LINDBERGH BROADCASTS FROM TOKYO

American Flier Expresses Confidence in Future of Aviation and Radio

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has great confidence in the future of aviation and radio, he told an Eastern world early today.

He spoke from Tokyo, in response to an address of welcome at a reception given by three members of the Japanese cabinet after the conclusion of the flight of him and his wife from New York City. The program was rebroadcast throughout the United States by two networks.

Although there were a number of interruptions due to atmospheric and other disturbances during the forty minutes the program was on the air, the voice of Lindbergh came through clearly most of the time.

Radio signals were made available in this country through the WJZ-NBC and the WABC-CBS networks coming across the Pacific by short wave. The NBC receiving station was at Point Reyes, California, while the CBS pickup was at Grand Island, Nebr. Because of the great distance reception was not entirely satisfactory, but it came through well enough to be understandable.

Both Japanese and English was used by the speakers, the words of those who spoke in Japanese being translated into English, and vice versa.

Colonel Lindbergh's speech follows:

"We have come to Japan for an opportunity of meeting your people and learning a little more of the country, which in our school days was known to us in America as being on the other side of the world. When we were children we thought of Japan as a land filled with people, who were as different from us as though they lived on another planet.

"We marveled at their ability to walk upside down and that they kept from falling off the earth altogether. During more recent years, a rapid change has taken place in our conception of your country. We have many more of your people in America and more of your products are used in our homes.

"Your scientific men have added to our common knowledge and international affairs have claimed a mutual interest of both our people.

"With the advance of radio and aircraft, the mystery of distance can no longer exist. We are interested in many of the same things and confronted by similar problems. We have come to Japan over the top of the world, and when we were near the North Pole we discovered that the people in our country were not right side up, and those in yours upside down.

"I do not know what effect aircraft will eventually have on the world, but I have great confidence in its future. You must not however expect too much in one generation.

Four Killed By Forest Fires In Western States

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The death of four volunteer firefighters in the Lewis and Clark National Forest caused National Guardsmen to redouble efforts today to check the flames which have swept thousands of acres in the northwest.

The toll of lives this season mounted to twelve with the trapping of four of a party of five men by a circle of fire in the Montana preserve. The fate of the fifth man was not determined.

At Lost Creek, the fire had burned to within six miles of the town of Whitefish.

CUBAN FEDERALS TAKE REBEL GUNS

Thousands of rounds of ammunition, hundreds of rifles and many machine guns were captured by Cuban federal forces after three days of fighting at Gibara. Picture shows an anti-aircraft machine gun used by the revolutionists. Inset shows a hole in a roof at Gibara, caused by a federal bomb dropped during the battle.

Greenville Ready For Leaf Market Opening

Eight Modern Warehouses and Nine Factories Prepared to Render the Highest Type of Service to Growers; Many Improvements in Buildings and Equipment

With the opening of the Greenville tobacco market set for Tuesday, September 1, local tobaccoists were busy today preparing to care for the first offerings of the growers and the thousands of people expected to visit the market on the opening day.

The first load of tobacco for the current season reached the market yesterday, and from now until the opening day hundreds of cars, trucks, wagons and automobiles will visit the market and deposit their cargoes of golden leaf.

It is the season of the year when Greenville is the shrine of those who take part in the greatest industry of the section, and when the auctioneers begin their rapid-fire bidding.

BOMB ROCKS ST. LOUIS

Hundred Windows Shattered in Business District by High Explosives

St. Louis, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Explosion of a bomb, apparently thrown from a motor car, rocked the downtown district of St. Louis early today, shattering about 100 windows in the 100 block on North Seventh street and severely injuring a pedestrian, William Bommarito.

The bomb was thrown in front of a cigar store and handbook, tearing a hole in the sidewalk a foot in diameter. Police said a license in the shop identified the owner as Henry Klegman.

Bommarito, 30, a clerk, was walking nearby when the explosion occurred. He was badly injured by flying glass.

The handbook is located in the Title Guaranty building, which adjoins the Buder building, in which the St. Louis Times is published. Windows were shattered as high as the sixth floor.

The blast was heard for several miles and attracted hundreds of spectators. Police had great difficulty at first in keeping the crowd out of danger of falling glass. Several panes in the American Hotel, a block away, were shattered.

MANY STATES ACT TO HELP CONDITIONS

Louisiana Leads the Movement With Legislation to Prohibit Production

The South rallied to the rescue of the cotton industry today through legislative action, mass meetings and appeals to Federal sources for measures to relieve a distressed market.

Louisiana's General Assembly had before it Governor Huey P. Long's plan to prohibit growth of cotton in 1932, already approved by one legislative branch and the agricultural committee of the other. Support was pledged that plan by groups in several states.

In Washington, Senator Walter F. George of Georgia called Senators of nine cotton states to meet with him in conference with the Federal Farm Board for a canvass.

TELLS ABOUT PLANE PLUNGE

Woman Passenger Describes Wreck of Plane Off Gloucester

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Mildred Finson of New York, one of the three women passengers aboard the Pan-American Airways plane that was wrecked off Gloucester last night, today from her hospital bed told a graphic story of the plunge into the sea.

She praised the pilot and radio man and told how the waves broke over the survivors as they clung for what seemed hours to the plane wings and the small inflated life raft.

"Everything was lovely until we passed Portsmouth N. H.," she said. "Then the fog closed in. Suddenly I sensed that the pilot was attempting to land somewhere.

"We felt that land was very near and there was no fear. I was sure everything was all right and that in a few minutes we would be safe, either on land or close to shore.

"Suddenly and without any warning, the ship struck the water. I was stunned for a second. Before I could recover my senses I was thrown into the forward compartment of the plane. The water was rushing in.

"Then everything went black. I don't know how long I was unconscious. The next thing I remembered I was struggling in the water.

"As I slowly recovered my senses I saw the pilot and radio man helping the passengers to the wing of the plane. I think I was the last woman out. Men were crawling out of the rear hatchway but no one seemed excited.

"I thought the end was near. The ship was sinking rapidly.

"The radio man kept diving into the water-filled cabin to get the safety raft which was in a bag. The pilot was bleeding badly from a wound in the head and was weak.

"The bag was located finally and inflated just in time. We hung onto it as the pilot and radio man tried to saddle to a nearby buoy but they could make no headway with us clinging to the sides. The air was rapidly leaving the inflated raft and I felt that the raft couldn't keep us up much longer when the fishing boat came in sight."

DEMOCRATS SEE VICTORY

Leaders at High Point Rally Predict State and National Success in 1932

High Point, Aug. 28.—(AP)—North Carolina Democrats today had the prediction of party leaders that a sweeping political victory, both nationally and locally, would be theirs in 1932.

From every section of the state, politicians, state officials and office seekers came last night to gather at City Lake and talk for Democracy.

The state's United States senators, J. W. Bailey, of Raleigh, and Cameron Morrison, of Charlotte, led the group of 30 speakers who hailed the "downfall of Hooverism," and pleaded for a united Democracy.

The meeting, called in honor of Guilford county's legislative representatives, was preceded by a barbecue attended by more than 2,000 persons. Among the crowd the visiting politicians circulated freely, shaking a hand here and swapping a greeting or a story here.

Dr. John T. Burrus, senator from Guilford, C. M. Waynick, Thomas Turner, Jr., and E. B. Jeffress, representatives in the last General Assembly, were seated on the speaker's platform. Mr. Jeffress is now chairman of the state high way commission.

Around them were grouped office holders of various degrees of importance and candidates for practically all the offices represented.

Each man, as he was called upon for a speech, delivered a denunciation of the Republican party, gave the national administration full credit for the business depression, and lauded the Democratic party in glowing terms while the audience gave up thundering applause.

"The Republican party is responsible for this country being in the worst condition it has ever been in," Senator Morrison said.

"If the Democratic party does not elect Hoover for president, the republic will be crucified upon the cruel policies of Hoover and the Republican party."

Senator Bailey, introduced as the "recent redeemer of North Carolina Democracy," pictured a "100,000 majority for the Democratic party in the State and the greatest popular vote which ever sustained a party in the nation" when the 1932 elections are held.

Wade Renfrow, chairman of the High Point Democratic executive committee, added to the Democratic rejoicings by declaring that his home city wished to show to North Carolina that High Point had been "reclaimed" and would "henceforth be Democratic."

Slashing Cut Made In Teachers Payroll Here

School Board Cuts Salaries Practically 17 Per Cent to Meet Demand of Board of Aldermen for Reduction in City's Appropriation to the Schools

A slashing reduction in the salaries of white teachers is provided for in the budget which the Greenville School Board will present to the Board of Aldermen in special session at the City Hall this afternoon.

The School Board met in special session this morning to consider the critical situation confronting the system as result of shortage of state appropriations and decided to ask the city for $26,500 instead of $31,882.71 as provided in the tentative budget. The school will receive $45,796.28 from the State as the regular allocation for the six months' term, a cut of practically $12,000 under the amount received last year. The cut by both city and State will approximate $17,000.

To effect the reduction in the amount received from the city the School Board found it necessary to slash the salaries of the white teachers of the city. Colored teachers were cut in the State appropriation and no further reduction of their salaries was permitted under the MacLean law, the passage of which has brought practically every school in the State face to face with a situation unparalleled in history of the commonwealth.

A committee from the Board of Aldermen, headed by Mayor R. C. Flanagan, met with members of the School Board at the high school building last night in an effort to reach some decided conclusion in the operation of schools during the coming session, but no definite decision was reached.

One Dies in Plane Crash

Twelve Others Saved As Passenger Plane Plunges Into Sea Off Gloucester

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 28.—(AP)—A pilot's skill and a radio operator's daring were credited today with saving the lives of 12 persons as a Pan-American Airways amphibian plane plunged into the sea off Gloucester in a heavy fog.

Edward Banwell of Auburn, Me., drowned unnoticed as the passengers were transferred from the plane to a rubber life raft.

The fishing schooner Nova Julia, entering the harbor, came upon the nine passengers and three members of the crew of the Halifax-Boston bound plane. They had been clinging to the small rubber raft for more than an hour.

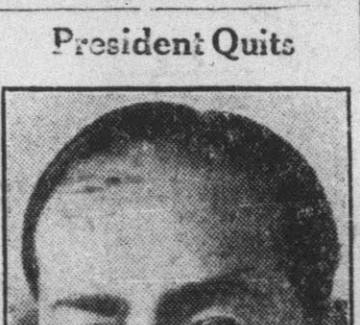

W. L. Elmore of Miami, Fla., the pilot, brought the plane down to the surface of the water when fog set in. A wave struck one of the pontoons, crushing it, and within a few minutes the amphibian sank.

Elmore, cut on the jaw when he was thrown against the instrument board of the ship, guided the passengers to the wings of the plane and dived repeatedly into the water filled cabin to get the rubber life boat. Alfred W. Eston of North Abington, Mass., radio operator of the plane, took up the task of locating the raft as Elmore became exhausted.

With darkness approaching, the survivors were about to give up hope when the Nova Julia edged through the fog. Captain Leo Salvaloro of the Nova Julia, along with passengers and crew to Gloucester. The nine passengers were taken to Addison Gilbert hospital suffering from minor bruises, shock and immersion.

Elmore said of the accident: "We left Portland, Me., with a weather report which read: 'Clear with fair visibility.'"

Elmore said of the accident: "We left Portland, Me., with a weather report which read: 'Clear with fair visibility.'"

"After passing Portsmouth N. H. a heavy fog bank came rolling in fast. I tried to duck it but it was too thick and low reaching to the water. There was only one thing to do as we could see light out to sea and I believed the fog was thinner there and I headed out."

"The fog became thicker though the radio antennas beamed in, and I decided to alight after order."

"A pontoon was torn off by a swell just a second after the plane struck the water, and up under the wings. The steward John Novarro told me as they went and said he thought he had checked all the people accounted for all of them. I don't recall seeing the man reported missing but the steward said he had checked them all out."

READS BRIEF STATEMENT

Miss Ada Burroughs Informs Nye Committee That "None of the Books, Accounts, Checks, or Other Documents, Called for By the Committee's Subpoena, Are in My Possession," Charlotte Man Testifies

Washington, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, treasurer of the anti-Smith Democratic organization headed by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., in 1928, today declined for a second time to answer questions before the Senate campaign funds committee.

As she went on the stand Miss Burroughs said in a mild voice that she had a statement to read. She asked photographers not to take her picture and that was ordered by Chairman Nye.

In her prepared statement Miss Burroughs said "none of the books, accounts, checks, or other documents, called for by the committee are now in my possession."

It was Miss Burroughs to whom Bishop Cannon in a London statement last night said he had turned over some of the funds withdrawn by him from political accounts in several banks in 1928.

"I decline to answer," Miss Burroughs said when Nye called her attention to the recent order of the District of Columbia Supreme Court refusing to grant Bishop Cannon a writ of prohibition against the committee continuing its inquiry into his political activities.

Senator Nye reminded Miss Burroughs that "you have given some testimony in your prepared statement."

Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, then asked her who were the other officers of the anti-Smith organization.

"I decline to give any testimony," she replied.

"Is that a secret?" asked Wagner. There was no answer.

Wagner asked other questions and finally got the witness to say she was a member of the Methodist church.

"You don't want to answer any questions dealing with Bishop Cannon's handling of money, then I would like to ask you if you were treasurer of the anti-Smith committee," Wagner pursued.

"I decline to testify," she replied.

"That is a matter of record," reminded Wagner.

"Yes, it is a matter of record," "Who advised you not to testify," Wagner inquired.

"I decline to say."

David Cannon, a son of the Bishop, and at one time for Cannon sat near the witness stand.

Committee members gave no indication what action if any would take in view of Miss Burroughs' second refusal to testify.

The bespectacled Richmond woman read her statement in a mild tone, punctuated shorthly to emphasize her reasons for not replying to questions.

Word H. Wood, president of the American Trust Company of Charlotte, followed her on the stand. He said as a member of the anti-Smith committee of North Carolina in 1928 he received $5,000 from the headquarters committee of the anti-Smith Democrats. He did not recall, however, who, if any person, signed the check.

Bishop Cannon contends the committee be headed in Virginia was only state-wide and therefore not under jurisdiction of the Senate. At the outset of today's hearing, Chairman Nye observed from records that the organization appeared to be general throughout the Southeastern states.

Wood said Frank R. McNinch was chairman of the North Carolina committee.

"Did you consider Mr. McNinch a Democrat?" asked Nye.

"Oh, yes; he was a Democrat," replied Wood.

A fight was made against confirmation of McNinch in the Senate last year as a member of the Federal Power commission on the ground he was appointed as a Democrat. McNinch was confirmed.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: Marriage for money means freedom, as the decision of Sam Sherrill who lives with her half-brother and aristocratic step-father. She longs for new clothes and travel, instead of housekeeping and her work on a newspaper. But when Peak Abbott, the young owner of the Express, asks her to marry him, she finds her wish to do so "terrible" because she does not love him. Freddy Munson, a reporter, asks her not to marry Peak, and suggests that she take an apartment in town and live her own life. Sam, however, is bound by the request of her dead mother to take care of Fourth Aldersea, her step-father and her half-brother, Nelson. Peak Abbott finally tells Sam, "I'm going to ask you to marry me, even though you don't care for me the way you might."

Chapter 3
INTERLUDE BY FREDDY
Sam gasped. "But, Peak, I couldn't do that! That would be marrying you for your money!" He frowned thoughtfully. "I need you Sam. For reasons that may be different, you need me. We need each other, Q. E. D."

"It seems like such a cold-blooded business proposition," Peak said. "I want to marry you for two reasons. The first is, Sam, that I love you rather terribly. Second I'm conceited enough to hope that your feeling might change. Is that a foolish hope?"

"No," Sam said. "It very possibly might come true."

"Then that settles my side of the question. Why should you marry me? Well, I'm not such a bad young man. My gentle nature is a byword in the community. In addition to that, I'm rich. I could give you—"

"Don't! Sam pleaded desperately. "Please don't."

"All right. I wish you'd think it over."

"I will."

"Fair enough." He got to his feet. "What about New Year's Eve?" She smiled up at him faintly. "I suppose I'll go."

"Swell!" He grinned at her, and strode away down the corridor.

As Sam passed through the city room she met Freddy.

"I'm thinking about giving a party at my place the night after Christmas," he said. "Could you come? Good. Meet me here about nine."

The city room of the Express on the night after Christmas was quiet. Sam found Freddy Munson.

"I want to thank you for my Christmas present," she said.

"You're welcome," Freddy said. "I wonder why I sent it. I must like you. That's it. I do like you. In my opinion you're a nice girl."

Sam laughed. "Freddy, you're becoming sentimental."

He grinned. "That's right. If I don't look out I'll become slushy." He was reaching for his coat, when a voice shouted his name.

When he came back he was scowling. "Sorry, but I have got to go out on an assignment. You can go to my place, or trail along with me."

"Could I go with you?" Sam was pleased. "Come on, let's go."

That evening, Sam saw places she had never seen before, and she saw a new side of Freddy.

Freddy at his work was intent and efficient. As the story developed, Sam found herself regarding him with a companion with an increasing respect.

"Will you take me on another story soon?" Sam asked.

"Of course I'll take you."

Freddy was as good as his word, and during the course of that week Sam became familiar with police stations, hospitals, and the long corridors of City Hall. "What do you think of the newspaper game?" Freddy asked one day.

"I love it!" Sam said. "I love being close to things and watching the wheels go around. The life is vivid and absolutely free from responsibility. I can see now why you laughed when I suggested that you might be married some day. Marriage would drive you absolutely crazy."

He frowned. "Would it?"

The night before New Year's Eve Freddy and Sam dined at a Chinese-American restaurant. Sam was aware that Freddy was moody.

Finally he said abruptly: "What shall we do on New Year's Eve?" She shook her head. "I'm sorry. I'm going to the Cricket Club."

"Oh," he scowled. "With Peak Abbott?"

"Yes," Sam realized, with almost a sense of shock, how little she had thought of Peak during the past week the week had been a vivid interlude—an interlude for which Freddy was entirely responsible.

Freddy said casually: "I'm getting restless. I think I'll throw my job and move on. St. Louis or Kansas City." He was elaborately careless. "I'm tired of this town."

"Oh," Sam sat perfectly still for a moment. Then she said quietly, "I'll miss you, Freddy."

Here's Health

Mayor James J. Walker of New York is shown sampling the Carlsbad sprudel water after he arrived in the famous Carlsbad resort for his health.

with interest, and saw that the girl in Nelson's arms was Martha Givens, the maid of all work.

Freddy found Sam half way down stairs. In silence they walked to Sam's little car.

"Good night, Miss Sherrill," Freddy said mockingly. "I trust that you may have a delightful time with Mr. Abbott at the Cricket Club."

"Thanks," said Sam. "I'll try."

The Cricket Club was hot and crowded. The orchestra had been placed in a narrow hallway between the two table-lined rooms, which should have been a stage.

At the far end of either room, however, its melodies were almost entirely drowned out by the rattle of voices, with the result that the dancing couples were packed near the doorway in a struggling mass.

Sam tried to think about the beautiful spray of orchids on her shoulder. She wanted to forget Nelson and Martha Givens, and the necessity of speaking to him about her. She wanted to forget Freddy Munson, and the problem he presented. Able to forget nothing, she was forced to surrender herself, smilingly from one pair of male arms to another.

Finally the lights were turned out as she sat at the table, and Sam knew that the New Year had arrived. Someone touched her arm. "Miss Sherrill?" The uniformed attendant asked hurriedly. "You're wanted on the telephone. I've been trying to find you for ten minutes, but—"

Sam, vaguely alarmed, pushed her way through the crowd. Who would telephone her at this hour? Had Sonny been hurt in an automobile accident? Was Fourth ill?

What does Sam discover tomorrow? Her next few minutes, with their startling surprise, vitally affect her future.

CIVIL COURT ADJOURNS AFTER COMPLETING 20 CASES

The civil term of Pitt County Superior court, which convened here last Monday morning, with Judge N. A. Sinclair of Fayetteville, presiding, was adjourned yesterday afternoon after completing one or two minor cases and hearing motions.

There were approximately forty cases on the calendar for the present term, and slightly over twenty were disposed of. It is probable a greater number would have been completed had this not been such a busy season of the year making it impossible for numbers of witnesses to attend court.

A one week term of criminal court will convene next Monday morning and Judge Sinclair will preside. The docket contains approximately eighty cases involving numbers of charges of violation of the prohibition law, larceny, and assault.

WELFARE DEPARTMENT SEEKS HOME FOR EIGHT PITT COUNTY CHILDREN

K. T. Futrell, director of the Pitt County Welfare Department, was busy today trying to find homes for eight or more white children he has been unable to place in state institutions because of congested conditions existing at such places.

Anybody desiring to furnish a home for either a boy or girl is requested to get in touch with Mr. Futrell. Only improved homes will be considered. By that is meant that only homes with proper standards of living will be given attention by the department.

Mr. Futrell said it is impossible to find homes for children of this kind because of the fact that all orphanages and state institutions are crowded to capacity at this time and unable to make room for any more charges.

The Lesson of Thrift

Says:

"Thrift produced civilization. Thrift produced capital and capital is the conserved result of labor. The capitalist is merely a man who does not spend all that is earned by work. Deny present enjoyment for future good. Learn to be thrifty. Thrift works for today, but also provides for tomorrow."

LINDBERGH WELCOMED

Japanese Cabinet Entertains Flier and Wife at Banquet at Tokyo

Tokyo, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Rounding out a day crowded with official and social functions, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were formally welcomed to Japan tonight at a banquet given by members of the cabinet.

The banquet came at the end of the hottest day of the year in Tokyo and those attending it were attired informally because of the severity of the temperature. Both Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh appeared a little tired, but the former showed enthusiasm when he spoke of aviation in his address.

The banquet was given under the auspices of the ministries of war, navy and communications, at the Imperial Hotel. Foreign dishes were served.

W. Cameron Forbes, American ambassador, the communications minister and Lindbergh were the speakers. Speeches were broadcast in Japan and a hookup was arranged for their transmission to America for broadcast there.

Colonel Lindbergh referred to his childhood dream of Japan as an airland and complimented Japan on the quality of its silk used in parachutes.

The large number of entertainments in honor of the Lindberghs resulted in some complications, but both Japanese and Americans in charge of the festivities said the mixup was "nothing serious."

The largest affair involved in the mixup was a Geisha party arranged by the newspaper Nichi Nichi. The party had to be called off. Nichi Nichi officials said the colonel accepted their invitation with thanks in behalf of himself and Mrs. Lindbergh but at the last moment sent regrets.

YOUTHFUL BROKER TELLS POLICE HE WAS KIDNAPPED

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Unkempt and unshaved, Charles Rosenthal, youthful broker and heir to a large estate, appeared at a police station in the Bronx today and said he was kidnapped, blindfolded and held prisoner in a New York apartment for more than two weeks.

Rosenthal, who disappeared Aug. 11, said he was released today by his captors who tossed him unceremoniously out of an automobile in the Bronx, then sped away.

During his absence his friend and attorney, Edward Nathan, announced he had received letters demanding $100,000 ransom. Traps were set for the kidnapers but they failed. Efforts by relatives to communicate with the missing broker's captors through the "agency" columns of newspapers also were without result.

Rosenthal said that during the entire period of his captivity, he was forced to wear smoked glasses with pieces of paper pasted on the lenses. He was bound securely.

Prison Trusty Dies From Wound

Marquette, Aug. 28.—(AP)—A trusty who helped frustrate the escape of four long term convicts in Michigan branch prison yesterday, has paid with his life for his loyalty to prison authorities.

The four convicts committed suicide after killing the prison physician, wounding two trustees and a guard.

Frank Oligschlager, the trusty, serving a life term for killing a Detroit policeman, died of a gunshot wound while Warden James P. Corgan was attempting to discover the source of the guns which the prisoners had secreted in their cells.

Oligschlager was head nurse in the prison hospital, where he was shot when he grappled with Andrew Germano, after Germano, Leo DuVal and Charles Rossbury had begun their break by killing Dr. W. A. Hornbogen, acting prison physician.

The three convicts fled across the prison yard, wounded another trusty and a guard, then were corcared in a second floor dormitory. There they seized two guards foraging one of them, Georges Arnez, to write a note demanding release of his captors.

When the note was answered by a barrage of tear gas bombs, the three convicts used the guns, with which they had intended shooting their way to liberty, to kill themselves.

Ottawa, Ill. Aug. 28.—(AP)—John Zuchre, an engineer for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, was running a train across a bridge over a canal yesterday when he noticed a tiny hand sticking up from the water.

Stopping the locomotive Zuchre climbed down and pulled Phyllis May Farrell, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Farrell from the water. She was unconscious, but was revived by artificial respiration administered by employees of a public service company summoned by the engineer.

The child had wandered away from her home, a block distant and apparently fell into the water.

MAKE IT YOUR MARKET

With the stage set for the opening of the tobacco market next Tuesday, people of our section are looking forward to one of the best seasons our local market has experienced in several years.

Every year the Greenville market shows a higher average price than the state average, which is another evidence that it pays to sell on the Greenville market.

ABOUT TOWN

The first load of tobacco for the current season reached the floors of a local warehouse yesterday forming the beginning of the annual pilgrimage to this shrine of bright leaf tobacco.

The market will open Tuesday, September 1, and from then until the Christmas holidays thousands of people will visit the city almost daily to bring their offerings and see how the crop pans out financially.

This is always the greatest season of the year by reason of the thousands of dollars released to the growers each day, and men in all walks of life derive some benefit from the industry.

The Greenville market, by reason of extensive improvements to both warehouses and factories, is in better shape to care for the offerings of the district than ever before, and farmers who sell here may rest assured of getting the best to be had in the way of prices and service.

Greenville has always paid the top of the market for the tobacco of the farmers who sell here from year to year, and this year will be no exception.

Five sets of buyers working at top speed, followed by capable book men and office workers, will be able to expedite sales in a way that will enable growers from a distance of many miles to sell their tobacco and be home by the noon hour.

President Hoover is discussing business conditions with leading business men of the nation, latest press dispatches advise, realizing that it is either improve the situation or receive a knockout blow from the Democratic mule in the forthcoming election.

It would be absurd to try to place the blame for present conditions entirely upon the Republican party, but there seems to be no question in the minds of leaders of thought that the high tariff wall erected by the party is to an extent responsible.

We want you to visit our store and get our prices on good things to eat. Bilbro & Duncan Co. 931 Dickinson Ave.—(Adv.)

the party of the argument, however, and the majority, especially the ones higher up, would turn blue in the face trying to refute any suggestion of the kind.

America is faced by one of the most serious periods of depression in history, and both Democrats and Republicans will give Mr. Hoover the credit if his conferences bring results. It is a task larger than the greatest national leader, but when everybody begins pulling together in an effort to bring about an improvement something favorable should begin to happen.

Democrats from many sections of the State held a post-wow in High Point last night and all the political leaders were given an opportunity to say something.

The great and near great, but admittedly the great, talked at length on the outlook for the next State election, but if anybody said anything out of the ordinary it was not recorded.

Many gatherings of a similar nature, but assuredly not as large, will be held from time to time during the next year to give the boys a chance to let off steam, and by the time the last of the meetings are held the public ought to be able to determine definitely who will be elected.

This business of letting candidates talk is one of the best ways in the world to determine the really great leaders of public thought, for they either present the public with something constructive or hang themselves with arguments of no consequence.

Greenville started the political rally business about a month ago, and the only thing the public got out of it was the fact that the MacLean school forces were trying to get lined up for another concerted attack on the school system.

Greenville merchants are beginning to display the latest arrivals of fall and winter goods, and people who visit the city in the future will be treated to some of the choicest values ever shown here before.

Always endeavoring to maintain the distinction as the "Principal shopping center of Eastern Carolina," the merchants have bought liberally of the materials of the nation's style centers, and those who visit the city in quest of bargains at prices in the reach of every pocketbook should be able to find them.

Persons who have never shopped here before should do so this season and convince themselves that the claim of the city as the leading shopping center is not misplaced.

SOUTH RALLIES TO COTTON AID

He had proposed to the Farm Board and the president that farmers be paid twelve cents a pound for their cotton, half immediately and the other half in October 1932 provided they produce no cotton next year.

The State Department in Washington, in addition, awaited a formal note containing expression of interest in possible world action to stabilize cotton prices which it was informed was on its way from Egyptian officials.

Resolutions came from five mass meetings in Georgia calling upon Governor Russell to convene the legislature in an extraordinary session for action on the Long proposal.

Governor Ira Blackwood of South Carolina has suggested he may call on farmers to hold mass meetings to determine if they desire a special legislative session on the Long plan. Meanwhile, Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina said he was going to Washington to discuss a price relief plan somewhat similar to that of Senator George with governmental agencies.

A move was on foot in Texas to bring about curtailment of acreage in Mississippi, where Governor Bilbo suggested farmers leave a third of their 1931 crop unpickerd, planters awaited reaction on the Long plan.

Most of the South seemed agreed some method of crop curtailment was necessary but there was difference of opinion over whether the Long plan was the best method.

In Tennessee, Senator K. D. McKellar declared the South would be "ruined" if the Long prohibition plan went through.

Senator Bankhead of Alabama suggested a Congressional measure for cooperative marketing and supply control. Governor Gardner of North Carolina has suggested a special session of Congress might be advisable. Governor Parnell of Arkansas has asked farmers to hold mass meetings on the Long plan.

Virtually all factions, however, were agreed early action of some kind was necessary and were moving toward that end.

Governor Long at Baton Rouge today was already mapping out a campaign to enter the support of other states in his cotton holiday. The Louisiana bill becomes operative only if states producing three fourths of the crop also pass it.

The school budget, providing for an appropriation of $83,423.00 compared against $93,668.88 last year, was reproduced on two blackboards for the members of the board so that they might fully comprehend the situation confronting the system at this time. Mayor R. C. Flanagan and J. H. Boyd acted as spokesmen for the aldermen and B. B. Sugg and E. G. Flanagan presented the position of the School Board.

Alderman Boyd explained the $40,000 debt hanging over the city administration, caused by poor tax collections the last few years, and said the aldermen had adopted an economy program and desired the schools to co-operate with them.

He referred to the general clamor for reduction of the city's tax rate and declared this could not be accomplished if the city allowed the schools the usual 30-cent rate.

Mayor Flanagan also explained the financial situation of the government and expressed belief the aldermen would approve an appropriation of $28,500 for the schools if reduction could be effected by the School Board to make this possible.

Spokesmen for the schools explained that to meet the demands for a lower budget estimate it would be necessary to either impair service of the schools to cut teachers salaries under the State schedule.

The Aldermen were adamant in their demand for the reduction, however, and the School Board met again this morning, slashed salaries to bring the city's appropriation to the required amount, and prepared to take the budget before the aldermen this afternoon.

This was the third time teachers of the city system have been cut the last two years, bringing the total reduction for that period to practically 27 percent.

If the aldermen accept the school budget they will pay over to the schools sufficient money each month to defray cost of operation, and relieve members of the board of all responsibility in this connection.

Following consideration of the school budget the aldermen will put final stamp of approval on the city budget and set the tax rate for the present year.

fire sales talk on five different warehouse floors the city will be the guest of probably the largest crowd of visitors in history of the market.

Eight large and modern warehouses will take care of the produce; and the improvements which they have made in buildings and sales forces will enable them to dispatch sales with greater rapidity than ever before. Factories also have undergone improvements and will be able to take care of the largest offerings in a way that will relieve any congestion on warehouse floors.

The New Joyner warehouse is operated by O. L. Joyner, W. P. Moore and M. R. Long. All are well known to members of the industry in this section and have made improvements to handle the offerings of the growers with greater speed and facility than ever before.

R. V. Keel, J. J. Gentry and Nat. Young will operate the Farmer's warehouse this season and offer unsurpassed service in all departments. Each member of the firm has seen long service with the trade and is fully capable of rendering the highest type of service.

C. H. Webb will operate Webb's warehouse. He will be assisted on sales by W. L. Stanfield, a capable tobaccoist of long experience. Mr. Webb has made numerous improvements in all departments and is prepared to give fine service.

Gorman's Warehouse, owned and operated by J. N. Gorman's sons, is in position to take care of its share of the season's offerings by reason of the excellence of its sales forces and improvements in every line. The Center Brick, owned and operated by W. S. Moye, assisted by S. B. Curran, is situated in the heart of Tobacco Town, and is ready to serve the growers in the usual satisfactory and efficient manner. Jimmy Taylor will be the auctioneer this season.

McGowan and Cannon, owned and operated by C. H. McGowan and Biggs T. Cannon, has announced that Haywood Dail will be associated with the firm this year. Mr. Dail is one of the best known business men of the district and is expected to add considerably to the splendid service offered by the house from year to year.

CAPS BEAT HIGH POINT

By WHITNEY THARIN (Associated Press Staff Writer) Charlotte, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Raleigh's threat to take on material in an effort to clinch second place and make a stab at the Piedmont League leadership is being carried out—and with success.

Some 10 days ago Eddie Winston Cap business manager, let it be known was in the market for any capable ball players who might aid the club in its fight to get in the post-season series. Bill Droll, rookie hurler, appeared to fit the description and he was hired. He proved his worth last night by pitching the Caps to an 8 to 4 win over High Point. As a matter of fact he should have had a shut-out as the three bobbles his mates turned in accounted for High Point's runs.

The win put the Caps within 9 games of the league leading Charlotte club, held idle by rain at Durham, but better than that, it pushed them a full game ahead of Greensboro as the Pats submitted to an 8 to 3 licking at the hands of Asheville.

On the basis of the standings, Raleigh has a better chance to overtake the Hornets than Greensboro has to overtake the Caps. Charlotte has been virtually conceded first place in the loop but Greensboro still lays claims to ability to pass Raleigh.

The Pats will never do it, however, unless they change the pace they are setting. Last night's defeat was the third this week despite his team's loss. Caldwell, Pat first sacker, got two hits out of four tries to strengthen his lead on the league's batting leadership while Bobby Hipps, Asheville first baseman, and Caldwell's chief opponent in hitting honors, failed to connect during the evening.

One bad inning spelled defeat for Rube Crews and the Henderson club as the Winston-Salem Twins took the odd game of the series 6 to 5. The Twins hopped on Crews for five runs in the second inning and although Boykin, Twin hurler, gave up as many hits in the sixth, he proved effective in the other brackets.

Home runs have proved a scarce article in the loop recently. G. Snyder of Raleigh, getting the third one of the week in the game against High Point. Only six were hit all last week.

PRIZE WINNER IN FISHING RODEO

Palmer Gallard (right) of Mobile, Ala., took first place in the third annual Alabama deep sea fishing rodeo at Mobile, when he landed a 58-pound tarpon after a 45-minute battle.

INDIANS TRIM DICK COFFMAN

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) Dick Coffman, ambitious young righthander of the St. Louis Browns, stopped Lefty Grove last Sunday when Connie Mack's star needed only one more victory to set an American league mark for consecutive victories. It is sad to relate what happened to Coffman his next time out, which was yesterday.

Facing the Cleveland Indians, the Alabamian lasted two innings, in which he was hammered for eight hits and six runs and generally manhandled. Up to that time, he had started, finished and won four straight games, two of them shut-outs.

As a result of their explosive start at Coffman's expense, the Indians went on to win without half trying, 11 to 1. Wes Ferrell, who has recovered fully from the effects of his no-hit, no-run game earlier in the year against the same Browns, gave up only four hits, two of them by Irving Burns.

In the day's only other American league game, the Detroit Tigers pounded five Chicago White Sox pitchers for 13 hits and a 9 to 4 victory. Stone and Richardson led the assault, each with three hits. Vic Sorrell went the distance for the winners.

Pinkey Whitney, Phillie third baseman, was the day's hero in the National league. Coming up in the eighth inning with the score tied, he planted one of Kolp's offerings in the left field bleachers to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 5. Estel Crabtree had hit one for the Reds in the sixth inning with one on.

The Chicago Cubs produced one of the year's prize rallies to divide a doubleheader with Pittsburgh. After losing the first, 3 to 2, when Glenn Spencer set them down with four hits, they came back to score eight runs in the eighth inning of the nightcap and win it, 11 to 4. Brame paved the way for his downfall of winking English to open the eighth.

The next seven Cubs hit safely before Osborn managed to quell the uprising. English had a perfect day, with two singles, a double, a triple and a walk in the two games.

Trouble Rumbled Before
Meehan tangled once before over minor issues with the powers-that-be at N. Y. U. and in December of 1928 it was announced that by "mutual consent" his three year contract at that time had been dissolved.

Negotiations were started immediately for a new agreement and Chick came out of the conference room with a document that nets him a salary between $10,000 and $15,000 a year.

In his seven years at N. Y. U. the Violets have won 43 games, tied three and lost 12.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 2 to 4 points lower in partial response to the weakness of the late Liverpool cables but offerings were light and the market soon stiffened up on covering which was coupled with some trade buying.

December contracts after selling off to 7.19 under the initial pressure, rallied to 7.25, with active months generally falling about net unchanged to 3 points higher at the end of the first half hour. A continued absence of southern hedging in any impressive volume, seemed to check selling otherwise and probably promoted some covering during the early trading.

Liverpool cables reported that continental liquidation had been absorbed by local covering in that market and said there were moderate sales of cloths to the Argentine but that yarns were inactive. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 12 to 30 points lower and there was a decline of 3 points in the spot quotation for Indian cotton at Liverpool.

Bulls were encouraged to make further tentative efforts in the stock market, and a quiet but broad recovery quickly developed apparently gaining momentum on short covering. Advances of a point or so appeared throughout the list while several issues pushed up 2 to 5 points, including U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, American Telephone & Telegraph, Consolidated Gas, American Can, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse Electric, Southern Pacific Union Pacific, Eastman and Case. Dividend uncertainties however, continued to crop out. Chicago and Northwestern preferred traded, after a protracted period of inactivity, at 58, off 34 points from the last transaction.

Prominent bankers are inclined to attach much significance to the Franco-American private banking credit to the British treasury, announcement of which is expected shortly. It is authoritatively stated that it will run into hundreds of millions of dollars.

The weekly mercantile reviews again reported slight and almost imperceptible changes in general trade, although retail sales have been helped a little by the cooler weather and wholesalers are getting a few more orders in preparation for autumn. Some hopes for a seasonal recovery this autumn have become decidedly modest in most quarters, the completely sold out condition of the stock market has given bulls hope that some discounting of season pick-up is in order.

Call money is again being offered in the outside market as low as one per cent.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Coarse grains took the market leadership away from wheat on the Board of Trade today, both corn and oats advancing sharply. The mid-month crop report of Nebraska bankers setting the present condition of the corn crop in that state at 57 per cent normal as compared with the government's Aug. 6 estimate of 71 per cent, had considerable influence. Forecasts of light frost in parts of Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin tonight helped prices advance. Wheat trade was light and showed firmness after a weak start, reflecting strength in corn. Provisions were firmer with grains and hogs.

Corn closed weak at almost the bottom figures for the day on a late setback, unchanged to 3-8 lower than yesterday's finish; wheat was easy 1-8 to 1-2 down; oats mixed 1-8 lower to 1-8 higher and provisions showing 10-27 advance.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Financial markets brightened appreciably today.

For the third successive day, the bond market was inclined to recuperate. News of the marshalling of a private banking credit of such staggering size as effectively to still anxiety over London was generally viewed in financial quarters as highly constructive.
