CITY SCHOOLS ARE FACED BY LACK OF FUNDS

Aldermen and School Board to Discuss the Shortage of Appropriations Tonight.

The precarious situation confronting the city school system as a result of decreased state appropriations will be discussed at length at a joint meeting of the School Board and a committee from the Board of Aldermen tonight.

The meeting, which was called by Mayor R. C. Flanagan following the regular session of the Board of Aldermen the first of the month, will be held in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

It is candidly admitted by the school authorities that it will be impossible to operate the schools at the usual state of efficiency in view of the drastic cut made by the state under the economy program of the MacLean school law enacted by the last Legislature, and unless the city can provide for the shortage and the three-month extended term it cannot be said to what extent it will be necessary to curtail operation of the schools.

The state allocation, announced the latter part of last week, provides $45,700 for the operation of the regular six-month term here, approximately $12,000 less than appropriated for the same purpose last year. Numerous departments are entirely omitted in the appropriation, and as a consequence the entire system faces one of the most unprecedented situations encountered in many years.

At the last meeting of the Board of Aldermen the tentative school budget provided for a 30-cent tax rate to take care of the extended term of the schools but conservative members of the board thought the amount was excessive and called for a meeting with the School Board to see what could be done toward paring expenses and effecting more economy in operation.

School authorities are in a quandary over the situation developing as a result of the state allocation, and will ask the aldermen to do everything in their power to preserve the present status of the schools as far as possible. They are willing to economize everywhere it is advisable, and have been doing so for the last two years, but are disinclined to cripple the system for the sake of what supporters of the system have termed as "false economy."

Salaries of teachers have been slashed for the past two years, and another cut is provided for the present term. Several other changes have been made in behalf of economy, but everything has been done in an attempt to prevent impairment of service. With a shortage of $12,000 in appropriations for the six months' term already a certainty, crippling of the system is inevitable unless the city takes steps to prevent it.

Greenville schools, according to a rating of the State Department of Education last year, take first place scholastically over all other schools of the state, and this was accomplished at a rating of ninth from per capita cost of operation.

The record has not only challenged the attention of the people of this territory, but has been a source of much favorable comment from educators in all other sections of the state.

This rating, in opinion of leaders of public thought, should be so highly prized by the citizenship that nothing should stand in the way of its perpetuation—and certainly not drastic decrease of appropriations.

With the insertion of the proposition, the House was asked to pass the measure quickly today and send it to the Senate to complete the purpose of the special session called by Governor Long.

The committee voted favorably on the bill yesterday after inserting a section to authorize the governor to suspend its operation if the state's raising 75 per cent of the cotton crop fail to pass a similar act against the growth of cotton in 1932.

R. S. ATKINSON LOSES HIS SUIT

Fails to Recover in Civil Court After the Jury Had Remained Out Full Day.

R. S. Atkinson failed to recover in his suit for $120 against Greenville Oil and Fertilizer Company.

A jury in the civil term of Pitt County Superior Court, after being out practically an entire day, returned a verdict about the noon hour denying the claim of the plaintiff.

Atkinson was suing for commission which he said the company owed him on the sale of a piece of property.

Immediately after disposing of the case the jury was dismissed. There will be no further hearing of the case during the week, and the remainder of the session will be confined to the hearing of motions and other court business.

R. B. Lee was awarded judgment for $30 against Ed Fleming as payment for an automobile part.

The case consumed practically the entire morning session.

Court was expected to adjourn tomorrow and a one-week session of criminal court will open next week.

Judge N. A. Sinclair, of Fayetteville, is presiding over the session this week and will be here next week.

There were about forty cases on the civil calendar and it was believed the bulk of them would be completed when court adjourns.

KIDNAPPERS FREE LYNCH

Chicago, Aug. 27.—(AP)—John J. "Jack" Lynch, wealthy turfman who was reported to be kidnaped last Thursday, returned to his home in Lake Geneva, Wis., early today, in his own car and unharmed.

Lynch said he was released last night by his captors on a street in Kankakee, Ill.

After waiting five minutes, as his captors ordered, he took off his blindfold and started his car toward Chicago where he picked up a friend and drove on to Lake Geneva.

He denied that any money had been paid for ransom, nor that any had been promised. In fact, he exhibited surprise when he was told that $250,000 had been demanded for his release.

"Nothing was ever said to me during the time I was held," he said, "about my business, or any ransom. I cannot understand this."

Lynch said his captors treated him like "an old friend." After forcing him into their car along the Wisconsin highway, he said, they blindfolded him and drove about for about two hours.

"The next thing I knew was that we were in a house somewhere, and I had a nice soft bed to sleep on," he continued, "they gave me plenty of good food, but kept me blindfolded or wearing heavily colored glasses continuously."

Last night, he said, they took him from the house, drove about for an hour or so, then put him into his own car, and turned him free.

He did not give the name of the friend with whom he drove to Lake Geneva from Chicago. He steadfastly maintained that he had heard nothing of the ransom demands until he was informed of them by reporters.

Scientists Aboard Nautilus Sample Bottom of Arctic

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A copyrighted radiogram from the submarine Nautilus to the New York American tells how scientists aboard the vessel have sampled the bottom of the Arctic ocean 5,220 feet from the surface.

The result, says the radiogram from Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, commander of the North Pole submarine expedition, was a column of Arctic mud 17 inches long and one-inch thick. It was "brought from the surface for 15 inches and then pale blue, representing the deposits in polar waters of hundreds, or thousands, or perhaps hundreds of thousands of years."

Submerging the vessel from an ice-free spot in the Arctic sea, the submarine crew tested the ocean bottom scientifically by means of a new type of deep sea bottom sampler designed and operated by Professor Sverdrup.

LINDY FETED BY JAPANESE

Famous Flier and His Wife Experience an Earthquake of Slight Intensity.

Tokyo, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Given a day pretty much to themselves before being led into an ambitious round of functions in their honor, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today got some rest.

The earthquake occurred while they were at breakfast in the home of B. B. Teusler, their respective hosts during their stay here.

Accompanied by W. Cameron Forbes, American ambassador, they visited Meiji shrine, dedicated to the emperor of that name. It was under Meiji that Japan grew into a modern nation.

Later they visited Yasukuni shrine, which is dedicated to the spirits of soldiers and sailors who have died on the battlefields.

Colonel Lindbergh then made a trip to Kasumigaura naval base, where he landed yesterday, to inspect the plane. He explained that faulty spark plugs, which became fouled with oil, were responsible for the morior trouble in the Kurile islands.

While the colonel was inspecting his plane, the Ministry of Communications disclosed it was planning to dedicate a bin with the Order of the Rising Sun for his "meritorious flight and promoting the friendship of Japan and America."

The first ceremonies incidental to the Lindberghs' presence here will be held tomorrow, Colonel Lindbergh and Ambassador Forbes will call on Premier Wakatsuki and various members of the cabinet.

They also will pay their respects to Mayor Nagata and the Imperial Aviation Association. From the latter the colonel will receive a medal at a luncheon. Later Forbes will give a tea for the couple.

Mrs. Lindbergh, who arrived here with a wardrobe weighing only 18 pounds, will require a trunk or two to hold the dresses, souvenirs and other gifts pouring in upon her.

Three fluffy summer dresses were presented to her by Mrs. Russell, who previously had cabled to the United States for the correct measurements. Mrs. Russell also had a sport suit and some afternoon gowns ready for Anne to wear.

It appeared likely that Mrs. Lindbergh would be swamped in a shower of kimonos. About every other box arriving at the Lindberghs' temporary home contains one of these.

HOOPER TALKS WITH BANKERS

General Business Conditions Discussed at White House Dinner Conference.

Washington, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The general business situation was the subject of a White House dinner conference last night between President Hoover and the heads of three large New York banking houses and Governor Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board.

The bankers came quietly to Washington and had dinner with the president and Governor Meyer and left soon afterwards. The White House would not comment on the conference.

COTTON BAN CONSIDERED

Reduction Acreage is Given Attention in Widely Separated Areas of Nation.

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Louisiana House of Representatives today passed by vote of 77 to 0 the bill of Governor Huey P. Long against raising cotton in Louisiana next year and sent it to the Senate.

Plans to ban cotton planting in 1932 were considered today in widely separated parts of the cotton belt.

Senator Walter E. George, of Georgia, has called a conference of senators from nine southern states for Friday and Saturday in Washington to canvass the cotton situation with the Farm Board.

Senator George will ask the board and conference to consider his suggestion for reducing acreage next year. This plan would have the Farm Board pay farmers twelve cents a pound for their cotton, six cents immediately and the remaining six cents in October 1932.

Plans to plant no cotton next year.

He said he would ask the board to consider this "and any other constructive program" and would urge immediate action.

At Baton Rouge the Louisiana legislature had before it a bill which would prohibit the planting of cotton next year in that state. The bill carried an amendment, although the governor so suspend his operation of the act unless three-fourths of the cotton producing states enact similar legislation.

The legislature was called into extra session by Governor Huey P. Long for the purpose of enacting a ban on cotton planting next year.

Cotton interests of Georgia met in conference at Macon today to consider the situation. John L. Morris, secretary of the Macon Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the conference, announced that Senator George's plan would be presented for consideration.

A great deal of interest centered in the attitude of Governor Ross S. Sterling of Texas. As the largest cotton producing state, any action Texas take will be a big factor.

TWO OTHERS ARE WOUNDED

Acting Doctor Michigan State Branch Prison, Shot Down by Prisoners in Attempted Break For Liberty; Men Then go to Cells and Shoot Themselves; General Riot at First Fearing, but Guards Able to Maintain Control of Situation.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The acting prison physician was slain and a guard, and a trusty wounded in an attempted break at the state branch prison here today by four convicts, who then committed suicide when their plot was foiled.

Three of the convicts ended their lives after they had barricaded themselves in the industrial building of the prison, with a score of guards surrounding them. The fourth shot himself a half hour later when he fired a guard in another wing of the prison and missed.

The slain acting prison doctor was A. W. Hornbogen. He was shot to death in the hospital near the main gate of the prison, when three of the convicts attempted to make a break for freedom through the hospital exit.

The convicts were Tony Germano, Toledo, O., sentenced to 25 to 50 years for killing a Birmingham, Mich., patrolman; Leo Duver, Ghas. Rosbury, and Frank Hoffer. Germano and Hoffer were at one time charged with alliance with the La-Mann-Andrews kidnaping gang in Detroit.

Warden James P. Corgan said that a general riot at first was feared but that his guards were able to maintain control of the situation. All of the guns obtained by the prisoners were in his custody, he said, and the prison was quiet.

Frank Olligschlaeger, a prison trusty, was wounded by one of the three convicts, and physicians said he had little chance to survive. He was an attendant in the prison hospital. Joe Cowling, assistant deputy warden, received a flesh wound during the gunfire in the hospital.

According to the story told by prison guards, Germano, Rosbury and Duver entered the prison hospital for treatment about 8 A. M. The manner in which the shooting started was not explained but Dr. Hornbogen, a former president of the Michigan State Medical Society, who was acting as prison doctor in the absence of Dr. L. L. Youngquist, was shot and killed as the first outbreak. The trusty, Olligschlaeger, attempted to prevent the escape and was shot in the abdomen and the guard, Cowling, was wounded.

Guards then forced the trio into the industrial building nearby. Tear gas was thrown into the barricades which they erected, and when this was cleared away, the men were found to have committed suicide with the guns they used in their attempted escape.

After quiet had been restored in the hospital section, Frank Hoffer, a prisoner in the "E" wing of the institution, fired at a guard and missed. Hoffer then shot and killed himself. Guards said they had not established the connection between Hoffer's act and the delivery in the hospital but they believed Hoffer had planned to make his escape from the "E" wing along with the three other convicts.

Hoffer and Duver, sentenced from Detroit, were serving life terms. Germano, from Toledo, O., and Hoffer from Detroit were serving sentences of 30 to 50 years.

Olligschlaeger, the trusty, had been an attendant in the prison hospital for 15 years. Prison physicians said they did not expect him to live more than a few hours.

Warden Corgan started an investigation of the outbreak. He said the prison was quiet and no further rioting was expected.

New York—Oak Park, Ill., with 39 per 100,000 leads the country in a list of death rates from appendicitis; Fresno, Cal., with 19 has the lowest. Total deaths in the country are 18,000 to 20,000 annually. The statistics were gathered by the Spectator, an insurance publication.

Long's Cotton Prohibition Bill Before Assembly

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Governor Huey Long's cotton prohibition bill took its place on the calendar of the Louisiana House of Representatives today with favorable action recommended by the committee on agriculture.

The committee voted favorably on the bill yesterday after inserting a section to authorize the governor to suspend its operation if the state's raising 75 per cent of the cotton crop fail to pass a similar act against the growth of cotton in 1932.

With the insertion of the proposition, the House was asked to pass the measure quickly today and send it to the Senate to complete the purpose of the special session called by Governor Long.

The law was designed to improve cotton prices and give the crop a rest from disease and pests.

Tammany Looking For Peace With Gov. Roosevelt

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A Tammany Hall faced with defeat in its own ranks in the legislative battle over the New York City investigation, was looking today for peace with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Well-informed Democratic circles believe the governor will give Tammany the opportunity to heal the "break" between them, possibly as early as Monday, by sending a message to the special legislative session which will give Tammany the chance to ask extension of the New York City investigation to upstate Republican-controlled communities.

Insurgency in its own ranks last night was believed to have added to Tammany's desire for peace.

A Brooklyn senator, William Lathrop Love, bolted the caucus of the upper house Democrats when the majority voted to oppose the immunity bills.

Mrs. Omble, who was second at El Paso, climbed to first place in the flight to Amarillo, yesterday. Her score was 101.62 points.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: Sam Sherrill, the tall thin daughter of an aristocratic family that has gone "down hill," wishes to marry for wealth. "It's not unique to meet money," she tells Freddy Munson, whom she is driving to her home one winter afternoon. Sam lives in a picturesque street, near Ramsgate, the unused family mansion, "Money is a life," she says. "I wonder why Sam is unhappy about her choice when she lives so smart in green that brightens her dark hair and purple-blue eyes. At the stable, Freddy meets Fourth Alderson, Sam's employer, who believes in social distinction. When Peak Abbott, young owner of the Express, the newspaper in which Sam and Freddy are employed, comes in, Freddy tells Sam that Peak Abbott is in love with her. Last night Freddy telephones Sam, saying "I just called to ask you to please not to marry Peak Abbott."

Chapter 2
WHAT PRICE FREEDOM
Sam laughed. "I'll promise not to marry him tonight!"
"Good. Will you have lunch with me tomorrow?" Freddy asked.

"All right," said Sam.
The next morning Sam went down to the living room where the breakfast table had been set. Martha Cliven came in with ice water.

Martha was the maid of all work. She was a pretty little brunette, inclined to plumpness and pessimism.

Martha retired to the kitchen just as Nelson Alderson, Sam's half brother, came down stairs, but on his way.

"Good morning, Sonny," Sam said. "You always button the last button of your vest as you put your left foot on the bottom step. What would happen if you bought a suit with five buttons on the vest instead of six?"

Nelson Alderson shook his head wearily. "You'll never know because you'll never catch me with a new suit."

Fourth Alderson joined them at the table. He regarded his son-in-law with a look of surprise.

"You slink out night after night without telling me where you are going. Why don't you associate with people of your own class?"

"My friends are my own affair," Nelson said sullenly.
"I can't help it," Sam said. "I'm both of you! Listen to me. The mortgage interest is due on the 31st."

"Don't worry about the mortgage," said Fourth. "I'll take care of that."

Nelson raised his eyebrows when breakfast was over. Nelson disappeared into the kitchen, where he could be heard talking to Martha Cliven in a low tone. Fourth talked out the front door.

Saleman'ship of books was not an art that appealed to Fourth. He made nine calls, and on no occasion did he succeed in interviewing his prospective customer. By the time that luncheon hour arrived there was only one thing left to do. He telephoned Mrs. Eugenie Frye and told her that he had a new book which might interest her.

Mrs. Frye's tone was warm, even "ager." "Can you come today? My lunch is merely a lonely widow's meal. You couldn't join me?"

Fourth accepted, and hung up the receiver wearily.

Sam Sherrill came into the Express building at one o'clock. She saw Freddy Munson leaning against the wall in front of the elevators; the collar of his overcoat was turned up at the back and the brim of his hat was pulled well down over his eyes. He was reading the Express.

"Nelson is twenty-one. He's married seventeen weeks."

"I see," Freddy shook his head. "You should live your own life. Get a little apartment here in town and do as you please. That's my life, Sam. It's a life of freedom."

"Suppose you get married?"

He laughed. "I never will."
"If I left Fourth and Sonny," Sam said, "they'd be on the rocks in about two days. I'll go along somehow. Let's go."

They parted, and Sam went to her office. There she found Peak. Peak grinned at her. "You've come plenty. Because of your account of the Rude's tea, Mr. Rude has threatened to cancel his advertising account with the Express. It seems that you disposed of Mrs. Rude in a paltry 63 words."

"Am I fired, Peak?"

He shook his head. "I have no intention of destroying the only honest department in the newspaper." He smiled. "I have a feeling that we're going to have an epidemic of honesty around here before long."

"Really? Are you going to step into the driver's seat?" asked Sam. "Yes. It'll be a good fish."

"I wish I could help."

"You can. You can marry me. Sam. I need you rather badly. Have I any chance, Sam?"

"I like you tremendously, but—" "But you don't love me?"

"I'm afraid that's it. I don't seem to feel the way I'd like to feel."

After an interval he said gently: "Sam, you wish you were in love with me because, if you were, you'd marry me. If you married me, all your troubles would be over. That's it, isn't it?"

Sam put her face in her hands. "I suppose it is," she admitted in a muffled voice. "It sounds terrible put in words like that, but I suppose it's true."

"Yes, it's true," Peak nodded. Then he said quietly, "I'm going to say something that may sound strange. I'm going to ask you to marry me even though you don't care for me the way you might."

(Copyright, Freeman Lincoln)
Sam was chaste. In tomorrow's installment between the money she wants and her own self-respect. Could she learn to care for Peak?

LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE

Another cut of eleven per cent in teachers of our city schools effected by the board of trustees at a meeting last night is evidence that the school board is trying as far as possible to decrease its budget enough to take care of the decreased appropriations from the state and now the question is, whether or not the city can appropriate enough to assure the operation of the schools for the full nine months term upon its present standards or whether both the standards and the term must be cut in order to reduce taxes. While the city taxable property has been decreased by some over half a million dollars the school board is of the belief that with its economy program it will be in position to carry on provided the city is willing to levy the same rate for schools as last year, but in some quarters there seems to be sentiment to cut down on the city appropriation which means, according to the opinion of those closely connected with the schools, a shortening of the term as well as a lowering of standards.

Of course everybody wants taxes lowered as much as possible but at the same time we do not believe that the majority of our citizens want to cut our schools to the point of inefficiency and we suggest that the board of aldermen in order to carry out the wishes of the people call a meeting for a public hearing on this matter at which time the full facts can be made known and the wishes of the people carried out. We realize that the aldermen want to give all the tax relief possible to our people and at the same time give just as good schools as possible and we suggest this public hearing as a means of getting the true facts as to the wishes of the people in the matter.

MACHINERY INADEQUATE

All of us must come to the realization that if tobacco raising is to become profitable there must be a substantial cut in the production but we agree heartily with the Kinston Free Press that the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce is not in position to carry out the program adopted so favorably at a recent meeting held in Kinston.

Commenting upon the ability of the commerce body to carry out the program the Free Press says:

The resolution adopted at the meeting of bankers and business men assembled at Hotel Kinston Wednesday night, at the invitation of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, urging a 25 per cent reduction in tobacco acreage for the next four years in this belt was absolutely in line with every suggestion coming from any individual or group that has given the question any consideration. Every agricultural economist agrees that acreage reduction is essential to the continued successful production of tobacco and its profitable marketing.

There seems to be no disagreement about the necessity and wisdom of reducing acreage, except on the part of the farmers collectively. The average individual farmer that you talk to about the matter agrees that reduction is in order, but he doesn't know how to reduce his acreage while his neighbor continues to plant for a bumper yield.

The question is how best to get concerted action of the tobacco growers on any percentage of acreage reduction. The paramount problem as The Free Press sees it, is to get such action. The percentage of reduction is a secondary consideration. In the resolution adopted at Wednesday night's meeting of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce was requested to set up machinery to put into effect the 25 per cent reduction. As a gesture that may have been satisfying to those gathered. But as a practical and working proposition it has no value whatsoever. In the first place the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce hasn't the machinery nor the wherewithal to get the machinery to do this herculean task. Even in its ascendancy, soon after its organization, this sectional association would have had difficulty in making an impression on this subject and certainly now, there is no hope that it can rehabilitate itself on such a tremendous undertaking. Those who really know the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, know that it has run aground, is an empty shell sort of thing, so to speak; and has resolved itself simply as an instrument of a single promoter, its executive manager.

The Free Press is in hearty sympathy with those who want to help the farmers by devising a working plan for concerted action in acreage reduction. It has no faith or confidence whatsoever, however, in the success of the plan of those who gathered Wednesday night. It hasn't a chance in a thousand and this paper is certainly going to discourage any financial campaign which may be predicated on the setting up of machinery for the purpose of carrying out the resolution. It will simply be money wasted.

ABOUT TOWN

Save the city schools is the plea going around among people interested in educational development here.

Action of the state reducing the city's appropriation nearly twelve thousand dollars has brought about an unprecedented situation and unless the city provides the same tax rate as last year it is impossible to say how much the system will be impaired.

There was some talk of reducing the schools tax rate exactly half of what it was last year, but this would be short of suicide in face of the drastic reduction made by the state.

Everybody wants taxes reduced as much as possible, but nobody appreciative of what adequate educational facilities mean to a community, will favor crippling of the school system through continued decrease of appropriations.

The state this year has appropriated $45,700 for the operation of the regular six months' term, exactly $12,000 less than the allocation last year. It is either up to the aldermen to appropriate a sufficient sum to take care of the shortage and the three-month extended term or let the schools suffer the consequences.

The situation is one of the most critical the city has faced in years and unless definite action is taken to provide adequately for the schools it is impossible to determine how much the system will be crippled.

Announcement of the beginning of construction work on the stockyard near the Atlantic Coast Line freight depot will be received with interest by stock raisers throughout the county.

The need of a palace of this kind has long been realized by growers of the county and when it is completed shipment of stock will be expedited with greater expedition than ever before.

The stockyard is being built by the Atlantic Coast Line railroad and the scales will be furnished by the Pitt County Department of Agriculture.

Buyers will be on the market to take care of the offerings of the growers who will be able to make sales and receive their money the same day. This is quite an improvement over the old way of shipping co-operatively and receiving pay several days later. In fact, it enables the farmer to market his offerings, buy what he needs in the city and return home within a few hours after leaving.

The Department of Agriculture is to be congratulated upon the acquisition of the stockyard and that it will grow in importance to the people of the community in coming years is not to be doubted.

Edwin Tucker, Greenville boy, employed as manager of a Brooklyn, N. Y. shoe store, ought to ask for special police protection if bandits continue troubling him. Three times in the last year the young fellow has been held up and robbed and each time the bandits have escaped with a fairly comfortable sum of money to their credit.

The thing for Ed to do is to ask the police for a bodyguard until the bandits have tired of holding him up.

Business conditions are improving. If we are to accept the word of one of the leading business men of this community. Things have been picking up noticeably the last several weeks, this man asserted in conversation with several other business men yesterday, and the change for the better has been most evident of late. This intelligence should be something of an inspiration to the people of the community who have been complaining about depression for such a long time. If this man finds things brighter than ever, then others should be experiencing a change for the better.

But whether the change has occurred now or not, it is due in a short time, especially next week when the doors of the tobacco (Continued on Page Seven)

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

PREPARE FOR POST SEASON IN PIEDMONT

Charlotte, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Even though Raleigh and Greensboro still have a mathematical chance to win the Piedmont league pennant, the race for first place is all over as far as President W. G. Bramham is concerned.

The loop prey, after a conference with Charlotte club officials in Durham yesterday, announced the first two games of the post-series would be played in Charlotte, the first on September 14, two days after the close of the regular season.

Five games out of seven will decide the league championship, with play being transferred from here to Raleigh or Greensboro, depending on which wins the battle for second place.

If things continue the way they went last night, the judge will have to call another huddle and revise post-season plans.

Durham licked the leading Hornets 7 to 3 for one of the few wins the Bulls have scored over Charlotte this season. It was the third straight win of the week for Durham, the other two having been scored over Greensboro, another strong team.

While Charlotte was losing, Raleigh was winning—and gaining on the leaders. Truitt Sewell, rookie righthander sold by the Caps this week to Detroit, turned in a 7 to 2 win over High Point to mark up his 15th victory of season.

Winston-Salem and Henderson battled 11 innings before the Twins finally eked out a 6 to 5 victory. The Cubs took so long to play the first game that the second affair of the evening went only five innings, with the Gamecocks winning 3 to 0.

The Greensboro at Asheville game was rained out, delaying the Pat threat to overtake Raleigh for second place. The Pats are now eight and a half games behind the Caps with only 26 contests left on the schedule.

SPORTS SLANTS

Little did I think, 20 years or so ago, when I was writing baseball and mulling over batting averages and allied statistics that the day would arrive when golf, then just emerging from its scarlet-jacketed era, would have its own statistics and medal averages sent out regularly to the press.

The weekly golf averages for medal play furnish a lot of entertaining dope and plenty of grounds for speculation. For one thing, they tend to put the public straight as to the real merits of the celebrated golfers whose names appear frequently in the sport pages of the papers.

The 'Big Round' Hero
Not so long ago, the average golf fan, if informed that his favorite hero was batting around 74 or 75 strokes per round, would have lifted sunburned fists to heaven and told you of the 66 the hero shot in an exhibition match last week at Wimple Hills, and the time he carried the great Hagen on his back with a 69 or nine long Pokechop course.

The innocent old public, indeed, used to have an idea that the regular game of its pe tentries in golf must be somewhere better than 70. The reason for this attitude is clear. The rounds the public reads about naturally are the brilliant ones; the new course records; that sort of thing. Jonathan Fumbledinger might shoot in the low 80's all his life and never bust into general print, but let him tear off one round of 70 and turn in the low card in a fourball match with Joes, Hagen and Sarazen, and for years afterward old John Public will be identifying him as a startling expert and a fine prospect for the National amateur, ore even the National open.

Disillusionment
Before the weekly averages made their appearance, if you had informed the usual golf fan that Gene Sarazen was leading the list with an average of 72.4-5 for 47 rounds, the fan would have raised a brace of deprecating eyebrows and rejoined that that was not so hot. He had expected much more, and what was the matter with the rest of the bunch?

He would have been thinking of Gene Sarazen's 68 in the last round of the National open at Skokie, you see.

As these lines are written, Sarazen, MacDonald Smith, Harry Coop and Walter Hagen, all with an average better than 73 for not fewer than 28 rounds of medal competition, are setting an absolutely amazing pace in scoring.

John Goodman and Harrison Johnson, amateurs, tied at 73 for ten and six rounds respectively, have served notice for the approaching national amateur, and Charles Kocsis, 19-year-old Detroit schoolboy, with an average better than 75, has just beaten Tommy Armour in the Michigan open play off, 73 to 74, which implies trouble at Bexley for Messrs. Johnston, Goodman and others.

The weekly averages do not tell all the story. But they tell a lot more of it than the fans ever were able to gather from the sporadic accounts of miraculous scores in the 60's ten or 12 years ago.

We are a lot nearer knowing who actually is who, nowadays.

CARDS SNATCH DOUBLE-BILL FROM BRAVES

By GENE TABLOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Homeward bound today after having completed their last triumphant tour of the Atlantic seaboard, the St. Louis Cardinals were in position to concentrate on setting themselves in prime condition for their October skirmish with the Philadelphia Athletics.

By sweeping their closing doubleheader with the Boston Braves yesterday, the Streetmen closed their eastern invasion with a record of 13 victories in 17 starts against the Giants, Phillies, Robins and Braves.

They are returning to their own back yard with a lead of 10 full games over the field, sufficient to permit them to coast through the final month. It is just what Gabby Street asked for.

From here on, according to reports, the Red Bird's pilot intends to give his men plenty of batting practice against the American league ball and to devote considerable time to drilling his pitchers on the weaknesses, if any, of the Athletic swarms.

In other words, the Cards intend to be "set" for the Mackmen this time. It is reported one of their counts has been following the champions around for several weeks, making copious notes.

Two veterans of the Birds' pitching staff completed the sweep of the five-game series at Boston yesterday, Jess Haines keeping ten hits scattered to win the first, 6 to 1, and Burlleigh Grimes taking the nightcap, 6 to 4, when his mates overcame an early Brave lead with a four-run rally in the sixth.

Thanks to some lusty hitting by Hazen Cuyler and Manager Hornsby, the Chicago Cubs were able to close their eastern jaunt with a pair of victories over the Giants, 4 to 3 and 7 to 4, the second going 12 innings.

The Phillies shoved Dan Howley's Cincinnati Reds a little deeper into the cellar with a pair of beatings, 8 to 4 and 7 to 6.

Although they dropped the final to St. Louis, 9 to 5, the Athletics showed a nice profit for their last western tour, winning 10 and losing only four.

They were back east today with a 141-2 game lead over their closest rivals, the Washington Senators, who killed whatever hopes their backers retained by winning only seven out of 17 engagements west of the mountains.

Roy Johnson's home run in the eighth was the punch the Detroit Tigers needed to nose out the Senators, 5 to 4, in their last meeting of the year.

After losing ten straight to the New York Yankees at Comiskey park this year, the Chicago White Sox finally broke through to win their closing tilt, 8 to 5.

New York—Fannie Hurst believes Americans have something to learn from Scandinavians but it isn't about the enhancement of feminine charms. "Their women hold too solemnly to their own conceptions of dress," she said in returning from abroad. "They are good, healthy, staunch, uncosmeticked women who do not care so much about looks. Fortunately or unfortunately it belongs to a civilization which believes in aiding and abetting nature."

DO-X REACHES NEW YORK CITY

Giant Flying Boat Is Given a Noisy Welcome on Arrival at Nation's Metropolis.

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Conquering at last its ten months battle against fire and wave and wind the gigantic flying boat DO-X arrived by roundabout course from Germany today with 72 persons aboard.

The 12 great American engines thundering low above the narrows—the Atlantic steamers' gateway to New York—the DO-X at 11:15 (EST) scudded through gray skies past the Statue of Liberty enlightening the world, her arm flung high as though in proud salute. The engines' roar mingled with screaming sirens of ferry boats and other harbor craft and with the cheers from thousands gathered at the battery.

The giant flying boat, continued up the North (Hudson) river to the new bridge which joins the Bronx to Jersey and then, swinging widely, returned downstream to effect a graceful descent upon the choppy waters between the battery and Bedloe's Island.

The DO-X, which left Norfolk, Va., at 8:14 (EST) this morning, was first sighted by the crowds that thronged the park at Manhattan's southern extremity at 11:15 p. m. (EST) and it alighted on the water at 11:35 P. M.

Launches immediately set out to bring passengers and crew ashore for the official reception.

At pier 4, the battery, where occupants of the DO-X were taken in launches after customs and immigration formalities were completed with on board, an official greeting was tendered by the mayor's committee for the reception of distinguished visitors.

Then the crew was taken back to the DO-X to fly it across Manhattan to Bowery Bay at the juncture of the East river and Long Island Sound. There it will ride at anchor on public view while it remains in New York.

The DO-X left Lake Constance in Germany early last November for New York by way of the South Atlantic and South America. At Lisbon fire destroyed one wing and when that was repaired and the journey resumed other troubles were countered.

In the Canaries a giant wave crashed over the ship and seriously damaged it. High waves prevented a takeoff and adverse winds delayed its flight. Months passed and the winter was gone and summer here before at last the shores of South America were reached.

Still further difficulties developed there, an engine was broken and had to be replaced. The great ship was placed in dry dock and the crew grew restive at the delay. The captain was at last recalled to Germany and the American first pilot, Clarence Schildhauer, came to the United States ahead of his plane. Schildhauer returned to South America, however, and it was he who brought the DO-X down in the harbor today, the first large plane ever to make a descent there except the plane of Wolfgang Von Gronau, who crossed the Atlantic by a far northern route.

CANNON FUND SWELLS UNDER SENATE PROBE

Ferguson said he had no conversation with Frelinghuysen regarding the checks at the time they were purchased, but that he talked with him at the time the Nye committee was seeking information about them.

Frelinghuysen had no objection to his giving the information to the committee, Ferguson said.

The cashier's checks were endorsed, Senator Nye said, by Bishop Cannon and stamped by the Continental Trust Company of Washington where the Bishop maintained an account during the 1928 campaign known as "Bishop James Cannon, Jr. Chairman."

Ferguson said he did not know whether the checks were purchased with cash or with a check on a New York clearing house.

Frelinghuysen, he said, was a director in his bank and he believed, but was not certain, that the former Senator had a checking account there.

Rep. Tinkham Republican, Massachusetts, has complained to the committee that Bishop Cannon violated election laws by reporting the expenditures of only $17,000 to the clerk of the house.

Chairman Nye asked Basil Manly, committee expert, if the official report to congress by the anti-Smith committee of Virginia showed any report of the "contribution of $10,000 which it was indicated here that Senator Frelinghuysen gave to Bishop Cannon."

"There is no report that contribution," Manly replied.

"Is there any report by Mr. Frelinghuysen of that contribution?" asked Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington.

"The report of the Senate committee showing all contributions of $5,000 or more in the 1928 campaign," said Manly, "did not show the Frelinghuysen contribution." Chairman Nye then called upon Manly to explain some prepared charts which Nye said would show the manner in which the Cannon campaign funds traveled from bank to bank.

The resolution under which the committee is working directs it to find out if any campaign moneys were diverted to other channels by those receiving them.

Manly pointed out on one chart eight accounts in five banks on which he said Bishop Cannon had authority to draw checks.

He added there were indications of another account or two which they had not yet been able to locate.

The account of the Southern Methodist Church in the citizens Bank and Trust Company at Blackstone, Va., was a personal and long standing account, Manly said, and was kept a personal one, except that certain political contributions were deposited in it from time to time.

Manly said "political funds" were found in all eight accounts "and that was the only reason we examined into them."

Annual Pilgrimage

The grower came from that section of the county where some of the finest bright leaf in the world is produced, and he has a quantity of good tobacco to be marketed during the season.

The opening of the market will find Greenville in better shape than ever to handle the offerings of this great bright leaf district. Eight warehouses, nine factories, five sets of buyers and a great corps of floor and office men will dispatch business this season with greater rapidity than ever.

Extensive improvements have been made by both warehouses and factories, and Greenville will easily take its rank as one of the largest markets in the world, a reputation gained after long years of zealous service to the farmers of the district.

Ask Campaign to Abolish Land Tax

Greensboro, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The North Carolina Association of Real Estate Boards will be asked at its annual meeting in Durham October 9 and 10 to make systematic provision for a campaign for abolition of the state's 15-cent ad valorem levy on land.

The association's officers and directors, meeting here yesterday, decided to recommend that such action be taken. The tax was adopted by the last General Assembly.

Harry S. Kissell, of Springfield, Ohio, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and E. B. Jeffress, chairman of the state highway commission, were announced by W. A. Fowdell, of Wilmington, state president, as two of the speakers for the Durham convention.

ing of twelfth in per capita cost. The record was compiled by State Department of Education and has been duly authenticated by leading educators of the state.

In addition to this achievement, the schools won the basketball championship of the Northeastern Athletics conference, and captured several first and second places in the state-wide music contest.

Along with this, the schools sent out two record graduating classes the last two years, and some of the students off at college have attracted the attention of the state through the excellence of their work.

Greenville people should be proud of this splendid record and should bring every influence to bear to prevent impairment of the system through decreased appropriation by the city government. The state has already "cut to the bone" and if the city reduces its allotment the schools will be so completely wrecked that years will be necessary to bring them back to the present standard of efficiency.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 3 to 5 points higher on overnight buying orders evidently brought in by the firmer action of the market here late yesterday.

Liverpool, however, failed to fully meet the New York closing prices of the previous day, and offerings here increased after the initial demand had been supplied, with prices selling off from 7.40 to 7.22 for December and from 7.70 to 7.53 for March or 10 to 15 points net lower.

A little southern selling was reported, but it was not much in evidence and the decline seemed to reflect realising or reselling by some of yesterday's buyers, while there was also some selling here for New Orleans and Liverpool account.

Liverpool cables said that covering and continental buying had been supplied by realizing in that market and reported Manchester quieter with cloth and yarn sales unimportant. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 27 to 44 points higher and the Indian spot, quotation in Liverpool was 6 points higher.

STOCK MARKET

By CLAUD A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Bears again seemed to have squeezed the last drop of selling out of the stock market today, but with seasonal recovery in business still obscure, bulls showed little eagerness to try for a turn. Merchandising issues and a few industrials, however, were pushed up moderately after midday.

The most encouraging aspect of the financial markets was a lightening of pressure against bonds, although in this market, as in stocks, enough elements of uncertainty remained to hold constructive efforts in check.

The share market was somewhat heavy during the earlier hours of trading, with rails again under some pressure, but several prominent issues stiffened by, midday and losses were reduced or cancelled.

Morning losses of a point or two in American Can, American Telephone, Case and Allied Chemical were soon cancelled. U. S. Steel sagged only a fraction, then recovered. Kreuger and Toll again registered a new low. Merchandising shares were helped by announcement of a dividend basis for Federal Department Stores, which gained about a point, as did Woolworth, Best and Macy. DuPont, National Cash Register and Radio Pfd. B also pushed up moderately.

Financial quarters were keenly interested in the news of the visit to the White House of officers of the Chase National Bank, the Guaranty Trust Co., and the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Co., three of the leading commercial banks of Wall Street. Some observers were inclined to link this visit with reports from Berlin that Chancellor Bruening looked for decisive developments in connection with reparations before congress convenes in Washington, but banking opinion on the whole remains rather dubious over early developments in the reparations situation, despite the Wiggin report.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Wheat prices had a downward trend today because of scattered selling which found buying power weak. Aggressive buying, so much in evidence yesterday, was lacking and an easier undertone was apparent. Russian shipments were heavy and European weather was improving generally, despite floods in Germany and Belgium. Corn was relatively more strength than corn. Provisions were firmer with hogs. Wheat closed weak, 1-2-1 cent lower; corn 1-4-1 down, oats 1-8-1-2 off, and provisions showing 7-15 cents advance.

WOMAN INDICTED FOR KILLING HUSBAND

Marshall, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Madison County grand jury reached four years into history here yesterday and indicted Mrs. Mary Frisby for murder in connection with the death of her husband August 4, 1927.

The indictment was returned to Judge A. M. Stack, of Monroe, N. C., after the grand jury had conducted an investigation of the unsolved shooting of Frisby, whose aged father, John Frisby, twice has been tried and acquitted of causing the death.

Mrs. Frisby furnished $1,000 bond for her appearance at the November term of court.

Harvey Chosen Head of "Liberal Party"

Monte Ne Ark, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Delegates who attended organization of W. H. (Coin) Harvey's new "Liberty" party were on their way home today after naming him the party's choice for president and formulating a platform embodying a moratorium of private debts.

The convention adjourned here last night following selection of Harvey as presidential candidate and Andrae Nardskog of Los Angeles as his running mate. Details of conclusion of the convention's business were left to the new party's national executive committee.

Harvey, veteran of William Jennings Bryan's free silver campaigns, was ready today to begin his fight as standard bearer of the new party. The aged crusader for a monetary system revision, who furnished Bryan and the Democratic party with platform planks in the political battles of thirty-five years ago, is taking the field with a radical platform that the convention which he called the dominated has adopted. Harvey, 80 years of age, accepted the nomination rather than see the convention adjourn without agreeing on a ticket. The platform, called for a five year moratorium of all mortgages and interest bearing debts, a revision of the monetary system, and freedom from taxation and public ownership of utilities to pay all costs of government. The revised monetary system suggested would allow issuance of paper money as currency, with coined free, as "co-ordinated money."

Forest and Brush Fires Still Burn in Western States

Bois, Idaho, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Although the elements had come to the aid of fighters in some instances, forest and brush fires were still burning in portions of four western states today and National Guardsmen remained on duty in the charred area of Central Idaho. Seven deaths were charged to northwestern fires thus far this season. Two additional units of Idaho troops were ordered out yesterday to join guardsmen and civilian volunteers fighting a blaze at Garden Valley which had taken the lives of two men.

Ranches and the town of Lowman were endangered by fire in the Placerville district. Grimes Pass was sandwiched between two conflagrations.

Showers fell and unfavorable winds died down to aid fighters in halting flames which had threatened the town of Whittish, Mont.

An unidentified man died in the Deer Creek fire in the Kootenai forest of that state and Anton Obermayer, 22, forest service observer, was killed by a falling tree in the Yaak river region.

In Wyoming a 40 mile an hour wind whipped a huge timber and grass fire out of control at Newcastle. Authorities said they would ask the help of the National Guard unless rain came to aid the fighters.

A Personal Statement to Every Tobacco Farmer Who Reads This Advertisement

Last year was my first season on the Greenville market. Although I have been in the warehouse business a number of years there were many farmers in this section of the state who never had had any dealings with me. I was a stranger to them and they were strangers to me. Despite this fact, however, many of them came to our house and let me handle their tobacco for them. I believe that they were firmly convinced that they had as fine sales and got as much for their tobacco as they could have obtained at any other house in Eastern North Carolina. Many of them, whom I have seen and talked to in the last few weeks, have told me that they were coming back again this fall.

I appreciate the support I got last year and I am going to do my utmost to see that every farmer who sells his tobacco on the floor of my house will be satisfied in every particular. Prior to coming to Greenville I was on the Washington market for five years. My House led in pounds and prices every single year. Among my customers on the Greenville market were many of my old friends who had sold with me in Washington. I was glad to welcome them and be of service to them here.

The markets open Tuesday, Sept. 1. I will have FIRST SALE on the opening day. I hope to have the pleasure of welcoming you and of helping you sell your tobacco. Rest assured that I will push it to the limit and will do my utmost in your behalf. It is on that basis that I solicit your business during the forthcoming marketing season.
