Missing Pacific Fliers Safe

MOYLE-ALLEN ARE LOCATED

Tokyo - To - Seattle Fliers Reported Discovered in Kamchatka District.

Seattle, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A week after they had been given up as lost on their non-stop flight...

The coast guard station here received a message from the naval radio on St. Paul island...

The message was signed "Don," he said, and told Miss Bresson the fliers were safe on the island...

Moyle's message read: "Landed on uninhabited island. Everything all right. Have Frank put publicity man on job. Will be in Seattle September 22."

The Buriat's position was not given in the message intercepted by St. Paul island, but it was assumed she was off Kamchatka or the Kuriles.

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A telegram signed "Don" and believed to have been from Don Moyle...

Along with the telegram, which was addressed to Frances Bresson, Arlington, Calif., came a report from Rear Admiral E. H. Campbell...

The report came through the St. Paul island navy radio station and was received from the steamer Buriat.

The message to Frances Bresson read: "Landed on uninhabited island. Everything all right. Will be in Seattle September 22. Love, Don."

Samarand Girls Leave 'Death Row'

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Warden H. H. Honeycutt of State's Prison announced today that the last six of the Samarand girls, 12 of whom were originally confined on death row at State's Prison, have been transferred to the regular women's quarters.

As the 12 were convicted of attempting arson in connection with fires which destroyed two buildings at Samarand, state institution for delinquent girls, they were put in death row cells, the only fireproof section of the prison.

From time to time the girls were removed by ones or twos to the regular quarters until today only six were left who took their places in the regular women's quarters and began to learn to sew and make prison uniforms.

While the girls were being kept on death row electrocutions were held but on each occasion Warden Honeycutt removed them to another part of the prison for several hours so they would avoid the experience of hearing a man go to his death.

WOMANSOUGHT IN KANE CASE

Counsel for Professor Attempts to Obtain His Release in Wife's Death

Hampton, Va., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Professor Elisha Kent Kane's counsel today planned to obtain his release from jail while Elizabeth county authorities continued to search for a letter involving an unnamed New York woman.

Coroner George V. Vanderveer said that so far no letter had been found which indicated that the drowning of Mrs. Janet Graham Kane, wife of the University of Tennessee professor was homicidal.

He added, however: "It looks more like homicide as we get deeper into the case. Professor Kane has been anxious about a letter which he thought might be among those we have."

Another indication that the net of circumstantial evidence may be drawing more closely around the former U. of North Carolina professor, whose wife was drowned while bathing with him off a remote section of Grand View beach last Friday, was seen in the statement of commonwealth's attorney, Roland Coker, that the testimony heard yesterday was "not so favorable" to the accused as that which had preceded it.

Dr. Vanderveer announced that "loose ends of testimony were to be patched together" when the inquest is resumed this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Dr. Evan O'Neill Kane, prominent Pennsylvania physician, and E. K. Kane Jr., Bradford, Pa., attorney, father and cousin of the accused, were among those who attended the hearing yesterday.

It was after conferring with them that Percy Carmel, defense attorney, said that unless Professor Kane is released immediately after the inquest is over an application for his release on bail would be made to the county circuit court.

Sessions of the inquest so far have been behind closed doors with the nature of testimony closely guarded. Yesterday's formal hearing was preceded by one of the coroner's office at which members of the family of Mrs. Kane were questioned. Nine witnesses, including several fishermen claiming to have been eye witnesses to the drowning, were questioned at the inquest.

EPISCOPAL MEET OPENS

Fiftieth Triennial Convention Called to Order at Denver Today

(From the National News Bureau) of the Episcopal Church) In St. John's Cathedral, Denver, Colorado, at 11 o'clock this morning, the Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry, D. D., presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, delivered an address in which he struck the keynote of the Fiftieth General Convention of the Episcopal Church, convening in Denver today.

The convention was inaugurated at 10 a. m. at a great service in the Denver Auditorium, the interior of which is being made over into a church with an altar where one hundred communicants may receive the Holy Communion at one time. Preceded by a procession of vested

LEGION TO AID PITT JOBLESS

To Join General Conference On Unemployment to Be Held Here Soon

A decision to cooperate with other civic organizations of the county to relieve unemployment in Pitt county was reached at the regular monthly meeting of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion at the Rotary club last night.

The post will meet with the other clubs sometime in the near future, although the definite date of the general meeting was not announced. Complete plans for improving the employment situation will be considered at the general session, and Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of Pitt County Health Department, who explained the movement to the Legion, said they hoped to accomplish splendid results.

J. S. Elliott presided over the meeting, the usual supper was served, and a delightful musical program was rendered by Misses Agnes and Carolyn Fulfillove, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Ray Tyson, Jr.

Appointment of a committee to prepare for Armistice Day was deferred until the next meeting. Although the arrangements were not discussed at any length, hope was expressed that the celebration this year would be as great as any previous year.

The Legion is attempting to increase interest in the use of American flags by business houses of the city, and the sale of several was announced last night. The flags are used in the front of stores and business houses in the celebration of special occasions, and especially during observance of Armistice Day.

safe landing when flames enveloped the ship and it dived several hundred feet, struck the water and sank. The passengers were: Kirk Herre, of the Seattle Star, Seattle. W. H. Bissell, San Francisco. F. I. Shehan, San Francisco. The craft carried a big consignment of mail, the value of which was unknown to airport officials.

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A graphic story of the hurricane that swept Belize, Honduras, last Thursday was told by Eddie E. Johnston, of New Orleans, Belize agent of the Munson Line, who arrived here last night aboard the steamer Sinaola from the stricken city.

"I was in the office of my company on the Belize waterfront last Thursday when the storm broke about 2 P. M., he said. "The first blow lasted about an hour and half and unroofed a number of houses and raised some buildings, but was nothing like as severe as the forecasts had indicated. When the wind subsided, I went to the home of a friend a short distance away and on the way ran into a pilot, who warned that the real hurricane was yet to break.

"I hurried back to lock up my office and found on reaching the waterfront that a veritable tidal wave was coming in. By the time I got back to my friend's home the water was waist deep in the streets. Then the second blow set in. It kept up until about six P. M., and did considerable damage to the house I was in. The wind literally picked up the water and carried it everywhere, and heavy iron roofing flew about in the street as if it was paper. Then the water subsided, and we could hear the wind demolishing buildings on all sides of us.

CIRCUS SHOWS IN CITY TODAY

Barnett Bros. Will Give Performances Both Afternoon and Night

It is circus day in Greenville and hundreds of kiddies and grown-ups alike tumbled from their beds early this morning to witness the arrival of Barnett Bros. Circus, described as the greatest motorized circus on earth.

The circus will give two performances here today—the first during the afternoon and the last tonight at 8 o'clock. Doors for the final performance will swing open at 7 o'clock giving everybody ample opportunity to obtain tickets and seats and view the menagerie before the beginning of the big show at 8 o'clock.

The circus arrived this morning about 7 o'clock, coming from New Bern, where it played to two packed houses yesterday. Immediately on arrival at the show grounds on Dickinson and Washington avenues in the western section of the city, scores of laborers began erection of tents and placement of paraphernalia in preparation for the opening.

A parade passed over the principal streets of the city about the noon hour. Four white and a colored band provided music for the colorful spectacle. A girls' bugle corps, clowns on stilts, one on a mule and scores of gaily decorated circus trucks were in the parade.

Barnett Bros. are exhibiting under practically new tents with every convenience provided for the comfort of the hundreds of people expected to witness the two performances here.

Among the attractions is the Coriell family of acrobats, featured by Verne Coriell, who slides on a wire from the top of the tent on her head. Then there are the Rogers Quadet troupe of aerialists, four performing elephants and scores of other feature acts.

The circus is opened with Miss Universe, a gorgeous spectacle in which 150 people and animals participate. During the season, O. C. Coleman killed a six footer; Jake Reeves killed one six feet, two inches long; Alvin Hibbard and Eura Peterson have dispatched six and five footers. Now James Webb has displayed the latest one. It weighs 50 pounds.

PROTESTS CUT IN FLEET PAY

Britain's Atlantic Fleet Cancels Fall Maneuvers After Slash in Salaries

London, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Details of the dissatisfaction in Great Britain's Atlantic fleet over slashes of pay, causing the cancellation of autumn maneuvers in the North Sea, were revealed today in dispatches from naval bases.

The protests were reported to be confined chiefly to the junior rating: on 16 destroyers, four submarines and two depot ships, several thousand men being involved. They were represented as believing that they were victims of unequal sacrifice in that their wages were being kept more than any other branch of the navy, army and air force.

The nearest approach to insubordination, according to the Daily Mail, occurred at Invergordon Monday night when the crews ignored taps at 10 o'clock and remained on deck for an hour, cheering and singing. Their shore leave was cancelled last night and the town was quiet in contrast to previous nights when boisterous meetings of protests were held.

Full duty was not carried out aboard the vessels Monday or Tuesday, it was said, but there was no hostility between the men and their officers. At one shore meeting last Saturday it was necessary to send pickets ashore to prevent trouble at a meeting where the protesters became unruly.

An indignation meeting was held in the naval canteen at the Rosyth Naval Base near Edinburgh last night, the Mail said, but there were no indications of trouble.

Another officer who reached here from Invergordon described the situation as "not serious but unpleasant in the British navy." He said that the crews felt they were being unjustly penalized by reductions, placed as high as 25 percent.

When reveille blew this morning, these reports said, hundreds of men on the battleship Rodney tumbled out of their hammocks and gathered on the gun turret to raise a routing cheer for King George.

Then they sang the old-time "frothblowers anthem," a favorite with the fleet, and somebody yelled, "are we downhearted?" There was an answering roar of "No."

It echoed from the battleship Hood, anchored nearby, and was carried down the line among the rest of the ships.

Slays Rattlesnake Weighing 50 Pounds

Delco, N. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Rattlesnakes have never been plentiful in this section but this year people have stopped measuring and counting the rattles and are weighing the reptiles. During the season, O. C. Coleman killed a six footer; Jake Reeves killed one six feet, two inches long; Alvin Hibbard and Eura Peterson have dispatched six and five footers. Now James Webb has displayed the latest one. It weighs 50 pounds.

CRAMER PLANE FOUND AT SEA

Wreckage in North Atlantic Identified As That of Missing Fliers

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—K. D. Vosler, factory manager for the Yedo Aircraft Corporation, today definitely identified wreckage found in the North Atlantic by the British trawler Lord Trent, as that of the plane of Parker Cramer, American flier lost on a flight from Detroit to Copenhagen.

"If those are the numbers it is Cramer's plane," he announced after checking company records.

The identifying marks given in a wireless message from the Lord Trent to the Associated Press, date 3-19-30, manufacturing number 07006, patent 1726439, Yedo Aircraft Corporation, College Point, N. Y.

Vosler said the only thing that did not check absolutely was the manufacturing number which was 07006, instead of 07006. He said he was sure the first zero was a mistake, perhaps made in transmission.

Torchlight Parade and Addresses Featuring District Gathering Last Night

A district conference of members of the Independent Order of Red Men was held in Greenville last night, and several hundred tribesmen and their wives from various sections were in attendance.

The conference was marked by a torchlight parade through the principal business district at 7 o'clock. Approximately four hundred tribesmen and members of the Order of Pochontas, attired in Indian costumes and bearing red torches, paraded from the lodge rooms on Evans street to the high school building where the principal conference session was held.

The parade was under the direction of L. S. Spence, of the Greenville lodge, and was one of the most spectacular of its kind ever conducted in the city. Several hundred people crowded the sidewalks along the route to view the spectacle, and traffic along the principal streets was probably heavier immediately following the parade than any day of the year.

Chief of Records Stetser, of Philadelphia, delivered the principal address of the occasion, stressing the importance of a spirit of co-operation among the various tribes.

Great Sachem R. A. Whitaker also spoke briefly. Twenty-five candidates for membership were initiated into the mysteries of the organization. They represented fifteen tribal districts, it was said.

Mayor R. C. Flanagan extended a cordial welcome to the visitors, assuring them that Greenville was glad to have them and hoped they would return again in the near future to resume their festivities. D. M. Clark presided over the session.

N. C. HAS BIG CASH BALANCE

General Fund Has $2,521,331.00 to Offset Deficit During 1929-31

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—(AP)—North Carolina's treasury today held a cash balance in the state's general fund for the first two months of the 1931-32 fiscal year of $2,521,331.00 to offset the $2,236,198.00 deficit at the end of the 1929-31 biennium.

The figures were revealed yesterday in the combined report of the state auditor and state treasurer for the fiscal year to August 31, which showed a total of $6,541,817.91. Disbursements for the two months, $1,784,287.92, added to the deficit figure and the total subtracted from the receipts left the cash balance of $2,521,331.00 in the state treasury.

During August, disbursements were $960,674.06, against a cash balance of $983,858.83 on August 1 and receipts for August amounted to $2,498,150.13, for a total balance and receipts of $3,482,005.96.

Disbursements from the highway fund for the month totaled $5,980,336.45 against a cash balance and receipts of $12,761,569.79, leaving a cash balance on August 1 of $6,801,032.84.

The total cash balance in the state treasury reserved for general fund, highway and other special funds, and outstanding warrants and disbursing accounts on August 31 amounted to $9,913,318.03.

On August 31, the total state debt was $179,611,371 of which $2,236,000 represents notes issued to fund the general fund deficit at the end of the 1929-31 biennium.

WIFE'S STORY IS SUPPORTED

Hands and Feet of Stamford Engineer Bound and Injury is Found on His Head; Body Floats to Surface at Exact Spot Where Boatmen Discovered the Cruiser Penguin Afloat With Man's Daughter Aboard; General Alarm Sent Out for Two Pirates

Huntington Station, N. Y., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The waters of Long Island Sound today gave up the body of Benjamin P. Collings, Stamford, Conn., yachtman, reported missing last Thursday by his wife from their cruiser Penguin.

Bound hand and foot, with a hole in the forehead and the throat slashed, the body face downward was found in the sand by a policeman, thus lending credence to a fantastic tale thrice related by the widow who said she was abducted and subjected to indignities by her husband's murderers.

Still tied with the knots of an experienced boatman the body was brought to a morgue here for examination and autopsy and officials of two counties gathered in town hall to await arrival of the young widow whose story of midnight piracy, murder and abduction has remained unchanged under grueling examination.

A crowd of villagers gathered about the closed door of the town hall and the guarded entrance of the morgue, discussing the greatest murder mystery Long Island has known since Albert Snyder was killed by his wife and her escort salesman paramour Judd Gray.

Collings' body was rolled in by heavy breakers and thrown up on the beach of the Marshall Field estate where it was found by Patrolman A. Briggs, who had been helping patrol the shore ever since Collings disappeared.

It was face downward, and was left at what pending arrival of the proper officials, but positive identification was made by a gold and sapphire ring on the right hand.

The body was dressed as Mrs. Collings had described Collings at the time he was attacked, barefoot and wearing dark brown mechanic's overalls. Both hands and feet were tied tightly in what officials called "sailor's knots" with a half-inch rope. The arms, tied behind the back, bore bruises officials said were inflicted before death. They were taken to indicate that considerable force had been used in securing Collings.

Finding of the body seemed to give definite jurisdiction of the case to Suffolk county and command was immediately assumed by District Attorney Alexander Blue. Yesterday Blue told Mrs. Collings he did not believe her story of two men boarding the Collings' cruiser throwing her husband into the sound after tying him up, and abducting her. Later he admitted her tale might be true in essential facts.

When Blue arrived today he spoke briefly with newspaper men before entering the town hall.

"I had two theories on this case," he said. "One was that Collings had been kidnapped and the other that Mrs. Collings was implicated. Now, of course, the kidnapping theory is out."

After examination of the body at the morgue it was announced that all the pockets were turned inside out and that there were no articles of identification on the body except the gold and sapphire ring which first indicated the body was that of Collings.

Capt. Emil Morse of the homicide squad studied the knots with which Collings' hands and feet had been tied and described them as "reefer knots."

The Collings tragedy was revealed last Thursday morning, when Mrs. Collings was found marooned on a motorboat in Oyster Bay, and only

ABOUT TOWN

President Hoover has called an- other conference.

This time he plans to interest the people of the 48 states in the erection and ownership of homes.

A committee, according to the report, has been studying the situation for several months and is prepared to submit constructive information to the thousand persons invited to the Washington conference.

By providing more homes, the President is of the opinion that the working people would become more satisfied with their lot, having an objective to work to from day to day and year to year.

Every phase of home life will be discussed and it is the ambition of the President to improve the environment of the American home. It is to be hoped the conference has more far-reaching results than others called by the President in the last few years. If it does not the American home stands little chance of improvement.

There does not seem to be much sympathy between Governor Ross Sterling of Texas and Governor Long of Louisiana.

Their differences have become quite pronounced during discussion of the cotton relief plan and Gov. Sterling at this time is claiming a distinct victory as result of the Texas legislature's undeniable swing toward curtailment of acreage instead of the year holiday as advocated by Governor Long.

Not only Gov. Sterling but members of the legislature have shown strong resentment against Gov. Long's nightly radio addresses attempting to swing the Texas legislature over to his way of thinking. He was soundly denounced from the floors of the General Assembly yesterday after which the solemn railed to the curtailment plan as emanated by their governor.

The representatives of the two commonwealths should retain their equanimity as far as possible in this crisis, remembering they are the servants of the people sent to the legislative halls to attempt to find a way out of the economic morass and not to deal in personalities.

If Texas likes the reduction plan let her go ahead and adopt it. If Louisiana wants a holiday, let her have it. The question is up to the people of each state and if they cannot act concertedly let them try it independently.

A solution will certainly be reached before another planting season.

Business men who make a habit of parking their cars in the business district and leaving them the most of the day should change their parking habits during the busiest season of the year.

Instead of parking cars in front of places of business in the heart of the business district, store owners and employes should place them around on side streets or leave them at home.

This plan will make room for the thousands of people who visit the city from day to day, and cause them to go back home with a more pleasant taste in their mouth. Nothing is more provoking than to go to a town and find the main business section cluttered with automobiles of the people who live within a stone's throw.

While Greenville has a one-hour parking law it has not been fully enforced during the last two years and this has resulted in numbers of persons taking advantage of the parking places. Visitors were not troubled for violation of the parking ordinance when it was enforced because it was passed with the idea of providing more room for them and inducing home folks to leave their cars at home when they come down town to spend the entire day.

It is a good ordinance and the stores should enjoy more trade than ever before if it were fully enforced.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: The mysterious actions of Fourth Aldersea alarm his stepdaughter, Sam Sherrill. She is afraid that a rich widow who is interested in him may have backed his invention, which she believes to be worthless. Sam has carried the responsibilities of the family since her mother left her in control of what little property remained from Fourth's bad investments. She uses her authority to forbid Fourth to bar his son, Nelson, from the house. Nelson has married the maid, which hurts Fourth's social pride. To alleviate the bad effects of the marriage Sam has become engaged to Peak Abbott, wealthy owner of the newspaper where she works. Although she loves Freddy Munson, Fourth leaves home in rebellion against Sam's attitude toward Nelson but returns next morning. One day he announces to Sam that Nelson and his wife have left permanently and that he is responsible. Sam's anger flares against him.

Chapter 19

FOURTH ALDERSEA'S SECRET Fourth was not alarmed. To the contrary, he was enjoying himself thoroughly. He put an arm before his face in a mock gesture of defense and cried: "Don't beat me, Joan! Don't beat me! Think of my gray hairs and feeble state."

Sam clenched her fists. "I have an idea that a beating is just about what you need!" "No, not that! Wait!" He handed an oblong box to Sam with a deep bow. Lying in state upon a cushion of white satin was a long string of beautiful crystal beads. She gasped. "What—?"

He made an elaborately careless gesture. "Just a small gift, that's all."

Sam gazed at Fourth, in complete bewilderment. "But—but where did the money come from?" "Money!" Fourth groaned. "I'm interested in knowing if you like the crystals I have given you."

Sam closed the jewel case with a snap. "They're beautiful. Fourth, but we'll have to talk about them later. I want to know about Nelson and Martha. Where have they gone? Did you tell them that they had to leave this house?"

Fourth sighed. "I merely suggested that it might be better for all concerned if they moved out." "You suggested that they move out!" Sam was dazed. "Even after what I told you about who owned this house you had the effrontery to tell Nelson and his wife to get out into the streets?"

Fourth drew himself up with dignity. "Nelson and his wife are not wandering the streets. To the contrary, they are lodged in a small but very comfortable city apartment." He nodded. "Two bedrooms, one bath, a living room, and a combined dining room and kitchenette. I believe there is electric refrigeration."

"Electric refrigeration?" Sam murmured weakly. "Do you mean to tell me that Martha and Nelson have an apartment?" "I do," he grinned. "But," cried Sam, "where did the money come from?" "Ah!" Fourth threw his arms upward. "Inevitably we must return to the subject of money."

Sam was staring at him intently. "I want to know where the money came from."

He bowed. "Since you insist, the money came from none other than your respected stepfather."

"And where, may I inquire, did my respected stepfather get this money?"

"He got it honestly enough, Joan! Fourth's eyes were blazing. "I'm rich, Joan, rich!"

"Where did the money come from, Fourth?" Sam repeated steadily. "Where do you think I got it?" He laughed happily. "I earned it! People may have laughed at me, and called me a failure, but this proves that they were wrong. I earned it from my investment!"

"I thought so," Sam stood staring at him miserably. "Something told me this would happen."

a large sum of money from a poor widow for my useless invention."

"I didn't really mean that your invention is useless," she said wearily. "I know that you believe in it and are perfectly honest. It's just that I can't have you taking money from Mrs. Frye on such a gamble."

"I see," Fourth laughed savagely. "I suppose there's no use in telling you that Eugenie Frye hasn't anything to do with this. Is there any point in informing you that the men behind me are a hard headed bunch of money-makers who know exactly what they are doing?"

Sam shook her head doggedly. "No, not the slightest bit of use."

"I thought not!" Fourth laughed again. "Very well!" He drew a long folded paper from his pocket and flourished it angrily. "I'm going out now for an hour or two. While I'm gone you might amuse yourself by reading this little document."

He threw the paper at her feet and pointed at it. "If you've read it when I come back and haven't changed your mind, why that will be that. I'll get out of here, and this time it will be for good. I can promise you that I won't be forced to spend any more nights in garages. Not exactly!"

He put on his hat and coat and went out the front door without another word.

Sam asks Peak to investigate the facts that the document contains. He reports, tomorrow, regarding results that amaze Sam.

Afterward it was said that Kane's statement that he sought to revive his wife after she struck her head while diving and became unconscious was partially corroborated by one of the fishermen.

Dr. Vanderslice also said that Kane appeared very solicitous when he brought his wife to a Hampton hospital a short time after the drowning but he added that the accused had made conflicting statements as to his whereabouts on the day before the drowning.

Professor Kane declined to discuss the case beyond saying that he expected absolute vindication and had nothing to hide.

WILL NOT CALL SOLONS TO DECIDE COTTON PLAN

abandonment of cotton growing in this state in 1932.

Governor O. Max Gardner, in a telegram to Representative A. P. Johnson, of the Texas legislature, outlined this state's position in the cotton price crisis and announced that if any plan were considered necessary for an extra session of the General Assembly, no action would be taken until after Texas acts.

Governor Gardner sent the message after a telephone conversation with Gov. Ross Sterling, of Texas, and a conference with his council of state.

"No session of the North Carolina General Assembly will be called to consider legislation to completely abandon the growing of cotton in North Carolina in 1932," the telegram said.

"With respect to legislation which may be passed by the Texas General Assembly, it was also agreed that no decision should be reached on this question until the Texas act and the means of its enforcement could be studied with relation to our problem and constitutional provisions.

"While our state, through self-imposed reduction, this year produced only five per cent of the total American crop and bears no relation to total production comparable to Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, we are nevertheless deeply concerned in all constructive movements for the relief of the distressed cotton farmers of the South, and are determined to concentrate the agencies of the state in further substantial reduction in acreage in 1932."

Governor Gardner, elaborating on his telegram, said he saw little hope for the cotton situation in legislation. He said if North Carolina were to abandon cotton production in 1932, it would drive farmers to planting more tobacco which, he said, would result in double distress.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 16.—(AP)—By a vote of 15 to 12, the Texas Senate today decided that a limitation of cotton planting next year to one fourth of the land cultivated this year would be preferable to a restriction to only one-third. No final action had been taken on any cotton relief bill.

Advocates of the cotton prohibition plan for 1932, championed by Governor Huey Long of Louisiana, meanwhile were making stubborn but seemingly hopeless attempts to regain support for their measure.

It was generally predicted the House would reject the bill calling for cotton prohibition and would approve a measure sponsored by Representative J. J. Olsen limiting cotton acreage to one-third the area of cultivated farm lands.

In the Senate the bill to provide for curtailment to one-fourth the cultivated area was advanced as a sub for the cotton prohibition bill.

Senator W. E. Thomason of Nacogdoches, co-author of the cotton abandonment bill, made an appeal for the measure, claiming if the Legislature passed anything less drastic than abolition of cotton planting in 1932 it would be going against the expressed wishes of the people.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Opposition to the cotton prohibition bill stiffened in the South Carolina Senate today as its opponents took the floor in debate against it.

Senator Hammond, Richland, and Senator Greener, Edgefield, launched bitter attacks on the bill. Senator Hammond contending it would bring on a condition equivalent to slavery and Senator Greener asserting the measure was approved by farmers in mass meetings "that were hysterical."

"If you can tell a man what he can plant on his farm," Senator Hammond said, "You can tell him what he can't plant and that is the equivalent of slavery."

Further, he said:

"Mills, railroads, truck lines, all are dependent on cotton and with one sweeping blow you are going to damage irreparably all this structure.

"I believe all this session is going to amount to nothing and I believe 90 per cent of you know it."

EPISCOPAL MEET OPENS

Bishops from all parts of the world and a choir of 500 voices from the combined Denver churches, the convention sermon will be preached by the Rt. Rev. Michael Bolton Furse, D. D. LL.D., Lord Bishop of St. Albans, England, who has come to the United States for this purpose.

Immediately following this service the convention will go into session, with the house of Bishops meeting in the Colorado State Capitol, the House of Deputies in the Scottish Rite Cathedral and the Woman's Auxiliary in the Central Presbyterian Church. Delegates approximately 1,500 will be in attendance at these three bodies.

As to the main work of the convention, revision of the Book of Common Prayer having been completed at the convention of 1926, no outstanding business remains over and the bishops and delegates at Denver will have a clear road ahead. The fact is one which is viewed with satisfaction by church leaders, since the convention will be beset by a walter of problems such as have not confronted a similar gathering for a generation. These problems pertain not only to matters strictly within the province of a religious body, but are of a social and economic character not generally regarded as being within the province of a religious body to deal with, but in the bewildered state of the world touching so closely upon the spiritual and temporal welfare of all of the people, that it is felt that it will inevitably be forced upon the consideration of the Denver body.

Of the other matters which the convention will consider the placement of the clergy stands out prominently. There are many priests of the church without charges at the present time, while there are also many churches which are seeking priests. There is a growing demand for some centralized system under which the differences between the priests and their congregations may be adequately adjusted.

A report from a special committee on this subject will be laid before the convention and from the standpoint of the bishop and clergy, it ranks in importance next to the subject of divorce. The convention will also decide whether the church shall widen its field by entering upon missionary work in India.

Another problem which the convention will consider will be that of church work among the rural population of the United States, where it is declared that 40,000,000 people are without adequate spiritual instruction. One proposition which the convention will be asked to consider in this connection is the establishment of a $5,000,000 foundation, the income of which shall be exclusively used for rural work.

Another important question which will come before the convention is that of pledging support to a second world conference on Christian Unity to be held at Lausanne, Switzerland, not later than 1937.

There will be laid before the convention a report from the commission on Christian healing, and there will also be a report from the commission which was selected three years ago to inquire into the question of removing the church's headquarters from its present location in New York.

A presiding bishop of the church will be elected to serve for the ensuing six years as well as missionary bishops for the Panama Canal Zone and North Dakota, and a suffragan bishop for the district of Alaska, and important amendments to the constitution and canons will come up for consideration. The 18th amendment and the general subject of law enforcement will undoubtedly be brought before the general convention as well as other matters of a more or less controversial character.

DISCOVER BODY OF WEALTHY CLUBMAN

in a thin house dress but protected from the chill of dawn by four blankets.

She told an amazing story of piracy. Late Wednesday night, she said, two men in a canoe boarded the anchored Collins' cabin cruiser "Penguin," bound her husband and threw him overboard, abducted her, and abandoned five-year-old Barbara Collins on the Penguin. Barbara was found by N. L. Noteman and three other men who came along in the Noteman yacht and found the Penguin drifting without lights.

Mrs. Collins has twice re-enacted the scene she says took place on the Penguin and has over and over again told her story to investigators of both Nassau and Suffolk counties. District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards of Nassau has announced his entire belief in her story, but District Attorney Alexander Blue of Suffolk told her flatly that he disbelieved her. Later he acknowledged that the story might be true even though it was too fantastic to seem believable.

Mrs. Collins said the "pirates" were one an elderly man and the other a youth of about 17. The dignities in the canoe in which she was taken from the Penguin, which she said she left without a struggle in the belief that by so doing she would draw the men away from her little daughter.

She first told police that when the men appeared she heard them offer her husband $100 to take a wounded man to the Connecticut shore. Collins refused, she said, and was then attacked. Later she expressed the belief that, the talk of a wounded man was a ruse as there was no one in the canoe but the two assailants when she was placed in it.

The men gave her blankets with which to keep warm on the motorboat, she said. One of them was found to be marked with the name of the Hotel Charles in Springfield, Mass., but this clue led to nothing.

The hotel register showed the name of a Mr. and Mrs. Collingborne, but Mrs. Collins convinced authorities that she and her husband had never been to the hotel.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points on trade buying and covering influenced by relative firm Liverpool cables.

December sold up to 6.93 and March to 7.22 on the initial demand which included some buying here for Liverpool and Continental account but the buyers were supplied by southern selling and scattered offerings which seemed to come partly from Wall Street sources. This was sufficient to ease the market, as the demand tapered off after the opening and December sold down to 6.84 with the market showing net losses of about 3 to 4 points at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables attributed the early decline in that market to hedging and liquidation with rallies following on covering and foreign buying. They also reported improved cloth inquiry from China and South America.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Assertions that it was becoming apparent the United States and Canada have what approaches a monopoly of high grade wheat this year accompanied wheat prices advances today.

Bull leaders said the truth about an inferior spring wheat crop in Russia was gradually developing, with unfavorable crop situation in the Southern Hemisphere, and that European crops, especially in parts of France were poor. An additional outstanding feature was seeming likelihood that China would require 4,000,000 tons of wheat, 135,000,000 bushels, for food relief.

Wheat closed firm, 1-2-1-8 cents higher, corn 1-85-8 advanced, oats 1-8-1-4 up, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 7 cents gain.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The stock market, oscillated confusedly in quiet trading today.

The market opened on declines, but ran into fresh selling on advances. The list pushed up with some vigor after midday but again ran into selling. It opened with a moderate ease, rallied during the morning, and sold off again before noon.

Westinghouse Electric turned a loss of more than a point into a gain of more than 3, as production of the quarterly dividend from $1 to $2-1-2 cents was less drastic than expected in some quarters. U. S. Steel fluctuated narrowly.

Issues pushing up 1 to 3 points during the afternoon rally included American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, General Electric, New York Central, American Can, Woolworth, American Tobacco B, National Biscuit, DuPont and others. Isolated weak spots appeared in the rails. Kansas City Southern dropped 5 points on the dividend omission. Louisville and Nashville lost 4. Pittsburgh and West Virginia sold at 10, off 12.

The mid-week business statistics provided a little encouragement. Foreign developments, notably some recovery in the Berlin Boerse, were not impressive.

The weekly freight car loadings report for the week ended Sept. 5, showing a sag of about 4,000 cars from the preceding week, was in line with expectations, as the week before a holiday usually sees some shrinkage.

A'S SEW UP FLAG BY WIN OVER INDIANS

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Connie Mack, the 68-year-old next two weeks figuring out what pitcher the St. Louis Cardinals will not, expect him to start against them in the first game of the world series.

Any other worry the Philadelphia pilot might have harbored was removed yesterday when his Athletics sewed up their third straight American league flag by overwhelming the Cleveland Indians, 14 to 3, while the Washington Senators were bowing to St. Louis, 5 to 4.

If they wished, the world champions could lose their remaining 12 games and, providing Washington won its last 13, still finish with a full game lead over the Senators. That, however, is highly improbable, as Lefty Grove would like to win another game or two.

When informed his A's had won for him his ninth American league flag, Connie Mack admitted he was pleased, but failed to enthuse. It has been too easy.

Ever since May 5, when they began a 17-game winning streak that carried them to the top, it has been evident that nothing short of an injunction could deprive them of the pennant.

By coincidence, the Cardinals chose the same day to take a single hold on the National league tunting.

Defeating Philadelphia, 5 to 0, while their closest rivals, the New York Giants, were held idle by rain, Gabby Street's warriors assured themselves at least a tie for the top. If they lose their remaining games and the Giants captured all theirs, each will finish with 95 victories and 29 defeats.

The New York Yankees, still scrapping for second place, made it four straight from the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 2.

Tom Oliver's single in the tenth inning with two out and the bases loaded drove Danny MacFayden in with the run that gave the Boston Red Sox a 3 to 2 win over Chicago, their second in a row.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, behind superb pitching by Heine Meine and Larry French, tumbled the Brooklyn Robins twice, 5 to 2 and 2 to 1. Dazzy Vance deserved a better fate in the nightcap, when errors by Herman and Wright gave the Pirates both their runs.

BIG 5 COACHES FACED BY LACK OF MATERIAL

By WHITNEY THARIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Charlotte, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Collectively speaking, Big Five coaches in North Carolina have arrived at the stage where each daily practice is just one search for another.

The individual ability of each player if probably known to each coach but its finding the group of 11 men that will function as one that's the problem at present.

The early practice grid is over, there is no more bother of sore muscles, the boys are tougher and can be worked harder. They are being worked harder and every combination possible is being given a trial in an effort to find the outfit that functions best.

A glance over the scrimmage lineups from day to day will show a change here and another there. A back will be moved to the line, a linesman will carry the ball, or the backs and linesmen will be shifted almost from pillar to post as the time before the opening game narrows down.

A few men on each tentative first string lineup, however, hold their same positions, or are removed for a short time to give promising prospects a trial. Around these veterans the coaches are building their teams, filling gaps left vacant by graduation.

All-State men like Don Hyatt and Pierce Brewer at Duke; Chas Cobb at N. C. State; Fysal, McDade and Branch at North Carolina are sure bets to be any team of first-stringers. Hutchison and Brogden at Wake Forest and Mills and Raker at Davidson are others in this class, to mention only a few outstanding players.

Coach Clipper Smith, guiding the Wolfpack, and Coach Wallace Wade moulding the Blue Devils, are probably finding this business of selecting players to fill the gaps a harder job than the other coaches.

Both are new to their jobs, although both are veterans in the football coaching business.

Wade is working three teams in scrimmages and men move from one team to another as the former-Alabama mentor measures each new outfit.

Smith is having even harder going. Injuries have hit three of his prospective linesmen. Rudy Eitz, 200-pound letterman tackler dropped out of practice yesterday with an ankle bruise. He joined stidn-hour and Maltack, two aspirants for guard. Don Wilson, a halfback, is also out.

Two new linesmen, J. M. Stirling, Stubing, Mount Vernon, N. Y., guard, reported at the Raleigh school, however, to help out the situation somewhat.

Coach Collins is trying to work out the Tar Heel backfield so it will contain a fullback who knows how to pass and punt. Hanes Lassiter is making an excellent bid for the job.

Davidson's team is being whipped into shape for the Elon game Saturday. Hard scrimmages, with particular emphasis being given the smoothness of play, is the order of the day at the Wildcat school.

HORNETS WIN FROM RALEIGH CLUB AGAIN

Charlotte, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Charlotte today had covered half the road that leads to the Piedmont league pennant, as the scene of the post-season series shifted to Raleigh.

It was a case of too much Bud Shaney last night as the Hornets won the second straight game, licking the Caps 5 to 3. The first team to win four games cops the pennant.

Shaney gave up only four hits, doubles by H. Snyder and Brandon being the only extra base affairs. After the second inning, in which the Raleigh club scored twice, Shaney pitched shut-out ball. In the ninth, he fanned G. Synder, Williams and Novosel, in order, to end the game.

The opening battle in Raleigh is scheduled to be between a pair of the league's best southpaws.

While Shaney's pitching was the outstanding performance of the evening, the twirling of Truitt Sewell, of Raleigh, was not at all bad except in spots.

Charlotte required an even dozen hits to score its five runs and Sewell pulled out of several bad holes that resulted in even more scores had he not. He gave up one in each of the first, second, fifth, seventh and eighth innings.

Red Brandes topped the Charlotte attack, getting a pair of singles and a double. Jim Huggins, star clown of the first game, slammed out a pair of doubles to aid the Bee cause.

The all round play of the Caps was greatly improved over the first contest. Manager Strain played third base, shifted Novosel to right and G. Synder to center.
