See Disarmament as Possible Result of War Debt Holiday

President Hoover Hopes General Disarmament Conference at Geneva Next February Will Bring About Curtailment of Growing Armies and Navies and Thereby Relieve the World's Economic Burdens; Germany's Strongest Banks Are Ready to Guarantee Assets to Credit Abroad

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—A long stride toward world disarmament was viewed by the administration today as a possible outstanding result of the one year moratorium on war debts.

President Hoover hopes that the general disarmament conference at Geneva next February will bring about curtailment of the growing costs of armies, navies and fortifications and thereby ease the world's economic burdens.

Three times in the past three months, the Chief Executive has linked world economic rehabilitation with the success of the forthcoming disarmament conference. In announcing the agreement of the major powers on the debt holiday, Mr. Hoover stressed that among the causes of the world-wide economic depression are "the burdens imposed and the fears aroused by competitive armament."

The American government plans to participate officially and fully in the Geneva Conference, to be held under the auspices of the League of Nations. Secretary Stimson, who led the American delegation to the London arms conference, is in Europe to confer with continental statesmen on plans for the next parity.

Berlin, July 8.—(AP)—A thousand of Germany's strongest banks, industrial firms and shipping concerns, owning properties valued at many billions of dollars, stood ready today to guarantee with all their assets the Reich's business credit abroad.

A drastic decision of the nation's industrial and financial leaders to undertake a joint guarantee of individual foreign credits was announced by Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, at midnight after it had become apparent during the day that the demand for foreign currencies continued strong despite the signing of the Hoover plan.

Technically, their action was to place at the disposal of the German gold discount bank a collateral guarantee of 500,000,000 marks (about $125,000,000) for which the signers, each of whom has assets of at least 5,000,000 marks, are responsible.

Meanwhile, the gold discount bank must borrow the 500,000 marks abroad, which presumably will not be difficult on the basis of the collateral guarantee. The same foreign banks who are unwilling to extend the short-term credit of an individual company may be expected to take a different attitude toward the united security of a thousand firms.

Having obtained the loan, the gold discount bank then could provide temporary assistance to German concerns temporarily distressed by the sudden calling of their short-term loans. Most important, however, is the fact that as soon as foreign lenders realize that German industry is upholding the integrity of private debts it is believed they will cease calling their loans and capital will flow into Germany instead of out.

Department of Agriculture Reveals 10 Per Cent Decrease in Cultivation

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—The area of cotton in cultivation July 1 was announced today by the Department of Agriculture as 41,491,000 acres compared with 46,078,000 acres in cultivation a year ago and 45,091,000 acres picked last year.

The area is 10 per cent less than in cultivation a year ago. Production last year was 13,932,000 equivalent 500-pound bales or 147.7 pounds an acre.

The probable cotton production this year will not be estimated until the August report, in accordance with the law. At that time production will be forecast as indicated by the prospective yield applied to the acreage in cultivation July 1, less average abandonment in each state after that date.

The acreage as estimated this year is lower than that planted any year since 1923. The Farm Board has consistently advocated a substantial reduction in acreage until the heavy surpluses now existing have been consumed and domestic and foreign consumption stimulated through a business revival.

Trade estimates and private sources have generally agreed the reduction this year would approximate the ten per cent reported by the department today. All states except Florida showed smaller acreages as compared with last year. Texas acreage is estimated at 92 per cent of last year's. North Carolina and Oklahoma had 82 and 83 per cent of 1930.

A ten per cent reduction is estimated in Alabama, Tennessee, Missouri and Louisiana. In South Carolina the acreage is given at 98 per cent; Georgia 88 per cent; Mississippi 94 per cent and Arkansas 92 per cent.

Attorneys Appeal From Decision That Woman Might Be Questioned Concerning Other Property She is Believed to Possess

Efforts to continue investigating the financial status of Mrs. G. H. Ballard received a temporary setback here this morning when attorneys appealed from a decision of Clerk of Superior Court J. Frank Harrington that Mrs. Ballard might be further questioned concerning her property. The question now goes before Judge J. Paul Prizzelle at Snow Hill and it was not known definitely when his decision would be made known.

Despite sizzling temperatures of what promised to be one of the hottest days of the summer, a fairly large crowd gathered in the courtroom this morning to see what new light would be thrown on the case, but they left disappointed a half-hour later with only the arguments of attorneys ringing in their ears.

The hearing was granted by Judge Harrington upon request of attorneys for Elmer Whitley, one of the two men sentenced to jail for the alleged robbery of Mrs. Ballard the latter part of last year, and who is now suing for $5,000 damages, that they be given an opportunity to question Mrs. Ballard regarding property which she was believed to possess in addition to the $6,800 revealed in the opening of her safe deposit box in the First National Bank of Wilson last Friday.

Judge Albion Dunn and Julius Brown, appearing for Mrs. Ballard, argued before the court that such a hearing was out of order in view of the fact that they had not filed an answer to the allegations set forth by the plaintiffs.

Louis Gaylor, appearing in behalf of Whitley, declared they did have a right to question Mrs. Ballard in order to bring out the information desired in building up their case.

SCHOOL HERE WINS HONOR

Second Grade of Intermediate School Captures State Prize in Safety Campaign

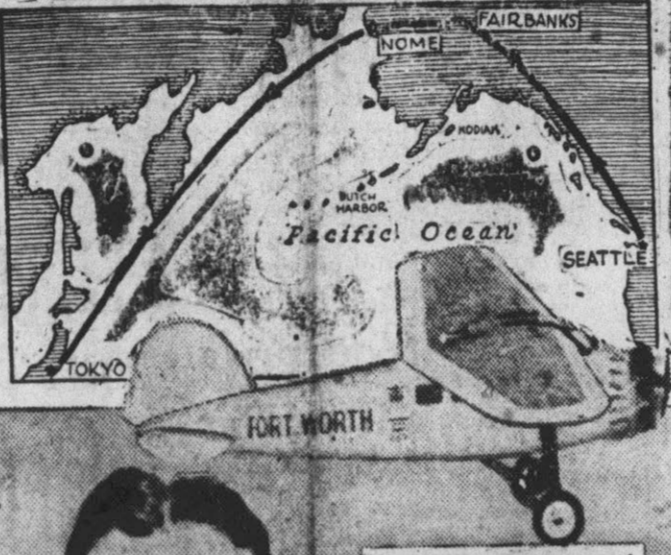

More honors have come to the Greenville city schools. The second grade taught by Mrs. Anne G. Robeson of the Intermediate school on Cotanch street, has just been notified that it won the state contest for North Carolina in the Tenth National Safety Campaign. This is the second year in succession that this same group of children under the same teacher has won the state prize.

The title of the project which the grade worked out this year is "Teaching the Rewards of Careful Conduct on Streets and Highways." Last year this group of children were in the first grade and taught by Mrs. Robeson and this year in the re-organization of the schools, brought about by the reduction in the number of teachers, Mrs. Robeson went up with this grade.

As winner of the state prize the grade will receive a certificate of honor, will be awarded national recognition, and if successful in winning the national prize will receive a check for $500 and a trip to Washington, D. C.

This is the first time that the same school system has been awarded the state prize two years in succession, and school authorities are congratulating Mrs. Robeson and the children in the grade for their splendid achievement.

DERBY FLIER HURT IN CRASH

Charles Suges Injured When Plane Plunges Into Hill Near Yorkville, O.

Yorkville, Ohio, July 8.—(AP)—Charles Suges, contestant in the National air tour, was severely injured today in the crash of his ship against a hill bordering on the airport here, overnight stop of the air tourists.

The pilot was buried in the wreckage of his ship. He was extricated and taken to a hospital at Martins Ferry where it was learned he suffered a probable fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Suges was one of the first to take off on today's flight to Cleveland. He has been customary for fliers leaving Yorkville for the west to first swing south to attain altitude before crossing the hill. Sugés, however, swung directly westward. It was believed he either misjudged his distance or that his plane had not gained sufficient altitude to clear the elevation.

So badly was his plane wrecked that it was a half hour before he could be freed.

Score Government Plan Of Dealing With Young Lawbreakers Of Nation

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—Criticism of the federal government for allegedly dealing with its youthful law breakers on the same basis as older and hardened criminals was launched today through the White House by the Wickersham Commission.

A formal report on "child offenders in the federal system of justice" asserted the government lacked proper equipment to mete out this type of justice and recommended the treatment of juvenile delinquency be relegated almost entirely to the states.

No explanation was given at the White House for an apparent switch in the commissions line-up, where by this report was published ahead of a study of the deportation of aliens from the United States.

MORATORIUM WINS FAVOR

Credited With Improving Business Sentiment Throughout the World

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—The Hoover moratorium proposal was credited today by Commerce Department officials with having brought about an improved business sentiment throughout the world.

The department said a study of reports from several widely separated foreign countries since the war debt postponement plan was announced show that the psychological effect on business unquestionably had been good. What material effect the plan will have, however, has yet to be learned.

Great Britain, Italy, Hungary, and Czechoslovakia, showed, the experts said, the greatest feeling of optimism, while conditions in Japan were more encouraging with those in the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines somewhat better. Those in Asia and South America were not materially changed.

In a survey of current business, the department said domestic business declined in May, but indications were that June experienced considerable improvement. Although the May employment situation showed declines, the department described it as better than usual for that season.

The psychological effect of the moratorium plan was termed by Dr. H. Taylor of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce as good. He added that it was "well timed, coming as it did after the unexpected slump during May," and (Continued on page four)

WOMAN FINED IN WRECK CASE

White Man Adjudged Not Guilty in Auto Collision Near Here Month Ago

Minnie Dobbin, colored, was fined $50 and cost by Judge W. L. Whedbee in the regular weekly session of County court in this city yesterday as a result of an automobile collision with W. E. Williams, on the Greenville-Bethel highway about a month ago. Williams was adjudged not guilty.

The principals in the accident indicted one another, but it developed that the woman was at fault and she was given the privilege of paying the fine or going to jail for 90 days. She was at liberty under bond today pending payment of the fine.

Both automobiles were badly damaged by the impact, but neither of the drivers were injured.

Julius King, Jr., colored, paid a fine of $25 and cost on a charge of assault with deadly weapon.

Although the docket was one of the smallest in months, court did not complete work until about the noon hour as considerable time was required in the hearing of the collision case.

Oil King Celebrates Birthday at Pocantico Hills Estate in the Best of Health

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 8.—(AP)—Within the walls of his 8,000-acre Pocantico Hills estate, which oil millions built, John D. Rockefeller today observed his 92nd birthday in excellent health.

In a birthday message to the world, Mr. Rockefeller said: "These occasions offer me a very welcome opportunity; first, to express my gratitude to the many, many friends who not only at this time, but throughout the year have shown their kindly regard to me, and second, to wish them and their and all the world a large measure of health and contentment which are the oasis of real happiness."

The program mapped out for Mr. Rockefeller included his bit of golf, a little work with his secretary, a motor ride in the estate and a dinner in the evening. A birthday cake was baked.

There is one day more important than his birthday, friends saw. The day he got his first job as an assistant (Continued on page four)

Daily Reflector Appreciated At Nation's Capital

That the Reflector is appreciated by former Greenville people living in the nation's capital was revealed in a letter received recently by relatives here.

Every day when J. J. Gilbert, a former Greenville resident, receives his paper he saves it for Mrs. Parks Crater, also a former citizen of this city. After absorbing the happenings of the Pitt county town, Mrs. Crater always consigns the paper to the wastebasket. One day she noticed that her maid always rescued the paper from the wastebasket and inquired why she did so. The woman replied that she was from Farmville, Pitt County, N. C., and enjoyed reading about the activities of the people in that community. Thereafter, instead of the paper going to the wastebasket it was saved for the dusky resident of Farmville, who likes to read and reminisate about the doings in her home town.

WOMAN HELD FOR SLAYING

Widow of Liquor King Under Indictment at Nashville, Tenn., Today

Nashville, Tenn., July 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Hadley Moseley, widow of a liquor king, was under indictment today for murder of Richard Acklen, socially prominent newspaper reporter and bootlegger, who claimed her as his sweetheart after he killed her husband in a dispute over rum trade territory.

Mrs. W. S. Ingram, wife of a convicted highjacker and bank robber, was charged in another first degree murder indictment with procuring "the said Mary Moseley to do and commit the murder."

The indictments were returned yesterday by the grand jury here after an investigation initiated by Acklen's parents, Col. and Mrs. Joseph H. Acklen, who are active in organizations of descendants of revolutionary veterans, and whose ancestral home is now the main building of an exclusive girls' college.

The indictments were based largely on testimony of Mrs. Moseley's 8-year-old son, Hadley Jr., who said he saw his mother and Mrs. Ingram beat Acklen before a shot ended his life in the Moseley home on May 9, a few days before he was to go on trial on charges of murder for Moseley's slaying.

Ted Vaughan and Gus Kiger, who investigated Acklen's death, said he may have been killed because it was feared he would make sensational disclosures about the liquor traffic here.

Mrs. Moseley said she believed Acklen killed himself after she had refused to marry him. The suicide version was accepted by police.

Both Mrs. Moseley and Mrs. Ingram are at liberty under bond. Mrs. Moseley was brought here from Washington, D. C. several days ago. After the indictments were returned she charged the testimony of her son resulted from "coaching."

Acklen killed Moseley last December. He told police Moseley had threatened his life for cutting in on liquor trade.

Monoplane Fort Worth Left Seattle At 3:57 On Non-Stop Mid-Air Refuelling Flight to Japanese Capital; Plan to Cover 7,500 Mile Route Which Will Take Fliers Over Alaska and Northern Siberia; Hope to Reach Japan by Friday Morning

Seattle, Wash., July 8.—(AP)—Reg L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, Texas aviators, took off in the white monoplane Fort Worth at 3:57 a. m. time, refueling twice, or possibly refueling flight to Tokyo.

The fliers seek a $25,000 prize offered by the Japanese newspaper Asahi for the first non-stop hop between Seattle and Tokyo. They plan to cover a 5,700 mile route which will take them over Alaska and northern Siberia.

They hope to bring down their white monoplane, the Fort Worth, in Japan Friday morning (Pacific time), refueling twice, or possibly three times, en route.

The first scheduled refueling operation is to take place late today over Fairbanks, Alaska. Two other Texans, Jimmy Matern and Nick Greener, arrived at Fairbanks yesterday with the refueling plan which will accompany the Fort Worth across Alaska. Jones and Robbins took off with 300 gallons of gasoline.

The plane failed to rise on the first attempt to take off. Robbins, at the controls, gave the plane the gun at the end of the field on the second attempt, which might have resulted in disaster had the plane failed to rise. About 200 persons cheered lustily as the white plane shot away.

There were no clouds in the sky and Charles O. Schick, government weather observer, said the fliers had a visibility range of ten miles. The air was calm at the field, with a 28-mile an hour head wind at 3,600 feet and an eight mile tail wind at an elevation of 6,000 feet.

Schick said there were some clouds high over Alaska and more over Siberia.

Jones vouched for the story that Robbins taught himself to fly. He said the pilot of the Fort Worth had never had any instruction before he took off in the Old Jenny.

Jones said Robbins "flew" the plane on the ground several times to get the "swing of things" and then hopped off and landed safely and has been doing it ever since.

Whenever Robbins talked about the Japan trip he said he was "going to start for Tokyo." Jones always spoke of "flying to Tokyo."

Man Revived After Spending 5 Minutes At Bottom of Lake

Philadelphia, July 8.—(AP)—Believed drowned after five minutes at the bottom of Laurel Lake, N. J., William Dugan was alive and well today. For nine hours physicians and nurses at a hospital made efforts to revive him although his pulse stopped and his body was blue and cold.

He was wrapped in blankets, lined with hot water bottles, was given frequent hypodermics and inhalators were used. Finally he awoke and opened his eyes.

"It was so comfortable just resting in space," he said. "Yet I had a feeling I had to go somewhere, to make an effort to go somewhere. Then, from a great distance I heard my mother calling and I had to answer her. After a great effort I opened my eyes."

He had a feeling of "oblivion"—peaceful oblivion and a long sleep in which there were no dreams—before he heard his mother calling and rallied.

Describing his sensations on falling from a boat and being stunned, Dugan said: "I felt myself going down and down. Brilliant lights danced before my eyes, flashing in varied colors. Then I hit the muddy bottom, and all went black."

ABOUT TOWN

Greenville people will go to the polls next Tuesday to express their approval or disapproval of the proposed $100,000 bond issue for the purchase of the local gas plant.

It has been many a day since the people have had an opportunity to vote in such an important election, and those who have registered should not fail to take a stand for what they think is right.

Proponents of the bond issue believe it will have a far-reaching effect on the life of the city and are urging the people to cast a favorable vote on the proposition.

While the plant has already been sold, the sale is subject to action of the City of Greenville in the exercise of an option of long standing, and the election will determine definitely whether the sale to the power company shall stand or whether the city will take advantage of the option.

Supporters of the bond issue feel confident the plant can be operated to the advantage of the city when other towns with municipally-owned plants are reaping splendid benefits from their investment and not having their other municipal establishments jeopardized by the presence of the power companies.

Greenville has one of the most profitable water and light plants in the state. It is a juicy morsel in the eyes of the big power companies, and by gaining a permanent foothold here they would be that much nearer their ambition.

Greenville people, who have watched this giant water and power industry develop into over a two million dollar institution, can not afford to sit idly by and let their labor of years be threatened by the public octopus that is gradually absorbing all of the small power plants in various parts of the country.

This is an industry that has paid the city tremendous revenue for the last several decades, and it is just as capable of doing so in the future as in the past. With addition of the gas plant it should become even a greater creator of revenue and protect the interests of the people of Greenville even as the power plant has protected them in the past.

People who realize the infinite importance of the election will not hesitate to go to the polls and let their vote count for the bond issue. It is for their own protection, to be sure, but how much more for the protection of coming generations depending upon us to lay a foundation upon which human achievement may be continued for the benefit of all people.

The live-at-home farm on the highway between Greenville and Belhel is not only showing the farmers how to grow the kind of things to enable them to live at home each month of the year, but is also hanging up a record from the standpoint of production.

By producing one hundred and sixty barrels of Irish potatoes to the acre on two acres of land, the farm set a record if it is going to be difficult for others to equal.

In addition to the "spud" crop the farm is producing many other kinds of products necessary to carry out the live-at-home idea, and when the harvest season comes it will show conclusively what can be done when one starts out to provide the family with sufficient foodstuffs for each season of the year.

The live-at-home idea has made a profound impression upon the farmers in all parts of the state, and even those who in past years confined most of their attention to money crops, have adopted the plan and will not be solely dependent on the market this season.

If this system of farming should be continued each year it will not be a matter of so many years before the period of depression at present time prevailing throughout the farm belt will be forgotten and the growers will find themselves back on the highway of economic independence. It is going to take lots of hard work and perseverance to bring this about, but it is bound to come and the sooner it appears the better everybody will like it.

Howard McGinnis, member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, has been installed as president of the Greenville Rotary club for the usual period of one year, succeeding J. H. Waldrop, who served with distinction during the past year.

The new president has taken an active part in development of the club during his residence in Greenville, and his administration bids fair to become one of the most progressive in history of the organization.

The Rotary club has been constantly in the limelight as result of its activities the past several years. It first forged its way into public print by erection of the building here, which is believed to be the only Rotary-owned building in the world. This was a distinct achievement for one of the infant clubs of the world, and attracted no little attention and admiration from other communities.

In all movements looking to the improvement of Greenville and community, Rotary has taken an active part, and its membership has given liberally in behalf of the more unfortunate of humanity, and especially children.

The program for the new year is just as ambitious as any of the past, and that the entire membership will join the new president in carrying it to successful completion is not to be questioned.

Something About Wiley Post, The Globe Galloper. By LEON H. DURST. (Copyright 1931 By The Associated Press.)

His month as chief test pilot at the Burbank, Calif., airplane factory, gave glow to the dream of Wiley Post to do something "big for aviation."

Art Goebel's record non-stop transcontinental flight in 1928 and the 1929 refueling endurance contests further whetted his aviation appetite.

He says his hopes for a refueling flight were dashed after he had collected checks to back him. "I got the checks," he relates, "on a Saturday. Sunday a couple of other fliers went up and crashed, and on Monday my checks were no good."

Post expected to go after the transcontinental record during last year's national air races, hoped to fly the Pacific non-stop derby to Chicago where he would refuel and head for New York.

He became lost but won the derby. He felt he could not go on to New York. In this race from Los Angeles to Chicago, he roared home winner over a fast field, which included Goebel. His time was 9 hours, 9 minutes and 4 seconds.

As in his earth circling course, he piloted a "Winnie Mae," provided by P. C. Hall, the oil man, who backed him and Harold Gatty on their record breaking world trip.

About two years ago, Hall says, Post began to agitate for the round-the-world flight. He spoke about it at practically every opportunity—and he finally won over the man for whom he worked intermittently the last three or more years.

"He finally sold it to me," Hall says. "Sold it to me on the idea that it was a sporting proposition. Just a sporting proposition. That's all it was to me."

It was while this big bee buzzed in his bonnet that Post met the person to whom he passes much of the success of that globe circling feat—his quiet and studious navigator, Australian-born Harold Gatty.

"Coste and Bellonte, the French fliers, were a great pair but they have nothing on us when it comes to co-operation," says Post.

"We worked together. I have every confidence in the world in Gatty's ability as a navigator and feel that one could look the world over and not find another like him."

The friendship of Post and Gatty—the Damon and Pythias of the air—dates from their meeting more than a year ago on the Pacific coast. Founded on mutual respect, it ripened rapidly. Post's talk of a world flight drew encouragement from Gatty.

Post was working at the Lockheed factory where a plane was being shaped for a Pacific flight by Harold Bromley. Gatty had been obtained to teach Bromley navigation. The formed had dipped deeply into navigation at the Australian naval academy and had supplemented the course with studies under Lieut. Commander Van Horn Weems, naval officer now at Annapolis instructing in navigation.

Eleven years in the British merchant and naval service also were chalked to the credit side of his navigation ledger.

When Bromley took off last summer from Japan on a non-stop flight to America, Gatty rode with him as navigator and successfully charted a return to land when they were forced back from about 1,200 miles out on account of broken exhaust valve.

In taciturnity the pilot and the navigator of the wondrous "Winnie Mae" register about the same, with (Continued on page three)

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, July 8.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 12 to 16 points lower under a renewal of liquidation and some local or southern selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and a disposition to close out long contracts in advance of the official acreage estimate scheduled for publication at midday.

The early offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying which was said to be coming from Liverpool, the continent and brokers with Japanese connections. After selling off to 9.64 for July and 10.22 for December, the market steadied up a few points. At the end of the first half hour the active months were about 8 points net lower. There was evidently some uncertainty as to showing of the government acreage report and some traders expected rather a two sided weekly report from the weather bureau.

Liverpool cables reported local and foreign liquidation in that market and said Manchester was unsettled with the decline in cotton restricting business in cotton goods.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, July 8.—(AP)—Wheat reached new low price records late today coincident with reports of European financial troubles, including suspension of two banks at Barcelona, Spain. Weakness of stocks and cotton was responsible for some selling of grains. Word of large chartering of vessels by Russia was also a bearish influence.

STOCK MARKET

New York, July 8.—(AP)—With the war debt plan proposed and finally put into effect, the stock market was left with nothing to ponder for the moment but the reports of the state of domestic industry and trade.

As such reports are anything but illuminating in this period of midsummer quiet, share prices fluctuated uncertainly, generally working lower, in listless trading. Irresponsible bulls insisted that the debt plan is only one of a number of constructive schemes being developed, but in more conservative quarters, the opinion was expressed that neither Washington nor important Wall street banking circles are anxious to see a runaway bull market at this time, or at least until such time as there is more assurance that higher prices can be maintained.

The market opened heavily, rallied for a time under leadership of the rails, and sold off again after mid-day, with coppers notably weak. Bear pressure against U. S. Steel was again apparent, that issue getting down 3 points, or roughly 10 points under the peak of the recent recovery. Anaconda, American Telephone, Case, American Smelting and others lost about 2 to 3 points, and losses of a point or so were numerous. Morning gains of about a point in some of the rails and in General Motors were cancelled.

The petroleum industry, like copper, continues to struggle with burdensome stocks. This week's statistics were somewhat encouraging however, showing a drop of 2,170,800 barrels in gasoline stock to 41,868,000 barrels. Crude production however showed a gain of 40,550 barrels in daily average output.

The weekly report of electric power consumption was moderately pleasing. The total showed a seasonal shrinkage from the preceding week, but was only 2.8 per cent under last year, against 3.9 under the preceding week and nearly 5 per cent four weeks ago.

HORNET LEAD ON INCREASE IN PIEDMONT

Charlotte, July 8.—(AP)—The threat of the Charlotte Hornets to make a runaway of the Piedmont chase grew more acute today as their margin over the runner-up Raleigh Caps mounted to six games. The Bees lengthened their lead by a game and a half by walloping Greensboro vigorously twice yesterday, while the rampaging Winston Twins drubbed the Caps at Raleigh.

While Branch Fickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, the owners of the Pats, looked on at a big celebration in his honor, the Hornets played a steam-roller game against the Greensboro team. They beat the Pats 7 to 2 in the afternoon and 8 to 3 last night. Arcord crowd of 7,000 fans saw the night game. Jim Hudgins, Hornet first batter, simply went wild in the afternoon match. He staged the remarkable performance of whacking out three home runs and a single to score an even half a dozen tallies.

Martin, Bee port-sider, limited the home team to five singles in the daylight fray, but Lyle did even better than that in the arc light tilt, holding the Pats to four safeties.

Skipper Strain's magic failed to work last night at Raleigh. When the Winston Twins made it hot for Rie, Pat twirler, in the 8th, Strain stepped to the box Sewell, who had saved the game the night before for the Caps. Sewell allowed only one hit for the rest of the match, but it was too late to stem the tide. The Twins took the game 4 to 3.

The most brilliant twirling performance of the night was turned in by Kola Sharpe of Asheville, against the Bulls at Durham. The Bulls got only three hits off Sharpe, dropping the game to Asheville 5 to 2, and dividing the series.

Dan Boone's Pointers made a brave effort to snap out of the slump at Henderson, but fate was against them. Bob Durham, the Pointer moundsman, weakened in the ninth and walked in a run to give the Gamecocks an 8 to 7 decision.

CLOSE RACE DEVELOPS IN NATIONAL

(By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)
As the Philadelphia Athletics continue to dominate the American League race, despite the stoutest efforts of Walt Johnson's Washington Senators, baseball fans again are beginning to look to the National League to supply most of the fireworks in the second half of the campaign.

From the way things are shaping up now, they probably will not be disappointed. With the St. Louis Cardinals displaying symptoms of faltering under the hot pace they have set since April and the Brooklyn Robins and Chicago Cubs coming in fast, prospects are the senior circuit soon will be embroiled in another sizzling battle for the top. The four leading clubs were bunched within a span of three and a half games today.

The Cards lost valuable ground yesterday when they took two beatings from the Cubs at Chicago, 14 to 2 and 6 to 3. It was the third double defeat administered to the leaders within as many weeks. The two victories showed the Cubs up into third place in a virtual tie with the Brooklyn Robins, a half-game behind the Giants, who were held idle by rain at Boston.

Two Cardinal aces, Hallahan and Johnson, were pounded for 13 hits by the Cubs in the first game, while Charlie Root kept seven well distributed. Hack Wilson led the attack with four singles. Flint Rhem apparently had the Hornsby men tamed in the nightcap, but they jumped on him for four runs in the eighth inning to complete the day's sweep.
The Brooklyn Robins came back to trim the Phillies 5 to 1 for an even break in their series.

President Hoover and other notables watched the champion Athletics turn back their strongest rivals, 7 to 3, in the second game of their vital series at Washington. In squaring the series the A's staged two typical rallies in the late innings, each good for three runs. Big George Earnshaw, who lost the opener Sunday, came back to hold the Senators to eight hits and help win his game with a double. The victory put the Athletics five and a half games in front of the field.

Although they bunched four home runs, the day's entire output in the major leagues, the St. Louis Browns dropped a 12-inning decision to the Chicago White Sox 10 to 8.
Rain again held the Yankees and Red Sox idle at New York. Cleveland and Detroit were not scheduled.

STALL EFFORTS HERE TO QUESTION MRS. BALLARD

charged the hearing was only an attempt to harass and humiliate Mrs. Ballard, but Mr. Gaylord declared that it was merely an effort on their part to determine if she had property other than that disclosed in the opening of the deposit box.

After the perspiring lawyers had quoted the law from every conceivable angle, Judge Harrington ruled that the attempt to question Mrs. Ballard was in order, whereupon the attorneys asserted their intention of carrying the question before Judge Frizzelle.

The hearing today was an aftermath of several new developments which have taken place since Elmer Whitley and Rodney Cox were convicted of robbing Mrs. Ballard of $4,200 here the latter part of last year and were sentenced to from six to nine years each in state's prison. The young men were released from jail under bond about two weeks ago, and a few days later Whitley filed suit against Mrs. Ballard, asking damages of $5,000.

Along with the suit was alleged that Mrs. Ballard had funds concealed in a safe deposit box in Wilson. The box was attached by court order and upon being opened last Friday, revealed $6,600 in cash, although Mrs. Ballard was alleged to have stated in court during the trial of Whitley and Cox that the sum stolen represented all of her cash possessions. The money was deposited in Wilson under an assumed name, after the alleged robbery was committed and the cashier of the bank, testifying here last Thursday, stated he had been asked to keep the matter secret as Mrs. Ballard did not want her husband to know she had the money.

The fund was ordered transferred to an entirely new box and the keys will remain in the hands of the sheriff of Wilson county pending new developments in the case.

The investigation at this time is centered around uncovering additional property believed to be possessed by Mrs. Ballard, but just what turn it will take after the setback this morning is purely problematical at this time.

"Any state would apply to them the usual technique of juvenile delinquency treatment. Yet the federal government classes them with them with the same machinery which it uses in dealing with hardened offenders."

"The federal government is not equipped to serve as a guardian to the delinquent child," the report asserted. "Nor should it assume this task. Whenever a child has broken a federal law, his local community has failed in its responsibility to furnish adequate parental guidance. This duty is local, not national."

"It is desirable from every point of view that the federal government be empowered to withdraw from the prosecution of juveniles, where such withdrawal will be in the public interest, and to leave the treatment of their cases to the juvenile courts or other welfare agencies of their own states. The commission recommends the passage of legislation which will have this effect."

noted "It was calculated to give business men a better feeling."
Although returns on June car loadings are incomplete, indications of an increase were apparent. Better than seasonal production of electric power and automobiles was reported for June.

In its survey of May business conditions, the department noted that general activity after allowing for normal seasonal changes, fell back to a level almost equaling that of March. It explained that among the basic manufacturing industries, iron and steel showed a decline greater than seasonal. Automobile production indicated no change as compared with April and the expected seasonal trend, while cotton textile production continued on the April
