ASK RIGHTS TO INTERVENE IN BANK TANGLE

Committee Representing Mortgage Bond-Holders Acts in Big Receivership.

Asheville, N. C., June 15.—(AP)—A committee, representing holders of $13,000,000 worth of mortgage bonds issued by two subsidiaries of the defunct Central Bank & Trust company here, today petitioned for right to intervene in their receivership.

The complaint is that trustees and receivers have failed to collect $3,000,000 on guaranteed bonds, and that their activities are not beneficial to the bondholders.

The action is but one of the far-reaching ramifications of tangled finances resulting from the failure of the bank last fall. Suits brought by financial interests scattered throughout the country are pending, and scores of criminal actions resulted from the banking debacle, involving more than $20,000,000.

The petition alleges that $8,000,000 in mortgage bonds of the Federal Mortgage company and $5,000,000 of the Continental Mortgage company were guaranteed by the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Company, of Baltimore, which has failed to pay $2,000,000 of the Federal and $1,000,000 of the Continental paper.

It also contends that activities of the Real Estate Trust company of Baltimore, substitute trustee for the Central Bank & Trust, company since its failure, are detrimental to the best interests of the bondholders, appointment of another trustee is requested.

Additional receiver, to help the present co-receivers, Young Smith and D. J. Weaver, to aid in speeding up liquidation, is also requested of the court.

Millions of dollars worth of similar bonds were also sold by two other Central Bank subsidiary mortgage companies—the Universal and Standard. Conferences between receivers, former officials and bondholders' committees regarding them however, are understood to have resulted in compromise agreements which prevented long-drawn-out legal procedure.

The Federal and Continental committee representing the bondholders is composed of Allen H. Andrews, Fall River, Mass.; investment banker; James B. Crowley, of Crowley, Doherty & Company, Chicago investment bankers; and Walter Hill, former investment banker of Minneapolis, Minn.

David H. Blair, of Washington and Winston-Salem, former U. S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, is chief counsel for the committee. He is aided by J. Y. Jordan, Jr., of Asheville.

Whites and Blacks Engage in Pitched Battle Over Jobs

Greenville, S. C., June 15.—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty white and negro laborers engaged in fist fights and rock battles today as they fought jobs on a warehouse construction project. Many were cut and bruised before officers could restore order.

The trouble started as the whites far in the majority, attempted to drive the negro job seekers from the employment office of the Capital Construction company, Atlanta, Ga., which is building a warehouse for the Southeastern Compress and Warehouse company.

Rocks and picked-up missiles flew between the groups before Sheriff Cliff Bramlett, his deputies and State Highway patrolmen intervened. No one was injured seriously.

A. L. Haddock, superintendent of the construction company, gave a dozen whites jobs and instructed 14 others to report for work tomorrow.

LOWER BONDS COX, WHITLEY

Judge Frizzelle Decreases Bonds from $5,000 to $3,000 for Each of Defendants.

Following a reduction of their bonds, attorneys were busy today in an effort to bring about the release of Elmer Whitley and Rodney Cox, who were confined in Pitt county jail after their conviction two months ago of the highway robbery of Mrs. G. H. Ballard in the southern section of the city during the latter part of last year.

The young men were sentenced to five to seven years in state prison by Judge J. Paul Frizzelle, of Snow Hill, who presided over the criminal term of Superior court in this city. They filed notice of appeal to Supreme court and their bonds were fixed at $5,000 each, but neither was able to raise the necessary sum to effect his freedom and has been in jail ever since.

Several days ago Judge Frizzelle was presented with a petition, said to have contained the names of approximately seven hundred persons, asking the bonds to be reduced in order that the men might be at liberty while awaiting action on their case by the high court. Judge Frizzelle, who was holding court in Hillsboro at the time, did not immediately render a decision, but told the attorneys he would make known his action during the latter part of the week.

His decision was received Saturday and attorneys and friends interested in the young men began immediately to make preparations for their liberation.

Whitley and Cox were convicted of obtaining $4,200 from Mrs. G. H. Ballard in one of the most sensational highway robberies probably ever occurring in this community, and the courtroom was taxed to capacity during the five days the case was in progress.

BURIED IN WELL

Spokane, Wash., June 13.—(AP)—Well diggers and carpenters toiled throughout the night to rescue Carl Johnson, 43, buried under 20 feet of earth here. They hoped to reach bottom today, but none of them expected to find the victim alive.

Sir Hubert Wilkins' "Nautilus" is Towed by Battleship After Becoming Disabled in Mid-Atlantic; the Crafts Probably are Bound for Ireland.

Washington, June 15.—(AP)—The battleship Wyoming reported to the Navy Department today that it was towing the Arctic submarine "Nautilus" at five knots on a course east of northeast from the position in mid-Atlantic where she became disabled.

The battleship took the Nautilus in tow at 5:30 a. m. Since early Sunday the Wyoming and the Arkansas, now on midshipman cruises to European waters, had been standing by the disabled submarine.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, her commander, reported that one of the Diesel engines upon which she depends for surface motive power had stalled.

It was estimated that from the position last given by the Nautilus the course on which she was being towed would take her to Queenstown.

The undersea craft, in which Sir Hubert plans to reach the North pole by navigating beneath the ice, broke down while nearly 1,000 miles from its first point of destination—Land's End, England. Its take-off point for the undersea dash is Spitzbergen.

The submarine has encountered heavy seas since she left Provincetown Mass. June 4. Saturday, the starboard surface engine failed when a cylinder cracked.

Forced to proceed on its port surface engine at about eight knots in good weather, the submarine strained the remaining motor when she nosed into rough seas. Sunday the second engine failed. To add to the peril of those aboard, the batteries, used for under-surface travel, lost their power. She then called for help.

It was estimated that at the time the Wyoming took the disabled ship in tow she was about 490 miles from Queenstown.

If the speed of five knots were maintained about 71-2 days would be required to reach that port.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Union, S. C.—(AP)—Helen Cannon, 15, was recovering today after nearly drowning. Swimming in the city pool, she dived down, not knowing the drain had been opened. The suction wedged her in the pipe but she was rescued after having been under water six minutes by three Boy Scouts.

TWO KILLED, DOZEN HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Several Seriously Injured in Series Mishaps on State Highways Sunday.

Charlotte, June 15.—(AP)—Tragedy played a part on North Carolina highways over the weekend, leaving in its wake two dead and more than a dozen injured, several seriously.

John Ball, 19, Winston-Salem mechanic, was fatally injured when his automobile turned over between his home city and Walnut Cove. His companion, Mrs. Ora Hauser, 25, of Winston-Salem, was seriously hurt.

When the car in which she was riding blew a tire and turned over, Miss Polly Barris, 21, of Salisbury, suffered a fractured skull, and died en route to a Stateville hospital.

John Byerly, 29, Kannapolis textile worker; Miss Annie Mims, 22, Salisbury, and Crak Uiricht, 25, of China Grove, were injured in the same wreck. Byerly's condition was considered critical because of severe injuries to his back and spine.

Five South Carolinians were injured near Hendersonville when a hit-and-run car side-swiped their machine on a mountain road.

Allard Hendrick, 18, and Fred Tinsley, 21, both of Pelzer, S. C., were gravely injured. Their companions, Eugene Wooten, 41, his son Cecil Wooten, 9, and Harold Croone, 20, all of Pelzer, suffered lacerations and shock.

Six residents of Danville, Va., riding near Greensboro, were badly injured when their automobile collided with a car driven by T. D. Wilson, Route 1, Madison.

Mrs. Estelle Coleman sustained a broken arm and Miss Una Bivins a broken nose in the crash. The others in the car, Miss Dora Price, Mrs. J. C. Coleman, Raymond Coleman and Odell Coleman, were bruised and lacerated.

PRAISES FOOD MARKET HERE

Mrs. Frances Y. Kline is Enthusiastic Over Fruit and Vegetable Situation.

After a tour of the Greenville food markets, Mrs. Frances Y. Kline, culinary expert from the consumers' service department of the General Foods corporation, who will conduct a cooking school at the High School in connection with the Water & Light Commission June 16, 17, 18 and 19, declared that "household executives here have a big advantage over women in other sections of the country."

"With the health of fruits, and the wonderful early spring vegetables displayed in the shops, it is comparatively easy to choose the necessary ingredients for a balanced menu. In planning a meal it is usually necessary to go marketing to see what you can get and note its condition. Here the housewife may know for a certainty that they can depend on fresh fruits and vegetables at prices which are within the means of even the most modest budget."

"The variety and flavor of Greenville fruits and vegetables are unequalled. The blending of gorgeous tints produce a color scheme, replicas of which no artist's brush can picture. I find among your displays color and beauty enough to satisfy the soul of an artist, flavor and diversity enough to satisfy the taste of an epicure. Truly the housewife is blest indeed."

"It is easy to plan menus here where crisp celery, spinach, cauliflower, lettuce and parsley are seen in dainty piles in the market next to oranges, grapefruit, strawberries, potatoes, carrots and many other things. All or any of which suggest dozens of savory dishes to my mind."

"My instruction will include new suggestions and combinations in the preparation of Greenville's matchless fruits and vegetables," says Mrs. Kline.

Mrs. Kline was profuse in her praise of the Greenville grocery stores and found that prices compare favorably with best bargains offered elsewhere.

Mrs. S. M. Crisp, newly-elected president of the Greenville Woman's Club, will introduce Mrs. Kline. Four other members of the club will be at the door to greet the visitors.

PRES. HOOVER BEGINS SPEECH TOUR IN WEST

Chief Executive to Deliver First of His Addresses at Indianapolis Tonight.

Enroute With President Hoover to Indianapolis, June 15.—(AP)—President Hoover traveled into the middle west today on a three days' tour of as many states to deliver speeches eagerly awaited by Republican managers interested in a second term for him. The first address is tonight at Indianapolis.

A large crowd cheered Mr. and Mrs. Hoover as they boarded the train at Orange, Virginia, last night. The President stood on the back platform in a big overcoat worn down from storm swept mountains near his Rapidan camp and waved his hat to the crowd. Mrs. Hoover also responded by smiling and nodding.

Crossing West Virginia early today, Mr. Hoover invited to his special train for the trip from Charleston to Huntington, Governor Conley, Senator Hatfield, and other Republican leaders.

Mr. Hoover is pursuing a path that leads into the states of Ohio and Illinois which, with Indiana, delivered several Republican seats to the Democrats in the congressional election last year.

The special train reaches Indianapolis today crossing a corner of Kentucky and southern Ohio enroute. Mr. Hoover speaks tonight before the Indiana Republican Editorial Association.

Tomorrow morning the President travels to Marion, Ohio, to dedicate the memorial to Warren G. Harding. He will be joined at those exercises by Calvin Coolidge.

Leaving immediately after the ceremony, he will go to Columbus to review a parade of G. A. R. Veterans and to visit the Ohio legislative assembly before boarding the special train for an overnight trip to Springfield, Ill.

At Springfield on Wednesday, the President will be the guest of Gov. Louis Emmerson. He will visit the Illinois legislative assembly before dedicating at an afternoon service the tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

The President will leave Springfield Wednesday night, arriving in Washington late Thursday.

Disaster Overtakes Picknickers During Storm on Biscay Bay

Eye Witness Describes Tragic Details Of The Sinking Of French Ship

Daniel Duverger, 20-Year-Old Carpenter, Gives Graphic Portrayal Catastrophe that Overtakes Excursion Steamer St. Philibert; Other Survivors Give Personal Narratives.

St. Nazaire, France, June 15.—(AP)—Daniel Duverger, 20-year-old carpenter, sat over a steaming bowl of coffee in a borrowed suit of clothes today and told the story of the sinking of the excursion steamer St. Philibert.

He is one of the eight persons who escaped when more than 400 picnickers were drowned.

"There were 467 of us when the boat started from Nantes at eight o'clock yesterday morning," he said. "She rolled badly in the wind on the way out and some of us were pretty sick, but when we got to the island of Noirmoutiers everybody forgot the bad weather and we had a happy time."

"We put out on the way home at 5:00 p. m. The weather was very bad and the wind was terrific but we had had a good time and everybody thought we would get home safely."

"It was about six o'clock I think, when tremendous waves piled up in the bay and the boat began to roll dreadfully. The wind was hitting us from the port side and it seemed to me that everybody decided all at once to get over on the other side. We rushed over together. It was the worst thing we could have done, but we were not seamen and didn't realize it then."

"The ship rolled over from our weight. Several big waves came aboard one after another and suddenly I realized that we were in danger. I had a distinct premonition that we would sink."

"I am a good swimmer and when I felt the ship turning under my feet I dived into the water."

"It was none too soon and even (Continued on Page Two)

DEFER HEARING ON TAXES HERE

Commissioners Are to Meet Second Monday in July Consider Adjusted Valuations

Members of the Board of County Commissioners met here this morning for the purpose of hearing complaints, adjusting and reviewing tax values for 1931, but recessed until the second Monday in July when the matter will again be taken up for consideration.

It was stated that incomplete information made it impossible for the commissioners to go into the adjustment problem this morning with any degree of definiteness hence it was deemed advisable to defer the hearing until a later date.

The commissioners are to act as a board of equalization and are empowered to make adjustments of not more than ten percent on excessive valuations.

A board of adjustors has been busy compiling values of the various townships the last two weeks and a detailed report of their activities will be presented at the next session of the commissioners.

Grist Will Run for the Senate in '32 Campaign

Raleigh, June 15.—(AP)—Political gossip, fairly quiet in Raleigh since the General Assembly adjourned last month, broke forth again with fury over the week-end with the announcement of Frank D. Grist, State Commissioner of Labor, that he would run for the United States Senate in 1932 in opposition to Senator Cameron Morrison.

Mr. Grist's announcement was the first formal notice Mr. Morrison had of opposition. The labor commissioner is now serving his second term, was a member of the legislature from Caldwell county, and is a world war veteran.

Immediately on the heels of Mr. Grist's announcement new rumors that Capt. A. L. Fletcher, at present deputy insurance commissioner, would run for commissioner of labor or parks are heard and it is understood that Parks G. Hampton of Yadkin and Wake counties may also enter the race.

Thousands of Grieving Men and Women Crowd Quay at Nantes Awaiting Word from Members Families who Went Down with the St. Philibert; Bodies Several Persons Picked up by Rescue Boats; Vessel Turned Over by Storm, Dumping Its Human Cargo Into Raging Sea.

Nantes, France, June 15.—(AP)—Owners of the excursion steamer St. Philibert, which sank with a load of picnickers during a violent storm yesterday in the Bay of Biscay today fixed the number drowned at "about 400."

This evening thousands of grieving men and women crowded the quay here demanding news of members of their families who were on the St. Philibert. They stormed the steamboat office pleading to be allowed to join the vessels which were putting out all day to search the vicinity where the disaster occurred.

The bodies of several women passengers were picked up this morning and they were completely devoid of clothing—so powerful was the lashing fury of the waves. The body of an unidentified 18-year-old girl was still warm when fished out but life proved to be extinct after several hours of medical treatment.

The weather was beautiful and the sea was calm in contrast to yesterday's savage outbreak of the elements, as rescue boats renewed their cruising to find additional corpses and to pick up any passengers who might have clung to wreckage or drifted on to rocks.

Automobile loads of anguished relatives from numerous towns crowded St. Gildas point. Thronging jammed into newspaper offices and covered the docks in the vain wish that the names of their friends or kin would be among the meager list of the living. Many clung to the hope that their beloved ones were among those who remained on the island because of the foul weather.

From the lighthouse keeper, St. Gildas point, and the ailing survivors began to piece together the story of the catastrophe.

Their accounts led to the conclusion that the St. Philibert turned turtle and sank precipitately between St. Gildas and Pornic after the passengers had stampeded to the port rail in fear of wind and waves.

A mass of black clouds, part of a general atmospheric disturbance in western Europe and the British Isles, bore down on the steamer at about 7:30 p. m., and was followed by a series of towering seas. As the ship lurched on its beam, terror-stricken passengers massed on the port side and the craft was unable to right itself. She turned completely over and the human cargo was spilled into the water.

The ordinarily calm waters of the bay became a maelstrom of struggling humans. A few had managed to don lifebelts at the first hint of adnger and a few others clambered into a lifeboat. The great majority sank without a chance for life; their cries nearly drowning out the howl of the storm. A strong current evidently carried scores of bodies out to sea.

The lighthouse-keeper was the first person ashore to sense the impending tragedy. He saw the vessel roll and toss in a heavy trough and the clouds hang above her. When she was nearly across open water and heading toward the mouth of the Loire river, he saw her career under the impact of humanity and succumb to the battering of the seas.

He telephoned St. Nazaire, Nantes and Pornic for help. Life saving crews put out in tug and patrol boats. By the time they arrived, the scene of the disaster was merely a gray expanse of water, dotted with a few survivors and bits of wreckage. The boats picked up eight young men, strong swimmers but nearly exhausted, and four bodies, three of them women with wedding rings.

The rescued were brought to a hospital at St. Nazaire where they were reported to be recovering from their harrowing experience. They were suffering from cold and influenza.

SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS DECISION IN LAMM CASE

The $25,000 damage suit of Lamm against Charles Stores company was brought to a close today when the Supreme court handed down a decision affirming the non-suit ordered by Superior court in the same case some time ago.

The case had its inception in a check which the Charles Stores claimed Miss Lamm, a former student at the college here, gave the local store. Miss Lamm claimed she did not give the check, and the store filed suit for recovery.

Miss Lamm was acquitted when the case came up for hearing in County court and immediately filed notice of suit for $25,000 in Superior court against Charles Stores. The court found evidence insufficient and ordered the case nonsuited, whereupon Miss Lamm filed notice of appeal to the high court.

EYE-WITNESS DESCRIBES SINKING OF FRENCH SHIP

(Continued from Page One) though I was clear of the boat she dragged me down in the suction and I think I must have gone clear to the bottom.

"Something struck me on the leg but I didn't know what it was. Then I felt myself going up. I kicked with all my strength and then I was on the surface again.

"It couldn't have been long that I was under water, for when I shot into the air I saw to my horror that the keel of the boat was above the surface. She had turned completely over.

"I filled my lung for they seemed to be bursting, and I saw clinging to the keel a few dazed, terrified men and women.

"The seas were still tremendous and while I watched I saw some of them slide off into the water. The women shrieked and the men too, but I could not help them.

"Then suddenly the ship disappeared carrying everyone down with it.

"I began to swim. It seemed dark as midnight but I ran into a life-boat to which several other passengers already were clinging. I grabbed the side of the boat, but it was pitching and tossing so that I could not climb in it. Neither could the others, but we held on with all our strength and the boat stayed afloat until the steamer Pornic came to our rescue.

"It was none too soon for we were utterly exhausted.

While Duverger told his story another young man, saved by his ability as a swimmer, nodded and from time to time put in a word of his own. His name is Binguet.

"My wife was with me," he said, "and luckily we were together when the boat sank. I am a good swimmer too and for an hour I swam, holding her head above the water.

"Then, somehow, I lost consciousness. I must have been exhausted. I do not know why I did not die. But when I regained my senses my wife was gone. She had slipped out of my arms, and she could not swim.

"I feared that something would happen to that boat before we started out and I didn't want to go. I told my wife, 'we'll never come back from this trip,' but she thought I needed a holiday and we went."

Albert Berty also escaped with his life, but when a nurse asked him where she might reach his family to tell them of his safety, his eyes filled with tears.

"You cannot reach them now," he said, "they are all at the bottom of the sea."

Francis Guillaume, the keeper of the signal station at Pointe de Gildes, told the other side of the story. He saw the St. Philibert go down.

"I picked her out with my glass," he said, "and saw her staggering along trying to make the mouth of the Loire. She negotiated a difficult passage where the water is only five fathoms deep and the bottom sends up jagged ledges of rock, but when she got out of that she was still pitching badly, for there was a very heavy sea.

"Suddenly I saw her list to starboard and once she keeled over so far that I thought she would never come back, but she did.

"Then another sea struck her full amidships and she disappeared. This all happened so quickly, you understand, that I couldn't believe my eyes.

"I searched with my glass but I could see nothing of her. She was gone."

mersion and required continuous attention because of water in their lungs.

The number of the fatalities can only be determined by a canvass of the bereaved because neither the operating company or the excursion society had a list of those who embarked on the outbound trip, or those who remained on the island.

An official explanation of the cause of the sinking will be sought in a government investigation.

The St. Philibert was a typical river and coastal passenger boat of about a hundred feet length overall, with two decks and a pilot house close to her single funnel. She was commanded by Captain Olive, who was known as a capable pilot.

Gullauve notified shore stations immediately and the rescue craft started out despite the violent weather which threatened their own safety.

Several Killed During Strange Atmospheric Disturbances Yesterday, Says Report.

Paris, June 15.—(AP)—A cyclonic storm in which the excursion boat St. Philibert was lost swept the western coast of France yesterday and produced strange atmospheric disturbances in the interior. In Paris and suburbs the populace experienced one of the most stormy, depressing days in years. Late in the afternoon squalls changed the torrid heat to cold and sent spirals of wind across the region. The violence of the storm was shown by an accident at Dunkirk. An automobile literally was swept from the highway and dropped into a canal.

Brussels, Belgium, June 15.—(AP)—One person was killed and several injured yesterday by a violent windstorm which did considerable damage to buildings.

London, June 15.—(AP)—Two persons were killed, scores suffered minor injuries and considerable property was destroyed by a freak storm which ravaged large areas of England and Wales yesterday. Half a square mile was laid waste in Birmingham by violent thunderstorms and wind squalls. Heavy rains and floods were experienced in many points. Lightning did some damage in certain spots and halsted an inch in diameter fell in others. Sutton rug pole manufacturing plant here there wasn't any water to throw on the flames. A hurry call to the Atlantic Coast Line offices brought an engine and tender holding 6,000 gallons, which halted the fire.

It was stated that his general condition is good and that he is convalescing satisfactorily. For the first time he was permitted to see his friends outside the immediate family.

In an interview this morning he spoke most highly of the local hospital and when asked how he came to enter the hospital here, he said, "I know the surgeon here and have been watching his career rather carefully since he first came to town, and I do not know of any surgeon anywhere in whose hands I had rather trust my life than in the hands of Dr. John Winstead." He added that his experience there for nine days had justified his faith in Dr. Winstead, as well as the entire management and spirit of the hospital.

It will probably be necessary for him to remain in the hospital a few days longer than was at first expected and for that reason all appointments have been cancelled indefinitely.

LEAVE IT IN THE FIELD

The advice of the tobacco associations of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Virginia to the farmers not to undertake to market their bottom primings this year but to leave them in the fields must be heeded if the growers can hope for even a reasonable price for their crop this year. With government statistics showing more flue-cured tobacco on hand for the first quarter this year and a smaller consumption of the same type as compared with last year, the surplus will be even larger and the price lower if the growers undertake to market their entire crop. With low prices these bottom primings cannot hope to bring what it will actually cost to house and market them and if marketed they will just serve to add more pounds to the crop and no doubt cause a further lowering of the price on the whole. It is to be hoped that the growers in all four of the states embracing the flue cured belts will heed this warning of the warehousemen and act accordingly.

DON'T FAIL TO REGISTER

The registration books for the special bond election to be held here July 14th to decide whether or not Greenville will purchase the gas plant or let the power company have it, opened today and will remain open until July third and during that time we urge every person interested in keeping the power company out of our city to register. We wish to make it clear that this is an entirely new registration for the specific purpose of voting for or against this bond issue and if you expect to vote you must register no matter how many times you have already registered and voted in city elections. As previously stated in this column, we believe that we will make a serious mistake if we let the Tidewater Power Company or any other power company purchase this gas plant, giving them a club with which to eventually beat us into selling our water and light plant.

We have every reason to believe that those who favor the power company and are opposed to the town protecting itself against the power company by the purchase of the gas plant will avail themselves of this opportunity to register and vote their wishes and unless our citizens who favor our purchasing the plant register and vote the bond election and the gas plant will be lost and the possibility of a power company getting control of our water and light plant greatly strengthened.

If you are opposed to the monopolistic power companies, register and vote for this bond issue.

GIVE STORY OF TOBACCO

American Science Association Hears the Story of Weed at Its Pasadena Meeting.

Pasadena, Cal., June 15—(AP)—Like the mule, tobacco was born a hybrid; with a powerful kick possessed by neither of its parents, which were of different species.

The story of the evolution of the tobacco plant was told here today in a symposium on genetic problems marking the opening of the summer session of the American Association for Advancement of Science.

Roy Elwood Clausen, of the University of California told the story. It is one of the strange things that the study of chromosomes reveals.

Two weeks got together and out of the union came the broad leaved plant which today figures in more advertising than any other member of the plant kingdom.

Once there was a quiet family of weeds, almost tree-like, called the Rusch family. It was characterized by twelve chromosomes, infinitesimal objects governing sex or other characteristics, and never had any commercial use. Then there was another similarly useless and prolific family of weeds of broad leaves and pink flowers, also of the twelve chromosome type, called the Sylvestria. So says Dr. Clausen.

By one of the quirks of nature these two types interbred and out of them was born nicotiana tabacum, and tobacco came into the world with its broad leaf and pink flower. It is hybrid with 24 chromosomes, and one of the rather unusual species of hybrids that reproduces itself, like the loganberry, the yellow primrose and the ornamental chestnut. No evidence of the toxic nicotine or any toxicity is found in either parent.

Chromosomes are minute bodies bearing the units of heredity. Science finds in them the newest methods of study of the mystery of life, control of species and determination of sex.

Prof. Theodore Dobzhansky of Pasadena told of new methods of studying these chromosomes by the means of X-rays. He told how vinegar fly eggs are treated with X-ray and the chromosomes scrambled, and how peculiar results are thus obtained.

HORNETS WILL FACE BIG TEST DURING WEEK

By WHITNEY THARIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Charlotte, N. C., June 15.—(AP)—The fate of the schedule this week will pit the one-two-three teams of the Piedmont League against each other at a time when a few wins or losses for any one of the trio may go a long way in changing their present standings.

Charlotte's league-leading Hornets will bear the brunt of a double-barreled attack from Raleigh and Greensboro, second and third place outfits. The Caps play here tonight and tomorrow and the Hornets go to Greensboro Wednesday and Thursday.

The Pats, playing at High Point the first of the week, hope to benefit by the Hornet-Cap series if they can continue turning in a win record like that of last week—seven out of eight—which was also Charlotte's record for the week.

Raleigh and Charlotte haven't met since the last part of May when the Hornets dropped a pair of games to the Caps. If Odie Strain's boys can repeat in the series here, it will indirectly aid Greensboro in its climb up the percentage column.

The Pats, on the other hand, will be seeking revenge against Charlotte for two games dropped to the Hornets a couple of weeks ago. If the slugging outfit Johnny Kane has gathered around him can turn in a pair of wins over the league's leaders, there will be considerable congestion around the loop stop.

Greensboro and Charlotte stole the show in Piedmont league performances last week, with Raleigh being the only other club to hand in more wins than losses. Durham continued its descent into the cellar by losing five and winning two, while Winston-Salem's line win out of seven games was the poorest record of the week.

Twenty-six home runs were cloaked during the week, with the Hornets turning in nine of them. High Point, which has a reputation for losing ball games in spite of home runs, was second with six four-baggers.

Taking into consideration the number of games they lost, the Twins' defensive record for the week was exceptionally good. Their opponents managed to average only 4 3-7 runs a game, the best record of the week. It takes some offense to win a ball game, however, and the Twins just couldn't get anywhere with an average of 2 4-7 runs a game.

THE INTER-CITY LEAGUE OPENS ON WEDNESDAY

The first game of the recently organized Inter-City league will be played between Greenville and Snow Hill at the Third Street school grounds Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, it was announced by club promoters today.

Although the Greenville line-up had not been completed today, it was stated that all details in this connection would be given due publicity tomorrow.

The league was recently organized between Greenville, Snow Hill, Pinetops and Macesfield, and according to promoters, is expected to furnish plenty of diversion for lovers of the national sport during the summer months.

It was stated last week that another league, composed of members of National Guard units in this section, would begin functioning at an early date, although no information concerning the opening date was available today.

Both organizations, it was said, will be composed of former league and college players, numbers of whom have scintillated in league ball of this section in former days.

There is plenty of good material in each of the towns involved, it was stated, and this is believed to be an assurance of an extra good brand of ball.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, June 15.—(AP)—Cotton opened barely steady today, 9 to 12 points lower under near month liquidation and scattered selling.

Traders paid very little attention to relatively steady Liverpool cables and there may have been some selling on a bearish interpretation of the standard cloth statistics for May, or for a reaction following the rallies of last week.

Spot houses were buyers of July against sales of later deliveries while there was a moderate trade demand and some covering in later months which steadied the market after the opening with prices showing rallies of a few points from the lowest around 10:30 o'clock.

The standard cloth statistics published this morning showed that sales during May were 71 per cent of production with an increase of 7 per cent in stocks on hand and a decrease of 15.5 per cent in unfilled orders.

Liverpool cables reported continental and Bombay buying with some trade calling in that market and said home trade in cotton goods was improving with a fair business pending from India.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, June 15.—(AP)—Price rallies in wheat late today were associated with Washington reports that drought in domestic spring wheat territory had become worse than last year.

Upturns in prices, however, were mostly fractional and were not well maintained.

Attention of traders converged more on news that harvest operations were making rapid progress in winter wheat districts, with yields in Texas and Oklahoma running 1-2 to 1 bushel an acre above the figures suggested by recent government estimates.

STOCK MARKET

New York, June 15.—(AP)—The financial markets began the new week quietly but with the better feeling which became manifest last week decidedly in evidence.

The foreign markets reacted favorably to the sharp increases in the discount rates of the Central Banks of Germany, Austria and Hungary. Bankers felt that the flight of capital from Berlin had been largely checked, although there was still some pressure against the German mark.

Stocks in the New York market vacillated irresolutely in extremely sluggish trading. A substantial upturn in the first half-hour was largely lost in what looked like a bear drive against Westinghouse.

The baking shares were a conspicuous strong spot, led by Continental A, which got up 3 points. American Telephone sold up 2. Rails fluctuated uncertainly. Atchafalaya rose more than 2, then reacted. N. Y. Central lost 2. U. S. Steel sold up a point, then reacted.

Professional operators in stocks were unable to attract an important following on either side of the market, and speculative opinion remained confused. This was particularly evident in the weekly advices of the statistical advisory services. One recommended substantial purchases for long term investment. Another was non-committal, and a third felt that the bottom may not have been reached.

The rail shares appeared in the main to have discounted the increased freight rate and eastern consolidation petitions slated for filing with the Interstate Commerce commission. Wall street feels that further cuts in some railroad dividends will be necessary, for it will take some months to secure higher freight rates, if the effort is successful, and only a small increase is hoped for at best.

Bureau of labor statistics reported a decrease of only nine-tenths of 1 per cent in payrolls for May, which is somewhat smaller than the average decrease for that month in the past several years.

LIQUOR YACHT SEIZED IN N. Y.

Steam Yacht "Surf" Captured by Coast Guard with $300,000 Cargo Aboard.

New York, June 15.—(AP)—Coast guard forces seized the steam yacht "Surf" off Montauk Point, Long Island, early today, declaring it has a cargo of rum worth more than $300,000.

The yacht, with a prize crew on board, was brought to New York and anchored off the Statue of Liberty, where officials questioned the crew of thirty. Coast guard men said the seizure was one of the largest in recent years.

The "Surf" was captured by the Destroyer Cummings in command of Lieut.-Commander E. F. Stone. Guardsmen said they followed her inside the 12-mile limit, after she had been seen lying alongside a "mother ship."

The yacht, officials said, was not on the list of suspected rum runners, but her actions near the "mother ship" aroused Stone's suspicions.

The "Surf" is a trim white craft like many of the yachts of wealthy men now crowding the waters about Long Island.

Twelve Injured By Wind Storm in Duplin County

Warsaw, N. C., June 15.—(AP)—One death and $100,000 property damage as the result of week-end hail and windstorms in Duplin county was reported today.

John Abb Branch, negro, was killed when hit by lightning. Gabe Vann, negro, was injured when high winds blew a tree over and it struck his tenant house five miles east of here. He is expected to recover.

The winds ripped down trees and wrecked light buildings. Much of the property damage was caused by hail. Crops in many sections will have to be replanted.

Gabe Vann, negro, was the most seriously hurt when the wind blew over a great oak tree, which crashed through the roof and walls of his house.
