpool cables reported that London and Bombay buying had been supplied by hedging in the market there.

The decline from the early advance carried the market off to 18.76 for December and 18.07 for March or about 4 points below yesterday's closing quotations.

At midday December was selling around 18.65.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 4. (AP)—Despite profit-taking on advances in price, the wheat market here maintained an undertone of strength most of the time today. Firmness of the Winnipeg wheat market attracted unusual attention here, especially as indications pointed to a general disposition by Canadian interests to hold wheat back until European European stocks of wheat dropped to levels that would necessitate trans-Atlantic importers paying prices which represent a satisfactory return to producers. Export demand today for North American wheat, however, was not brisk.

Wheat closed firm 1-2 to 1-3 1/2 a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-4 to 1-9 1/4 advance; oats unchanged to 1-4 up and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12 cents.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 4. (AP)—With trading running close to record-breaking proportions, the stock market witnessed another tremendous wave of liquidation today followed by a brisk rally. Early declines in scores of active issues ranged from 3 to 25 points but the subsequent recovery wiped out or cut down many of these losses and sent a number of shares one to three points above yesterday's final quotations. The ticker was nearly an hour behind the market in the early afternoon, and total sales in the first two hours ran just below 2,750,000 shares.

Yesterday's decline, which was one of the most severe in recent stock market history, forced the liquidation of thousands of weakened speculative accounts but when it looked as though another wide open break was imminent, strong banking support was supplied and prices rallied briskly. The large increase in Federal Reserve brokers' loans, coming on top of a week of steadily declining prices, had further undermined speculative confidence.

High priced specialties were again hard hit. J. I. Case dropped 25 points, Peoples Gas 19 3-4, Columbia Carbon 13, Auburn Auto 11 3-4, and Allied Chemical 10, Newport Co., Newton Steel, Columbia Graphophone, International Combustion, Yellow Truck, Simmons Co., Stone & Webster, Eastman Kodak, Besenut, American Power & Light, and United Aircraft sold down 4 to 6 1-2 points, the first five reaching new low ground for the year.

U. S. Steel common, sold down to 210 1-4 and then rebounded to 215, or 2 points above last night's close. American Can rallied 3 points and Westinghouse, Radio, American Telephone, Gillette Safety Razor, National Biscuit and American & Foreign Power skipped back 7 to 3 points above yesterday's final quotations. Commercial Solvents, which broke 70 points yesterday, rallied 25, American Water Works, rallied 14 and Standard Gas & Electric 10.

Except for the publication of a series of favorable sales and earnings statements, and the action of the American Bankers Association in favoring an investigation of the brokers' loan situation, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement.

BROADWAY STAR DEAD

Jeanne Eagles Dies in Sanatorium as Result of Alcohol Poisoning

New York, Oct. 4. (AP)—The theatrical world was shocked today by the sudden death of Jeanne Eagles, actress, who created the character of Salde Thompson in "Rain." She was 35 years old.

She was seized with convulsions last night as she was preparing for examination in a private sanatorium on Park avenue conducted by Dr. Edward B. Cowles, nerve specialist.

Her secretary, who had accompanied her to the sanatorium, and nurses called a physician, but when he examined her she was dead.

After an autopsy, Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, assistant chief medical examiner, said death was caused by alcoholic psychosis. He said a chemical analysis of the vital organs would be made.

"It's the same old story, nothing unusual," Dr. Gonzales said. "Miss Eagles died of alcoholism, not from acute alcoholism but from alcoholic psychosis. She had been acting strangely for three or four days but had not taken a drink in two days."

Miss Eagles underwent an operation for ulcers of the eyes three weeks ago at St. Luke's hospital. She left the hospital ten days later with her condition greatly improved.

Ten State Highways Closed to Traffic

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 4. (AP)—The State Highway commission at one o'clock this afternoon reported ten state highways still closed due to flood in eastern Carolina rivers with Fayetteville cut off on all state highways but one as the Cape Fear river slowly continued rising toward a 65 foot crest at that city.

The only route left open into Fayetteville was the Raeford-Fayetteville road, Route No. 24, the commission said.

The roads closed today were:

No. 21 from Raleigh to Fayetteville. No. 24 from Fayetteville to Clinton.

No. 22 from Fayetteville to Dunn. No. 22 from Lumberton to Fayetteville.

No. 21 from Fayetteville to Elizabethtown.

No. 53 from Fayetteville to Sanford.

No. 21 at Hannah's creek.

No. 70 from Lumberton to Red Springs.

No. 10 at Smithfield over Neuse river.

No. 48 at Weldon.

father." Other grief stricken relatives joined in the cry until the hymn had stopped. After quieting the cries the group on the stand sang "They Tell Me of an Uncolored Day," which was followed by the union rallying song written by one of the strikers.

As the two hour service progressed, John Mills, aged uncle of Luther Bryson, fainter. A mixed quartette sang "The Land Where We Never Grow Old," as he was being revived and the service was closed with a long prayer from a mountain preacher named Poole.

The Rev. James Myers, secretary of the Federation of Churches of Christ in America, who took part in the funeral ceremonies, admonished the thousands or more assembled to "put out of their hearts any spirit of revenge, any spirit of hatred in order that we may commune with God."

The Rev. Mr. Muste declared, "We must see to it that the martyrs of Marion did not have died in vain. We shall not accomplish that by bitterness toward this individual or that, though if there were bitterness in the hearts of any here today I would not dare sit in judgment on such."

A telegram was read from Dr. S. Parks Cadman, of Brooklyn, extending sympathy to the families of the slain men.

The body of Jones will be taken to Virginia for burial and that of Vickers to Rutherford county, 20 miles away. Hall will be interred here and Bryson's last resting place is yet to be decided.

The Dual-Fuel Heater

Burns Gas—Burns coal or any other solid fuel—by means of the Patented Cole's Air-Vac tube. Same principle as carburetor on automobile.

Burns more air—makes less smoke and ashes. Clean, economical, easy to operate. Louvers on sides and front assure warm floors.

Hard Coal Results with Soft Coal.
The money this remarkable principle will save will pay for your Radio. Insist upon the Original. When in need of heat think of Cole's.
