OBTAIN VITAL FACTS IN DEATH OF YACHTSMAN

Important Information Divulged In An Autopsy On Body of Benjamin Collings

Huntington Station, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Assistant District Attorney Fred J. Munder of Suffolk county announced today that the autopsy on the body of Benjamin Collings, murdered yachtsman, had furnished important information which would not be made public pending investigation.

Says Prohibition Fourth Vital Issue

Atlantic City, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Charles A. Boston, president of the American Bar Association, today labeled prohibition as one of the four vital subjects that have emerged to interfere with "the arduous but pleasing task of attempting to make a nation happy."

Mr. Boston opened the 54th annual convention of the association here today with an address on the Constitution.

Aside from prohibition, Mr. Boston found the development of the bank, slavery, and secession as the vital developments in our history interfering with the nation's progress.

Synod Reflects Membership Growth

Montreat, Sept. 17.—(AP)—An unusually large growth in membership was experienced by the Presbyterian Synod of Appalachia during the past church year.

Its committee on evangelism, reporting shortly before the synod's 17th annual session adjourned here yesterday, listed 1,281 new members gained by the synod's churches during the 12 months.

Contributions to the assembly and synod benevolences increased $15,000 over the previous year and reached a total of $225,634. A budget of $138,000 was adopted for the assembly's benevolent causes for the coming year.

The synod adjourned without selecting a meeting place for next year, leaving that to J. H. Hassinger, of Abingdon, Va., the new moderator, and the Rev. Thomas A. Johnston of Kingsport, Tenn., of the Bristol, Tenn. was re-elected secretary of the synod's religious education committee.

Women to Present Church $1,000,000

Denver, Colo., Sept. 17.—(AP)—A great golden alms basin, reposed here today for the triennial united thanks offering of the women of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the church, here in the 50th general convention, assembled for an early morning corporate communion service and presentation of the offering, which church leaders estimated would total more than a million dollars.

Three years ago the offering was approximately $1,100,000.

The amount of today's offering will be announced at a mass meeting tonight at which the Rt. Rev. S. Harrington Littell, bishop of Honolulu will deliver the principal address.

PREPARE FOR ANOTHER HOP

Moyle and Allen Call for Service of Publicity Man After Their Rescue.

Seattle, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Turning up safely aboard a little Russian ship in the Bearing Sea after having been missing nine days subsequent to their takeoff on a projected flight from Japan to Seattle, Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California fliers, today radioed a call for the services of a publicity man and announced they were ready to fly some more.

The United States Naval Radio Station on St. Paul Island, in the Bearing Sea, late last night received a wireless from the Russian steamer Buriat, saying Moyle and Allen had landed on Navarin Island Siberia, where their fuel and oil gave out.

The message said neither the fliers nor their plane was hurt when they landed and that they were ready to fly out of the Siberian area as soon as a current storm subsided.

Their big monoplane, the message said, had been refueled and was ready for flight. Where they obtained aviation gasoline was vague. It said Moyle and Allen might start for Seattle, but added they might go back toward Tokyo.

Navarin Island is off Cape Navarin, Siberia, about 2,200 miles north of Samushiro Beach, Japan, from which the fliers took off on September 7 on a projected 4,465-mile non-stop flight to Seattle. It is several hundred miles north of the circular route which they had mapped as their course to Seattle. Navarin is west and slightly south of Nome, Alaska.

The message telling of their safety, sent from the Buriat yesterday, and addressed to Miss Frances Bresson, fiancée of Moyle, at Riverside, Calif., said:

"Landed on uninhabited island. Everything all right. Have Frank put publicity man on job will be in Seattle September 22."

The reference to hiring a publicity man was not clear here, but by "Frank" the fliers presumably meant Frank Bresson, brother of Miss Bresson and one of the sponsors of the flight.

At the takeoff the ship carried 1,200 gallons of gasoline, which was considered enough to keep the plane in the air about 47 hours. Just when they reached Navarin Islands, which by direct flying would have required only about 22 hours, out of Samushiro, was not stated.

UNCOVER ANOTHER ALIEN SMUGGLING RING IN N. Y. Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Special agents of the Labor Department have uncovered another big alien smuggling ring in New York. The discoveries were of such importance that Murray W. Barrson, assistant secretary of labor, in charge of alien smuggling investigations, came here today to confer with Secretary Doak.

Before seeing Doak, Garson said he could not disclose any of the details of the ring.

Thinks Letters Have Provided Motive For Mrs. Kane's Drowning

Hampton, Va., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Coroner George K. Vanderslice said today he believed a motive for the drowning of Mrs. Jenny Graham Kane had been established in letters signed "E. H. D." which suggested some method be found to get rid of the deceased woman.

His statement was made in Circuit court in opposing bond for

Bar Association Favors Repeal of 18th Amendment

Atlantic City, N. C.—(AP)—The American Bar Association today went formally on record as favoring repeal of the prohibition amendment.

The executive committee announced the results of the referendum last year as showing 13,779 members of the association as favoring repeal and 6,349 opposed.

The total vote of 20,119 represented 75 per cent of the association's membership. There was no discussion of the report, and prohibition was not scheduled for consideration by the convention.

A previous vote on whether a referendum should be conducted showed 14,782 in favor, and 5,623 against. After that vote the referendum on the repeal was held.

Christian Preacher on Trial At Lamar, Mo., Charged With Murder of Another

Lama, Mo., Sept. 17.—(AP)—An eye witness account of the slaying of the Rev. George Rider, Kansas City evangelist, supplied the principal testimony for the state today in the trial of the Rev. J. A. Brown former pastor of the Christian Union church at Valley's Bluff, on a first degree murder charge.

Mr. Rider was shot April 4 when he had recently succeeded as pastor of the church. He requested Mr. Brown to preach the Easter Sunday sermon so that he might attend the funeral of a relative in Kansas City.

Mrs. Rider testified that Mr. Brown refused, ordered them from his house and then struck her husband. The evangelist was knocked down, she said, arose and was struck down again, after which he "pushed" his assailant, but did not strike him.

At her suggestion, she said, they started to leave, but before they had gone over 15 feet from the house, Mr. Brown appeared and shot her husband twice.

The state also introduced what it represented as the dying statement of the evangelist. Its account closely followed the woman's testimony. Other state witnesses, including C. P. McCumber, deputy sheriff, said the defendant bore no marks of violence.

MAN HANGS SELF IN JAIL

South Dakota Man Commits Suicide After Confessing His Part in Forest Fires

Lead, S. D., Sept. 17.—(AP)—William Cothorn, of Haywood county, North Carolina, hanged himself in the Lead jail last night after confessing that he helped start 35 forest fires in the Black Hills during the last week. Police today were seeking six alleged accomplices named by Cothorn.

Cothorn hanged himself with blankets soon after he had admitted guilt in a statement given E. A. Steinback, city attorney.

Cothorn's confession named six accomplices, who disappeared after his arrest Tuesday night but gave only their last names. Officials said all were members of the "I. W. W."

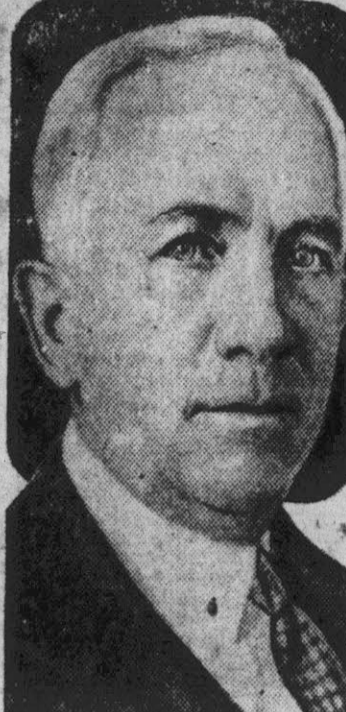

Forest fires raged in the northern Black Hills last week, covering 25,000 acres. The fires today were under control, but were still guarded by 500 men.

Moyle Overjoyed At Brother's Rescue

Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 17.—(AP)—An ordinarily well-traveling salesman from Minneapolis saw a stranger reading a newspaper in a hotel lobby here yesterday, forgot all his hammers, executed something like a flying tackle and snatched the paper from the stranger's hands.

The stranger gasped — and gasped again as he saw on the salesman's face a broad, benign smile instead of the ferocity of a lunatic.

ROOSEVELT IS S. C. SPEAKER

Delivers Address to Highway Celebration Over Telephone Hook-up

Cheraw, S. C., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, today told several thousand persons gathered here to celebrate the opening of U. S. Highway No. 1 that its completion should stir the patriotism of all people in the 12 states it connects.

The New York Chief Executive spoke from Albany, N. Y., over a telephone and loud speaker hook-up. He made no reference to politics in his 18-minute address.

Running from Main to Florida, the highway passes through many spots of historic interest and connects 12 of the 13 original states of the union.

Asserting that there were no sectional problems in the United States because of its complex civilization, Governor Roosevelt said the highway would bring better understanding of the common problems because of increased travel.

"All local problems," he said, "have national aspects, but that does not mean that the Federal Government should work them out alone."

He then described the United States as made up of 48 "laboratories" and said the "honest and progressive interest in these laboratories made up the whole."

"The solutions found in these state laboratories may be applied in other states," he added.

The Governor warned against changing the fundamentals of our government saying "nothing could be obtained" by such changes.

In concluding he expressed the hope that he might some time make the trip into Florida over the highway.

The last sector of the highway to be completed was that passing through Cheraw. Mayor R. A. Rouse, of Cheraw, presided at the celebration. Governor Ira C. Blackwood was present and made an address following that of Governor Roosevelt.

John A. Park, publisher of the Raleigh Times, represented Gov. O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina who was unable to be present.

Mayor Key Fired From S. S. Class

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Rev. Robert Z. Tyler, pastor of the Grace Methodist Church, today said relations of Mayor James L. Key as teacher of a men's Sunday school class there had been terminated "in the interests of peace in the church" as a result of the mayor's anti-prohibition utterances.

Mr. Tyler said the mayor had been requested to refrain from further criticism of prohibition. Mayor Key refused. The minister said the mayor was informed he might no longer teach a class at the church.

Mayor Key's views on prohibition came into national prominence during a tour of France with a party of American mayors. The Atlanta chief executive said prohibition was "corrupting the government," that it could not be enforced as his friends had hoped and was a failure.

Since his return, he has reiterated his views several times publicly. As a consequence, a newly organized law enforcement league here is circulating petitions seeking his recall, charging his statements and views made him unfit for the office of mayor.

BYRNS AGAINST HIGHER TAXES

Democratic House Leader Would Also Make Higher - Ups Pay Income Taxes

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A Democratic House leader, Byrns of Tennessee, today said he favored legislation in the next Congress to make those in the higher income tax brackets "pay their just proportion of the nation's taxes."

Representative Byrns is the ranking Democrat on the House appropriations committee, and probably would become its chairman if his party should organize the next House.

He said he opposed the plan put forward by Senator Reed Republican, Pennsylvania, for a general sales tax.

"Why should we levy on the necessities of life that the average man and woman have to buy, when those with huge incomes are not paying what they should in taxes?" he asked.

The Tennessee Democrat said he favored in general the plan outlined by Representative Bacharach, Republican, New Jersey, under which those with incomes of more than $100,000 a year would have their taxes raised. Byrns said, however, that he saw no reason to

BILL PASSES BOTH HOUSES

Texas House of Representatives Refuses To Adopt an Amendment to the Olsen Bill to Limit Cotton Acreage to 25 Per Cent in the Cultivated Area; Governor Long Decides to Stand Fast on the Louisiana Cotton Prohibition Act in Event Other States Might Wish to Pass Cotton Relief Measures.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Both houses of the South Carolina General Assembly today endorsed the Long plan by passing bills to prohibit the planting of cotton in 1932 by decisive margins.

The Senate passed the measure on third reading by a vote of 21 to 13, sending it to the House which had been considering a similar measure. The House approved its prohibition bill on second reading by an overwhelming oral vote, after defeating a motion to kill the measure 77 to 29.

Various Senate amendments must be considered tomorrow in the House before the bill can receive passage on third reading. Governor Blackwood, who called the extraordinary session to enact the Long program, was expected to sign the measure when passed by the House and the session came to a close by Friday or Saturday.

In approving the bills the legislators disregarded the action of Texas in rejecting the drastic proposal to boost the price of cotton. The bill is not effective unless 75 per cent of the cotton growing area is under similar legislation. Also the legislative meeting in its regular session in January would have an opportunity of repealing the imminent law.

Austin, Texas, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Texas House of Representatives today refused to adopt an amendment to the Olsen bill to limit cotton acreage to 25 per cent of the cultivated area.

An amendment providing for this limitation has been approved by the Senate. The Olsen bill limits cotton planting to one-third the cultivated area.

The action of the House was made final when a motion to reconsider the table prevailed.

Failure of the House to limit cotton acreage to 25 per cent will make it necessary to throw the acreage control bills into a free conference committee if the Senate stands by its former action.

Another amendment to permit one half the cultivated land to be planted in cotton was defeated 63 to 37.

New Orleans, Sept. 17.—(AP)—After issuing a statement today that he would repeal by proclamation within a few days the Louisiana cotton prohibition act, Governor Huey P. Long later changed his mind and said he had decided to "stand fast" in the event other states might wish to pass cotton relief measures.

The governor issued the second statement after the first had been published in the New Orleans Item and sent out over press wires. He said the first statement was due to a "misunderstanding."

Governor Long said he had until January 15, 1932, to repeal the statute by proclamation if other states did not concur with similar legislation and added that he was in "no hurry to do so right now."

Garden to Come Back? New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Vague reports that Madison Square Garden, which reported a financial loss of $314,853 for the three months ending Aug. 31, would attempt to retrieve some of its losses with a Max Schmeling-Mickey Walker bout in Los Angeles, were ridiculed today by Garden officials.

"It is too silly to bother to deny," Tom McCordie, matchmaker, said.

STRIKE SHIPS SPEED HOME

Threats of Disciplinary Action Feature Pay Cut Strike in English Fleet

Invergordon, Scotland, Sept. 17.—(AP)—His Majesty's Atlantic fleet, disturbed by virtually unprecedented dissension among the enlisted personnel, separated today and the ships steamed for their home ports, but only by threats of disciplinary action were the officers able to get the vessels under way.

The men, grumbling over pay cuts dictated by the emergency government, refused orders even after they had been assured that their grievances were to be considered by the admiralty, and the officers were obliged to employ was described as "intensive persuasion."

A message explaining the government's promise to investigate allegations that economic hardships would be imposed upon the families of enlisted men if the pay cut schedule becomes operative was circulated among all the ships, and on every vessel the officers appealed for acceptance of the admiralty's terms.

But in many cases the men were hard to convince and it was two hours before all the ships had weighed anchor. Even then specific promises had to be given that the ships were indeed headed for their home ports and would not be separated to isolated ports.

A correspondent at Cromarty Firth told how "the proudest vessels of the navy lay idle and helpless while 12,000 sailors refused to obey orders."

The crews were in actual control of the ships, he said, while the officers stood by helplessly.

When the commander-in-chief of the fleet signalled the battleship Valiant Thursday morning to lead the departure for autumn manoeuvres in the North Sea, her crew stayed below decks and ignored orders.

The officers decided themselves to weigh the anchors but the leaders warned them as soon as they raised one the men would drop anchor.

Describing how the strike spread to other ships, the dispatch said: "The Valiant remained at anchor. Soon the sailors came from below decks and crowded forward. The cheer they raised was taken up on the other ships and the strike was on."

One sailor spokesman, spiking reports of Communist influence, said "There is nothing of Bolshevism about this protest. Ninety per cent of us have seen Russia and we are not having anything like that here."

DAMAGE SUIT NEARING END

Case of Frank Smith, Suing for Loss of Hand, to Be Completed This Afternoon

The $5,000 damage suit of Frank Smith, colored, against R. G. Lassiter Company and Raleigh Granite Works was expected to reach the jury in civil court during the latter part of the afternoon.

Smith, who was sentenced from this county to two years in State's prison in 1927, is asking for damages for the loss of a hand while in the employ of the two companies.

He was hired out by the State to Lassiter and the Granite Works, and contends that ineffective machinery caused his injury.

The plaintiffs declare there was no defect in the machinery and that the injury resulted largely from carelessness.

The case was begun yesterday afternoon.

Rocky Mount Gets Kyser Laboratory

Rocky Mount, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Vernon Kyser Laboratories, national organization for research and analytical work in all phases of chemistry and bacteriology, have been formed here with Vernon Kyser, former University of North Carolina professor, as director.

Kyser, a native of this city, said the organization would be the only one of its kind in the south equipped for such a diversity of service.

The laboratories plan to aid in development of new products, processes, utilization of by-products and establishment of diversified industries in the Carolinas.

Laboratories will be located here and in New York, Baltimore, Cincinnati and Ames, Iowa. Consulting representatives will be stationed in many North Carolina cities.

Cigarette Tobacco Prices Improve On Greenville Market

Prices for cigarette tobacco showed an improvement on the Greenville tobacco market this morning but slight change was noted on the inferior grades.

The market yesterday sold 560,372 pounds for $45,563.89 at an average of $81.11 per hundred pounds. It was revealed in the official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, made public this morning.

NEWS BRIEFS

From Over The City and County

WARNS AGAINST COUGHS AND SORE THROATS DURING OPENING OF THE SCHOOLS

Dr. R. S. McGeehy, director of Pitt County Department of Health warned parents today not to permit their children to start to school with coughs and sore throats.

The spread of whooping cough and diphtheria is very pronounced at this season of the year, he stated, and when either gets a start in school it is difficult to stop.

He urged parents to take extra precautions with schools opening in all parts of the county in the near future and in that way aid the department in preventing epidemics in all sections.

GREENVILLE PRODIGY AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP

William Hamilton Tolson III of Greenville, has been awarded the North Carolina Alumni Club's Memorial Scholarship to William and Mary for the 1931-32 year, according to an announcement from the Alumni office today. The scholarship has a value of $300,000.

A youthful prodigy, young Tolson was graduated from Greenville High School the past June at the age of thirteen. He comes from a long line of literary and professional people.

Tolson won one of the six prizes given in this State this year by the American Chemical Association for an essay on "Science in its Relation to Public Health." He also won a district prize for an essay and oratory contest held by the Cotton Cooperative Marketing Association this year on Co-operative Marketing. His outstanding work has been done in chemistry and geometry.

The Memorial Scholarship was made possible by the generosity of the William and Mary Alumni club of North Carolina and the ancient Virginia college. The scholarship for this year is dedicated to the memory of the late James S. Jenkins, a resident of Oxford and Henderson.

Young Tolson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tolson Jr. and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown of this city. He left several days ago for Williamsburg, Va., to take up his studies.

Man On Death Row Confesses Murder

Raleigh, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Officers had a confession today from J. W. Ballard, in death row following his first degree murder conviction in the death of Frank Stewart, that he fired the fatal shot.

Ballard with Bernice Mathews, negroes, were convicted of the killing that resulted when the pair attempted to rob Stewart's filling station at Salisbury Sept. 7. Both were sentenced to be electrocuted October 2.

Mathews helped rob the station, he said on the way to the penitentiary were last night, but that he was told by Mathews to "do the work" just before the station was reached.

Five Officials Indicted By Jury for Derelictions

Greensboro, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Five officials and former officials of Guilford county today faced charges in eight indictments of various derelictions in the conduct of their offices.

Two Negroes Must Die for Murder
Salisbury, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Two negroes, convicted of the first degree murder of Frank Stewart, filling station operator, today were under sentence to die October 23 in the electric chair at State's Prison in Raleigh.
J. W. Ballard and Bernice Mathews, found guilty by a jury that deliberated an hour, each blamed the other for the actual killing. They denied any plot had preceded the visit they admitted making to Stewart's station.

Man Disappears Seeking Children

Liberty, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Watt Wall, who started in frantic search of his three children reported kidnapped three days ago, is missing today, although his children are safe.

Wall and his wife were making molasses when one of their 13 children appeared and told his father, two men had stolen two of his brothers and a sister as they played near a tobacco barn.

The father notified Sheriff Stafford here and then began search for his offspring who were found by others of the family still playing at the barn.

No trace of Wall was found.

ABOUT TOWN

The Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, meeting at Smithfield to consider the cotton crisis, passed resolutions calling on Governor Gardner to order a special session of the Legislature to bring about a reduction of the 1932 cotton crop.
 Why the state should be subjected to this extra expense in the face of the existing financial shortage is difficult to understand. It would be folly for the Legislature to curtail cotton and not take some action on tobacco. If the cotton crop was reduced through State legislation the farmers would turn their attention to the planting of more tobacco despite the fact that the world market is hopelessly congested.
 It would be better to wait to see what other states are going to do before attempting to bring about enactment of legislation in this state. North Carolina has two principal crops whereas as the other states involved depend largely upon cotton and it would be next to suicide for us to deal with one crop exclusively and leave the other open to the whims of fate.

The faith of the girl who refused to Seattle has been fully justified in his attempted flight from Tokyo to Seattle—has been fully justified in the discovery that the flier and his companion are alive and well in the Kamachika district.
 When experts of aviation abandoned hope the fliers would ever be located, the staunch heart of the sweetheart of Moyle clung steadfastly to the hope that they would be found.
 The old saying that "faith works miracles" is fully supported in the miraculous escape of Moyle and Allen from a grave in the Atlantic.

The Pitt County Post of the American Legion is to be congratulated upon the plans to bring about a meeting of various civic clubs of the country for a discussion of the unemployment situation.
 In spite of the fact that this is the busiest part of the year, hundreds of people are walking the streets of the various towns and cities of the country in a futile effort to find employment. Their condition will become more accentuated with the coming of the cold winter months, and it is impossible to say how they will survive unless they are provided with sufficient employment to keep the wolf away from their doors.
 It is difficult to venture a guess as to what lines the Legion will pursue in its attempt to improve the situation, but anything it might do will certainly be appreciated by that mass of humanity, who with pockets empty and cupboards depleted, face the coming of the cold with quaking hearts.

Another tragedy of the sea was solved yesterday with the finding of wreckage of the plane of Parker Cramer, American flier, in the North Atlantic.
 Cramer was lost several days ago in an attempt to fly from Detroit to Copenhagen, and while finding of the plane does not fully solve the mystery of his disappearance, it substantiates belief that he is numbered among the men who have perished in their effort to cross the great expanse of water dividing America and Europe.
 It has been necessary for men to sacrifice their lives in every great cause, and America and the world are witnessing one of the most spectacular attempts in history to conquer the ruthless currents of the Atlantic. Some of the finest men of the field of aviation have died in ocean flights since the memorable non-stop flight of Lindbergh from America to France and others will die also as they contribute their part to make flying safe for future generations.
 The determination and grit of American fliers in the face of almost sure death is as matchless as the brilliance of the brightest star of the firmament, and while their sacrifice seems cruel and unnecessary, it cannot be said of them that

GRID OUTLOOK IMPROVES IN THIS STATE

By WHITNEY THARIN, Associated Press Staff Writer
 Charlotte, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Business is getting better in North Carolina's football world and even though none of the coaches is leading a cheering section, a few are at least openly smiling.
 Wallace Wade, at Duke, broke down and confessed that the manner in which his A team defeated the B outfit 19 to 0 in a practice game was anything but disheartening.
 The running attack, he added, was functioning more smoothly.
 Individual as well as team action has improved at the Blue Devil headquarters. Mason, one of the chief candidates for quarterback, and Laney, another back, have improved their passing.
 Captain Brewer is hitting the line harder and Friedman, a linesman, is showing excellent defensive work. North Carolina's search for a fullback appears to have been answered by Stuart Chandler, a made over halfback. If he keeps up the good work he is doing now, Coach Chuck Collins will probably give him first call for that important job on the Tar Heel team.
 Chandler was easily the star in the last scrimmage, scoring twice in a practice game, largely through his ability to plunge a line. Four teams are working out at Chapel Hill, however, and it would probably be a mistake to select Chandler for fullback before other promising players have hit their stride.
 Just what Coach Pat Miller meant when he said his Demon Deacons looked "as well as could be expected" is not known. If they looked as well as most Wake Forest alumni claim they will look, they looked mighty good.
 Among the best-lookers were Dunc Wilson, of Dunn, a back, Williams and Elise Webb, tackles, and Johnnie Dupree, guard, a second-string back who played against the varsity in scrimmage. Bill Johnson, attracted considerable attention by his ability to advance the ball.
 Coach Clipper Smith is finding that several N. C. State candidates are showing daily improvement. Willie Duke, who was shifted from end to guard, demonstrated in a hard afternoon's workout that he must be given consideration when the successor to the berth held down by Mack Stout, Wolfpack captain in 1930, is selected.
 John Lanning, Dirk Dellinger, Bob Cook and M. J. Cpminsky are backs showing unusual talent.

The heavy work preparatory for the Elion game Saturday has ended at Davidson and the remainder of the week will be spent in perfecting what the boys have been told and taught to do.
 Two veterans of last year, Don King, halfback, and Steve Brown, end, have not been in any of the Wildcat scrimmages this year. No reason has been given for holding these men out of the rough work but it is generally believed Coach Monk Younger is taking the chances of either of them getting injured.

CARDS CLINCH THE PENNANT IN NATIONAL

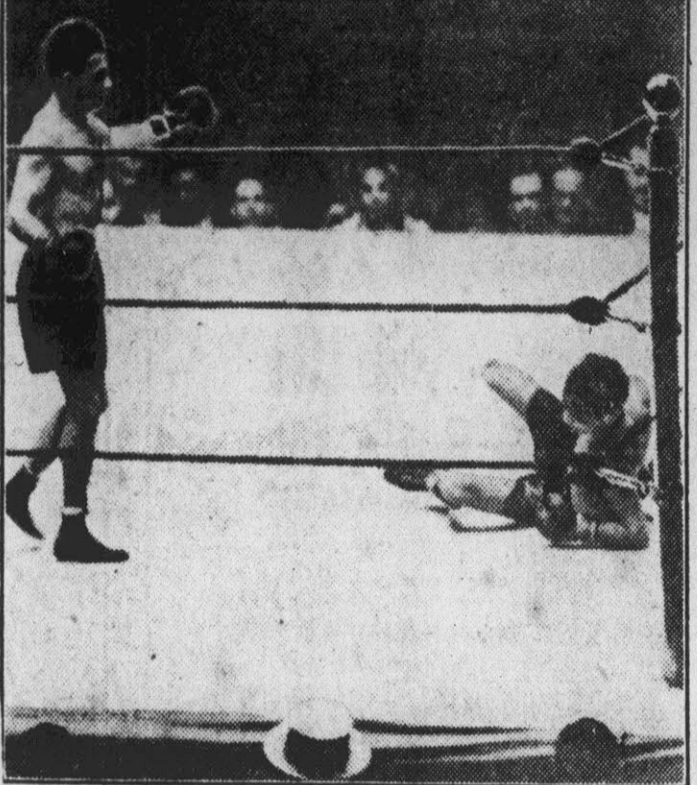

By GALE TABLOT, Associated Press Sports Writer
 The St. Louis Cardinals were in possession of their second straight National league pennant today, having clinched the flag early yesterday afternoon without the necessity of firing a shot.
 Their only remaining goal before they tackle the Philadelphia Athletics in the world series October 1 is to be the first National league club since 1913 to win more than 100 games.
 They have bright prospects of bettering the mark of 101 victories set by the New York Giants 18 years ago. Yesterday's 6 to 3 triumph over Philadelphia was No. 96, and they have nine more games to play before the curtain falls. They are likely to go on winning their share, as Manager Gabby Street announced last night he intended to use his best pitchers in their regular turn right up to the last day.
 Thanks to the Cincinnati Reds, who, it appears, had a mission after all, the Cards did not even have to win yesterday to sew up their fourth title in six years. The Reds attended to that nicely when they trimmed the New York Giants, 7 to 3, in the first game of a doubleheader. Their 4 and 3 victory in the nightcap merely added insult to injury. The first loss made it impossible for the McGrawmen to finish closer than a half-game to the top.
 The Chicago Cubs took a firmer hold on third place by beating the Boston Braves in two close ones, 6 to 5 and 8 to 7, and Brooklyn practically sewed up fourth by downing the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11 to 5.
 By way of celebrating their clinching the merican league flag the previous day, the Athletics rang up their 100th victory of the year at Cleveland's expense, 7 to 5. Big George Earnshaw went the route to record his 20th triumph.
 Alvin Crowder scored his eighth straight win as the Washington Senators took a 6 to 2 decision from the St. Louis Browns.
 By winning their third straight game from Chicago, 2-1, the Boston Red Sox bounced out of the American league cellar and left it to the White Sox.

CAPS TAKE THIRD GAME POST-SERIES
 Raleigh, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Raleigh's Capitals today had cleared the way for another trip to Charlotte.
 The Caps nosed out the Hornets, 13 to 12, in a free hitting baseball game here last night to win the third game of the Piedmont league's post-season series.
 The first two went to Charlotte and after tonight's game, the clubs sume the struggle for four wins will return to the Bee city to re-thatch will cop the pennant.
 The Caps slammed out 23 hits and if four errors had not been committed along with this barrage, probably would have held the Hornets to fewer scores.
 G. Snyder, Raleigh centerfielder, led the slugging brigade, getting four out of five. Every cap player except two got at least a pair of hits. Money was able to get only one safety and Francis, who pitched for four innings, failed to connect in his two times at bat.
 The game may have cost Charlotte the service of Manager Guy Lacy. The Bee skipper was hit in the face by Gus Snyder's hard bouncer in the seventh and was forced from the game.
 Earle Settlemyre, one of Charlotte's star pitchers, lasted only four innings before the Raleigh attack. He was relieved by Chief Wical after giving up 12 hits, but the chief failed to remedy the situation.
 Charlotte started out as if winning the third straight game of the series was going to be just another ball game. The Hornets jumped on Francis, Raleigh southpaw, for three runs in the opening inning, but the Caps came back in the second frame to score four times.
 Francis was forced to the showers in the fifth, when the Hornets scored four runs but the Caps came up in the same inning and tied the score at seven-all.
 Two more runs were added to the Cap score in the sixth and four more in the eighth.
 The Bees made a desperate bid in the ninth to tie the score but fell one run short when Bell popped out to end the game with a man on second.
 Briggs, who relieved Francis, got credit for winning the game, and Wical for losing it.
 High Point, —(AP)—North Carolina highway commissioners will gather here tonight for a meeting and the city is expected to ask a rerouting of Highway No. 10 to pass through High Point instead of skirting the city.

CANZONERI WINS TITLE BOUT

SPORTS SLANTS

The feminine dynasty shows no indication of yielding its rule in a number of fields where it has been necessary to cast about for new masculine leaders.
 Helen Wills Moody swept the courts for her seventh National tennis championship this year, more convincingly superior than ever as she finished her fourth straight season without the loss of a single set.
 Glenna Collett Vare, in the National women's golf championship at Buffalo, will seek her fourth successive crown and her sixth since she first triumphed in 1922 at White Sulphur Springs. It will be a new record in women's golf if she wins again.
 Helene Madison, the Seattle swimming marvel, has continued her unbroken string of conquests. With the 1932 Olympics in the offing she seems due to capture more aquatic honors than any mermaid has ever held before.

That Yankton Report
 It is a trifle early for the basketball argument to begin but before they become lost in the shuffle, you may as well have the inside dope from Ace Aase of the Yankton (S. D.) Press & Dakotan. It seems says Ace, that:
 "Yankton high school has won seven basketball championships and has been runner-up once in the past ten years in the state meet. Yankton was state representative at the annual Stags tournament at Chicago more than any other city and was runner-up in 1924.

 "Classed as a strong defensive team this year, the Yankton Bucks went through conference, district and state tournaments without a loss and amassed a total of 976 points to their opponents 378 in 28 games. One player alone scored 397 points or 19 more than the total of the school's opponents.
 Ray Hamann, six feet four inch 19-year-old boy who goes to the University of Wisconsin this year was all-state guard for four years. Smith, this year's captain, was all-state forward for three years.
 "They play football here, too. The Yankton Bucks scored 184 points to their opponents' 2 last year. It's a great defensive team. This seems to bring Yankton up to date, a trifle belatedly. Still, it's more than 45 minutes from Broadway and it takes time for these check-ups.
More Warner Tutoring
 Anytime Glenn Sobeoy (Pop) Warner accepts an engagement for football activity in the east, it is a fair assumption that the old fox has a few things to show the boys.
 Hence, there will be a gathering of the coaching clans when Warner's Stanford team plays Dartmouth in the Harvard Stadium late this season. They like to see what Pop will do next.
 Pop's last venture to the Atlantic seacoast was in 1928, at the expense of West Point, as it turned out. The Stanford Indians up on a football show at the Yankee Stadium that won more converts to the Warner system of play than any single football event on record. There was literally a wave of Warnerism after that slaughter. Even the army has "gone" Warner since then.

 Warner has been out on the coast so long that many in the east forget he was famous for his coaching ingenuity in these parts before shifting his activities to Stanford. Pop sent Andy Kerr out to pave the way for his advent. Afterwards, Andy came right back east to set up a duplicate of his mentor's system at Colgate.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: "I'm rich!" Fourth Alderson exclaims, telling his step-daughter Sam Sherrill, that his invention has proved successful. Sam believes it worthless, and charges Fourth with taking money to promote it from Eugene Frye, who is interested in him. Sam is actually head of the family, for her mother willed her complete charge of finances and property after Fourth reduced the family to poverty by bad investments. Feeling herself responsible for the family's social and financial troubles, Sam has become engaged to Peak Abbott. Peak is an attractive young millionaire, but Sam prefers Freddy Munson, whom she had intended to marry. Fourth has used his newly acquired money to evict his son Nelson and Nelson's wife, their former maid, from the house, by providing an apartment for them. Indignant at Sam's suspicion about the money, Fourth throws Sam a paper and gives her an hour to read it and change her mind.

Chapter 20 MYSTERIOUS MR. BURKE

After a time Sam idly pulled the paper toward her with the tip of her shoe. She read it through carefully, twice. Then she shrugged and, crossing to the telephone, called Peak Abbott's number.

"Hello, Peak," she said briefly when he answered. "Fourth has contrived to sell his invention to the precious widow Frye. Isn't that jolly?"

"No!" Peak was incredulous.

"No? Well, Fourth has suddenly come into a lot of money from his invention and I'd like to know where else he could have found it. No, I'm afraid the widow is the charitable organization. The point is, Peak, that you and I have got to find a way to give her money back."

"I suppose so. What do you want me to do—call the woman and tell her that she's being taken for a sleigh ride?"

"It won't be necessary to call the widow. The man I want you to get in touch with is named Arthur A. Burke. He's the man who signed his name to the contract Fourth has. On the paper he calls himself the president of the A. A. Burke Manufacturing Company, but that's just a blind, of course. He's really the Frye woman's agent."

"I see. You think that Mrs. Frye is using an agent so as to deceive Fourth as to the real source of the money?"

"I think it's more likely that I am the one who's being deceived. Fourth has sense enough to know that I'd hit the roof if I found he was taking money from the widow."

"All right, Sam. I'll look Mr. Burke up the first thing in the morning and whisper gently in his ear."

"No, that won't do," Sam said. "I want you to try to reach him by telephone tonight—right away. You see, Fourth has delivered an ultimatum. Either I am to accept his preposterous story that Eugene Frye hasn't anything to do with this business, or else he and I part forever. He has given me an hour's grace."

"Whew!" Peak whistled. "It sounds as though Mr. Alderson has laughed haughtily upon his high horse."

"He's very much on his high horse. You have no idea. Will you do this for me, Peak?"

"Peak assured her that he would be only too glad to help, and that he would telephone as soon as he had any news. Forty-five interminable minutes later the telephone bell rang."

"Peak's voice had a peculiar note. 'Well, Sam,' he said slowly, 'I managed to unearth the esteemed Mr. Burke. He and I had a heart to heart talk, and—'

"And what?"

"Well, it's all rather amazing. Are you prepared for a shock?"

"Yes."

"Then button up your overcoat. The tidings seemed to be that we have shamefully abused the widow Frye."

"Abused her?" Sam rasped. "Are you trying to tell me, Peak, that Eugene isn't in on this thing?"

"Exactly," Peak chuckled. "It appears that she isn't even an innocent bystander."

"How do you know?"

"I know by several things. Mr. Burke assured me—"

"Naturally!" Sam laughed disdainfully. "That's what he's being paid for—to assure you."

"Please!" Peak was reproachful. "I'm not quite an innocent child, you know. I didn't accept Mr. Burke's unsupported word. To the contrary I took considerable trouble to corroborate it. That's what has taken so long."

"Go on," said Sam weakly. "Tell the little girl more."

"I will," said Peak crisply. "The fact is that Fourth has struck oil. He is being backed by the A. A. Burke Manufacturing Company, which is a legitimate concern doing legitimate business. They have studied Fourth's circuit breaker and have come to the conclusion that it is practical. As a result, they have done three things. They have paid him a very tidy sum for his patent right; they are giving him an eminently respectable salary to help them in the work of simplifying the device; they have agreed to pay him a small royalty when the product finally goes on the market."

"Yes?" said Sam politely. "And are the larger rivers still running toward the sea?"

"Peak laughed. 'I don't blame you for feeling that way, Sam, but the whole business is true, just the same."

"There was a prolonged silence and then Sam murmured: 'You must come out some Saturday for a spin in our new yacht.'

"It isn't quite that bad, but it's bad enough. Fourth has acquired himself a sizeable chunk of money. Isn't it amazing?"

"Not at all. Things like this happen to me every day. Call me up in the morning, will you please? My head may have stopped spinning by that time."

"It had better stop spinning before then. Unless I'm very much mistaken, old dear, you owe your stepfather a very handsome apology!"

"Sam apologized to Fourth. She apologized in spite of the fact that the whole thing seemed incredible. Fourth accepted her apology wholeheartedly, for he was in need of someone to whom he could express something of his very natural exultation."

"They were to live and entertain in a way that would make the world sit up and take notice, he told her. 'And there's another thing this money will do!' he cried. 'It will give me a chance to laugh at those people who have been hinting that you are marrying Peak Abbott on account of his millions!'

"Oh," Sam said mildly. "Have they been saying that?"

"I'm sorry, Joan. He was instantly repentant. 'From now on any fool will know that you don't have to marry Peak Abbott, or any other man, for his money. As far as money is concerned, Joan, you're absolutely free!'

"Sam nodded slowly. 'I hadn't thought of that. I'm free.' She looked up with a peculiar little smile. 'That's an amusing idea, isn't it?'

"The days went on, but the atmosphere of unreality persisted. In a sort of dull wonder Sam watched Fourth hurry through his breakfast so that he could be off to work. She saw him come home, night after night, exhausted but happy. She looked at the new rugs and furniture in the living room with the same sort of polite incredulity that she regarded the two new servants in the house. None of it was true, she told herself over and over, and one of these fine mornings she would wake up to find that the dream had ended."

Nelson felt the same way. He had been at home late one afternoon when Sam had dropped in to visit Martha, and had stood by quietly while the two girls had exclaimed in unison over the many conveniences of the new apartment. Then when Sam had said that she must go, he followed her out to the little couple at the curb."

"Look here," he had demanded with a frown just as she was about to put her foot on the starter. "I wish you'd tell me just what is wrong with this whole business—with everything that has done on around here in the past few weeks."

"Oh," Sam shrugged. "You're talking about Fourth's money. It's rather remarkable. I'll grant you, but I suppose it's true."

"I'll say it's remarkable! Can you imagine a fortune falling into our laps, and more particularly can you imagine Fourth being responsible? If you can, you're different from me. I'm completely defeated!"

"I know," Sam nodded. "I've been in a sort of fog myself. I keep telling myself that it's too good to be true, but still—"

"Exactly. It can't be true, but there it is, starting us in the face." He scowled. "Are you sure that this invention business is on the level?"

"Copyright, Freeman Lincoln"

The new money affects Sam's attitude toward Peak. "Let's not quarrel," she tells him tomorrow.

This evidence with other testimony, the coroner said, "Seems to indicate the death of Kane's wife was of a premeditated, carefully planned, deliberate character."

He said neither the letters he had nor their contents had been introduced on testimony before the inquest but were made a part of the record to be filed with the court.

The coroner said that "theatrical actions" and "conflicting statements" of the Tennessee professor added to his opinion of guilty. He said Dr. Harry D. Howe, who received the body of the dead woman at a hospital, told him that King was either sincere in his grief or an accomplished actor. The coroner also quoted Dr. Howe as saying he believed Kane sincere.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Elisha K. Kane, University of Tennessee professor, held for investigation in the drowning of his wife at Hampton, Va., has written of himself that "I am modest, quiet, dignified, staid and devout."

It was in an autobiography published by the Knoxville News-Sentinel April 6, 1930. Kane's article about his career was entitled "Autobiography Told With Frank Dishonesty."

"I binged about the world drinking deep of whatever experience had to offer," he wrote, "and it seems to me that experience then was not quite as dry as it is now." He went on to say "some time back—I got married and sobered up—marriage does that you know."

The professor of romance languages prefaced his autobiography,

"As to the truth of my writup, it is the sort of truth which Aristotle described as 'the illusion of a higher reality.' Personally I never tell the truth when a lie can be entertaining. In my writup—as in life—we shall not be able to separate truth from fiction."

At the beginning Kane said the sketch "herewith is not of Cyrano De Bergerac, but Elisha K. Kane playing the role of head of the Department of Languages at the University of Tennessee. If you will tune down the radio and put the children to bed I shall tell you who I am and why."

"I lived a normal boyhood; that is to say I disobeyed my parents on all occasions, fought, lied, stole, swore, played hooky and ran away from home. As I grew older I continued this wholesome existence. I was expelled from five colleges and two universities. It was my chief glory that I was invited by the registrar not to come back to Cornell."

Further along he wrote: "I have stoked by way across the Atlantic. I have crossed it as an official chambermaid for about 40 seafaring miles! I have liked and biked over Europe picked up whatever languages seemed easy, and they all seemed to come that way."

"Now, if a man has made a failure in everything he can always still get by at teaching or preaching. As I wanted to be honest I took up teaching."

"I am modest, quiet, dignified, staid and devout. I teach French but unlike some of my colleagues I like my students immensely."

"And now turn on the radio and let the children—God bless them—come out and raise hell again."

Kane illustrated the article with a pencil sketch of himself.

Four Men Go On Trial for Slaying During Afternoon

Wilmington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Solicitor Woodus Kellum set this afternoon for the trial of four New Hanover county officers indicted for manslaughter of Lupo Swinson Roberts Dudley, United States mail truck driver.

Roberts died from gun fire on the officers at Smith's Creek bridge near here several months ago when he was stopped as the officers hunted a liquor truck. He shot W. Paul Starling, a Wilmington deputy sheriff.

Those indicted are E. J. Hale, A. B. Crews and L. M. Massey, sheriff's deputies, and Porter Davis, a county patrolman.

Salisbury, —(AP)—Trial of Scott Winders for the killing of Sheriff Locke McKenzie has been set in Rowan Superior Court for Friday.

EVIL EFFECTS OF CONSTIPATION

Constipation locks up poisons in the body, and allows them to begin dangerous work against your health. Keep the bowels active. If constipated, one of the best things to do is to take Theodor's Black-Draught for prompt relief. Mrs. LeRoy Brack, 2810 Poplar St., Cairo, Ill., writes: "My mother used Theodor's Black-Draught in her home for years. She thought it was so good, she had me use it. I find it is fine for sour stomach and gas. A few doses, taken for several nights, makes me feel like a new person. I have found it very good and dependable."

Made from the leaves and roots of medicinal plants—free from mineral drugs.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Cotton opened barely steady at a decline of 4 to 7 points under a continuation of yesterday's selling movement which seemed to be promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables.

This decline carried all active months into new low ground for the season with December selling off to 6.67 and March to 6.98 under liquidation combined with southern and local selling.

At the low level considerable buying or covering for both trade and commission house account developed which absorbed the early offerings and caused rallies of 4 to 5 points, from the lowest by the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables said that hedging, liquidation and continental selling accounted for the decline in that market, but reported improved cloth sales to the continent and a sustained demand from China.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Despite an active export demand for wheat from North America, grain today tended to sag, influenced anew by vacillation of securities.

Black Sea shipments of wheat were heavy, 7,920,000 bushels for the week, an increase over the week previous and more than double those of a year ago.

Corn was under pressure from speculative sellers, with country offerings heavier, and 85 per cent of the Iowa corn crop reported safe from frost.

Wheat closed irregular at 1-2 decline to 1-4 advance; corn 1-8 to 1-7 down; oats unchanged to 1-8 higher, and provisions showing 2 to 12 setback.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The weather was squally in the securities market today, but at times clouds showed signs of lifting.

In stocks, several of the prominent industrials and utilities were well supported, and managed to hold near or above yesterday's final levels.

Several of the rails and specialties had periods of marked weakness, nevertheless. The bond market was also spotty.

Shares encountered rather heavy selling at the opening, rallied during the morning, sagged again during the middle of the day, and rallied again in the afternoon, following closely yesterday's tortuous course.

U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, and American Telephone were steady to firm, after a brief period of heaviness at the start. Auburn was shot up 10 points, as shorts were pinched. American Tobacco B, DuPont and Consolidated Gas gained about 2. In the midday sag, Aetna, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Chesapeake Corp. declined 2 to 5. Utilities Power and Light "A" was a soft spot in the Utilities, selling off more than 4.

In the inability of the market to

Gandhi Protests Conference Action

London, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi protested against the representation upon the federal structures committee of the Indian round table conference at its session today, declaring the members of the committee were not representatives of the Indian nation but of the government.

The Mahatma told the committee that its proceedings seemed to him to be interminable and to be leading nowhere.

Since Mr. Gandhi's speech Tuesday, the committee has been discussing a mass of detail under the Agenda head "direct and indirect methods of election."

The Nationalist leader declared that a feeling of oppression had been growing upon him since Monday and that it finally grew so great that he was compelled to protest against the manner in which the committee was going about its work.

BYRNS AGAINST HIGH TAX

He said it was economically unsound and politically immoral to pass on the debts incurred by the extravagance of this generation and future generations. He added that he favored a balanced budget for current expenses, but that some of the debts incurred in building and road programs might well be passed on to the future since generations then would inherit some of the benefits.

He thought the recent issue by the treasury of $1,600,000,000 in long term notes was unwise, and acknowledged he opposed meeting the deficit by even short term notes if a revision in higher income tax brackets would meet the treasury deficit.

One way to meet the deficit, Byrns said, was to drastically reduce expenditures. He said that prospective savings announced by President Hoover apparently would do very little good.

"The last Congress was one of the most reckless and extravagant I ever saw," he said, "but even so we are about $40,000,000 under the budget put forward by President Hoover's approval."

Think Voters Should Decide School Issues

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Before any further reductions are made in school costs in North Carolina, voters of the state should have an opportunity to express themselves, in the opinion of Dr. A. T. Allen, state superintendent of instruction. Dr. Allen, speaking over radio station WPTF here last night, said the recently enacted school law as an "economy measure" ought to "satisfy the most severe critic of operating costs." The new law provides for the expenditure of $17,000,000 for the state supported six months school.

"It ought not to be left to a few men to say that the schools must be further reduced," Dr. Allen said. "Every advance in education has been submitted to a vote of the people. The schools belong to the people because the children are theirs."

"If the people are tired and want to quit, of course they can do so in spite of everything anyone can do or say. Some way should be provided for the people to express themselves of public education. They are capable of deciding such issues."
