TREATY LIMITING NAVAL ARMAMENTS OF GREAT WORLD POWERS SIGNED AT LONDON TODAY

Representatives of America, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy affix signatures to epoch-making pact, limiting navies of three of them, and restricting navies of other two; dramatic ceremony at St. James Palace shortly after noon.

THEY SIGNED THE NAVAL TREATY AT LONDON TODAY

Signature of the three-power treaty with some five-power trimmings completed the long negotiations of the five-power conference in London. The treaty was signed by Secretary of State Stimson (left) for the United States; Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald (center) for Great Britain, and Reijiro Wakatsuki (right) for Japan.

By DeWITT MacKENZIE Associated Press Staff Writer London, April 22.—Representatives of the five dominant naval powers of the world, America, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy, this afternoon affixed their signatures to an epoch-making treaty, limiting and reducing the navies of three of them, and restricting the navies of the other two.

Colonel Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, and his colleagues on the American delegation, were the first to sign the historic document. M. Briand, the French foreign minister, J. Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, and Admiral Giusseppe Sirani of Italy with their delegations followed.

Reijiro Wakatsuki, former prime minister of Japan, and those of the Tokyo delegation who have worked with him through the three months and one day of long and difficult negotiations, were the last of the five power representatives to affix signatures.

The unpretentious but dramatic ceremony took place shortly after mid-day in the ancient and royal palace of St. James. The setting was one for an artist, the final plenary session of the parley being held in Queen Anne's dining room, with its rich red tapestries from the midst of which looked down the portraits of a long line of English kings.

Fourteen weeks ago the conference was ushered into being in the midst of a dense fog which pervaded the House of Lords in a ghost-like blanket. There was that same fog early today, but shortly after the plenary session convened the April sunshine burst through the mists and glistened from the golden trappings of Queen Anne's favorite room.

The treaty as signed definitely limits the navies, in all categories, of America, Great Britain, and Japan, and provides reduction in ships already under construction in at least one category, capital ships. France and Italy could not compromise their differences and today adhered only to other sections of the pact, which, important enough in themselves, prescribe a capital ship holiday, limitation on sizes of submarines, humanization of their use, and record agreement on other, technical phases of the conference work.

London, April 22.—(AP)—By the terms of the naval treaty signed today by representatives of the five powers at London the United States should have achieved parity with Great Britain by the date of its expiration, December 31, 1936. Japan will occupy at that time a ratio of naval power somewhere between the five-five-three capital ship ratio agreed upon at the Washington 1922 conference and the ten-ten-seven auxiliary ship ratio which the Tokyo delegation sought at the beginning of this conference.

Nine battleships are to be scrapped, or, in the case of three, converted to training vessels, and a five year capital ship construction holiday is decreed. The ships to be scrapped are, for the United States, the Florida, Utah, and either the Arkansas or the Wyoming, while Great Britain will abandon the Bembow, the Iron Duke, the Marlborough, the Emperor of India and the Tiger; Japan will scrap the Hiei.

Under the treaty the United States may have 180,000 tons of large cruisers, Great Britain 146,800 tons; and Japan 108,400 tons; in small cruisers the United States may have 143,500 tons, Great Britain 192,200 tons, and Japan 100,000 tons.

STRIKE CASE BEFORE HIGH COURT TODAY

Supreme Court Hears Arguments in The Aderholt Murder Case at Raleigh.

Raleigh, April 22.—(AP)—With former Governor Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia, appealing for the appellants, presenting a forceful appeal for "religious tolerance" in North Carolina, the State Supreme Court today heard arguments in the famed "Aderholt murder case."

Mr. Hardwick, who not a member of counsel at the trial in Mecklenburg Superior court, appealed to the court to let North Carolina be among the states "where every man, woman and child is allowed to worship God as he chooses or not if his individual conscience so dictates."

The religious issue was injected into the case when Fred Erwin Beal and six others, Communists or Communist sympathizers, testified in their trial on charges of killing Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia during labor troubles there last spring and summer. They were asked if they believed in a Supreme Being which punished one here and hereafter for transgressions.

"Opinions of religious liberty do not belong to a jury in a murder trial," Mr. Hardwick argued to the court after citing a Supreme Court opinion which said "Religious freedom gave one freedom not only to worship as he pleased but also not to worship, if he so chooses." He asserted this in effect said that "The testimony of atheists in North Carolina is competent."

The arguments in the cases ended at 1:15 p. m. Governor Hardwick was preceded in argument by J. Frank Flowers of Charlotte, chief defense counsel, and A. G. Mangum of Gastonia, of the private prosecution. He was followed by Frank Nash, assistant attorney general, Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt and Mr. Flowers spoke again.

Pres. Hoover Declares Budget For 1931 Shows Thirty Million Deficit

President Says There Is "Cause For Real Alarm" in Letter of Warning to Chairman Jones, of Senate Appropriations Committee.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—President Hoover has informed Congressional leaders that re-examination of the budget shows a Treasury deficit for the next year between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000.

In a letter to Chairman Jones, of the Senate Appropriations committee, and Chairman Wood, of the House Appropriations committee, the President warned "there is cause for real alarm." The unusual procedure of writing a letter of warning to the Congressional leaders in charge of the nation's purse indicated Mr. Hoover's concern over a situation which only a few days ago he spoke of optimistically. At that time he foresaw a surplus for next year of about $40,000,000.

The letter, which was dated April 18, follows: "I thought you would like to know that a re-examination of our fiscal situation for the next year by the director of the budget shows that upon the indicated income of the government and the expenditures to which the government is already committed through budget proposals and legislation which has been completed, we are faced with a deficit of some twenty or thirty millions of dollars.

"This, of course, is not as yet a very material sum but it is obvious that any further large amounts of expenditure will jeopardize the primary duty of the government that is, to hold expenditures within our income.

"Something over one hundred and twenty-five acts have been passed by either the Senate or the House or favorably reported by different committees, which would authorize an additional expenditure of three hundred or three hundred fifty million dollars next year.

A good many of these proposals are, of course, for comparatively small funds, and some of them are necessary for the functioning of the government, but I know you will agree with me that there is cause for real alarm in the situation, as we cannot contemplate any such deficit."

BEGIN PROBE OF DISASTER AT OHIO PEN

Gov. Orders Attorney General to Succeed County Prosecutor As Investigator.

Columbus, Ohio, April 22.—(AP)—An investigation of the Ohio penitentiary fire, launched today by Franklin County Prosecutor John Chester, Jr., was halted abruptly when Governor Cooper directed State Attorney General Gilbert Bettman to take charge of the inquiry.

Chester had recommended that Warden Preston Thomas be suspended temporarily, pending investigation, and had ordered telephones removed from the warden's office.

Several state officials protested Chester's actions, and this was followed by the governor's announcement designating Bettman as the chief investigator.

The first official action of those investigating the fire in Ohio penitentiary was taken when Prison Guard Watkinson was suspended from duty. Watkinson was one of the guards on duty in the cell block where most of the 317 fatalities occurred.

State Welfare Director H. H. Griswold turned the prison residence of Warden Preston E. Thomas into a courtroom early today and questioned six prison officials, guards, firemen and prisoners in the hope of fixing responsibility.

Warden Thomas said his first orders on receiving word of the fire were to send a deputy with keys to the prison gates to let the fire apparatus in and then inquire if keys had been sent to the cell blocks to release the prisoners.

"I was informed that keys had not been sent to the cell blocks and I ordered the guards to get them down there as quickly as possible. I don't know what guards took the keys or how long they were in getting them there."

The warden said he then armed two guards with shot guns and took personal charge of guarding the prison from the outside to prevent possible escape of prisoners.

"Before leaving for the outside, I ordered keys to the cells sent by a trusty to the E and F cell blocks but my wife had beaten me to it."

C. W. Osborn, assistant Columbus fire chief said when he arrived on the cell range, prisoners and guards were rushing about opening cells. "Some were using keys and others were battering the locks off with axes," he said. The work of opening the cells he said, "seemed to be rather slow," but the heat was so intense and the smoke so dense that, it was difficult for them to make speedy headway.

Liston G. Schooley, Cleveland prisoner, said he was in the deputy warden's office when he discovered the flames. He called the telephone operator who responded that he already knew of the fire.

Night Captain John Hall said he had just arrived to go on duty when the fire was discovered, but had not yet taken over his duties. "I ran down to the cell block and seeing the dense smoke was suffocating the prisoners, ordered the windows on the east side broken in to allow fresh air to them," he said.

Captain Hall said he did not know what guards were on duty as it was just at the time the day shift was leaving and the night shift coming on duty.

"I did not see any guards unlocking cells," Hall said, "but the smoke was so dense that they could have been doing so and I would not have seen them."

"Whose duty is it to unlock the cells in case of fire?" Director Griswold asked.

"It is the duty of the guards," Hall replied.

Captain Hall said there originally had been twelve keys to the fatal cells, but that one of them had been lost since last Thanksgiving. The keys were in duplicate and each would unlock the cells in opposite tiers.

More Than 130 Prisoners in Critical Condition From Burns and From Smoke Inhaled While Conflagration Raged Thru Parts of Four Cell Blocks; Hundreds of Prisoners Released in Prison Yards as Firemen Battle Blaze; Many Assisting in Rescue Operations.

Columbus, Ohio, April 22.—(AP)—The lives of 317 Ohio penitentiary convicts were snuffed out by flames and smoke while they were locked in their cells last night, according to the official casualty count made today by state officials.

More than 130 other prisoners were in the penitentiary hospital and from sixty to seventy of these were in a critical condition from burns and from smoke they inhaled while fire raged in parts of four cell blocks.

The penitentiary housed 4,300 convicts, some 2,500 above the capacity for which it was intended, when the fire, believed of incendiary origin, and fanned by a stiff wind, swept through the upper tiers of four blocks, spreading death and suffering in its wake.

The flames were discovered shortly before 5:30 p. m. Within several hours the fire had been brought under control but the suffocating smoke continued to, take its toll among the convicts. In the adjoining cell blocks men screamed to be released. And when the prison officials capitulated to their demands the wide penitentiary yard became a streaming mass of gray clothed men.

Before two hours had passed this mass of men, picking their way among countless bodies spread over the yard, became a threatening menace. Some of them cut the fire hose which continued to play upon the flames that spread to the prison cotton and woolen mills. Others hurled stones and slugged the guards that were trying to maintain order. In the dining hall dishes and tables were upset.

Every available policeman in Columbus was summoned for duty both within the prison and on the outside. A sub-machine gun in the guard room protected the entrance to the prison yard.

Two companies of regular army troops and 1,500 Ohio National Guardsmen were stationed at strategic places about the penitentiary. Every guard on both day and night shifts was on duty.

Still the thousands of milling prisoners in the yard refused to be quieted. When they were ordered to assemble in the dining room many refused. Later they were ordered into the remaining cell blocks and dormitories but they insisted upon staying in the yard, crowding about the bodies which were arranged in long rows five and six deep.

Scenes of confusion and terror accompanied the outburst of the flames. Liston G. Schooley, Cleveland councilman, who is serving a term for participation in a Cleveland playground fraud, was at work in the deputy warden's office, on the opposite side of the prison yard. He saw smoke rising from the cell blocks.

About the same time Gharley Sholkey, a prisoner from Toledo, and one of those quartered in the damaged building, sounded alarm on range two of section H. Sholkey, a practical joker, was not taken seriously by his fellow convicts until they saw the red reflection in the windows of a manufacturing plant near the penitentiary.

Then a great scream emanated from sections G and H. In each there were six ranges of seven cells, housing four prisoners to the cell. The flames and the smoke were eating toward them rapidly. William C. Baldwin and Tom Little, guard captains, dashed to the flaming buildings with keys to the cells.

At the same time other guards ran to the deputies' office where, in the absence of officers, began handing out orders and issued all the keys he had. Guards Baldwin and Little rushed into the smoke filled building, took (Continued on page three)

CORAL BEADS NEW CLUE IN GIRL'S DEATH

Stolen Property Believed to Lead to Two Negroes in Murder Of Mary Baker.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—A string of coral beads, found in a sewer along with the hat and coat of Mary Baker, young government clerk, a week after she was slain and her body stuffed into a culvert near Washington, were discovered by police today to have been stolen property, which they believe leads to two negroes.

The two negro men have been under arrest for a week, charged with having taken articles from the car of the slain girl, which was left abandoned some distance from where her body was found. Police said today it was possible they are professional automobile thieves.

Considerable mystery surrounded the finding of the beads, and some importance was attached to them as a clue to the mystery.

They were known never to have been worn by Miss Baker. Further, neither the hat, coat, nor beads were in the sewer when it was searched a week ago. Last Friday, however, a second search was made and the articles discovered.

Inspector Shelby, chief of Washington detectives, said today the beads were stolen from an automobile over a month ago, probably by the two negroes.

Parker May Demand That Senate Committee Grant Hearing On Nomination

North Carolina Jurist Firmly Declines to Withdraw as Nominee For Supreme Court Bench Because Of Opposition Of Labor and Negroes.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—Senator Watson, Republican leader, predicted today after a conference with President Hoover that the nomination of Judge John J. Parker to the Supreme court, would be confirmed "if he goes up against the guns."

The Indian said that so far as he knew there was no question but that Parker would face the issue, in the contest being made against his confirmation.

Returning to the capitol, Senator Watson prepared for a decision on the Parker nomination on the floor.

Only expectation that President Hoover would withdraw the nomination or that Judge Parker ask for the recall of his name had vanished. Facing a revolt in their own ranks against the nominee, administration Republican leaders were counting on sufficient Democratic votes to give them the margin for confirmation. A majority of the Democrats on the Judiciary committee yesterday voted against Parker.

Only one point remained to be settled today before the contest in the Senate; whether Parker is to ask for a hearing on the protest against himself.

Members of the Judiciary committee who voted ten to four against calling him before the committee have indicated that if Parker requests a hearing, it will be granted. This would necessitate recommending the nomination to committee again.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—Judge John J. Parker has informed his friends here that he has no intention of withdrawing as a nominee for the Supreme court, because of the opposition of labor and negro organizations or because of the Senate Judiciary committee's action in opposing his confirmation.

He is now considering the advisability of requesting that the committee give him an opportunity to appear before it and answer the objections that have been raised against him. His supporters in the Senate believe that such a course will be followed.

Some members of the committee have said that if Judge Parker

Hears The Voice Of Minister First Time in 20 Years

Winston-Salem, April 22.—(AP)—Although she had attended church, regularly through the years, Mrs. W. F. Ormsky, of Winston-Salem, because of her deafness had not heard the voice of a minister for 20 years and more until Sunday.

When the Moravian Easter service was broadcast by radio Sunday Mrs. Ormsky found she could hear it by using ear phones with a radio.

Every available policeman in Columbus was summoned for duty both within the prison and on the outside. A sub-machine gun in the guard room protected the entrance to the prison yard.

Two companies of regular army troops and 1,500 Ohio National Guardsmen were stationed at strategic places about the penitentiary. Every guard on both day and night shifts was on duty.

D. A. R. Chapter Meets. Farmville, N. C., April 21.—A meeting of particular interest to members of the Major Benjamin May chapter D. A. R., in that it was devoted wholly to business affairs of the group, was that of Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. C. R. Townsend and Miss Louise Smith were joint hostesses at the home of the latter.

The devotional service was conducted by the regent, Mrs. T. C. Turnage, whose subject was "Moses, a Biblical Patriot." The legislative committee, headed by Miss Annie Perkins, and composed of Mrs. B. Streeter Sheppard of Raleigh, and Mrs. U. H. Cozart, of Wilson, reported a necessary revision of the by-laws and gave typewritten copies of proposed changes to members for consideration.

At a recent meeting of the executive board the following plans were decided upon and laid before the chapter at this time: the election of a parliamentarian; the organization of a children's chapter of the American Revolution; a request that new members file papers within 60 days; plan to enlarge membership; the matter of increasing list of subscribers to D. A. R. magazine.

The ways and means committee submitted plans for securing funds for building a chapter house. A bridge tournament of which Mrs. D. R. Morgan is chairman, will be foremost among the projects, and will be given after Easter.

A Tyson Bible, 200 years old, bound in reindeer and containing much valuable data concerning the Tyson family was exhibited by Mrs. George Jefferson of Fountain. Announcement of two recent gifts to the chapter—a lovely colonial mantle for the proposed chapter house, by A. P. Turnage, Sr., and an American flag by Drexel Barrett of Wilson—were received with enthusiasm. A letter of thanks for a bag of clothing sent recently to Crossnore, was read by Mrs. Sheppard.

Delightful refreshments were served after adjournment. In addition to the members, the hostesses had as guests Mrs. B. S. Smith, Mrs. George Jefferson, of Fountain, Mrs. J. W. Parker and Miss Edna Fountain Harris.

450 tons; destroyer tonnage are set at, United States, 150,000 tons, Great Britain, 150,000, and Japan 105,500 tons. Each of the three powers agree to keep its submarine tonnage within 52,700.

Neither France nor Italy is signatory to that section of the treaty limiting cruisers and auxiliary craft, and a safeguarding clause has therefore been inserted which will allow either of the three powers to increase its program, the others increasing theirs proportionately, should a continental naval race develop.

France and Italy signed sections of the treaty fixing a capital ship holiday, prescribing rules of submarine warfare, and relating to less important phases of disarmament.

Tax Meeting At Bell Arthur Was Well Attended

The first of a series of meetings sponsored by the Tax Relief Association and conducted by Judge P. M. Wooten was held at Arthur Saturday evening at eight o'clock. Although the weather was bad, there was an audience of earnest, enthusiastic citizens present intent on obtaining tax relief.

The talk, informal, informative, struck directly at the root of the trouble affecting every taxpayer in Pitt county today. A more appreciative audience could not be found anywhere; they held the speaker until 10:30 and were still asking questions.

Five delegates were named to attend the mass meeting at our courthouse, the first Monday in May.

At the last, there was quite an interesting discussion of several things to be considered in our attempt to cut expenses and lower taxes.

CONVICTS AT OHIO JAIL PERISH IN BLAZE WHILE LOCKED IN THEIR CELLS

(Continue from page one) the keys to the ranges from the day guards and started unlocking cells as quickly as they could.

On the fourth and fifth ranges death took its toll rapidly. The lungs of the trapped men were filled with smoke. Ghastly sights greeted the rescuers. Suffocated men lay on the floor clutching with pale, white fingers at the bars that held them.

Others were stretched across and under their bunks. Some had tried to bury their heads in the lavatories in the cells and still others had grabbed their blankets or torn their shirts from their backs to drench them with water and place them over their heads.

Streams of water swished through the mesh and the iron bars and formed rivulets in which the faces of fallen men were buried.

Hundreds had been carried from the structure and above the heads of the rescuers in the sixth and last range were more than a hundred others who could not possibly be saved. Bed mattresses and the cots were masses of flames.

Licks on the cells were battered away with sledge hammers. The mesh walls of the ranges were cut away with wire cutters. Hose lines, winding a path up the flights of stairs got in the road of stumbling men.

Outside the smoke filled building the scene resembled a field of battle strewn with corpses.

At first, the prisoners who had escaped death emerged in pairs carrying a comrade by the arms and feet. They hurried across a small clearing covered with new lumber and dropped the victims into the grass.

Then they knelt beside the choked men, turned them on their stomachs and applied methods of resuscitation. For a while this revived the victims but soon they came so fast that the band of convicts found themselves stumbling over each other, dropping the men they had carried out and hurrying back for others.

Groans and feeble cries, from the lips of the victims and words of encouragement and shrieks of terror from the men who were working over them rose from the ground. Scared and blackened faces bespoke the futility of pondering over men who already were dead.

Big gray blankets were spread profusely over the green grass.

"Make room for this man. He's alive. Gangway!" came the cry from a little group hurrying along the walks toward the hospital. The lanes of prisoners separated. They made room for the man who had a chance to live.

Out of the guard room door poured doctors, internes, nurses, priests and ministers. Dying men cried for the last rites of the church. Medical men, some without hats or coats and others in uniforms of white tramped over the ground, which became soggy under the burden of many feet.

Two hours after the fire started daylight had faded away and the weary, troubled men worked on under the rays of arc lights that gave the prison yard a dismal appearance.

It was about this time that muttering prisoners, chilled to the bone in the night air because they would not obey orders to go inside, started the disturbances that caused so much alarm.

The effects of warm coffee served during the rescue operations and consumed freely by hundreds who were idling about as well as those who were working, had worn off when dark fell. But it was mostly the idle prisoners who were inclined to cause trouble. They assembled in small groups in different parts of the prison yard. The guards could do nothing with them. Stones flew through the air occasionally and once a band of men rushed a gasoline supply truck that had been brought into the yard and tried to set it afire. Several prisoners intervened, were pelled with tin cups and dashed away but the inclination to burn the gasoline truck was broken up.

Electricians, aided by trustees, climbed to the guard tower atop the front wall and installed floodlights that illuminated nearly every corner of the yard. Policemen patrolled the walks, prison guards were ready with pointed weapons.

But the men apparently convinced themselves that there was little to be gained by adding to the appalling situation created by the fire. The groups thinned out to mere handfuls. They took to their bunks.

In the outside world there was many a family whose anxiety could not be quieted last night. Out of the prison population of more than 4,000, each prisoner who escaped the fate of those in companies G and H was as anxious to spread the word that he was safe as his relatives were hopeful of receiving it.

Prison officials finally called upon radio stations to broadcast the news that all prisoners who were safe would send word to their families today.

Notice To Voters Of Pitt County

In view of the situation brought about by numerous candidates announcing themselves for the House of Representatives at the approaching primary, and especially in view of the announcement and endorsement of John W. Holmes, from Farmville, I have decided to withdraw from the race. I believe the Legislature is in need of business men, and therefore in view of the experience and keen acumen of my fellow-townsmen, I hereby announce my withdrawal. I thank my friends for the support, kind words, and deep appreciation for expressions made to me during the past few days. I shall again solicit your support at the proper time.

OVEN HEAT

measured like any other cooking ingredient

Try cooking just once with an Oven Heat Regulator and you'll wonder how you ever got along without it. A tiny dial no bigger than your hand—but it controls and measures oven heat as accurately as you measure the ingredients of your recipe. Simply set the dial at the ideal temperature for baking, or roasting and your job is done until the food comes out of the oven. It isn't magic. It's science!—an automatic control that never fails.

Guesswork is responsible for most failures in cooking. No woman can hope for success every time with an old-fashioned oven that leaks and goes wrong at critical moments.

Stop in at your earliest opportunity and we'll show you our Modern Gas Ranges—all equipped with Control Dials—many with additional improvements that speed up cooking and save on gas.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

COTTON MARKET

New York, April 22.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of six points to an advance of four points with the old crop months relatively easy under further scattering liquidation which included some selling of both May and July against purchases of new crop positions. The initial offerings seemed to be quite readily taken but the selling continued with May declining to 15.67 and July to 15.81 by the end of the first half hour or about 9 to 10 points net lower. The new October contracts sold off to 14.83 or five points net lower with the more active new crop positions showing net losses of about 2 to 6 points.

Trading was comparatively quiet at the start but became a little more active on the decline. The market seemed to be very little impressed by the fairly steady showing of Liverpool which reopened for business today and failed to fully meet yesterday's local decline.

Liverpool cables said there had been local and Bombay liquidation in that market with covering and Continental buying on the decline.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 22.—(AP)—Wheat smashed down today to below any price level heretofore reached this season. Persistent selling overweighed the market, which was weakened by further moisture in recent drought districts and by Farm Board notice of discontinuance of loans on wheat after April 30, open interest in May delivery of wheat is being steadily reduced, but trade as a whole looks for considerable liquidation still to come.

Wheat closed nervous, 3-4-13-8c a bushel lower than yesterday.

Corn closed 1-4-5-8c up, oats 1-8-1-2 off, and provisions unchanged to setback of 5c.

STOCK MARKET

New York, April 22.—(AP)—The stock market experienced another storm of selling this morning in which scores of issues were carried down 1 to 10 points, but a brisk rally developed in the early afternoon under the leadership of a selected list of amusements, farm implements, rails and specialties. Many of the morning losses were cut down, and a long list of issues marked up 1 to 5 points, with a sprinkling of others selling 6 to 18 1-4 points higher.

Early selling, which received considerable impetus from the further decline in wheat prices and the publication of some disappointing first quarter reports, was widely characterized as a further correction of the top heavy speculative position built up in the last six weeks. The subsequent rally was influenced, in part, by the lowering of call money and bankers acceptance rates and the appearance of strong buying support for some of the industrial leaders.

Business news continued mixed. Chicago steel operations were reported to have shown a substantial decline, but the output in other centers is being maintained at good levels. Foreign buying of copper continues in fair volume but domestic consumers are slow in placing forward business at the current 14 cents a pound level, probably in anticipation of a further price cut.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and dropped to 3 1-2 with loans 1/8 the outside market available at 3 per cent. A few bankers acceptance dealers reduced rates 1-3 of 1 per cent, and the others are expected to fall in line within the next day or two. Time money held steady.

WOMAN WILL VOTE FOR REPEAL OF DRY LAW

FEDERAL GRAND JURY FAILS TO INDICT JUDGE SINCLAIR

Ask More Time To Formulate Shoals Measure

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—Additional time for the formulation of a Muscle Shoals bill along the lines outlined by the House Military committee last week was asked today by the sub-committee appointed to draft the measure.

Representative Reece, Republican, Tennessee, chairman of the sub-committee, announced that his group felt that it could agree upon the terms of a bill by next Saturday.

The full committee, he said, probably would give the measure consideration next Tuesday.

The sub-group was designated to draft a new measure to authorize the President or his representative to lease the project to private concerns, with an alternative provision that should no acceptable bid be received the government would undertake operation.

Representative Reece said the sub-committee had made "substantial progress, but we have not worked out all of the principal features."

In appointing the sub-committee to draft a new measure, the House Military committee scrapped the Norris resolution passed recently by the Senate, providing for government operation.

LOCAL NOTES HOLD ANNUAL LADIES' NIGHT

Interesting Program Rendered At Greenville Club Monday Night

Last night was Ladies' Night at the Greenville Rotary club and one of the most delightful programs of the year was enjoyed. The program consisted of solo numbers, contests, and a short talk by Herbert Waldrop on the subject of "Ladies' Night."

President F. C. Harding presided over the session and the program was in charge of J. B. Kittrell. Owing to the absence of several members who were on the program, names were drawn for those to take part in the entertainment.

The address of welcome was delivered by Prof. Herbert ReBarker, of the East Carolina Teachers College, who assured the ladies that they were "always welcome, and that the Rotes always looked forward to Ladies' Night program with more than usual pleasure. The response was made by Mrs. L. A. Starud, who expressed appreciation of the ladies in a very appropriate manner.

Solo numbers were rendered by Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, known as the "Sweetheart of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion," and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ray Tyson, Jr.

The women were awarded prizes in a number of contests that contributed much life and color to the program.

Mr. Waldrop spoke on the subject, "Why We Should Have Ladies' Night," and brought out several interesting facts in this connection. He stressed the important part which the annual event played in the life of the club and thought that an effort should be made to make the program of more interest with the coming of each year.

Will Complete Work on Tariff Sometime Today

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—The conferees on the tariff bill went to work today with prospects of completing either late today or tomorrow their task of adjusting differences between the Senate and House over the entire measure.

Except for five major rate disputes and controversies over the export rebate and legislative flexible tariff provisions, which will be reported in disagreement, the conferees had only a few secondary differences over the administrative provisions to settle before making a report.

Former U. S. Marshal Endorses New Sargon

EMORY J. SLITER
"I was a stamper during the years of the gold-fever in Alaska and spent 20 odd years in that country, serving as U. S. Marshal part of the time and also as Chief of Police of Juneau. When I returned to Seattle in 1918, the previous years of exposure and rough living had taken their toll and I commenced to suffer with rheumatism, constipation and indigestion that weakened and pulled me down so much that I was afraid I'd finally have to give up entirely.

"After all other medicines failed to help me I started Sargon, and that was the beginning of my present splendid health. It built me right back up, gave me a wonderful appetite without a return of indigestion, my rheumatic pains don't bother me like they did back in the good old days in Alaska. Sargon Pills have rid me of constipation for the first time in years."—Emory J. Sliter, 2321 4th Ave., Seattle, Wash.

FOOD SEEMED TO DISAGREE Gas Formed, Head Hurt, and Woman Had To Hold To Things When She Walked.

Kaufman, Texas.—"Two years ago, I began suffering with spells of indigestion," says Mrs. Marshall Smith, of this place. "It seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me. I had gas on the stomach, and often my head would hurt so bad I had to lie down.

"Everything would get black before my eyes, and I would be so dizzy when I would get upon my feet that I had to hold on to things, to walk around the room. "My food soured on my stomach, and I was constipated.

"I had often read about Black-Draught, and my mother told me it was a good medicine to take, and so I began a course of it.

"It was not long until I was feeling better. I took a pinch after meals, and I soon found I was suffering much less. It relieved constipation, and I was not any longer troubled with indigestion.

"We try to keep it in the house, and I use Black-Draught now, whenever I feel a sick headache coming on. It is a fine medicine, and I can recommend it to others."
