Texas Legislature Meets To Consider Relief For Cotton

OTHER STATES MAY ALSO ACT

Farmers Swarm Into Texas Capital, Demanding Action for Control of Acreage; Lawmakers Begin Session Virtually Pledged to Enact Some Measure for Relieving Over-production; Gov. Sterling Sends Message.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Cotton was brought to trial before a special session of the Texas legislature today and agricultural states of the entire south watched for their cue to remedy the most serious financial crisis southern farmers have faced in generations.

Farmers swarmed in the Texas capital city, demanding action for acreage control of the crop which long has knit the business and social life of the South.

The lawmakers entered the session virtually pledged to enact some measure which would remove the threat of further cotton surplus and financial disaster.

A majority seemed to favor a 50 percent acreage reduction, rather than the "no cotton" plan of Governor Long, enacted by the Louisiana legislature with the proviso it should be effective only if other states passed like statutes.

Most of today's legislative session was expected to be occupied with organization. It was doubtful that Governor R. S. Sterling's message would be delivered before tomorrow.

Several bills to curtail cotton acreage from 25 to 50 per cent either had been drafted or were in preparation.

Concerted action by southern states on acreage control awaits a decision by Texas which grows about one-third of the nation's crop.

Governor Ross S. Sterling told the legislature in a message made public that he convened in special session that "the hopes and prayers of Texas are that the cotton over-production situation can be remedied by legislation."

Meanwhile an assertion came from Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana sponsor of legislation to prohibit production of cotton in 1932 that he had assurances from at least five states they would enact the cotton ban if Texas did.

He named Arkansas, Alabama, South Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi as the states that would fall in line with the "no cotton plan which Louisiana already has adopted to become operative if approved by states producing three fourths of the crop.

MacDonald Opens British Parliament

London, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald visited the House of Parliament today to open a special session which will enact into law his government's new economy program.

As the head of the combined Liberal and Conservative parties he finds himself opposed now to the almost solid ranks of the Laborites, and the men and women on whose side he fought for forty years are now his political enemies.

Mr. MacDonald said that tonight a vote of confidence would be asked tomorrow a resolution will be proposed controlling the length of debate, and on Thursday he said Mr. Snowden will propose his supplementary budget, and Friday will be devoted to a second reading of the economics bill.

Arthur Henderson Labor leader who succeeded Mac Donald, protested that such a rush at a time of crisis was a "very bad beginning."

There were loud cheers from both sides of this first clash between Mr. Henderson and his old labor chief arose.

Mr. MacDonald, in a tone of studied sarcasm, retorted: "I am glad the gentleman admits that there is a crisis."

The Laborites suffered their first reverse in trying to block the government's program, for the speaker ruled that the House was gathered in exceptional circumstances and could not act according to precedent.

Acquitted

Mrs. Jeston Allen Jones, mother of eight children, who was tried in Amelia, Va., charged with the slaying of her husband, was acquitted.

LEAF PRICES STRONG HERE

Greenville Averaged $8.57 on 701,474 Lbs. of the Golden Weed Yesterday.

The highest price average of the season was recorded yesterday on the Greenville tobacco market in beginning the second week of the current season.

The average of $8.57 per hundred pounds was made on 701,474 pounds of tobacco for a total sum of $601,338.16. The sale was one of the heaviest since the opening of the market last week.

K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales stated this morning that there was between 750,000 and 1,000,000 pounds of leaf on the floors of the various warehouses today.

The price situation was described as holding up well with good tobacco showing similar strength to that displayed on the market yesterday.

With the first tang of fall in the air this week sales were expected to show a pronounced gain over last week when the market sold nearly two million pounds.

In an effort to obtain the cooperation of all warehouses in the plan to make Greenville the leading tobacco market of the State, tobacco warehousemen met last night at Gorman's warehouse and perfected an organization to carry out the purpose.

W. S. Moye, for years one of the leading spirits of the local market, was elected president, R. W. Gorman secretary, and Clyde Webb treasurer.

Measures were enacted for the benefit of the market and from now on the organization will be busy carrying out its objective.

Meetings will be held each Monday night at 8 o'clock until further notice, it was said.

Greenville warehousemen for years have been looked upon as the most progressive and far-sighted in the state and this renewed effort to improve conditions will add momentum to the industry—the greatest in this part of the country.

Cotton Ginning Shows Decrease

Washington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to September 1 was announced by the Census Bureau today to have totaled 565,160 running bales, counting 10,038 round bales as half bales and including 19 bales of American-Egyptian, compared with 1,879,919 bales, including 43,391 round bales and 87 American-Egyptian last year.

Ginnings by states to September 1 were: Alabama 48,031 bales; Arizona 1,660; Florida 10,556; Georgia 118,350; Louisiana 10,568; Mississippi 6,566; South Carolina 16,710; Texas 353,034 all other states 710.

SACKETT WILL TELL OF PLOT

Insecticide Manufacture Promises to Tell Jury of Insurance Scheme.

Perry, Ia., Sept. 8.—(AP)—County Attorney George Sackett said today that John M. Smith, insecticide manufacturer, has promised to tell a grand jury all the details of an alleged insurance plot in which he disappeared last winter, leaving an embalmed body of the unidentified man in his burned automobile.

The county attorney made this statement after officers reported that Mrs. Smith had signed a statement admitting that her husband's disappearance was part of a plan whereby she was to collect his $60,000 in life insurance policies.

Smith, who once was the candidate of the Farmer-Labor party for Governor of Iowa, was held in jail at Adel, where his wife was in custody of state agents at Des Moines. "Under our plan," Mrs. Smith was quoted in the statement as saying, "I was to collect the insurance or accept it when the insurance company paid it and then meet John when he got in communication with me, which might be one to two years."

Smith's whereabouts remained unknown until last June 23, when he was found near a Garner, Ia., roadside, bound with a wire. He was taken to the state hospital for the insane at Clarinda for treatment for relief from a mental illness, and subsequently removed to jail at Adel.

County Attorney Sackett said the grand jury probably would make Continued On Page Three

NAUTILUS AT SPITZBERGEN

Sir Hubert Wilkins Returns to the Long Year City From His Trip Under Ice.

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins brought his Polar submarine Nautilus back to Longyear City, Spitzbergen, today from a trip under the Polar ice.

The Nautilus started her cruise toward the Pole on August 18 when she left Longyear City alone. Three days later she radioed that she had entered the zone of the ice pack and that she would press on despite a minor mechanical defect.

There followed several days of silence during which men who knew the north felt grave concern for the safety of the expedition. Rescue vessels were equipped and made ready for a search but before they got under way Sir Hubert's radio spoke again.

The ship was safe, he said, it had made several dives under the ice, and every body was as well as could reasonably be expected.

His return at this time follows the advice of many friends who warned against proceeding further toward the Pole at this time of the year.

Want Legislature To Restrict Cotton Growing in N. C.

Halifax, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The opinion that North Carolina should join other states in the proposal to restrict the planting of cotton in 1932 was voiced by the Halifax Board of Commissioners in a petition asking Gov. O. Max Gardner to call the General Assembly into special session.

The petition, in the form of a resolution, was adopted yesterday. It asked the governor to take cognizance of the "movement on foot by several southern states" to outlaw cotton production next year and suggested that he call the legislature into session "to consider a similar program as far as it is expedient to co-operate with the other cotton growing states."

SCHOOL BUS HITS TRAIN; TWO KILLED

Driver of Bus Suffers Fractured Skull in Accident at Wake Forest Crossing.

Wake Forest, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Two youths were killed and another was probably fatally injured here this morning when a school bus and a train collided in the heart of this little college town.

Robert Garner and John Caddell, Jr., both of near here, were killed instantly.

Cameron Shearon, driver of the bus, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries and was rushed to a Raleigh hospital where he was said to be in a very critical condition.

No one else was in the bus. It had just discharged a load of school children picked up on its route along the Raleigh highway, and was on the way to a garage to get gasoline before going into the New Light section for another load.

The Garner and Caddell boys had asked Shearon for a ride down town. The accident happened about 8 o'clock near the station here, which is in the center of the town.

Opinion differed among witnesses as to whether the train struck the bus or the bus ran into the engine of the train.

It seemed that only a few persons saw the accident but most of them were of the opinion that the bus ran into the front part of the engine.

Coroner L. M. Waring of Wake county started an inquest shortly before 10 o'clock.

The train was a Seaboard Air Line Railway through passenger train to New York.

PLANE RACES COME TO END

New Attempt to Improve Land Plane Record to be Made Late This Afternoon

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Ten days of spectacular and record-setting achievements of the air came to an end today as the 1931 national air races were concluded.

Scores of pilots vied for 370,000 persons during the races, which which reached a climax yesterday as Lowell Bayles of Springfield, Mass., sped at an average of 236 miles an hour through the approaching dusk to win the $15,000 Charles E. Thompson trophy race.

Hurling his roaring Gee Bee super sportster over the 100-mile closed course in new race time, the speed sensation of the 1931 races left seven contestants, including Major James H. Doolittle, far behind.

Not satisfied, the former Illinois coal miner plans late today to attempt a new world record for land planes with his speedy ship over a measured three-kilometer course.

The record made by a French pilot, is 278 miles an hour.

Once during the races Bayle sent his Gee Bee sportster 286 miles an hour a mile straightaway.

Bayles won $7,500 for his victory yesterday, J. R. Wedell of New Orleans placed second with 227 miles an hour, and Dale Jackson, St. Louis, third, with an average speed of 211 miles an hour.

Doolittle, winner of the Bendix derby and holder of a new coast-to-coast speed mark, was forced out of the Thompson trophy race with engine trouble after he had crept into second place.

No fatalities marred the course of the races, although four pilots became members of the caterpillar club by forced descents in parachutes.

Here is how some of the leading money winners fared in the ten day meeting:

Major James H. Doolittle, $10,000. Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass., $9,300.

Mrs. Mae Haislip, St. Louis, $7,750. W. J. Wedell, Patterson, La., $5,800.

Mrs. Phoebe Omie, Memphis, Tenn., $4,250 and an automobile worth $2,500. John Livingston, Aurora, Ill., $4,280.

Harold S. Johnson, Chicago $4,500. Miss Florence Klingensmith, Minneapolis, $4,300. Maud Irvine Tait, Springfield, Mass., $3,150. D. C. Warren, San Francisco, Continued On Page Three

WHOLESALE PRICES FIRM

Price Situation Reflects Stability for the First Time Since September 1930.

Washington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Wholesale prices were said today by the Commerce Department to have remained firm during July for the first time since September, 1930.

In its monthly survey of current business, the department added the general level of commodity prices failed to move downward during the month, although early in August there was a tendency toward further weakness.

"During July," the report said, "there were relatively few changes in the general trend of business activity. The adjusted index of industrial production fell 1.3 per cent the decline being due to equal recessions of more than seasonal proportions in both manufacturing output and mineral production."

"The declines in the adjusted index of factory employment as measured by the number of employees and of freight car loadings were identical with the slightly greater than seasonal recession in general output."

"Iron and steel activity and automobile production, as in June, showed relatively sharp recessions, while textile output, which according to the revision adjusted index, experienced a marked drop in June rose by 5.1 per cent during July. Wool and silk receipts increased during the month and the movement of such consumption goods as shoes and rubber tires was on a higher level than June."

"Contrary to the movement during June the unadjusted index of the value of building contracts awarded showed a marked drop during July. Department store sales dropped slightly more than usual for the month while the total amount of payrolls and total bank debits outside of New York fell 5.2 per cent and five per cent, respectively."

"Although the trend was generally downward the average of stock prices held slightly above that of June while alternate gains and losses have featured the security markets during the first half of August."

"In comparison with the general level of activity during the first seven months of 1930, industrial production during the January-July period of this year showed a drop of 16.3 per cent. Employment showed a decline of 16.3 per cent or virtually equal to that of general production."

"Freight car loadings dropped 17.7 per cent. Retail trade as measured by the index of department store sales receded only 7.6 per cent from the corresponding seven months level of 1930."

"The drop in wholesale prices, the average of which was 18.4 per cent lower during the first seven months of 1931 than during the corresponding period last year was influenced in large part by the sharp drop in the price of farm products."

Fliers Attempt To Span Pacific From Tokyo To Seattle

COLLECTOR OF TAXES NAMED

R. L. Barnhill of Bethel, Collector; Preston Pierce Assistant Collector.

R. L. Barnhill of Bethel has been appointed as tax collector for Pitt county, and Preston Pierce, of Greenville, assistant collector. They were chosen by the Board of Commissioners in regular monthly session at the court house here yesterday and will begin duty October 1.

Appointment of the collectors is in keeping with the recently announced plan of transferring tax collections from the office of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst to the tax department.

P. L. Stone, who for the last two years has served the county as tax supervisor, will retire from office October 1. This work will be transferred to the auditor and the newly appointed tax collector. It was said.

Sheriff Whitehurst will complete collection of taxes this month and turn his books over to the tax department October 1.

In addition the commissioners adopted the 94-cent tax rate announced for the present year sometime ago.

The new rate is a reduction of 41 cents over the rate of $1.35 last year and was made in the face of a six million dollar reduction of valuations.

The newly-named tax collector is widely known throughout the county while his assistant at the present time is a member of the Greenville police department but in former years was associated with the sheriff's office.

ROYALTY WILL AID BRITAIN

King Will Give Quarter of a Million Dollars to Help Financial Crisis.

London, Sept. 8.—(AP)—King George's offer to dip into his income for a quarter of a million dollars in order to help tide John Bull over his financial embarrassment made a favorable impression today on members of Parliament gathered for the first special session since the war.

The willingness of the Prince of Wales to contribute $50,000 income himself to lighten the load of the new National government and that of other members of the royal family to help in accordance with their means were no less well received.

The King, acting through the keeper of the Privy purse, wrote Prime Minister MacDonald that in view of the grave financial situation confronting the nation he desired personally to participate in the movement for reduction of national expenditures.

In spite of the fact that drastic economies were made after the war, he wrote he was of the opinion that "by the exercise of it should be possible to reduce the civil list by 50,000 pounds."

"I am to say that the queen and other members of the royal family who are in receipt of parliamentary grants are all desirous that reductions of these grants should be made during this time of national crisis."

The maintenance of the crown is provided by a civil list totalling about $2,350,000 annually, theoretically granted by Parliament each year. In addition the King derives a fluctuating revenue from the Duchy of Lancaster, which, for example, netted $345,000 in 1929. From these two sources he must defray the expenses of state ceremonials, the palaces, pensions, servants, charities and the queen's court.

The Prince of Wales is not included in the civil list and his only income accrues from the Duchy of Cornwall, which in 1929 brought him $30,000. Other members of the royal family who draw parliamentary grants aggregating about Continued On Page Three

COTTON CROP SHOWS GAIN

Department of Agriculture Increases Estimate to 15,685,000 Bales.

Washington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—A government production estimate of 15,685,000 bales, the highest September cotton forecast since 1915, today gave little comfort to the growers.

The estimate was 101,000 bales above the August forecast of 15,584,000 bales, which caused immediate price declines on the exchanges, ranging from $5 to $7.50 a bale.

Private estimates on the average were almost 1,000,000 bales lower than the August forecast, but since then they have revised their predictions upward, on the whole averaging about 15,100,000 bales.

The figure on the area left for harvest in today's report was 40,889,000 acres as compared to the 40,129,000 acres used as the basis for August production estimate.

The change was not regarded as unusual but an indication why the Agricultural Department believes that this year's crop will yield more than a million bales over that of 1930 was seen in the condition forecast.

On September 1 last year it was estimated at 53.2 per cent, and in today's report at 68.0.

The production estimate for September 1 last year was 14,340,000 and the final estimate, based on ginnings, was 13,932,000.

An almost continuous demand for some plan to raise the price of cotton now less than seven cents at principal markets, and near five at many small buying centers rose in the wake of the August forecast.

An indication that the cotton farmer is moving his crop to market slowly was seen in today's ginning figures. They were 565,160 bales as compared to 1,879,919 last year.

Although the lateness of this year's crop was undoubtedly a factor in the staple's slow movement. Commenting on the report the department said the increase above the August forecast was largely due to lower than average abandonment.

The indicated crop for 1931 is 1,753,000 bales greater than the 1930 crop and 417,000 above the 1929-1929 average of 15,268,000 bales.

The department said August was generally favorable to the crop, save in the delta sections of Arkansas and Mississippi where weather conditions were bad and were accompanied by an increase in weevil damage.

In its proposal for plowing under every third row of cotton made after the August production estimate, the Farm Board said this year's crop and the carry-over of cotton indicated a supply of about 25,000,000 bales, as compared with probable world consumption of American cotton during the present fiscal year of 13,000,000 to 14,000,000 bales.

They had plenty of confidence that they would succeed. Allen put in an order for a Seattle breakfast of bacon and eggs, but wheat cakes and plenty of syrup. Moyle wanted ham and eggs, cakes and maple syrup.

But Moyle and Allen didn't plan on going hungry all the way across the Pacific. They found room in the heavily loaded plane for five roast chickens and bread, butter and coffee.

Their getaway was the subject of favorable comment and congratulations by Colonel Lindbergh, as well as by Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, another pair of American aviators in Japan seeking permission to make a trans-oceanic attempt.

"The boys have all my best wishes," said Lindbergh. "It's a dangerous job they have undertaken."

"The boys got away better than I expected," said Pangborn. "To take the air with such a tremendous load was one of the greatest difficulties. If they have an even break with the weather they are pretty sure of success."

Herndon expressed similar feelings.

NO WORD OF PLANE TODAY

Don Moyle and C. A. Allen Believed Well On Their Way Today on 4,465 Mile Non-Stop Flight From Samushiro to American City; Considered Most Hazardous of all Ocean Flight Undertakings.

Tokyo, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Trying to fly non-stop 4,465 miles across the Pacific from Japan to Seattle in a plane which had failed other aviators twice in similar attempts, Don Moyle, motorcycle salesman, and C. A. Allen, former purveyor of washing machines, presumably were well on their way today.

They took off from Samushiro Beach, 375 miles north of here, at 3:30 p. m. EST Monday, with 1029 gallons of gasoline, one of the heaviest loads ever lifted by a single motored plane, and began what is considered perhaps the most hazardous of all ocean flight undertakings.

An hour had ten minutes after the take off they were sighted 110 miles from Samushiro beach, having set a 100-mile an hour pace for the first stages of their trip. Their route as mapped, followed close to the Kurile island chain, that foggy stretch which gave so much trouble recently to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

They carried no radio and their course took them somewhat to the north of the steamship line. Hence there was little possibility of their being heard from until they approached the American coast.

Moyle calculated the flight would take 39 to 44 hours depending on the weather. This would take them into Seattle Wednesday.

He asked that airport officials in Seattle keep the field lighted Tuesday night and Wednesday morning against their coming.

Reports today from the United States quoted weather officials as predicting the aviators would encounter helpful winds over a good part of their journey, although admitting the weather over the Aleutians would be "by no means ideal."

The fliers estimated the 1029 gallons of gasoline in the tanks of their plane would keep them in the air 47 hours. In addition, they crowded 50 gallons of gasoline into the cockpit to give them fuel for two additional hours flying. Moyle expected to average 100 miles an hour in the early stages of the flight and a greater speed as the ship became lighter.

If they reach Seattle they will win $25,000 offered by the Asahi newspaper, for the first non-stop flight from Japan to North America south of a given degree of latitude. They will not be eligible for the Seattle prize of similar size because they did not take off within 50 miles of Tokyo.

They had plenty of confidence that they would succeed. Allen put in an order for a Seattle breakfast of bacon and eggs, but wheat cakes and plenty of syrup. Moyle wanted ham and eggs, cakes and maple syrup.

But Moyle and Allen didn't plan on going hungry all the way across the Pacific. They found room in the heavily loaded plane for five roast chickens and bread, butter and coffee.

Their getaway was the subject of favorable comment and congratulations by Colonel Lindbergh, as well as by Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, another pair of American aviators in Japan seeking permission to make a trans-oceanic attempt.

"The boys got away better than I expected," said Pangborn. "To take the air with such a tremendous load was one of the greatest difficulties. If they have an even break with the weather they are pretty sure of success."

Herndon expressed similar feelings.

Tokyo, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Word was awaited here last tonight of the hoped-for sighting of the monoplane of Don Moyle and C. A. Allen.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: To counteract the sensation that will be caused when the news of her half-brother's marriage to their maid becomes public, Sam Sherrill agrees to marry Peak Abbott and urges that the announcements be sent out that same night. Abbott owns the Express, for which Sam works, and has published an elaborate story of the engagement. An additional reason for Sam's decision is her need of money. Fourth Anderson, her stepfather, upholds the family aristocracy but has lost the family fortune. He is overwhelmed by Nelson Anderson's marriage out of his class and by the further fact that Nelson took with him money intended for a mortgage interest payment. Sam's abrupt engagement comes on the heels of a planned elopement with Freddy Munson, reporter on the Express. She is in love with Freddy and waits unhappily to learn his reaction to her engagement. The telephone rings and she believes it is Freddy.

CHAPTER 12

THROUGH THE WARS

It was not Freddy, however, who was calling, but a friend who wanted to wish her happiness upon her engagement. The friend with any encouragement would have talked indefinitely, but Sam did not want to talk. She pleaded being very busy, at last, and hung up the receiver.

All morning long the telephone continued to ring, and each time Sam answered it eagerly, only to be disappointed. The whole world wanted to converse with her, it seemed, except the one person who mattered. No word came from him. By twelve o'clock she admitted to herself that she was beaten. It was evident that she was not going to see Freddy again, or even have the consolation of hearing his voice. The incident was closed, apparently, and probably it was a good thing. What was the old saying about the mercy of the surgeon's knife? She decided to answer just one more call and then to leave the receiver off its hook.

The next call was not from Freddy, nor was it from one of her well-wishing friends. It was from one of the more sensational of the city's newspapers. There was a report the voice said, that young Mrs. Aldersea had been married the day before in Elkon. Was this true? Was it an elopement? Who was the girl?

Sam merely said "I don't know." She repeated the phrase monotonously five or six times. Then she laid the receiver carefully on the top of the table and walked out of the house.

Late in the afternoon both Fourth Aldersea and Peak Abbott arrived at the stable. Fourth came in a few minutes before Peak, and it was obvious that his good spirits of the morning had disappeared. He walked across the room slowly, took off his coat and hat, and turned toward the stairs.

He spoke to Sam over his shoulder: "You'll be interested to know Joan," he said with elaborate carelessness, "that my new daughter-in-law's father is a retail dealer in fish. From now on we'll be able to get all sorts of nice fresh fish at attractive prices."

"How do you know?" Sam inquired dully. "Oh, it's all in that paper in my overcoat pocket. You read it if you like. There is an elaborate description of the fish business and all sorts of interesting details about our two happily joined little families."

He walked up the stairs to the second floor and slammed the door heavily behind him.

Sam got up from her chair and extracted a bright green newspaper from the overcoat. She then went directly to the fireplace, tossed the paper without glancing at it between the andirons, and set it alight. She was sitting on her heels idly watching the bright flames when she heard Peak Abbott's voice behind her.

"Hello, Sam. What on earth are you doing?"

"Hello, Peak." She nodded without turning. "I'm burning a newspaper. Fourth says it has all sorts of interesting details about the fish business."

Peak put a hand under her elbow and lifted her to her feet. "Look here, Sam," he said gently, "you mustn't take this thing so hard. What do you care what the filthy sheet says, or what anybody says? The thing will be entirely forgotten in a month." He looked at her face and shook his head. "You look as though you'd been through the wars."

"Do I?" Sam attempted a smile. "Well, to tell you the truth," she said, "I feel as though I'd been through the wars—several of them. It isn't altogether Nelson, either. I've been terribly busy all day, and the telephone has been ringing steadily."

"I know," he was sympathetic. "What were the telephone calls about—you and me?"

"Yes," she nodded. "Dozens of people called to tell me how happy they are about it all. It was only natural that they should tell me, but they all used almost exactly the same words, and after a while—"

"I know. I've listened to the same sort of things all day long, but to tell you the truth I rather enjoyed having people tell me how lucky I am. It made it seem more real, somehow." He smiled reminiscently. "Some people are peculiar—newspaper people especially."

"Are they?"

"Yes," he continued to smile. "Take what that fellow Munson had to say on the subject. It was typical."

"Oh," Sam turned her head away so that Peak could not see her face. "Did Freddy Munson know about our engagement?"

"Of course," he knew it. It was on the front page wasn't it?" He frowned. "By the way, Munson has quit the Express."

Sam kept her face turned away. "Really?"

"Yes. I met him in the elevator this afternoon. He had a suitcase in his hand and said he was on his way to New York on the next train."

Sam said quietly: "And Freddy Munson made some remarks about our engagement?"

"Oh, yes, I was going to tell you about that. It was amusing. He looked at me in that arrogant way of his and said, 'I hear you're engaged, Abbott.' I said, 'Yes, aren't you going to congratulate me?'"

He paused. "And then?" Sam inquired in a small voice.

"Then came the funny part. Instead of making the usual remark Munson just shrugged his shoulders and said, 'I'm not so sure that you are to be congratulated.' Peak laughed. 'Can you beat that? If I hadn't known newspaper people I might have thought he meant some reflection on you. He didn't, of course.'"

"Didn't he?"

"Certainly not. He just meant that anybody about to be married was open to commiseration, and not congratulation. It's the old familiar cynicism, but I have a feeling that he was sincere."

"Probably he was."

Sam walked over to a chair and sat down. Involuntarily she put both hands over her face.

Peak started toward her. "What is it, Sam?" he asked anxiously. (Copyright, Freeman Lincoln)

Freddy opens attack upon Peak tomorrow. What is the crime that Freddy accuses Peak of planning?

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY SHOWER FOR MISS BETTIE WARREN

On Monday evening, the members of the Philathea class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, gave a surprise birthday shower in honor of Miss Bettie Warren, one of the oldest members of the church, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Mallison. Miss Warren had previously been invited to a call meeting of the class. The Mallison home was beautifully decorated with asters, zinnias and dahlias.

After about three dozen of the members had arrived a number of various games were enjoyed. Mrs. John Karsnak then favored the guests with several vocal selections.

Mrs. W. C. Vincent, teacher of the class, called the class into a short business session. She retired from the room and returned with a lovely white birthday cake surmounted with sixteen pink tapers, which she presented Miss Warren, this being the first indication that she was the honor guest. An attractively decorated basket, containing a shower of pretty and useful birthday gifts was then presented Miss Warren. Her complete surprise and great appreciation was most feelingly expressed. All present expressed their congratulations and good wishes.

At the close of the evening, dainty refreshments were served.

Pitt Farmer Dies in Bed

Farmville, Sept. 8.—Funeral services for Earle Bowling, who died suddenly Friday morning, were held from his former home on Burch place, four miles from here, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. H. L. Hendricks of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. C. B. Marsburn, Christian Disciples minister. Interment was made in Forest Hill cemetery.

Mr. Bowling, a bright industrious young farmer, retired Thursday evening, seemingly in good health and cheerful spirits, intending to bring a load of tobacco to the local market next morning. He was called about 5 o'clock, and answered, but a few minutes later was heard struggling and died shortly after members of the family found him of an acute heart attack. Of a genial nature and kindly disposition he had a host of friends in this section.

He was 30 years of age, and had been a widower for 6 years. His wife dying with a similar attack suffered during the night.

Mr. Bowling is survived by three sisters, Mrs. S. B. Bowling, three sisters, Mrs. Ben Bundy, and Miss Lillie Bowling of this section. Mrs. B. Otis Taylor of Farmville, three brothers, Thomas, Wilson, county; Roy and Mack Bowling, of this county.

Miss Kirby Hostess

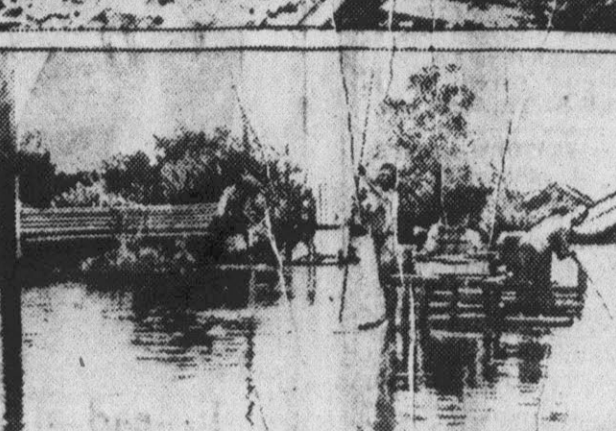

Goldsboro, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Donald Kirby was hostess at a delightful bridge party at her home in the Spruce Apartments Wednesday afternoon honoring her guests Misses Sara Guiley, Frances Moseley and Mary Cousins, all of Greenville.

Late summer flowers made attractive decorations. Bridge was played at four tables, following which the high score prize, note sationery, went to Mrs. H. R. Simmons, and the second prize a compact, to Mrs. Charles Norwood. The guests of honor received dainty handkerchiefs.

BARNET BROS. CIRCUS

Lovers of the out-of-the-ordinary amusement will be interested in the announcement that Barnett Bros. Big 3 Ring Circus and Trained Animal Circus, will be seen at Greenville on Wednesday, September 16, presenting decidedly the largest and greatest program of original, unique and thrilling feature acts—known today. To the show world this vast tented amusement enterprise is alone in a class by itself without a rival. Nothing like the performance provided by Barnett Bros., manager of the Barnett Bros. Circus and Trained Animal Circus, was ever before dreamed or dared by the oldest managers. Whatever your preference, you will find plenty to interest, astonish and edify you. There are thrilling aerial acts, during every moment of which one expects to see the intrepid performers hurled into eternity; artistic and sensational equestrianism; incredible and bewildering athletics and acrobatic numbers; and the phenomenal exhibition by trained animals. In fact, so numerous and varied are the novelties offered in the three rings and upon the hippodrome track by these shows, lack of space will not permit each of these to be mentioned. The wonderful growth of this circus is that the owners have always aimed to present all and more than they advertise.

FLIERS ATTEMPT TO SPAN PACIFIC FROM TOKYO TO SEATTLE

The monoplane carried no radio and it may not be seen until it reaches Seattle.

If the plane maintained the expected speed of 100 miles an hour, it would reach an American landing, 4,465 miles from its starting place about noon (EST) Wednesday. The arrival might be hours earlier or later.

At midnight here, 181-2 hours after the start the fliers had been sighted only once 70 minutes north from Samuro, 375 miles north of Tokyo. They were reported passing Point Ermo, 110 miles north-eastward on Kokkaido island.

If they held the starting speed they should have been over the Aleutian islands at midnight (10 a. m. EST).

Minister Faces Trial in S. C.

Chester, S. C., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Trial of Rev. G. I. Ford, a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, by a church court on unannounced charges was begun here today.

The Rev. J. R. T. Major, presiding elder of the Greenville district, presided at the trial which was closed to the public. A jury of 13 ministers will reach a verdict and fix the penalty if there is a conviction.

Mr. Major said the verdict reached would be sent to Bishop Warren A. Candler of Atlanta, and that there would be no announcement of it unless made by Bishop Candler.

Mr. Ford, who was pastor of a church at Clover, disappeared last January and remained away from his pastorate for several months. A young woman choir singer disappeared the same day, was later found by the Salvation Army in California and returned to her home.

Presbyterian Synod Meets at Charlotte

Charlotte, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina, largest in the South, will open its 118th annual meeting here tonight at which the progress of its 535 churches will be reviewed and plans for the future outlined.

The Rev. R. Murphy Williams, of Greensboro, the retiring moderator, will deliver the opening sermon of the three-day session in the auditorium of Queens-Chicoora College, a church-supported school. A new moderator will be elected at the conclusion of the sermon.

The Rev. D. D. P. Gilmore, of Wilmington, chairman of the work of the Synod, will report the activities of the last year.

Plans for the creation of a church paper for the promotion of Presbyterian Synods along the Atlantic Seaboard will be received from a publicity committee, which will also report on the consolidation of the Presbyterian Standard, Charlotte, and the Presbyterian of the South, Richmond, Va.

Dr. E. E. Gillespie, of Greensboro, will be in charge of a special meeting in the interest of the Synod's home missions, which annually spend $60,000 in support of Presbyterian work in North Carolina.

The annual Synodical service will be held tomorrow at noon, followed by a memorial service for ministers who have died during the year.

The church's budget and deficit are expected to receive considerable attention during the session. The goal for this year has been set at $737,000. Last year's budget was $885,000 but only $613,198 was raised.

To Discuss Crime At Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Search for the best means of combating crime in North Carolina today attracted the attention of representatives of practically every law enforcement division in the state. Representatives of city, county, state and Federal government were invited to take part in the three-day meetings, the first of its kind in this state.

Ways and means in which independent law enforcing agencies may work together; the limits allowed officers in enforcing the law; that privilege against self-discrimination and the organization of police departments are among the matters for consideration.

The group's program was formulated by Prof. Albert Coates of the University of North Carolina Law School, and R. R. Talbert, president of the North Carolina Association of Police Chiefs.

Among those scheduled to take part in the discussions are: President Frank Graham of the University; Gov. O. Max Gardner; Senator J. W. Bailey; Lieut. Gov. R. T. Fountain; Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt; Associate Justice G. W. Connor and W. J. Brogden, of the Supreme Court; Judge Johnston J. Hayes and Judge I. M. Meekins, of the Federal bench; Judges M. V. Barnhill, Wilson Warlick and Michael S. Hank of the Superior Court; L. B. Jeffers, chairman of the state highway commission and J. F. Sprull and J. C. B. Ehringhaus, former solicitors.

CUBS DROP TWO GAMES LABOR DAY

By TERBERT W. BARKER (Associated Press Sports Writer) Virtually certain that the world's series again will pit the Philadelphia Athletics against the St. Louis Cardinals baseball's major league fans perhaps can revive flagging interest by cogitating upon the collapse of two National League clubs, the Chicago Cubs and the Boston Braves.

The Cubs, picked to give the Cardinals a battle for the pennant today had lost nine straight games and fallen into fourth place in the standings.

The Braves' sensations of the circuit during the early months and a fighting ball club until the last few weeks, have lost 16 of their last 18 games and now are in sixth place only a half game ahead of the Phillies.

The Cardinals handed the Cubs a double beating in the holiday program yesterday, 1-0 and 8-3. Paul Derringer hung up his 16th victory of the season in the opener, scattering eight hits and fanning eight. Burleigh Grimes was master of the Cub batsmen in the nightcap although he was touched for 11 hits.

The Braves accepted two beatings from the Brooklyn Robins, 5-4 in 10 innings and 2-0 and the Robins moved into third place.

Carl Hubbell and Roy Parmalee pitched the New York Giants to victories over the Phillies, 6-0 and 2-1.

Effective pitching by Larry French and Erwin Brame enable the Pittsburgh Pirates to chalk up their fifth and sixth straight wins at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds, 6-1 and 4-2.

The Athletics, although trounced twice by the New York Yankees, 15-3 and 9-4, still lead the American league parade by 13 games, 15-3 and 9-4, still lead the American league parade by 13 games. The home runs by Babe Ruth, No. 39 and 40, Gehrig's 42nd, and one each by Lary and Dickey spelled disaster for the A's in the nightcap.

The Washington Senators maintained their hold on second place by whipping the Boston Red Sox twice, 7-5 and 15-1.

Cleveland's Indians won two games from the Chicago White Sox, 6-2 and 5-2 on good pitching by George Connally and Clint Brown while Detroit and St. Louis split even, the Tigers winning the opener, 3-2 and dropping the second, 11-7. The split left the Browns in fifth place, a half game ahead of Detroit.

community at the present time, bringing owners face to face with the necessity of locking their cars when they are left for any length of time.

You may feel secure by leaving your car unlocked in the garage, but the thieves have become so bold they go into such places and drive out while the family sleeps.

A big sum of money is involved in the purchase of any kind of automobile and it is imprudent for any person not to take proper precautions to protect this property just as he would his house or jewels.

Thieves usually are always on the alert at this season of the year, and especially during the cold winter months, and automobile owners who do not want to suffer loss should make it a point to lock their cars when parking them in the business district or at home for any length of time.

POINTERS TO TRY ANCIENT MOUND IDOL

Charlotte, Sept. 8.—(AP)—By reaching into the past, the hopeless High Point club hopes to paint at least on bright picture before the Piedmont league season dies away. Seventeen games the Pointers have played and never a win have they scored.

At last however, they have found a veritable Moses on whom they have wished the task of winning a ball game.

It is none other than Rube Eldridge, a relic from baseball history who once was famous in this section as the "iron man" of the diamond where the Pointers found him, no one seems to know, but the announcement that he would pitch today's game sent members of the younger generation scurrying to their grandfathers to find out about Mr. Eldridge.

If the old boy still has a whip in his ancient arm, it would have done well to have snapped it last night. The Pointers dropped another pair, 8-0, and 8-3, to Winston Salem.

The Pointers however, were not the only double losers in the Labor Day schedule. Asheville helped Charlotte clinch the Piedmont pennant, as far as the season's percentage is concerned by kicking in with two defeats, 5-4 and 11-7.

Raleigh was forced to split with Henderson, losing the first 6 to 12 and winning the last 4 to 2. Greensboro likewise split with Durham, the Pats dropping one, 4 to 11, and winning the other 4 to 3.

Pigskin Work Begins on N. C. "Big 5" Grids

By WHITNEY THARIN (Associated Press Staff Writer) Charlotte, Sept. 8.—(AP)—It's started—this football training season—and on the "Big Five" campuses in North Carolina today gridiron candidates strained sore muscles as they whipped themselves in shape.

From Duke University came a report of the season's first casualty, Glenn Lemon, veteran halfback sprained an ankle running signals.

It was a renewal of an old disability that kept him out of the game during a large part of his freshman and sophomore years.

Duke also had other worries, Fred Taylor, a letterman at guard, who graduated last June, was eligible for another year of football. Coach Wallace Wade hoped he would return but he was among the missing at the initial practice.

The 43 candidates who answered the former Alabama mentor's call spent the first day with conditioning exercises.

Practically the same process was followed as N. C. State, were another new coach, John "Clipper" Smith, greeted 45 members of the squad. Limbering up drills were the order of the day there with Frank Reesso also new, taking charge of the backfield.

Davidson players had the toughest first day Coaches Younger and Tilson put the 37 young men through two stiff workouts. They lost no time with preliminaries. In the morning session the squad was given several plays, while a signal drill took up the afternoon workout.

North Carolina, in contrast, had a pleasant afternoon. The 45 aspirants who reported there were handed uniforms and told to report today for the first real workout.

The temptation to get the feel of the ball, however, proved too great for the majority of candidates and they held a little general exercise.

Wak: Forest athletes also had a like trial. Coach Pat Miller won't be on hand until tomorrow and the 40 candidates spent the day limbering up. Captain Brogden and eight other lettermen headed the squad.

Blythe Heads

Indian Tribe

Bryson City, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Jarrett Blythe, who found time to graduate from Carlisle but never to learn the language of his forefathers, today was the new chief of the eastern band of Cherokee Indians in Western North Carolina.

With the aid of women voters, granted suffrage for the first time, the youthful son of Ames Blythe, of Wolfton, won the right to wear the brightest head feathers and sit in the largest tepee.

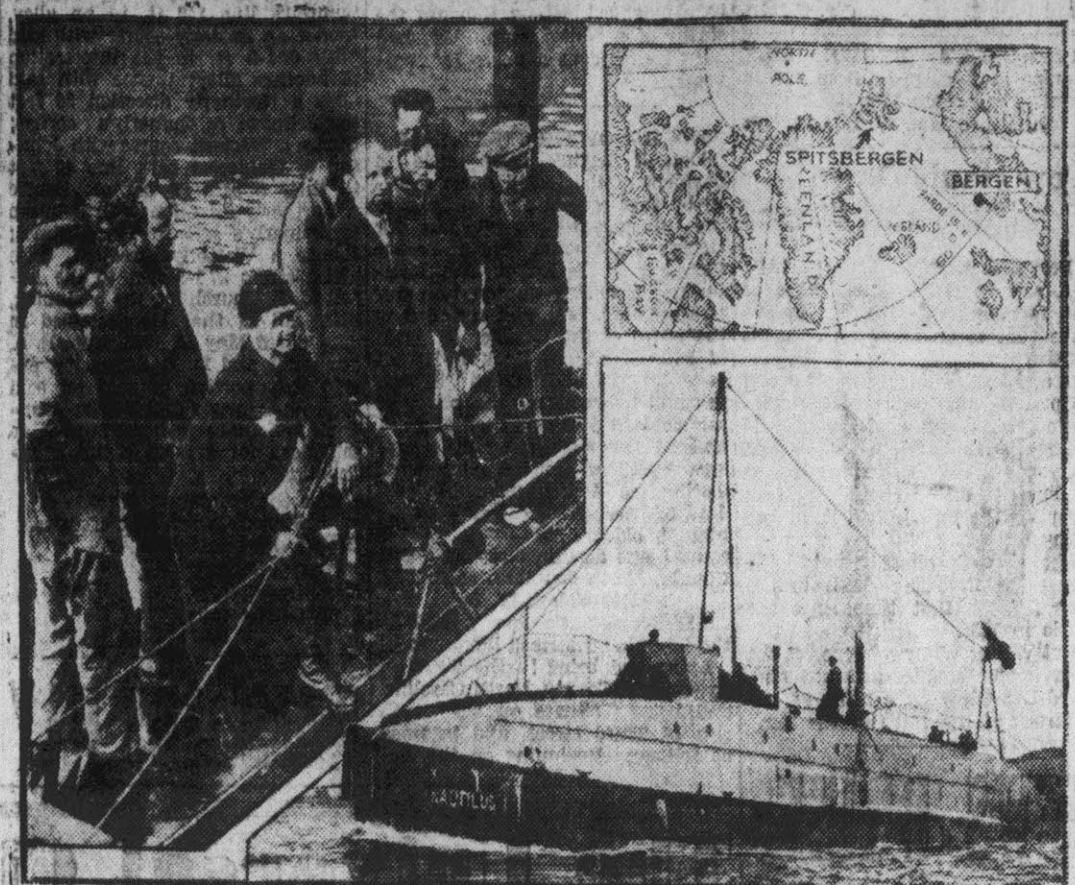

Blythe was elected chief over a field of six candidates to succeed the aging John Tahaquatte, who has retired. He was the only one in the group who does not speak Cherokee. His nearest competitor, Will Saunook, brother of a former chief, was 40 votes behind him.

Of the 1,000 votes cast, 200 were estimated to have been by women of the tribe, permitted for the first time in tribal history to take part in an election.

Chief Blythe will maintain an office in the reservation school house at Cherokee. He will be charged with administering the lands and money of the 3,131 members of the tribe scattered over two counties in the Pilot Balsam and Great Smoky mountains.

He is the head of a government that is run as a Democracy with a constitution written on principles similar to that of the United States. The assistant chief, Jesse Tleskie, of Birdtown, and six council members will help him make rules and decide on appropriations from the treasury.

HEAR FROM NAUTILUS AFTER SEVERAL DAYS' SILENCE

Word was received from Sir Hubert Wilkins' Arctic submarine Nautilus after several days of silence. Grave fears were felt for the safety of the expedition and preparations were made in Bergen, Norway, to send searchers to the Spitsbergen waters. Pictures show Wilkins with members of his crew and the Nautilus just before they started for the Arctic.

ROTES ENJOY FINE PROGRAM

Children of D. D. Overton Entertain Club with Several Musical Numbers.

The Health and Happiness committee had charge of the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club last night and the Rotes returned home at the expiration of the session in a much better frame of mind if not in a better state of health.

The speaker of the evening were Lebron Spence, J. D. Aman and Lawrence Stroud. They told the club right much about the importance of health but it was left to the children of D. D. Overton to show the boys how to be happy.

With the proud father presenting each performer, the five children gave a delightful musical program consisting of a vocal and instrumental solos, a chorus and interspersed it with a delightful reading.

The musicians were Mrs. Kenneth Brimm, Mrs. Robert Fountain, Misses Florence and Elizabeth Overton and Jonathan Overton.

A solo, "The Garden of My Heart" was rendered by Mrs. Brimm. Miss Florence Overton gave piano interpretation of "Rosary." Mrs. Fountain gave a reading entitled, "An Airplane Ride."

Miss Florence Overton sang a solo number, "Thank God for a Garden" and a duet, "I Dreamed that I Dwelt in Marble Halls," was rendered by Mrs. Fountain and Mrs. Brimm.

The program was concluded with a chorus, "Nancy Lee."

Three Negroes Killed in Wreck Near Goldsboro

Goldsboro, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Three negroes were killed early today when a truck bringing a party from a Labor Day celebration at a beach collided with a fish truck.

Around 20 negroes, most of them from La Grange, were on the truck. Those killed were King Wood, 17, Roland Dawson, 18, and Robert Parks, 32.

The accident occurred one mile east of here on highway 10. Two negro men were killed instantly and a woman died a few minutes later.

Four other negroes, one possibly fatally injured, were brought to a hospital here.

The survivors of the wreck said the fish truck side-swiped their truck. The fish truck's driver stopped, but later drove off without reporting to police. State Highway Patrolman R. R. Glover wired Raleigh officers to watch for the fish truck and arrest the driver.

DAILY REPORT

Greenville Tobacco Market

There was a substantial advance yesterday on our market on all grades of tobacco except the real common primings and common tips. All independent buyers were out with new orders and the market in general showed more strength than anytime this season. We are looking for a continual steady advance.

We are sure that the friends of the Greenville Tobacco Market will rejoice that Greenville has sold up to date more tobacco than any market in the Eastern Belt.

Every warehouse pulling together is making Greenville the very Best Market in the State.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 1 to 2 points lower under over-holiday selling which seemed to come partially from the South and included some liquidation or switching from October to later deliveries.

Liverpool cables made a steady showing, and early offerings were well enough taken by covering or trade buying to cause rallies of a few points, with the market working up from 6.84 to 6.89 for December and ruling 2 to 3 points net higher at the end of the first half hour.

There may have been some selling on a favorable view of the weather reported over the holidays but trading was comparatively quiet and most of it suggested further evening-up in preparation for the government crop report at midday.

Liverpool cables reported continued covering with Bombay selling in that market and said hedging was light and that the cotton goods trade in Manchester was inactive awaiting the bureau.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Led by corn, the grain market went downward in the late dealings today, largely as a result of sympathy with weakness of securities.

September corn fell 2-1/4 cents a bushel, with pressure of liquidating sales a feature. Little attention was paid to a 'hold back grain' plan that has been started in Iowa.

STOCK MARKET

By CLAUD A. JAGGER
 (Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Financial markets were more wearied than rested by the three-day weekend, and sagged heavily as trading was resumed today.

Continued absence of tangible signs of a seasonal recovery in business, together with further gloomy descriptions of the unemployment problem, led to a large accumulation of selling orders in stocks, which declined rather sharply in the early trading. The market grew quieter as the session wore on but failed to recuperate. Bonds were again rather soggy.

U. S. Steel common declined more than 2 points to a new low for the past 10 years, breaking for the first time through its bottom of 1922.

Rails and utilities developed notable weakness. Issues losing 2 to 4 points included American Telephone and American Water Works, American and Foreign Power, New York Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, New Haven, Baltimore and Ohio, Lehigh Valley, Westinghouse, Case, Eastman, Johns Manville, Nash, and Woolworth. General Motors sagged more than a point.

Corporate news included reduction of New Haven's annual dividend to $4 from $6 and General Motors August sales report, showing sharp shrinkage from the like month of last year, at least in part attributable to the fact that new models were brought out in the summer of 1930.

Cotton dropped only moderately in response to the governments estimate of the crop as of Sept. 1.

Cow Hauls Down Stars and Stripes

Fort Fisher, N. C., Sept. 8.—(AP)—A cow at Battle Acre, scene of the famous Battle of Fort Fisher, gave vent to an apparent dormant southern secession spirit of the sixties and hauled down the stars and stripes 66 years after the Confederate fell under Union fire.

The flag mounted on a 35 foot pole, was attached to ropes spaked in linsed oil and the animal, sampling the rope, found it to her liking.

She chewed steadily until the flag came fluttering down to the dust for the first time since the battle in 1865.

But Walter Winner, keeper at the reservation, counter-attacked and saved Old Glory from being entirely struck at the teeth of the cow.

The Universal Circulator

... gives the equivalent of a basement heating plant at a fraction of the cost ...

The Universal Circulator is in effect a parlor furnace that gives you all the comforts of a basement heating plant at less than half the cost.

Its beautifully designed cabinet harmonizes perfectly with the furnishings of the home and brings added charm and beauty to any room.

Circulating purified, moist, warm air to every nook and corner of the home, it does the work of two or three ordinary stoves, and makes the entire house comfortably warm at all times—and in addition saves at least 1/3 to 1/2 on fuel costs.

Be sure and inspect the Universal Circulator—it will prove a revelation in home heating to you.
