TOBACCO MARKET AVERAGES $25.49 HERE

HIGHEST PRICE OF SEASON ESTABLISHED ON 967,860 POUNDS OF LEAF MONDAY

Market Advanced Nearly Four Cents a Pound Over Last Friday When High- est Record of Season Was Set; About 1,300,000 Pounds of Leaf On Floors of Nine Warehouses Today With Prices Firm

The price situation continued to develop strength on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday and all previous price records for the present season were completely shattered, according to the official report of sales made public this morning by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales. Completely outdistancing the record of $21.85 per hundred pounds set last Friday, the market yesterday established a general average of $25.49 on 967,860 pounds of tobacco. This netted the farmer a total sum of $246,736.55, the largest amount paid out by the market for any single day since the opening of the season.

It was stated that there was approximately a million, three hundred thousand pounds of leaf on the floors of the nine warehouses today with indications that the bulk of the offerings would be disposed of by the late afternoon. This will be the second time of the week that the market has been blocked and warehousemen and factory employees were working feverishly today in an effort to clear the floors as rapidly as possible to make ready for another day's sales.

The gradual rise in prices has been instrumental in attracting hundreds of people here the last several days, and yesterday was no exception. Farmers who had never sold here before came to see what the Greenville market was doing and what they saw gave them one of the greatest thrills of the season. There was a considerable amount of good tobacco in evidence on the floors of the various warehouses yesterday and competitive bidding by representatives of the large buying concerns was probably more pronounced than any other time of the season. This, of course, played an important part in the general increase of prices and enabled the market to establish the highest general average of the season.

It was indicated that prices continued to remain firm today with all grades bringing prices similar to those featuring yesterday's sales. Like the day before when hundreds of new faces from far were in evidence, sales continued today with many visitors who had brought their offerings here that they might also share in the favorable turn taken by the price situation.

Mechanics Lien Law Considered By American Bar

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A mechanics' lien law designed for adoption in all states alike and which required five years of drafting was submitted today to the conference of commissioners on uniform laws of the American bar association, session here.

The law, known as the fourth draft of a uniform mechanics lien act provides penalties for false statements and includes liens for materials on real properties. It contains a requirement that an owner shall demand from a contractor a sworn statement as to his debts before making progress payments. It also requires retention by the owner of ten per cent of the contract price.

N. C. Supervisors of Census Named

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Supervisors for the 1930 census, their districts and headquarters, announced by the director of the census bureau today included: Mount, N. C., for Edgecombe, Franklin, Granville, Halifax, Nash, Vance, Warren, and Wilson, with headquarters at Rocky Mount.

FLOOD DANGER DECREASES AT MIAMI, FLORIDA

Ten Thousand Persons Who Fled From Home Are Breathing Easier Today

Miami, Fla., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Between 5,000 and 10,000 persons who have temporarily abandoned their suburban homes in the Miami area, breathed easier today as the huge lake to water coming out of the everglades remained stationary at the 8.12 foot stage in the Miami canal.

Whether or not the sluggish mass which was sent out of the everglades after excessive rainfall, will mount higher was dependent, engineers said, upon the depth of the vast lake west and north of Hialeah toward Okeechobee. This was undetermined today.

Water was expected to rise no more than two inches in Hialeah, country club estates, and other surrounding suburbs during high tide today. Miami paper apparatus was not endangered. Only a fringe of the city proper had any water at all, and it's depth was negligible.

Meanwhile, practically all residents west of Hialeah and a majority in Hialeah and country club estates had temporarily abandoned their homes while headquarters of the American Legion relief organization were moved from the city hall to the chamber of commerce because of rising water yesterday.

W. J. Knox, Hialeah city engineer repeated today former statements that little can be done now to relieve the situation in way of drinking or drainage as water will flow into Hialeah from the higher everglades level faster than Biscayne bay and the swollen Miami river can receive it.

"Unprecedented rains are responsible for the flood," Mr. Knox said. "Perhaps if such rains had been foreseen conditions might have been relieved to a certain extent but there is just too much water for the Miami river and present canals to drain."

Fall's Transactions With Sinclair To Be Introduced At Capital Bribery Trial

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The government rested its case in the bribery trial of Albert B. Fall today after introducing testimony concerning his deals with Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate.

The defense motion for a directed verdict was overruled by Justice Hitz and the first defense witness, Gano Dunn, president of the J. G. White Engineering Corporation, which constructed the naval oil storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, was called.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The government won a point in the bribery trial of Albert B. Fall today by Justice William Hitz ruling that it could introduce testimony showing Fall's transactions with Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil operator now serving a term in jail, which resulted in Sinclair getting a lease on the Teapot Dome oil reserve in Wyoming.

The government desired to use the testimony to show that about the same time Fall received $100,000 from Edward L. Doherty, he also was negotiating with Sinclair who paid his son-in-law, Mahlon T. Everhart a total of $253,000 in security bonds and several thousand dollars in cash.

Everhart's story of how Sinclair paid the money for one-third interest in the Tres Rio ranch in New Mexico was generally regarded as having brought the oil operator a verdict of acquittal at his trial in 1928 on charges of having conspired

S. R. ROSS DIES OF INJURIES IN ROAD ACCIDENT

Bethel Man to Be Laid to Rest in Chery Hill Cemetery Here Tomorrow

S. R. Ross, of Bethel, employe of the Martin county highway commission, died in a Rocky Mount hospital last night at 8:45 as result of injuries sustained when he fell from a road machine on a Martin county highway last Friday.

Funeral services will be conducted from his late home in Bethel tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and the body will be brought to Greenville for interment in Chery Hill cemetery at 4 o'clock. Services will be conducted by Rev. Ben Cowan, pastor of the Primitive Baptist church.

Mr. Ross is believed to have suffered internal injuries. His condition became gradually worse and little hope was entertained for his recovery.

He was a native of Pitt county, the son of the late Alfred Ross who resided near Greenville. Mr. Ross and his family lived in the Greenville vicinity before moving to Bethel several years ago. He was engaged in farming before going with the highway commission.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter and four sons: Mrs. Raymond Willis, of Bethel; Earl, of Washington, Alfred, of Wargenton, Harvey of Oak City, and Jesse of Bethel. He is also survived by several brothers and sisters.

Mr. Ross was well and favorably known by a wide circle of friends both in Pitt and Martin counties and his death came as a distinct shock to people of both communities.

Seventeen Women Hurt As School Porch Collapses

Blue Mountain, Miss., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Seventeen young women students of Blue Mountain college were in hospitals at New Albany, Miss., with broken bones and other injuries and more than a score others were under treatment at the college here for less severe hurts—the result of the collapse of a second story porch of a school dormitory last night.

A section of the flooring gave way during the final event of "initiation week," a student custom to induct freshmen into the activities of college life.

Early Ending Of Strike Trial Indicated Today; Woman Goes On Stand

Charlotte, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Possibility that the end of the case would come earlier than expected loomed at noon today in the case of seven National Textile Workers Union leaders and members on trial on charges of murder and assault growing out of a strike shooting in Gastonia last June.

After the stage had closely questioned Mrs. Edith Saunders Miller of New York, wife of Clarence Miller, one of the defendants, regarding her religious beliefs and Communist teachings the defense called K. Y. Hendricks, another defendant, to the stand.

Before Hendricks started testifying, however, there was an argument regarding the admitting of the questions asked Mrs. Miller regarding religion and her teachings. She had said she had told children of the Soviet flag, and had told them that "when the workers control they would have a flag of their own." She also testified that she believed that "man controls his own destiny" and that she did not believe a supreme being had anything to do with it.

The argument continued with the jury out of the room until Judge Barnhill stopped it by declaring the evidence stood.

ROTARY HEAD SPEAKER AT LOCAL CLUB

Governor Dwire, of Winston-Salem, delivered his address here last night. The speaker emphasized the necessity of the extension of Rotary in the club and the practice of Rotary ideals on the part of individual members in their daily walk of life.

He pointed out the rapid growth of Rotary during its 25 years of existence and showed that its record had been one of constant achievement in behalf of higher moral development.

He declared the future held forth greater opportunity than ever before for the application of the high ideals of the club and urged his hearers to be up and doing in an effort to render a higher type of service to their fellowmen.

The complaint against him, he added, was that he was a personal friend of David Walker, a member of a large Japanese pottery importing firm. He said he was a friend of Walker, had visited with him frequently and had "no apology to make for it."

Russians Threaten Further Reprisals In Manchuria Today

Tokyo, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Official Chinese news from Harbin reporting a Chinese-Russian battle at Laha-susu in which 500 Chinese soldiers were drowned, stated that the Russians have occupied Lin Kiang Hsien and have threatened further "reprisals" in Manchuria.

The Chinese official reports allege that the Russian activity began on Sunday night when the Russians started intense air bombing which crippled telegraph and telephone communications in the Lin Kiang Hsien region. The reports said that the Chinese defenders of that village were forced to retreat, it was not known whether the Russians were remaining.

A Soviet statement reaching Harbin by way of Khabarovsk said that the Soviet army and navy took decisive steps on the Amur frontier as a reprisal for Chinese gunfire and mine-laying in the river aimed at Soviet steamers. The statement asserts that the same punishment will follow any future repetitions of these actions by the Chinese.

Ship Goes Ashore In Alaskan Waters

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The steamer Alameda went ashore early today at the south end of Wrangell Narrows, Alaska, said a wireless message intercepted by the radio station at Everett, Wash.

The message apparently was a request to the coast guard cutter Unalga for assistance, and said the stern of the vessel was ashore while the bow was free. The message also said she was unable to turn her propeller.

First reports gave no indication of weather conditions and nothing was said as to immediate danger. The Alameda is a cargo and passenger carrier of 3,100 tons plying Alaskan waters. It was assumed she had passengers on board, but the number was not known here.

SEE SOLUTION GANG MURDERS AT CHICAGO

Police Arrest Man They Believe Holds Key to Brutal Gang Slayings

Chicago, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The state's attorney today held in custody a man he believes holds the key to some of the most vicious gang murders of recent years.

The man—Frank Bieg, Alias Bludge, Alias Perry—was being asked these questions: "Who killed McSwigg?" (Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwigg who was assassinated in front of the Pony cafe April 27, 1926).

"Were you one of the men who killed the New York gangster, Frankie Yale, last year?" "Were you one of the men who took part in the execution of seven of Bugs Moran gangsters, lining them up against a garage wall and shooting them down last Valentine's day?"

Bieg's arrest last Saturday followed three months of surveillance. Three letters written by Bieg's wife to Al (scarface) Capone, now in jail in Philadelphia for gun toting, put the state's attorney on Bieg's trail. The letters were intercepted in Philadelphia and turned over to State's Attorney Swanson who since has directed the investigation which led to Bieg's arrest.

But Roche, special investigator for the state's attorney, said that pictures of Bieg, under the Alias Perry, had been identified as being one of the actual slayers of Yale.

Mrs. Bieg's letters to Capone asked $10,000 from him to enable her husband to flee Chicago and gangster enemies who sought his life. The letters threatened to "tell the cops everything" if Capone failed to provide flight money for Bieg.

The first letter said in part: "You know what Frank has done for you. He's got to get out of town pronto, for the other mob (gangs) are wise. So you get us $10,000 in cash, and get it quick."

The second letter was somewhat stronger in tone and told Capone to "kick across" with the cash, "or Frank will go to the police and spill everything he knows. Everything."

The third letter was abrupt: "All right. You are just as good as putting Frank on the spot. Well, how'll you like getting the finger on yourself? Frank's going to tell. He remembers 15 shootings he did because you ordered him to do them. He's going to tell about why you had him bump off Ben Newmark—because you heard Ben wanted to steal your racket and had put up a cash offer to the man that got you. (Newmark was an investigator for former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe).

Koch also produced a letter written by H. R. Wylie, of the Wylie pottery company of Huntington, W. Va., to President Hoover last August asking Koch's dismissal on the ground that he was prejudiced in favor of importers.

He witness said he had recommended no rates to the house committee but that his testimony was probably detrimental to the pottery industry in its effort to obtain particular rates.

The complaint against him, he added, was that he was a personal friend of David Walker, a member of a large Japanese pottery importing firm. He said he was a friend of Walker, had visited with him frequently and had "no apology to make for it."

MacDonald Asserts Peace Unites U. S. and Britain In Address Of Farewell

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP)—In a farewell message today to the American people Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said he left the United States "rich with the proof that while the Atlantic divides us, the cause of peace unites us."

The British statesman read his statement to a group of British and American correspondents just before he set out for a trip around the American side of the falls which carried him across the international boundary and back on British soil after twelve days in this country on a good will mission without precedent in the relations of the United States and Britain.

"I have spent twelve days among you," he said. "They have indeed gone swiftly and have been very crowded. From the moment of my arrival to this moment when I must say good bye I have met with nothing but hearty demonstrations of friendship and with a hospitality both public and private which has approached the overwhelming."

"It is impossible to mistake the meaning of your cordiality and I know that in welcoming me you have hailed the object of my visit and have cheered the message of good will which I brought to you from His Majesty, the King, and all sections in Great Britain.

"Your president and I have been privileged to express together in a spirit of democratic and informal frankness the relations of our two countries and the promotion of world peace. I have particularly appreciated the warmth of the reception I had from both your senate and house of representatives.

"To you all I have tried to make plain how earnestly the British commonwealth share your prayers and that war shall cease and your response has been a great inspiration.

"As I step across the border and leave you for the moment I do so with the proof that while the Atlantic divides us, the cause of peace unites us. That is the message from you which I am taking home with me."

DEAD WOMAN FOUND IN AUTO AT NEW BERN

New Bern, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Identification of the body of a woman, about 30 years of age, as that of Mrs. John W. Hinson, has served only to deepen the mystery surrounding her death, which occurred sometime early today, in the opinion of Dr. J. R. Latham, county coroner.

John W. Hinson, of Durham, shortly before noon today identified the body as that of his wife, Elizabeth Hinson, and said that the last time he saw his wife was last night at 10 o'clock, when she drove off in an automobile with two men, after the latter had ejected him from the car.

Police are searching for the two men, whom Hinson said he met at a cafe on the river front early last night and who invited her and his wife to accompany them to a dance hall, a few miles east of here. They remained at the dance hall only a short time, Hinson stated, and returned to New Bern.

Arriving at a filling station, Hinson said he tried to get his wife out of the car, but the men would not permit her to leave, and drove off, leaving him at the station.

The body of the woman was discovered this morning by Sam Roache, proprietor of the Craven Motor company, in an old car that had been stored in a back lot of the company's. Dr. J. R. Latham attributed death to a combination of exposure and acute alcoholism, stating that in his opinion the woman had been dead eight or ten hours when found.

Investigation today revealed that mechanics, working in the garage had heard a car stop in the alley back of the building, pause briefly and proceeded on through to the street front of the garage. This occurred about 2 o'clock and it is the belief of Coroner Latham that the woman was placed in the car by the two men in an intoxicated condition, and that she died from exposure and acute alcoholism.

Federal Agent Given Sentence to Penitentiary

Opelika, Ala., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Grady Cobb, federal prohibition agent of Athens, Ga., who headed a squad of Phenix City, Ala., police in a liquor raid in the Alabama city in June 1927, which culminated in the slaying of Albert Edmunds, had before him today 12 months hard labor on conviction of manslaughter.

Cobb who testified he had been retained by the government as a prohibition agent since the killing of Edmunds, was convicted in United States district court here last night by a jury which took only three hours to reach a verdict.

The agent maintained he was in possession of a search warrant when he and the city police entered the man's house, and that he shot the man after he drew a knife during a struggle. Prosecution witnesses testified Edmunds was fleeing from the house when he was shot by Cobb.

Federal Judge Henry D. Clayton sentenced Cobb to the Russell county jail to serve the hard labor term.

TO PROBE EXTRA FARE ON FAST TRAINS

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Investigation of the extra fare charged by railroads on their fast train was decided upon today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"He is doing a great piece of work in the senate in connection with the tariff bill," he continued and made no further reference to the senior senator from North Carolina who led the anti-Smith fight in the state last fall.

"The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill is bound to cause reaction," Governor Roosevelt said. "The country is aroused and the measure will have its reaction politically whether it passes or not."

Asked what effect Bishop James Cannon, Jr., might have in the impending gubernatorial election in Virginia, Governor Roosevelt said, "My friends in Virginia have assured me there is no doubt as to the result."

Governor Roosevelt, in response to a question about the municipal election in New York and the chances of Mayor "Jimmy" Walker, replied that he "was going straight through to Albany." He also parried questions about his candidacy for the presidency in 1932 saying that he would be busy with a gubernatorial campaign in New York after next June 15 and that politics of national nature were out until then.

"There has been a decided swing of the pendulum toward the democratic party in recent months," he said, calling attention to recent elections in Wisconsin and Georgia. He also praised the work of Joseph S. Shouse, in charge of democratic headquarters in Washington, and his staff.

N. Y. GOVERNOR HONOR GUEST OF N. C. TODAY

Franklin D. Roosevelt Addresses Crowd at State Fair At Noon Hour

Raleigh, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York, was the honor guest of North Carolina today on the third day of home-coming week.

Governor Roosevelt spoke at the state fair grounds at noon on arrival before a large crowd. Tonight he will speak at the celebration of Light's Golden Jubilee at the state capitol when the capitol will be illuminated for the first time by three banks of powerful floodlights. Josephus Daniels will present the lighting system to the state.

This morning before going to the fair grounds to speak, Governor Roosevelt received state officials, state fair officials, distinguished home-comers and prominent Raleigh citizen at the home of Josephus Daniels, where he is spending the day en route from Warm Springs, Ga., to Albany, N. Y.

Governor Roosevelt informally discussed politics, agriculture, and state fairs with newspapermen during the morning.

He adroitly parried questions of the New York City elections, and also on the question of his own candidacy for the democratic nomination in 1932. He did, however, tell his hearers that he believed there had been a decided swing of the pendulum toward the democratic party in recent months.

Discussing agriculture, he told of the decision of the Warm Springs Foundation to inaugurate a battle raising on its Georgia farm in lieu of cotton and peaches, a field of which has been tried for several years. This year, he added, is the only year in four in which a good crop of either has been secured, cotton being good.

Governor Roosevelt, upon being introduced to T. S. White, president of the North Carolina State Fair, immediately queried: "What do you do with your fair 51 weeks each year?" and a discussion followed with no definite answer being made except "nothing."

Governor Roosevelt has personally offered a prize of $300 to anybody anywhere who can suggest a profitable or beneficial use to put the New York state fair grounds to during 51 weeks each year when the fair is not open. A second and third prize also are offered.

Governor Roosevelt said the chances for the Democratic party in 1932 were "good" and praised Senator F. M. Simmons of North Carolina for his work in the United States Senate.

Governor Roosevelt was talking to newspapermen and prominent North Carolinians at the home of Josephus Daniels, whose guest he was for the day.

"Governor, have the democratic powers that be forgiven our senior senator?" a reporter queried. "Well," Mr. Roosevelt answered, "and then cast his eye over the assemblage, 'he's a pretty good democrat after all.'"

"He is doing a great piece of work in the senate in connection with the tariff bill," he continued and made no further reference to the senior senator from North Carolina who led the anti-Smith fight in the state last fall.

"The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill is bound to cause reaction," Governor Roosevelt said. "The country is aroused and the measure will have its reaction politically whether it passes or not."

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

SYNOPSIS: Ralph Henderson's house-party—his scheme by which he hopes to induce Barbara to divorce Ray and marry him—is more successful than Henderson hoped it might be. Ray is bored and irritated speaks sharply to Barbara and she becomes angry with him. When Ray loses at bridge, he flatteringly refuses Barbara's offer to pay his debts and insists he will raise the money elsewhere. Ray is unable to join the fox-hunt one morning because he has no riding outfit and Henderson accompanies Barbara. Riding home after the hunt, Henderson suddenly grasps the reins of Barbara's horse, tells Barbara he loves her and asks her to kiss him.

Chapter 14 AN ACCIDENT

Henderson, holding the reins of Barbara's horse, was leaning close to her. "Just one kiss," he was saying. Through Barbara's mind flashed memories of how trifling a kiss had seemed to her before, something easier to give than refuse. But in the stillness of these English woods, Barbara felt she could not continue that sort of thing now she had Ray.

But she knew it would be hopeless to explain this to Henderson. Instead, she relied upon humor—"Don't ask me to become sentimental in the daylight, Hendy," she chided him. "Let's push on. The others must be miles ahead already."

He did not press his point, but she knew by his moody silence, that he was peevish about it. Let him be unpleasant about it if he wanted to!

Now they were out of the woods, approaching a mill stream. As she made towards it Henderson said: "Don't attempt to jump it, Barbara, it's wider than it appears."

The dictatorial note in his voice annoyed her.

"Poof, Poof," she laughed over her shoulder. "If you can make it—I guess I can, too."

And with that, in a spirit of bravado, she cracked her whip and brought it down on the horse's flank, urging it forward.

Down the grassy bank it plunged, tossing its head and quivering its regiments at it gathered forces for the spring. A moment—and it was over—but in making the opposite flank its hoofs slipped in the mud and it fell, bringing Barbara to the ground.

At first she appeared unhurt by the fall but when she tried to rise, she discovered that she had twisted her ankle. She tried to laugh about it, assuring the man that it was of no consequence. Henderson picked her up in his arms and set her on her horse.

"Sure it doesn't hurt too much?" said the man solicitously.

"Sure," she assured him. But, of course, it did hurt.

It felt as though red hot poker were being jabbed continuously into her ankle and she found herself leaning on Ray.

She wanted Ray to fuss over her, to pet her and to tell her how indignantly brave she was being.

She kept urging her horse on, impatient to be back. In her mind's eye she could see Ray rushing forward to take her down off her horse after which he would carry her up the wide staircase and into their bedroom.

The grooms were waiting to meet them. But nowhere could she see Ray and it was Henderson finally who carried her into the hall.

"Is Mr. Lowther upstairs?" she asked the butler.

The man raised his eyebrows. "No, ma'am. He caught the four o'clock train to London." And then, in reply to Henderson's startled exclamation, "He said it was urgent business, sir. A telegram came for him just before noon."

Barbara relaxed limp in Henderson's arms, too stupefied at that moment to speak. Business in London. What nonsense!

But, with the realization that the other guests were looking at her expectantly, she managed to say, "The wire came, did it? We were expecting it, although not until tomorrow. How very annoying."

"Sporting the way she took it," Henderson remarked later to the major. "I'll bet my last penny that it was as much of a shock to her as it was to the rest of us!"

"Poor little lady," said the major with some sentiment as he pulled at his moustache. "She ought to have had more sense than to marry a musician. What can one expect of a fellow who spends his life tooting a blasted horn?"

Upstairs in her room a white, bedraggled Barbara was crumpling a sheet of paper into a little hard ball in her hands. Across it Ray had scrawled in his large, untidy writing:

Barbara, dear one—
"What I have done will make you mad. It's going to make you feel awful mean to me, too. I'm leaving you for two or three days, but I'll be back in time to take you from this jolly house party, haw, haw," as that dumbbell Major Perkins would say—"You've got to trust me."

"My love," Ray said. "P. S.—Make my excuses to Henderson. Tell him that King George called me up for a private audition, if you like."

Barbara flung the note furiously into the waste-paper basket, her cheeks burning with the intensity of her rage. How dare he treat her in that casual manner! So furious was she in that moment that she wanted to do something desperate: throw a vase through the window or break up every stick of furniture in that room.

Instead she flung herself down on the bed, burying her hot, muddy face in the pillow. Never, she told herself, could she feel the same towards him again! Never. She determined on going straight back to the States and securing a divorce.

She raised her head abruptly some one was knocking at the door. "Who's there?"

"It's Hendy. I'm sending the maid up to look after you myself!" Her answer was short and muffled.

"Nothing thanks." "Will you be able to come down to dinner tonight, Barbara?" She was about to reply decisively in the negative when she stopped herself, remembering that, at all costs, she must keep her end up before the other guests. Her hazel eyes hardened until they seemed like pin points and she called back, with an attempt at gaiety.

"Of course I'm coming. I'm coming even if you have to carry me downstairs. I'll tell the world I am!"

She heard his footsteps retreating along the corridor and the, although her features contracted with the pain of her ankle, she forced herself to get up off the bed and limp about the room, as she made a feeble effort to change her clothing.

Seating herself at the vanity table, she muttered under her breath, "I'll show you, Ray Lowther. You're not going to make a fool out of me a second time and get away with it! Never mind—I'm not going to sit around and mope for you! No, sir. I'll have the time of my life..."

Strange that she started the celebration by suddenly leaning forward, her head in her arms, and bursting into tears.

Ray flees again—and once more learns how much she really needs him. Contains the story with tomorrow's chapter.

An ancient prejudice nursed the ignorant fear and distrust of paper money. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE inspires the faith which completely accepts the printed obligation. In the interest of convenience and safety, its use is universal.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

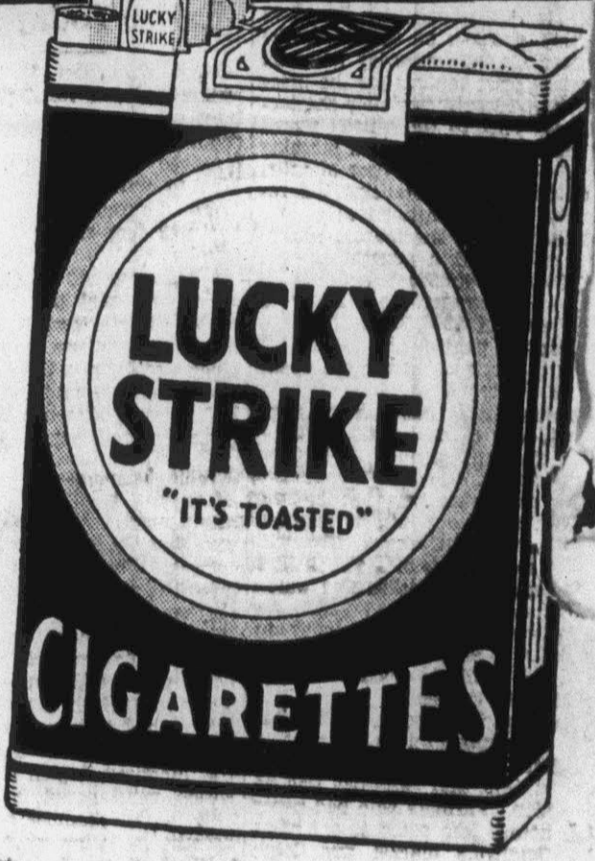

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

SELL YOUR TOBACCO IN GREENVILLE WITH

FOOTBALL MATINEE
SATURDAY.

Now that the World's Series is over, sport fans will turn their attention to the coming Carolina-Georgia grid contest in Chapel Hill
next Saturday. Everything points to Saturday's affair being one of the greatest such contests ever staged at the university and no doubt thousands from all over our state will be on hand to witness the conflict.
For the benefit of local fans who will find it impossible to go to Chapel Hill for the game, we have arranged for a play-by-play report over our Associated Press wires.
We extend a cordial invitation to those interested to be our guests next Saturday afternoon. We will be pleased to have you come down and enjoy the game with us.

WE CAN MAKE THEM
GOOD OR BAD.

For the past few days
with the prices of tobacco continuing their upward climb some of the hard times talk so prevalent earlier in the season has given away
somewhat to a spirit of optimism and to be sure the change is refreshing. Now is the time for us to bury old man gloom and begin to look on the brighter side of things. There is an old adage that "The City of Happiness Is In the State of Mind" and we believe to a great extent that this is true. The hard times talk began its rounds about the time the tobacco market opened and continued until it reached the place that times were really getting hard as a result of it. Now that we have the opportunity to change our line of thought, let's follow the line of optimism. We can either talk ourselves into a state of depression that it will take us years and years to overcome or we can look at the bright side, make the most of our opportunities and succeed. It is to a great extent up to us. How we get along is going to depend much upon what we do and say. Conditions will be what we make them.

ABOUT
TOWN

"What is the Farm Board doing for the Cotton Association or what can it do for cooperative marketing?" is the question which I am being called upon to answer more frequently than any other these days," says U. B. Blalock, General Manager of the North Carolina
Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association, in a communication to this paper.
Summing up very briefly the benefits which may be expected from the Agricultural Marketing Act, Mr. Blalock said that there are four distinct types of service which the Federal Farm Board is authorized under the marketing act to administer. They are education work, loans to cooperatives, stabilization corporations and price insurance.

"The Federal Farm Board is authorized and directed to promote education in the principles and practices of cooperative marketing of agricultural commodities and food products thereof. The Federal Farm Board can be of very material help in reducing the operating costs of the cooperative associations along this line, inasmuch as all field service or educational work has been an expense that had been borne by the membership of each organization.
"The Board is authorized to make loans to cooperatives from the revolving fund to assist in the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities and food products, this money to be loaned to the co-operatives at a rate not to exceed four per cent per annum. The present rate as fixed by the Board is 35-8 per cent. Loans made direct to cooperatives on this basis in this day of high money rates will be distinct advantage to all cooperatives in financing their commodities in storage.
"The price insurance feature incorporated in this bill should also be of great interest to bankers and merchants selling goods on time.
It is provided in the bill that the Board may, upon application of cooperative associations, set up machinery to insure the members of cooperatives against loss through price decline in the agricultural commodity handled by the association and produced by the members thereof. The establishing of this insurance feature simply means that a member of a cooperative association no payment of a small insurance fee could insure himself or his creditors against a decline in the price of his commodity when delivered to the association."

"It looks like we are going to be able to claim the most successful Pay Up Period in history when the event comes to a close this afternoon," asserted a member of the Greenville Merchants Association
today.
"Payment of accounts has been continuing in a very satisfactory manner the last several days and indications at this time point to a new record in this field of activity."
"Pay Up Period has increased in interest with the coming of each year, and the payment of debts this time shows to what extent the public is becoming educated to the plan to bring about annual settlement of long-standing accounts.
"Greenville people are to be congratulated upon the splendid way they have rallied to the event and should find it much easier to obtain credit in the future.
"The credit list will be compiled by the Merchants Association within the next several days, but it will contain less names than any other list of the kind in past years. Our people have seen the advisability of protecting their credit, and I have no doubt future years will see just as much interest."

"The display windows of C. Heber Forbes store are the best looking things I have seen in this part of the state," declared a citizen today.
"I am glad to see Greenville merchants taking so much interest in window trimming. It goes to show that they are appreciative of the effect which the artistically decorated window has upon the public mind and are striving to forge ahead of other towns in this part of the state.
"It is hoped other merchants will pay more attention to their windows and vie with the Forbes decorators in producing creations that appeal to the hundreds of people passing up and down Evans street during the day."

"That was splendid service The Reflector gave on the world's series games," complimented a citizen today, speaking of the play-by-play report given of the games played at Chicago and Philadelphia.
"The reports were not only flashed over the wires in record time, but were presented in such detailed form that even those not fully acquainted with the game understood what it was all about.
"Then, too, there was the paper
off the press within a short time after the games were over. The report carried by the paper was just as detailed as that ballyhooed from the front office of the Reflector building and gave the man who could not attend the matinees an opportunity of seeing exactly how things happened."

SUNDOWN
STORIES

JACK

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I'm turning the time way, way, way, way back," said the Little Black Clock, "so you can meet Jack.
He is very important around this time of the year, but I'd like you to hear how he made his plans
in the first place."
It seemed to be much cooler. The children actually shivered a little,
but they minded the cool air only at first. They had been told by the Little Black Clock to bring their coats with them, and they were quite comfortable in a moment or two.
He led them on and on until they came to a castle. It was a most magnificent castle. But the most beautiful thing about it was the way in which its windows were decorated.
There were all kinds of decorations and paintings on the windows, and they were all painted, it seemed, with frosty white brushes.
Some of the paintings was wowing
now.
Back of the castle were a great many trees, all of yellow and red and other flaming shades.
"Jack! Jack! Jack!" Called the Little Black Clock.
"Jack! Jack! Jack!" he called again, and he asked John and Peggy to call out, too. So they began to shout:
"Jack! Jack! Jack!"
There appeared at one of the windows the oldest looking person either of the children had ever seen. Yet there was a sort of dashing look about him.
In fact, he was really quite handsome.
Well, I'm not usually wanted as much as all this! This is a treat.
I'll be right down. Pray step inside the castle."
The Little Black Clock and John and Peggy walked inside. The great door, decorated much as the windows were, opened of its own accord for them.
Then Jack appeared.
"Allow me," said the Little Black Clock, "to introduce Jack Frost."

Tomorrow—"Jack's Castle."

that is long-lived

Any comparison of the Dodge Six with other cars at its price reveals this truth: the Dodge Six is built to perform more capably—to serve more dependably—to last longer.
Body construction is stancher. Its motor has greater piston displacement—finer pistons—more piston rings—more crankshaft bearings. It has a deeper frame with more cross members—longer springs—better brakes —bigger tires. In every detail that assures finer performance, safety, dependability and long-lived excellence, the Dodge Six excels.

GRID RACE TO NARROW DOWN ON SATURDAY

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer—Wide open at the moment, the championship race in the southern conference should be narrowed down to a who's who and what's what basis after Saturday's returns are posted.

Anyone of three games may uncover the 1929 title holder. You can pay your money and take your pick in any of the following:

Alabama vs. Tennessee at Knoxville; Florida vs. Georgia Tech. at Atlanta; Georgia vs. North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Most of the experts predict that the survivor of the hammer and tong affair at Knoxville will succeed Georgia Tech as the Dixie King Pin, but it is only fair to add that most of the same experts agreed that Yale would take Georgia for a ride.

Coach Wallace Wade's big Crimson Tide was the early season favorite, but Tennessee has shown such a kick in recent starts that there has been a regular epidemic of right about facing, particularly in the Knoxville sector.

The form sheet is inconsistent as usual. Tennessee crushed Mississippi 52-7 one week after Alabama whipped the same team, 22-7, but the Tide was 29 points better than Tennessee against the University of Chattanooga.

Florida, the only other undefeated eleven among the original "Big Four" is invading Atlanta prepared to shoot the works to hurdle Tech and stay in the championship flight.

The fact that Florida had to put out to beat Virginia Military Institute and failed to roll up more than 19 points against Auburn, doesn't mean a thing. Those who ought to know say that Head Coach Charlie Bachman has been playing fox.

Florida has been saving its tricks for Tech and may be expected to cut loose with a bunch of brand new stuff the minute it hits Grant field. At least, Tech is figuring Florida that way.

North Carolina, which dethroned the Tech Tornado, and Georgia, which routed Yale still are among the dark horses in the ante room to the throne, although neither is as dark as it was a week ago.

If North Carolina can stop Georgia it has a good chance to go through the season undefeated and give somebody an argument over the title. Georgia's path is filled with such obstacles as Florida, Alabama, Tulane, and Georgia Tech.

Three other conference engagements are on this week's schedule, but none of them figures in the championship struggle. Vanderbilt plays Auburn, Virginia tacksles V. M. I., and Louisiana State swings into action against Mississippi A. & M.

Duke has come to after the Pitt debacle and journeys into the east to get revenge against the Ivy. Washington and Lee takes on Nite rugged West Virginia Mountaineers at Charleston.

Clemson and South Carolina will rest in preparation for their battle at Columbia the following Thursday.

PHILADELPHIA FIGHTS LAST

Philadelphia—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, outpointed Jimmy Slatery, Buffalo, (10); Matt Adge, Philadelphia, knocked out Allentown Joe Gans, Allentown, Pa., (1); Al Hans'n, Denmark, defeated Roy "Ace" Clarke, Philadelphia, foul, (9).

Rochester, N. Y.—Frankie Wine, Butte, Mont., stopped Kayo Brown, New York, (3).

New Orleans—Joe King, New Orleans, outpointed Jack de Mave, N. J. (10).

Local Grid Team Gets Ready For Roanoke Rapids

With the arrival of the new tacking dummy, the practice sessions of the local High school football squad had a pleasant and much needed variation in their type of work. Many of the rough spots have been polished off in the last week, as the result of the game with Kinston last Friday showed, but plenty of chance for improvement before the game with Roanoke Rapids here, this week still remain. The tacking practice will help very greatly. Coach Porter has added a couple of tricky new plays to the team's repertoire, and with the consistent hard work on the part of all a team able to give our next, and possibly, most formidable, invaders a real run for the decision, and spectators a game of rousing plays.

The freshman team has recently blossomed out in a new set of striking orange and black sweat shirts, which has already gained for them the nickname of "Yellow Jackets." It is to be hoped that when they first line up against another team they will prove their right to the title. For the present they surely lack it, and are hard at work learning the rudiments of the game.

John Gilbert Happy

New York—John Gilbert is glad to disappoint some of the public who he says seems to want motion picture people to be unhappy. Back from Europe with his smiling bride Tina Claire he said a five-hour motor trip he took alone on the Riviera was interpreted to mean that he and Tina had separated. He called attention to the pipe and slippers Tina had handy for him in their suite.

HARD TO PICK HERO OF 1929 WORLD SERIES

By ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor Philadelphia, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The task of picking the hero of the 1929 world series seemed today as difficult as it was trying to guess Connie Mack's starting pitchers. There was one heroic figure after another down through the lineup of the triumphant Philadelphia Athletics. The three perhaps that stood out most conspicuously after an analysis of the five games, were Jimmy Foxx, young first sacker, his bat mighty in three of the four victories; (George (mule) Haas, whose freak home run was a crucial blow in the historic "lucky seventh" of the fourth game; and his second, man-sized homer the tying factor in the final contest; and Robert Moses (lefty) Grove, whose southpaw speed saved two games and was ready for a third, only to have the distinction go to George (Rube) Walberg, another portlander.

There was, also, the chunky figure of Jimmy Dykes, with the highest batting mark of any of his teammates; Micky Cochrane, who caught every game with marvelous skill; Al Simmons, the great left-fielder, potent in both critical rallies of the last two games; and last, but not least, Edmund (Big) Miller, veteran right-fielder, who knocked in the deciding runs in the first game and the winning run with a $50,000 blow in the last.

CAROLINA-GEORGIA FOOTBALL GAME SATURDAY

Chapel Hill, Oct. 15.—The offices of the University Athletic Association here in Chapel Hill were swamped today with orders for tickets to the Carolina-Georgia game Saturday.
The big rush was caused, of course by Carolina's defeat of Georgia Tech and Georgia's defeat of Yale. It appears now that every sport lover is intent on seeing the Bull Dogs and Tar Heels lock horns Saturday.

Blows His Horn

Glenn Robeson, Duke university halfback, pays for his board at school by playing in an orchestra at dinner hour. He blows a trumpet.

Brother Rival

Emory Adkins, Duke center, has a brother at North Carolina, Fenton, who plays tackle. Fenton is fifty pounds the bigger.

To Fete Athletics

Philadelphia, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Philadelphia will fete the world champion Athletics Thursday night at an official dinner at the Penn Athletic Club.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

COTTON MARKET

New York, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 1 point. There was a fair volume of business but orders seemed to be evenly divided with traders evidently finding no inspiration in the ruling of Liverpool, while the census report on domestic consumption was about as expected.

Southern selling and some local liquidation sent prices off to 18.17 for December and 18.36 for March during the early trading or about 2 to 4 points net lower but there was enough covering or trade buying to hold the market fairly steady at the end of the first half hour.

The census report showed domestic consumption of 545,649 bales for September compared with 558,113 for August and 492,307 for September last year.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and liquidation in Liverpool and said that the cotton cloth market in Manchester was quieter with moderate sales of both cloth and yarns.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Wheat values turned gradually upward today, helped by somewhat broader speculative demand in which houses with eastern connections took the lead. More or less stimulus for friends of higher prices came from a sharp closing rally in wheat quotations at Liverpool after an early break there. Besides, a late estimate of the Argentine wheat exportable surplus indicated only 18,000,000 bushels left, instead of 66,000,000 bushels as first reported today.

Wheat closed nervous 5-8c to 1-2c to 1c cent a bushel higher than yesterday's finish, corn 1-4c to 1-2c up, Oats 1-4 to 8-8c to 6-8c advance and provisions 2c to 5c advance.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Renewal of selling pressure against the public utilities and some of the industrial leaders temporarily unsettled today's stock market, but the decline was checked by the resumption of large scale buying operations in thermostats. Early selling was based primarily on the speculative belief that the market, which had recovered more than half the ground lost in the decline early this month, was due for a secondary reaction.

Call money renew at 6 per cent but advanced to 7 in reflection of heavy mid-month demands, and the withdrawal of government funds on deposit in Federal Reserve member banks. Time money also displayed a slightly firmer undertone.

Motor shares turned heavy on reports of decreasing output and sales of several of the leading manufacturers, but some of these are attributed to the introduction of new models. Auburn Auto broke thirteen points and several others declined a point or two.

Western Union recovered all of its early loss of 9 points in the early afternoon rally, and Johns-Manville quickly made up 7 points of its 8 points morning decline. U. S. Steel common dropped from an early high of 229 1-2 to 223 3-4 and then rebounded as Wall street began to hear rumors of a special distribution to shareholders before the end of the year.

New Haven common assumed the leadership of the railroad group by moving up 3 points to a new high record at 132 1-2. The preferred advanced 3-4 points to a new high at 134 3-4. New York Central, Atchafalpa, Baltimore & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and Northern Pacific sold 2 to 3 1-2 points higher.

Partial to Men of 35 Rome-Mussolini is a bit partial to men of 35. Two of his cabinet are of that age and he has decided on the election of Professor Giuseppe Tucci of the University of Rome to the Royal Academy. The professor, also 35, is a philologist with a profound knowledge of twelve languages.

EARLY ENDING OF STRIKE TRIAL INDICATED TODAY; WOMAN GIVES ESTIMONY

(Continued from page one) about a year ago at the New York city hall. She said she had worked in New York and helped organize children as a union auxiliary in the New Bedford, Mass. strike.

The testimony of Mrs. Miller brought to the fore the question of religion and alleged Communist teachings which the state has sought to bring into the case and were permitted as "impeaching" questions. The questions regarding these matters have been limited by Judge Barnhill to that portion of cross-examination designed to test before the jury the credulity of the witness.

Mrs. Miller and her husband were in charge of Communist education at the tent colony in Gastonia. She admitted that she taught the children that "capitalist countries and the United States in particular, hate Soviet Russia" and that the Soviet Union should be defended. She said she had worked for the Young Pioneers, but when the state asked if this were not a part of the Communist party Judge Barnhill refused to permit her to reply. She denied that she had told children to disregard everything they learned in school or that she had taught anything about the United States flag.

"Did you teach anything about the flag of the Soviet Union?" she was asked by Attorney Jake Newell. "Yes, I told them about it."

"Did you tell them that when the workers got control they would have a flag of their own?"

"Yes."

"And that would supplant the flag of the United States?"

"It might."

"The whole purpose of your employment here is that the government is always against the workers?"

"That wasn't my sole purpose."

The state here dropped the quiz regarding Communism and turned to her feeling toward police. She said she did not fear the police, said an officer had choked her and said that she "sometimes" obeyed officers.

"What haven't you obeyed them in?" she was asked.

"Well, one of them told me to go to the devil."

"And you didn't go?"

"No."

Attorney Newell was ordered by Judge Barnhill to cease commenting on answers of the witness. The judge threatened to order another attorney to do the examining.

Mrs. Miller told Newell she did not see any guns and ammunition the night Aderholt was shot and that she did not see any armed guards.

The questioning turned to religion, and the defense objected on the first question. Judge Barnhill informed the state that if the question of belief in God were to be asked with the purpose of disqualifying the witness, he would not permit it. If for impeaching purposes it would be permitted, he said. The state disclaimed any intention of trying to disqualify the witness under North Carolina Supreme Court rulings that an atheist is not a competent witness and Mrs. Miller was quizzed as to her religious beliefs.

She testified that she believed that she believed that "man con- that she believed that man con- oath on a Bible was no more binding than any other oath."

The defense sought to exclude all testimony regarding Mrs. Miller's teachings but was overruled. This argument brought the Sacco-Vanzetti case into the court. John Randolph Neal, defense counsel, pointing to errors of evidence which he said were committed in that case.

"The court," said Judge Barnhill, "has given every doubtful point to the defense. The court cannot but rule against you in this instance."
