ATTEMPT TO SOLVE TRUCK TAX PROBLEM

Motor Vehicle Commissioners of Several States Meet At Chattanooga

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Unable to reach an agreement, officials of five southern states adjourned here today and instructed their chairman to call another meeting to see what can be done toward arriving at a reciprocal arrangement regarding automobile truck license difficulties.

W. S. McLinn, acting motor vehicle commissioner of Florida, was chosen chairman and said he would call another meeting within thirty or sixty days. A resolution unanimously adopted by the vehicle commissioners this morning, read:

"That we adjourn subject to call of the chairman to consider what can be done toward a reciprocal agreement."

Albert J. Woodruff, of Georgia, invited the commissioners to hold their next session in Atlanta.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Motor Vehicle Commissioners of several southern states met here in executive session today in another attempt to reach a solution of truck license difficulties.

The first meeting of the group last night adjourned without taking any action.

Solutions of the truck license question were offered after the meeting by Charles McCab, Tennessee commissioner of finance and taxation, and Albert J. Woodruff, member of the Georgia Public Service Commission.

Mr. McCab said that in Tennessee "we are taking each and every commercial carrier from out of the state that the highway patrol can find on our highways. And I think all commercial carriers—those big trucks that tear up our state roads—should be made to pay."

"As for the small scale farmer who hauls his own produce from Georgia, Alabama, or Kentucky into Tennessee, we are not molesting them."

Commissioner McCab suggested all states involved pass bills empowering representatives to meet and work out a reciprocal plan. The plan decided on, he said, should be adopted and proposed to the legislatures of all interested states for ratification.

"Tennessee has a bill pending now which we introduced," he said "and I understand Alabama and Georgia are acting likewise. Therefore all this agitation is doing more harm than good."

Mr. Woodruff said his solution would be Federal control.

"Until congress gives the Interstate Commerce Commission jurisdiction over every state's highways, that matter will cause dissension. We can't have reciprocity while each state has different laws."

Last night's meeting was opened by John E. Lovell, president of the Chattanooga Automobile club, and Cleman Roberts, president of the Carolina Motor Club, who suggested the delegates go into executive session to consider a "workable reciprocal plan."

Commissioner McLinn of Florida, offered a resolution, but Major Sprague Silver, the North Carolina representative, objected to its being read, but permission was given McLinn to read his resolution.

Howard Douglas of Kentucky was asked to speak, but Silver objected on grounds that Mr. Douglas is not a commissioner. Others in the meeting shouted "sit down" at Silver.

"Very well" Silver responded. "North Carolina will leave the meeting."

Confusion was so great that Chairman Lovell appointed J. O. Davis, chief of the Tennessee Highway Patrol, as sergeant-at-arms to preserve order, and the meeting was adjourned until today.

Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina, Georgia, and Florida were represented at the conference.

SEEK TO DEVELOP CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Charlotte, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Further development of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce will be sought when Marvin Shirley, manager of the Charlotte office, leaves on a tour of the state.

On his itinerary he will visit Lumberton, Wilmington, Fayetteville, Sanford, Raleigh, Chapel Hill, Durham, Burlington, Greensboro, Thomasville, Lexington, Salisbury and Concord.

WHO KILLED BENJAMIN P. COLLINGS AND WHY?

The bizarre mystery of who killed Benjamin P. Collings, Stamford, Conn., yachtman, and why remained as much of an enigma as ever even after the body of Collings, bound hand and foot, was found on a Long Island beach. The discovery of the body appears to give strength to the story of Mrs. Collings that two men invaded their yacht Penguin, trussed up her husband and threw him into Long Island Sound. Mrs. Collings also told of her abduction by the two "pirates" who forced her to leave their daughter Barbara alone on the abandoned yacht. Above pictures trace the night of horror and locate the action of the weird sea drama.

LIGHTNING KILLS ONE

Five Others Injured As Bolt Strikes Fish Fry Tent at Brown's Chapel, Va.

Washington Courthouse, Ohio, Sept. 18.—(AP)—One person was killed, five were injured seriously and 45 were stunned when lightning struck a tent in which a fish fry was being held last night at Brown's Chapel, 4 miles southeast of Clarksburg in Ross county.

Willard Ater, 50, caretaker of the chapel, was killed instantly. Alexander Mice was paralyzed by the bolt and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson were badly burned. Cott Carter was blinded by the flash but it was believed the blindness will be only temporary.

The remainder of the party were knocked to the ground but not badly hurt.

The lightning struck a wire which led into a tent where the fry was being given by women of the chapel. All of the injured were reported in a favorable condition today.

Creeks, swollen by heavy rainfall during the past 24 hours, reached flood proportions throughout Fayette county delaying traffic and damaging highways.

Maxwell Declines to Act on Charge Against Silver

Raleigh, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Allen J. Maxwell, state commissioner of revenue under whom Major Sprague Silver, deputy commissioner of revenue in charge of the motor vehicle bureau holds office, said today that he would take no action on reports printed in the press that Major Silver was "drunk" at a meeting of motor vehicle department representatives of southern states last night pending further reports.

"If reports in the press this morning are correct there is only one course this department could take but due to later and conflicting reports giving an entirely different interpretation of what happened in the meeting I will hold the matter open until reports are cleared up," Mr. Maxwell said.

Governor Gardner would not comment on the reports.

Texas House Postpones Consideration of Senate Resolution Calling Governor Long a "Consummate Liar"

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—In routine fashion, the House today passed on third reading and sent to the Senate its bill to prohibit cotton planting next year. The measure was not debated and the vote was not a record one.

The Austin, Texas, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The House of the Texas Legislature voted 63 to 47 today to postpone indefinitely consideration of a Senate concurrent resolution, calling Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana, "a consummate liar."

The Senate adopted the resolution Wednesday by a vote of 21 to 7.

Yesterday the Texas House of Representatives adopted a bill providing limitation of cotton acreage in 1932 and 1933 to one-third the cultivated area while the Senate followed the House's previous action in killing the "no cotton" bill.

The South Carolina representatives passed the cotton holiday bill on second reading after final approval by the Senate.

Gov. Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia awaited pledges for calling a cotton session and Gov. Harvey Parnell of Arkansas awaited return of a delegation he had sent to Texas to study the situation before taking action.

In Mississippi, meanwhile, Gov. Theo. G. Bilbo indicated that state would attempt no cotton relief until its regular session of legislature to be convened in January.

Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana yesterday served notice states need not look for his state for help in putting over an acreage reduction plan. He conceded defeat of "no cotton" plan with its rejection by Texas, producer of a third of the crop, since the Louisiana law required concurrence of states growing three fourths of the crop to become operative.

Pay Tribute to Men Who Helped Build Highways

High Point, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Through its Chamber of Commerce and six local civic clubs, High Point today had expressed its appreciation for the men who helped build this state's hard-surfaced highway system.

J. Elwood Cox, High Point banker, who served 10 years as Fifth District representative of the Highway Commission, was guest of honor here last night at a dinner.

PROBE DEATH OF COLLINGS

Wife Not Present At Inquest of Stamford Yachtsman in New York

Reidsville, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today decided the death of Hugh Dickerson, 21, farmer, who was found fatally shot at his home seven miles northwest of here yesterday, was a suicide.

His widow testified she remonstrated with him about leaving home to get some whiskey and left from the running board of his automobile. Dickerson, she said, apparently thought she was seriously injured and shot himself.

F. S. HARRIS LAID TO REST

Prominent Ayden Man Buried at Venter's Cross Roads Wednesday

Funeral services for F. Solomon Harris, 58, who died suddenly at his home in Ayden Tuesday morning, were conducted Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Mr. Dodd, pastor of the Ayden Methodist church, and Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, of this city. Interment was made in the family burying ground at Venter's Cross Roads.

Mr. Harris was an extensive owner of town and farm property and was one of the best known citizens of the Ayden community. He was a member of the Methodist church. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Jane Harris, a daughter, Miss Dallas Harris, of Ayden, and seven sons, J. Herbert and R. L. Harris, Greenville; Thad. Leslie, Floyd, Robert and Dixie, of Ayden. He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: Richard and Frank Harris, Ayden; Jim Harris, Vanceboro; Mrs. Carrie Dixon, Vanceboro, and Mrs. Sam Hardee, Ayden.

The following acted as pallbearers: N. O. Warren, E. O. Flanagan, R. C. Flanagan, Ed Johnson, Charles Forbes, J. D. Wilson, John Cannon, S. A. Whitehurst, W. H. Woodard, J. H. Waldrop, Ernest Dudley, G. F. Blanchard, J. C. Gaskins, J. P. Harrington, Dr. Joseph Dixon.

SEES SUCCESS IN EFFORT FOR UNEMPLOYED

Walter S. Gifford Is Confident Local Communities Will Care for Situation

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Confidence was expressed today by Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, that local communities will be able to handle the unemployment situation next winter.

Opening the meeting of the committee headed by Owen D. Young to mobilize relief resources, Gifford said the aim of his organization was to assist communities in their task of meeting the burden placed upon them by unemployment—whatever that burden may be.

"Last winter," he said, "public and private agencies in existence"

Cannon Opposes Gov. Roosevelt

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, home from Europe, intends to oppose Governor Roosevelt for president.

"Roosevelt has proven he is a wet," said the bishop. "I absolutely will not support him if he is nominated. I would say as much as I could against him. I would do all I could to help defeat any wet. I am rather a good Democrat, but if a wet runs and Hoover runs, I will support Hoover, unless he changes his prohibition stand."

Bishop Cannon, now under investigation by a Senate committee on the disposal of campaign funds which he collected in 1928 fight against Alfred E. Smith, returned from Europe last night on the Mauretania.

WILL HOP TO ALASKA TODAY

Moyle and Allen to Leave Isolated Area On First Leg of Flight to Seattle

St. Paul Island, Bering Sea, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Radio messages received here from the Russian steamer Buriat said Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, trans-Pacific fliers, planned to hop for Nome, Alaska, today, from Miano Filigno, small village southeast of Cape Navarin, where they were set ashore after being found Wednesday by a Russian ship.

The message said the fliers would go from Nome to Seattle, possibly in two hops, but did not say where the intermediate stop would be. It was believed here this would place them in Seattle about September 22, the date Moyle set for his arrival there in a message to Miss Frances Bresson, his fiancée, at Riverside, Calif.

First details of what happened to the California fliers who were found on a Siberian island this week nine days after they had taken off from Japan on a projected non-stop trans-Pacific flight, were published today by the newspaper Asahi.

The article, signed by Moyle and Allen, said they had been forced to turn back toward Siberia by a storm after they had circled over the Aleutian islands for about twenty hours.

The fliers, who transmitted the story from their rescue ship, the Russian steamer Riat, to Tokyo via the Ochiishi wireless station, at Nemuro, Japan, recounted their experiences after leaving the Japanese mainland at Cape Urumo, 110 miles from Umanishiro.

"For nearly twenty hours," they said, "we kept the plane up only by almost super-human efforts."

The dispatch said Moyle and Allen flew for 34 hours after leaving Samushiro beach (they had a fuel supply which they had estimated would last them about 47 hours) and managed to land on an uninhabited Aleutian island without damaging the plane.

The storm, they said, continued to rage and for seven days they were unable to continue their flight. On the eighth day, they realized,

KANE TO FACE TRIAL SEPT. 23

Bond of Tennessee Professor Charged With Slaying Wife Fixed at $16,000

Hampton, Va., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Bonds for the release from jail of Elisha Kent Kane, Tennessee University professor, charged with drowning his wife, was set at $16,000 today by Judge C. Vernon Spratley, in Circuit court. It was not immediately available but defense attorneys said the professors would be bailed during the day.

Immediately afterward Judge Spratley set September 23 as the date for a preliminary hearing in the case before county Police Justice J. E. Dixon. Percy Carmel, defense attorney, said the hearing would not be waived.

Roland D. Coke, commonwealth attorney, asked that bail bond be not less than $100,000. Frank Kerney, assisting the prosecutor, said the coroner's verdict that the drowning of Mrs. Jenny Graham Kane in Chesapeake Bay was a premeditated murder for which her husband was responsible, raised suspicion a capital case "in which there is no middle ground." Kerney supported the commonwealth's request.

Mr. Carmel said such bail was "outrageous and unreasonable" and that it appeared that the commonwealth was seeking to prohibit bail for a man entitled to it.

Judge Spratley said he had decided to grant bail and that it would be folly to make the bond prohibitive.

The townspeople of Hampton, who heretofore have paid scant attention to the investigations, carried out largely behind closed doors, filled the court house during the argument of the amount of the bail bond.

JUDGE FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Superior Court Jurist Discovered Dead in N. H. After His Resignation

Lancaster, N. H., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Eric C. Oakes, who resigned today as a superior court judge, was found shot to death in his home here this afternoon. A pistol lay near the body.

The body was found by Dr. William H. Leith, acting medical referee and a life-long friend of the judge. Dr. Leith said Judge Oakes telephoned him at 11 o'clock and asked him how long it would take him to get to his home. Dr. Leith said it would take him only five minutes and Oakes replied that such haste was not necessary.

Dr. Leith went to the house and found Judge Oakes dead in his bed with a pistol on the covers near him. He had been shot through the head.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Gov. G. Winant today accepted the resignation of Justice Eric C. Oakes of the New Hampshire superior court, whose automobile driving license had been suspended yesterday by the Commissioner of Vehicles after an accident in Milton a week ago.

Judge Oakes sent his resignation to the governor last night and announced at the same time he had signed in his operator's license "before they had a chance to request it."

Judge Oakes was taken to the Rochester police station after the accident, Frank Boston of the Rochester police said, and left the station later. Rochester police said that no charges had been brought.

LEAF SALES LEAD 1930

Greenville Market Continues to Show Poundage Gain Over Last Year

Sales on the Greenville tobacco market continue to maintain a definite lead over the corresponding period last year, the weekly report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, issued this morning, indicated.

Sales for the season were given as 8,711,774 pounds for a total sum of $693,578.10 at a general average of $7.98 per hundred pounds. Sales for the same date last season were given as 8,079,850.

Weekly sales continued to lead the similar period last year, although the price average, due largely to the offering of tremendous quantities of common tobacco, was unable to keep pace.

Sales for the week were given as 4,265,800 pounds for $350,474.23 at an average of $8.21 per hundred pounds.

For the same period last season the market disposed of 3,839,100 pounds of leaf for an average of $10.31 per hundred pounds.

The official report also indicated that the market sold 775,988 pounds yesterday at an average of $8.28 per hundred pounds.

It was estimated there was approximately a million pounds of leaf on the floors of the various warehouses today but sales were expected to be completed during the mid-afternoon.

The report of the supervisor conveyed the information that black tips, in increased quantities, were offered for sale during the week, holding down the market average to no little extent.

Farmers were several days ago advised not to market inferior grades of tobacco but to keep it at home and use it for fertilizer, belief being expressed that they would derive considerably more from this course than from offering it for sale.

Dr. Leith went to the house and found Judge Oakes dead in his bed with a pistol on the covers near him. He had been shot through the head.

FIVE GIVEN HEARING HERE

Scores of Others Expected to Appear Before U. S. Commissioner Next Several Days As Three Squads of Federal Officers Begin Three-Day Round-up; Majority of Defendants Given Hearing Here This Morning Operators of Filling Stations in and Around This City

One hundred members of the illicit whiskey traffic today faced indictments as result of activities of Federal agents in the eastern section of the state since July 6, it was announced from the office of U. S. Commissioner T. E. Beaman here this morning.

The first contingent of offenders from Pitt county faced preliminary hearings before Commissioner Beaman this morning and were released under bond for their appearance at the next sitting of Federal court.

The commissioner said it was impossible to say how many indictments had been issued in this immediate section, but stated that four squads of Federal agents were out today rounding up the violators for preliminary hearing. The round-up will continue for a period of three days or more.

R. D. Harrington, Greenville man, reported to have been arrested with a considerable amount of whiskey on his car, waived preliminary hearing this morning and was bound over to Federal court under bond of $2,000. His car was also confiscated.

Others who faced preliminary hearing during the day were: Louis Robinson, operator of a filling station on the north side of Tar river, about a mile from this city; George Bawley, filling station operator on the Greenville-Bethel highway, about two miles from Greenville; Herman Evans, operator of a filling station on the Vanceboro road on the outskirts of the city; Warren Bell, colored, operator of a combination store and filling station on the Vanceboro road, about two miles from Greenville.

All the defendants, Commissioner Beaman said, were held on charges ranging from possessing, transporting to sale of whiskey. Numbers of persons not indicted, but who were not sure whether they were or not, were reported to be missing from this section today as result of the beginning of the round-up, it was stated.

This is the first general round-up by Federal agents in this territory in the last two years, scores having been indicted, either fined or sent to prison, in the former raid.

Owing to the high bonds which the government has provided for violators of the prohibition law, it was said it would be extremely difficult for some of the defendants to arrange bail, and it was expected numbers would be remanded to jail to wait hearing in Federal court.

Gardner Says N. C. Will Produce Less Cotton Next Year

Raleigh, Sept. 18.—(AP)—North Carolina will grow less cotton next year, in the opinion of Gov. O. Max Gardner, because farmers will be unable to buy as much fertilizer as they generally do.

CAPS EVEN POST SERIES WITH BEES

Raleigh, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Charlotte and Raleigh aspirants for the Piedmont League pennant, today appeared to have adopted the "you take two and I'll take two" plan with the result that at least two more games will be played.

The Caps licked the Hornets here last night, 5 to 3, to even the post-season series with a pair of wins each. Charlotte won the first two games on its home field and the Caps took two straight here, they resume play at Charlotte tonight.

Raleigh won by taking advantage of its scoring opportunities. The Caps got only six hits and slammed out the bingles at the proper time.

The Caps took the lead in the opening inning when three runs crossed the plate and Lefty Coleman kept the situation well in hand for the remainder of the game.

Coleman gave up one run in the second, when Bell doubled and scored on Martin's single, another in the fourth, when both teams tallied, and the third in the seventh when Raleigh also added another.

Manager Strain, of the Caps, was presented with a loving cup, watch and suitcase just before the game opened. He responded by slugging out a single his first time at bat that was partly responsible for the three runs outfit scored in that frame.

Coleman kept the hits well scattered and was particularly effective in the pinches, despite the fact he walked seven men. Three of the three passes went to Brandes, Charlotte's shortstop, who got a single his fourth time up for a perfect night.

A crowd of approximately 4,500, apparently convinced the Caps were really in the fight despite the loss of the first two games, turned out for the game. Extra bleachers erected to seat 300 were well filled.

Former Claimant of Heavyweight Title Is Dead

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Funeral services for Marvin Hart, 55, claimant of the heavyweight boxing championship of the world, who died at his home in Fern Creek, a Louisville suburb, yesterday, have been set for Sunday afternoon.

Hart, who defeated Jack Root of Reno, Nev., July 3, 1923, for what he claimed was the world heavyweight title, died after an illness of nine months. He was fifty-five years old day before yesterday.

The Hart-Root fight was staged after Jim Jeffries announced he had retired and would present the title to the winner of a match between Hart and Root. Hart knocked Root out in the twelfth round.

Tommy Burns became recognized as world's champion after he beat Hart in Los Angeles eight months after the Reno fight and Jack Johnson later took the title from Burns.

In the eight months he fought as champion his earnings from all sources were only $10,000.

SOX GIVING FANS MUCH TO GOSSIP ABOUT

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Boston Red Sox are giving the home town fans something to talk about in the waning days of the 1931 campaign.

First, they pulled out of the American League cellar two days ago, and then, yesterday, one of their number set up a brand new record of two-baggers in a season.

When Earl Webb, crack right fielder, hit his 6th double off Jablonski of Cleveland in the second half of a doubleheader, he passed the all-time mark of 64 set in 1926 by George Burns, Cleveland first baseman. He had tied the former record in the first game.

In his successful effort to pass Burns' mark, Webb has been a two-bee specialist in recent weeks, stretching every possible hit to the middle cushion and going past that bag for nothing less than a home-run. He has made only three triples all season, but has 14 home-runs to his credit.

Webb's first double of the day helped the Sox beat Cleveland, 9 to 2, in the opener, but his record-breaker could not avert a 2 to 1 defeat in the nightcap. Johnny Hodapp's single in the ninth with the bases full gave the Indians the run.

The New York Yankees of Washington Senators, meanwhile, became involved in a hot fight for the coveted position by beating St. Louis twice while Washington was dropping its opener to Detroit.

Charlie Ruffin and Bill Dickey co-started to give the Yanks a 17 to 0 victory in their first game, Ruffin allowing nine well spaced hits and Dickey leading the offense with a pair of homers that drove in seven. Vernon Gomez, rookie left-hander, yielded only three hits in the nightcap and this time Babe Ruth parked a pair, his 41st and 42nd of the year, to give the Yankees a 6 to 1 victory.

Art Herring pitched Detroit to a 3 to 1 win over the Senators, blanking them until the ninth inning.

Chicago and Brooklyn locked horns in the feature bout in the National League, the Cubs finally pushing across the winning run in the last of the ninth after the Robins had scored twice to tie it in their half. The score was 4 to 2.

The veteran Tom Zachary allowed only five hits as the Boston Braves downed Pittsburgh, 10 to 0, in the first game of a twin bill, but the Pirates came back to take the second, 4 to 2.

No less a star than Paul Derringer was knocked from the hill as the New York Giants inaugurated their final series at St. Louis with a 7 to 2 victory.

GRID SEASON OPENS IN N. C. ON SATURDAY

By WHITNEY THARIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Charlotte, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Tomorrow North Carolina's 1931 football season will make its official bow when the Christians of Elon invade Davidson to test the strength of the Wildcats.

Elon, champion of the North State conference, and Davidson, a healthy member of the "Big Five," are the only state teams opening this early. All others wait until next week before trying their wings.

Bud Baker, of Lexington, N. C., will lead the Cats into battle. Baker was elected captain late yesterday after Coach Monk Younger had rescinded an order that Davidson would have no regular captain this season.

"The boys need a leader," was Younger's reason for changing his mind.

Raker played tackle the last two seasons, but this year has been shifted to end. He is a senior.

Doc Mathis, of Winston-Salem, was elected alternate captain. He is a guard and one of the mainstays of the line.

Kenzie Dofflemeyer, Elkon, Va., halfback, is captain of the team. Coach D. C. Walker will take to Davidson from Elon. Just what the Christians have this season will not be fully known until they tackle Davidson. Wildcat supporters look on the opening game as a "workout" affair but it is safe to say that Elon plans to make all the trouble it can.

While Davidson players draw a light workout as the starting of process for the game began, other state outfits had a easier time because of excessive heat.

Pat Miller, at Wake Forest, told his men September heat made strenuous football practice impractical and spent most of the time giving the boys verbal instructions in new plays. A short blocking practice was held in an effort to perfect timing and keep muscles loose.

Duke, under Wallace Wade, spent the greater portion of its time on offensive and defensive passing. Backs and ends tried blocking and tackling but a 5-minute dummy scrimmage was the most strenuous work.

N. C. State players went without scrimmaging, devoting the majority of their time to the perfection of plays and individual drills.

Flocking and tackling were stressed by Coach Clippert Smith, who announced a hard scrimmage was planned for today.

In his men practice, the gloomier Coach Chuck Collins get at the University of North Carolina.

"They have such a long way to go in this even sunny, as in latest complaint.

A good passer, a reliable punter, better blocking and harder working ends are his chief needs, he says.

DAILY REPORT

Greenville Tobacco Market

1,250,000 pounds on market today. Prices about the same with a tendency to strengthen as sales go on. We expect to see a larger per cent of domestic tobaccos next week and if so the average will go up to a much higher level. We urge you to keep your tobacco in dry condition. Right much tobacco in high order is showing up.

Unquestionably Greenville is the leading market in Eastern Carolina, although we are selling much tobacco from 1c to 3c that other markets are passing, which of course affects the general average. Better grades stronger yesterday afternoon than anytime since opening.

With 5 sales you can get your tobacco sold on any floor every day.

Greenville is attracting farmers from a longer distance than ever before and all say that the Greenville market is making the best showing of them all.

When you sell in Greenville you are getting the benefit of the best facilities in the East, and our buyers have orders from every user of bright tobacco in the world.

Every warehouse pulling together is making Greenville the very Best Market in the State.

Singing Contest. A singing contest at the colored graded school Sunday, Sept. 20, 1931. The contest will be between the Junior and senior quartettes of the city and the Washington quartette from Washington, N. C. Special seats for the white people. Station Clark and Herman Waters, Managers.

Council Meeting Held. The Pitt County Woman's Council of the Home Demonstration Clubs met in the Woman's Club building on Wednesday afternoon with a representation of about 20 members.

"America the Beautiful" was sung at the opening. Mr. Furelle was present and outlined the situation of the needy ones through the coming winter and stated that there would be a large increase with less funds. An urgent appeal was made for the club women to render the best aid possible.

Mrs. Cox read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report. In the absence of Mrs. O. H. Jackson, who was ill, Miss Nice took charge of the meeting. The achievement program will be held this year on the second Wednesday in November and the 4-H Club members will be invited to attend.

The singing contest in which the various clubs will participate, was planned for the Thursday night before Halloween, Oct. 29. We are looking for this to be a gala occasion. Music leaders were asked to make their selections and meet with Ola Tucker at an early date. All club women have been asked to plant a crepe myrtle tree to adorn the highways. Mrs. Lucella Stancil was appointed to head this committee.

Projects for the coming year were discussed and each club was given a slip to designate their selection. Mrs. J. C. Galloway, Mrs. Jerome McLawhorn and Mrs. L. S. Hardee were appointed to serve on this committee.

Names of those to serve on the different committees for achievement day were also read.

A play contest in which the clubs will compete may possibly be held at some time in December. Mrs. J. Brooks brought a very unique lunch box for our inspection.

A recreational period under the direction of Mrs. B. L. Tyson and Mrs. Stancil was enjoyed, after which adjournment followed. —Reported.

METHODIST SCOUTS TO MEET TONIGHT

The Methodist Scouts will meet tonight at eight o'clock in the Rotary building. Dr. McGeechey will be on the program. Each Scout is expected to be present. Joe Taft, Scoutmaster.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SINGING CONTEST HERE

Ten quartettes of negro singers will participate in a singing contest at Gorman's warehouse Friday night, Sept. 25 at 8 o'clock. It was announced by the committee on arrangements here today. Awards will be made to singers scoring the most points, and Greenville people will have the opportunity to witness the most extensive program of the kind ever held in this part of the state.

Heading the list of prominent quartettes from different parts of the state is the Union Star Quartette of Goldsboro. This musical aggregation sings over the radio at Raleigh each Sunday morning and is recognized as one of the leaders in the colored musical field.

The contest will be staged under white management, music will be provided by the Greenville colored orchestra, and seating space will be reserved for colored people.

The following will act as judges: W. W. Lee, S. F. Allen, Bill Lipscomb and E. S. Williams.

The contest will be sponsored by Circle No. 2 of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

WILL HOP TO ALASKA TODAY

(Continued from page one) beaten and bound, opened today without the presence of the widow, who had been asked to testify.

Before the inquest opened District Attorney Alexander Blue announced that he had requested the presence of Mrs. Collings despite previous statements that he did not intend to call her. He said he made his request to William Kelly of counsel for the Collings family.

Kelly arrived for the inquest with a stenographer but Mrs. Collings did not accompany him. He acknowledged having received the request from Blue but said that the physical condition of Mrs. Collings, who he said is under the care of two physicians in Stamford, did not permit her appearance as a witness.

Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings said in her first story to police that she left the Collings' cruiser Penguin with two men in a canoe while her husband, beaten and bound hand and foot, could still be seen floating in the water, it was testified today by Police Sergeant Robert Forest, who was first to question Mrs. Collings. He said she greeted him with a smile and told her story of two men boarding the boat and throwing her husband over the side. Then they took her away.

"Was your husband visible at that time?" he said he asked her. "Yes," he said she replied. "He was floating in the water near the bow of the boat." Forrest said Mrs. Collings told him that the men had promised her that if she kept quiet nothing would happen to her.

An hour after the inquest was opened adjournment was taken until two o'clock. Forest was still on the stand.

Forest said that when he was first summoned by telephone to go to Mrs. Collings he shaved and let her wait almost an hour on the dock where she was sitting. When he finally went there he said he asked "what's the matter lady?" and she smiled at him.

He said that she showed no evidence of having been crying and that a slight occasional quiver in her voice was the only indication of nervousness. After getting her story he said he put Mrs. Collings in an automobile and started to drive her to a police station. At her request they stopped along the way and she telephoned Stamford 2374.

Collings' sister, Miss Helen Collings, answered the telephone. Forrest said, and Mrs. Collings told her that "something dreadful" had happened.

SEES SUCCESS IN EFFORT FOR EMPLOYED

(Continued from page one) in communities throughout the country met the situation, on the whole, so that there was a minimum of suffering.

"They no doubt will do so again this winter even though the burden will be greater in many localities than it was a year ago. In some localities it may be less and there will not be the drought problem that there was a year ago."

"This organization is not conducting a drive for a national fund. Existing agencies in the United States in the various communities demonstrated effectively last winter their ability to cope with the situation then before them and are planning to do so again."

"This organization will in no way disturb these activities, but, on the contrary, is designed to be helpful not only to organizations and agencies throughout the country, which are already in existence, but also to those now being formed to deal with unemployment this winter."

"Gifford said that to have organized the country under a central organization would have been disastrous."

"This, he said, would interfere with agencies built up over a long period of time which are understood by the communities and which are conversant with the needs of their respective communities."

Young told the committee communities throughout the country are already perfecting plans for funds, public and private, to meet their own needs.

The purpose of the committee, he said, is to provide aid of a national character which local communities could not enlist for themselves. The co-operation of national church organizations, broadcasting systems, the motion-picture industry and national periodicals is assured, he said.

State's Evidence Nearing Close in Wilmington Case

Wilmington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A parade of witnesses today brought the state's testimony nearer an end and the prosecution was expected to rest its case late this afternoon in the trial of four New Hanover county officers in the killing of Lupo Roberts, United States mail truck driver.

Those on trial in the fatal shooting the night of March 15 of the Goldsboro men are E. J. Hale, L. M. Massey and E. L. Crews, sheriff's deputies and Porter Davis, a county officer.

Three women, Elizabeth Hines, Dorothy Jackson and Betty Gibson, took the stand this morning. All were passing on the truck at the time of the shooting at Smith's Creek bridge near here.

They said a car had blocked the road at the bridge and that Roberts started to descend after stopping his truck. They could not tell who shot first but said after the firing Roberts and W. P. Starling, deputy sheriff, were dead.

Five occupants of a car driven by George Warner next testified they had been stopped a few minutes earlier by the officers who apologized, saying theirs was not the car they sought. They did not know who fired first.

Dr. A. H. Elliott, now county health officer but then county physician, testified Robert's died from a bullet behind his left ear made by a bullet the same size Crews used in his pistol.

John R. Morris, sheriff of New Hanover county, said it was Roberts who fired first and that as Starling fell, Crews and Massey began firing. He said Davis and Hale reported they did not fire a shot.

Beddingfield told Judge J. P. Fletcher, in Juvenile court, the shooting was accidental. He denied he had ever threatened the girl.

Charles McGraw, 9, was the only child to testify at a summary hearing that Beddingfield had made the threat. Others said they had not heard the statement.

J. T. Beddingfield, father of the lad, has appealed to a Superior Court judge. Under Judge Fletcher's decision, young Beddingfield would remain at Jackson Training School until released by officials there.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Gilbreath were parents of the slain girl.

NATIONAL ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES

Thos. F. Clark Co., Inc., New York, Chicago, Indianapolis, Philadelphia, Kansas City.

ABOUT TOWN

Representative Byrns of Tennessee, Democratic House leader, caught the popular fancy of the public in declaring himself against enactment of any form of sales tax.

He also struck the proverbial nail on the head when he expressed himself in favor of legislation to make those in the higher income brackets pay their just and proportionate part of the nation's taxes.

"Why should we levy on necessities of life that the average man and woman have to buy, when those with huge incomes are not paying what they should in taxes?" he questioned.

The same interrogation has confronted other leaders of thought, but since the nation the last several years has been swept along on an apparently unending wave of prosperity nothing was done to bring the "higer-ups" to account.

With the question so forcefully brought to attention of the public quite recently it is to be supposed that Congress will do something to increase the government revenue without imposing upon an already sorely pressed people an additional tax burden.

Representative Byrns has started a movement that should gain enough momentum by the meeting of the next Congress to convince the legislators something must be done to collect from the tax-free sources and prevent the government deficit from increasing with the coming of next year.

The South Carolina Legislature didn't beat about the bush in providing legislation for relief of the cotton crisis.

Both Houses yesterday passed the bill prohibiting the planting of cotton in 1932, leading the way for others to follow.

Governor Long of Louisiana, who has been severely scored for his attempt to influence support of the holiday plan in Texas, found such favorable support in South Carolina he abandoned his plan for making inoperative a similar bill passed by the Louisiana Legislature.

While these two states are in favor of the holiday plan, Texas is debating a measure to restrict production to 25 per cent in the cultivated areas. It is difficult to understand how they are going to reconcile the two separate and distinct pieces of legislation for certainly Louisiana and South Carolina will not want to abandon cotton entirely for one year with Texas permitting cultivation of a 25 per cent acreage.

It is about time for other states involved to decide what they are going to do and see if all of them cannot reach some definite decision on a measure that will be favorable to all.

The tobacco producing states should not forget how important it is to embody provisions for the cultivation of the bright leaf crop, for with the cotton holiday it is certain more farmers will turn their attention to the planting of tobacco in spite of the congestion prevailing on the world market.

North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Kentucky are vitally concerned here and they should not be forgetful of this condition when they limit cotton production.

By going on record for repeal of the prohibition amendment, it looks as if members of the American Bar Association are willing to take bread out of their own mouths.

Looking over the congested court dockets, involving hundreds of cases for violation of the prohibition law, it is difficult to understand how the association can favor repeal when its members derive thousands of dollars weekly for defending violators in the courts of the nation.

There must be a higher motive involved in the association's action than the piling up of wealth at the expense of bootleggers. They evidently have a different slant on the situation than the countless thousands of supporters of the 18th amendment.

ple. They have seen the law at its best and its worst and assuredly realize the perils that would be involved in repeal. It is a big task they have undertaken but the action will have a far-reaching effect in some definite decision on the question is confidently assured.

FARM CLUB ORGANIZED BY FARMVILLE GROWERS

A farm club was organized by planters of the Farmville community at Farmville last night. John T. Thorne was elected president, J. W. Holmes, vice-president, and J. W. Lewis, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the club is to work out a definite farm program for the coming year.

John T. Thorne presided over the session and he and E. F. Arnold were the principal speakers. Refreshments were served under direction of Superintendent Boyd of Farmville schools.

NOBLES NEW MANAGER OF WESTERN UNION OFFICE

District Manager Jos. P. Price of Rocky Mount, today announced the appointment of J. S. Nobles as manager of the local Western Union office. The appointment is a promotion for Mr. Nobles who comes from Mount Olive where he has so well served the telegraph users of that city. The new manager is thoroughly familiar with the various classes of service furnished by the Western Union.

NEGRO AWARDED $1,125 IN DAMAGE SUIT HERE

Frank Smith, colored, was awarded $1,125 damages against R. G. Lassiter Co., and Raleigh Granite Works by a jury in the civil term of Pitt County Superior Court today. He was suing for $5,000.

Smith, who was sentenced to two years in the State's prison from this county in 1927 was hired by the State to Lassiter and the Granite Works. While in their employ he lost a hand in a piece of machinery, claiming that his injury resulted from defective operation. The defendants, however, contended there was no defect in operation and that the injury was through carelessness.

The case went to the jury yesterday afternoon but decision was not reached until shortly before the noon hour today.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: Sudden riches descend upon Sam Sherrill through the success of her stepfather's invention. She has had a hard pull managing the family affairs. Her mother left her control of the property, because the poor business ability of her stepfather, Fourth Alderson, reduced the family to poverty. Sam realizes now that her engagement to Peak Abbott, owner of the Express where she works, would not have been necessary. She loves Freddy Munson, but accepts Peak's offer of a businesslike marriage because of the need of money and because her stepbrother, Nelson, hurt their social prestige by marrying their maid. She has been slow to believe in Fourth's invention, fearing that he got the money from a rich widow who is interested in him. Nelson is also suspicious, doubting the invention's value. "Are you sure that this invention business is on the level?" he asks Sam.

Chapter 21
ONE SMALL PROMISE
"Yes, Nelson. I had the same idea, myself, at first, so I asked Peak to investigate. He says it's on the level."
"That darned invention—can you beat it? Do you remember how we used to laugh about it?"
"I do," Sam smiled. "It rather looks as though the joke were on us, after all."

When Sam got home to the stable, Fourth led her into the living room. He was carrying a check "I have here," he announced, "a little gift which I have been meaning to give you for some time. I warn you, however, that it is given only under certain very definite conditions."

"The conditions are that you are to spend every cent of it on clothes for yourself. Not only that, but you are to spend every cent of it in one day. Every penny must go between the rising of the sun and its next setting. Do you agree?"
"Do I agree?" Sam laughed. "I never agreed to anything more readily."

"Good," Fourth nodded and dropped the check in her lap.
Sam picked up the check and glanced at the figures on its face. Then she gasped.

"Fourth!" Sam waved the check in a sort of panic. "Why this is a perfectly enormous amount of money! This is more than I spend on clothes in a year. You must take it back!"

"Nonsense!" Fourth was tremulously pleased with himself. "We have plenty of money now, and I intend that you shall begin to realize it." He waived an admonitory finger. "Remember now. You've promised to spend it all in a single day."

Sam, of course, said the thing was impossible, and that she would never be able to go through with it. "Spending money is a habit," said Fourth with a grin, "but it's one which is very easily acquired. Something tells me that you'll learn rapidly. At any rate you must give it a try."

Sam gave it a try the next day, and she found that Fourth had been right. She seemed to have a talent for spending money. It flowed from her hands swiftly and without the slightest pain.

When, at last, she returned to the stable, her money was gone but there were bright spots of excitement in her cheeks. She had been living in a dream, and something within her demanded insistently that the dream must go on. She telephoned Peak, therefore, as soon as she had taken off her hat.

"I have an assignment for you tonight," she told him swiftly. "I warn you that it won't be easy. How's your strength?"

"My strength is magnificent, Sam. What's the bad news?"

"Just this," Sam laughed. "I want you to take me in town to dinner. I don't want an ordinary dinner, understand, but the quinquessence of dinners. After that we can drop in for the last act of the finest possible musical comedy. The evening might conclude with dancing at the Ritz. Flowers will be expected, of course, with orchids preferred. How about it?"

"Grand!" Peak whistled. "It reads like what I've been wanting to do for the past six months."
Peak fell into the spirit of the thing and performed his task perfectly.

He saw a new Sam. Instead of being silent and preoccupied as she had been for so long, she was gay and carefree. It was obvious that she was sincerely happy. Peak wondered if he would be able to keep his head throughout the entire evening. He told himself grimly that he must. There must be no word or gesture which might possibly give the lie to his carefully built-up attitude of almost impersonal friendliness.

He did very well during dinner and at the theater, but when they were seated at their little table in the Ritz grill afterward, he could not resist an overpowering impulse to speak about her appearance.

"Your dress, Sam," he said slowly.

"Your new dress. It's simply brilliant!"

"Thanks, Peak!" She smiled. "It really isn't a dress though. It's a symbol of a new era."
"Oh," he frowned. "I see what you mean. You mean it's a symbol of your new financial standing."

Sam told him of her shopping expedition. She sighed. "I suppose I'll wake up when the clock strikes midnight."

"I don't think so, Sam." He shook his head. "There's no reason for you to wake up, because the whole thing is true." He looked at her closely. "I wonder if you know how true it is, and precisely what it means. It means, you know, that your reason for marrying me is removed."

The animation went out of Sam's face. "I've thought of that."
"Of course you have." He looked away. "Well, nothing remains but for you to say the word."

Sam played with the engagement ring on her left hand. Then she said quietly: "I've told you that I'd marry you, Peak. Remember that. I've promised."

Peak said calmly, almost indifferently: "I hope you won't let anything so unimportant stand in your way."

"Unimportant? I'm not so sure. A promise is a hard thing to dodge."

"Perhaps, but your whole life is a fairly important thing. If I were you I'd do some serious thinking before I decided to let it be influenced by one small promise."

Sam looked at him for a moment and then shook her head. "Are you always like this, Peak?" she inquired gently. "Don't you ever think about yourself at all?"

"Nonsense!" He scowled and the color deepened in his face. "I think about myself constantly. I hardly ever think about anything else, as a matter of fact."

"Really?" Sam was pleasantly skeptical. "Are you thinking about yourself when you advise me to break our engagement? From what you've said about your feeling for me, I should say that you were thinking about anything but your own interests."

"Quit it, Sam!" said Peak almost angrily. "Quit trying to make me out a little tin god. You'll find out soon enough that I'm not."

"I didn't say you were a little tin god. I just said that you were not exactly selfish."

"Selfish is just what I am! I'm not anxious to know that I've ruined your life. I tell you to think carefully, and I mean it!"

"All right, Peak. Let's not quarrel." She smiled. "I'll promise to think carefully—but not for a while. I'm going to have myself a good time. By the way, do you think you could find some one to take my place on the Express?"

"Why, I think so." He stared. "Do you really want to give it up?"

"Yes."

"That's strange." He was frankly surprised. "I thought you said you were going to give it up."

"I know what I said, but that was some time ago. I'm not the same girl anymore. I've changed. You have no idea." She nodded brightly. "And now, if you don't mind, we won't talk about serious matters any longer. From now on, I'm going to have a good time. Do you understand, Peak. I'm going to have an utterly foolish but perfectly splendid good time!"

An utterly foolish and perfectly splendid good time was just what they had. When they finally arrived at the front door of the stable Sam was utterly exhausted but still thoroughly happy.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 3 points which was only a partial response to relatively firm Liverpool cables.

There appeared to be considerable trade buying and covering but it was supplied by southern and scattered selling which seemed to come partly from Liverpool and the continent. Prices worked off slightly after the call with December selling off from 6.73 to 6.68 and March from 7.02 to 6.98, or back to about the low records of yesterday.

Trading was moderately active at the start with southern hedging somewhat more in evidence, although it was said to be still below normal for this season of the year.

Liverpool cables said the market there had been influenced by local and continental buying on acreage restriction, which was supposed to refer to progress made with the proposed acreage bills in the Texas state legislature. These cables also reported rather a better British home trade in cotton goods.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Pronounced weakness of the stock market had a bearing effect today on deferred deliveries of wheat and corn, but failed to depress September contracts.

Enlarged shipping demand for corn, with vessel charters taken for 400,000 bushels, tended to uphold the current month's grain prices. There were also advices that importing countries were paying good premiums for high grade wheat.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 1-8 lower; corn 1-2 to 5-8 decline to 1-4 advance; oats unchanged to 5-8 off and provisions unchanged to 20 down.

STOCK MARKET

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER (Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Wall street quickly lapsed back into its habitual state of despondency today, as the late upturn in share prices yesterday proved merely another gesture.

Stocks fell back abruptly and bonds were unsettled by fresh weakness of the foreign issues. In foreign exchanges, most of the leading currencies were well supported, but the Canadian dollar slumped to an extreme discount of 13-4 cents, the lowest in two years.

The decline in shares was one of the most sweeping of recent weeks, although selling was in only moderate volume. Allied Chemical, McKeesport, American Tobacco "B", Air Reduction, DuPont, Consolidated Gas, Eastman, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and others declined 3 to 6 points.

Domestic trade reports still failed to provide much encouragement. Responsiveness in pipe manufacturing is overshadowing sluggishness in other lines, and providing considerable satisfaction. The week's mercantile reviews pointed to the recent hot spell as a deterrent to retail distribution of Autumn merchandise, but indicated that wholesale trade was about holding its own.

Two Counties Not to Participate in Extended Term Fund

Raleigh, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Ninety-eight of North Carolina's 100 counties will share in the $1,426,875 allotted by the State Board of Equalization as a "tax reduction fund" to aid school districts to operate extended terms of two months beyond the state supported six months limit.

A tax rate of 14 cents or less was fixed as the rate for participation. Guilford and New Hanover counties are the only ones not participating.

Using the state school provisions as a standard, the board calculated the cost of all extended term districts at $4,415,123. From this was deducted the $1,500,000 state fund voted by the 1931 legislature, leaving $2,915,123 to be provided by local taxes.

The board fixed the combined valuations of all districts at $2,737,024,233. The 14 cents rate was fixed as necessary to produce the amount required from local funds. Each district received the difference between the amount produced by this rate upon its valuation and the district cost.

The board, in a statement, said it "is now evident that without this fund perhaps fifty percent of the districts would have been unable to operate for a full term during the present year."

Believe Roosevelt Will Veto G. O. P. Unemploy't Bill

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18.—(AP)—D-fying both the Democratic governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the Republican state chairman, W. Kingsland Macy, by refusing to pass the governor's bill for unemployment relief, the Republican-controlled legislature planned to finish its work today and adjourn the extraordinary session.

It was believed, however, that Governor Roosevelt would veto the Republican plan and promptly call another special session in an effort to force the Republicans to pass his $20,000,000 program.

Former Senator Dead Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—John F. Nugent, former senator from Idaho, died at his home here today of heart disease.

Football Players Injured Winston-Salem, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Five members of the Campbell College football team were injured today when the bus they were riding crashed into a pole at the foot of a steep grade here. None of the injured were believed serious, however.

Try to Prevent Removal of Key As S. S. Teacher

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Officers and executive committee members of Mayor James L. Key's Bible Class in the Grace Methodist church today moved to prevent his removal as teacher over his anti-prohibition utterances.

A special committee of five was named to wait upon the Rev. R. Z. Tyler, pastor of the church, to ask that the mayor continue as the class instructor.

Yesterday the pastor said Mayor Key had been requested to refrain from further criticism of prohibition. "The mayor refused and the pastor announced his leadership of the class had been terminated as a result. He said the action was taken in the interest of peace in the church school. Yesterday the Mayor said:

"If Mr. Tyler had asked me to refrain from discussing prohibition in the church or before an assembled class, I would have agreed, but he said 'anything else' and there are not enough Methodist preachers in the world to drizzle me in any such manner. I could not accept those conditions."

Tokyo, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Rengo News Agency dispatched from Fukuoka, Japan, said today Colonel A. Lindbergh had announced he was going to Europe, but did not name the route he might follow after completing his air tour of China, upon which he expects to start from Fukuoka tomorrow.

Rengo also quoted the Colonel as saying he would fly as far as Europe but would not attempt a flight to America.

Raleigh, N. C.—(AP)—Rules and regulations governing North Carolina banks will be adopted next Monday by an advisory commission to the Commissioner of Banks.

Tokyo, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Rengo News Agency said today it understood Japanese authorities had decided to grant Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., American fliers permission to take their plane from here to Samushiro Beach preparatory to attempting a non-stop flight to Seattle.
