President Moves To Increase Spread Of Residence Building

CALLS CONFAB FOR DECEMBER

Conference of 1,000 People From 48 States to be Held at Washington From December 2 to 5; Preparations for Gathering in Progress Over a Year; Every Phase of Home Building and Ownership to be Threshed Out; Many Other Aspects of Situation Will be Considered.

Washington, Sept. 15.—(AP)—President Hoover moved today to increase the spread of home building and home ownership in the United States, calling a conference of 1,000 citizens from the 48 states to meet on this subject here from December 2 to 5.

The president, announcing this project, said preparations had been in progress for over a year. He pointed out the conference would be "the first of its kind on this scale in the United States."

"It will deal with the whole question of home construction and ownership, and of home environment," he said. "It will embrace finance, design, equipment, city planning, household management, and many other aspects."

The president said a score of national associations were represented in the planning committee of the project, and that 25 committees "have been engaged for some months" in preparation. Funds have been provided privately, he said, to cover the activities of the committees of the huge housing conference.

The president said: "I wish to announce that the president's conference on home building and home ownership for which preparations have been in progress for something over a year will be held in Washington, Wednesday, December 2 to Saturday, December 5, inclusive."

"About 400 persons have assisted in the preparatory work and 1,000 representative citizens from the 48 states, associated with building and housing activities, are expected to participate in the conference. The conference has been organized under the chairmanship of Secretary Lamont, of the Department of Commerce. Dr. John M. Gries is the executive secretary."

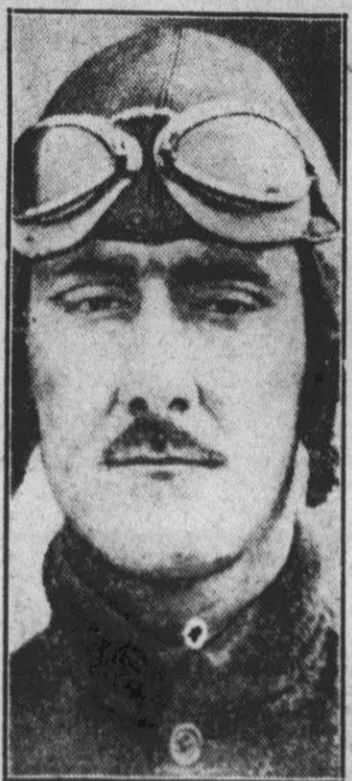

"I decided a year ago after a conference with interested leaders in various parts of the country to undertake the organization of an adequate investigation and study, on a nation-wide scale, of the problems presented in home ownership and home building, with the hope of developing the facts and a better understanding of the questions involved and inspiring better organization and the removal of influences which seriously limit the spread of home ownership, both town and country."

"A planning committee, comprising representatives of some twenty voluntary associations, was created to make the study and set up a national conference for consideration of the data and recommendations of expert committees. The plan is somewhat similar to that of the White House conference on child health and protection, held in Washington in November, 1930. Funds have been provided privately to cover research and other activities of the committees of the housing conference."

MANY FEARS GRIP BELIZE

Stricken City Faced By Food and Water Shortage, Disease and Rioting.

Mexico City, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Heavy property damage and some loss of life were reported today as the result of a hurricane which swept the southern half of the lower California peninsula Saturday and Sunday.

A brief message from Santa Rosalia said the major part of the town was wrecked when a wind of near-cyclonic velocity battered its wooden houses and that a number of lives were lost in a tidal wave that swept over the ruins in the gale's wake.

The population of Santa Rosalia does not exceed 2,000 but there is a considerable population at El Boleo mine in the hills back of the town. Serious damage was reported at the mine, but details were lacking.

The exact number of victims at Santa Rosalia and other points in the hurricane's path is unknown here for the dispatches said that in view of the confusion no check had been attempted.

La Paz, which is the capital of the southern district and considerably larger than Santa Rosalia, reported serious property damage but no casualties.

Guaymas, on the mainland opposite Santa Rosalia, was visited by the hurricane and part of the waterfront section was flooded. A number of houses were unroofed, trees were uprooted and two persons were injured.

Belize, British Honduras, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Manifold fears of a food and water shortage, an outbreak of disease and riots by stricken natives today dominated Belize's efforts to repair the havoc of storm and flood.

Estimates of the dead still ranged between 500 and 1,000 with the probability that when outlying districts are heard from the mortality list will reach the latter figure.

The wholesale burial and cremation of the victims without identification made it likely that their exact numbers never will be known.

Diddier Masson, Pan-American field manager, after a survey of the hurricane area warned that "critical problems still remain to be solved" before the work of reconstructing the city, either on its present site or further inland, (Continued on page three)

F. S. HARRIS DIES AT AYDEN

Prominent Real Estate Owner Passes Suddenly at His Home this Morning

F. S. Harris, extensive owner of town and farm property, died suddenly at his home in Ayden this morning about 8:30 o'clock. Although arrangements had not been completed, it was stated that the funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon with burial in the family burying ground several miles from Ayden.

Mr. Harris was seized by a stomach attack following a visit to one of his farms this morning, and was advised by his physician to go to bed. After the attack had been relieved, he was said to have died almost instantly as a blood clot passed from near his heart to his brain.

Mr. Harris was a native of the Ayden community where he spent the most of his life. While interested in farming, he owned considerable real estate in Ayden and surrounding community.

He is survived by his wife, five sons, T. B., J. H., R. L., Floyd, Robert, and a daughter, all of this county. He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: W. T., and Frank, Ayden; Jim, Vanceboro; Mrs. W. S. Dixon, Black Jack, and Mrs. Sam Hardy, of Venters Cross Roads.

TELLS ABOUT BANK DEALINGS

Miss Ruth Brown Cross-Examined in Wallace Davis Trial At Asheville.

Asheville, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Wallace B. Davis and William D. Harris, officers of the Central Securities Company of Asheville, Inc., were said today by Miss Ruth Brown, a prosecution witness in their trial on a charge of using the mails to defraud, to have been specifically authorized by the company's board of directors to deposit cash with a trustee as collateral for bonds issued and sold.

Miss Brown was bookkeeper for the Central Securities Company which failed last fall. The statement was brought under cross-examination.

Witnesses for the government earlier in the trial testified they bought Central Securities Company bonds under representation that they were secured by guaranteed first mortgages whereas it later developed the greater portion of the collateral behind them was cash deposited with the Central Bank & Trust Company of Asheville.

The bank failed November 19, 1930, carrying down with it the securities company as well as a score of other financial institutions in this section.

Davis was president of the bank and of the securities company, while Harris was vice-president of the securities company.

Typhoid Claims Five Lives At Cleveland, Ohio

Cleveland, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Entrances were guarded at the state hospital here today as a corps of doctors and nurses fought to overcome an epidemic of typhoid fever that has taken five lives and stricken 126 inmates.

Eighteen registered nurses were rushed from other state institutions to aid the overworked staff of 150 doctors and nurses in preventing the spread of the contagion among the 2,350 patients, committed as insane.

Texas Legislators Deliver Counter-Attack On Louisiana's Cotton Prohibition Plan

Austin, Texas, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Texas legislators rallied in a counter-attack against Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana today for insisting that Texas adopt his scheme for cotton prohibition in 1932.

Representative T. H. McGregory of Austin denounced him on the floor of the House of Representatives as "having no regard for truth" and as "unfit to hold any office of high public trust."

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—A point or parliamentary procedure today balked the House of the special session of the South Carolina General Assembly in its effort to consider a bill prohibiting the planting of cotton in 1932.

When the measure was reached on the calendar, Rep. W. M. Manning, Sumter, raised the point of order that printed copies of the bill had not been on desks of members for 24 hours. He was sustained by Speaker John K. Hamblin who ruled that the bill cannot come up for consideration until tomorrow.

The Senate refused, by a vote of 27 to 15, to strike out the enacting words of the cotton prohibition bill.

Brought to the floor under suspension of the rule which forces each measure to lie on the desks 24 hours, the Senate made quick work of the effort of Senator Branley Harvey, of Beaufort, to kill the bill.

The vote was hailed by proponents of the "cotton holiday plan" as a victory and was said to indicate an easy passage of the bill.

The "no cotton in 1932" plan already has been adopted by the Louisiana Legislature in special session to become operative if approved by states producing three-fourths of the crop. Texas, as producer of one-third, holds the balance of the power.

South Carolina's Legislature, in special session for the first time in 17 years, received favorable committee reports on the plan shortly after convening yesterday in both houses. Governor Ibra C. Blackwood had issued an appeal for its passage there.

House action in Texas on the cotton proposals started yesterday with the body sitting as a committee of the whole. The measure Governor Ross Sterling has approved to restrict cotton planting by individual farmers to one-third of the cultivated area of each was reported to have strong support. WOMAN SAYS HER HUSBAND STILL ALIVE

Mrs. Collings Admits Illogical Story Before District Attorney Blue in N. Y.

Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 15.—(AP)—District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards extended an offer of immunity today to the younger of the two "pirates" Mrs. Benjamin Collings says threw her husband into Long Island Sound, if the youth would come forward and give information concerning the elder of the pair.

Patchogue, N. Y., Sept. 15.—(AP)—District Attorney Alexander Blue announced today that Mrs. Benjamin Collings of Stamford, Conn., whose husband disappeared from their cabin cruiser in Long Island sound last week had told him she believed Collings still alive.

Blue questioned Mrs. Collings at length yesterday after telling her he did not believe her story of two men boarding the cruiser, tying her hands and throwing him overboard and then abducting her.

Today he said that during his examination she admitted her story was "illogical" although she insisted it was true.

He said he asked her if she did not believe her husband still alive and she replied she did. He asked then on what she based this belief and she said that it was just a conviction without any reason to back it up.

Blue issued the following formal statement concerning his examination of Mrs. Collings:

"At the present time it is impossible to prove or disprove what she says. Whether Mr. Collings is alive or dead no one can say with absolute certainty. Until his body is found, if dead, certain material facts as told by Mrs. Collings cannot be checked. While Mrs. Collings was apparently sincere in her statements, nevertheless her story is so improbable as to be unbelievable yet she may be telling the truth. I asked Mrs. Collings what college she attended. She told me she was a graduate of Smith college. I asked her if she had studied logic and she said yes. Then I asked, 'do you think your story is logical?' She immediately replied 'it is highly illogical.'"

"Upon my inquiry if she didn't believe that her husband was alive she said she did but could give no definite reason for her belief. Another peculiar angle of the case is Mrs. Collings' story that she was taken in a canoe with two men, the canoe being loaded with blankets and that she sat on the blankets in the middle of the canoe. Any one familiar with water experience knows that a canoe is the most treacherous of craft and it hardly seems possible that the act she claims took place in the canoe could have occurred without upsetting it. However, I have made arrangements to search the waters of the sound in the vicinity of where Mrs. Collings said that her husband was thrown overboard."

In the soft, deliberate voice which America heard over the radio on Sunday, Gandhi presented to the federal structures committee of the Indian round table conference his demand for home rule and self-determination in India.

Speaking for that teeming mass which he has characterized as "India's dumb millions," he declared that he had come to London in a spirit of co-operation and that he was determined to arrive to the utmost for an agreement.

If at any time he finds that he is not serving a useful purpose, he said he will withdraw from the conference.

At this high point of his career, in what was perhaps the most important speech he has made, he demanded complete self-government for India and granting of all the other conditions enumerated in the Karachi mandate given him by the Nationalists of India.

The rest of the delegates sat in spellbound silence while his frail person who looked like a medieval crusader in his white robes developed his case point by point, raising at times to an eloquence which seemed to surprise even his own adherents.

Gandhi spoke for three-quarters of an hour, concluding with the assertion that "I will withdraw if and when I find that I cannot serve my country or England."

GANDHI PLEADS FOR HOME RULE

Indian Leader Tells Conference of Needs Of India's Dumb Millions.

London, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, talkative and smiling, returned to St. James Place today to state the case of the restless Indian people against the British before the federal structures committee.

He entered the palace through the back way—and in trying to make his way alone through the maze of corridors in the lower part of the building he became lost.

His secretary carried a vacuum bottle filled with goat's milk and a picnic basket containing dates and fruit for his mid-day meal to be taken between sessions of the committee.

In the soft, deliberate voice which America heard over the radio on Sunday, Gandhi presented to the federal structures committee of the Indian round table conference his demand for home rule and self-determination in India.

Speaking for that teeming mass which he has characterized as "India's dumb millions," he declared that he had come to London in a spirit of co-operation and that he was determined to arrive to the utmost for an agreement.

ADAMS WINS IN CIVIL SUIT

Ohio Man Recovers $1,100 Note Suit in Superior Court Monday.

John Quincy Adams, of Columbus, Ohio, was awarded judgment for $1,100 against C. H. James in the civil term of Pitt County Superior court in this city yesterday.

The suit, which was begun with the opening of the one week session of court yesterday, occupied the most of the day.

The suit involved dispute over a note. James claimed offset on the note by reason of the fact that he had sold Adams an invention and never got credit for it.

James filed a counter claim to the suit but was debarred by statute because of the lack of time.

Court continued work today on a calendar containing about forty cases, and it was hoped the majority would be completed by the end of the week.

State Tobacco Crop Reduced By Adverse Weather

Raleigh, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Adverse weather conditions have brought about a three per cent reduction in North Carolina's tobacco crop since August 1, the crop reporting service of the State Department of Agriculture has found.

Heavy rainfalls, the service said yesterday in its report, stimulated the leaf's growth, in July and August but seriously interfered with curing. Excessive rains have also tended to increase disease, the report said. The September forecast of 502,265,000 pounds is 14 per cent less than last year's record crop in this state.

The corn and peanut crops and practically all fruits show a high degree of normalcy, the service reported.

The cotton crop, reported 77 per cent normal, is expected to be approximately 60,000 bales under last year's crop, largely because of reduced acreage.

NO MESSAGE IS RECEIVED

Wilhelm Rody and Two Companions Shrouded in Silence Following Their Reported Passing of Steamer Penland off Cape Race Yesterday; Fuel Believed Exhausted Forcing Them to Land in Some Inaccessible Spot With no Means Of Quick Communication With Outside World.

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Drying hopes were revived today when a large plane was reported flying toward New York over Keene, N. H. but as the hours passed aviation officials agreed that the plane could not have been the ship in which three foreign aviators left Lisbon for America. Had the plane been over Keene been the plane of Wilhelm Rody, it would have reached New York by three o'clock and at 3:30 it had not arrived. Six airports in the New York district which burned their landing lights last night in preparation for welcome of the fliers, decided not to keep lights tonight, as it was considered impossible the fliers would arrive.

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—After an all night vigil airport officials in the metropolitan district relaxed their watchfulness today for the Lisbon-New York fliers due yesterday, convinced that they had come down somewhere along the way.

No word was received during the morning concerning Wilhelm Rody and his two companions who were last reported passing the steamer Penland off Cape Race yesterday afternoon.

Fuel on the ocean plane must have been exhausted early this morning and aviators agreed that if the ship had not been forced down before reaching the shore it must have landed in some inaccessible spot with no means of quick communication with the outer world.

Tempered with fear was the realization that the plane might have come down at some remote place in the maritime provinces of Canada. The fliers took enough fuel by their own estimate, to last 48 hours. That hour was up at 4:30 a. m. (EST) today.

Christian Johanssen, German war flier; Will Rody, 23-year-old owner of the plane, and Fernando Costa Viga, Portuguese sportsman, were sighted at 1:40 p. m. (EST) yesterday by the steamship Penland, about 395 miles from Halifax.

At that time the plane was reported about 2,600 miles of its 3,700 mile flight. To reach New York it had to go 1,100 miles farther. Under favorable conditions the plane could have arrived at 2 a. m. (EST) today.

Weather conditions during the first part of the journey were good. As the fliers approached the western hemisphere, overcast skies and electrical storms forced them. Around Halifax a heavy fog lifted as the night wore on, but it was dark and starless. The plane had no radio.

The mystery of the flight caused no end of trouble and worry for a dozen various officials. None of the metropolitan airports had received word from the fliers, and as a result full staffs were kept on duty at five places.

Field lights were on through the night at Roosevelt Field, which is the best known to European fliers. Preparations for a possible landing were made at Floyd Bennett Field, the municipal airport in Brooklyn; at Newark airport; the Glenn Curtiss airport at North Beach, and at Mitchell field, the Army station on Long Island.

END REVIVAL AT RED OAK

Final Services Held Sunday Night With Forceful Sermon and Song Program.

The meeting which has been in session at Red Oak Christian church came to a close Sunday night. The final sermon, "I'm Not Ashamed of the Gospel of Christ," was delivered in a forceful way and enjoyed by a large crowd.

Text: Romans 1:16.

Paul, called Saul, born in Tarsus, a great educational center, was the author of the text. He was the greatest apostle, well prepared and was sent by God to the greatest educational center of the world—the Gentiles. Paul had an advantage, he was a Jew, a Pharisee, and was taught by Hebrew teachers.

Paul witnessed the persecution of Christians, and was well trained, but he had never heard such a presentation as that of Stephen.

Paul became converted, was filled with fire and zeal for the teaching of Christ, and was made the first missionary. He was persecuted, although he survived and Jesus saved him.

"As a man soweth that shall he also reap."

The greatest church Paul established was at Corinth, here he came in contact with people of Rome and learned of their conditions there he wrote a letter to the Romans.

Why Paul was not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ:

- 1.—Source—Jesus Christ the inspiration.
 - 2.—Simplicity—easily understood.
 - 3.—Requirements—Faith, repentance, confession, baptism, obedience.
 - 4.—Promises—Remission of sins. Gift of the Holy Spirit, eternal life.
 - 5.—Results—A transformed life.
- Sunday Morning
Some Demands of Christianity:
Text: Watch ye, stand fast, in faith, quit ye like men, be strong. Watch your step, life, conscience, attitude, and habits. There is such a thing as a man making himself a slave to a habit; if you want to keep clean, keep out the little things which grow. Watch yet, it's not ones place to turn another out of the church; the church does not have that privilege. Only one will do the separating and that will be God. Good men do not have the wisdom to do the separating. We should be a unit; if we can't get together here, how do we expect to get together in the heavenly home? Storm; my come but if we stand steadfast, nothing can move us.
- Stand fast in faith—if you are watching it will be easier to stand fast. Believe with all your heart that Jesus is the Son of God and hold fast. Jesus is the standard—Truth—stand fast in truth.
- Quit ye like men, demands manliness. If we stand fast it will be easier to quit like men. Shall's estimate of the greatest thing in the world is a young man with a clean character.
- The greatest earthly influence is a pure Christian woman. A right kind of a woman can have a greater influence and help more than anything else. Christianity demands stability of character, this can be done only in love.
- Christianity demands strength or power in carrying on the truth.
- If these demands are carried out the community will be built up and be a more prosperous and a better place in which to live.

Saturday Night
Personal Responsibility. Text: Ezekiel 33.

If you die without Christ you are lost. "The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression; as for the wickedness of the wicked, he shall not fall thereby in the day that he turneth from his wickedness; neither shall the righteous be able to live for his righteousness in the day that he sinneth."

When an individual has been baptised and living in Christ, should he die in serving Christ he will be saved. But if one who claims to be a Christian drifts off into sin and should die he is unsaved. Salvation is promised only to those who obey Christ.

Who is God's watchman? The church is the greatest factor or institution in a community and He has made the church responsible to live and teach the Word. This is each member's duty; if there is a sin or danger of sin approaching, the church should be alert, wide awake and create such a sentiment that Satan will disappear.

If a church member should sin knowingly and willingly and should die in this sin he is lost. Keep the principle of God fresh in mind.

Responsibility is knowing one's duty and responding to it with the whole heart. One's responsibility is measured by:

- 1.—A knowledge of duty: The more familiar we are with the duties, the more we are to do.
- 2.—Ability: Every one does not have the same mental ability, but it is our business to train the mind.
- 3.—Opportunity: There are opportunity times when one can do a thing better than at another time.
- 4.—Seriousness of the case.

Woman Evangelist Relates How Love Came Into Her Life

Los Angeles, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Between acts of a sacred opera entitled "The Iron Furnace," Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, 38-year-old evangelist, last night related how love had come into her heart.

Appearing in the center of the stage of Angelus Temple at the end of the first act, and just after her new husband, David Hutton, 30 year old choir singer, had been given an ovation as he retired after enacting the role of a pharaoh, the evangelist said:

"You have no idea how lonesome I have been. I have been alone all of my life but four years, my previous married life having consisted of that length of time. But I'm this being lonesome now. I have seen young couples whom I have married at the temple, as they kissed each other, and I've stood and wistfully watched.

"I used to watch Rolfe (her son) and his bride and Roberta (her daughter) and her sweetheart as they came in from evening strolls, excitedly talking about the moon, and they would grab me and say 'Isn't the moon wonderful, mother?'"

"But I couldn't find anything wonderful in the moon.

"I have been seeing myself home every night with a trip hammer beating in my throat. I've stood while loving young couples in my congregation would start for home saying 'goodnight, sister, and I would force myself to smile a cheery goodnight. Then I would go home and kiss my own hand and tell myself, 'goodnight sister.'"

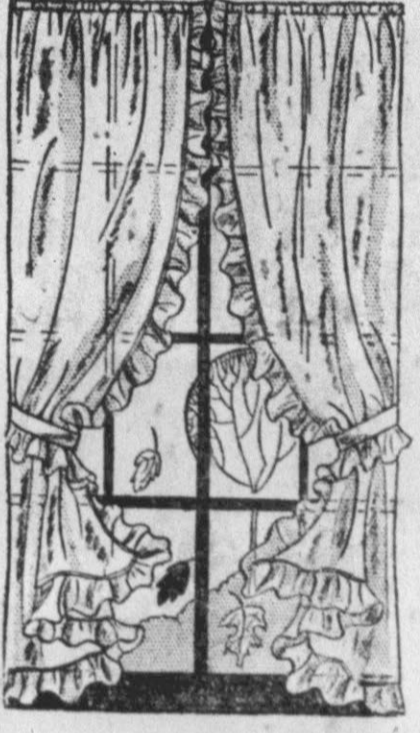

"But lonesomeness is gone and I'm singing that song, 'It's All Different Now.'"

Two amendments proposed for this measure met defeat yesterday. One would have restricted planting to 50 per cent and the other to 25 per cent of the cultivated area. Cotton men said the one-third restricted plan would mean a cut in cotton acreage in Texas of between 50 and 60 per cent.

The food supply is running short, he said, and the lack of drinking water is serious. The danger of disease could not be underestimated in his opinion and the possibility of trouble among the laboring classes was a grave factor in the work of relief.

"The blazing sun has been beating down mercilessly," he said, "bringing additional suffering to the injured as they lie in rows on the floors of roofless homes. Masses of sea fish imbedded in pools of liquid mud piled up by the tidal wave are decomposing and the air at times is unbearable.

"The remaining population is still dumfounded by the enormity of the catastrophe for it had been the belief for generations that no hurricane would ever strike Belize. The native population, awe stricken, goes about relief work in a trance, still unable to grasp the truth of the enormity of the horrible tragedy."

Nevertheless, rehabilitation measures are proceeding under the direction of British authorities and with the help of United States marines and sailors.

The Salvation Army has taken over operation of soup kitchens to feed the hungry. Doctors have commandeered 10,000 gallons of water stored on a nearby key. Additional food and medical supplies are arriving by ship and plane. Disposal of the dead and relief for the injured goes steadily forward.

About 5,000 cases of whiskey, scattered about the force of the storm, have been collected by warehouse agents and stacked on the main streets awaiting new storage facilities.

Curses At Church Lands In Jail

Monroe, Sept. 15.—(AP)—A string of profanity offered by Sam Medin, Union county farmer, during services at the Union Grove Primitive Baptist church, landed Medin in jail where he is unable to make $1,000 bond.

Elder C. H. White, pastor of Wadesboro, was in the middle of his sermon, congregation members said, when Medin arose and began cursing.

The services ended in confusion, they said, as women fainted while male members ejected Medin with difficulty.

Church goes swift out warrants and the disturber was arrested a short time later.

Asheboro, N. C.—(AP)—Funeral services were conducted here for Mrs. M. C. Spoon, 62, who died of injuries sustained in an auto wreck two weeks ago.

Fifteen Ill From Poisoning

Winston-Salem, N. C.—Fifteen people were reported suffering from ptomaine poisoning after a dinner at Mt. Zion church in Carroll county, Virginia. Two are not expected to live. Five members of Lear Todd's family, four Fowlers and three Meltons are the victims. All except one ate goat meat served at the meal.

ABOUT TOWN

The latest fad of the day is the investigation started by the government and adopted by practically every state and organization of the country.

Probably the state most directly in the investigation limelight at this time is New York. The bug has bitten New York officialdom in a way that may mean the probe of every questionable figure of the city and state before the fad subsides.

Mayor Jimmy Walker, who went to Europe sometime ago to recover his health, will return to New York this week. No sooner will he step from the boat than he will be summoned before a committee to determine why he went to Europe and why he should have traveled with a former convict.

Probably the mayor will be able to offer satisfactory explanation for his conduct as far as he and the convict are concerned, but whether he will satisfy the committee's curiosity remains to be seen.

Investigations and recommendations are becoming ludicrous, and if the government should find a way to investigate some of the investigators and find out what it is all about the public assuredly would feel relieved.

What the nation needs now is not investigations, but equanimity, equilibrium and poise as it attempts to recover from the economic quagmire into which it has slumped the last two years, and it will never be able to accomplish this until investigators stop investigating and get down to honest-to-goodness work.

Greenville's new stockyards, erected by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad in co-operation with the County Farm Department, were christened with the first sale of hogs last week.

An entire carload of hogs was shipped from the yards, netting the growers in the neighborhood of $500.

The stockyards should speed up the handling of such shipments in the future in that the products are sold and paid for as they are presented by the planters. This eliminates the old plan of shipping to northern markets and having to wait several days for pay.

The raising of hogs has increased to no little extent in Pitt county the last two or three years, and with the low prices received for cotton and tobacco it is believed the next year will see a still more pronounced increase.

The industry, in the opinion of the growers, yields a better profit than other commodities in view of the decreased price for corn. The hogs may be fed much more economically than in past years, and while market prices are not as high for the meat, they will enable the growers to emerge at the end of the year with a fair profit, it was stated.

The monthly meeting of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion will be held tonight, and all members have been urged to attend and take part. This will be the last meeting of the year and will see the retirement of the administration of Commander J. C. Elliott, who will be succeeded by C. C. Martin of Ayden, next month.

Commander Elliott, in a letter to the membership yesterday, expressed his appreciation of the splendid spirit of co-operation accorded him during the year, and attributed most of the success of the organization to this one thing.

The post has made considerable progress in the past despite the unparalleled economic period through which the world has been passing the last two years, and this speaks great things for the work of the membership.

That the future is as bright for the Legion as any single period of the past is not to be doubted and it is the hope of every member that there will be a renaissance of old time activities in the future as the boys attempt to perpetuate some of their achievements.

BIG FIVE IN NEED OF MORE GOOD PLAYERS

By WHITNEY THARIN (Associated Press Staff Writer)
Charlotte, Sept. 15.—(AP)—If "want ads" were productive of football players classified sections of North Carolina newspapers would probably carry items like these:
"Wanted—Good passer-punter, fullback preferred. Apply Chuck Collins, head coach, University of North Carolina."
"Wanted—Eleven men as good as the rest of the line now on the campus to be used solely as reserves. Wire coach Pat Miller, Wake Forest College."
"Wanted—One good punter who knows how to play the backfield. See coaches Younger and Tilson, Davidson College."
"Wanted—A couple of good guards who are also tough. Communicate with coach Clipper Smith, N. C. State College."
"Wanted—Mathematician who can figure out Duke University's "working combination." Write coach Wallace Wade, Durham, N. C."

If those "wants" could be answered satisfactorily, there would be a great deal of rejoicing on "Big Five" practice grounds in this state.

If Chapel Hill reports are correct, Johnny Branch is about the only candidate who is able to boot a football to suit Coach Collins—and Branch is not yet certain he will be eligible to play because of scholastic difficulties.

The little quarterback is also something of a passer, but not quite up to the piskin tossing to which the Tar Heels are accustomed. Chandler, a halfback, is also an adept passer but not up to the North Carolina par.

The fullback job, however, is causing Collins more work at present than any other position, with Hanes Lassiter, a reserve, probably his best bet although Chandler is being used in this position in some of the scrimmages.

Wake Forest can probably put eleven men on the field who will be able to stack up with any eleven in the state but in this day of substitutions, it takes more than eleven men to win a football game. If the Demon Deacons had a set of reserves as good as their potential first team strength, the Wake Forest team would be more than a threat.

Davidson has a good punter in Barrier, a linesman, but the Wildcat coaches are seeking a backfield man to do the kicking. Mills, McQueen, Bradshaw and West are kickers of fair ability but unless they show marked improvement, Barrier is destined to get off the punts. Bradshaw sprained an ankle working out yesterday but the injury is not expected to keep him out of the Elon game Saturday.

N. C. State is having hard luck with its guards. The Wolfpack had six men out for the two positions and two of them have sustained injuries which probably will keep them out of the opening game against Davidson Sept. 26.

Gilder Matlack, one of the two lettermen, is in the hospital for observation for appendix trouble that resulted from an operation last spring. Ridenhour sustained a dislocated shoulder in early practice. Lee Fort, the other letter guard, broke a wrist in spring training and although it has healed he is having to watch it carefully.

Buchanan of Louisville, Ky., a sophomore; Tull of Charlotte, and Thomason of Salisbury, are other guard candidates with Buchanan having the inside track for the job.

Wallace Wade is conducting a search for Duke's clicking combination. So far he has failed to find it although the men have been shifted almost indiscriminately from one job to another.

His work was aided somewhat by the return to uniform of Glenn Lemon and John Daugherty, two injured players. A backfield composed of Brewer, Mason, Mulein and Brownlee is receiving considerable attention at the Durham school with the men being shifted about in the various back positions.

CARDS TAKE DOUBLE BILL FROM PHILS

By GAYLE TALBOT Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer)
If ever a club reached the absolute peak of strength at exactly the right time, it is the St. Louis Cardinals.
Right now, with the world series a fortnight away, Gabby Street's nine appears just to be realizing its fullest power. The Red Birds look more impressive every day.
In sweeping ten of their last 11 games, the National League Kings have been hitting at their greatest clip of the year, fairly murdering any kind of pitching sent against them, and their own mound staff virtually has been unbeatle.

Only one Card curver has failed to go the route in eleven starts and they have registered four shutouts, two of them by Sylvester Johnson. Evidently remembering too well what happened to his club in the 1930 series, when a series of timely wallpops by Jimmy Foss, Al Simmons, et al, of the Athletics upset all his strategy, Street has his men swinging from their heels in preparation for the coming classic.

They were swinging yesterday, at least, as they took their second doubleheader from the Phils in 2 days by scores of 13 to 5 and 10 to 3. Of the 32 hits collected by the Birds, eleven were of the extra base variety, including a couple of home runs and three doubles by Chick Hafey.

Jim Bottomley, the rejuvenated first baseman, contributed two doubles and three singles to the day's attack.

Every regular, outside of the battery, got at least one hit in both games.
The leaders were credited with the day's only victories in the National League, rain causing postponement of a scheduled tilt between Brooklyn and Pittsburgh.
The New York Yankees gave the day's feature exhibition in the American when they found four hits of Vic Sorrell sufficient for a 2 to 1 triumph over Detroit.
Cleveland and Philadelphia broke even. Willis Hudlin setting the champions down 6 to 2 in the first and Waite Hoyt, with some last-inning help from Earnshaw, beating the Indians 9 to 7 in the nightcap.
Washington maintained its two-game lead over the third place Yankees by setting down the St. Louis Browns.
The Boston Red Sox rallied to score ten runs in their last two times at bat and beat the Chicago White Sox 12 to 8.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: Fourth, Algerias' ultimatum that his son, Nelson, must leave home follows Nelson's return with his bride, their former maid. He is angry because the boy took with him some of Fourth's money. Sam Sherrill, Fourth's stepdaughter, defends Nelson and insists the couple stay. She has the advantage, since she owns the stable in which the family has lived since Fourth misinvested the family fortune. Fourth walks out, hinting at suicide. Nelson congratulates Sam on her engagement to Peak Abbott, multi-millionaire owner of the Express where Sam works. She is not happy about the engagement, for she really loves Freddy Munson. But she has accepted Peak through loyalty to the family's need of money and social standing. The next morning Fourth comes back, thoroughly rained on, saying "I think I'm dying."

Chapter 15

A SWALLOWED CANARY

"Really?" Sam raised her eyebrows. "How innocent."

"Joan!" Fourth turned. "Please don't be cruel. I—I've been in hell!"

"You look it." Joan could not resist the temptation to smile, and at the same time relent. "I'll see if I can't stir up some breakfast for you. You haven't had any, I suppose?"

"Breakfast?" He made a gesture which implied that breakfast had been furthest from his thoughts. "I don't think I want any."

Fifteen minutes later he was wrapped in his bathrobe and was eating a hearty meal with every appearance of enjoyment. He looked up at Sam and said earnestly: "Committing suicide, isn't an easy thing, Joan?"

"Where did you spend the night? In the garage?"

"He shuddered. "Some of the time I was in the garage. Some of the time I wandered. I wonder where I'll be wandering tonight."

"Sam pointed a stern finger. "Look here, Fourth, don't you think that we've had about enough of this foolishness? I have an idea that you'd better make up your mind to stay here and be agreeable, or get out."

"He sighed: "Then I shall have to get out. It is obvious that I am not wanted here."

"That's nonsense," Sam was contemptuous. "It's entirely up to you whether or not you stay here, and personally I think you'd better. It might be more pleasant than walking the streets."

"Perhaps you're right," Fourth shivered reminiscently. "At any rate, Joan, I promise to give the matter careful consideration."

"From that time, life in the stable went on more or less smoothly. Fourth, to be sure, utterly refused to speak a single word to his new daughter-in-law, and he avoided her as carefully as possible. Of his son, however, he gradually became more tolerant, and it seemed possible that eventually there might be a complete reconciliation.

Nelson, as he had anticipated, had difficulty in finding a job, and it was Peak who gave him something to do. Peak apologized to Sam for the nature of the work and for the small salary.

Sam waved the apologies away. "The salary doesn't matter," she said. "He and Martha can live at the stable as long as it is necessary."

"How about Fourth? Doesn't he make things difficult?"

"He did at first, but he's calming down now. I think he has something else on his mind," Sam frowned. "To tell you the truth, Peak, I'm just a bit worried about that something else."

"I mean that he's fussing about with that darn invention of his again. Every company in the country has told him that it is no good for commercial use, but they can't convince Fourth."

"Why be worried?" Peak laughed. "It may take his mind off Nelson, and it can't do any harm, anyhow."

"That's just what I'm worried about. I'm afraid it may do harm." She hesitated. "You see, Peak, Fourth has a widow. Her name is Eugenie Frye."

"What do you mean—has a widow?"

"Just what I say. She's in love with him—that's obvious. She has a lot of money, too."

"Peak whistled. "Do you really mean it? What's his widow like?"

"Sam smiled. "Oh, she's—she's—"

"I see. You mean you're afraid that Fourth might marry her?"

"Marry her?" Sam's eyes opened wide in astonishment. "I never thought of that! That would be awful. But, no, Fourth wouldn't marry her, ever. I know him too well to think that."

"Then, why's everything all about?" Peak was frankly puzzled.

"His invention," Sam explained patiently. "Don't you see, Peak? I'm afraid he might get money from her for his invention. He was telling her about it the other night, and I'm sure that was what was in his head. He hopes she'll back him financially, and she might be just fool enough to do it."

"I see." Peak considered the idea for a time, but then he smiled and shook his head. "I don't think there's any need for anxiety. These rich widows are usually wise birds, and since you say that the invention is no good—"

"I didn't say that—that's just

YOUNG WOMAN GOES TO JAIL 20 DAYS HERE

Miss Margaret Scott, of Norfolk, described as young and pretty, was fined $50 and cost in a special hearing before Judge W. L. Wheeler here this morning. She was unable to pay the fine and accepted the solvent debtor's oath requiring twenty days in jail.

The young woman was arrested Sunday night by a highway patrolman and charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of whiskey. She was at first also charged with stealing the car which she was driving, but it was discovered that she had taken the car through mistake, thinking it one borrowed from a friend, and this charge was dropped.

STATE FAIR BOOSTERS COMING HERE SEPT. 24

Boosters of the North Carolina State Fair are scheduled to arrive in Greenville Sept. 24 at 9:45, according to information received today.

The booster party is composed of approximately one hundred people and the State College band. The band will give a brief concert in the business district, and the boosters will distribute information dealing with the Fair.

TRUCK STOLEN HERE FOUND AT NEW BERN

The automobile delivery truck belonging to the Home Furniture Store, Inc., stolen the latter part of last week, was found abandoned in New Bern yesterday, according to information received here today.

The truck was minus a front and spare wheel. Authorities had not been able to apprehend the thief.

BUILD UP TO PREVENT PAINS

HOW a Missouri woman was benefited by taking Cardui is described below by Mrs. Joe Schumer, of Cape Girardeau: "I suffered with irregularity. For weeks at a time I was so weak I could not work. I had aches in my back and head and legs—I would get dizzy and feel faint. I had read about Cardui, so I got some and took it. I improved a great deal. After I had taken four bottles, I felt like a different person."

BABY ELEPHANT, HORSE AND GREAT DANE DOG BECOME CIRCUS PALS

If you have the pleasure of seeing the Barnett Bros. Circus this season, you will no doubt be surprised to see three great unusual pals that are constantly together from morning until night. Prince, a Canadian Great Dane dog, who has won many cups and ribbons at various dog shows throughout the Dominion of Canada, and Spookie, a full grown horse, standing 34 inches in height and just one inch taller than his pal, Prince. Junie, the baby elephant, and his pals present a unique and awe-inspiring display of almost human intelligence, consisting of various routines of dances, drills, poses, and other difficult execution rarely ever accomplished by animals.

ASTROLOGER IN PROTEST

New York—Rises an astrologer in protest. Hal Oliver wishes to debate for charity against John Mulholland, vice-president of the Society of American Magicians. The society offered to aid the police in ridding the city of mediums. Fortune tellers and astrologers, Oliver would prove that astrology is a science.

SLIGHTLY BUSY

Madrid—Five p. m. is such a terribly early hour that seldom is a quorum ready when Congress is called to order. What with late night sessions, day committee hearings, three hour lunches and an hour for coffee, it takes a read hustling Congressman to be on time.

RED TORCH PARADE TONIGHT AT 7 O'CLOCK

Members of the Independent Order of Red Men will stage a "red torch parade" here tonight at 7:00 o'clock as part of the district celebration to be held at the high school auditorium.

The paraders will be dressed in Indian costumes and carry torches and a band will furnish music for the occasion.

The pageant will pass through the principal business district and everybody was asked to be on the lookout for it.

Prominent officials of the organization will attend the meeting and the program contains numbers of speeches by important members from different parts of the country.

SINGING CONTEST TO BE CONDUCTED HERE ON FRIDAY, SEPT. 25th

A singing contest, in which scores of prominent colored singers will participate, will be staged at one of the local tobacco warehouses Friday night, September 25.

The contest will be conducted by white people and will be one of the most unique of its kind ever held in this section in that it will bring to the city representatives from college musical organizations as well as gifted singers from surrounding towns and cities.

One of the outstanding musical organizations will be a quartette from Goldsboro which sings over the radio from Raleigh every Sunday morning. These singers have won favorable recognition by their matchless interpretations, and will prove one of the highlights of the contest.

It was stated that awards would be made to the best groups of singers who will be selected by a specially appointed committee.

More detailed plans concerning the event will be announced next week, it was stated this morning.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 7 to 9 points in response to the relatively firm Liverpool cables.

There was some southern selling here as well as further liquidation brought in by the decline of yesterday, but the offerings were comparatively light and after a quiet opening, business became slightly more active. The advance extended to 6.87 for December and 7.17 for March or about 10 to 12 points net higher with the market steady at the end of the first half hour.

Wall Street interests were credited with some buying this morning, while there was also buying by western and continental sources. Liverpool cables reported local and continental buying together with covering at that market but said sales of cotton cloths and yarns were below production.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Enlarged buying in which mills took an active part led to material upturns at times in wheat prices today. Confirmation that breadstuffs crops in western Europe were seriously damaged had a stimulating effect. Furthermore, primary receipts of domestic wheat showed a decided falling off, amounting to only 1,430,000 bushels today, compared with 5,441,000 a week ago.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The securities markets brightened a little today, but were still rather sticky.

Share prices were inclined to rally a little at times, but met fresh selling on advances, and there were conspicuous isolated weak spots, but there was no re-appearance of large-scale selling.

In bonds, the German issues again lacked support, although there have been no developments to indicate that there has been any modification of the firm intention of maintaining the service on this issue.

American Telephone was a weak feature of the share market, dropping more than 4 points to the lowest price in four years, reflecting the Western Electric dividend omission.

Westinghouse Electric, on which dividend action is due tomorrow, lost two points, as did Corn Products, Safeway Stores and a few others. Rails were again weak spot, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Atchafalpa declining 3 to 5 points to new lows.

The weekly consolidated statement of Federal Reserve member banks in leading cities showed a gain of $36,000,000 in holdings of securities other than government securities, which was in encouraging contrast to the wholesale liquidation of bank holdings of bonds about a year ago.

Commodities continue to record new lows here and there, one, a record smelter quoting copper today at 71-4 cents a pound, off 1-4 of a cent and the lowest on record.

Jest Proves Fatal For Wounded Man

San Francisco, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Up until Leo V. Dowling, who slashed his wrists and throat a few days ago, received a large horseshoe of flowers—the kind frequently seen at funerals—doctors said he had an even chance for recovery.

"Flowers for you, Mr. Dowling," said the hospital nurse as she brought in the box. Dowling, smiling and, opening the card which accompanied them, read:

"Better luck next time."

He gasped and fell back. A few hours later he died.

The jest at death will be investigated at an inquest with a view to locating the sender of the flowers, authorities said they knew the shop from which the flowers were sent.

WILL PROBE KANE DEATH

Coroner To Decide Whether Woman's Death Was Accidental or Homicidal.

Mampton, Va., Sept. 15.—(AP)—A coroner's jury will reconvene late today to determine whether the drowning of Mrs. Jenny Graham Kane was accidental or was homicidal and at the hands of her husband, Prof. Eliza Kent Kane, of the University of Tennessee.

Seven fishermen, who were taking claims near Grandview Beach, where Mrs. Kane was drowned last Friday testified at the hearing held behind closed doors yesterday.

They were called to repeat information they gave to officers which led to the arrest of Professor Kane at the home of his wife's parents shortly after her funeral Sunday afternoon.

Coroner George K. Vanderslice said today that a letter expected to have important bearing on the case had not been obtained but that he hoped to present it to the jury this afternoon.

He would not discuss the nature of the letter nor go into the case except to say he was convinced the woman was drowned and the point to be determined was whether or not it was accidental.

Mr. Kane has declined to discuss the case with reporters but officers said he denied murdering his wife and claimed she struck her head while diving and that he had taken her to a hospital after vain efforts to revive her on the beach.

Professor Kane is a son of Dr. Evan O'Neill Kane, Kane, Pa., physician who several years ago operated on himself for appendicitis with the aid of mirrors, and grandson of an Arctic explorer.

He met his wife while a student at Roanoke College, Salem, Va. Mrs. Kane, formerly Miss Jenny Graham, was an accomplished musician, and assisted in arranging entertainments at the college in which he participated.

After leaving Roanoke college he studied at Harvard and in Spain and Mexico, later returning to his Alma Mater to teach and going from there to the University of North Carolina and then, in 1929 to the University of Tennessee. He

Continue Search For Negro Slayer

Lockhart, S. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—National guardsmen, state constables and county officers combed Union county today for Wade Moore, negro farm hand, charged with slaying Aubrey Wilburn, 39-year-old cotton plantation overseer.

Wilburn was shot in the back with a load of buckshot yesterday at the Foster plantation, near here. There were no eye-witnesses, but Ranus Ammons, 60, who lived with Wilburn, quoted the dying man as saying Moore "picked up my gun and shot me with it as I started to run."

Augmented by state constables, Sheriff Jack Greer, of Union county, his deputies and officers from nearby counties and aided by bloodhounds, brought from Asheville, the force of guardsmen yesterday and last night searched the Broad river swamps for the fugitive.
