PROHIBITION IS GIVEN IMPETUS AS 1932 ISSUE

Action of American Legion for Referendum Draws Praise and Criticism

By JOHN F. CHESTER Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A series of prohibition furlings precipitated in the capital by word of a new federal beer inquiry, appeared likely today to echo into 1932. With the American Legion's vote in favor of a referendum lending fresh impetus, reaction ranged from praise and condemnation to a proposal that a resubmission plank be added in the 1932 Democratic platform. Added was a forecast from a dry senator of a lively beer fight in the coming Congress. Senator Bulkley, Democratic anti prohibitionist from Ohio, suggested that his party agree upon submitting the Eighteenth Amendment to the people rather than argue upon the merits of prohibition.

Senator Walsh of Montana, forecast agitation for beer legislation in the next Congress. Known as a constitutional authority, the western Democrat, a dry, gave as his opinion that repeal or modification of the Volstead act would not constitute nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Meantime, there was fresh ferment in the disclosure by Secretary Hyde that the effect upon the farmer of legalizing beer would be ascertained.

A government official reported that some beer data already had been gathered by the Department of Agriculture. These figures, he said, indicated that a legalizing of brewing might do the farmer more harm than good in that the market for dairy products might be reduced. Data was shown of the increased sale of these products with the coming of prohibition.

Moreover, it was the stated opinion of another high federal executive that talk of legalizing beer whatever the effect would never go beyond the conversational stage.

Reactions to the American Legion's referendum proposal were numerous. The anti-Saloon League said in a statement the vote did "not reflect the sentiment of the country and probably not of the Legion itself."

Henry H. Carran, president of the association against the prohibition amendment, said in a statement he believed the Legion's majority vote for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment would be answered by similar majority of the nation's voters "against any further continuation of the preposterous experiment of national prohibition."

In St. Joseph, Missouri, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, said "numbers of staggering drunks disgraced the uniform and yelled for beer" at the American Legion convention.

"The Legion has again taken the wet side," he said in a statement. "I'm not surprised. If you have seen the outfit that gathered in Detroit as I did, you would be surprised that 394 men (the number of delegates who voted against the referendum resolution) could be found who could stand up for the Constitution and decency and sobriety."

Senator Bookhart, Republican, Iowa, condemned the resolution with a remark that "most of those who voted came out of wet states."

Senator Bulkley said he was delighted and "glad they voted on that instead of beer."

Wilmington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—In the opinion of the Rev. Arthur J. Barton, D. D., of the American Legion made itself "ridiculous in the eyes of sober and sober-minded Americans" by voting for a prohibition referendum at its Detroit convention.

Dr. Barton, chairman of the executive committee of the anti-Saloon League, issued a statement here soon after learning of the Legion's action in which he expressed himself.

He declared the Legion's action "will not in any way seriously affect prohibition" and charged the Legion did "itself more harm than it has done prohibition."

Second Test for Akron Successful

Akron, O., Sept. 25.—(AP)—For three hours and 51 minutes last night the U. S. Akron, new queen of the skies, cruised through the moonlight on its second successful trial flight. Carrying 109 passengers and crew, the navy's speed aerial battleship swung in 80 mile circles over its dock—a black hulk against the moonlit autumn sky.

CONFISCATION DO-X SOUGHT IN N. Y. SUIT

Two Inventors Claim Infringement of Patents by Builders of Famous Ship

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Isaac Schafran and Jacob Thaler began suit in Federal court today to have the German flying boat DO-X confiscated on the ground that the owners, operators and builders infringed on patents the plaintiffs held. General Motors Corporation is named as one of the defendants, and the suit, besides demanding confiscation of the giant flying boat, asks for an accounting of profits, a permanent injunction against further infringement on the patents, the plaintiffs say they hold, and damages amounting to three times whatever profits the DO-X may have made.

With General Motors, the defendants named are the Dornier Company of America, Dornier Metal Bauten G. M. B. H., Dr. Claude Dornier, Lieut. Clarence Schildhauer, U. S. N., who piloted the DO-X to New York, Capt. Wolfgang Van Gronau, and all members of the crew.

Captain Von Gronau has never had anything to do with the DO-X, but on his two flights to America he has flown a Dornier Wal, and the suit charges that the patents have been violated in the manufacture of that ship also.

The patents, according to the complaint, involve the mounting of the propellers above the wing. Schafran and Thaler state that they are joint owners of the patent issued December 31, 1918, by the U. S. Patent office.

The complaint states that infringement has occurred in the design and manufacture of the DO-X, Dornier Wal, Dornier Super-Wal, and Dornier Delphine 111. It asks that the DO-X and all other aircraft of the defendants in which the alleged infringement has occurred, now in this country, be turned over to the plaintiffs or destroyed.

Tobacco Market Passes Thirteen Million Mark

Sales on the Greenville tobacco market passed the thirteen million pounds mark with the completion of yesterday's sales.

The official figures given out by R. W. Cobb, supervisor of the market, today were as follows: Yesterday's sales—625,496 pounds for $32,886.16, averaging $54.46 per hundred pounds. Sales for the week ending yesterday 4,339,978 pounds for $372,100.84, averaging $8.59. Season's sales including yesterday 13,102,752 pounds for $1,096,675.94, averaging $8.35 per hundred. Offerings on today's market were close to a million pounds.

MASS MEETING WAS HELD HERE

Growers and Business Men Favor Legislation Designed to Effect Less Acreage

While only about a score of farmers and business men attended the mass meeting at the court house here Thursday, there was unmistakably much sentiment for legislation looking to enforced reduction of acreage of both cotton and tobacco in 1932. J. C. Galloway presided over the meeting, which was one of 141 called all over Eastern Carolina for the same date and purpose.

A number of short talks were made, following which the following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, there is an indicated production of cotton in the United States for 1931 of nearly 16,000,000 bales; and whereas this added to the 9,000,000 bales surplus now on hand, according to government reports, has already reduced the price of cotton below six cents a pound, which is far below the cost of production; and whereas it is the belief of this meeting that if this cotton crop sells for around six cents a pound throughout the south, it means financial disaster for the entire cotton growing belt; and

"Whereas, there appears from all information available that there is an overproduction of tobacco in all of the bright tobacco growing states which according to advice of those connected with the tobacco industry is responsible for the present low prices of tobacco which on many grades is far below the cost of production; and whereas it is the belief of this meeting that if there is no improvement in such prices it means ruination for our tobacco growers; and

"Whereas, there are movements on foot to curtail the production of cotton and tobacco in several states in 1932 by legislative acts; now, therefore,

"Be it resolved, that this meeting in Greenville, Thursday, Sept. 24, 1931, does hereby endorse this movement to curtail the acreage by legislation or otherwise, and that we favor it being done by legislation provided that other bright tobacco and cotton growing states will handle the situation in like manner. If other tobacco and cotton growing states approve legislation in handling the matter, and the same is so handled, then we respectfully petition our Governor of North Carolina, the Hon. O. Max Gardner, to call an extra session to handle the matters of cotton and tobacco, and that said session be restricted to discussion and passage of cotton and tobacco relief measures only, and use his influence in an effort to save our people from absolute bankruptcy."

Hans Double Driving. Chambersburg, Pa.—State highway police have disqualified a combination automobile driver. Collings' Widow Again Details Husband's Death

Huntington, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings today in her first public recital of how two men boarded the Penguin and murdered her husband in Long Island Sound Sept. 9, indicated that she deliberately permitted them to abduct her believing that, by so doing, she might save her husband and child. Her testimony also revealed for the first time publicly that 3-year-old Barbara Collings was awake during the struggle on the Penguin and saw the slayers tie her father's hands before they crashed a milk bottle down on his head and threw him into the water. "Leave my papa alone," she said. Barbara called out to them. Mrs. Collings took the witness stand at the reconvened inquest into the Collings murder and began her recital of the bizarre train of events that befell her and her husband as their boat lay anchored on the night of the strange attack. She spoke rapidly in a nervous, weary voice and began the recital (Continued on page three)

SALES TAX IS ADVOCATED BY SENATOR REED

Pennsylvanian Calls On President and the Discussion Turns to Deficit

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Senator Reed of Pennsylvania after readvocating to President Hoover today his proposal for a sales tax, said he believed the United States should follow Great Britain's example "and face the music."

Reed said he believed that unless additional moneys were raised by taxation the Treasury's deficit would reach beyond $1,500,000,000.

The Republican Senator said he called upon the President principally to congratulate him upon his address to the American Legion which, Reed said, "apparently has killed the bonus move."

"If the Legion does not bring up the bonus," he said, "I don't believe it will ever pass Congress."

Reed said he was opposed to such methods of raising funds as decreasing the salaries of Congressmen and federal workers.

"To cut the pay of senators and representatives would make it a rich man's job," he asserted. "It would eliminate the poor man from public office."

The Pennsylvanian said that if the proposed sales tax of one half of one per cent was imposed it would mean that a man with a salary of $2,000 would pay only $10 a year if he spent the entire sum on taxable articles.

"Surely," he said, "people must pay something toward the conduct of government."

There have been widely varying opinions of what action the government should take to meet its growing deficit. While Reed has proposed a sales tax, several other senators have suggested raising the taxes on large incomes.

Enforced Cotton Picking Proceeds

Helena, Ark., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Smoke curled from dozens of campfires in the hills surrounding Helena this morning as jobless negroes lolled in the shade and watched a number of unemployed white men and negroes beginning their second day of enforced cotton picking.

An immediate exodus of negro letterers followed the edict of authorities that unemployed must be to the cotton fields, leave the city or face vagrancy charges.

A house to house canvass for hiding unemployed was in prospect today after police were informed Phillips county planters needed at least 1,000 more cotton pickers.

Other unemployed, who disliked picking cotton at 35 cents a hundred pounds, and sought to remain in the city, were busy today hunting odd jobs.

Japanese Forces Being Withdrawn

Geneva, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Japanese forces in Manchuria are being withdrawn to the fullest extent permitted by the requirements of the safety of Japanese residents and their property, the League of Nations Council was informed today in an official note from the Japanese government.

Nanking, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The American government's note to China and Japan, suggesting restriction of troop movements in Manchuria to the requirements of international law and the League of Nations' resolution on the Manchurian dispute was received by the Chinese press and government circles with deep gratification today.

PASTOR FREED OF CHARGE OF IMMORALITY

Jury of Clergymen Unanimously Vote Shelton Absolutely Innocent

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Absorbed of a charge of immorality Rev. William A. Shelton was back today in his study at the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal church, south.

A jury of 12 clergymen unanimously voted him "absolutely innocent" late yesterday of accusations of misconduct toward his former secretary, Miss Carrie A. Williams.

The nature of the charge, which has been withheld during a three-day church trial in Alexandria, Va., was revealed by Dr. W. S. Hammond of Martinsburg, West Virginia.

The trial committee acted while Shelton's supporters denounced the anonymous circulation to newspapers of a paper purporting to be a copy of an "apology" by the clergy to the secretary.

The incident brought from Hammond the statement that Shelton did sign a statement concerning the incident on which the specifications of the charge were based.

"But it was secured under such duress," said Hammond, "that it had no weight whatever."

Today—the thirty-first wedding anniversary of the quiet Shelton—about 95 per cent of his flock were ready to celebrate his vindication and begin a campaign to bring back to the fold about 200 members of the church who split when the charges were brought out publicly.

There will be a quarterly conference of the church tonight, when Shelton will present his nominations for a new governing body. Then the hundreds of loyal supporters will join in a "meeting of prayer."

They received him at one weeping gathering last night—weeping, smiling, clapping as he came back to the pulpit from which he had been suspended and to which he was automatically returned by the trial verdict.

Murder and Graft Get Attention of New York Officials

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Murder, as well as graft, is now engaging the attention of legislators investigating New York City.

Samuel Seabury, counsel for the legislative committee, made plain today that he was keenly interested in ascertaining all the circumstances concerning a double slaying five years ago in a Tammany Leaders' club.

He wants particularly to know why a man named as the killer was never indicted, although his name was on the police "wanted" list.

Gambling and other irregularities at political clubs has come under the committee's microscope.

South Carolina Outlaws Cotton

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—An act to outlaw cotton planting in 1932, provided states representing 75 per cent of the cotton producing area of the country take similar action, today was written in the South Carolina statutes.

It was the chief result of a nine-day special session of the legislature called by Governor Blackwood to find a relief for low cotton prices. The extraordinary session, which adjourned sine die late yesterday, was the second of its kind in the state in modern years. When the bottom fell out of cotton prices in 1914, Cole L. Blease, then governor, summoned the state law-makers to meet in extra session to consider the situation.

BETHEL HOLDS COTTON MEET

Growers Urge Special Session of Legislature to Curtail the Crop

At a meeting of farmers and business men held at Bethel yesterday for discussion of the cotton situation in this and other sections of the south resolutions deploring the condition of the grower and urging special legislation whereby the acreage of the 1932 crop might be cut to the point that cotton growing would become profitable, were unanimously adopted. The meeting was attended by 66 persons, and was presided over by M. O. Blount.

The resolutions adopted were as follows:

"Whereas there is an indicated production of cotton in the United States for 1931 of nearly 16,000,000 bales; and whereas this added to the nine million bales surplus now on hand, according to government reports, has already reduced the price of cotton below six cents a pound, which is far below the cost of production; and whereas it is the belief of this meeting that if this cotton crop sells for around six cents a pound throughout the South, it means financial disaster for the entire cotton growing belt; and

"Whereas there is a movement on foot among the cotton growing states of the South to curtail the production of cotton in 1932 by legislative acts; now, therefore,

"Be it resolved that this meeting in Bethel, N. C., this the twenty-fourth day of September, 1931, does hereby endorse this movement to curtail the acreage in 1932 by legislation, and that we petition our Governor of North Carolina, the Hon. O. Max Gardner, to call a special session of the North Carolina Legislature immediately following action by Texas, and that this session be restricted to discussion and passage of cotton relief measures only and use his influence to enact similar legislation to that passed by Texas and other cotton growing states;

"Be it resolved further that this meeting also unanimously on record as favoring that the same action as set forth herein pertaining to cotton, be extended to also include tobacco."

Escaped Lunatic Shoots Officer

Marion, Sept. 25.—(AP)—While Sheriff O. F. Adkins and his deputy, George Duncan, were being treated for shotgun wounds here today other officers searched for David Cline, charged with shooting them while resisting arrest.

Cline, the sheriff said, is a fugitive from the state hospital at Morganton. After firing at the officers, he escaped. Sheriff Adkins was shot in the back, legs and stomach. Dunning was shot in the back. Their injuries were said to be serious but not critical.

MOYLE AND ALLEN WILL TRY NEW HOP

Luckless Pacific Fliers Hope for Non-Stop Flight From Nome to Tacoma, Wash.

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 25.—(AP)—On the eve of their take off here on a projected non-stop flight to Tacoma, Wash., Don Moyle and Cecil A. Allen, California aviators, last night told of their unsuccessful attempt nearly three weeks ago to fly across the Pacific from Samushiro Beach, Japan, to Seattle.

On landing here last Sunday, after flying from the Siberian Coast, they declined to relate their experiences, saying they were awaiting orders from "backers" in the states and were negotiating for sale of the story to a syndicate of news papers.

However, they talked of their experiences last night in announcing they would attempt to hop off today on a non stop flight to Tacoma they reported that after leaving Samushiro Beach Sept. 7, they flew for 34 hours and bucked a 100-mile an hour wind when they reached the tip of the Aleutian Island chain.

The wind was so strong, they said, they seemed to be standing still in mid air and so they decided to look for a landing place. Their fuel and oil were running low and they decided they would be unable to make Seattle.

Battling the wind, but making no headway, the fliers said they finally drifted back to Kiska Island, the largest of the Kat Island group, about 800 miles west of Dutch Harbor, Alaska. They landed on a small adjoining uninhabited island about two miles long to wait for the storm to subside.

Upon this island, they said, they remained seven days without food other than what they had carried with them, and no shelter. They said they feared the wind would wreck their plane.

They took off from the island on the eighth day, they said, aided by a storm wind, and landed on the Siberian mainland at the fishing village of Miano Pilsino, about 60 miles south of Cape Navarin, where they got in touch with a Soviet freighter which communicated with the St. Paul Naval Radio station.

They were arrested last night in the office of an attorney, Joseph A. Kolk, just as a physician Dr. Gocht, was handing over $2,500, police said.

Hold Ex-Convicts As Extortionists

Chicago, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Three men, who police say are ex-convicts, were held today as extortionists and bombers who have preyed upon physicians and surgeons under threat of spreading rumors of irregular practices.

They were arrested last night in the office of an attorney, Joseph A. Kolk, just as a physician Dr. Gocht, was handing over $2,500, police said.

STATE-WIDE CELEBRATION FOR STEVENS

New National Commander of Legion to Be Feted at Big Welcome Party

Raleigh, Sept. 25.—(AP)—When Henry L. Stevens, Jr., of Warsaw comes from the American Legion convention in Detroit, bringing with him the title of national commander, he will not lack for welcomes.

News of the young attorney's election had hardly cleared press wires before R. L. McMillan, Raleigh Legion post commander, announced he would be feted with a state-wide celebration here.

Charlotte, Greensboro and Winston-Salem also announced similar plans to say nothing of Commander Stevens' little home town in Duplin county.

Plans for the meeting here will probably await the return of Col. W. T. Joyner, National Legion committee man from this state. Mr. McMillan said his preliminary plans called for participation by all Legion posts in the State, with a parade and open reception. Gov. O. Max Gardner would make the address of welcome and officially congratulate the new commander.

Charlotte, through Clarence O. Kuester, Chamber of Commerce secretary, tentatively planned a celebration October 9 with a barbecue and speeches as part of the program. Major Paul R. Younts advised Charlotte officials from Detroit that it would probably take $1,500 to defray expenses of such a project.

Greensboro and Winston-Salem had no set plans outlined but each expressed a desire to entertain Commander Stevens.

One real welcome he is certain to get, however, is swelling him at Warsaw. The folk down there announced they would stage a great homecoming party when the new Legion head got there, regardless of how many other welcomes he had attended over the state.

Warsaw, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Charles P. Gavin post of the American Legion, home post of National Commander Henry L. Stevens, Jr., will meet tonight to make plans for a homecoming celebration for him when he returns from the Detroit convention.

Stevens sent his thanks to his home state for the support it gave him in the election in a telephone conversation with Senator Rivers D. Johnson, of Warsaw, who was asked to express the thanks to the state.

Johnson said Stevens told him he would write him later and let him know the date he will return to the state.

Mrs. Arcena Jones Is Laid to Rest

Mrs. Arcena Jones, 69 years of age, died at her home on the Pacolus road near Greenville, Wednesday night. Mrs. Jones had been in splendid health until a few hours before death, which came as a great shock to her relatives and friends. She was the widow of John J. Jones who died about ten years ago.

Surviving her are four sons and three daughters, all of whom were present for her funeral: John F. Jones, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. H. Jones, Beaufort county; W. M. Jones and Chas. J. Jones, both of Greenville; Mrs. Clara Evans and Mrs. Harriet Teel of Raleigh.

Funeral services were conducted from her home by Rev. D. W. Alexander. Free Will Baptist minister, of Ayden, at five o'clock Thursday afternoon. She was buried in the family cemetery close by the family homeplace.

Mrs. Jones was a very active member of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church for many years, always being present for all services and having attended revival services there constantly in the last few days. She was a faithful wife and mother, a splendid neighbor, and a consistent Christian woman, greatly beloved by all who knew her, which was evidenced by the immense crowd of relatives, friends and neighbors who attended her funeral. She will be greatly missed by her children, relatives and neighbors.

ACCUSED PROFESSOR ARRANGES HIS CLASSES

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Elissa Kent Kane, University of Tennessee professor charged with drowning his wife in Chesapeake Bay near Hampton, Va., was in Knoxville today to meet with University authorities and make the arrangements for the work of his classes top proceed.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

Chapter 27. CONSPIRATORS

"Nonsense!" Sam took his arm and shook it commandingly. "Stop talking such utter nonsense immediately, Nelson! Why on earth should you think she was dead? I never heard anything more ridiculous in my life. Let me see the letter will you, please?"

The letter was a badly phrased, almost incoherent little document. It was also definitely pathetic. As Nelson said, Martha had come to the conclusion that Nelson was too good for her; that he would always be ashamed of her. For that reason she was going away. She still loved him, but that could make no difference. She was never coming back and he must not try to find her. She did not know where she was going, and hinted that her destination might very well be a lonely grave.

Sam looked up at Nelson and saw that once more he was on the verge of tears. He swallowed with difficulty and said: "She was going to have a baby, Sam."

"Really? That's splendid!" Sam was determinedly cheerful. "That's the best news I've heard in a long time. But why do you use the past tense? Martha isn't dead, you know?"

"Isn't she?" Nelson sat down suddenly and put his head in his hands. "How do you know?"

"How do I know?" Sam laughed. "I just know, that's all. Martha isn't the type. She couldn't commit suicide if she wanted to—which she doesn't—so let's not bother our heads about that any more. Suppose you tell me what you've been doing since you found this letter."

It appeared that Nelson had not done very much. He had gone to see Martha's father and mother. They, of course, knew nothing of her whereabouts, and had created something of a scene when they learned that she had disappeared. He had stopped in at the accident wards of two or three hospitals—just in case.

"What do you propose to do now?" Sam asked.

"I don't know. I might telephone the newspapers, I suppose, or notify the police."

"Also," Sam said grimly, "you might not! Do you want this all over the front pages?"

"Where are you going?" Nelson inquired listlessly. "You aren't going to leave me flat, are you?"

"Get your hat," she ordered briskly, "and come along."

Nelson obediently got to his feet and picked up his hat. "Where are we going?" he inquired dully. "What are we going to do?"

"We're going out to Peak Abbott's house and have a talk with him. Maybe he can help."

"Peak Abbott?" Nelson scowled. "What's the use of dragging him into this? What can he do?"

Sam had no very clear idea of what she expected Peak to be able to do. She only knew that she wanted to talk to him about this thing. Peak would be sensible and calm, and at the very least he might be able to strengthen Nelson's morale.

"Never mind about that," she said sharply, turning toward the door. "Just you leave things to me for a little while, will you, please."

In the end she was glad that she had insisted. Peak to be sure, could offer no definite plan of action at the moment, but he somehow gave the impression that he would be able to deal with the matter successfully. He was cheerful and full of confidence that everything would be all right before another day had passed. As soon as she told him the story, Sam felt that a weight had been taken from her shoulders. She could see that Nelson felt better, too. He stood more erect. He answered questions. He suggested some things that might be done in the morning. He agreed, almost with relief, to the suggestion that he spend the night with Peak.

In the end Sam said that she must be getting home. She flatly vetoed as unnecessary and impractical, the idea that one of the men should accompany her home. She gave Nelson an encouraging, farewell pat on the shoulder, and followed Peak from the room. At the front step, a quiet nod of her head caused Peak to step outside, closing the door behind him.

"Listen to me carefully," Sam said swiftly, speaking in a low tone and moving closer. "I have an idea about this thing, Peak. I know who's back of it all. I think it's Fourth!"

Peak stared. "Fourth?"

"I'm almost sure of it," Sam nodded vigorously. "He'd give almost anything to get rid of Martha. He'd think he was doing the right thing if he did. He's almost insane on the subject. I believe he's been talking to her. I believe he put the idea into her head that she isn't good enough for Nelson. I think he got her to go away."

"But—"

"Here's the way I see it. Martha has gone, and it stands to reason that she must have gone somewhere. She hasn't committed suicide—that's a cinch. She hasn't the nerve. Well, then, if she's gone somewhere, she must have money. Where did she get it? Not from her family and not from Nelson, certainly. I think she got it from Fourth."

Peak whistled. "That's an idea! Have you said anything to Nelson?"

"No, and I don't want to if it can possibly be helped. Can you imagine what Nelson would do? He'd be apt to do murder. At any rate, he'd hate Fourth for the rest of his life."

"I see," Peak nodded slowly. "It seems as though the best thing to do is to have a quiet little talk with Fourth. Will you do that as soon as you get home?"

Sam shrugged. "I can't. Fourth isn't there. He's in New York on business. I'll have to go over there the first thing in the morning. I'm only afraid, though, that I won't be able to do any good. I'm afraid Fourth will just smile and say that he doesn't know anything. I'm afraid I won't be able to make him talk."

Peak was thoughtful for a moment. Then he said: "Look here, Sam, suppose you let me handle this. Let me go to New York and talk with Fourth. I think I can make him unfold."

"Do you?" Sam sighed. "It would be wonderful if you could, but I hate to have you mixed up in this. I don't want you to quarrel with Fourth."

"Don't worry, I won't." He patted her on the shoulder. "It will all be as smooth as silk. Just you give me Fourth's address and I'll be over there by ten o'clock tomorrow morning. I'll tell Nelson some plausible lie about why I'm going."

Sam gave him the address and they moved slowly down the walk toward her car. Neither gave a thought to the fact that Peak, in bathrobe and slippers, must have been an unusual sight on an eminently respectable residential street.

Sam stepped into the driver's seat and held out a grateful hand. "You've been wonderful, Peak," she said earnestly. "I don't know how to thank you."

"Don't bother," he took her hand and held it. "I only wish I could do more."

Sam looked at him, and was suddenly moved by an unaccountable impulse. "Peak," she said quietly, "would you mind if I did something rather unusual tomorrow? Would you mind if I went out to lunch with another man?"

Peak stared for a moment. Then he put back his head and laughed in very genuine amusement. "Sometimes, Sam," he said, still laughing, "you amaze me! Sometimes you say things that are completely out of character."

"I'm engaged to you," she reminded him gravely, "and I shouldn't be lurching with other men. I just thought I'd ask permission."

"Did you?" He grinned. "Well, you have it. Lunch with him, and eat everything on the menu if you like. May I be so bold as to inquire his name?"

Sam hesitated. Then she said slowly: "He used to work for you. His name is Freddy Munson."

THE HOOVER REMEDY

After conferring with the Mellons, President Hoover rushed to Detroit to urge the Legionnaires to lend their influence against any large appropriations in order to prevent dangerous deficits. He was careful to try to charge the depression to world-wide troubles, forgetting that from 1924 to 1928 the administration at Washington was claiming that it had produced prosperity by keeping aloof from other nations. But neither at Detroit nor Washington is any remedy offered.

What does Mr. Hoover and his party propose? It is well summed up thus by the New York World-Telegrams:

Keep taxes from depressing the rich. Rely on "Uncle Andy" and the U. S. Treasury. Put your faith in bond issues.

Let posterity pay. Remember Democrats are always wrong.

That, in a nutshell, is old guard Republican philosophy for a national and international crisis!

Senator Watson of Indiana is naive enough to admit that the soothing syrup should be generously administered "until after we have passed the Presidential election and other highly disturbing factors."

Steer clear of tax legislation, keep up the spirits of the wealthy, squeeze the Treasury, let the bills pile up—so that we may glide happily into another Republican administration.

Charges Democrats With 'Hard Times'

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, today charged Democratic propaganda with responsibility for a fear which he said had gripped the country that "men, women and children will be faced with starvation this coming winter as a result of the depression."

Lucas was one of a group of prominent Republicans who spoke before a rally of New England Republicans held in the Coliseum of the New England states exposition.

"If the great Republican army of this country will get itself into battle formation—meet this fight standing up, and hitting out from the shoulder, dispel this mass of gloomy propaganda," Lucas said, "the conscious fear of destitution and starvation will be lifted from the minds of the people and the buying power of this vast country will open the gates to those who seek employment."

Lucas told his audience that "unless the Republican party immediately assumes its full responsibility as the dominant party, a Democratic administration will likely demonstrate what hard times really are."

LEGION HEADS TOWARD HOME

Colorful Four-Day National Convention At Detroit Ended Yesterday

Detroit, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The American Legion entered a new Legion year today with a new commander and a revised program, which included advocacy of a nation-wide referendum on repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The Legion closed a colorful and busy four-day convention yesterday with one of the most stormy sessions of its history as delegates wrangled over the prohibition resolution and a proposal that the organization ask immediate payment of the face value of bonus certificates.

The latter resolution was defeated as a majority of the delegates followed the advice of President Hoover, director Hines of the Veterans Bureau and other officials who asked that consideration be given to the condition of the national treasury.

The prohibition discussion—the first ever to come before a Legion convention—centered about the propriety of the Legion declaring itself.

Amid cheers and jeers and cries of "we want beer" the opponents declared that prohibition was not within the province of the Legion, that nothing could be gained by the organization in asking the referendum.

Supporters took the position that conditions under prohibition are such as to justify the Legion's seeking a remedy.

The Legion's action brought its aftermath of statements, including one from the newly-elected commander, Henry L. Stevens of Warsaw, N. C., that he does not believe "the Legion has taken the wet side."

The Legion simply "called for full expression of the opinion of the citizenry of the country," he said.

A statement in St. Joseph, Mo., by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the Methodist-Episcopal Board of Temperance, prohibition and public morals, criticized the conduct of the Legion members in Detroit, he asserted that "numbers of staggering drunks disgraced the uniform and yelled for beer."

A sharp response was given by Col. Frederick M. Alger of Detroit, chairman of the convention corporation, and Commander Stevens said he had "seen fewer drunks at this convention than at any convention." Col. Alger said that if Dr. Wilson had been here he would have seen "92,000 sober men" march in the Legion parade.

A third national issue which came before the Legion's final session dealt with the revival of the war time council of national defense.

The Legion asked President Hoover in a resolution to revive this organization as the best medium for handling the various efforts to return the country to a normal economic condition. The resolutions committee had conferred with Howard Coffin, member of the war time body.

Dr. Deaver, Famous Surgeon, Died Today

Philadelphia, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Dr. John B. Deaver, eminent surgeon, died at his home at Wyndecote, near here, today. He was 76.

Dr. Deaver had been suffering from anemia for some time and recently had undergone a number of blood transfusions.

The surgeon was among the Philadelphia doctors summoned to Washington in consultation on President Wilson when his condition became grave in 1919 and was again called by a president when Calvin Coolidge, Jr., developed blood poisoning in 1924.

He was particularly known for his operations for appendicitis, of which he performed thousands. He had the advantage of being ambidextrous, wielding the knife with either hand. He was credited with setting a surgical record of a daily average of six major operations for every week day on one year. Many of his patients came here from far corners of the world.

Associates of Dr. Deaver said more medical men had submitted to him for appendicitis operations than any other surgeon in this country. At a banquet given him in 1909 by men upon whom he had performed major operations more than 100 physicians from various parts of the country were present.

Indict Former N. Y. Prohibition Chief

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Palmer Canfield, former New York State prohibition administrator, was indicted by the New York county grand jury today for forgery in the first degree and larceny in the second degree. He was placed under arrest in the district attorney's office.

Canfield, long a prominent figure in Republican politics was indicted for having accepted $25,000 in forged bonds of the New York Central Railroad.

The bonds were alleged to have been given him for his supposed intervention with the Treasury Department to reinstate the liquor permit of the Strictly Kosher Wine company of New York City.

Limits Troops

Spokesman for Baron Shidehara, Japan's foreign minister, announced that Japanese troop movements in Manchuria outside of the South Manchuria railway concession would end at once.

Wife Held In Husband's Death

Fairburn, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles M. Carran was held as an "accessory or accomplice" today in the slaying of her husband, a Jacksonville, Fla., accountant, at the order of a coroner's jury which concluded he was killed by a "person or persons unknown."

Deputy Sheriff C. T. McClure of Campbell county, said Mrs. Carran had been held since Wednesday, at Bowdon, Ga., in Carroll county by Sheriff Creel and was subjected to almost constant questioning. She was returned here last night and placed in the jail.

Farber Gored to Death

Sumter, S. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A bull knocked down and gored to death Huggins Rich, barber, on the Alvin Poole farm near Manning yesterday.

JANET GAYOR, CHARLES FARRELL IN ROMANCE COMING TO STATE

Janet Gaynor, who played the role of an orphan in "Daddy Long Legs" recently, is again parentless in her newest Fox Film vehicle, "Merely Mary Ann," which begins its local engagement here Monday at the State Theatre. This time, however, she inherits a fortune all her own—and instead of Warner Baxter, has Charles Farrell co-starred with her.

GRID FANS ARE ALL SET FOR FIRST GAMES

Charlotte, Sept. 25.—(AP)—North Carolina football fans, after a taste of the gridiron sport last week, were, were ready today to enjoy a full menu as every "Big Five" and North State conference team prepared to go into action.

Lenoir-Rhyne and Appalachian open the fireworks at Hickory tonight and the whole load explodes tomorrow.

Duke's debut under the tutelage of Wallace Wade, the famous Alabama coach, probably leads the South in intersectional interest but a pair of strictly home affairs, Wake Forest against North Carolina and Davidson against N. C. State will draw plenty of interest.

The Blue Devils arrived in Columbia early today for their engagement with the South Carolina Gamecocks tomorrow. This game promises to draw the largest crowd of any in the two states, with 10,000 tickets already sold and 5,000 seats still available.

Coach Chuck Collins was more than pleased with his Tar Heelians as he gave them a final workout in preparation for the Demon Deacons. He said they looked "much better," particularly with Johnny Branch taking over the passing and punting.

The Deacons were also ready, with only a light drill between them and the Tar Heels. The heavy paces ended yesterday and Coach Pat Miller announced there would be no changes in the lineup he has been drilling for the last week as his first string carsters.

Davidson, with its game at the Gate City scheduled to be played at night, slipped into Charlotte late yesterday and took a workout under the stars at the Piedmont League baseball park here.

It was the only chance the Wildcats had to get a bit of night work before meeting the Wolfpack, there being no facilities for night practice at Davidson.

State, on the other hand, has been practicing consistently under the stars, and plans its final workout tonight.

The pack took one on the chin with the announcement that George Beaghen, 200-pound end, had been forced to leave school because of financial difficulties. He had practically clinched a first string berth and his weight will be missed in the line.

North State Conference games scheduled for tomorrow including Guilford vs. William and Mary at Williamsburgh, Va.; Elon vs. Roanoke at Salem, Va.; High Point vs. Lynchburg, Va.; and Milligan vs. Catawba at Salisbury. Guilford and Elon will play at night.

DEACONS HAVE STRONG TEAM

By WHITNEY THARIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Wake Forest, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Count off eleven men from any football squad in North Carolina, label them the best in the state, and Wake Forest will be able to produce the same number that, collectively if not individually, will be on a par with that crew.

Stop right there if one wants an idea of what Coach Pat Miller is molding into the Demon Deacon machine this year. Like Davidson, the Deacons have a "one-team" with the reserves woefully weak.

That one team, however, is nobody's push-over. The line will be made up of almost the same sturdy chaps who made the Deacon wall in 1930, one of the most powerful in this section.

Elsie Webb and Ed Williams, Giant tacklers, are the mainstays of the line and anyone who ever saw these chaps perform will vouch for their ability to take care of themselves in a football game.

The forward wall's ability far overshadows that of the ball-carrying department. The backfield will miss the scoring power of Mills, last year's star offensive player. A pair of sophomores, however, are anxious to take his place and at least one of these, Dunk Wilson, appears to be on the road to a career in State football circles.

Paul Hutchins, veteran quarterback, and Jim Bradley, triple-threat fullback, are the bright lights behind the line. Willis Hupps, who has seen considerable service, will probably hold one half and Wilson the other.

Tom Cornwell, a linesman, has been shifted to the pivot position and is getting along nicely in his new job. Johnnie Dupree and Gordon Grant will flank him at the guard posts while Capt. Leon Brogden and Bill Green are varsity ends.

The Deacons' schedule will probably work against the club in that practically all of the hard games come at the beginning of the season. Starting with North Carolina Saturday, the Deacons take on Furman, N. C. State and Duke in succession, three Southern Conference teams and one of the best non-conference outfits in the south.

The schedule:
September 26, North Carolina at Chapel Hill; October 3, Furman at Gastonia; October 15, N. C. State at Raleigh; October 24, Duke at Durham; October 30, Erskin at Wake Forest; November 7, Presbyterian College at Greensboro; November 14, Oglethorpe at Atlanta; November 26, Davidson at Charlotte.

Motor Fuel Law Spurs Making Of Alcohol In Chile

Santiago, Chile.—(AP)—Native wines, said to be among the best in South America, as well as other forms of beverages, may be turned into alcohol hereafter.

A new law, passed by Congress, provides for a percentage of alcohol in motor fuel.

The measure was designed to assist the native alcohol industry, but indications are that many makers of fine wines will turn their excess product into alcohol that can be sold for motor fuel "cuttings."

There was much opposition to the bill, engineers asserting that the combination fuel would never work properly.

"When alcohol is put into automobiles, then watch the machines go on a spree," said one expert.

No tests were made beforehand, and this, say engineers, makes a gasoline "cut" with alcohol bound to fail in some regions. Chile has all kinds of climates and conditions, from the tropics in the north to the Antarctic in the south, with deserts, valleys, plains and mountains in between.

The law provides for one to 25 per cent alcohol in all motor fuel, but gasoline company executives anticipate the amount will not exceed three per cent at first.

Asheville, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Wallace B. Davis, former Asheville financier, denied there was any intent to deceive in any of his actions as he testified today in his trial on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Davis was president and William D. Harris, co-defendant in the case, was vice-president of the Central Securities Company of Asheville, Inc., which is alleged to have sold $3,600,000 worth of bonds in various parts of the country by means of false financial statements and circulars mailed to prospective customers.

The Securities Corporation was one of the 18 subsidiary corporations of the Central Bank and Trust Company which Davis founded and which failed last fall.

"I kept working all the time to get money to hope that prosperity would return," said Davis. "We faced heavy financial responsibilities, but I thought we could work them out. We never made a statement or did anything intended to deceive."

Davis is under state sentences totaling from 9 to 13 years in prison after conviction of various charges resulting from the failure of the bank.
