Red Cross Declines To Administer The Senate Relief Appropriation

Chairman Payne, In Testimony Before the House Appropriations Committee, Declares Administration Would Be Impractical Because It Would Mean Duplication of Efforts of Long Standing Organizations In Urban Centers

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Chairman Payne of the National Red Cross said today the central had adopted a resolution against committee of the organization, accepting the administration of funds for general relief as provided in the Senate's $25,000,000 proposal.

In testimony before the House appropriations committee, Payne declared "it is our conclusion that the Red Cross cannot undertake to administer this bill."

"It is utterly impractical because it would mean the duplication of efforts of long standing organizations in urban centers," he added.

Judge Payne blamed the Senate's $25,000,000 proposal for failure of his organization to raise $10,000,000 through private contributions in less than two weeks.

Administration of a $25,000,000 federal fund, the chairman said would mean the establishment of Red Cross agencies in 300 to 400 cities.

The belief that the $10,000,000 Red Cross emergency fund, along with $5,000,000 set aside for relief work from its treasury, would meet the acute drought situation was expressed by Payne.

"The amount," he testified, "which the Red Cross set aside from its treasury, or $5,000,000 of which there now remains $2,741,575 plus the $10,000,000 fund will meet the needs."

He said to date collections on the $10,000,000 fund amounted to $3,889,996.

"The Red Cross," he said, "has expended through January 27 $2,860,994 for drought relief, of which $329,162 was from the fall seed program, and $2,531,832 for food and other items including donated supplies."

The exact amount required to meet the emergency the chairman continued, depends upon various factors, including the effect of the $45,000,000 seed, feed and fertilizer loans to drought-stricken farmers; the extent to which the states may make special provision; and the degree to which farm hands and tenants are employed by farmers and planters and the opening up of industry with the warm weather.

"Consistent with the usual practice of the Red Cross," Payne said "the drought relief work has been financed as much as possible through local donations of cash and supplies. As local resources become exhausted we make cash appeals to the chapters to meet their needs."

Nearly 2,000 Cases of "Flu" In State

Raleigh, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Total cases of influenza reported in North Carolina since January 1, were announced today by the State Board of Health as 1,898, compared to only 140 during the same period a year ago.

The board today received a number of reports from towns and counties which had not reported in some days, 1,437 new cases being listed. Up to today only 461 cases had been listed this morning.

Young Hoover Erecting Radio Station at Home

Asheville, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, Jr., had a new pastime today—building a radio station.

Tiring of newspapers, books, magazines and checkers, the President's son made application to Washington for authority to construct a station. Yesterday the authorities acted, granting him permission to operate an amateur broadcasting station.

He got busy at once, and with the aid of his medical attendant, a former navy man, expects to have the station in ship-shape in a few days.

Young Hoover is occupying a cot in the home, recuperating from an illness. He has gained 15 pounds since he came to Asheville last fall. He now weighs 145 pounds.

Says Hoover Erred

Rep. James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, republican, said President Hoover "impaired the chances of his reelection" by his recommendation on the Wickersham prohibition report.

THREATENS TO GET REVENGE FOR SHOOTING

Brother of Rum Ship Captain Wounded By Coast Guards, Makes Threats

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A board of inquiry investigating the shooting of the Canadian rum-runner Josephine K by the coast guard Saturday night was informed today that one member of the crew had threatened vengeance for the killing of the master, Captain William P. Cluett, who was slain by a coast guard shell.

The threat, the board was told, came from Alfred Cluett, cook aboard the Josephine K, and brother of the captain.

Bennett Walker, cook of the coast guard cutter 161, quoted the brother of the mortally wounded captain as saying:

"If our captain dies, your skipper will die too."

Walker was the first guardsman aboard the Josephine K. He was assigned to guard the members of the crew. He was equipped with a revolver, he said, and so far as he could tell there were no firearms aboard the rum-runner.

He also testified that in his opinion Karl Schmidt, boatswain in command of cutter 145 and the man who fired the shot that killed Captain Cluett, was sober.

Walker said he saw Schmidt a few minutes after the shooting, and he was sure the boatswain had not been tipping. Testimony yesterday was to the opposite.

The members of the board asked Captain Cecil M. Gabbett, commander of Base 2, Staten Island, where the inquiry is being held, to run off a speed test of the Josephine K as soon as possible. They requested that an effort be made to hold the test today.

The speed of the rum runner is an important point in the proceedings because General Campbell, the British consul general in New York, has asked whether it would not have been possible for the cutter to capture the ship without resorting to shelling.

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A "suspicion" that the rum runner Josephine K was American-owned has been communicated to the State Department by the American consulate at Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

Department officials said the consulate's report was based on a rumor in Yarmouth that the vessel was owned by the same ring in this country that owned the Canadian registered rum runner "I'm Alone," sunk in March, 1929, in the Gulf of Mexico with loss of life. American ownership could not be established.

SEVEN PEOPLE DIE AS FLAMES DESTROY HOME

Farm and Six Children Perish in Fire Near Williamsport, Pennsylvania

Williamsport, Pa., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Clyde Smith, 53, and six children ranging in ages from 4 to 17 years, were burned to death when fire destroyed their home at Powys, seven miles north of this city early today.

The mother escaped, badly burned, with a two months old infant, while another son, 9, also made his way to safety.

The dead, in addition to the father, are Frederick, 17; Marian, 16; Darfida, 14; Catherine, 11; Max, 6; and Gerald, 4.

The fire was discovered by Engineer O. M. Rigby, when his train passed the house. He blew the engine whistle in an effort to arouse the family.

When the train reached Trout Run a short distance north, S. Oughterson, telegraph operator, was notified and drove to Powys. Just as he reached the burning house, Mrs. Smith, with the infant in her arms, stumbled from the door. The son, Howard, aged 9, was with her. The mother's night clothing was burned from her body and the baby was also burned. Both were later brought to the Williamsport hospital in a serious condition. The son, Howard, was nearly overcome by smoke but escaped injury from the flames.

No trace could be found of the remainder of the family and as neighbors reached the scene the roof of the house crashed in, making rescue impossible.

It is believed the father and the other children were trapped and overcome by smoke in the two bedrooms upstairs after the mother had groped her way down the smoke-filled stairway. Mrs. Smith's condition is so serious that she cannot be questioned.

The fire is believed to have started from an overheated flue in the kitchen.

The heavy timbers of the house were still burning late in the morning, making impossible a search for the bodies of any of the victims.

HAYES READY TO SERVE HIS TERM IN JAIL

Hillsboro Physician Planning to Bow to Ruling of State Supreme Court

Hillsboro, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Dr. R. B. Hayes is going to jail. He doesn't know exactly when but he hopes not before tomorrow.

Dr. Hayes is the Orange County physician who refused to answer question of Matt Allen, chairman of the state industrial commission, until he was assured he would be qualified as an expert witness and paid for expert testimony.

Chairman Allen sentenced the physician to serve ten days in jail for contempt of the commission. The Supreme court yesterday upheld his ruling.

So, it's jail for Dr. Hayes, he has no other recourse, he said, except a pardon from Governor Gardner. "And I am certainly not making any effort to get off that way," the 54-year-old physician said. "In fact, I am not making any effort at all to dodge going to jail."

"I suppose the sheriff will notify me when I am to start my sentence but I hope he doesn't find me before tomorrow. I am going bird hunting this afternoon, that is, if the sheriff stays off my trail."

"Where am I going to jail? Right in Hillsboro. The Orange County jail here is the finest building in town, steam heat, running water and all conveniences."

Asked if he would attempt to look after his practice through jail bars the physician said he would not.

"Other doctors here will take care of my patients," he said.

"I don't believe in long-distance treatment nor in giving prescriptions by telephone."

Dr. Hayes said his family would feel no "shame" at his serving a jail sentence.

"They would have disowned me if I had not handled this thing as I did. There's no shame attached to my going to jail."

Mrs. Gertrude Marty, 42, prominent Cleveland woman, killed her six-year-old son by slashing his throat with a razor and then attempted suicide.

Hubby Changes, Wife Applies For a Divorce

Los Angeles, Jan. 28.—(AP)—"I do not drink, I do not curse, nor have I habits that are repulsive," Frank P. Brice averred, before his wedding bells were heard. Thus Mrs. Brice declared with vim, in seeking a divorce from him. "But after Frank and I were wed, he changed his tune," the good wife said. "He howled 'I'll guzzle' all I can, for whiskey is the life of man!" and added to this rhyming feat, were cuss words that I can't repeat.

"His verse, with sweetness once imbued, was just all wet when he got stowed." The court looked down in sympathy when Mrs. Brice had made her plea. He said "You need not hear it now for I've annulled your marriage vow."

Mellon Declares Payment Of Soldiers Bonus Would Upset Nation's Finances

Secretary of Treasury Tells the Senate Finance Committee That Cashing of the Adjusted Service Certificates Would "Seriously Retard Recovery and Prolong Unemployment"

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon appeared before the Senate Finance committee today to warn that cash redemption of the soldier's bonus would upset the nation's financial structure and "greatly disturb world equilibrium."

The veteran secretary of the treasury said the cashing of the adjusted service certificates, which has been urged as a relief measure, would "seriously retard a business recovery, and so prolong unemployment."

He testified the treasury will close the fiscal year with a deficit, according to present indications, of not less than $375,000,000 and that cash payment of the face value of the certificates would cost about $3,400,000,000.

"I can say without qualification," he said, "that the Treasury Department could not sell $3,400,000,000 of bonds at the present time except on terms which it would be very hard to justify and without complete disorganization of the government and other security markets with the most serious consequence not only to the public credit but to our entire economic structure."

Continuing, he said, "but serious as would be the direct consequences to the treasury and to the public credit, the indirect consequences to the country would be even more serious."

Among the "indirect consequences" he listed: Immediately depreciation very materially of the price of all United States bonds. The effect of which would be "equivalent to a capital levy on the holders of all United States Government securities."

Destruction of capital values running into hundreds of millions of dollars.

Death of the bond market for any other kinds of securities.

Destruction of the market for foreign securities, which, he said, "not only would interfere with the marketing of our surplus products—but would also greatly disturb world trade and world equilibrium."

WOMAN HELD FOR SLAYING HER HUSBAND

Mrs. John Lynch Is Placed In Rutherford Jail Following New Evidence

Rutherford, N. C., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. John M. Lynch today was arrested and placed in jail here in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband at their home Sunday night.

The arrest followed investigation of reports connecting Mrs. Lynch with John Paul Searcy, 19-year-old farm hand, who was placed under arrest the day after the slaying. Searcy worked on the Lynch farm last summer, and has since made his home with Mrs. Lynch's mother in Forest City.

He has consistently denied any knowledge of the shooting. Lynch was killed on the doorsteps of his home late at night.

Mrs. Lynch told officers he came home early Sunday night, asked for his pistol and placed it under his pillow when he went to bed. Claiming to have been frightened by these actions, the woman said she lay awake for hours.

Late at night, she said, someone came to the door, called to Lynch and said, "John Lynch, if you don't treat your family better I will kill you."

The woman arose and went to the door, she said, and was met by a man. Mrs. Lynch claimed she ran downstairs to find him dying from the effects of four wounds.

Working on the theory that either Mrs. Lynch or Searcy slew her 40-year-old husband to clear the path for their own love affair, officers said there were still some details to clear up before the indictment.

Senate Debates School Bill Two Hours Today But Fails To Take Vote

Bishop Darst Delivers Opening Message To The Episcopal Convention

Three Hundred Delegates Attend the Sessions of Diocese of Eastern Carolina Here Today; William Pelham, of Chicago, Addressed Pre-convention Banquet Last Night

The convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Eastern Carolina convened at St. Paul's church in this city this morning at 10 o'clock. Three hundred delegates, including men and women high in the life of the church in many parts of the country, attended the opening session and more were expected as the convention hit its stride this afternoon. The final session will be held tomorrow afternoon.

The convention sermon was delivered by Bishop T. C. Darst at the opening session this morning. He spoke on the subject, "Vital Problems of Christianity," and urged his hearers to be up and doing in an effort to bring about an improvement in the religious life of the world.

Delegates declared the address was one of the most inspirational messages delivered at a convention opening in years, and the majority will return to their homes with hearts filled with inspiration for the work ahead.

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary were also in session and began work at the high school auditorium immediately after the sermon by the bishop. Mrs. W. D. McMillan, of Wilmington, is presiding.

The delegates were guests at a delightful luncheon at the parish house this afternoon at one o'clock. At 2 o'clock college girls presented a pageant at the church in honor of the visitors. This afternoon from 4:30 to 5 o'clock the college girls will entertain at a tea in the student room of the parish house.

The highlight of the convention will come tonight at 8 o'clock when Dr. John Wood, secretary of foreign missions of the Episcopal church, will tell of some of the achievements of the world mission board. This address is looked forward to with interest and the church auditorium is expected to be packed.

NEGRO SHOT AS HE BREAKS INTO STORE

Walter Pratt Victim of Gun Trap in Store of A. W. Ange At Winterville

Caught in a gun trap set for burglars, Walter Pratt, negro, was confined in the Pitt Community hospital today suffering from injuries received when he broke into A. W. Ange's store at Winterville last night.

Although in a precarious condition as result of wounds received when an entire load of shots entered his stomach, hospital attendants held out hope for his recovery if he should pull through the next two or three days. "I was said to be quite weak from loss of blood."

Having been visited by robbers sometime ago, the owner of the store set several guns, with strings attached to the triggers, around the doorways to the store.

When Pratt battered his way through the back door, he was so exhausted that he sat down to rest a moment before loading himself down with merchandise.

He moved his legs around, and as he did so his feet came in contact with one of the trigger strings. There was a bright flash of light, followed by a deafening report, and the would-be robber crumpled to the floor with the entire charge of shots lodged in his stomach.

People who happened to be in the business district at that time heard the report of the gun, and provided medical attention for the injured negro, who was later rushed to the local hospital for surgical attention.

Winterville merchants, it was said today, employed the shotgun trap several months ago to aid them in putting a stop to a series of robberies in that locality. The Ange store was one of the worst sufferers from the nocturnal visits of the burglars, and in the face of another epidemic of burglary, the owner began setting the guns around his store again.

The trap is a simple one, but very effective, as proven in the case last night. By placing the guns at strategic positions, and running strings from the gun triggers across the building, the trap constitutes a menace to anyone entering the store not acquainted with the law of the land.

Should Pratt recover he will be lodged in jail to await trial on a charge of breaking and entering and attempted burglary.

Measure to Be Considered at Session Tonight; The House Passes, McRae Bill to Make Extradition Proceedings in This State Uniform With Other States and a Measure to Require Courts of State to Take Judicial Notice of Foreign Laws If Material

Raleigh, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Senate debated the McLean substitute bill to commit the General Assembly to state support of the constitutional six months school term for two hours today but recessed until 8:30 tonight without taking a vote.

The House passed the McRae bill to make extradition proceedings in this state uniform with other states and a measure to require courts of the state to take judicial notice of foreign laws if they are material. The House also received three bills to closer regulate buses operating in the state.

The Senate took up the McLean bill which was passed in the House yesterday instead of considering the measure reported to it by committee.

Senator Baggett of Harnett, spoke in favor of the bill and then Senators Dunlap of Anson and Burrus of Guilford opposed it.

An amendment was offered by Senator Campbell of New Hanover to make the bill read that the schools shall be supported by taxes other than ad valorem "when adequate finances can be produced without hardship on the taxpayers and suitable machinery provided."

The measure passed the House yesterday by an overwhelming vote. The McLean measure replaced two separate bills introduced by Representative Young of Harnett, and Senator Lindsey of Brunswick.

Before Senator Baggett spoke, Senator Johnson of Duplin, asked that the House bill be read and asked that all amendments be sent forward at that time.

The public schools are the "backbone of the state," Senator Baggett asserted, and should be financed by the governing body.

Schools, he said, are a constitutional liability of the state and have been treated "as red-headed stepchildren" long enough. As to revenue to support the term, he said there were ample sources, mentioning his gross receipts tax measure submitted last week and pointing to a tax on absentee mortgages as an untapped revenue source.

Senator Dunlap asserted that "We are living beyond our means and one of the means which must be reduced is taxes."

Senator Dunlap commented on the fact that there "is a sizeable lobby on hand to strange as it may seem, the farmers and railroads are on the same accord."

Mr. Dunlap said he would support the bill if the Campbell amendment was accepted but could not support the original bill.

Senator Burrus of Guilford argued that the constitutional six months school provision has been fulfilled in practice if not in law.

"I am opposed to any school system, be it voluntary or state financed," Mr. Burrus said, "which is to be directed by a centralized body in Raleigh. I believe in democratic government in fact as well as theory."

The farmer needs relief, the Guilford Senator said, but is the only man in "our state who can take the rest of the world to go to hell."

The Senate recessed until 8:30 tonight without taking a vote upon motion of Senator Gravelly.

The House passed the following bills today:

SB 13—Powell of Columbus relating to use of shotguns in Columbus county.

HB 11—McRae of Mecklenburg, to make North Carolina extradition proceedings uniform.

HB 123—McDevitt of Madison, to abolish Madison January term of court.

HB 87—Crouse and Ervin of Burke, to require courts of North Carolina to take judicial notice of foreign laws.

LEGISLATURE LAUNCHES PUBLIC ENEMY ATTACK

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A legislative attack on "public enemies" was under way today.

Their arrest on sight, without warrants, would be legal under a bill introduced in the House of the Illinois General Assembly by Representative L. Igoe, of Chicago, leader of the minority Democrats.

FRIENDLY INDIANS GET COURSE ON TREE SURGERY

Every year hundreds of trees are cut down with no thought that they can be saved; with no understanding that they are amenable to curative processes as human beings. These beautiful trees in your yard or garden are living things; they eat and digest their food; they have a circulatory system comparable in man ways to the blood flow in the human body; they breathe; they reproduce their kind; they have an amazing power to adapt themselves to their environment. When they decay, do not let some inexperienced person plaster them with cement, but let them be treated with care. Albert B. Osborne and his class of youthful tree surgeons are at your service. Leave your call at the Library.

The class in tree surgery meets every Saturday morning at 9:00 in the junior room of Sheppard Memorial Library. We will examine any tree free of charge.

Coltrane Death Charged to Fall And Alcoholism

Charlotte, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Charlotte News today quoted Solicitor Z. V. Long, of Statesville, as saying further investigation into the death of Tom Gay Coltrane, young Concord bank teller, will be made "if necessary."

"The paper said Mr. Long would go to Concord next week to confer with private counsel retained by the Coltrane family."

"I will determine at that time if further investigation is warranted," he was quoted as saying.

"I have been keeping in close touch with the situation there; and if it is revealed that there is still further evidence that needs to be sifted I will do it promptly."

Concord, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The death of Tom Gay Coltrane, wealthy young Concord banker, was listed today in the records of Coroner I. A. Yow as due to "acute alcoholism, aided by fall and exposure."

The coroner's jury returned this verdict last night after hearing from Mrs. Anne Cannon Reynolds, rich and socially prominent young Concord woman, and other witnesses that Coltrane had been drinking heavily on the night of his death.

The body of the 25-year-old son of a prominent family was found early December 4 in the front walk of the home of Dr. E. A. Wisenheimer, a gash in the forehead. He had called on friends at the home the night before.

Mrs. Reynolds, daughter of a millionaire textile manufacturer and wife of Smith Reynolds, son of late R. J. Reynolds, tobacco magnate, testified she had a "date" with Coltrane that night.

The young millionaire, who has separated from his husband, said Coltrane had had a drink when he called at her home and continued to drink throughout the evening. Other witnesses corroborated this testimony.

He left her, she said, shortly after midnight, four hours before his body was found in a pool of blood in Dr. Wisenheimer's front yard. Yesterday's inquest was the second Coroner Yow had conducted into the death. The verdict of the first, held the day the body was found, was that death resulted from "fall and exposure."

TRIO TO APPEAR AT COLLEGE FRIDAY EVENING

The Cherniavsky Trio, which will give a concert at East Carolina Teachers College on Friday evening at 8:30 has ranged every quarter of the globe, and have mustered a vast following of enthusiasts in musical centers throughout the world. These artists have recently started out on their first American tour in three years, and the press reports indicate that throughout this interval they have been reaping the highest rewards from their art, and their reputation has been growing greater and greater.

There is such a demand for them that each section was given only a limited number of dates and these were quickly taken. Greenville was fortunate in securing one of these. The music lovers of the town have an artistic treat in store for themselves, but all have an enjoyable entertainment to look forward to for these musicians have that rare faculty of pleasing the public as well as the artistic minority.

As usual, the half price rate will be given children, or those which include high school boys and girls.

Rumley was an invited guest at this meeting. A sweet course followed the program.

Garden Club.

Farmville, Jan. 28.—A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Gaynor on Monday afternoon, interest in gardening having been re-awakened by the present spring-like days.

A program for the year which included seasonal work and suggestions for each month; plant exchanges; a pilgrimage to the Waters Azalea Gardens, and a tour of local gardens, the latter to be brought to an end with a tea, was submitted by a special committee and unanimously accepted.

The "Rejuvenation Contest" was discussed and remaining committees were appointed. A talk on "Artistic Planning of Flower Beds, Shrubbery and Borders" was given by Mrs. J. M. Wheelless, and a selection, "Ernest H. Wilson of the Arnold Arboretum" was read by Mrs. A. C. Hodges. Mrs. A. F. Turnage, Sr., a successful grower of peonies was present and discussed her hobby.

JAMES LEWIS DIES AT AGE OF SEVENTY-FIVE

Farmville, Jan. 28.—News was received here today of the death of James Lewis, a life-long and highly respected citizen of the Dudley section, at his home Sunday evening. He had been in declining health for several months, his condition gradually growing worse during the past three weeks. He was 75 years of age and had lived on the same home site since his birth.

The funeral was held at the home at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon with Rev. L. L. Smith of the Methodist church conducting the services, and interment was made in the family burial grounds. The active pallbearers were nephews of the deceased; D. C. L. W. and H. E. Lewis of Rocky Mount, Edward Lewis and S. J. Roberts of Mount Olive, and George Roberts of Goldsboro.

Mr. Lewis was the youngest and last surviving member of the family of nine children of the late John and Abigail Lewis. He was married to Miss Frances Carolina Grady on November 23, 1879, and she with six children survive: Mrs. Giles Komesay of Burgaw, Mrs. R. C. Komesay of Greensboro, Mrs. J. T. Taylor of Farmville, Miss Florence Lewis, Ernest, and John W. Lewis of Dudley, and a number of grandchildren.

SINGLE MEAL PER DAY FOR BROUGHT AREA

Average Family In Arkansas Glad of Relief Administered By Red Cross

By J. C. STARK

Murvel, Ark., Jan. 23.—(AP)—One meal a day, consisting usually of bread and molasses and perhaps beans or plain salt pork, is what the Red Cross gives him.

"But we're thankful to get that because it keeps us from starving," said Jacob Miller, a negro tenant farmer and life long resident of this community. "About all it does is keep us alive though," he continued.

Miller's case is typical of that of most of the tenant farmers of this and other counties—whites and negroes alike.

He has a wife and two children and has been receiving food from the Red Cross for three weeks. It amounts to about $5 a month.

"We eat one meal a day," he said. "If we tried to get more than that out of the food we get it wouldn't last two weeks."

"We don't get enough at the meal. If I ate all I wanted, there wouldn't be any left for my family so lots of times I do without."

The people over here, both white and colored persons, have just about killed all their hogs that didn't die. I lost five hogs and was afraid to eat them. I know of lots of others who also lost their hogs. I don't know what was the matter with them—I suppose it was because they hadn't got the right kind of feed.

"Now people are going to have to kill their cow as poor as they are, to get enough to eat."

Miller's children are not in school because he said they did not have clothes to keep them warm. Many others are keeping their children out for the same reason.

"If we have a cold spell, you'll see all kinds of sickness because people don't have clothes and food enough," Miller said.

Miller, like many of the other tenant farmers, saved nothing from last year's crops. His cotton brought ten cents a pound and he barely paid for the picking, he said. He could not pay for the food furnished him on that crop. He had bought a mule which he lost because he could not pay for it. And thus far he has been unable to arrange for food for this year's crop, ordinarily forthcoming, starting in March.

"The merchants I have seen tell me they can't furnish me," he said.

"People are going hungry now and if something doesn't happen, it's going to be a lot worse."

CHRYSLER TAKES OUT $12,000,000 IN LIFE INSURANCE AT N. Y.

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The New York American today said Walter P. Chrysler, automobile magnate, had taken out life insurance policies totalling $12,000,000, the largest amount ever issued to an individual.

The policies were issued by five companies within the past month, the American said, Pierre S. du Pont, manufacturer, previously headed the insured with policies aggregating $7,000,000.

Lovely hair!

Modern hair dressers add beauty to your hair by graceful lines and contours. It is just as important to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant, rich in color.

Millions of girls and women are doing this at home with the easy help of Danderine. It is so simple to use. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair.

Instantly Danderine brings out the natural color of dingy, lifeless hair; makes it more sparkling and lustrous than brilliantine; makes it easy to manage; holds it in place.

The consistent use of Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; tends to make the hair grow long, silky and abundant. Five million bottles used a year!

Lightning Weak Compared With Man-Made Kind

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

(Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The most powerful stroke of wild lightning ever measured by man would run New York City's power lines only half a cord.

This stroke, 5,000,000 volts, was caught on an Arkansas electric line between Camden, Ark., and South Magrolia and its measurements in watts and amperes were reported today to the American Institute of Electric Engineers. It was tapped with photographic apparatus by Julius J. Tork of the Westinghouse company and Ralph E. Pittman of the Arkansas Power and Light company.

The figures bear out a statement by the electrical genius, the late Charles P. Steinmetz, that lightning is weak compared with the silent flow of power from man-made dynamos.

The 5,000,000-volt bolt equalled about 15,000,000 watts. Eighty times greater than this was the power which flowed over the lines of the New York Edison company at 5 p. m. December 21, the hour of the highest peak load of 1930. The New York current then measured 1,247,800,000 watts.

Allowing for the time element, at least two and possibly considerably more lightning strokes per second would have been needed to run the city lines. This means from 120 to several hundred 5,000,000-volt strokes a minute, a noise fit to shake the city for miles.

The Arkansas lightning picture was taken with oscillographs, photographic devices which operated in milliseconds of seconds. The big shot sent between 100,000 and 100,000 amperes over four mile of power line. Its whole force was expended in about one sixteenth of a second.

Dedicated instruments showed that lightning striking very close to the lines had scarcely any effect, only direct hits being harmful.

Einstein Takes Peek At Both

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN

Frederick, Cal., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The scintillation of stars—of both the heavenly and Hollywood varieties—is now a subject for the attention of Dr. Albert Einstein.

The mighty Einstein brain concentrated today on why glittering bodies of the upper spaces scintillate.

Friday night Dr. Einstein will see for himself, with the naked eye, how filmland's terrestrial stars can twinkle. The Berlin professor expects to find a vast difference, relatively.

Dr. John A. Anderson, astronomer of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, is the instructor at Mount Wilson laboratory about the physical theory of stellar scintillation. He explains what the 100-inch telescope, the world's largest, has revealed about some of the thirty billion stars of the galaxy.

Friday night Dr. Einstein will be treated to a physical demonstration by Hollywood's galaxy of scintillators while observing the premier of a new motion picture by Charles Chaplin.

Astronomers say energy leaves the bona fide star in the form of radiation of a great variety of wavelengths. In stars like the sun much of the radiation is confined to wave-lengths we can see, in other words, ordinary light. The remainder of the energy reaches us in the form of ultra-violet radiation having a wave-length too long to be visible to us.

Further difficult comparisons are brought out by the fact that Mount Wilson instruments reveal the quantity of energy that reaches us from the brightest star, Sirius, is exceedingly small. In fact, if one wanted to heat a cup of tea with the heat energy from Sirius it would take about 3,500,000 years.

If a star of the Hollywood galaxy had such a small amount of radiant energy, measured by studios in terms of "it" there is some doubt whether it would be visible in the film capital.

ABOUT TOWN

Two false alarms were sent in here Monday night, but authorities have been unable to determine who was responsible for them.

However, a keen watch is being maintained for people who turn in the alarms just to see the fire trucks race to the scene of the supposed fire, and when an arrest is made it is going to be "too bad" for the culprits.

This business of attending fires is not only costly to the city, but it is dangerous.

Every time the fire trucks leave the station the lives of the firemen and the public generally are in jeopardy until the machines reach the scene of the fire. Suppose, for instance, one of the trucks should wreck while on the way to respond to an alarm. It is impossible to say what the result would be. Several persons might be either killed or injured, and this fact brings us to the realization of the extreme danger of alarms, and especially those of the false variety.

The authorities have been trying to apprehend those engaged in such practice for months, but so far no arrests have been made. But if they ever do make an arrest, the court will deal drastically in this case.

Greenville is in the midst of entertaining delegates to the Episcopal Diocesan convention at this time, and everybody is doing his best to make the three hundred or more visitors feel perfectly at home.
This is the first time such an honor has been accorded the city by the Episcopalians, and it is hoped they will like the city so well that they will vote to return again in the not distant future.

This is the third or fourth convention the city has entertained during the last two years, which proves conclusively that the people are beginning to realize the "muddy" little town on Tar river," as George Washington denominated it during his visit here when the city was nothing more than a struggling village, is capable of providing accommodations for thousands of people.

Long, long ago the city was provided with the slogan, "Our Greenville Yours If You Come," and it is the desire of the entire citizenship that the Episcopal hosts accept the welcome in word and spirit and make themselves at home while here.

Mayor Lanier sometime ago hung the key on the outside for gatherings of this kind and those who enter these hospitable gates may rest assured of cordial, friendly treatment while here.

The farmers of North Carolina have been advised to "farm to live"
this year, which in its true context, means to follow the live at home plan outlined by Governor Gardner last year.

Just how many growers are going to take advantage of this sound advice cannot be said definitely at this time, but it is a well established fact that it will be amply tried out by those who realize that they can no longer depend entirely on the money crops and must provide more of the things which they consume at home.

The trouble with the money crop farmers is plain as the nose on the face. They raise only the crops from which they can derive quick revenue, and let the other fellow provide the things which they consume at home.

Think how different conditions would be at this time if more of the growers of this community for example had stocked the barns with hams, and feed crops. They would at least have something to eat, and that is more than scores of them have at this time.

Experience, it has been reiterated from time to time until it is as old as the hills, is the best teacher and this being the case it looks like it is about time for the growers to begin to take advantage of some of the facts established during the past.

Farm to live. By that is meant to raise the things by which life may be sustained despite the way the money crops sell.

People have hardly begun to realize the seriousness of the situation among drought sufferers in the state of Arkansas.

Yet they should be able to form a pretty accurate opinion from a report carried in the columns of this paper, at least two-thirds of the population of one county of that state was being cared for by the Red Cross.

It is almost impossible to conceive of so many people being hungry at one time and unable to provide for themselves, yet this is the situation which the Red Cross is trying to deal with through public subscriptions of the relief campaign now under way.

Many other sections, especially rural communities, will find it impossible to render much aid in this connection, so the bulk of the $10-000,000 fund must come from the men high in the financial life of the country.

Many have contributed magnani-mously to the cause, but there are others who have not lifted their voices or their pens to succor these suffering human beings.

The situation, however, will be met through reports of the government and the Red Cross and it does not take a man of prophetic vision to see that it will not be long before the drought area will be on its feet again able to take its place in the world of industry.

BIG BUILDING PROGRAM AT CAPITAL CITY

This Year to See Completion of New Government Buildings
At Washington

By SAM BLEDSOE

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—In the late 1790's two men stood on a hill and scanned the ten mile square of wilderness beside the Potomac river which was to be the capital of the United States.

One was Pierre Charles L'Enfant, French engineer. The other was his friend, George Washington.
These two visioned on the eminence where they were standing the capitol of the nation vaulting its dome toward the sky and before them a city beautiful rising from cane brake and forest.

Most of America's cities since 1920 have expanded with the smoke from their industrial chimneys.
Washington turned back to L'Enfant for guidance. In the ten years it has come more toward carrying out his dream than in any other like period in the country's history.

The Frenchman quarreled with those who did not grasp his conception and quit after laying out the broad plan. His hope for the most beautiful capital in the world was almost forgotten as time went on. But not quite. The idea persisted and grew into the semblance of reality in 1926 when a $200,000-000 building program for Washington was agreed upon.

The close of 1930 found that program which will obliterate the relics and ruins on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue under way.
The shabby, dreary eyed buildings housing Chinese laundries and wholesale grocery concerns still stand, but the wrecker's hand is upon them.

Some have already gone, torn down to make way for the $17,500-000 commerce building near 15th street and the avenue. It is virtually complete. The $10,000,000 Bureau of Internal Revenue not far away is finished.

These two are a part of the group which will stand in "the triangle," the 70 acres between Pennsylvania avenue, B and 15th streets. Back of them is "the Mall," which L'Enfant saw as a wide strip of park running from the capitol to the Potomac on the west with the tree crowned hills of Virginia in the background. The government in 1930 sees it that way.

It will have a few buildings in it.
One of them is the new Department of Agriculture completed since 1923.
The late "Tama Jim" Wilson of Tama County, Iowa, former secretary of agriculture, would chuckle if he could see it. He wanted to erect the structure in Roosevelt's time but the sum appropriated was small. Wilson built two wings and left a space blank for the central structure. Not until now has a ressential Congress added it.

Washington's growth from 437,571 in 1920 to 485,716 in 1930 might have been disappointing to some but the explanation generally accepted is that there has been a mild exodus to nearby Maryland and Virginia.

To "Point-Up" Appetite
Just Stimulate Bowels

Whenever the end of the day finds you out of sorts, food doesn't tempt you and you don't digest, breath is bad, tongue coated, just chew a candy tablet before bedtime. Tomorrow you'll be a new person!

A candy Cascaet clears up a bilious, gassy, headachy condition every time. Puts appetite on edge. Helps digestion. Activates bowels.

Cascaets are made from cascara, which authorities say actually strengthens bowel muscles. So, take these delightful tablets as often as you please, or give them freely to children. All drug stores sell Cascaets for a time, and no dollar preparation could do better work.

Asks $2,850,000 for Buildings At Soldiers' Home

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—

Veterans Administrator Hines today recommended a $2,850,000 construction program at national soldiers' homes.

Hines also submitted to Chairman James of the House Military committee a request for legislation to fix the allowance paid veterans while in a home at half the compensation to which he would be entitled if not domiciled.

The $2,850,000 would be expended on the projects in the middle and far west.

Hines recommended the following use of funds authorized by Congress last spring:

That part of the $2,000,000 authorization for a branch home in one of the southern states to be used for the erection of domiciliary barracks at existing hospitals in case all of it is not used at one location.

Use of the $750,000 authorized for a hospital at the Eastern Branch home, Togus, Maine, for construction of a new hospital outside of and within a radius of 50 miles of the present reservation.

Use of the $650,000 authorized for a hospital addition at the Mountain Branch home, Johnson City, Tenn., for additional construction at Oteen, North Carolina, to take care of tuberculosis patients now at Johnson City. Additional construction for 350 domiciliary beds and 100 general beds would be authorized at the Mountain home.

Bandits Obtain $1,000 In Chicago Church Holdup

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Three holdup men invaded St. Hedwig's church last night, terrorizing 15 women and 28 men for 45 minutes and escaped after robbing them.
The losses sustained were placed at $1,000, all in cash, the robbers scoring jewelry.

FALSE TEETH SOCIETY MEETS AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The National Society of Denture Phosthetists went into session yesterday, provoking attempts to find out just what it was all about.

"What," members were asked,
"is a denture phosthetist?"
"Perhaps you have heard of the term 'phosthetic,'" replied one member, "'prosthetists' is derived from that."

"To make it quite simple we are interested only in endentulous mouths," said another.

But Dr. I. L. Furnas of Cleveland, secretary, gave more detail.
"Our line," he said, "is artificial dentures, the common term which we don't like to use is—" and he stopped.

"False teeth?" he was asked.
"Exactly," was the reply.

Cow Killed After Eating Farmer's Bag of Currency

Bridgeton, N. J., Jan. 28.—(AP)— Gloom as thick as pea-soup hung over the farm of Bill Mattox today for Bossy, a favorite cow, lay dead and Farmer Bill was out $350 in cash, plus Bossy's value on the hoof.

This is the story as gleaned from Bill himself:

He drew $420 from the bank to purchase supplies and, for a day or two, carried the money in a canvas bag in his hip pocket. Then, after feeding his stock, the bag was missing. His search was without success until he focused his gaze on Bossy, placidly chewing her cud.

He saw a part of what had been a $20 bill protruding from Bossy's mouth and sent a hurry call for a veterinarian.

In a little while Bossy's spirit was on its way to the happy hunting grounds for cows and the veterinarian had operated. In one of Bossy's stomachs they found all that remained of Bill's bankroll—a badly mutilated $50 bill, a $20 bill and a tattered canvas bag.

800-YEAR-OLD GHOST PUTS SIGN ON ENGLISH HOUNDS

Cockfosters, England.—(AP)—An 800-year-old ghost is putting the Indian sign on Major Smith-Bosanquet's hounds, it seems.

For the third time one of the foxhounds has shied near the same spot when out with the pack. The spot is where local legends locate the well in which the Earl of Essex, convicted of high treason, is reputed to have been drowned in 1144.

Elsewhere the dog is one of the keenest in the chase.

Other dogs in previous years have shown a similar disinclination to hunt at that spot.

SCHMELING ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

By EDWARD J. NEIL
New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—His broad face beaming, black eyes shining with pleasure, Max Schmeling moved into New York today, genuinely happy to be back in the land that voted him heavyweight champion of the world.

The youthful German with the features of a young Jack Dempsey sailed into Brooklyn late last night on the liner Europa, accompanied by his trainer, Max Machon, a dozen pieces of baggage and a cute little "dachshund" named Cecilia, in the line of Teuton dogdom aristocracy that is rapidly becoming the favorite pet of the New York box fight writer fraternity.

Max appeared to be in splendid physical condition, eager to get to work on preparations for his title battle in June with young Stribling, Georgia's challenger for the heavyweight crown. He was anxious to explain that, regardless of statements in the papers, he has never made derogatory remarks regarding either the New York State Athletic commission which recently stripped him of his title, or the German Boxing Federation with which he has been tilting. Over and over again he insisted that he wants to fight Jack Sharkey, feels sure that eventually he will face the Boston sailor in a prize-ring, but for the present:

"Cho Jacobs is mine manager. I am der fighter. He manages. I fight. Wass he says, goes."

Sharkey has no one to blame but himself, Max insisted, for the mud-died state of affairs that envelops the heavyweights today, a situation wherein Sharkey, loser on a foul to Schmeling here last June, is recognized in New York state as the outstanding challenger while the National Boxing commission, controlling boxing in 27 states, believes that Stribling alone is entitled to a title shot.

"While Stribling knocks out Phil Scott and Von Porat since last I am here," Schmeling argued, "what has Sharkey done? Nossing. Sharkey should have fought as Stribling did. I cannot ignore Stribling's record. If I don't fight him the N. B. A. suspends me. If I don't fight Sharkey New York suspends me."

Schmeling said that he had only seen Stribling fight once, back in 1928, when the Georgia slasher knocked out Johnny Squires with a half dozen punches in Madison Square Garden.

"He is very good," said Max seriously. "I have a hard fight ahead of me. But I am sure I beat him." Since no site has been chosen yet for the match with Stribling, although the bout probably will take place in Chicago, Schmeling has no immediate plans for a training camp. He starts February 9 on a nation-wide exhibition tour lasting until April 17.

Three States Considered For Golf Tournament

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer
Atlanta, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Dixie's 1931 amateur golf championship will be decided this summer on one of three courses in Alabama, Tennessee or Georgia.

Lowry Arnold, of Atlanta, president of the Southern Golf Association, said today the Birmingham Country club, the Chattanooga Country club and the Radium Springs club at Albany, Ga., were bidding for the event.

Director of the tournament site, Mr. Arnold said, had set the date for the third week in June.

Last year's titular meet was held at the Sedgefield Country club in Greensboro, N. C., and a Carolina star, Tully Blair, stroked his way to the finals before bowing to Emmett Spicer of Memphis.

Mr. Arnold said he understood Spicer would take part in the 1931 championship. If the Memphis star does participate it will mark the first time in four years that a champion has defended his southern crown.

Last year Samy Perry, Alabama University star and the 1929 winner passed up the Dixie event in an attempt to win the National Intercollegiate laurels.

The excellent showing made by several youngsters in 1930 gave indications that the youths who eye a razor with anticipation will make a spectacular bid for the crown.

Last season Fred Webb, a 15-year-old Shelby, N. C., southpaw, eliminated one veteran after another before finally losing to Emmett Spicer on the 18th green after a great battle.

Carl Dann, Orlando, Fla., who set a course record in winning medal honors in 1930, is also looked upon as a dangerous threat. Dann recently won the east coast amateur championship in Florida.

HEAVY HITTER ENDANGERS BOTTOMLEY'S INFIELD JOB
St. Louis.—(AP)—"Sunny Jim" Bottomley, regular Cardinal first baseman must overcome some stiff opposition to keep his job this season.

Jimmy "Rit" Collins, Rochester rookie mentioned frequently as a likely winner of Bottomley's job, did some tall hitting in International league last year, recently published average reveal.

Collins led the circuit in hitting with a mark of .376 and also was the author of the greatest number of base hits—234. In addition he accounted for 19 triples to lead in that department.

SPORTS SLANTS

Rowing, described by the Carnegie report as apparently "the only major branch of intercollegiate athletics from which commercialism is absent," nevertheless has come in now for some criticism on the rebound.

A good many of the college folks do not like the way football has been kicked around since last season. It is not strange, therefore, to find an effort to divert this barrage of criticism, if it must be laid down, to some other sports.

Here's what Graduate Manager J. J. Anonymous has to say about it:

"Why all this uproar about football, about spring practice and training camps? If you thing we over-emphasize matters on the gridiron, look what they do in rowing.

"Of course, I know that no mercenary motives are involved, for the gate receipts from crew, if any, hardly are sufficient to pay for bailing out the boats. Nevertheless, if it's over-emphasis you're looking for, how do you reconcile rowing programs that include practice on the indoor machines most of the winter (Yale having 19 'eighties' drills); outdoor workouts as soon as the ice breaks up, spring competition followed by three or four weeks up the Hudson or up the Thames, as the case may be, for the final big races?"

"I have yet to hear any outcry against these training camps or a program that keeps the oarsmen at work for some time after the school term closes.

Moreover, rowing is a costly sport to maintain. Only some 15 colleges in the entire country support it. Cornell spends around $25,000 annually to uphold its great traditions on the water. Washington raised something like $10,000 by subscription to send its crews to Poukeepsie last year. Several crew coaches, such as Young Dick Glendon at Columbia and Rusty Callow at Pennsylvania are among the best paid of all athletic mentors.

"I don't offer this as an attack on rowing. I think it is worth all it costs for the finest kind of tradition it sustains in sport. The Poukeepsie Regatta and the Harvard-Yale races are among the finest events to strictly amateur character. However, some of the critics of football would do well to balance their viewpoints with some of these facts."

From time to time bobs up the question of why West Point, with all its natural advantages of location on the shores of the Hudson, does not go in for rowing.

The answer is simple enough. The Army is content to leave such affairs to the Navy. In short, a crew of Cadets hardly would be looked upon as an appropriate and dignified affair, in keeping with the best military traditions, despite the fact that Whittington's soldiers once manifested their rowing ability on the Delaware.

It is not generally known but Army reluctantly turned down an offer from a prominent Harvard alumnus some years ago to establish rowing at West Point, with all the facilities, including a coaching endowment.

Internal Disputes Arise In Western Athletic Conference

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—All is not quiet along the Western Conference front.

In the wake of the era of peace and tranquility that followed Iowa's reinstatement to good-standing last spring, many internal disputes and ruptures have broken out. The athletic group, composed of ten of the leading midwest universities, slizzed with excitement today.

Doger at Indiana. Coach Pat Page was involved in a dispute with the university athletic board over his resignation and salary differences.

A sharp reverberation of its exclusion from the conference was heard over at Iowa where the educational committee of the State House of Representatives demanded an investigation of charges that Walter A. Jessup, president of the university, was largely responsible for the conference's ouster order.

At Wisconsin, the controversy over the retention of Glen Thistlethwaite as head football coach refused to die.

Page contended that when he came to Indiana in 1926 a group of alumni volunteered to pay half of his salary of between $12,000 and $13,000 a year. When he failed to place a winning team, he said they broke their promise, the university bearing the full contract. Subsequently, he said the university gave him another contract through the year of 1931 for $13,000. Since he was requested to resign, Page contended further, the university owed him $16,750, including his 1931 salary.

The university board of control claims it owes him salary only up to April 1 when his services will be officially taken over by E. C. Hayes track coach and freshman football coach.

Page indicated he would carry his fight to Western Conference heads and falling there, to the courts.

Drought Fails To Stop Golf in The Mid-West

By FOSTER HAILEY
New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—despite the business depression and the drought, which left many mid-west fairways and greens brown and sear before the summer was half over, play increased last year on the golf courses dotting the country between the Alleghenies and the Rockies and ambitious plans are made for 1931.

Heading the list in this respect are the Swanky Wakonda club, of Des Moines, with one of the sportiest 18-hole layouts in the middle-west; the White Bear Yacht club, of St. Paul, which, although located on the shore of White Bear Lake, found it necessary to put in a sprinkling system for its fairways, and the Columbus, O., Country Club. Wakonda spent $25,000 on its system. White Bear Yacht club spent $11,500 and Columbus County estimates its system will cost $30,000.

Minnesota generally had a good year in golf, with play on public and private courses an estimated 20 per cent above 1929 and with plans for course improvement in 1931 calling for a total outlay of more than $250,000. North Dakota golfers will spend more than $100,000 in course improvement. Iowa at least that much, and probably considerably more.

Michigan and Kansas, reports to the Associated Press and the U. S. Golf Association, indicate, will do little course building or improving this year. Most observers agree these two states were overbuilt in the two or three years preceding 1930 and the demand is just catching up with the supply.

Every state, however, reported a large increase in play last year, ranging from 10 to 25 per cent.

Various Committees of Legislature Meet

Raleigh, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Various committees of the General Assembly met this morning before the two houses convened at noon and others will meet this afternoon to hold public hearings and consider bills before them.

At a short session Senate Judiciary No. 1 ordered public hearings at 10:30 tomorrow on the Powell bill to make it illegal to pay the salary from public funds of any married woman whose husband makes more than $100 per month.

The committee also will hold hearings on the Gattis bill to authorize the Supreme Court to set up rules of procedure along lines recommended by the judicial conference.

House Judiciary No. 1 reported favorably on the Pitts bill to define illegal punchboards and slot machines an d provide punishment for their operation.

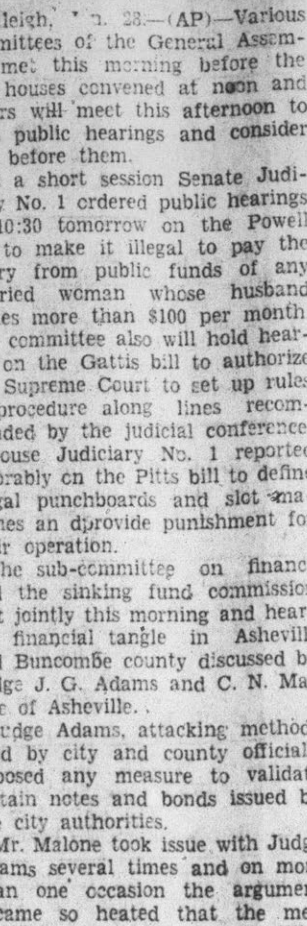

The sub-committee on finance and the sinking fund commission met jointly this morning and heard the financial tangle in Asheville and Buncombe county discussed by Judge J. G. Adams and C. N. Malone of Asheville.

Judge Adams, attacking methods used by city and county officials, opposed any measure to validate certain notes and bonds issued by the city authorities.

Mr. Malone took issue with Judge Adams several times and on more than one occasion the argument became so heated that the men turned to discussion of personalities rather than finances.

Both men agreed that a general measure "would perhaps take care of the situation." Mr. Malone favored a validating clause in any such bill and Judge Adams opposed it.

"I Hope Your Example Will Compel The Adoption Of Sanitary Methods"

Says
DR. THOS. J. McLAUGHLIN
Chairman State Board of Health, State of Rhode Island

Rhode Island Public Health Commission

THOMAS J. McLAUGHLIN, M. D.
WOONSOCKET, May 21st, 1930.

The American Cigar Company,
411 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

Permit me to commend you for your crusade against the old-fashioned method of cigar making which involved the use of "spit" or "saliva." There are many unsanitary processes still employed in industry which are very difficult to eliminate without the aid of industry itself.

Not only the public officer charged with the responsibility of improving conditions of health generally but every one immediately recognizes that the use of "spit" in the manufacture of cigars is not only unsanitary but has latent dangers to health of great magnitude. I feel it incumbent upon myself, therefore, as a public officer charged with protecting the public health to use this means of telling you that in campaigning against such a method of manufacture you are rendering a public service.

I sincerely hope that your example and your campaign will compel the abandonment of such methods of manufacture of cigars by the industry generally and the adoption by all of the manufacturers of sanitary methods in the manufacture of cigars.

You are at liberty to use this expression of my commendation in the furtherance of your laudable campaign for better sanitation.

Yours very truly,
Thos. J. McLaughlin, M.D.
Chairman State Board of Health
State of Rhode Island.

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. McLaughlin's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. McLaughlin writes: "Permit me to commend you for your crusade against the old-fashioned method of cigar making which involved the use of 'spit'."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo - a really wonderful smoke - mild - mellow - nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

COTTON MARKET

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today 5 to 7 points higher on a renewal of trade buying and covering with March selling up to 10.47 and July to 10.94. The advance appeared to be bringing in rather more hedge selling from the south, however, and after the initial demand had been supplied, prices sagged off a few points under realizing. Business was fairly active at the start but tapered off on the setback with the market holding about steady at the end of the first half hour with prices 2 to 3 points net higher.

Liverpool cables said that covering and foreign buying in that market had been supplied by hedging. A cable from Osaka to the New York Cotton Exchange service reported that the Cotton Spinners' Association of Japan had decided upon an increase in mill operations effective in April but the percentage of increase was not given.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Selling waves carried all future deliveries of corn down today to a fresh bottom price record since 1922.

Stop-loss orders were numerous, and the market underwent a tumble of 2 1/2 cents a bushel. There was an unusual dearth of buying power and other markets were reported shipping corn to Chicago.

Corn closed unstable 2 to 2 5/8 down; wheat unchanged to 1 1/4 off; oats at 5-8 to 7-8 decline and provisions showing 2 to 22 drop.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The share market, already well deflated, declined to be particularly disturbed over U. S. Steel's quarterly report today, but back-tracked a few steps as mid-week business statistics indicated that it may have been discounting commercial improvement a little rapidly.

Prices yielded 1 to 5 points, but the generally sold-out condition of the market was again apparent in the moderate volume of offerings. Bonds also eased.

The tobacco issues were strong, reflecting Liggett and Myers $100 extra dividend and favorable earnings report. Liggett & Myers gained 2 and American Tobacco B nearly 4. U. S. Steel, however, dropped about 3 points and Bethlehem, Byers, American Rolling Mill and Vanadium lost 1 to 2. Other shares losing 2 to 3 included American Can, American Telephone, New York Central, DuPont, Westinghouse Electric, North American, Baltimore & Ohio Public Service of N. J., and Air Reduction. Eastman, Case, and Allied Chemical lost 4 to 5. Losses of a point or so embraced a wide variety of shares.

The weekly steel trade reviews indicated that improvement in that basis industry had been all but halted pending further improvement in general business. Both "Iron Age" and "Steel" placed net output for the past week 47 per cent of capacity. U. S. Steel's last quarter earnings of 70 cents a share were exactly as estimated in advance of the report yesterday, but a larger proportion of that amount came from tax credit and special adjustments than expected. Only 27 cents a share came from actual operations.

Reports from large scale merchandising organizations were relatively satisfactory, but these issues eased with the rest of the list. Woolworth reported 1930 net of $3.56 a share, or only 10 cents less than for 1929 and its financial position was strengthened further. Sears Roebuck's sales for the first four weeks of the year are said to be about 10 per cent under 1930, against drops of more than twice that in the two preceding four-week periods. The 10 per cent drop scarcely reflects price reductions. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., increased its annual dividend rate from $5 to $6 a share. Credit conditions were virtually stationary, with little demand for funds.

Governor Long Bows to Modesty After Long Time

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 28.—(AP)—At last Governor Huey P. Long has bended a knee to modesty. Last year he thought nothing of receiving guests in pajamas, green pajamas, red pajamas and colored pajamas. He even received a German naval commander in them and later went aboard the German ship in formal dress to apologize. But fashion meant nothing to him. A few months later he received a general of the United States army, on a courtesy call, in his underwear and let the general watch him do his morning toilet. Yesterday the governor was feeling bad and went to bed. A delegation of his friends from upstate called to ask him to build them a road. But before receiving them he donned a dressing gown and bedroom slippers and invited them in.

PATROL BELIEVED LOST IN ALPINE DISTRICT

Bardoneschia, Italy, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Three army officers, two non-commissioned officers and sixteen soldiers in an Alpine detachment were feared lost today in two avalanches which overwhelmed the patrol in the valleys of Dora and Riparia. Rescue parties were searching in the vicinity but this afternoon they had found no trace of the missing men.

on the basis of the consulate's report, however.

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Testimony that the Canadian rum-runner Josephine K was within the territorial waters of the United States when she was captured by coast guardsmen Saturday was before the two governments today. Captain William P. Cluett, master of the vessel, was wounded fatally by a one pound shot and liquor valued at $100,000 was seized from his and two other craft. Carl Schmidt, commander of Cutter No. 145, told an official board of inquiry that the Josephine K was 11.7 miles off shore when she was overhauled in the lower bay. She was sighted two and a half miles south east of Ambrose lightship, he said, and boarded four and a half miles from the light. In denial of a statement by Wesley Anderson, first mate of the rum-runner, Schmidt said he was not intoxicated at the time of the chase. He was supported in this by members of his crew, the skipper of another patrol and his superior officers.

Mrs. Lynch, after her arrest, refused to discuss the case except to ask if bond could be arranged and when she would be given a hearing. She is expected to secure counsel immediately, and it was considered possible that a large legal array employed for Cearcy might also handle the woman's defense.

than the one from which the world is suffering today. "There is no economic merit in the proposal," Secretary Mellon testified. "From the point of view of stimulating business, it is a plan for unmitigated inflation, with the disastrous results of which the world is only too familiar."

"On the investment side it means the exhaustion of the security markets and the creation of a serious impediment to business recovery both here and abroad."

"To the unemployment it spells further retardation of the day when normal employment will be available."

"From the point of view of the United States Treasury it represents complete derangement of an orderly program for the refunding and retirement of our war debt and a tremendous increase in interest charge."

"To the taxpayer it means the destruction of all hope of the lightening of the load of taxation for years to come and a probable increase in taxes in the very near future."

"How the veterans and their families, who after all are an inseparable part of the American people and whose prosperity and welfare are inextricably bound up with the prosperity and welfare of all, can hope to find relief and improvement in their condition from the universal and destructive consequences which these measures would entail is beyond comprehension."

Before Mellon started, Under Secretary Mills read correspondence between the treasury secretary and Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, in which Mellon questioned the wisdom of cash conversion as well as for the country as a whole.

Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, asked whether the treasury or the veterans were best able to judge of what was best for them.

"Each individual veteran is probably better able to judge for himself, but the treasury is probably in a better position to judge for the group as a whole," Mills replied.

"In other words," Couzens said, "the treasury department is better able to pass on what is best for the veterans than the veterans themselves. I think there is some question of good taste for the treasury to assume to argue how it would affect the veterans."

"I don't care whether you put up the monument, or not," the general wrote back. "I guess it would be better not to do so, as I intend to be myself the rest of my life and not have strings tied to me by anybody, or be put in a position where I constantly have to keep earning my own epitaph."

The league decided to put up a tablet, anyhow.

ed to overflowing by delegates and visitors.

Two other addresses will feature the evening's program, one by Bishop Darst and the other by Rev. D. R. Covell, general secretary of the field department of the Episcopal church, who will present facts relative to the growth of the denomination.

Corporate communion at 7:30 o'clock will open the convention tomorrow morning. Miss Agnes Taylor of Chicago will deliver the final address of the session tomorrow afternoon after which adjournment will be in order.

Pre-convention sessions of delegates were held yesterday afternoon and last night. The commission on Evangelism met at 2 o'clock with William H. Milton, of Wilmington, presiding. At four o'clock there was a meeting of the bishop's council.

A banquet was tendered by the Brotherhood of St. Andrews last night. Champ Davis, vice-president of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad presided. The principal address was delivered by Hon. W. H. Pelham, of Chicago, who held pride and lust responsible for the present day conditions of business depression and individual unhappiness.

He prescribed closer personal association with religion as the cure for the present ills of the world.

"It is only when a man realizes his power that he gets real enjoyment and a thrill out of utilizing it," said the speaker. "When the athlete finds he can make a mile in record time, he rejoices in attempting to lower the record. So the Christian men when they realize the power they possess in taking the lead in the spiritual and moral life of our American people."

"We shall never be all that God intended us to be. There will always be a gap between. Today we are beset with business depression and a horde of personal unhappiness. At the bottom of all this is covetousness, pride, lust, selfishness, wrath and gluttony."

"Our job is to close the gap between God and man. We can do this only by eliminating the vices and substituting the virtues of love, joy, peace, faith, temperance and goodness."
