PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT IN NEW HANDS

Transfer of Power From the Treasury To Department of Justice Completed

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—Responsibility for prohibition enforcement passed today from Secretary Mellon to Attorney General Mitchell.

The transfer became a legal fact at midnight. The last Treasury act on behalf of the dry laws as such was the issuance of "a factual outline of public aid and cooperation in promoting prohibition law observance and enforcement."

Attorney General Mitchell's moves are being closely watched for indications of whether his course will differ radically from that pursued by Mr. Mellon. This interest was accentuated by the attack of Maurice Campbell, administrator for New York, upon "local politicians and certain administration officials in Washington."

He charged efforts were being made to restore certain brewery, whiskey and alcohol permits "in order to secure necessary support for the Republican ticket in New York this fall."

Whether Mr. Mitchell would take any official cognizance of that attack remained undisclosed as his staff undertook its new and complex assignment.

Last night, while he was still in charge of enforcement as assistant secretary of the Treasury, Seymour Lowman spoke back to Campbell. Today—with the change of enforcement responsibility having taken place—he would say no more.

The last night assertion was a disavowal of any knowledge of circumstances described by Campbell, supplemented with:

"The fact is Campbell has been administrator in charge of prohibition enforcement in New York and if he has yielded to politicians instead of enforcing the law, that has been his own weakness."

Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition at the Justice department and his assistant, Howard T. Jones took the oath of office this morning. The oath was administered by the chief clerk of the Department of Justice in the offices of Assistant Attorney General Youngquist.

Attorney General Mitchell, Mr. Youngquist and a few minor officials of the department were present. Woodcock declined to discuss his plan of action in enforcing the prohibition law.

The title of James M. Doran was changed today from prohibition commissioner to supervisor of industrial alcohol permits, with his office still at the Treasury.

He had charge of the pamphlet on public cooperation in enforcement. It reviewed aid given the government by railroads, express companies, real estate boards, property owners, civil agencies, public utilities and other business organizations.

"Leading groups in business and civil life are giving the government cooperative support and thus promoting better observance and enforcement of the law," it said.

The Treasury today designated Harry J. Anslinger as acting director of the new narcotic bureau, which began to function as a separate organization today.

For the last year he has been assistant commissioner of prohibition in charge of the narcotic bureau.

Germans Continue to Celebrate the Rhineland Freedom

Berlin, July 1.—(AP)—Sixty million Germans continued today to express their joy at the liberation of the Rhineland.

With the exception of a few isolated cases celebration of yesterday's evacuation by the French was without disorders.

Breslau Fascist supplied a note of discord in the Idyll of the Fatherland when during a military tattoo which formed one of the jubilation features, they started screaming—a number of persons were injured and others arrested.

Kaiserslautern witnessed a severe clash in which Republicans invaded homes of former separatists and wrecked their possessions, being expelled by streams from fire.

A separatist was said to have shot himself later.

Gaiety, however, was the dominant note of the celebrations. All over Germany church bells rang at noon today, as the yhad clanged their claxon of release at midnight. In Berlin and elsewhere the stock exchanges suspended fifteen minutes today while the members were addressed by committee chairmen.

Special children's festivities were arranged in all schools. Military services were held in both the Protestant and Catholic garrison churches.

Says Treasury Officials Not Sincere In Enforcing Dry Law; Urges Repeal

Maj. Maurice Campbell, Until Today Prohibition Administrator of New York, Resigns When Ordered to Boston to Take Charge of Alcohol Permits

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Major Maurice Campbell, until today prohibition administrator for New York, advocates the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

He resigned when ordered to Boston to take charge of alcohol permits under the Treasury department in the reorganization of the prohibition forces which transferred enforcement to the Department of Justice.

His declaration for repeal of the eighteenth amendment was part of a statement published today in which he charged that his transfer to Boston resulted from refusal to grant or restore brewery whiskey which "local politicians" and officials in Washington feel must be restored to secure necessary support for the Republican ticket in New York this fall.

Referring to William B. Moss who has been transferred from the post of prohibition administrator at Albany, N. Y., to take charge of alcohol permits in New York,

NEGRO HELD FOR SHOOTING THREE PEOPLE

Attempts to Burn Two White Girls Alive After Wounding Father

Warrenton, Va., July 1.—(AP)—Allie Corbin, 65, is near death and his two daughters, Estelle and Isabelle, are in a hospital, all three suffering from bullet wounds and burns reported to have resulted from an attack on them by Elwood Payne, negro.

Payne was arrested and denied the charges. He is held in jail. Sheriff W. S. Wolfe said he was told that Payne shot Corbin during an argument and then drove the car they were in to the Corbin farmhouse, telling the girls their father had been injured in an accident.

The girls said after they left the house on their way to a hospital Payne shot them, poured gasoline on the car, set fire to it and ran away.

Estelle, though wounded in the neck, succeeded in dragging herself and her father from the machine. In the meantime the other girl had run to a nearby farmhouse.

Payne told officers who arrested him that the shootings and burning were the result of an accident.

Sheriff Wolf said Payne was driving the machine for Corbin and that the shooting followed a quarrel between the two. The hearing for the negro will be delayed pending the outcome of the farmer's wound.

Physicians have little hope for his recovery, since he was shot in the head and badly burned. The girls were also wounded in the neck and head and were burned, but are expected to recover.

PUBLISHERS TALK ABOUT LABOR ISSUES

Officers to Be Elected At Convention of Newspaper Publishers At Asheville

Asheville, July 1.—(AP)—Labor problems involved in the publication of newspapers in the south occupied the attention of the 200 members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association at Asheville, N. C., Tuesday.

The session was to close with an election of officers. Phases of the labor situation were discussed before the publishers by Frank E. Phillips, manager of the New England Daily Newspaper Association, and W. C. Garratt, director of the Southern School of Printing. A special committee composed of J. L. Mapes, of Beaumont, Texas, chairman; G. L. Palmer, and L. K. Nicholson, reported on labor plans.

No business was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon. On the program was a golf tournament and sightseeing tours for those not playing golf. Competition in the golf tournament was expected to be keen since prizes valued at more than $1,000 had been posted.

The tournament committee is headed by Walter H. Savory. The annual banquet of the publishers will be held at Grove Park Inn Thursday night. It will be followed by entertainment and dancing. New officers and directors of the association will hold a special meeting at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

The convention of the publishers will be brought to a close Wednesday morning with a final business session. John Benson, president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies will be the principal speaker. Enoch Brown, Jr., of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, will lead a discussion on the local-national advertising rate differential. A further discussion of this matter will be led by Nelson P. Poynter, Kokomo, Ind. Dispatch. Leslie M. Barton, former president of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association, will speak on the definition of "retail" and "general" advertising.

Hunters Will Remain In Air As Long As Fabric And Metal Hold Together

City of Chicago Continued to Fly Over Sky Harbor Today, Fifty-Four Hours Ahead of World's Refueling Endurance Flight Record

Chicago, July 1.—(AP)—The Hunters will fly on "so long as fabric and metal hold together."

So said Walter Hunter, junior half of the ground crew as the "City of Chicago" circled over Sky Harbor today, 54 hours ahead of the world's refueling endurance flight record.

At 10:40 a. m. (CST) John and Kenneth Hunter dipped in recognition of another hour elapsed—474 hours of uninterrupted flight. They were only 26 hours from the 500-hour mark, but there will be no stopping then if human brain and skill and the veteran ship hold out.

There had been gossip of a landing at the 500-hour point, or on the Fourth of July, or Saturday or Monday, but Walter answered a questioner today:

"So long as fabric and metal hold together."

There was some difficulty on the 175th contact this morning with the refueling plane and a hasty conference was held by the three members of the ground crew—Walter, Albert and Irene, their sister. They considered moving the flight to another airport in search of better weather, for a steady drizzle was falling at Sky Harbor, but they were told unofficially they could not do so.

Revenue Collection Increases In N. C. Over Last Year

Raleigh, July 1.—(AP)—Revenue collections of the State of North Carolina for the fiscal year 1929-30 totaled $35,263,174.18, with both general fund and highway collections exceeding the 1928-29 figures, A. J. Maxwell, commissioner of revenue, announced today.

The total of the combined collections exceeded by $4,034,246.92 the combined revenue collections of any previous year in the history of the state.

The general fund collections totaled $15,344,242.85, an increase of $1,411,532.50 over the year 1928-29, and the highway fund collections totaled $19,918,931.33, an increase of $2,592,694.42 over the 1928-29 period. The general fund increase does not include $211,225.49 of deferred payments on state income taxes provided this year for the first time.

The nautical Association, called Chairman Luke Christopher of the N. A. A. Chicago committee. Christopher said the rule that fliers must land on the field from which they took off could not be suspended.

The two brothers who pilot the refueling plane then considered the advisability of flying 100 miles north or further to make contacts, returning afterward to Sky Harbor.

"But suppose something happens and they have to land?" interposed Irene. She answered her own question:

Pres. Hoover Predicts Increased Construction During Next Six Months

Chief Executive Tells Governors' Conference of the Importance of Results That Have Attended Administration's Effort to Expand Business

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—President Hoover says "important results" have attended the administration's effort to expand public construction as a means of stabilizing business and that the next six months promise "even greater" things.

He made these assertions in an address of greeting to the governors' conference at Salt Lake City, spoken by radio last night from his study in the White House.

Congratulating and thanking the state executives for their response to his request for increased building he said he had been informed by the commerce department that the total of such construction for the first six months of 1930 had not been less than $1,700,000,000.

This figure, he added, exceeds "even the boom year of 1929 by over $200,000,000." Construction operations undertaken by public utilities, he reported, reached a total of more than $200,000,000.

"We have hitherto regarded great business depressions with their in-

WOMEN ELATED OVER PASSAGE OF CABLE BILL

Measure Reduces the Proceedings for Naturalization of U. S. Born Women

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—An organized femininity, estimated as 500,000 strong, today fired off figurative cannon crackers of jubilation for the increased independence of women.

They celebrated the long-fought-for passage of the Cable bill, relieving American-born women married to aliens from the necessity of involved naturalization proceedings to regain their citizenship.

American-born Ruth Bryan Owen, expatriated by her marriage to a British army officer, naturalized like any other alien into her home land, defender of her seat in Congress on a citizenship basis, was banner-bearer and outstanding example in the "parity of citizenship" campaign.

She sat with the House committee considering the Cable bill. Her naturalization experience was cited as "not just treatment" in the report of March 31 recommending its passage. She pronounced the existing naturalization process as applied to American-born women "an absurdity" and "a farce."

Among the requirements she labeled "perfectly irrelevant" when applied to American women was having to affirm: "I am not a polygamist, nor a believer in the practice of polygamy."

To emphasize her stand for women's citizenship rights, Mrs. Owen served as her own attorney in her election contest case, explaining she did it "because, to me, the elements we are considering are so simple they do not require any legal presentation."

The new Cable bill, an amendment to the Cable act of 1922, strikes out the presumption that a native-born woman loses her American citizenship by residence abroad after her marriage to an alien. It provides for repatriation by simple affirmation, instead of requiring residence in the United States for a year, declaration of intention to reside here permanently, and posting of the name for 90 days.

Under its provisions, native-born women would not be required to take the same searching examination and naturalization process as is required of a foreign-born alien. It would permit a native-born woman who had lost her citizenship by marriage to an alien to return to the United States outside the immigration quota.

The progress of the bill through the Senate was slow. But, prodded by the combined forces of the National Women's Party, the League of Women Voters, the Business and Professional Women's League, the American Association of University Women, and a dozen other women's groups, the Senate yesterday saw the legislation through to a last-of-the-session victory.

TAX SITUATION IS CONSIDERED BY GOVERNORS

Problems Confronting Various States Given Attention At Salt Lake City

Salt Lake City, July 1.—(AP)—Problems of state taxation, which occupied a large share of the opening day's sessions of the national governors' conference, held a prominent place of today's program.

A sentiment for the ultimate discontinuance of property taxes for the support of state government, and the substitution of sales or other excise taxes, was developed from the round table discussion that followed an address by Governor William Conley, of West Virginia.

Governor Conley's explanation of the operation of the gross tax of his state was followed by a lively interchange among the governors present.

"The sales tax should be in lieu of a property tax, and not in addition to an ad valorem levy, was the position of Governor L. G. Hardman of Georgia, who said a proposed constitutional amendment in his state would withdraw the ad valorem tax from its present level of 5 mills to a minimum of 1 mill.

Some skepticism among the governors as to the probable attitude of legislatures toward the proposition of abolishing the ad valorem property tax for support of state government was voiced by Governor Theodore E. Christianson and was concurred in by other speakers.

Governor Arthur J. Weaver of Nebraska told of a provision under the new constitution of that state, whereby intangible property was assessed at a low rate of 8 mills. This had resulted in the addition of some $150,000,000 worth of intangible property to the tax rolls, he said, and had increased the state's revenue by approximately $1,000,000.

Governor John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, who was presiding, explained that in his state a blanket amount of taxes is imposed for the various municipalities, and distributed on a percentage basis. He predicted that eventually the idea of land taxes as such will be abandoned.

Today's speakers included Thomson Cook of Kansas City, a former president of the American Bankers' Association, and State Senator George H. Sullivan of Minnesota, chairman of the Association of States on Bank Taxation. They were assigned the task of presenting the viewpoints of the banks and of the state taxation bodies in the conflict over bank taxation that has been carried on for many years.

Three Negroes to Be Questioned In Murder At Keer

Clinton, N. C., July 1.—(AP)—Three negroes held in jail here in connection with the fatal wounding Saturday of F. F. Newton, for 24 years postmaster at Keer, were to be questioned by officers today.

The negroes are Ernest Herring and Chevis Herring, held as suspects, and Oscar Murphy, jailed as a material witness. At a coroner's inquest late yesterday a verdict that Newton came to his death as the result of an assault by "parties to the jurors unknown" was returned.

Meanwhile funeral services for the victim were held this morning. The 74-year-old postmaster died at a Wilmington hospital Sunday without having regained consciousness.

Urges Farmers to Action Against The Boll Weevil

Raleigh, July 1.—(AP)—King cotton's dread foe—the boll weevil—has mobilized one of the biggest armies in years for an attack in North Carolina, believes C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at N. C. State College, after a return from a field trip.

Declaring that "it is unusual to find such heavy infestation so early in the season," Brannon warned growers to take action before "it is too late." His battle campaign calls for dusting with calcium arsenate. "If an infestation of 10 per cent is found, dusting should be opened immediately," he said. Three applications four days apart should be made, if the damage reaches 10 per cent, another dusting should follow.

LEON M. PEARSON AT COLLEGE THIS EVENING

This evening at 8 o'clock, at East Carolina Teachers College, Leon M. Pearson will give a poetry recital using American Ballads. Among the numbers on the program will be "The Sante Fe Trail," by Vachel Lindsay, and "The Mountain Whippoorwill," by Benet.

Mr. Pearson is a noted poet, playwright, actor, and teacher of the dramatic arts. He knows how to arouse in his audience that latent poetic spirit through the reading of stirring ballads, literary ballads by modern poets, who interpret the people of America and the commonplace things of life. But "reading" does not mean putting his nose into the book and droning out words, but it means saying by heart words of the authors.

A special rate of half price is made for all children, which means those of school age, throughout the grades and high school, for all the entertainments of the summer henceforth. Girls and boys in the upper grades and in high school would enjoy Mr. Pearson.

On next Monday evening Paul Fleming, the magician, will give a demonstration of his powers of magic. That will be of special interest to younger people. The next week, Salvi, the Harpist, will charm them. The performances of two Shakespeare plays, "The Merchant of Venice," and "Macbeth" by the Elizabethan Players will be a fine opportunity for all high school girls and boys. The appearance of the magazine writer and humorist, Strickland Gilliland, will give them the opportunity to see and hear one of the markers of present literature. All who love music, boys and girls are among these, will enjoy a recital by a fine baritone and this will be assured them when Edwin Swain sings, the attraction which will close the series.

Birth Announcement. Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Simon announce the birth of a son, Bryce, Jr., on Tuesday, July 1st, 1930.

Second Cotton Blossoms Reach Reflector Office

The second cotton blossoms of the season reached the Reflector office yesterday afternoon. Ernest Staton, who operates a farm on the other side of Tar river, displayed a fine looking blossom which he said he discovered in his field last Saturday.

Bruce Hall, colored, tenant on the B. F. Jolly farm, about three miles from Greenville, was the next contributor of blossoms.

The cotton crop, it was stated, looks mighty good at this time, but boll weevil infestation has already started and farmers are racing against time attempting to beat the weevil at his own game by dusting the crops.

ROTES HEAR REPORT ON CONVENTION

Herbert Waldrop Tells of Silver Anniversary of Rotary at Chicago

Members of the Greenville Rotary club assembled in regular weekly session at the Rotary home last night, heard echoes of the recent international convention of Rotary at Chicago. The speaker was Herbert Waldrop, who, with Mrs. Waldrop, attended the Chicago convention as a delegate from the local club.

Mr. Waldrop, who was recently elected to the presidency of the Greenville club, spoke about fifteen minutes, and during that time gave an illuminating account of his visit to the Windy City.

The convention, a silver anniversary affair, was attended by approximately 17,000 club representatives from practically every country on the globe, Mr. Waldrop said, and much interest was manifested in the work of the organization.

He said the gathering was unquestionably one of the most important in history of the international organization, and that men high in the life of the various countries were present to take part in the program. He said it was an inspiration to literally rub elbows with men who are doing so much for advancement of the club in all sections of the world, and thought that the gathering would have a far-reaching effect on future activities.

In addition to the talk, the Rotes enjoyed the usual supper and song program. President F. C. Harding presided.

Atlantic Beach Attracts Crowds Over Week-End

Atlantic Beach, July 1.—Atlantic Beach was thronged with visitors from many parts of North Carolina as well as from outside the state during the week-end, according to Manager R. W. Cordon, who is much pleased with the success of the new resort since its recent gala opening.

Several thousand persons visited the beach Sunday, highly complimenting the three large new buildings there, which have been completed in record time since May 29. The handsome new casino has been attractively arranged, with various colored shields around the walls, flags near the ceiling and a color scheme of green and flame.

Oliver Naylor and his 11-piece orchestra were heard with much pleasure by the afternoon crowds Sunday and Monday afternoons. Each musician is an expert in his line, especially the drummer. They play each afternoon on the boardwalk.

Manager Cordon is planning a number of special features for Independence Day. Children's dances are held every Tuesday night at the beach. Many Sunday school picnics and organizations' picnics are being held there in the new free picnic buildings.

INSPECTORS DECLARE WAR ON CITY CAFES

Eleven Proprietors Summoned to Court for Violation of the Sanitary Laws

Twelve public eating establishments in Greenville, temporarily closed a few days ago because of failure to comply with state sanitary laws, have been permitted to re-open by order of the court with provision that they clean-up and attempt to keep sanitary places in the future.

Appearing in a local court yesterday, proprietors of eleven of the eating places were fined $10.00 and cost each, but judgment was suspended with the understanding that they clean up their places and attempt to give more attention to sanitation in the future. Court action followed an investigation by B. L. Jessup, chief state inspector, and E. B. Roach, district state inspector.

Parkerson's Dining Room, Dickenson avenue eating place, was included among the number coming under observation of the state inspectors, but no legal action was necessary in this case owing to the fact that the proprietor agreed to close voluntarily with a determination of retiring from business.

The minimum rating for eating establishments is 70 per cent, and all places falling below that mark are subject to prosecution under the state sanitary laws, the state inspectors said. Places maintaining an average above 70 per cent are within the law, but if they are very close to that figure the inspectors offer recommendations for maintaining a higher average.

Six of the places investigated were operated by white people, the majority catering largely to the thousands of people who visit the city during tobacco season but who enjoy considerable patronage all the year around.

The inspectors said they found some of the cafes here to be maintaining a fairly high average, and after the places recently closed have been cleaned up and reopened, a rating of all the eating houses of the city will be made public.

Improved methods of sanitation is one of the prime objects of the annual inspection made under the supervision of the State Board of Health, and the inspectors will remain here a considerable length of time carrying on this work. The chief inspector has been here several weeks already, and the assistant has been conducting a campaign in different phases of the work over a period of several months.

It was indicated that good results were being obtained in each field of service, and when the campaign is completed the inspectors expressed hope that Greenville would be on a par with the leading centers of the state from the standpoint of enforcement of sanitary laws.

The cafes and eating houses summoned to court and permitted to reopen after complying with the state laws follow: Rollins Cafe, operated by H. A. Rollins; Paul's Cafe, operated by Paul Balafas; Five Points Cafe, operated by Paul Balafas; Barbecue Cafe, operated by J. L. Baker; Jack's Place, operated by Jack Corey. The following are operated by colored people: Atlantic Cafe, operated by Walter Keys; Early's Cafe, operated by Daniel Early; Colonial Cafe, operated by Anna Wilson; West End Cafe, operated by Charity Williamson; Wardley's Cafe, operated by Mary Lee Wardley; Royal Cafe, operated by John Hurdle.

Writes Policy While 3,000 Feet In The Clouds

J. B. Kittrell, well known Greenville broker, returned to his home in this city today from an extended visit to St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Kittrell said he made the 247-mile trip between the two cities in two hours. During the flight he had the distinction of writing a T. P. A. accident policy for a citizen of Chicago, thereby adding luster to his claim of being the champion T. P. A. membership writer in this section, said it was a thrilling experience writing insurance at an altitude of 3,000 feet in the clouds. He said it gave one the impression of being "rather high."

ONE ARREST REPORTED IN LINGLE CASE

Police Round Up Important Figure In Series of Raids At Chicago Last Night

Chicago, July 1.—(AP)—One of the men particularly sought in the Lingle murder case walked unsuspecting and unexpected into the arms of the law last night.

He is Grover Dullard. They say he is a gunman, a beer peddler and a "Bugs" Moran gangster. But what they say with especial pertinence is that he is the man who trailed Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, on the day Lingle was slain, and that he "put the finger" on Lingle—pointed him out to the man who actually fired the murder bullet.

It may develop, detectives intimated, that Dullard provided the short-barrelled .38 revolver the assassin dropped beside the reporter's body as it lay in the Illinois Central subway under Michigan avenue at Randolph street.

Dullard was arrested with eight others, including a young woman, in a raid by state's attorney's men on the Loop headquarters of the "Moran mob." The offices have been under surveillance for some time.

Dullard was not present when the officers entered. He walked in while the raid was in progress. The offices, police said, are the "pay-off" headquarters for the Moran men. A book containing 150 names, presumably of gangsters, was thrown from a window as the police entered. It later was recovered.

Another raid was made a few minutes afterward on a room in the Commonwealth Hotel on the north side. Two men were arrested. A third raid, resulted in the arrest of Jack Zuta, known as the operator of a string of west side resorts, and as a recent ally of George (Bugs) Moran.

The police policy of "action not talk" prevented newspapermen from obtaining full information as to the purposes of the several arrests—there were 15 altogether—but the officers gave reporters the impression that information vital to the Lingle inquiry was expected from at least some of those seized.

Officials indicated that their investigation had brought forth substantiation of rumors which named Lingle as attempting to "shake down" the operators of the Sheridan Wave gambling club, promising them police protection in return for certain sums.

According to the account as told to the authorities, Lingle demanded 45 per cent of the gambling house profits. He was quoted as saying: "Bugs Moran has been getting 25 per cent, and what good is Moran to you? The world's getting too hot for him, anyhow. My conditions are that I get 45 per cent and Moran nothing."

Moran, told of this, was reported to have said:

"So Lingle has become a 'mob' all by himself."

It is the Sheridan Wave club affair, investigators now believe, that provided the motive for the reporter's murder.

Tomorrow is another half holiday and next Friday, July 4th, is a full holiday, which means that thousands will flock to the beaches and other resorts for pleasure. Again we urge those who contemplate trips to exercise extreme caution, especially in traveling the highways. Almost every week-end and every other holiday brings reports of a large toll of deaths and injuries from accidents. If you would make the most of your holiday make up your mind now to use common sense and sound judgment both in the manner in which you travel the highways and the manner in which you expect to spend the day.

Of course, this year has been a hard one for most of us in this section, but it is now half gone, today marks the beginning of the latter half, and with the fall just a few weeks ahead we have survived despite all the hard times talk we were hearing when the year began. Of course it is not all over yet and there are still several weeks of slow business ahead, but the year is far enough advanced for most of us to look toward the approaching fall with confidence and expect the best. The present outlook only goes to show that, while business has not been what we would have liked for it to be, the year so far has not been as bad as many of the calamity howlers several months ago prophesied, and the future is bright if we forge ahead with a determination to put our shoulder to the wheel and keep everlastingly striving toward the goal, success.

WHERE WERE THE WETS?

Minnesota, which the wets were claiming for their own at the conclusion of the Literary Digest poll, has re-nominated Senator Schall, dry; the second man in the race was Governor Christianson, dry; and a veteran legislator and politician who ran on a wet ticket received less than 7 per cent of the total vote and finished third, apparently, only because there were only three in the race. In Maine, which also was wet in the Digest poll, there was a very similar result, two dries finishing far ahead of a repeal candidate. This contest was for the seat of Senator Gould, who did not even bother to run after a letter he wrote indorsing home brew was made public.—(Los Angeles Times.)

ABOUT TOWN

Although there is only one contest in the run-off primary to be conducted in this county next Saturday, the voters should not fail to realize the importance of the primary involving as it does one of the most important agencies of the county—a seat on the Board of County Commissioners.

As the board has the power of administering the affairs of the county, it is the duty of the voters to see that only representative men occupy the important positions. Four of the members were nominated outright during the recent primary, but the present chairman, Paul Davenport failed to receive sufficient votes to elect and S. I. Dudley called him into the second contest.

The county, like all other counties of the state, is at face with many vital problems at this time, and if it survives it is going to be necessary that cool-headed business men—men capable of dealing with big issues—pilot the ship of state. The vote in next Saturday's second primary will to a large extent play a big part in this connection and voters are urged to carefully weigh the capabilities of each candidate before finally casting their votes.

It is good news indeed that one of the large stemming plants in the city has resumed operation after being idle since the closing of the last tobacco season. This means that hundreds of men who have been without employment the last several months will find a way of earning their livelihood and to some extent settle the obligations which they quite naturally incurred while out of work.

The factory is handling tobacco stored away from last season. If other enterprises would make it a practice to do likewise and resume operation ahead of the opening of the Georgia and South Carolina markets, the unemployment situation existing during the summer months would be solved to a big extent.

What Greenville needs more than anything else is a year around payroll—industries that keep going in spite of seasons. This would have a tendency of keeping money in circulation all the time and relieving the merchants of some of the strain which they have to undergo during the hot summer months.

The government, states and counties begin a new fiscal year today, and as they look back upon the year just closed they can't say that it has been a very happy one.

To be real candid the year has been one of the worst since the period of depression following the end of the World War. In spite of the Republican claims of prosperity, depression has existed in all parts of the country and the various county and state governments have had a difficult time making "ends meet" and in many instances they failed to accomplish this.

However, there is one consolation and that is we are not by ourselves by a long shot. Other cities and counties throughout the nation have heard the wolves howling about their doors, and are doing everything possible to cut expenses and attempt to recover their equilibrium and also their equanimity.

If some kind of insect does not come along and destroy it, Pitt county farmers are going to produce one of the finest corn crops this year. In every part of the county one is bound to be impressed by the giant corn and the plentifulness of it. It is a real corn season and should not only enable the growers to take care of stocks, but also have sufficient to offer for sale at different times during the year.

The cotton and bean crops are also said to be looking good, but in some sections the boll weevil and the bean beetle have started a siege that is causing more than usual concern on the part of growers. Plans are already under way for treating the crops, and if the weevil and beetle do not get too much hold, the growers ought to be able to save the situation.

The tobacco crop is looking fairly good in some sections, and the growth has been so rapid that quite a number of farmers have started curing. We should be able to produce a fair crop this season, which combined with the offerings from other sections should enable the Greenville tobacco market to eclipse the previous sale record.

After the hard season last year, Pitt county people would be mighty thankful for good crops and living prices this year. It would enable them to get their heads above the water again and begin to see something more of the rosy side of life.

Child Dies From Mysterious Illness

Booneville, Miss., July 1.—(AP)—Beatrice, 13-year-old daughter of the Rev. R. C. Nanney, Kossuth, Miss., minister, died in a hospital here last night of a mysterious illness, an investigation of which is alleged to have caused her step-mother to attempt suicide.

Mrs. Nanney is suffering from knife wounds.

Hospital attendants said the child's illness had been diagnosed as apparently due to poisoning and that an autopsy would be held to determine definitely the cause of death.

The minister said he gave the child a mild medicine intended to relieve an intestinal inflammation before seeking a physician yesterday. Upon his return he said he found the child worse and that another child told him Mrs. Nanney gave the sick child something over her protest.

Investigating officers said they learned a can of insecticide had been removed from a shelf and deposited in some debris near an ice box.

Mrs. Nanney was found with her throat slashed in an outhouse of the home of a neighbor where she went after being questioned by her husband. A knife was lying nearby.

Investigation of the death of another child a year ago also was said to be under consideration.

The minister's first wife, mother of six children, died in 1926 and he remarried about two years ago.

ATHLETICS AND CUBS LEAD WAY

The fourth of July is the unofficial date for naming the winners of the major league pennants, but already the 1930 race resembles the 1929 chase with the Athletics out in front in the junior circuit and the Cubs setting a hot pace in the heyday division.

If history repeats itself the young men managed by Cornelius McGillicuddy and the McCarthy inspired team will again battle for base ball's premier honor, for on July 4, 1929, the Athletics were leading the American league and the Cubs were showing the way in the National.

In contrast, however, to last year's campaign, the Mackmen are striving to pull away from the Yankees and Senators whereas in 1929 the St. Louis Browns were runner-ups at this stage of the race, with New York in third place. The world's champions failed again yesterday to gain ground on their rivals, although rallying in the eighth to defeat Detroit 3 to 1.

Eddie Rommel, whose chief asset has been as a relief hurler, had his knuckle ball working to perfection, letting the Tigers down to seven hits but the victory only served to put another game in the "war" column for the Athletics.

The Yankees kept pace with the champions by staging one of their frequent rallies, during which Babe Ruth hit his thirtieth home run of the season and the fifteenth during the month of June. The Babe is now 12 games and 12 days ahead of his 1927 record, when he cracked out 60 four-base hits.

The White Sox were the victims of the Yankees wrath, losing 15 to 4. With the exception of one inning the lowly Sox could do nothing with the offerings of George Pipgras while the Yanks put together four consecutive clusters of three runs each.

The Washington Senators also kept in the midst of the American league scramble, maintaining their place with the Yanks two games back of the Athletics. In defeating the St. Louis Browns, 2 to 1, the Senators were forced to battle during the hurling duel between Fred Marberry and George Blaeholder. Marberry let the Browns down with four hits, one of which was a home run by Kress, while the Senators touched Blaeholder for eight.

A five run rally off "Bull" Durham in the eighth gave the Indians an 8 to 3 victory over the Red Sox. Belve Beane started and finished his first game for Cleveland, holding the Sox to eight hits.

With the Robins idle because of wet grounds at St. Louis, the Cubs took advantage of the situation to increase their lead in the National league to one and one-half games as they defeated the Giants 10 to 3. The victory was the Cubs' 12th triumph in fourteen starts. An eight run attack that drove Gene, which to the showers proved the downfall of the Giants. Thereafter the Cubs coasted along back of Blake's consistent pitching. Gabby Hartnett connected with his seventeenth home run while Melvin Ott got his sixteenth.

In the only other National league game the Boston Braves managed to eke out a 6 to 5 victory over the Pirates. Lloyd Waner, who has been recovering from an operation, made his first appearance of the season in the Pittsburgh lineup. He failed to hit in two official times at bat but made two putouts.

CUBS TAKE FIRST PLACE IN NATIONAL

A somewhat crippled Cub team, lacking Rogers Hornsby and occasionally a few other regulars, has been battling its way upward through the National league and finally has wrested first place from the Brooklyn Robins. The Cubs have refused to be downed, and even losing the first game of their series to the Robins failed to daunt them. They came back to win the next three. Finally they captured the lead yesterday by beating Brooklyn, 5 to 1.

The Cub's now have won 11 of their last 13 games, starting when they played their last game in New York before returning home for a long standstill. These victories have placed them a full game ahead of the Robins. Their lead is only nine percentage points, due to the fact that they have played four more games than the Robins.

Brooklyn made it a sad celebration of Manager Wilbert Robinson's 55th birthday by getting only seven hits off Charley Root and failing to take advantage of the few opportunities the Cubs offered. Chicago got to Hollis Thurston for three runs to win the game.

The St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves had almost as much cause for rejoicing as the Cub's yesterday although they could not alter the standing. The Cards picked up two full games on the New York Giants, winding up only one game out of third place, by winning a pair of close decisions. The scores were 3 to 2 and 5 to 4. Sylvester Johnson and Bill Hallahan held the Giants to a total of eleven hits in the two games. The Braves likewise won both ends of a double header from the Cincinnati Reds. They took the first 4 to 3 although outlived 15 to 6 and slugged out a 10 to 3 triumph in the second.

In the American league, the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns registered the big gains as the Yanks downed the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 6, and St. Louis trounced ever, that the two heavyweights were on trial before a crowd that came, hoping for the best, but remaining to see the worst. Schmelling, a beaten boy as he went groveling to the floor in the fourth round, fouled, was no more the picture of a champion then or afterward than was Sharkey, who saw prospective victory bounce from his erratic grasp.

Championships, a number of them, have been won or lost on fouls but only when the victim or his opponent had tangible access to the title beforehand.

After all, it may not seriously disrupt international relations even if Schmelling is regarded only as the champion in some sections of the U. S. A., Germany and Lithuania and not in the British Empire or the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, comprising the larger portion of the universe. In fact it is doubtful if the afterglow of far-flung Empire or the U. S. S. R. cares who is champion.

If we must be serious about it here, it will be time enough to pass the laurel to Der Mäxle, a game kid, if and when he demonstrates a superior fighting prowess. For the time being, John J. Pan may consider himself fortunate to have whatever championship claims there are rest peacefully in Germany.

SPORTS SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
What a lot of experts have overlooked in prematurely placing a "world's" heavyweight crown upon the black chitch of Max Schmelling is that the "title" was involved in his match with Jack Sharkey only by the influence of proclamation, ballyhoo and the insupportable consent of John J. Pan, led to believe that this would be the FINAL elimination.

Old John has been quicker, probably than the experts to realize that what actually happened was the ELIMINATION OF BOTH FIGHTERS, at least for the time being, so far as any real manifestation of championship calibre was concerned.

Had either Sharkey or Schmelling held the title that Gene Tunney forfeit two years ago, no argument or edict could deprive the German of its possession. The fact is, however, that Washington 6 to 3. The Yanks, benefiting by the power of Charley Ruffing, gained a tie with Washington for second place and the Browns tied Detroit for fifth, each gaining a game on its rival. Ruffing finished the game for the Yanks and scored the deciding run himself to make it six straight victories since he came to New York. The Browns had five extra base hits and as many singles behind the effective pitching of Walter Stewart.

The Philadelphia Athletics kept first place safe from any assaults by taking a single game in Detroit from the Tigers by a 6 to 5 count. Jimmy Fox's 22nd home run of the year, which kept him just ahead of Lou Gehrig, who hit his 21st for the Yankees, was the big feature.

The league's tail-enders, Boston and Chicago, divided a double bill. The Red Sox made it eight straight over their Chicago rivals by taking the first, 10 to 6, but the White Sox reversed the decision, 2 to 1, in the second game as Ted Lyons bested Jack Russell to gain his eleventh victory of the season.

Spinners Start Second Half With Another Victory

Charlotte, July 1.—(AP)—The South Atlantic league's second half parade was headed by Greenville, Macon and Charlotte today as the result of the week's opening contests.

Greenville's Spinners, winners of the first half chase, celebrated Fred Walker day by pounding Asheville's Tourists into submission by the count of 10 to 7. Jim Hudgen's 20th homer of the season figured in the victory.

Walker, perhaps the club's most valuable player in the first half left after the game to join the Jersey City Internationals, who purchased him from the Birmingham Bees for $15,000.

Macon topped Columbia 4 to 2 with Lefty Fisher, youthful colleen, winning a southern mound duel from Erickson, star Comerleaver. Each surrendered eight hits.

Augusta displayed its usual fighting spirit at Charlotte, but the fine pitching and hitting of Jim Mooney proved too much for them, and the Toros took a hard fought defeat, 5 to 7.

Mooney relieved Earl Brown in the eighth after the Wolves had tied the score with four runs. He halted the uprising and then came to bat in the ninth inning and singled, scoring Snyder who had tripled.

Hal Sullivan drove out two home runs for Asheville while Red Howell hit one for Greenville. It was Howell's 12th of the season.

COTTON MARKET

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 5 to 11 points under selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, while there also seemed to be some July liquidation, possibly against notices estimated at about 4,000 bales.

Offerings were not heavy and were fairly well taken at the start by trade and commission house buying, but the selling became more active after the weather map was posted and prices at the end of the first half hour were about 9 to 10 points net lower on new crop deliveries, new October selling at 12.87.

July eased off to 13.26, making a net decline of 20 points. Two private crop reports were issued, one of which made the decrease in acreage 3.5 per cent and the end-June condition 72.5 but gave no figures on indicated yields. The other pointed to a decrease of 4.3 per cent in acreage, placed the condition at 69.9 and the indicated crop at 14,150,000 bales.

STOCK MARKET

New York, July 1.—(AP)—The recovery in share prices lost some of the vigor in today's market. Profit taking was on the rise, and experimental bear selling checked the rise during the early afternoon.

The financial community as a whole, however, entered the second half of the year sobered but hopeful. While opinion as to the extent of the probable recovery during the next six months varies widely, there is little doubt that business trends will turn upward, as they normally do from August to December. Nevertheless, the slack summer period is still young, and second quarter earnings statements must be absorbed. The first to appear was a preliminary statement from DuPont, estimating net earnings at $1.31, against $1.44 in 1929, and $1.05 in 1928.

Buying of the dividend paying rails may have reflected in part the reinvestment of some of $1,000,000,000 being paid out in mid-year interest and dividends, or short covering in anticipation of it. Although rail earnings for May, with practically all reports now in, average but little better than those of April and estimates for June are not very hopeful, most rail executives expect substantial improvement during the next six months.

Trading showed some acceleration over yesterday, but was still relatively dull. The announcement of Harvey, Risk & Sons that it would abandon carrying marginal accounts was regarded as at least a reflection of the change in speculative sentiment, but Wall street was inclined to interpret it primarily as an indication that this house has decided to specialize in an individual type of business, rather than as a precedent likely to be widely followed. Call money again rose to 3 per cent, reflecting withdrawals estimated at about $100,000,000 for the mid-year settlements and holiday cash requirements.

The following article was written by Ruth Baldwin Cowan, Associated Press staff correspondent. With pilot with Walter and Albert Hunter in the plane "Big Ben," to refuel the endurance record breaking plane, "City of Chicago."

Chicago, July 1.—(AP)—The elder Hunter brothers, Walter and Albert, picked (of all places) a chunk of air over a graveyard as the spot for me to witness first-hand a refueling of the endurance plane, "City of Chicago."

These brothers have flown their plane, "Big Ben," to more than 170 successful refuelings, but even that knowledge is slight consolation when one sets the "City of Chicago" roaring a long at 75 miles an hour, appear suddenly close underneath to be refueled.

The first queer sensation came with the discovery on the ground that the reason the "Big Ben" does not look like other cabin planes is because somebody has removed the right door. But while picturing what would happen if the plane did a ten-degree barrel-roll—there being no straps to hang onto—Albert issued the order to slide up front.

To do this it was necessary to get past a huge tank which supplies fuel for the "Big Ben"—the rear end of the plane being used to carry the gasoline for the refueling—and so taking a front seat was accomplished head first in the undignified fashion of going under a barbed wire fence.

After getting righted in a space of two feet square and minding stern orders not to touch knobs and things, an impromptu seat was devised with a spare cushion on a battery box along side the pilot's place. There was not use worrying about how to exit suddenly. The food and supplies to be dropped to the endurance plane were packed in strong canvas bags to which a rope was tied. When these were placed in the fuselage, Walter did a Houdini to the pilot's seat, but Albert crouched out of the draft of the open doorway, carefully guarding the food bags and holding onto a strut.

Soaring and maneuvering, the "Big Ben" and the "City of Chicago" approached one another. Gaining headway the refueling plane straightened out and held a dead level course. The next move was up to the black and orange monoplane, and on that next move depended much, the trick being to come close yet not too close.

The planes contacted at 30 feet, and from the window of the "Big Ben" that didn't look like any distance at all. The wing tips, all that could be seen of the "City of Chicago," bobbed up and down below, and, remembering the whirling propeller, hope came that one plane wouldn't bob up while the other bobbed down.

Albert lowered the food bags, one by one, and they were grabbed by John standing up in the fuselage of his plane. Walter could not see the actual transfer. His job is to fly the "Big Ben" on a level course and by watching the wing tip of the "City of Chicago" to be prepared to soar quickly if the endurance plane comes too close.

Next the nozzle of the refueling hose was dropped. When John had attached this, Albert let him have fifty gallons of gasoline. This completed, the "City of Chicago,"

TENTATIVE BUDGET PROVIDES SLASHING CUT SALARY PITT EMPLOYEES

The budget has been in preparation for the last several weeks, and the Board of Commissioners actually began consideration the first of last week and remained in session at intervals every day of the week. They are reported to have carefully scrutinized the operation of every department with a view of cutting expenses everywhere possible, and although there has been a reduction of salaries and decreased personnel in some instances, the various departments themselves remain intact and will continue to function as efficiently as possible.

The economy plan is similar to that adopted by virtually every county in the state to meet the popular cry for reduction of expenses. It has also been occasioned by inability of many of the counties to collect back taxes, a considerable sum of money being tied up by suits filed several months ago against delinquent taxpayers.

The total amount whacked off the normal operating cost of the county government has not been divulged by any of the county officials, but it was understood to have gone into the thousands of dollars, and is easily one of the most drastic and far-reaching cuts in history of the county. It not only affects the officials themselves, but reaches the lowest of county employees.

Members of the Board of Commissioners and other officials were disinclined to discuss action on the budget today, but it was definitely stated that reductions were made wherever possible and that they expected to hear closely to the mark when the budget has been finally adopted.

The budget will be open for discussion next Monday and will remain on display twenty days, after which it will again be given the attention of the commissioners and adjustments made wherever found necessary.

SAYS TREASURY OFFICIALS NOT SINCERE IN ENFORCING DRY LAW; URGES REPEAL

"Further, in New York and other areas in which the sentiment of the people is predominantly wet, this transfer of enforcement activities to the Department of Justice will mean nothing so long as prohibition prosecutions are left to United States attorneys who possess ability to win the approval of local politicians and their community for their prosecuting activities.

"Finally, after my years of service in the prohibition bureau, after watching closely the results of prohibition from the inside and after the most thoughtful and serious consideration of the matter, I have reached the following conclusion:

"Prohibition is not the logical solution for temperance in our form of government, and I now publicly advocate the repeal of the eighteenth amendment before the nation is consumed in the fires of its consequences."
