HOOVER ASKS LEGION TO HELP LEAD WORLD OUT OF 'DEPRESSION'

SAYS ECONOMY IS NECESSARY

President Solemnly Warns Annual Convention at Detroit of "Grave Risks" of Increasing Federal Expenditures; Likens World Economic Crisis "Second Only to War"; Expresses Confidence That By "United Action We Will Lead the World Back to Recovery."

Olympia Arena, Detroit, Sept. 21.—(AP)—President Hoover today called upon the American Legion to enlist in a peace-time fight for government economy designed to lead the world out of the slough of depression.

Solemnly warning the annual convention of the Legionnaires against the "grave risks" of increasing federal expenditures, either through further veterans or other legislation, the president likened the world economic crisis "second only to war" and expressed confidence that "by united action we will lead the world in recovery."

The president pointed out that the treasury was faced with another large deficit, that income taxes had declined 50 per cent since the period of prosperity and that the nation was carrying at the same time a "high and necessary extra burden" of public works in aid to the unemployed, of aids to agriculture and of increased benefits to veterans.

He said he was directing the most drastic economy in every "non-vital branch" of the government, yet the essential services must be maintained, including provision for disabled soldiers, agriculture and the unemployed.

He warned that taxing only the rich would not wipe out the Federal deficit.

"We must face the absolute fact," he said, "that the rich can be taxed to the point of diminishing returns and still the deficit in our ordinary and necessary expenditures would not be covered even upon a basis of the utmost economy."

"Make no mistake; in these circumstances it is those who work in the fields, at the bench and desk who would be forced to carry an added burden for every cent of our expenditures."

Either loans or taxes beyond the very minimum necessities of government, he added, would drain the resources of industry and commerce and, in turn, increase unemployment.

He emphasized he was not speaking alone of veterans' legislation but equally of demands for every other proposed requiring increased Federal appropriations.

"The first stone in the foundations of stability and recovery both at home and in the world," he said, "is stability of the Government of the United States. It is my purpose to maintain that stability and I invite you to enlist in that fight."

The president's speech, written hurriedly because of his last minute decision to address the Legionaires, was not completed until a short time before he reached Detroit.

Thousands lined the concourse and streets surrounding the Union Station to welcome the president and his party. Other thousands lined the streets enroute to the Olympia Convention Hall. There was no loud demonstrations until Mr. Hoover took the platform to begin his speech.

Then the hundreds of Legionnaires, in uniform and civilian dress, rose and cheered the president.

Ralph T. O'Neal, National Commander of the Legion, introduced the president and after flashlights permitted scores of photographs, Mr. Hoover began his address.

Two national radio networks carried the speech to the nation.

The colorful audience frequently interrupted the president with loud applause, first as he declared united action would permit America to lead the world to economic recovery, and again as he accepted the offer of the Legion to cooperate in nation-wide recovery.

Altogether the president was in (Continued on page five)

Three Missing Fliers Picked Up By Vessel

Hullfax, N. S., Sept. 21.—(AP)—All three fliers, recently lost on a flight from Portugal to New York, were found today by the Norwegian motorship Belmoira, bound for Russia from Albany, N. Y., reported this morning finding the wreckage of the plane in which Wiley Rody, Fernando da Costa Viera and Christian Johansen, left Lisbon for New York. The motor ship sighted the wreckage off the Newfoundland coast where it was last seen in the air by a steamer. Later another message came from the Belmoira reporting that two of the fliers had been taken from the wreckage. Still a third message brought word that all three were saved.

BELOVED MAN PASSES AWAY

Zebulon M. Whitehurst Died at Home on Fifth Street about Noon Hour.

Zebulon M. Whitehurst, 77, prominent citizen of this city, died at his home on East Fifth street today about the noon hour. Death came after several years of illness, the last two years having been spent in bed following a stroke of paralysis.

Despite the intense pain which attended his illness, Mr. Whitehurst bore his suffering with Christian fortitude and always manifested interest in the community.

Funeral services will be conducted from his late home tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. W. H. Cover, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, assisted by Rev. W. A. Lillycrop, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Burial will be made in Cherry Hill cemetery.

He was born in Martin county, October 31, 1853, and would have been 78 years old next month. He was married to Miss Rebecca Sherrod December 22, 1880, and moved to Greenville about 27 years later.

He was a member of Immanuel Baptist church here and was an active Mason until ill health forced him to give up his activities in this field.

He was held in the highest esteem by a wide circle of friends in this and surrounding communities and his death was received with profound sorrow.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and five daughters: N. H. and Z. M. Whitehurst, Jr.; Mrs. S. S. Williams, Newport News, Va.; Mrs. Lucy Gibson, Greenville; Mrs. N. E. Winslow, Scotland Neck; Mrs. Mary Whitehurst, here; and Mrs. Robert Barbee, Salisbury. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. J. D. Taylor, Tarboro; a brother, B. B. Sherrod, of Hamilton; and fourteen grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. J. H. Kline, active: H. L. Hodges, J. B. Kline. (Continued on page six)

WINS CASE IN CIVIL COURT

R. L. McLawhorn to Receive a Disability Claim Against Life Insurance Company.

R. L. McLawhorn emerged victorious in his case against Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company in the concluding session of civil court here Saturday afternoon. Immediately after disposing of the case Judge Clayton Moore, of Williamston, adjourned the one week term of court which began Monday morning.

McLawhorn, who lost a hand in a dynamite explosion in 1929, was suing the insurance company for $20 a week, as contained in the permanent disability clause of his policy, contending that he had been permanently disabled as result of the injuries. He also asked that premiums for that period be waived.

The insurance company contended that the injury was not of a permanent nature, declaring that the plaintiff was not prevented from working by the loss of the hand.

The case was begun Friday but not completed until late Saturday afternoon. Numbers of cases were disposed of during the week's sitting of the court, and the majority of them were of the knotty kind and required considerable time in finally completing.

MAJOR SILVER LOSES OFFICE

Deputy Commissioner of Revenue is Removed from Office by Consolidation.

Raleigh, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Major Sprague Silver, deputy commissioner of revenue in charge of the motor vehicle bureau of North Carolina, was removed from office today by a consolidation of his department with that of the motor theft bureau.

L. S. Harris, who has been chief of automobile inspectors since 1924, was named head of the consolidated motor vehicle and motor theft bureaus by A. J. Maxwell, commissioner of revenue to succeed Mr. Silver.

Mr. Maxwell said Mr. Silver was no longer in the employ of his department in any capacity.

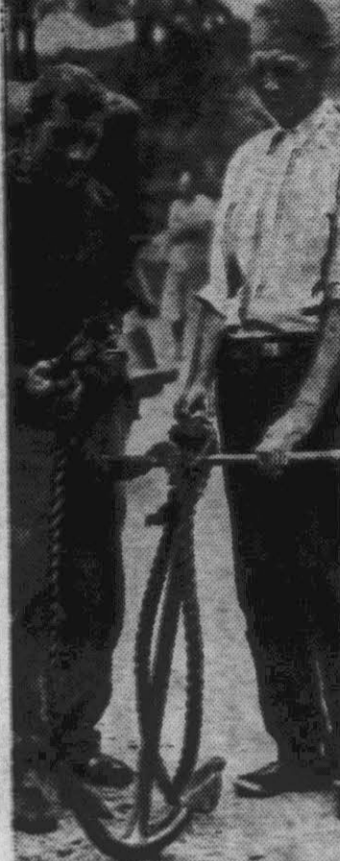

A brief statement by Mr. Maxwell said: "Effective from this date the position of chief of the consolidated motor vehicle and motor theft bureaus is combined, and all employees of these two divisions will report to L. S. Harris, supervisor motor vehicle bureau."

Major Silver was mentioned in newspaper dispatches last week as having caused disorder and confusion at a meeting of representatives of motor vehicle departments of southern states, at Chattanooga, Tenn., to discuss reciprocity of automobile license privileges.

Mr. Maxwell, when asked the direct question whether the Chattanooga incident as reported was the cause of the consolidation, said he had no further statement to make.

The position formerly held by Mr. Silver carried a salary of $3,780 annually. (Continued on page five)

Collings Clue

This 45-pound anchor, missing from Benjamin P. Collings' yacht Penguin, was dragged from Long Island sound by Arthur Simpson (left) and Henry Conklin. It supported Mrs. Collings' story that the yacht was near Northport when two men boarded it, bound and threw Collings overboard.

MOVE TROOPS INTO CHINA

Tension Increases Between China and Japan and Movement of Troops Continues.

Tokyo, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Tension between the governments of China and Japan increased today with the movement of Japanese troops to combat rioting reported in press dispatches to have broken out at Chungking, Manchuria, and to give strength to the guerillas at Mukden.

Remo News agency dispatched from Daren said one mixed brigade of Japanese troops in Korea which had been concentrated at Shinghu in the Korean-Manchurian border, had started for Mukden this morning.

Other dispatches said Japanese troops started from Hsianan, Korea following riots in which Chinese threw bombs and burned the Chentao railway station, police station, several schools and government buildings.

As the troop movements continued, the Japanese cabinet met in extraordinary session but adjourned without reaching any decision regarding the Manchurian situation.

It was disclosed, however, that the war office and the foreign office were not in accord on Manchurian policy, and the question had become the most acute in many years.

Reports here were that the Chinese situation was gradually becoming worse. Troops sent from the Korean border this morning were moved under an order by the commander of the Korean district.

Mukden was reported comparatively quiet and the Japanese second division headquarters was shifted from Mukden to Chingangshan. The Chinese government also was reported sending a division of troops from Kirin to Chientsu.

Geneva, Sept. 21.—(AP)—China formally appealed today for League of Nations intervention in the Manchurian situation under Article 11 of the League's covenant.

The league's council immediately called a special session for tomorrow morning to consider the Chinese plea, which came from Japanese military activity in Manchuria during the last few days.

Run Larger Plane Over Coastal Route

Raleigh, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Engaged in trying the feasibility of operating larger aircraft over the coastal route of the Eastern Air Transportation Company, an 18-passenger air line Curtiss considered carrying officials of the company left here at 11 o'clock this morning for Florence, S. C.

The ship flew here yesterday from New York, stopping at Richmond, Va., en route. Governor Gardner took a short trip ashore in the ship yesterday.

Captain Thomas B. Doe, president of the Eastern Air Transportation Company, joined the party here this morning. Tonight will be spent in Charleston, S. C., and tomorrow the ship will go to Savannah and Jacksonville, Fla.

World Financial Circles Move Swiftly As Britain Suspends Gold Standard

Short Selling Banned By N. Y. Stock Exchange

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The New York Stock Exchange governing board issued a notice prohibiting short selling just before the market opened today.

Just before the opening time the stock exchange ticker printed a notice saying the exchange would open as usual but that the governing committee in view of the grave and serious emergency created by the suspension of gold payments in England at a meeting held early this morning resolved that in its opinion short selling during the present emergency would tend to bring out a condition of demoralization in which prices would not fairly reflect market values and therefore would violate the provisions of section 4 of article 17 of (Continued on page five)

Gold Standard And What It Is

(By Associated Press) The Gold Standard of exchange in normally in use by virtually every civilized nation of the world. It is predicated on the fact that paper money of a country's bank of issue is redeemable in gold on demand.

The suspension of gold payments in Great Britain means that the Bank of England is not bound now under an act of Parliament of 1925 to buy gold bullion of stipulated standards for three pounds, 17 shillings, 10 1/2 pence per troy ounce.

The act of Parliament in effect resulted in the British pound sterling being equivalent normally to $4.865-8.

In the British foreign exchange market, recently with the pound sterling available below its gold parity in relation to other currencies, it has been profitable for banks to acquire sterling pounds in the market, convert them into gold at parity, and then convert the gold into other currencies by exporting the gold.

The pound sterling was pegged in New York during the war at $4.76. It reached this artificial height by means of securities sale of dollars held by British citizens.

In 1919, it was decided to remove the support, and the sterling dropped, until finally in 1919 it hit a new low of $3.19.

The gold standard has been adopted by most every country since the war.

NO INCREASES FOR U. S. ARMY

War Department Budget Calls for Certain Economies During New Fiscal Year.

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The War Department budget for the next fiscal year calls for no increases in the strength of any component of the army and "certain economies will be effected."

Acting Secretary Payne of the War Department said today that he had informed Col. Charles B. Robbins, chairman of the national defense committee of the American Legion that in addition to this the department had decided to postpone requests for increased pay for officers. The action, Payne said, was being taken to lighten the governmental expenditures in view of the economic depression.

The War Department, Payne said, feels that to be useful in the highest sense "it must add strength and stability to the government, especially in times of emergency and stress."

It therefore has decided not to "press any claim which are not included in the program of its commander-in-chief, the President."

The department decided to postpone requests for increased pay for officers despite its realization that "the rates of pay throughout the civil branches of the government service have generally been increased."

An investigation within the department had been carried on with a view to similar increases in the army.

Despite its investigation Payne said plans for the increases have been set aside for the time being "and will be held in abeyance until our whole economic structure is again on a normal footing at some future date."

CALL COTTON MEETING HERE

Situation to be Discussed at Session at Courthouse Thursday Morning.

Meetings have been called in 141 towns in the cotton growing counties of North Carolina for Thursday, September 24 at 11 o'clock to get an expression from the people as a whole as to how they feel towards legislating cotton acreage reduction for 1932. These meetings are being called by the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, whose territory covers forty-six counties in the eastern part of the state.

The mass meeting at Smithfield on the 16th of this month, "manipulated" requested this sectional organization to call these meetings, not only in Eastern North Carolina but in every cotton-growing county in the state. A chairman has been selected for each meeting and it is the hope of those interested that every town will hold its meeting and get an expression from the citizens, both urban and rural along this line.

"The sentiment among the cotton-growers themselves that I have come in contact with, as well as the large majority of the business men in the towns, is for a sharp curtailment by legislation next year," Bartlett said. This will be the first time, possibly, in history of the state when as many meetings have been held at the same time as this. The outcome of the "citizens' poll" will be watched with more than the usual amount of interest by the entire state.

J. C. Galloway will act as chairman of the meeting to be held at the courthouse here.

SHOUSE AFTER MODIFICATION

Favors Democratic Platform Declaring for Light Wines and Beer.

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A Democratic platform declaring for light wines and beer and a prohibition referendum is favored by J. J. Shouse, chairman of the party's national executive committee.

Other legislation which he would have Democrats advocate in the coming session of Congress includes abolition of the Farm Board, tariff revision, re-enactment of the Wagner bill to establish employment offices nationally, the five-day week for federal employes and opposition to the use of the injunction in labor disputes.

Shouse's views, which he described as entirely personal, were published by the Woman's National Democratic club in the Democratic Bulletin. The Bulletin has also asked other party leaders to submit their platform ideas.

Shouse said the party should pledge itself for a prohibition referendum by offering a substitute for the 18th amendment. Congress first should have to pass the substitute.

Shouse held, however, in voting on it the members "need not voice personal endorsement" but could "merely state a willingness to offer the people the chance to pass judgment in the knowledge that unless and until ratified by three-quarters of the state, the substitute cannot be effective."

NEGRO HIT BY CAR AND HURT

Police Seek Hit-and-Run Driver; Truck and Car Collide in Bethel Community.

Highway traffic officers today were searching for a hit-and-run driver who last night ran over Connie Brace, colored, on the Greenville-Winterville highway, breaking his leg and inflicting other injuries which necessitated confinement in the local hospital.

Highway officers said nobody was able to throw any light on the identity of the car, which was said to have been traveling in the direction of Winterville, and then vanished into the night. The car was driven to the left of the road where Brace was walking, making it impossible for him to escape.

Another wreck occurred on the highway in the Bethel community this morning about 9 o'clock, but occupants escaped uninjured.

A truck owned by W. M. Scales of Robersonville, loaded with tobacco hogheads, collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. L. M. Simpkins, of Washington, D. C., who was returning from a visit in Ayden. The Simpkins automobile was said to have been badly damaged by the impact.

Highway officers investigating this accident, reported that it was caused by the truck driver's failure to (Continued on page five)

MANY STOCK MARKETS CLOSE

New York Exchange Remains Open but Prohibits Short Selling; J. P. Morgan Believes Action of Britain Suspending the Gold Standard Should be Viewed with Optimism; Gold Redemption Act Is Suspended to Halt Alarming Withdrawals by Foreign Investors.

(By Associated Press) Faced with Great Britain's temporary suspension of the gold standard, world financial circles today moved swiftly to protect the international financial structure.

Stock exchanges in London, Berlin, Brussels, Oslo, Stockholm, Amsterdam, Bombay, Copenhagen, and Calcutta were closed. The Montreal exchange decided to open on a "restricted basis."

The Bourse in Paris "remained open, but the official exchange market was closed and no official currency quotations were made."

The New York stock exchange also opened as usual, but the governing board issued a notice prohibiting short selling.

While Great Britain's drastic step in suspending the gold redemption act of 1925 to halt alarming withdrawals of gold came with dramatic suddenness, confidence was expressed in numerous quarters that Britain would weather the financial storm successfully.

J. P. Morgan expressed optimism regarding the situation and declared that Great Britain's action was a "hopeful and not a discouraging event."

Other noted financial figures abroad expressed similar views.

In Washington no adverse reaction of major importance was expected and confidence was expressed by treasury officials that England would extricate herself quickly from the confusion.

Prices on commodity exchanges in London increased and on the metal exchange copper rose more than 2 pounds a ton. Tin was nearly 6 pounds a ton higher while at Liverpool cotton advanced almost a half penny a pound to just over four pence.

London, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Abandoning the gold standard, raising the Bank of England discount rate to 6 percent and closing all stock exchanges, Great Britain wrestled today with the most critical financial situation since the World War.

Brought back from his country home at Chequers by the Prince of Wales, Prime Minister MacDonald hastily convened a cabinet meeting last night and it was decided that the gold redemption act of 1925 should be suspended to halt alarming withdrawals of gold by foreign investors.

Pending action by Parliament, it was decided to close the London exchange and those throughout the country to hold the market stable during the transaction. It was emphasized that banks would be open as usual and that business would continue on a normal basis.

Prime Minister MacDonald issued a statement calling attention to the fact that more than $1,000,000,000 had been withdrawn from the London market since the middle of July and that about $500,000,000 had been withdrawn in Saturday's half-day of trading. He emphasized that his action was only temporary and that the nation's enormous resources would revive under the suspension, that many industries would be stimulated and that unemployment figures would drop and that stock values would improve.

The public was assured in the newspapers to keep cool and to avoid extreme views of the situation and was assured that vast stores of food and raw material in the country should inspire confidence. This view was stressed by Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor opposition in Parliament, who wrote in the Herald: (Continued on page five)

CONTINUE TO TALK COTTON

Texas and S. C. Legislatures Resume Consideration of Relief Bills Today.

The Texas legislature today had before it a compromise bill to restrict cotton acreage to thirty percent of the cultivated area while South Carolina legislators, who have adopted a "no cotton in 1932" act, made ready to consider provisions of a loan fund for growers.

Texas' compromise measure came out of a free conference Saturday after the House had approved curtailment of cotton acreage to one-third and the Senate to one-fourth the cultivated area.

Legislators predicted freely early passage of the compromise bill.

South Carolina passed its cotton holiday, finally Saturday and adjourned legislative sessions until tomorrow. The General Assembly will have before it an auxiliary measure authorizing the state to borrow up to $15,000,000 for a revolving loan fund for advances to growers on their 1931 crop.

The South Carolina "No cotton in 1932" bill was passed contingent upon assenting action by states producing three-fourths the crop. Louisiana recently passed a like act but Texas, wielding the balance of power as grower of a third of the nation's cotton, turned that plan down for acreage restriction. Some proponents still hoped something might be done about the cotton holiday, however.

In Arkansas yesterday, T. J. Caughan, chairman of governor Harvey Parnell's commission which went to Texas to investigate cotton relief laws, recommended an extraordinary session of the legislature for passage of an act conforming with the Texas law.

From South Carolina came an announcement by J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, a south-wide convention of farmers called for October 1 to 3 at New Orleans to consider acreage reduction next year had been postponed until November 16 and 17.

In North Carolina, N. O. Bartlett, secretary of the Eastern North Carolina Chamber of Commerce, announced meetings had been called in 141 towns of the state's cotton belt for September 24 to "get an expression from the people as a whole on how they feel toward legislating cotton acreage reduction in 1932."

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: Suspicion is thrown upon the financing of Fourth Aldersea's invention by Eugenie Frye, who tells Fourth's stepdaughter, Sam Sherrill, that the supposed success has brought wealth to his family, after years of poverty. During the moneyless period Sam has carried the household responsibilities. She has become engaged to Peak Abbott, young newspaper owner to relieve the financial strain and to lessen the unfortunate social effects of her stepfather. Nelson's marriage to their maid. Now that Fourth is rich, she realizes that she could have avoided this step and married Freddy Manson, with whom she is in love, but who has no money. She is worried by the statement of Mrs. Frye, who is interested in Fourth and would have backed the invention if it had been commercially practical. Mrs. Frye finds it peculiar that business men approve the invention. "It's worse than peculiar," she says. "It's terrible."

Chapter 23
A FIGHTER AND A GHOST
Sam smiled in spite of herself. "I can't believe that it's quite so bad as all that. You can undoubtedly find something just as good as Fourth's invention to put your money in."

"You don't understand," Eugenie shook her head vehemently. "I'd rather have lost every cent than have let this happen."

"What do you mean?"
"What I mean is simple enough. Mr. Aldersea isn't in the book business any more. Not only that, but he has plenty of money." Eugenie looked up, and Sam was horrified to see that her eyes were filled with tears. "It's the end. I won't be seeing Mr. Aldersea any more."

"Nonsense!" Sam spoke sharply in an attempt to stifle an unreasonable and unwelcome surge of pity. "The widow leaned forward with sudden earnestness. "Miss Sherrill, you and I are both sensible people, aren't we?"

"Why yes, I suppose we are."
"Very well. Being sensible people, we both know what we know. We know for instance, that I am terribly in love with Mr. Aldersea."

Sam gasped. "We do?" She inquired.
"Yes," Eugenie nodded. "We not only know that, but we also know that Mr. Aldersea isn't even slightly interested in me."

"Mrs. Frye!"
"I have no wild ideas about myself," the widow continued calmly. "I know exactly what I am. I'm cheap, and I don't wear good clothes, and my voice is bad. I can't even talk the same kind of English he talks."

"Please don't talk like that."
"Why not? It's the truth. Do you mind if I put the cards on the table? I'd like to tell you about myself—if you can stand it."

Sam murmured: "I'd be glad to hear." The widow had suddenly become an intensely interesting figure.
"Well," Eugenie began briskly. "In the first place, you must know that never in my life has anybody given me anything. Do you understand?"

"I'm afraid I don't."
"Of course you don't." The widow smiled. "You'll see soon enough when I tell you a little bit about my life."

"To begin with, I was the youngest of six kids. My father worked around the docks and he didn't exactly make what you'd call a lot of money." She laughed. "I wasn't so keen about living eight in three rooms."

"That's understandable enough," Sam nodded gravely.
"Is it?" the widow inquired. "I'm not so sure. The rest of them were satisfied enough. I wanted something better. I was different."

The widow had forgotten Sam altogether. She was staring back through the years at three crowded rooms in some dingy tenement.
"Yes," Eugenie went on, "I was different, but I didn't know it. All I knew was that I loved to stand outside theaters watching the nice people going in. I'd look at the women and tell myself that some day I'd have clothes like theirs."

She smiled at Sam.
"I've always known what I wanted and I've always fought for it. I fought for Jim Frye. I fought myself from that tenement to where I am now, and I began to think that I hadn't done so badly."

"Badly?" Eugenie shrugged. "I'll admit that I'd just about decided my fighting days were over. Then, one day, Mr. Aldersea came to my house to sell me a set of books and I knew in five minutes that I hadn't even begun. I knew right then and there that I wanted him."

"Really?" Sam almost smiled. "I didn't know that Fourth was so—"
"I know. It sounds foolish somehow, and it's hard to explain. Maybe it was his voice or the things he talked about. Maybe it was just him. Anyway, there it was. I had to think, so I stalled him off about the books and told him to come back a day later. He went away, and I told myself that I was in for another fight."

"Really?" Sam repeated weakly.
"Yes, I said to myself, 'Eugenie Frye, that's no use for thinking romantic nonsense about this business, because a man like him won't fall in love with you. What have you got that you can fight with?' Money was the answer. I had a lot of money and Mr. Aldersea did not have so much or he wouldn't be selling books. Maybe I could persuade him to put up with me for the sake of my money. Then I could begin to try to make him like me a little bit."

Sam was so dazzled by this amazingly frank recital that she was able only to murmur a feeble: "I see."
Eugenie nodded. "Well, I bought books from him, and I lent him money. I tried to put in his head what was in my head." She sighed. "I think I was succeeding—and then, all of a sudden he stopped coming to see me. You tell me that he has made money. That is a blow, because if he's made money he'll never give me another thought. He's taken away the only thing I had to fight with." She turned suddenly and stared intently at Sam. "Do you see why I've been acting like such an idiot since you told me about that invention thing?"

"I think so," Sam nodded slowly. "I'm terribly sorry."
"Don't be sorry for me." The widow sat up very straight, a grim determined figure. "I'm not sorry for myself and I'm not through. I'm not beaten yet!"

"I said it was all over when you first gave me the news. I'm ready to start again now. I don't know how I'm going to fight, or what I'm going to find to fight with—but I warn you. I'll find something. I've got to! There's a reason."

"A reason?"
"Yes," Eugenie said with a certain simple dignity. "The reason I'm in love with your stepfather. She laughed grimly. "I'm in love and I can't get out. It's something that's got hold of me and won't let go." She made an expressive, twisting gesture with her clenched hand. "It sort of grabs and hurts inside—like that. 'Know what I mean?"

Sam nodded. "Yes," she said gravely. "I think I know."
People said, that spring, that Sam was forgetting. They meant, of course, that she was forgetting about Nelson and his marriage; to a fifteen-dollar-a-week domestic servant whose father was reputed to be an unenterprising retailer of fresh fish.

No one had the slightest doubt that Sam was genuinely happy. It stood out all over her. She no longer gave the impression of being a person apart, self-sufficient, faintly on the defensive. She went everywhere, and she obviously enjoyed herself.

The night at the Ritz proved to be, as the weeks went on, no more than a beginning. Sam's mood

WIFE PLOTS HUSBAND'S DEATH

Mrs. Olga Ziegler confessed, police announced, that with George Flanard, 21, she plotted the ambush slaying of her husband, Otto Ziegler, Haukensack, N. J., manufacturer. Flanard had previously confessed the slaying and told police he resented the attentions Ziegler had shown his sweetheart. Mrs. Ziegler is shown above with an attorney.

did not wane. Instead, it remained fibrous, and grew.
Peak, although delighted, was definitely wary at first. He watched Sam closely. Sam's air of gravity and her long silences in his presence had disappeared. She talked with him constantly now; talked with him intimately and without reservation. She gave no verbal assurance of love, to be sure, but otherwise, Peak told himself savagely, she talked exactly as a woman might talk with her husband.
It was all very difficult. At times when she looked up at him suddenly with that deep, almost purple light in her blue eyes, it took all his strength to keep from seizing her in his arms. Only a will that had become strong through constant exercise prevented him from giving way to these temptations. He was grimly determined that he should never give way—never, at least, until he was absolutely sure that the ghost of Freddy Manson had been finally and definitely laid to rest.

(Copyright, Freeman Lincoln)
Temptations attacks Peak more strongly tomorrow, and he fights a sudden, sharp battle.

Judge Sinclair Warns Dry Forces in Roberts Case

Wilmington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A general warning not to violate other laws in attempting to enforce prohibition laws, issued by Judge N. A. Sinclair in dismissing four officers acquitted of manslaughter charges growing from the killing of Lupe Roberts, a mail truck driver, was before law enforcement officers today.

Judge Sinclair told them they should not take advice on questions of an officer's right to use force from justices of the peace, but should secure it from the solicitor.

Those tried were E. J. Hale, L. M. Masse and A. B. Crews, sheriffs deputies, and Porter Davis, a county officer. They blocked the Smith's Creek bridge near here last March 15 to catch a liquor runner they were tipped was coming and when Robert's truck was halted a gun battle ensued.

Roberts and W. P. Starling, a deputy, were killed. Roberts apparently thought he was being held up. The officers testified he fired first. The case went to the jury late Saturday and a verdict was returned yesterday afternoon.

SEES HOPE IN BRITISH ACTION

J. P. Morgan Declares Abandonment Gold Standard is No Discouraging Event.

By DEWITT MacKENZIE (Chief, London Bureau, A.P.) London, Sept. 21.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan today expressed optimism to the Associated Press regarding the situation arising from Great Britain's sensational abandonment of the gold standard. He said it was a "hopeful and not a discouraging event."

Mr. Morgan made this statement in reply to a question from a correspondent who sought him out in his private office not far from the Bank of England.

"This step seems to me to be the second necessary stage in the work of the National Government, the first being the balancing of the budget," Mr. Morgan said.

"The completion of the government's work will be the restoration of trade in this country."

"This being the case," Mr. Morgan continued, "it seems to me a hopeful and not a discouraging event and one which brings the great work of the government much nearer to accomplishment."

In receiving the Associated Press correspondent Mr. Morgan broke an almost ironclad rule never to grant newspaper interviews. His father observed the same rule before him.

But once the distinguished banker decided to talk, no one could have been more cordial. He discussed the situation for almost an hour and while it is not permitted to quote him any further than above, it may be said that in the entire discussion he did not express any pessimism.

Several other financiers expressed similar opinion. Without exception they held the view that the government's latest step is in the right direction and that Britain will weather her crisis.

There was no disposition to try to evade the fact that the situation is very serious.

Indeed, one of the most hopeful signs these financial experts find is that England does recognize the situation is serious and is attacking her problem from that standpoint.

Obtain Facts on "Betty Dodd"

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin today says that the "Betty Dodd," mentioned in the case of Elisha Kent Kane, charged with drowning his wife near Hampton, Va., is a former resident of Mount Holly, N. J., temporarily living in Philadelphia.

The Bulletin says her name is Elizabeth Harris Dahl; that she is about forty years old and is a divorcee. Her father, now dead, was John W. Harris, a deputy clerk of Burlington county.

Virginia authorities held Kane after they had received information that Kane had received letters, apparently from a woman signed "E. H. D."

Mrs. Dahl, the Bulletin says came to Philadelphia several days ago after a day's visit with a brother and sister in law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harris, of Belleville, N. J., about nine miles from New York City.

Both her sister-in-law and her brother at Belleville said it was "absurd" to construe Mrs. Dahl's letters as being "affectionate," and described them as being written only with the frankness of a woman who is writing to a friend she has known for a long time.

Mrs. Dahl was a stewardess on the liner America until the ship was laid up for repairs. Formerly she held a similar position on the Leviathan.

Moyle and Allen Arrive at Nome

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Don Moyle and Cecil A. Allen, California fliers who failed in an attempt to make a non-stop flight from Japan to America and were missing for several days in the North Pacific, arrived here last night after a flight of about 600 miles from Miano Pilgino, Siberia.

Moyle and Allen said they had been unable to obtain aviation gasoline in Siberia and asserted they had used Diesel engine fuel to fly across the Bering Sea to Nome. They said they burned a hole in the exhaust pipe of their plane, but that otherwise it was in good condition.

"We are pretty glad to return to American soil again," said Moyle as he climbed out of the plane. "We are feeling fine although we had a close call with freezing weather."

They said they had flown 34 hours over the Pacific, had been forced down on an uninhabited island of the Aleutian chain and had managed to take off for Siberia after spending eight days on the Aleutian island waiting out a storm.

Buildings were reported to have swayed in Springfield, O., while distinct shocks were felt in Columbus, Lima, Cincinnati, Dayton, Cairo, West Minister, Sidney, and Gomer, O.

Signs reported fallen chimneys but in other localities the effect consisted largely of rattling dishes and windows.

Hundreds ran into the streets in localities where shocks were most severe. Deep rumbling accompanied the tremors.

The disturbance, according to government geologists, was caused by the slipping of rock strata under the earth's surface.

Withdraw Appeals For Two Killers After Confessions

Salisbury, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Appeals of Bernice Mathews and J. W. Ballard, negroes convicted of first degree murder in the robbery-killing of Frank Stewart, filling station operator, were withdrawn today.

Attorneys of the men condemned to die October 23, took the action in face of confessions made by the pair enroute to the penitentiary last Wednesday.

Ballard said he fired the fatal shot and divided the money with Mathews.

Gardner to Discuss Duck Proclamation

Raleigh, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Governor O. Max Gardner planned a conference today with Conservation Department officials to formulate a protest against President Hoover's 30-day duck shooting proclamation.

He indicated his own ideas were in line with those of Governor Follard, of Virginia, saying he believed the Virginian had expressed

"The sentiment of the people of Eastern North Carolina."

Governor Follard has wired the president suggesting the shooting season be made 10 weeks with three shooting days in each week, making a total of 30 days. Otherwise, he said, many guides and others would be thrown out of employment and hardship would arise.

Ohio and Indiana Shaken by Slight Quakes Last Night

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—(AP)—More than a dozen cities and towns in portions of Ohio and Indiana were severely shaken last night by subterranean tremors, the most pronounced in this section since 1811 when the entire Ohio River Valley was affected.

Although attended by intense excitement among householders, the quake did comparatively little damage and caused no loss of life.

It reached its greatest intensity at the village of Anna, in Western Ohio. The community of 500 persons was without a whole chimney today, and every house and building was damaged to some extent.

Plastering in the Anna High School was shaken from the walls and the corner stones of the Lutheran church were jarred loose. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

The quake extended from Zanesville, O., on the extreme east, to Richmond, Indianapolis, Connersville and Liberty, Ind., on the west.

ABOUT TOWN

South Carolina has stated unequivocally where she stands on the cotton reduction movement, adopting a committee report Saturday providing for a year holiday.

It is now up to other states to decide what they desire to do in the matter. If they are for the holiday plan, the South Carolina action will hold good. If not, it will count for nothing.

Texas, on the other hand, seems to be holding out for a reduction of acreage alone, and it is extremely doubtful if she will approve the holiday plan as enunciated by Gov. H. P. Long of Louisiana and finally approved in South Carolina, although for not such a long period.

Texas produces a third of the nation's cotton crop and any action that may be taken is of greater consideration to her than any of the other states, except, of course, Louisiana, and other states of the kind.

That something good must eventually come of the attempt to legislate cotton production next year is the belief of those in close touch with the market and the people of all states concerned will feel greatly relieved when some definite decision has been reached.

The price of liquor may not advance, as some seem to suppose, as result of the activity of federal prohibition officers in this section last week, but that it will have a tendency of producing greater precaution among members of the traffic is indubitable.

The illicit whiskey traffic members are devout prohibition proponents, because the law means big business to them, but they just can't stand to associate with representatives of the federal department—the men who try to make the 18th amendment what it should be.

Farmers have been urged repeatedly to keep their inferior grades of tobacco and use it for fertilizer.

When marketed, it brings them very little in return, in fact, hardly pays them for the trouble of hauling it to market.

Farm experts declare the tobacco would prove decidedly advantageous as fertilizer, helping to build up the soil and cutting down the fertilizer bill the next planting season.

The farmers were warned of the condition of the market a year ago and were told they would get nothing for the common grades, but they flooded the market again this season with the result that the market average has been held down to an unpalatable extent.

Many other markets of the belt have been refusing the common grades, with the result that the Greenville market has been flooded with such offerings virtually every day since the opening two weeks ago.

With the advent of the superior grades the price average here will take one of the most pronounced jumps of the year, and farmers who had their common grades refused on other markets and sold it in Greenville should keep this fact in mind and sell their good leaf here also.

The Greenville market has always paid the high dollar for tobacco, and this fact is being amply borne out this season when it is buying tobacco other markets refuse to consider.

The hot weather has been playing havoc with merchants whose stores have been loaded down for several weeks with fall and winter wearing apparel, but indications of the last few days apparently point to the desired change in atmospheric conditions.

From now until the Christmas holidays business should be the best of the year as people, their pockets replenished with funds from activity of the tobacco markets, come here and make their purchases for the cold days ahead.

Greenville, recognized as the leading shopping center of this part of the state, is always alert, ready to offer its visitors the best to be had and this year is no exception.

BIG GRIDIRON GUNS TO FIRE DURING WEEK

Charlotte, Sept. 21.—(AP)—With the way paved by Saturday's skirmishes, the big guns of Tar Heel gridiron warfare will fire this week.

Topping the list of engagements is Duke's "grudge battle" with South Carolina, the club that kept the beneficiaries of the late James B. Duke's millions from going through their 1930 schedule undefeated.

Wallace Wade will lead his first Duke team against the Gamecocks at Columbia, and advance reports have it that a host of football fans from the Tar Heel state will accompany him.

For those who stay at home two "Big Five" contests are on tap with a chance to see them both. Wake Forest and North Carolina will work out in the afternoon at Chapel Hill while Davidson and N. C. State will wait for the stars and floodlights to shine before trying conclusions at Greensboro.

Wade has plenty on his mind that he wants to get off before the Blue Devils go to Columbia. He first announced there would be light practice sessions only this week, but yesterday told the boys they looked so bad in whipping the freshman club only 34 to 0 Saturday in a practice game that they could expect heavy work all week.

What Billy Laval is doing with his Gamecocks is a secret. He has the sophomores who beat his veterans out of their jobs working out behind locked gates.

Davidson's Wildcats will probably have a lot to hear from Coach Monk Younger between now and Saturday. Unless the experts are wrong, the 'Cats were way off form Saturday as they beat Elon 13 to 2 in a ding-dong battle that was closer than the score.

Part of what Younger will say will doubtless deal with methods of stopping Mope Comiskey, rearing young fullback who has just about clinched the job on N. C. State's eleven.

Chuck Collins, whose University of North Carolina boys have been coming along slowly, admitted they looked better after scrimmage there Saturday. The silence from Wake Forest has been oppressive.

Along with the "Big Five" clashes, the North state conference race will get under way Saturday with Appalachian, conqueror of Campbell 20 to 6 last Saturday, meeting Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory.

Guilford's Quakers, who took a 13 to 6 licking from Emory and Henry last Saturday night, tackle a tough one in William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va., this week.

Other games scheduled next Saturday are Elon and Roanoke at Salem, Va.; High Point and Lynchburg at Lynchburg; Milligan and Catawba at Salisbury; Campbell at Langley Field Training School, Va., and Lees-McRae at Crossnore.

RUSH IS ON FOR LOWER BERTHS IN THE MAJORS

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer

With the end of the major league season a week away and the two pennants firmly in the grasp of the Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals, there still are several places in the major league standings to be decided in the last seven days.

The National league is in a fairly settled condition with the first three places clinched but only about three of the American league clubs can be sure of where they will finish.

The A's are safe at the top; the fourth place Cleveland Indians can move neither up nor down, and the Chicago White Sox are not likely to get out of the cellar.

But second place is the source of some excitement as the New York Yankees have staged a belated rush to win ten games in a row to grab the post away from Washington while at the top of the second division, Detroit and Boston are tied and St. Louis is only a half game behind.

The Yanks' belated rush in one of the season's best winning streaks, put New York ahead of Washington on Saturday and kept the McCathymen there yesterday when each club won a doubleheader.

Two second winning rallies, bringing five runs apiece, gave New York a pair of victories over the Cleveland Indians by scores of 7 to 1 and 10 to 4 and enabled Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig to continue their race for home run honors. Gehrig hit his 45th homer in the first rally and Ruth clouted his 44th in the second game burst.

Pat Caraway of the Chicago White Sox was the victim of Washington's double victory. He pitched the final inning of the opener and was nicked for the run that gave the Senators a 4-3 victory then relieved Garland for the last four frames of the second game and granted two runs in the seventh that cost him the game 6-4.

The teams that are trying to settle the question of fifth, sixth and seventh places all were idle. St. Louis and Boston had a doubleheader rained out while Detroit, with the Athletics, was not scheduled.

After clinching second place in the National league Saturday, the New York Giants turned around yesterday and dropped both games of a doubleheader to Chicago 16-6 and 7-6, allowing the Cubs to make sure of finishing no worse than third. Brooklyn took a 6 to 1 decision from the Cardinals, but the best the Robins can do now is to tie Chicago.

Keeping things moving for the one really doubtful National league position, the Cincinnati Reds sent the Boston Braves into seventh, behind the idle Phillies, by winning two games. Larry Benton allowed the Braves six hits to win the opener 5 to 2 while an eight-run rally in the seventh decided the second clash 14 to 5.

YESTERDAYS STARS
 Monte Weaver, Senators—Made big time debut, holding Whitesox to nine hits and winning, 6-4.

Henry Johnson and Gordon Rhodes, Yankees—Held Indians to 15 hits in double-bill as Yankees won twice, 7-1, 10-4.

Gabby Hartnett, Cubs—Drove in five runs in two games with Giants with two doubles and four singles.

Joe Stripp, Reds—Clouted Boston pitching for seven hits in double-header.

Bill Clark, Robins—Stopped the Cardinals with eight hits to win, 6-1.

SPORTS SLANTS

By ALLAN GOULD

If you figure the world's series prospects in terms of how often Grove and Earnshaw can pitch for the Athletics; with adequate rest, the delay in the start of the baseball classic is not calculated to make things look any better for the Cardinals.

As I have it from a source close to the St. Louis business office, the forces on the field, dictated the delay by which the series does not start until Thursday, October 1, although it could quite easily be opened on Tuesday, September 29, or certainly not later than September 30.

Over the objection of other National league men, Sam Beardon, the Cardinal president and his executive staff, insisted the St. Louis ticket situation could not be handled satisfactorily in time to permit an earlier start.

It seems the Cardinals have a trick system of dispensing season coupon books carrying "preferred" world's series privileges.

Apparently this is so complicated it takes at least one extra day to make sure none of the regular customers is overlooked.

Soft for Connie
 Whether they considered the angle or not, however, the Cardinal "front office" played directly into the hands of Connie Mack, who is highly ambitious to set a record of three straight world's championships.

Under the present schedule he can pitch Grove and Earnshaw in Games No. 1 and 2 at St. Louis, October 1 and 2, then come right back with the same pair at Shibe Park, October 5 and 6, in games No. 3 and 4.

The clubs travel eastward Saturday and cant play in Philadelphia Sunday. Thus, each of the Athletics' aces would have about four days of rest, if Mack chose to rotate them.

This is more rest than they usually need and the chances of the A's making it four in a row would be enhanced, depending upon the returns for the first two games.

Confidence Not Enough
 The Cardinals, with Jess Haines in the box, squeezed out a victory over the great Grove last year. Gabby Street's men may have all the confidence in the world they can repeat, but it takes base hits as well as optimism to do anything against the lanky portlander.

The Red Birds have yet to take the measure of Earnshaw. For something like 22 consecutive innings they didn't score a run off the "Big Moose" in the 1930 series, despite the fact he was hobbling along with a sore foot.

Earnshaw hasn't had as big a year as Grove. But both have given every indication lately of being absolutely at top form, with the big money in sight and the winter's coal bills to be paid.

Grove will never be any more consistently effective than in 1931. For that reason, Mack is likely to start his great southpaw at least twice and, in addition, use him for emergency relief work. Robert Moses thrives on cigars and activity, especially when he has the touch.

Meanwhile there are indications that Gabby Street, despite his wealth of veteran pitching material, may place his No. 1 hopes in the big recruit, Paul Derringer, who has shown as much stuff under fire this season as any experienced campaigner.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blasts up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in hives, your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."

They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Demand a substitute. 35¢ at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

From Over The City and County

CORDEAY, SHERD, SHERIDAN, STUCKEY WITH SCOUTS

O. Jack Cordray, scout executive of the Wilson Area Council, successor to Mr. Herbert Stuckey, has officially assumed his duties. Already Mr. Cordray has made contracts with the chairman of many of the district committees in the area and expects to visit the remaining districts at an early date.

Mr. Cordray comes to Wilson Area Council with many successful years as Scout Executive to his credit; having served Scout Councils in Georgia, Florida and South Carolina. It is the expressed wish of the new executive that every one having a part in the building of the Scout Council to which he has been elected, continue their support and splendid cooperation, as in the past.

LEWIS DILSON'S HOME DAMAGED BY FLAMES

The second floor of the house occupied by Lewis Wilson, on 13th street, was badly damaged by fire of undetermined origin early this morning. The family was not at home when the blaze was discovered and the flames had gained such headway the fire department had considerable difficulty bringing them under control. The fire did not reach the first floor or roof and was confined entirely to the second floor.

Firemen estimated the loss at approximately $1500.

COUNTY COURT TO HOLD REGULAR SESSION TUES.

The regular sitting of County court will be held tomorrow morning with Judge W. L. Whebee presiding. Last week's term was abandoned on account of the one-week term of Superior court. The docket for tomorrow contains numbers of cases sent up from police and magistrates' courts and the sitting is expected to continue probably through tomorrow.

CIVIL COURT TO MEET HERE AGAIN MONDAY

A one-week term of Pitt County Superior court, for the trial of civil cases, will convene here next Monday with Judge N. A. Sinclair of Fayetteville, presiding. This will be the third term of court held here in the last six weeks, all except one week being confined to the hearing of civil cases. The calendar will contain quite a number of cases despite the fact that a considerable dent was made in the calendars of previous sessions.

PITT COUNTY SCHOOL SYSTEM OPENS TODAY

Eight-month schools of the Pitt county system threw open their doors to thousands of children in various sections of the county this morning. The six-month term will not get underway until October 5. Despite the many changes resulting from passage of the MacLean School law, members of the faculty faced the future optimistically, hoping to maintain the splendid record of achievement established the last several years.

The system was deprived of ten schools and seven teachers as result of enactment of the new legislation.

(Continued from page one) the auditorium less than 20 minutes, 15 of which he was speaking. Newton D. Baker, war-time secretary of war, made an appeal to the Legion members to display the same "reckless courage" that revealed in the war in solving the problems of the present age. His speech did not deal with controversial subjects. He declared that the United States is in a position to take the lead for world peace and that it is the task of the nation to lead the world "morally, spiritually and intellectually."

The United States, he declared, is the only nation "big enough and brave enough" to say to the world that "we not only demand peace, we intend to have it."

A telegram from General John J. Pershing which was read to the convention also called upon the Legion to meet present day problems in the same spirit shown in war. General Charles P. Summerall made a brief address.

WORLD FINANCIAL CIRCLES MOVE SWIFTLY AS BRITAIN SUSPENDS GOLD STANDARD

(Continued from page one) The situation calls for confidence, not despair—for steadiness, not panic. The fundamental strength of the nation is unimpaired and if we remain calm and resolute we shall more speedily surmount the difficulties.

Frequent emphasis was laid by the speakers on the effect of what was described as hoarding of gold in the United States and France but it was attributable mostly to circumstances rather than to deliberate intention. The Express said in its connection: "America couldn't help it because the balance was so heavily in her favor as a consequence of the immense surpluses owing her as a result of the war."

but France went gold mad." Great Britain took the emergency measures in her stride today and business was carried on "as usual" with no attempts to withdraw funds from banks.

Posting of the bare notice "Bank rate six percent" at the Bank of England was the only outward sign of the momentous decision to suspend the gold standard, increase the discount rate and close stock exchanges for a day.

Orders were given inside the various banks not to issue drafts abroad in accordance with last night's notification but no action was taken in connection with interest on deposits or charges on loans. These automatically were altered with the change in the official minimum but because the advance bank rate is a temporary measure it is possible that no alterations will be made.

The foreign exchange market, usually busy on Monday mornings, is not making quotations for the present. It was not known whether there would be any restrictions placed on dealings in foreign exchanges and until this question is cleared up no quotations are being issued.

With the doors of the stock exchange closed the members gathered in the Morgan street to discuss the government's steps and the general consensus was favorable.

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The relief was held generally in the capital today that no adverse reaction of major proportions would be felt in the United States as a result of Great Britain's suspension of the gold standard.

With high officials of the nation's financial divisions out of the city when word of the Bank of England's action was received, the view was held in Treasury Department circles that the step was an "inevitable" one already discounted largely last week in liquidating American exchanges.

Confidence was expressed by the Treasury officials that England would extricate herself quickly from the confusion.

In support of the relief that the reaction in this country would not be of major proportions, it was pointed out that recent huge credits extended Great Britain by the Federal system and private banking concerns are repayable, specifically, in gold dollars.

Likewise, British dollar bonds held in this country are redeemable in large majority in gold dollars, both as to payment of interest and principal. The amount of discounted bills held in the United States was held insignificant.

While suspension of the gold standard was seen as an effective method of stopping the flow of gold from England, doubts were held in official quarters that raising of the discount rate of 6 percent would attract gold to Great Britain's treasury.

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Cotton opened irregular today at a decline of 3 to 15 points under active general selling which was attributed to the financial development in Great Britain over the week-end.

The temporary suspension of the gold standard caused general confusion as to values, and the sharp advance in the Liverpool market was regarded as reflecting a readjustment in differences caused by the anticipated depreciation in sterling.

December contracts here sold off to 6.18 and March to 6.55, but offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering and there was said to be some buying here against the sales in Liverpool to undo old straddles at the increased differences.

Trading continued active after the call with fluctuations nervous and irregular but prices at the end of the first half hour were holding within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing quotations.

The Liverpool market was about 55 to 60 points better than due on the New York close of last week. Private cables reported general buying and extensive covering on the suspension of the gold standard and said that Manchester was disorganized with buyers holding aloof.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Violent breaks in grain prices resulted today from England's financial crisis, but enlarged wheat buying ascribed in part to mills and exporters acted as almost complete offset.

Apparently, all offerings of North American wheat to Great Britain overnight were promptly accepted. Late upturns in grains were facilitated by action of securities, wheat traders especially keeping a sharp eye on stocks.

Notable relative strength shown by the Winnipeg wheat market was also a steadying factor, although the course of Canadian quotations was avowedly based on assumed likelihood that British Empire preference for Canadian wheat hereafter was now practically assured.

Wheat closed nervous, 3-4-7-8 cents down, corn 3-8-1-4 off, oats unchanged to 3-8 higher, and provisions varying from 25 cents set-back to a rise of 2 cents.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The forces of world-wide financial unrest converged upon the New York Stock Market today, but were repulsed spectacularly in a history-making session.

With the Paris Bourse the only other prominent exchange open for business, the New York market was the principal exchange upon which the world could liquidate securities.

Officials of the exchange were beset from many cities at home and abroad to refrain from opening for trading. Officials insisted, however, that the United States could and should maintain an open market for securities regardless of what happens elsewhere. They did act to forbid short selling temporarily.

After tumbling 1 to 7 points in the first hour, the share market staged one of the best rallies in weeks, many principal shares rising 3 to more than 8 points above last week's final prices.

The advance faltered for a time at midday, but quickly pushed up again under leadership of the rails. U. S. Steel was supported at the start, and eventually showed a gain of more than 5 points. Reading, a thinly traded issue, advanced more than 25 points. Atchafalaya converted an early loss of 3 into a gain of more than 8. Miscellaneous issues showing gains of 3 to 6 included American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio and others. American Telephone regained a loss of more than 5 and sold off moderately.

The vigorous upswing in the rails was accompanied by much gossip in brokerage circles over vague rumors that the Interstate Commission would shortly grant an increase in freight rates. Selling was in huge volume during the first half hour, and exceeded a million shares for that period for the first time since June of 1930. Nevertheless, trading was orderly, and there was no parallel to the conditions of either June, 1930, or November, 1929. The day was not without adverse news, including, suspension of a small brokerage house, and banking trouble in Pittsburgh, but these developments were mild in contrast to the bad news that has been absorbed in earlier stages of the two-year bear movement.

Severe Quake Shakes Tokyo
 Tokyo, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Japan's most severe earthquake since 1924 shook Tokyo and adjacent regions today. Incomplete reports showed twelve deaths, 40 seriously injured and considerable property damage. Telephone and telegraph lines in Gumma and Saitama prefectures, where the shocks were the worst, were torn down.

First reports agreed that many houses collapsed, causing the fatalities. Yokohama, Kofu, Shizuoka, Fukushima, Nagoya and various other cities of Hondo Island felt the shocks.

Thousands of persons ran from their homes in Tokyo and Yokohama, where the great earthquake of 1923 did enormous damage and installed in the populace an acute fear of earth shocks.

Wilkins Ready To Dispose of Nautilus
 Colo. News, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins said today he was awaiting instructions from Washington as to what disposal he should make of the submarine Nautilus in which he cruised under ice in the Arctic Circle. It is generally believed here the submarine will be sold at Bergen since it is considered too dilapidated for another trip across the Atlantic.
