ASSEMBLY IN RECESS OVER THE WEEK-END

Senate Fails to Reach Contested Sections of Revenue Bill; Other Bills Up

Raleigh, April 4.—(AP)—Already in session far longer than any North Carolina General Assembly in the memory of man, the 1931 legislature was in virtual recess today as scores of the members went to their homes for Easter.

The House met for four minutes and the Senate for five this morning. Seven House members were present for the brief meeting and five senators, though others were in the capital.

During the week the Seawell bill to create a new banking department separated from the Corporation Commission was passed and ratified. It became effective immediately upon ratification.

Governor Gardner tendered the new position of commissioner of banks to Gurney P. Hood, of Goldsboro, member of the House from Wayne county, in the absence of Mr. Hood from the state, the governor requested.

The House, after efforts of members to amend the measure on third reading had been cut off, the finance committee of the upper house started a study of the measure but stopped without completing it and yesterday the Senate adopted more than 90 sections of the measure.

Sitting as a committee of the whole the upper house made numerous minor changes in the House bill, but none of major importance. It is claimed the bill will produce $28,202,000.

The Senate materially amended the Newman bill regulating buses and trucks, removing contract carriers from its provisions, and the House refused to concur in the amendments.

The omnibus justice of the peace and boards of education bills passed both houses but the lower division refused to concur in Senate amendments and they went to conference. The measure name justices and school boards members in practically every county in the state for terms to have started April 1.

The short ballot move made its reappearance with strength when 41 House members joined as co-authors of a measure to make the commissioners of agriculture, insurance and labor printing, and the three corporation commissioners appointive.

Republican members of both houses introduced a joint resolution to request the governor and other officials to co-operate with the United States Senate committee investigating the contest filed by George M. Pritchard, Republican, of the election of J. W. Bailey, Democrat, as United States senator.

Salary cutting came in for more discussion in the House when the salaries and fees committee reported the Davis-White-Moye bill to reduce salaries favorably with the cuts to run from 5 to 15 per cent according to the salary scale. The measure was sent to the appropriations committee after Chairman Harris of Person had told the House his group approved a 10 per cent cut.

Father Slays Son Over Flock Doves

Memphis, Mich., April 4.—(AP)—A flock of 200 doves, symbolic of peace, led to a quarrel in which a father slew his son, county authorities said today.

Stanley Cholewa, 21, was the victim. Sheriff Edward Reindl said his father, Frank Cholewa, 46, confessed he killed Stanley by clubbing him to death with a hoe, following an argument over the doves. He contended his son's fondness for the birds caused him to neglect his work in the fields.

Sheriff Reindl said the father would be arraigned in Justice court today, on a murder charge. Gossip of quarrels between the pair led the sheriff to halt the funeral procession, and hold a post-mortem examination, which the authorities said revealed two skull fractures. Later the sheriff went to the Cholewa home, where he began taking pictures of the dove cage and other objects. Cholewa remained silent until the sheriff pointed his camera at a hoe.

Varied Programs Mark Celebration Of Easter

SCENE OF RESURRECTION

Table Rock, Neb., April 4.—(AP)—The resurrection will be enacted here tomorrow morning at an Easter service scheduled to begin at 6 a. m. Scene of the service will be a park a mile east of this town. A natural cave on the side of one of the park hills will represent the Saviour's tomb. It will be rock-scaled and will be guarded by soldiers attired in the costumes of the age. After a short song service, the story enacted by a cast of Table Rock residents.

SAY MURDERED MEN TO ATTEND COURT TRIAL

Claim Men Believed Murdered Are Not Dead and Will Go to Court Hearing

Asheville, April 4.—(AP)—Mims White and Scott Brown, Haywood county men for whose murder Frank and Cass McGaha are being held, may not be dead at all, and may prove it by attending a preliminary hearing for the brothers Monday, it became known here today.

Frank McGaha, who has been held in jail here for several weeks, broke his silence to tell newspaper men that friends are making an investigation to help free him, had located the missing men in Mexico. Brown and White were reported "amused" by the furore stirred up by their disappearance, and prepared to step forward "at the right time" to free the McGahas after they have been "punished enough" for disagreements between them and Brown in the past.

The McGaha brothers were arrested over Oliver Smith, 14-year-old son of J. V. Smith of Gastonia, informed officers he saw two men killed in the Smoky Mountain recesses of Big Bend, Haywood county, and their bodies buried beneath a copper still. The still was found, and the dirt beneath it was soft, but no bodies were located.

Frank said the case against him and his brother had been "trumped up" because of an old mountain feud. His statements are corroborated by another Big Bend youth, Verlin Smith, brother of Oliver, who occupies another cell in the jail here, charged with hijacking.

Smith told reporters his younger brother's story was a pure concoction, based on feud hatred. "All I know for sure is that I haven't seen Brown for years, that I never saw White and that Cass and I didn't commit any murder," Frank said.

Three days ago friends came to see Frank and told him Brown and White were in Mexico, knew all about the search for them and arrests, seemed to be "enjoying the joke" and probably would return to Waynesville for the trial.

REVIVAL WILL BEGIN MONDAY

Easter Sunday Will Be Day of Preparation at the Memorial Baptist Church

Easter Sunday will be a day of preparation for the special services in the revival and evangelistic effort to be conducted at Memorial Baptist church during the next two weeks. Mr. Earl L. Wolslagel will be present to inaugurate the work, and lead in the gospel singing.

The meeting will continue throughout the week at 7:45 each evening and 10:30 a. m. each morning. Each service will be preceded with a 30-minute period of prayer to which all Christians are invited to unite in seeking the blessing of the Lord upon this most important work. It is hoped the merchants of the city will cooperate in permitting their employees as may desire to attend the morning services. Such permission will allow those who really wish to be there such a privilege, and not disturb the conduct of the organization. Dr. Tucker will bring messages each morning concerning the Home. At the opening service Monday night, Dr. Tucker will address the audience on the subject: "God and the Sparrow."

People in All Walks of Life in Every Corner of the Earth to Take Part in Great Celebration

Along the avenues—and in Hell's Kitchen—among the stalls and carts of South Halstead street—and along the babbling sidewalks of Harlem—on Pennsylvania avenue. Olive street, Market street, Euclid, Commonwealth avenue—in all America, Easter comes tomorrow.

In Piccadilly, too; on the Venetian canals; and Under De Linden and in Paris; in the shadow of tenements where bread is a luxury; and in green-rolling meadow lands where they feed milk to the dogs—Easter comes.

Forty thousand people—if the day is fair—will crowd "God's Acre" at Winston-Salem, N. C., where Easter Sunday has been the occasion of special ceremonies since 1773. There will be chorals at 2 a. m. At dawn the Rev. J. Kenneth Pfuhl, D. D., will appear in the hooded doorway of the little Moravian Home Church. Dr. Pfuhl, who is 56 years old, was baptized, confirmed, ordained and installed as pastor in the one church.

In San Francisco thousands will wind up the foot trails of Mt. Davidson to stand beneath the lighted cross that tops it and greet the Easter sun. Organ music will flow to them from below on telephone wires—and the ceremonies will be broadcast to those who greet the anniversary of the risen Christ in their homes.

Arizona's Yaqui Indians will dance in paint and masques to shrill piping of flutes and the weird roll of hundred rums, making the observation of Easter a week-long instead of a single day event. Tiny crosses of white in Indian villages will mark the Via Dolorosa Christ trod. And in Jerusalem, in the shadow of calvary where Christ hung crucified against a black sky, Easter will be celebrated under the muzzles of machine guns, with Easter music provided by the rumble of armored cars. There is fear by authorities that trouble may arise between the pro-Mufti and anti-Mufti forces from Hebron during the Moslem feast of Nabi Moussa, which is being observed even as the Christian Easter.

In Washington, the President of the United States will attend Masonic and a Quaker service. New York will observe the day with high hats, flashing fashions, elaborate church services—and thousands gazing at fish in the aquarium, at snoring ferries in the rivers and at animals in the Zoo.

In Czechoslovakia Easter will pivot a three day period of "divine peace" for the entire nation. In Russia—where Communists do not believe in God—it will be just another day for many, although thousands of devout members of the Eastern rite, still will observe the day.

Winston-Salem, April 4.—(AP)—Thousands from far and near were gathered today in Winston-Salem for the annual Easter sunrise service of the Moravians tomorrow. These, with other thousands who arrive tonight or in the early hours of tomorrow, will hear a new voice proclaim the multitude as "the Lord is Risen."

Dr. J. Kenneth Pfuhl, pastor of the Moravian church, will take the place of Bishop Edward Rondthaler as leader of the impressive exercises at historic old Salem. Bishop Rondthaler had conducted the service for 51 consecutive years before his death last January.

To the proclamation of the leader, the vast audience in unison responds, "The Lord is risen indeed." Shortly thereafter, the throng moves through a shady lane to "God's Acre," burial ground of the Moravians, where in the light of the newly risen sun the remainder of the service is held. Alternating music of units of the Moravian band placed at intervals between the church and the burial ground accompanies the march to "God's Acre."

More than 30,000, from several states, last year attended the service. Attendance this Easter was expected to reach 40,000. Hotels and lodging places have been crowded since late yesterday.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY South Atlantic states: Mostly fair weather except for a period of rains in the interior about Friday; moderately cool at beginning of week, followed by warmer middle and latter parts.

Candidate For "Meanest Man" Phoenixville, Pa., April 4.—(AP)—Twelve hundred eggs were hidden in a field here last night, all ready for today's Easter egg hunt by children of the town.

More than 1500 boys and girls marched to the field, led by a band, and the egg hunt started. Just two eggs were found. The others had been stolen during the night, including a "golden egg" that was to have been the main prize.

LEO BROTHERS FOUND GUILTY LINGLE KILLING

First Chicago Gangland Murder Case to Go to Jury Results in Conviction

Chicago, April 4.—(AP)—The responsibility for the murder of Fred Lingle was placed today on the broad shoulders of Leo V. Brothers through his conviction by a jury which decided on 14 years imprisonment as his punishment.

Breaking what appeared to be a hopeless deadlock, the jury in Judge Joseph Sabath's court found the tall, blonde, St. Louis gangster guilty of the crime late yesterday afternoon, and give him the lightest sentence possible under Illinois law. Twenty-seven hours of stormy deliberation preceded the verdict.

This ended the first big Gangland case to reach a jury in Chicago, but there were indications that the legal fight to save Brothgers was not over, as defense counsel announced they would ask for a new trial, and said they felt confident a rehearing would be granted. They described the result as a compromise. April 17 was fixed as the date for hearing their arguments.

"We have by no means given up hope of proving that Brothers had nothing to do with the Lingle murder," said Louis Piquett, one of Brothers' attorneys.

Civic leaders, on the other hand, hailed the result as a blow to Chicago gangs, and the prosecuting attorney said they were satisfied that the verdict was just. Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office was also pleased.

Brothers took the verdict calmly. He paled a little when it was read, but otherwise remained as much unperturbed as he did during the while the prosecution was piling up the testimony of witnesses who said they recognized him as the man they saw near or fleeing from the scene of the Tribune reporters slaying last June 9. His mother, Mrs. Rose Jensen, however, became hysterical and his sweetheart, Miss Betty Cook, cried bitterly.

ROWE SPEAKS TO KIWANIAN

Minister Stresses the Importance of the Spirit of Good Friday in Public Life

The greatest purpose of life is not found in the eternal chase for dollars, but in the spirit of altruism that causes men to forget themselves as they strive to render a higher type of service to mankind, Dr. Gilbert T. Rowe, of the Department of Religion of Duke University, told members of the Kiwanis club in regular session at the Womans' club last night.

The address came as a fitting climax to the observance of Good Friday, and was heard by the majority of the members of the club. President J. J. Summerville presided and the program was in charge of Dr. McGahey, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, assisted by Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, where Dr. Rowe is conducting a revival during the present week.

Last Rites For Rockne Held This Afternoon

Thousands Pay Tribute As Remains of Viking Son Are Borne to Final Resting Place Beneath Council Oak

By PAUL MICKELSON South Bend, Ind., April 4.—(AP)—The destined day for Notre Dame's man of destiny came at last today.

Knute Kenneth Rockne was to be ushered back unto earth, his final resting place, beneath spreading boughs of Old Council Oak, which has stood majestically for more than two centuries as a silent shrine of peace to man and by nightfall, a shrine of peace to that restless man whose genius for friendships and athletic conquests amazed a nation, even a world.

Only a few hours before the shadows of a setting sun die on the shimmering golden dome of old Notre Dame, the body of the viking son will start on its last earthly journey of only a few short miles from his pretty little dreamhouse of the world in Sunny-mede, past the black and white draped columns of the football stadium he built, then into the campus cathedral of the Church of the Sacred Heart for brief yet impressive services and thence, lastly, to his grave in Highland cemetery.

It was the day of sad farewell to Rockne. The world of sport and good fellowship mourned and their representatives were present, thousands of them from everywhere, to view his sad exit.

It was a sadder day still for six boys, who learned football and life from him on the greenward of the gridiron. For these youths—Tom Conley, Tom Yarr, Marchmont Schwartz, Frank Carideo, Marty Brill and Larry Mullins—who fought shoulder to shoulder to give Rockne two national championship teams in his two last years, were to shoulder now his bronze casket to the grave.

It was sadder of all for his widow, her four children, Rockne's 72-year-old mother and the Catholic fathers of Notre Dame, who were caught in the full clutch of circumstance.

In keeping with Mrs. Rockne's wish for simplicity, the funeral will be short, with only brief services at the church and at the grave. The cortege will leave the Rockne home on East Wayne street in the Sunny-mede district of South Bend at 2:30 p. m., and arrive at the church at 3 p. m. Chants by the choir will be followed by a eulogy to the man by the Rev. Father C. L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university after which the body was to be blessed.

The body will be removed from the church at 4 p. m., and the cortege will proceed to the cemetery. Two and one-half miles to the northwest, where final benediction will be said and the casket lowered. Thousands were in South Bend today for the last rites. Among them were persons of every walk of life. There were special representatives of King Hakon of Norway, Rockne's native land, who came by order of His Majesty from the Norwegian consul of Chicago. There was almost every football coach of distinction, who tried so often and failed to beat Rockne's Raiders on the gridiron. Almost every football player under his tutorage of 13 years, including the immortal "Four Horsemen," were on hand as were his classmates of 1914, statesmen and even hundreds who didn't know him but who had seen his name emblazoned over stories of Notre Dame victories so often that they grew to love him.

Only 1,400 of his closest friends and relatives were to be permitted to attend the services at the Gothic Catholic church on the campus because of the limited space but all were invited to view the last rites at the grave.

Millions, perhaps, planned to hear the rites through radio. The Columbia Broadcasting Company arranged for a national hookup for a word picture of the services, starting at 3 p. m. CST, and ending as the cortege rolled over the hill toward the cemetery. Pat Flanagan, announcer at the broadcast said it was also planned, if possible, to broadcast on a low wave length so that even those in Norway could listen in. After the broadcast, several of Rockne's stars were to give tribute to his memory between 5 and 6 p. m., over the national chain.

Today many plans were afoot to memorialize Rockne's name but there was one certain, undeniable one.

Rockne's grave will lie beneath Old Council Oak, a gnarled tree in the center of the cemetery and just far enough off the beaten Portage highway. It was under the same old oak that La Salle, the adventurous explorer, smoked the pipe of peace with the Indians two and one-half centuries ago and told the "great Father who controls the sun and moon, the rain and snow, life and death."

Just as La Salle spoke of the Great Father, Notre Dame men of the present and future some day will tell of Knute Rockne, a great man who came from the fjords of Norway to Notre Dame and lived a new saga of human achievement.

LETTER TELLS OF HORRORS OF RECENT QUAKE

Wife of Marine Officer Writes Mother of Details of Recent Managua Disaster

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—A letter from the wife of an American marine officer vividly describing her escape from the Managua market when it crashed during the earthquake killing hundreds of natives was received here today by her mother.

The letter was from Mrs. Frederick E. Stack, wife of Captain Stack, to her mother, Mrs. Lucy Mahon, and was one of the first letters to reach this country from American survivors of the disaster.

Mrs. Stack said she was the only American woman in the market when the earthquake shattered it. She had driven to the market with Mrs. J. D. Murray, wife of Major Murray of the marine corps. Mrs. Murray was killed while sitting in the car outside the market.

"I was knocked to the ground and a stall crashed on me, but only my hand was injured a little," Mrs. Stack wrote.

"Maybe some day I can tell you how I got out of the market. I seem to remember only a stampede of hundreds of crazy natives—I can't write any more about it. The horror of it will last in all my life. Two minutes after the quake the market was in flames. Had I fainted or broken a leg I would be dead now. I kept my head in the market, but once outside I went screaming crazy, yelling for Paul. (Her 18 months old son).

"I can't explain any of it. How I got to Paul is another story—he was home, and the nurse had taken him to safety. When I saw him, instead of fainting I was violently ill."

"Mrs. Murray, wife of Major Murray, had driven me to the market. She was parked outside the market—the car was buried under a pile of debris and later they found her body. When I heard she was dead I went off again."

"I can't minimize the horror of it all—but at least we have our lives."

"They say the wives and children are being sent home immediately, or as soon as they can fly us to Corinto and get us on ships."

"There is no place for us to live, the town is destroyed. So perhaps I will see you shortly."

The letter was written April 1, the day following the earthquake and brought here by air mail.

Raskob Pledges Support of The Party Nominees

Centerville, Md., April 3.—(AP)—Democrats today had the assistance of John J. Raskob that he will support the party's nominees, wet or dry, in 1932.

The chairman of the party's national committee made that clear here in a reply to a query from the Prattville (Ala.) Progress. The query said:

"Will you support the next Democratic national nominees if they are for prohibition and the national platform is for prohibition? Thousands of loyal Democrats wish to know this."

Raskob wired in reply that he would, asserting at the same time that the party's platform should "clearly and honestly" define its stand with respect to prohibition.

Says Sheriff Framed Plan To Rob Bank Greenville, S. C., April 4.—(AP)—A signed confession by Douglas Williams, bank bandit, made to federal officers, giving details of an alleged plot by Carlos Rector, former sheriff, to rob the Bankers bank at Travelers Rest, caused Rector's arrest. It was revealed here today.

The confession was obtained by Postal Inspectors E. C. Ellis and Garland McGregor of Atlanta. In it Williams told of how he held up the bank cashier, working under Rector's direction, and fled with $5,000, only to be overtake, wounded and captured by a posse of officers and citizens.

ABOUT TOWN

Members of the Board of Aldermen have set up machinery for the municipal election May 4th when Greenville people will select a mayor and five members of the board. The election this time will be conducted under the Australian ballot system. It will be the first time Greenville people have voted under the new law in a municipal election, but markers will be provided to assist those who have never before voted under the system. Interest in the election is beginning to take on new impetus at this time and the month of April will see much activity among the contestants as they attempt to impress upon their constituency the importance of going to the polls and voting their conviction. The citizenship is urged to give the various candidates all consideration and then to go to the polls and vote for the men they think will be able to render the highest type of service.

Tomorrow is Easter and people throughout the Christian world will celebrate the most important event in history of mankind—the Resurrection of Christ's victory over death.

It is impossible to estimate the magnitude of that single event in the life of men, but one may well imagine what a change would have been wrought by the passing of the years had it not been for the sustaining influence of that Colossal Figure who proved beyond dispute that immortality is an actuality, and that though veiled from the eyes of mankind, holds forth promise of continued victory over death.

The Christian nations in all sections of the world will pause in the midst of their activities today to pay tribute to the Christ who sacrificed His all that civilization might be saved. His sacrifice in this one single act atoned for the sins of all mankind and opens up a way for every person, regardless of how low he may have fallen in the ways of sin, to find the happiness and joy that come to all those who believe and are sustained by that belief. Everybody should attend church somewhere tomorrow and in that way show to all the world that they are followers of the Cross—representatives of the influence that has lifted and exalted humanity and instilled in every heart a spirit of peace and inexpressible joy.

Six false fire alarms during the month of March cost the city in the neighborhood of $200, according to estimates made public by the fire department the first of the month.

It was the greatest number of alarms sent in for any single month in years, and brought about unusual activity on the part of members of the police force to bring about apprehension of the miscreants. The alarms were a complete defiance of an ultimatum previously issued by members of the Board of Aldermen, who in addition to offering a reward of $50 for apprehension of the responsible parties, also declared that the practice must come to an end.

While no arrests have been made, the policemen are on the alert and ready to nab the next false alarmist and prosecute him to the full extent of the law. Punishment for infraction of the law of this kind is a heavy fine or prison sentence, or both, at the discretion of the court.

George Gardner, chief of the Greenville Fire Department, will attend a school for firemen in Durham the latter part of the month to gain some new points on the art of fire fighting. The school will be attended by hundreds of other firemen from all parts of the state, and it is expected good results will be obtained from the conferences.

Fire subjects in this state have been attempting to improve their service for years, and at this time it may be said without fear of contradiction that they have made as much improvement as any other section of the nation, considering their limited equipment and forces compared with the larger cities. The Greenville department has developed to no little extent the last several years and it is believed that at this time the service is equal if not superior to any other town in the state of similar size. With continued co-operation of the public there is no reason on earth why our fire loss should not be curtailed appreciably during the next several years.

Thompson May Aid Farm Board Wheat Problem

By FRANK I. WELLER
Associated Press Farm Editor
Washington—Sam H. Thompson is the first professional "farm leader" to receive any of the highly important agricultural positions President Hoover has had at his disposal in the last two years. Until his appointment to the farm board was announced an impression had prevailed that none of that group so long and ardently identified with farm legislation would be so favored. The appointment was a surprise in farm circles.

The practice of passing those professionally identified with farm politics had created the impression that the new member of the board would be selected from the tobacco industry to take over the position vacated by James C. Stone when he became chairman. The commodity Thompson is to represent was not named at the time he was appointed.

Thompson has a powerful personal following in the midwest, where chief opposition to the farm board is centered. In the last three months Thompson and American Farm Bureau Federation, of which he has been president, have been notably active in behalf of the farm board. Previously the federation had been committed to the equalization fee principle of farm relief.

The National Grange, however, never has retreated from its position on the export debenture and plans to renew the conflict for it in the new congress. Farm circles in Washington, expressing extreme satisfaction with Thompson's appointment, say it possibly may act to trench further the farm board in the wheat belt while the grain stabilization corporation works out a solution for its vast accumulations.

They suggest the possibility that the presence of such a well-known friend of the farmer on the board may serve to inspire further confidence in acreage adjustment and cooperative marketing while those two paramount factors in the success of the board's program are still in the test period.

Thompson comes to the board with a coast-to-coast farm support of his fight for tax reform, farm-to-market roads and his plan to preserve the family-sized farm through rural home modernization and beautification. Thompson's theory of tax reform looks toward equalization of the burden, now largely borne by real estate, by taxing tangible property on its earning capacity rather than on its capital value.

CLUB WOMEN MANIFEST MUCH INTEREST AT RECORD OF NIGHT SCHOOL PUPILS. At the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Club held in the club home on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. D. M. Clark, teacher of the night school, which is sponsored by the Woman's Club, introduced the following members of her class to the club women: Mrs. Lela Griffin and Messrs. Koonce, Griffin, Oakley, Carawan and Philpaw. In a most interesting way Mrs. Clark had the class demonstrate some of the things they have learned in reading, spelling, addition and multiplication. The club women were manifestly surprised that so much could be accomplished in such a short time and expressed themselves as being much pleased with this new project of the club.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. I. Wooten. Interesting reports of the activities of the various departments were given, outstanding among these were the reports of the Garden Club and the Health Department. The Garden Club has for some time been actively waging a tree planting campaign and beautiful certain spots in the city. The splendid results of this campaign are evident to all. The Health Department announced that three children had recently received hospital treatment and that through the local welfare department funds had been furnished for one month's treatment at Sanatorium for a Pitt county patient.

An announcement was made that all members of the Woman's Club were invited to be the guests of the Junior Club at the club home on Friday, April 10, at which time members of the Junior Club will present a Cotton Pageant.

Programs of an interesting musical concert, featuring Lamar Stringfield, to be given in Kinston April 8, were read.

Mesdames J. Key Brown, S. M. Crisp, W. H. Woolard and J. N. Hart were appointed as official delegates to the state convention to be held in Greensboro, April 14-17. All club women are invited to attend the convention and it is hoped that many women from Greenville will take advantage of the interesting features that have been planned for the convention. Mrs. John P. Sippel, president of the General Federation, will be the principal speaker at the banquet on Thursday evening, the 17th.

IMMANUEL BAPTIST CHURCH TO RENDER CANTATA TOMORROW EVENING. Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, the choir of the Immanuel Baptist church, will render an Easter Cantata, "The Crucifixion," by Stainer. An unusual feature of the cantata is that, with one exception, all solos are sung by the men. Mrs. Ola Tucker, using the words of Mary, the mother of Jesus, is the only woman soloist. The music, with Miss Lela Thomas at the organ and Mrs. C. E. Taylor at the piano, is also unusually beautiful.

The choir will be assisted by Mrs. Bessie Brown, soprano; Mrs. H. H. Settle, alto, and Moran Thomas, a member of the Duke Glee club, tenor.

The public at large is cordially invited to attend.

PUBLIC EASTER SERVICES BY BETHLEHEM COMMANDERY. Invitation has been extended by the Knights Templars to the Eastern Star and others to attend Easter services at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The sermon will be by Rev. A. E. Brown, of Robersonville.

EASTER SERVICES AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH. The public is invited to worship with the Eighth Street Christian congregation at all services tomorrow. The day begins with a Sunrise prayer meeting at 6:30. Sessions of the Bible School begin at 9:45, and the morning worship hour is eleven o'clock. Easter Day is Decision Day in all Christian churches and the Eighth Street church will receive into its membership at this service members of the school and others who desire to enter its fellowship. Mr. Ryan will speak in the morning on "Where Life Answers Life."

Notice. General meeting of Pitt County Tax Relief Association will be held in the Court House at 10 o'clock Monday morning, April 6th, at which the public is invited. Purpose of meeting is to petition Board of County Commissioners to comply with Article 5, Section 3 of N. C. Constitution, requiring real and personal property to be taxed at its true value in money. This is tax listing time. Taxpayers must give attention.

cause it conflicted with their philosophy of life.

Christ died the death of criminal because of his infinite love for mankind. In this last moment of life His mind was so centered upon humanity that he was unmindful of the supreme crisis through which he was passing. He had one objective, and that was to implant in the minds of the people the greatness and glory of a love that surmounts all difficulties and comprehends all things.

Good Friday, he pointed out, stands for the things which Christ stood for. It is emblematical of the life He lived, of the unspeakable pain he suffered simply to demonstrate to all the world that Love survives when everything else perishes and is lost.

He urged members of the club to pause in the midst of the hustle and bustle of everyday life and practice the spirit of altruism among their fellowmen. Forgetting of one's self and serving for the constant development of humanity will bring rich returns to any man.

President Summersell gave the club's attendance as 87 per cent for the first quarter, and said that the financial condition of the organization at this time showed a distinct improvement over previous months.

The club decided to meet at 7 o'clock in the future instead of 6:30 as in the past.

The club, at the proposal of G. B. Rowlett, adopted one of the beauty queens to take part in the Eastern Carolina Exposition during the latter part of the month. J. F. Harrington was empowered to make the choice. It will be the duty of the club to use its moral support in helping her win the honor as the queen of the exposition.

OPPONENTS IN CHICAGO RACE

Mayor William Hale Thompson (right), republican, is waging what he says is his last fight for re-election to the mayor's job in Chicago against a democratic vote-getter, Anton J. Cermak, who has won county elections by large majorities. The election will be held April 7.

with the dance in full swing. Other passengers said they saw Miss Orde, Kraft and Epstein talking on deck a few minutes before Kraft went over the side. McGouldrick was on the bridge above them, in command of the watch.

Searchlights failed to pick up the body in the murky waters and Kraft was reported a suicide when the ship docked here the next day. But with the discovery of the bullet-pierced body three days later on the river's mudflats, Miss Orde, McGouldrick and Epstein were ordered held.

They tri was taken to the mouth of the river to identify the body. She collapsed at the grave and accused McGouldrick, who was indicted on the basis of her statements. Later she recanted these accusations, declaring she made them under duress.

Dozens of witnesses were examined at preliminary hearings, but to no avail. No one had heard a shot aboard the Creole the night that Kraft died. No pistol was found.

Some investigators conjectured that Kraft, a powerful swimmer, might have been shot in the water by bootleggers, but there was no tangible evidence to support this theory, either.

And so Father Mississippi, full of mysteries, added another to his collection.

Three persons most closely associated with him aboard the steamer, including a woman traveling companion, were detained as material witnesses.

One of them, John McGouldrick, the ship's second mate, was indicted for murder, but the indictment was quashed for lack of evidence.

Restless and ambitious, his friends said, Kraft left New York in October, 1929, unwaveringly to seek a movie career in Hollywood. On the same ship sailed a girl of 25 who called herself None Orde, described as Kraft's foster sister.

Later she told police that lone Orde was a pen name, that she was really Gloria Gay Rouzer, debutante daughter of a prominent New York family.

Other passengers said Kraft and "Miss Orde" appeared to enjoy the pleasant voyage down the warm gulf stream, making many friends, but that it was marred toward the end because Kraft became jealous of attentions paid to the young woman by McGouldrick, the second mate, and by Sammy Epstein, steward.

Then came the last night out

WHEN SYSTEM NEEDS CLEANING Take Black-Draught To Help Throw Out the Poisons Attending Constipation.

"I have used Theford's Black-Draught off and on for twenty-five years, and have found it to be a good medicine," writes Mr. Dewe Stewart, of 1912 East Second Street, Austin, Texas. This medicine, he adds, had been used in his father's home for many years and was "our general family medicine."

"My health was always good. About all I ever took I used for constipation and bilious, sick headaches."

"It is a fine medicine to take when a man gets up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish. After a course of it, I feel fine. It seems to rid the system of poisons which come from constipation."

A somewhat similar experience is described by Mr. M. T. Sandles, of 119 Williams Street, Columbia, S. C., who says:

"About all the medicine I need is a laxative for constipation. When I get bilious or constipated, I suffer from sick headaches, I feel dull, tired and stupid. Then I take a dose of Black-Draught and get relief. It is splendid to cleanse the system."
