FAMOUS FRENCH AVIATORS KILLED IN ACCIDENT

TOLL OF DEATH FROM TROPICAL HURRICANE INCREASES AT BELIZE.

TIDAL WAVE ADDS HORROR

Dead Bodies, Houses And Churches Washed Out to Sea by Tremendous Waves.

Washington, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The first American relief ship arrived at Belize, British Honduras, today to aid in caring for the hundreds of persons who were injured in the hurricane swept city.

The American Red Cross headquarters here was informed that the navy's minesweeper, Swan, had reached Belize at 8 o'clock this morning. The navy had estimated it would make the 150 mile run from Trujillo sometime between 8 o'clock and noon.

The gunboat Sacramento also is on its way to the stricken city with additional supplies from Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua.

The Red Cross also was arranging for the purchase and transportation by plane of mother supplies from Navy and Army stores in Panama and other Central American countries.

The message also stated that a report had been broadcast for 500 pounds of medicated cotton, twenty pounds of iodine, and a large quantity of bandages.

Pan American Airways Inc., announced receipt of a report today from its radio station at Belize, British Honduras, that unofficial estimates now placed the total dead in the hurricane disaster at 700.

Washington, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Belize, British Honduras was hurricane ravaged today and other Caribbean countries and islands either were recovering from or bowing in fear of slashing winds of tropical storms while such was being rushed to the maimed, hungry and homeless in the devastated area.

Four hundred persons, including ten American priests, were reported killed, and hundreds were injured when a terrific hurricane swept out of the blue Caribbean late Thursday and demolished the west coast seaport of Belize.

To add to the horror of destruction, a huge tidal wave followed in the wake of the 150-mile an hour wind, and washed many of the bodies of the dead out to sea, along with houses, churches and other buildings.

Ships in the usually quiet harbor, where 13,000 persons lived, were thrown high aground. A lashing rain and the angry waves swamped the buildings that remained, and destroyed food, medicines and drugs, and rendered most of the populace without shelter.

As bodies were being dug from the debris for burial and physicians were administering aid to the injured, in the British settlement, San Juan, Porto Rico, was recovering from a hurricane that took a toll of two known dead, several reported drowned in that vicinity and considerable damage to buildings.

This tropical disturbance, distinct across the Caribbean, passed over Santo Domingo yesterday afternoon. It was expected to reach Port Au Prince, Haiti, in the night.

If it persisted in its erratic course it was due the Belen Observatory at Havana said, in Southern Oriente province early today and would continue toward Jamaica, in a southeasterly direction.

The hurricane that struck Belize continued late yesterday to lash Central American areas and was off Frontera, Mexico, and the Bay of Campeche late yesterday. It then apparently turned toward Vera Cruz and was reported last night east of northeast of that gulf and was taking a northwesterly course. It was believed by weather observers neither would strike the southern United States.

Some damage was reported from all sections these seasonal tropical disturbances crossed. At San Juan 300 buildings were unroofed and naval air station and the electrical power service suffered, the latter being paralyzed.

South Sharply Divided Over Cotton Question

Austin, Texas, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Then Senate committee on Agriculture today gave a favorable report to two cotton acreage control bills, one embodying the provisions of the Long "no cotton in 1932" plan and the other calling for limited reduction of acreage.

Action of the committee in giving a favorable report to both bills was unusual legislators said, adding it apparently had been agreed among the members of the committee to give the Senate a change to vote on both proposals.

The Long plan bill was offered by Senator, Margie Neal, of Carthage and W. E. Thomason, of Nacogdoches. The acreage limitation (Continued on Page 4)

SIX DEATHS FROM HEAT

Late Summer Heat Wave Sets New Records in Many Sections of Country.

(By The Associated Press)

A late summer heat wave brought torrid blasts which had left, during the last 24 hours, records in many districts.

While relief was felt in the north west where yesterday the mercury climbed to 100 in Huron, S. D., and Moorhead, Minn., only the rarest possibility of cooler temperatures was predicted for the central and eastern states.

The hottest spot though was Phoenix where the temperature reached 104 degrees yesterday. It was 98 in Marquette, Mich., Albany N. Y., Baltimore and Philadelphia. As far north as Montreal and Toronto felt temperatures of 90.

There were three deaths in Wisconsin caused by the heat, two in Michigan one in Pennsylvania; six prostrations in Maryland, one in Pennsylvania, and three in Washington, D. C.

The temperature climbed to 95 the highest since 1870 for Sept. 11 in New York which suffered its hottest day of the summer. A 96 broke Baltimore's 90 year record, while Detroit's 95 set a new record for Sept. 11.

In many cities of Massachusetts, in Madison, Wis., Omaha, Neb., and Winona, Minn., the schools were closed because of the heat. Bathing beaches were reopened in many sections. Officials of Chicago estimated more than a million sought relief in Lake Michigan yesterday.

Dallas, Texas, had the heaviest rain throughout the rest of the state helped the ranges and pastures which will soon be stocked for fall grazing.

High winds and rain broke the heat wave in the northwestern states. A dust storm raged near Fergus Falls, Minn. (Continued on Page 1)

POLICE AFTER NEW FACTS IN PIRACY CASE

To Again Question Wife of Wealthy Yachtsman Reported Slain by Pirates.

Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Still baffled by the melodramatic story of how a pair of modern pirates boarded Benjamin P. Collings' cabin cruiser in Long Island Sound and hurled him overboard, authorities were seeking today to pierce the fantastic haze of mystery surrounding the wealthy man's disappearance.

While search was being made for Collings' body and for the two men who, according to the account given by his wife, not only threw him overboard but later attacked her, the police said they would again summon Mrs. Collings for questioning this afternoon.

After reenacting the incident yesterday in the manner in which she said it took place, Mrs. Collings was permitted to return to her home in Stamford, Conn., and district Attorney Elvin N. Edwards of Nassau county issued a statement that he believed her story "fantastic as it may seem."

But other Nassau authorities in the investigation, notably Inspector Harold King, chief of detectives, said today that in the absence of proof or motive they would not accept the explanation of Collings' disappearance until his body or some other conclusive evidence is discovered.

Some investigators even went so far as to suggest that perhaps unknown to Mrs. Collings herself the entire incident may have been a carefully premeditated drama staged for some sordid purpose not yet brought to light.

Retracing Mrs. Collings' story of how her husband was bound and thrown from his cruiser, the Penguin, and she was kidnapped in a canoe and compelled to leave her five year old child, Barbara, alone in the cruiser, the police said they were confronted with a number of paradoxes.

For example, they pointed out, Mrs. Collings told of hearing one of her husband's assailants say: "Don't tie his hands too tight"—an odd instruction, they concluded, if the man really intended to drown Collings.

EURE BANKER IS MISSING

Wife of J. I. Crawford Asks Friends to Help Her Locate Her Husband.

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Alarmed at the failure of her husband to return to his home at Eure after testifying in a bank trial at Brevard last month, Mrs. James I. Crawford of Eure, today asked friends here to aid her in locating him.

Crawford left his home August 8 to go to Brevard. He was cashier of the defunct Brevard Banking and Trust Company when it closed and testified in the trial of bank and county officers.

August 10 he wrote that he had reached Brevard safely. After his testimony he cashed his county voucher and told friends he was going to visit relatives in Asheville and go home.

He did not visit the relatives. Three days later, on August 13, he sent his wife some papers from Charlotte without any note or letter accompanying them since that time she has not heard from him.

The friends here said they would appeal to police to aid them.

Mr. Crawford said, and had threatened either to desert his family or commit suicide. He suffered a nervous breakdown in 1927, and in recent months had been ill again.

The man was well known in banking circles of the state. Starting as assistant cashier of the Bank of Eure, he later served as cashier of the following institutions: The Bank of Gates at Gatesville; the Bank of Ahsokie at Ahsokie; the branch of the Farmers Atlantic Bank at Murfreesboro; the Bank of Canton in Haywood county and the Brevard Banking and Trust Company.

GANDHI SAFE AT LONDON

Indian Leader Ready to Attend the Round Table Conference Next Week.

London, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi arrived in London from Folkestone this afternoon and went directly to the headquarters of the Society of Friends in Euston Road.

There was a pelting rain, but Gandhi did not seem to mind it. "I am not going to take part in Monday's meeting of the federal structures committee," he said, "but I shall be there listening. Monday is my day of silence."

Folkestone, England, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi arrived here today, completing a trip from Bombay to attend the second all-India round table conference.

All the entrances to the pier had been closed to the public and only a few persons who had passes were admitted. A heavy rain was falling and although the sea was smooth the channel was shrouded in fog.

Nevertheless the Mahatma was wearing only his loin cloth and a homespun shawl.

He sprinted 50 feet across the pier to the waiting room and climbed into an automobile for the trip to London.

Miss Madeline Slade, his English disciple, went up to the city by train. The Mahatma rode with Tej Bahadur Sapru and several other Indian delegates to the round table conference.

Just before the car drove off a woman representing the commonwealth of India gave the Mahatma a large bouquet of roses.

Two Negroes Held In The Slaying Of Gas Station Man

Charlotte, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Two negroes, arrested in connection with the slaying Monday of Frank Stewart, Salisbury filling station operator, were being held here today in the Mecklenburg county jail.

Sheriff Miller, of Rowan county, and Police Chief Rankin, of Salisbury, brought a negro here early today for safekeeping. The man's name was not revealed. Police said he confessed.

J. W. Ballard, alias Bus Jackson, who, police said, confessed his part in the slaying and implicated a companion, was lodged in jail here late yesterday.

The officers said the negroes, when brought face to face at the jail, blamed the actual shooting on one another. Jailor McGinnis said they would be held here pending further investigation of the case by Rowan county authorities.

Stewart was shot down late Monday. Ballard said the man was killed when he and his companion went to rob the filling station. They got $18 out of the cash register, he said, and fled.

Invoke Martial Law at Belize To End Looting

Miami, Fla., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Ellis McLane, amateur wireless operator, said he received word today from Belize, British Honduras, that martial law has been established to prevent the looting of bodies and of property destroyed in the hurricane which struck the city Thursday.

McLane said he communicated with an unidentified American amateur operator in Belize, whose station is V2BA, and received a plea for "all possible help."

Public distribution of supplies has been established, the Belize operator told McLane. All water tanks of the city were destroyed by hurricane, and residents are depending on rain water caught during a downpour last night.

McLane said he was advised all boats in the Belize harbor were damaged, and in some instances, vessels and their crews disappeared during the height of the storm.

TWO NEGROES JAILED HERE

Justus James and Caesar Green Charged with Attempt to Assault White Women.

Justus James and Caesar Green, colored, were held in the county jail here today charged with attempted assault upon two white women, Mrs. Ramsey and Mrs. Tingin, in the western section of the city last Thursday night.

The two men were given preliminary hearing before Mayor R. C. Flanagan in Police court this morning and were bound over to Superior court in default of bond. They were immediately transferred to the county jail from the city jail where they had been held since their arrest Thursday night immediately following the alleged assault.

The two women, who live on Ward street in the extreme western section of the city, told police they were on their way to a store on fifth street to buy soft drinks when the negroes drove close to them and tried to induce them to get into their car.

Resenting the proposal, one of the women picked up a brick and hurled it at her assailants as the other fled down the street to a filling station.

As they were returning home, the negroes were said to have again attempted to entice them into the car. They ran but were overtaken as they neared home. One of the men was said to have grasped one of the women by the arm and attempted to force her into the car.

She broke away and ran into her home nearby and called the police.

James and Green were taken into custody a short time later and were confined in the city jail until preliminary hearing in City court.

TWO FINED IN CHURCH ROW

Machine Gun Protects Jonesboro's Courtroom During Progress of Hearing.

Jonesboro, Ark., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Two members of the First Baptist church, torn by factional strife that led to two outbreaks and the calling of troops to maintain order pleaded guilty to simple assault and were fined $5.00 each in a courtroom bristling with a machine gun and soldiers here today.

Guy and Ray Chambers, father and son, and members of the Jefferson faction, were arrested today on assault charges and ordered to trial at one P. M. this afternoon.

The charges were based on attacks the chambers are accused of making of Mayor H. J. Hosler and Chief of Police Craig during an attempt by Jeffers to conduct a prayer meeting on the city hall lawn Thursday morning.

Inside the courtroom one machine gun was mounted in a position that would command range of the chamber. Outside of stairs leading into the courtroom another machine gun was placed.

Only witnesses and newspapermen were admitted to the courtroom. The guardsmen kept a considerable area in the vicinity of the city hall clear of people.

Lieutenant Colonel C. S. Garrett, assistant adjutant general of the Arkansas National Guard, was in command of the troops. He said everything was proceeding in an orderly manner.

Jeffers called his followers to prayer meeting in his tent at 8:45 A. M., just as the trial started before Municipal Judge William Carroll.

Dr. Lile is accused of striking the Elder Cox when the latter allegedly used abusive language to Mr. Heard, the pastor's wife, following a prayer service. The younger Cox is alleged to have struck Lile as he was leaving the church.

Mr. Manning, sixth of his family to occupy the Governor's chair died at his home here yesterday of double pneumonia. He was 72 years of age.

Governor Blackwood said, "South Carolina has lost one of her strongest and most valuable citizens."

Much Common Leaf Being Sold Here

The Greenville tobacco market closed the week yesterday by selling 599,684 pounds of leaf at an average of $7.62 per hundred pounds. Season sales were given at 5,246,898. The market has been selling a considerable amount of one-half and one cent tobacco, which tobaccoists said, would be to the benefit of the farms to keep and use as fertilizer.

WERE FLYING PARIS-TOKYO

Aboard Plane Were Joseph Lebrix, Marcel Doret and Rene Mesmin, But Identity of Those Killed Not yet Determined; Cause of Accident Was Not Learned.

Moscow, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Two of the three men in the French airplane Hyphen II, which set out yesterday on a non-stop flight from Paris to Tokyo, were killed today when their plane crashed near Ufa.

The identity of the men killed was not immediately established. Ufa is about 700 miles east of Moscow, midway between here and Omsk.

The cause of the accident could not be learned immediately. Aboard the ship were Joseph Lebrix, one of the best of the French pilots; Marcel Doret and Rene Mesmin.

The crash occurred early this morning near the mouth of the river Tanpa.

The chief of the Soviet air force ordered that a party be sent from the Ufa airport to extend aid and determine the cause of the accident.

First reports did not indicate whether the third member of the crew was hurt.

Joseph Lebrix, one of the finest fliers of France, set out from Le Bourget at dawn yesterday with Marcel Doret and Rene Mesmin.

The three of them tried a flight from Paris to Tokyo several months ago but cracked up in the middle of Siberia. Lebrix brought the ship down but it was wrecked in the landing. The other two bailed out in parachutes and Mesmin was slightly injured.

They came back to Paris by plane and outfitted the Hyphen II for another attempt at the long distance mark.

Yesterday they got off the ground just a few minutes ahead of the famous trans-Atlantic ship, Queston Mark, carrying Paul Codos and Henri Robida, who were going over the same route with Tokyo as their ultimate destination.

The Question Mark was forced down at Nieuwkruis, near the Netherlands border, by a leak in the gas tank, a few hours after the start. That crew plans to go back to Paris and start over.

Lebrix was one of the most famous fliers in the world. He was best known in the United States for the round-the-world flight he made with Dieudonne Coste in 1927.

When Lebrix and Dieudonne Coste arrived in New York on the latter's first flight to America it was learned that they were almost penniless and that continuation of their association was seriously threatened by sharp differences of opinion between the two fliers.

The pair had been defraying most of their heavy expenses from their personal resources, which were not great, and because of pride, had been concealing the fact as long as possible. Arrangements were made here to replenish their funds.

Even when expense money was furnished, however, the expedition seemed likely to end here because of personal animosity between the fliers. Coste had always been a strict disciplinarian and Lebrix chafed under the restrictions imposed upon him. "I am sick of being a valet," he was quoted as exclaiming at one landing field.

Friends persuaded the two to patch up their differences, however, for the time being, and their association continued until they arrived back at Paris. Then they separated and Coste later supplanted Lebrix as his assistant by Maurice Bellonte, with whom he made his second flight to America.

Marcel Doret was distinguished in his own right as a flier. In January, 1930, he flew from Le Bourget to Brussels in 51 minutes, a new speed mark for the route, and later he and Lebrix stayed up for 70 hours and 10 minutes, flying 6,710 miles over a closed circuit; a new record at the time.

ABOUT TOWN

The people of this section of the country have lots of things to be thankful for, principal among them being the absence of violent elemental disturbances as represented by the hurricanes which swept over British Honduras and Porto Rico with such devastating results.
We may have low cotton and tobacco prices, and probably go hungry from time to time during the year, but the climate treats us midway all of the time. Never too cold or too hot, but always at a happy medium, climatic conditions of this section are equal to any in the world.

When we consider how fortunate we are in this respect we ought to take the depression with a smile, remembering that American business men have never been defeated by economic onslaughts of past years and will certainly be able to surmount present difficulties if given proper time to do so.
Hundreds of lives, homes and thousands of acres of crops have been wiped out in the hurricane affected areas and the people will be years overcoming the effects of the catastrophe. It is a deplorable condition at the best and should show the rest of the world how blessed it is in the security from fury of the elements.

City schools will get under way
Monday and hundreds of children will turn their minds from the field of play to the more serious business of getting an education.
The local school system, while hard hit by the changes brought about by enactment of the MacLean school legislation, faces the future hopefully, confident of maintaining the high scholastic rating it established last year. Only one teacher has been lost from the whole system, but the faculty was forced to take over a seventeen per cent to make this possible. With a shortage from the state and the city, too, the schools were confronted by one of the most serious situations in history.

However, with support of faculty members, and what is much more important the cooperation of an appreciative public, Supt. Roe is anticipating a good year and is determined that the schools shall lose none of their efficiency through lack of funds.
Greenville won the honor of leading all schools of the state in scholastic rating last year in addition to capturing the Northeastern Athletic Conference basketball championship and several other laurels in the field of music and literature.

It is a record every pupil is proud of and that all will strive to crowd into this year just as many brilliant accomplishments, is the belief of those who have watched the development of the schools in recent years.
Tobacco season—the busiest part of the year for people of this part of the state—is two weeks old at this time, and merchants are beginning to realize from the thousands of dollars paid out on the market each day.
Not only the merchants, but every phase of business derives benefit from the market, and everybody makes a bid to get his share of the money released by the market from day to day.
Business men who are not getting their share of trade should begin advertising more extensively than ever and let the shoppers know what they have to offer. The American people have been educated to expect to find what they want through advertising columns of the daily paper and they rely more on this medium each year.

The business men who do not get their proportionate part of the business now cannot possibly expect to get it during the lean months of spring and summer—periods when the farms are busy preparing and cultivating their crops for the harvest season.
Several thousand people peruse the columns of this paper each day and advertisers know by experience that "ads" placed in the columns invariably bring results. It is the best way to reach the thousands of people in this great trade territory and those who try it should most assuredly be rewarded by an increase of business.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, unchanged to an advance of 4 points on some overnight buying orders and week end covering which may have been promoted by some nervousness over the further course of the tropical storm, although this was said to be showing diminishing intensity.

The demand was supplied on the initial advance to 6.94 for December and 7.22 for March, however, and prices sagged off later under liquidation or reselling combined with some selling for the South. Offerings increased somewhat as the market slipped off to 6.82 for December and 7.10 for March, or about 7 to 10 points net lower, but trading was quiet and prices fairly steady at the end of the first half hour.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Grains pursued a general downward course today, reflecting the action of securities, especially in the late dealings.

A leading professional trader was a conspicuous seller of corn and that cereal gave way faster than wheat. Meagerness of new export business in wheat from North America had a bullish influence.

Wheat closed heavy, 5-8 to 1 cent lower; corn 1-8 to 1 5-8 off; oats 1-4 to 1-2 down.

STOCK MARKET

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)
New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The stock market ended the week feebly today, showing no disposition to extend the rally with developments toward the close of yesterday's session.

The market has managed to close a little higher, as measured by price averages, only once this week, in fact only once in the past eight trading sessions.

Some price averages have already penetrated the bear market bottom established on June 2, and the standard statistics—Associated Press weighted price index of 90 representative issues came close to it today. Westinghouse was actively sold, declining about 4 points to the lowest price since 1922. Directors meet for dividend action next week. Rails and Utilities showed group weakness.

Pan American Airways reported from its station there that at least 400 lives were lost.

As various reports reached Washington, the American government moved to render assistance. The White House, State Department and the naval immediately made plans to give aid and the American Red Cross sent relief funds to American Consul Tagart at Belize. The British embassy was advised of the situation by the State Department and the White House asked the Navy to offer its service.

Two marine transport planes, carrying medicine and medical personnel, were dispatched from Managua, Nicaragua, by the Navy Department to the British town. The mine sweeper Swan at Trujillo immediately weighed anchor for Belize, and other naval craft in Central American waters were standing by ready to rush to the city if needed.

Wireless communication was out at Belize and messages were sent over the Pan-American Airways radio. They told of eighteen boys being killed in St. John's College, and that the government had organized special police to guard against the looting of stores and to protect the food supply.

Prisoners were placed at work digging ditches to receive the dead. A debris strewn road was cleared so that many bodies could be hauled by motor truck to a cemetery.

The crippled and wounded were brought on crude stretchers to the first aid stations, where harried physicians and nurses treated them as quickly as possible, although working with limited equipment and medical supplies.

SOUTH IS SHARPLY DIVIDED OVER COTTON QUESTION

tion bill, a coalition agreement between Senators Walter Woodward, of Coleman, Clint, Small, of Amarillo, and Oliver Cunningham, of Abilene, would restrict acreage in 1932 and 1933 to one third of the cultivated area in 1931. It also provided for rotation after 1933, prohibiting planting of cotton on the same land in successive years.

The Senate was in session today but it was not announced when the reports would be presented for action by the main body.

A favorable report was given by the committee to a bill by Senator J. W. Stevenson, of Victoria, that would permit farmers to plant any acreage they wished in cotton next year but would prohibit planting that same acreage in cotton in 1933 and provide for rotation thereafter.

The south was divided over what step should be taken to remedy the cotton depression today.

Governor Ross M. Sterling of Texas, the state which the balance of power in any cotton legislation as a producer of a third of the crop, indicated he would approve no measure to prohibit production of cotton in 1932.

The govern rs of at least three other states reiterated their belief such prohibition legislation was the solution.

Meanwhile, an acreage reduction bill, modeled along lines Governor Sterling said he favored, bore the approval of a committee of the lower house of the Texas legislature.

It would curtail acreage to one-third the cultivated area in 1932 and prohibit the planting of acreage of cotton in successive years.

Governor Harvey Parnell, of Arkansas, wired Governor Sterling last night for early enactment of the "no cotton in 1932" plan, saying his state would follow Texas in such a step.

Governor Ibra C. Blackwood of South Carolina declared Texas could save the cotton situation by prohibiting planting next year. Other states, he said, would follow suit. He prepared to call the South Carolina legislature into session on Monday on cotton relief legislation.

In Louisiana, which had already passed the "no cotton in 1932" plan to become operative if adopted by states producing three-fourths of the crop, Governor Huey P. Long, chief sponsor of the plan, made another radio appeal for support of the measure last night.

Governor Long urged Texas to adopt it.

In Washington, Senator Hastings (Republican) of Delaware, suggested cotton held by the Federal Farm Board be turned over to a private corporation to be formed for its disposition. Carl Williams, cotton member of the Farm Board, wrote Representative Hampton F. Fulmer, of South Carolina, the board recognizes the "unconstitutional character" of any federal law to control cotton production.

continuing an uninterrupted conversation. "I could hardly believe it," he said in a loud artificial tone, "but the man was intoxicated, Mrs. Frye. He was hardly able to put two sensible words—"

"Fourth!" Sam stamped her foot. "Don't be ridiculous! Don't pretend that you didn't hear what I said!"

"Ah!" Fourth turned slowly about and faced the little group at the front door. His normally florid face was a dead white and his Adam's apple was twitching, but he managed a correctly apologetic bow. "You'll pardon me, Joan, but Mrs. Frye and I were in the midst of an interesting conversation. You were saying?"

"Don't be ridiculous!" Once more Sam stamped her foot. "Here's Nelson. Fourth, aren't you going to speak to him?"

Fourth's bright blue eyes regarded his son dispassionately, as though Nelson were some not particularly interesting biological specimen.

"Speak to him?" he murmured. "Of course. How are you, Nelson? Thoughtful of you to drop in."

Fourth bowed gravely and, turning his back, once more began to converse with the widow Frye.

Nelson looked at Sam. "Something tells me we'd better be going," he said wearily.

"Nonsense!" said Sam hotly. "You're going to stay right where you are. Not only that, but we're going to put an end to all this childishness right here and now. Sit down, Nelson, please. You sit down Martha, too."

When the pair had seated themselves on theavenport Sam walked over to Fourth. "Fourth," she pleaded almost tearfully, "please don't be so hateful."

"Hateful?" Fourth looked down at her and shook his head sadly. "You asked me to do something, Joan, and unless I'm mistaken, I did it. Is that being hateful?"

"It is, and you know it! You didn't really speak to Nelson. You just said how do you do and turned your back. You mustn't act that way, Fourth. You must talk to Nelson—and to Martha, too!"

"Must I? That's an interesting idea. When I come to think of it, it might be amusing, too." He smiled gently. "I might, for instance, ask Nelson if he is thinking of going in for larceny in a really big way."

"Fourth!"

"Yes," Fourth continued smoothly, "that would be an interesting topic to discuss with Nelson, but his wife might be more difficult. It wouldn't be tactful, I suppose, for me to show an interest in her father's business." He shook his head. "That might sound fishy."

"Fourth!" Sam gasped and took an involuntary step backward. Before she could recover herself, Nelson was at his father's side.

"Be careful what you say!" Nelson was blurring furiously. "Be careful what you say, do you understand? You can insult me all you like, but you'd better not make another remark like that about my wife! If you do, I'll—"

Fourth ignored him. He turned to the widow Frye, who was a frightened huddle in her chair. "It seems a shame," he said to her regretfully, "to bring this delightful visit of yours to an end, but I am afraid the time has come when I had better take you home."

In absolute silence Fourth assisted Eugene with her coat and then put on his own. Sam, in a sort of daze, was unable to find words even when the widow stood at the threshold on the point of departure. Fourth Aldersea seemed to be the only one who had complete control of his faculties.

"I won't be gone long, Joan."

Fourth glanced absently about the room as he prepared to close the door behind him. "You might open a window or two, if you don't mind. It seems stuffy in here," he nodded. "Yes. Just a bit stuffy."

When Fourth returned, three-quarters of an hour later, he found Sam seated alone on theavenport staring stonily at the embers of the fire. She did not look up when he came in, nor did she speak. Fourth took off his overcoat and threw it on a chair. Then he glanced about him, sniffed, and began to pace up and down with long strides.

After a time he stopped in front of Sam and thrust both hands deep into his coat pockets. "My God, Sam," he demanded hoarsely, "what am I going to do? I can't stand this. I can't stand it!"

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: Peak Abbott, Multimillionaire owner of the press, and fiancée of Sam Sherman, discovers that Sam is in love with another man. He gives Sam time to change her mind and go back to Freddy Munson. But Sam, who became engaged to Peak through loyalty to her family's financial and social difficulties, is determined to carry through with the marriage. One reason for the engagement was the elopement of her stepbrother, Nelson, and their maid Sam's stepfather. Fourth Aldersea, is engaged at Nelson's loss of social caste, and also at Nelson's taking away with him money needed for payment on a mortgage. Fourth lost the family fortune months ago, and although he maintains his sense of aristocracy, he is reduced to selling books. He has invited a rich widow, Mrs. Frye, to tea with Sam and himself. While he is telling the widow about his invention the front door slowly opens.
