DISSENSION IS REPORTED IN COLLINGS CASE

Investigators Clash Over Development In Mysterious Drowning Of Yachtsman.

Huntington, N. Y., Sept. 28.—(AP)—With the strange murder of Benjamin P. Collings on Long Island Sound September 9 at midnight still unsolved, a ripple of dissension today began to disturb the heretofore unified forces of the investigation into the mysterious slaying.

The first inkling of a clash within the ranks of the investigators came Saturday in the midst of the coroner's inquest when Dr. Otto H. Schultz was called to the stand to tell the findings of his autopsy on Collings' body.

Dr. Schultz, one of the leading medical scientists in his field, decried the coroner and district attorney of Suffolk county, rattled off a baffling list of numerical symbols, declared they definitely proved that Collings' death was caused by drowning, and then abruptly left the inquest room.

He emphatically refused to go into a complete report of his findings, indicating that to make it public at this time might hinder justice.

The attitude of Dr. Schultz, who is medical advisor to the district attorney of New York county, completely mystified the Suffolk county coroner and district attorney for whom he had agreed to perform the autopsy.

And not until today did it become known what lay behind Dr. Schultz's action in the inquest room and the curious list of symbols he read.

The doctor's attitude, it was authoritatively learned, was occasioned by his strong disapproval of the manner in which the investigation was proceeding. He had to be served a subpoena before he appeared.

And when he did appear, he merely gave his perfunctory conclusion about the cause of Collings' death, recited six symbols, and refused to answer questions about the evidence of blows found on Collings' head and believed to have been struck before the man was bound hand and foot and tossed from his cabin cruiser into Long Island Bay.

As for the mystic symbols, it was revealed today that while no one in the inquest room could decipher them they were simply labels for varying quantities of one simple substance found in various parts of the victim's body—salt!

The number 72, the first given by Dr. Schultz, stood for the salt content of the fluid found in Collings' lungs; 93, the second, was to signify the salt in the blood vessel leading to the right side of the victim's heart; 103, represented the salt in the left pulmonary vein; 437, the salt in another blood vessel, 1940, the salt found in the stomach; and 11820 the salt content of a sample of water from Long Island Sound.

The presence of salt in all the organs and its correspondence to the salt found in Long Island water was the essential proof upon which Dr. Schultz based his conclusion that the cause of death was drowning and that Collings was alive when he was thrown into the water. Dr. Schultz's refusal to go into his findings about the incidental blows on Collings' head, it was learned today, was due to his belief that the coroner's inquest was entitled to know merely the cause of death and that other details of the autopsy which may prove important to efforts to solve the crime should not be made public there.

And so when he left the courtroom, he took whatever secret his findings may still shield with him. Whether they will ever be available to the officials of Suffolk county or whether the doctor contemplates turning them over to certain private investigators as possible clues to the murder could not be learned.

Failure of Public To Spend Its Money Given as Unemployment Cause

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The public, by failure to spend its money, is blamed by Walter S. Gifford for much of the unemployment distress.

Consumer buying, the man entrusted by President Hoover with caring for the suffering of the jobless believes, must precede solution of the problem.

"If the public buys neither work nor goods, it is the public that is indirectly discharging men," he said last night in a radio address over both national networks.

FOR PRESIDENT TO PUSH CLAIM FOR MILLIONS

Mrs. Rosa Stansbury At Raleigh Will Press Right To $50,000,000 Estate.

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A suit to break the will of the late Ella Wendel who left most of the Wendel millions to charity, was filed in U. S. District court today by Arthur Garfield Hays and Samuel Untermyer on behalf of Rosa Dew Stansbury, 74, of Vicksburg, Miss., a relative in the fifth degree.

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey granted a temporary restraining order enjoining probate of the will, upon the filing of a nominal bond. Miss Stansbury charges that undue influence and restraint were brought to bear upon Miss Wendel, states that she was eccentric, that two of her sisters died in insane asylums and that two others were eccentric, and points to the fact that about half the estate was left to the Methodist church although the complainant states, Miss Wendel took little interest in the church and showed an aversion to missions.

The complaint sets forth that the property of the estate in New York is worth $49,000,000 and that the total value of the estate including properties in Westchester county is more than $75,000,000.

Raleigh, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A tiny little southern woman who lays claim to $50,000,000 estate today watched for the one thing the fortune she may inherit can never buy her youth.

Miss Rosa Dew Stansbury, of Vicksburg, Miss., who has been termed the most probable claimant to the estate of the late Miss Ella Von E. Wendel, of New York, announced here where she is visiting, that she would press her case to the fullest degree and in the next breath wished she could roll back several years ago.

Negotiations leading up to the sale were completed week before last and the plant was officially turned over to the city for operation. The amount involved in the sale was $100,000, duly authorized to be spent for this purpose in a special election during the month of July.

Prior to transfer to the city, the plant had been operated by the Tidewater Power Company pending negotiations between the city and the Carolina Electric Company. Had not the city purchased the plant it would have been taken over by the Tidewater company.

The plant is being operated by the usual force of employees carried by the Water and Light Commission. It was said today, and this has effected a tremendous reduction in cost of operation. It has enabled the city to make an appreciable reduction in gas rates right off the bat and this will be combined with general increase of service.

It was stated today that business had already taken a pronounced jump since the transfer of the property to the city, and was expected to show healthy growth from now on without detracting from the splendid profits netted by the water and light plant during the last several years.

Many new customers have been added by the city the last two weeks.

Lebanon, Ind., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Carrie Simmons, wife of John Simmons, a Hancock county farmer was taken to the Boone county court today for the opening of her trial on a charge of poisoning her two daughters. She has been in jail since June 25.

Mrs. Simmons is alleged to have placed poison in chicken sandwiches served at a family reunion here last June. Her two daughters, Virginia, 14, and Alice Jean, 10, ate some of the sandwiches and died within a few hours. Several other persons were made ill but recovered.

ASKS HOOVER TO SPEAK TO LEGION NOV. 30

Henry Stevens of Warsaw to Leave Capital Tonight After Visiting Hoover.

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—President Hoover was invited today by Henry L. Stevens, Jr., the new national commander of the American Legion, to address the Legion's Armistice Day meeting in Washington.

Stevens will leave Washington tonight for his home at Warsaw, N. C., where a celebration will be held tomorrow over his election to the Legion post.

The president told the Legion official he would consider the invitation.

As he left the White House, Stevens vigorously replied again to the charges of Dr. Clarence Truett Wilson, of the Methodist Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Public Morals, that the Legion convention had been a "drunken orgy."

"It was the soberest convention I have ever attended," Stevens said. "The delegates were as sober-minded a group as you have ever seen sit down to face a set of problems."

The commander said he believed that Dr. Wilson "could have been more dignified and more truthful."

"We will treat that with quiet dignity and let the country decide," he said of Dr. Wilson's latest attack on the Legion from Kansas City.

WANG HURT BY STUDENT MOB

Chinese Foreign Minister Badly Beaten During Attack At Nanking.

Nanking, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Foreign Minister C. T. Wang was attacked and seriously injured today by a mob of students who blamed him for failing to induce the League of Nations to intervene in the Manchurian controversy between China and Japan.

But for the intervention of a group of servants, Dr. Wang probably would not have escaped alive. The mob, using clubs and inkpots, rained blows on his head, smashed windows and furniture and reduced Wang's office to wreckage.

The foreign minister's clothing was torn to shreds. His servants, breaking into the office through a rear window, finally carried him away. At first he was reported probably fatally injured, but later examination disclosed that he probably would live.

Dr. Wang was found to have three serious wounds in the chest and lesser ones on the arms and legs. President Chiang Kai-Shek sent a detachment of his personal bodyguard to Dr. Wang's home to protect him against any attacks. The guard was ordered to shoot to kill if Dr. Wang was threatened again.

The government announced that despite the agitation against Dr. Wang's foreign policy with which Nanking was seething, that course would be continued.

The Chinese government appealed to the League of Nations shortly after the occupation by Japanese troops last week of several cities in Southern Manchuria. Japan announced that the occupation had been necessitated by attempts of the Chinese military to destroy a bridge of the Japanese railway near Mukden and by threats against the life and property of its nationals elsewhere in Manchuria.

Autumn Chill Hits The South

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Chilly winds swept across the South over the week end to put it on notice that autumn had arrived.

For days beforehand, the mercury in many of the Southern States had hovered in the vicinity of 90 and there were times when schools in some cities were closed because of the heat. Saturday, however, temperatures generally took a decided slump.

Yesterday, as cool fall winds blew, temperatures ranging from 59 at Asheville in the Western North Carolina mountains to 72 at Jacksonville, Fla., were reported.

Athens shivered under a maximum yesterday of 52. Richmond, Va., had a low of 59. At Nashville, Tenn., 53 was recorded. It was 55 at Little Rock, Ark., and 65 at New Orleans, a 14 degree drop in 24 hours.

Louisville, Ky., had a 55-degree minimum; Tampa, Fla., 71; Birmingham, Ala., 59; Meridian, Miss., 54 and other cities corresponding readings.

The weather bureau forecast slightly warmer weather for today and tomorrow in most of the South.

Dixie merchants welcomed the relief from the unseasonable heat wave as a business stimulant. Business men throughout the South commented that they expected fall buying to increase with the cooler weather. Many felt the extended summer temperatures had a retarding influence.

EXPLAINS WHY BANK CUT RATE

President Of State Bankers Makes Statement In Face Of Reduced Interest Rates

Winston-Salem, N. C., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Robert M. Hanes, president of the North Carolina Bankers' Association, in a statement today gave some of the reasons which he said had prompted a number of banks in North Carolina to reduce the rate of interest paid on time deposits.

"A bank cannot," he said, "any more than a firm, corporation or individual, operate a safe business unless it keeps its expenditures below its receipts and operates at a reasonable profit."

He then pointed out the necessity for banks to keep a considerable percentage of their funds highly liquid in cash or high grade bonds and said the yield on cash kept on deposit with other banks in reserve cities was now approximately one half of one percent.

"We know that the public wants most of all," he continued, "safe and solvent banks and we believe that the public is willing to accept in return a reasonable rate for its deposits any pay a reasonable amount for services rendered where the volume of business transacted with the bank is not sufficient to compensate the bank for these services."

"The banks of North Carolina are, as a whole, in excellent condition and deserve the absolute confidence and cooperation of the public."

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Representative Wright Patman, Democrat, Texas, today said he would institute impeachment proceedings against Secretary Mellon as the new Congress convened in December.

Patman said that while Mr. Mellon is not a member of the board of directors of the Aluminum Corporation, that he is still a stockholder and as such has a voice in the election of members of the board.

SAM

By Freeman Lincoln

SYNOPSIS: Sam Sherrill promises to marry Peak Abbott, wealthy newspaper owner, when her half-brother, Nelson, marries their maid Martha. But the family's social and financial difficulties are removed when Fourth Alderson, her stepfather, becomes wealthy. Sam considers returning to her former lover, Freddy Munson, but finds Freddy strangely unwilling.

Chapter 29
THE STRANGER
Freddy Munson sighed and leaned back in his chair. "You are trying to say, I suppose, that you and I were almost man and wife. That was it, wasn't it?"

Sam nodded, her eyes dropping. "Yes."
"Well, I admit the charge. I'll also admit that 'almost' is as far as we got." He continued to smile. "That being the case, I can't see any use in talking about it any more."
"But we must! I must explain!" "Look here, Sam, let me talk for a minute, will you?" Freddy, suddenly serious, leaned across the table and tapped on its surface for emphasis. "It seems to me that if you and I let ourselves go, we'll find ourselves involved in about five seconds in the midst of a high-grade emotional scene."
"I know, but—"
"It's no use," Freddy said, stubbornly. "I won't have a scene."
Sam made a baffled gesture. "Do you mean to tell me," she inquired in slow wonder, "that you and I are going to part like this? Aren't we going to say any of the things that must be said, because you are afraid of a scene?"
"I'm not afraid of a scene," he shook his head gently. "I simply dislike a scene when there is no use for one. I asked you to have lunch with me today for one good reason. I wanted to find out something, and I've found it out."
Sam said pleadingly: "Aren't you going to let me explain at all, Freddy? Aren't you going to let me try to justify myself?"

"What's the use? You want to explain to me what happened that night when you and I almost took the six o'clock train for New York. You want to tell me why you thought what you thought, and why you did what you did. You want to tell me what you've been thinking, and doing, and feeling ever since that night, Sam?"
"Yes, Freddy. Don't you think you might be kind enough to listen?"
"I doubt if my listening would be a kindness. It would just involve us in a hopeless tangle of explanations and reproaches. It wouldn't do any good." He shook his head. "It isn't, you know, as though you had to justify yourself to me. It isn't that I'm trying to be rude, either. It's just that I'm trying to avoid a painful narrative of causes, when causes aren't important. Causes aren't important to me. Sam. Only facts are important."
"I see," she said. "There's no possible way, Freddy, in which I can persuade you to let me have my say?"

He frowned. "There might be one way, but you wouldn't take advantage of it."
"Wouldn't it? You might at least give me the chance."
"All right, I will." He leaned forward and looked her in the eyes. "You can have your say, Sam, but only if you can tell me that I'm wrong in two conclusions that I've drawn today. If you can 'yes' to two simple questions that I'll ask you, you can talk your head off. Otherwise talk is foolish and a waste of time. Shall I ask the questions?"

Sam felt a clutch of fear at her heart but she managed to nod. "Go ahead and ask them."
"All right, I will. Here's the first one." He spoke briskly, almost casually. "Can you honestly tell me, Sam, that you're not in love with Peak Abbott?"
Sam said nothing. She merely stared.
"That's the first question. Here's the second." He nodded impatiently. "Can you tell me with equal honesty that you are in love with me?"
Sam continued to stare, her eyes widening. Freddy's face was a white but there was a jump in her throat. She tried to think, but her brain seemed paralyzed. She tried to speak, but the words would not come. A power stronger than herself held her speechless.
After an interval Freddy smiled and leaned back in his chair. "You see?" he inquired gently. "Do you see now, Sam, why I said that talk was useless, and why I tried to avoid it? I wasn't blaming you for what has happened. It isn't your fault. It just has happened, that's all. I knew that no amount of talk could change it."

There was suddenly a stranger across the table from Sam. He had the face and the figure of someone she knew—of someone named Freddy Munson—but he was a stranger, nevertheless. He was looking at his wrist watch and shaking his head. "Damn it all," the stranger was saying ruefully. "I might have known! I've missed my train. Now I'll have to wait an hour for another."

At twenty minutes to five that same afternoon Sam was walking up and down a deserted platform at the railway station. She was waiting for the train from New York on which Peak Abbott was returning from his trip to see Fourth. A telegram had been waiting when she came back to the stable after her luncheon with Freddy Munson.
Already that luncheon seemed a dim, unreal memory. It might have taken place years ago. Was it possible that Freddy had come to town that very morning; that he had seen him; that he had gone away again?

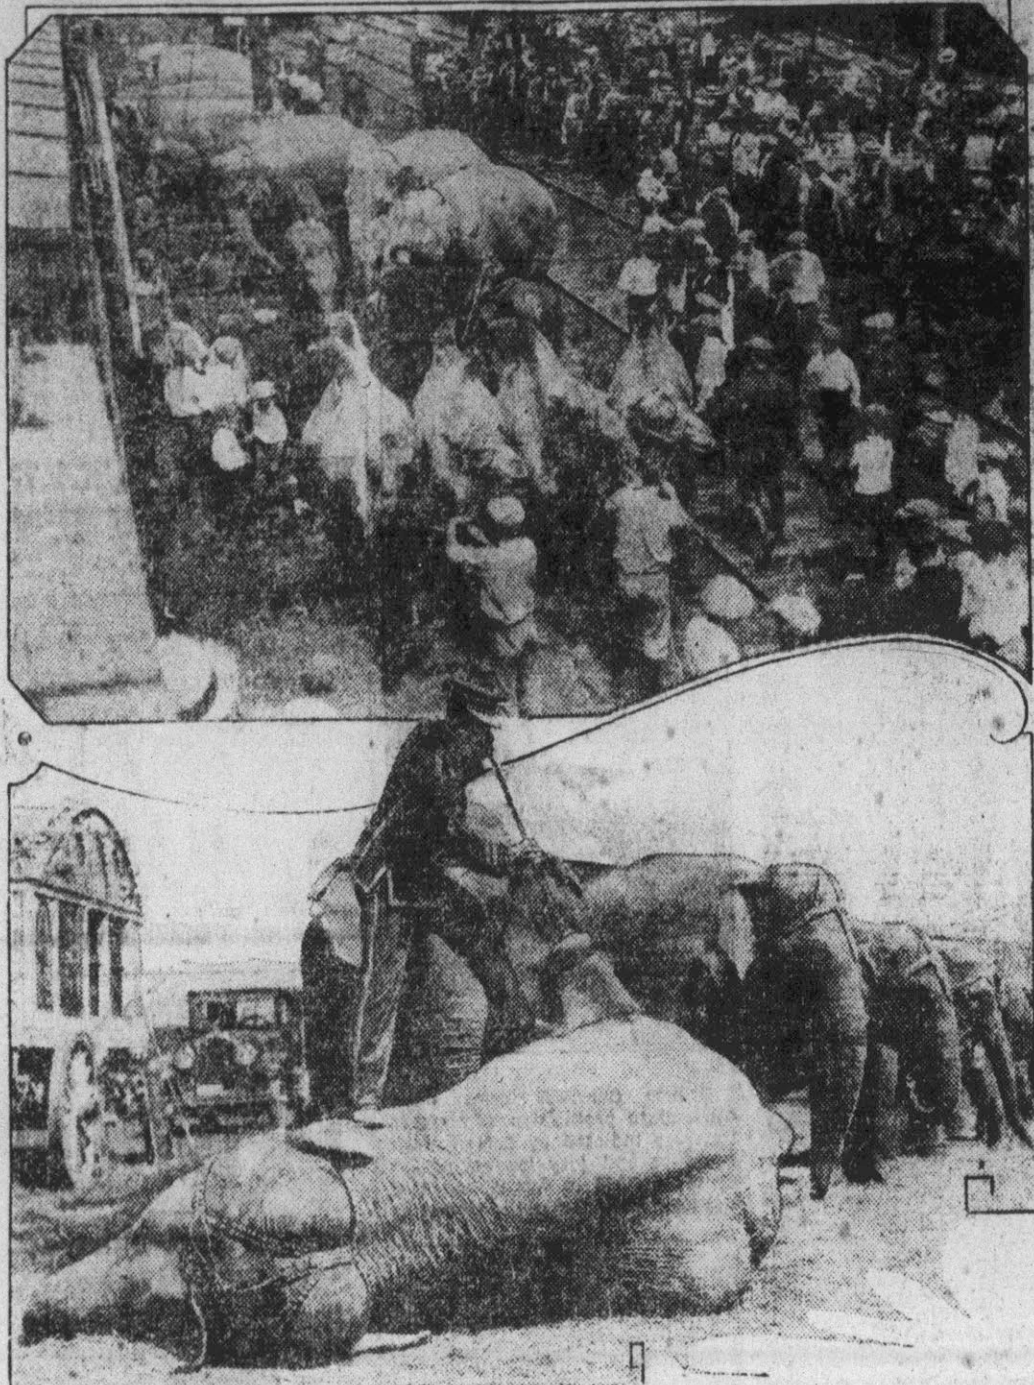

Peak's telegram had said something about everything being all right. She supposed that meant that he had seen Fourth, and that he had found out where Martha was.
It really mattered that she see Peak at once and tell him about Freddy Munson. Peak would be surprised when he heard. He might well be angry and tell her that he was through with her forever. She would not blame him if he did.

There was a long whistle behind her, and Sam turned to see the New York train slide around a gentle curve and come to a stop beside the raised platform. Sam caught a glimpse of Peak in the distance. She called his name and ran toward him, waving her hand. Peak was surprised to see her. He was also tremendously pleased although he tried not to show it. "You shouldn't have bothered with me," he said.

"I wanted to come." They walked down the stairs to the street. "I wanted to talk to you."
"Naturally." Peak thought that she wanted to talk to him about Martha.
They found Sam's car and Peak took the wheel. "Well, young lady," he said cheerfully, "you aren't such a bad detective."
"Oh, you mean about Martha." Sam stirred impatiently. "So Fourth knew all about it did he? I thought he would. Have you told Nelson?"

"I sent him a wire saying I had good news, and to meet me at my house at five-fifteen. Do you mind if we stop there first? Where is Martha?"
"Of course not. Where is Martha?"
"She's all right." Peak laughed. "As a matter of fact, she's living in comparative luxury in a small hotel about thirty miles out in the country. Your stepfather is doing her fairly proud."
"When is she coming home?"
"I imagine the best plan will be to send Sonny up there on a surprise visit. Perhaps he can bring her home tonight."
"Good." Sam nodded. "And that will be the end of that. Now we don't have to talk about it any more. I want to hear all about it, but I'd rather hear later, if you don't mind. Just now I'd like to talk about something else."
"Oh." Once more Peak glanced at her curiously. "All right what's on your mind?"
Sam was silent for a moment. Then she said quietly: "I had luncheon with Freddy Munson today, Peak."
"Oh." The moneylender was the only sign that Peak had heard. He seemed to escape his lips involuntarily. After that he stared straight out at the road and seemed to be absorbed in his driving. Sam waited for a time for a comment that did not come. Then she pressed the subject doggedly. "You remember me asking you last night if I could have lunch with him. You must because you laughed about it. You even said that you transferred him as a reporter on your newspaper."
"I remember distinctly," Peak's tone was expressionless. "It is

Wake Up Your Liver Bile - Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."
They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. See at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

He enumerated a four-point program for coping with employment distress. It included:

1. Appointment of a statewide committee of leading citizens by the governor.
2. Organization of an emergency committee in needy communities.
3. Determination by this committee of the probable employment load and the development of ways to meet it by providing employment or relief.
4. Reports to the state committees on plans of the local groups. He said 6,000,000 was the estimate "most generally mentioned" for the number of unemployed, and added:

"Employers have already to an extraordinary degree spread unemployment available in their own plants among their workers. Many have gone the limit.

Describing the employment situation as temporary, he said similar emergencies in this country occur so seldom "there is not and probably ought not to be permanent organization to cope with it."

Stevens said 92,000 in the parade at Detroit were not drunk and the delegates soberly gathered in committee meetings to discuss the program before the convention. He reiterated the Legion, in voting to resubmit the 18th amendment, "did not go on record for the wet side or the dry side of the prohibition controversy but merely for the eternal right of the American people to express their views on any question."

Stevens, telling of President Hoover's reaction to the invitation for an Armistice Day speech, said he was told the president was very weeks and these were expected to increase in number as the plant reaches a higher state of efficiency.

At the present time there are fifteen miles of gas mains in the city, but surveys are already under way for extensions to the more remote residential sections. This will mean a general increase of service to the patrons and a preceptible upturn of profits for the Water and Light commission, considered one of the most progressive and forward looking organizations of its kind in this part of the state.

Members of the commission have expressed themselves as highly gratified at the growth manifested during the first two weeks of operation, and thought that the gas plant would be able to render far greater service as it develops along with the city and outlying suburban districts.

with the accumulation of wants which has been going on during the past year, retail buying has been picking up. It will continue to improve in volume. Even though the customer spends fewer dollars than before, the physical volume of goods moved has increased because of the reduced prices. When this is going on, production must be increased to supply the demand. This ushers in the first stage of the business revival.

"But," continues Mr. Friday, "we entered upon that stage some months ago. With reduced retail prices and depleted inventories, production of consumer's goods will mount gradually throughout the remaining months of 1931. Producer's goods such as steel may lag and so may carry some of the indexes which are heavily weighed with the latter to new low levels. But these will gradually follow the others in their revival. By December of this year the volume of industrial output should be from twenty to twenty-five per cent larger than it was in December, 1930."

That is the picture drawn accurately and with careful attention to detail, by a statistician who has not neglected a single fact. He sees us shifting into second gear, and when second comes, can third be far behind? — Atlanta Journal.

ABOUT TOWN

Belief that the gas plant would prove a profitable investment for the city is already beginning to bear fruit, judging by statements released by the Water & Light commission after two weeks of operation.

The plant, purchased by the city after the voters were given an opportunity to go to the polls and express their opinion in the matter, was taken over by the city about two weeks ago. Since that time, numbers of new customers have been added and the future appears very bright for a general increase of patronage.

In addition to this, the city is already making surveys for extension of the fifteen miles of gas mains, making cooking and illumination convenience accessible to people in the remote residential districts.

Aside from this forward-looking movement, the commission has announced an appreciable reduction in gas rates, giving the city the same advantages enjoyed by the larger and more thickly populated communities of the country.

Those who argued that the plant would bring rich rewards to the city in future years are finding much to elate them in the statement of the first two weeks of operation and may confidently look forward to the future for continued growth of the industry.

People who have been berating the weather man for the belated hot weather of the last few weeks were all smiles yesterday and today as the mercury hit the toboggan for lower readings.

However disagreeable the hot wave may have been to some people, it proved a source of joy to others who are always delighted over weather enabling them to stave off coal bills.

However, it may be confidently believed that summer has heaved up its last dying gasp and has definitely given away to the demands of autumn—and King Winter.

Persons who have neglected coal bins while basking in the warmth of the balmy weather of the past should find it to their advantage to make a requisition upon their coal dealer immediately and prepare themselves against the first onslaught of cold.

It is a poor provider indeed who leaves such an important matter until the last minute, and it is hardly likely many will be caught asleep when the biting cold of winter comes along to drive them to the fireside.

The World Series and then baseball will be over until the coming of another season.

Followers of the national sport even at this time are turning their attention to the gridiron, and the upsets provided by Saturday's games has produced so much consternation and joy that some of the kick no doubt will be taken out of the championship race for baseball honors.

However, there are some who will stick to the horsehide diversion in spite of the most momentous changes in other fields of sport and will believe themselves fully

QUICK DOPE ON WORLD SERIES

Reflector Will Furnish Readers With Complete Reports On Championship Battle

The "stay-at-homes" will see the world's series, too.

Vivid, accurate stories by veteran sports writers of the Associated Press daily will give The Daily Reflector readers a clear and complete account of the 1931 world championship battle, which opens at St. Louis Thursday.

Direct wires from Sportsman's Park in St. Louis and Shibe Park in Philadelphia will bring to The Daily Reflector the thrilling account of the games, the crowds and the players.

Perched in the press-box, high above the diamond, Alan Gould will dictate the play by play report, each ball and strike, every move of the two teams struggling for supremacy. Gould, who is sports editor of the Associated Press, has covered world's series games for 10 years.

Edward J. Neil will describe the crowds, the colorful background of the diamond tussles and the thrilling picture of suspense and excitement. He also will write features on series sidelights and other angles.

The news from the clubhouses, where the generals of the two teams shape their campaigns, will be told by Charles Dunkley at the St. Louis games. Gayle Talbot, Jr., has the same assignment on the contests at Philadelphia.

Statistics—box scores, players' performance records and composite team averages—will be handled by William Weeks at St. Louis and Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., at Philadelphia. The sports staff will be assisted in both cities by the local reporters of the Associated Press in handling all details of the year's greatest baseball event.

The picture angles of the series also will be covered fully by a corps of Associated Press photographers. Their pictures will be carried to The Daily Reflector by the fastest possible means of transportation, over telephone wires, by plane and air mail.

Seats for the series contests probably will be at a premium but every reader of The Daily Reflector can see the games through the reports of the Associated Press.

MARRIAGE LICENSE BUSINESS REVIVED IN PITT COUNTY

Although observers of the activities of Dan Cupid were unable to account for it, nine couples applied for licenses to marry, and in many instances were lawfully bound together, at the office of the Register of Deeds here Saturday.

Employees in the office of the Register of Deeds attributed the unusual activity to the impending change in weather conditions, but the more erudite wagged their heads and expressed opinion that it was merely a renaissance of a custom usually preceding the holiday season.

TELLS WHY MINISTERS FAIL IN THEIR WORK

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—More ministers fail because of "spots on their vests and 'ain't on their lips" than from any other cause, Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes told a class of 22 men who were ordained to the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church yesterday.

"No man should say he is sanctified to the work of our Lord when he habitually goes around looking like a pig," Bishop Hughes said, "and how can you expect a man to win souls when he makes every intelligent person in his congregation cringe every time he speaks a sentence?"

BILLY'S UNCLE

BATTLE FOR PENNANT GOES TO LAST DITCH

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Three battles for the 1931 batting championship of the National League seemed destined to continue right up to the last minute of the last day of play and the final results may not be known until the official figures are released sometime next winter.

At least the semi-official average, just three days before the finish, failed to reveal a letup in the struggle between Chick Hafey of the St. Louis Cardinals and Bill Terry of the New York Giants.

Hafey, coming up in a late rush, held first place Thursday with a .350 average and a margin of only a single point over Terry while Jim Bottomley of St. Louis, Terry's first rival, had slipped back to third place at .341. Chuck Klein of Philadelphia, the fourth participant in the battle, had a .338 average.

Terry still held the major share of the slugging honors as he led the league in two departments, tied for first in another and was second in a fourth.

The big New Yorker had a total of 212 hits, putting him one up on Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh, and had clouted 20 triples to 16 for Babe Herman of Brooklyn.

Klein and Terry each had scored 120 runs and the Philadelphia was ahead of his New York rival with 120 runs batted in to 113. Klein completed its clouting list, which rivaled Terry's, with a league leading total of 31 home runs. Mel Ott of the Giants was second with 29.

Sparky Adams of St. Louis continued to head the one remaining column in the hitting records with 45 doubles, one more than Wally Berger of Boston had collected.

Frank Frisch and Pepper Martin of St. Louis, continued to run one-two in base stealing with 28 and 17 thefts respectively.

Behind the Big Four on the list of individual batting leaders came O'Doul of Brooklyn .335; Grimm of Chicago .333; Hornsby of Chicago .332; Cuyler of Chicago .328; Davis of Philadelphia .328; and Stripp of Cincinnati .325.

Despite their imposing list of leaders, the Chicago Cubs lost ground in the race with the Giants for the club batting lead. New York raised its average to .292 last week while the Cubs went to .228; holding their fielding work at .974. The Cardinals took undisputed possession of the lead, a point ahead of Chicago, Cincinnati and New York.

SIMMONS AND GROVE ANNEX NEW HONORS

Chicago, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Robert Moses Grove and Al Simmons, apparently have added a pair of jewels of the Philadelphia Athletics' championship crown, 11th shape of individual pitching and batting titles of the American League.

According to semi-official averages which include Thursday's games of this nearly finish season, Grove, with a record of 31 victories and three defeats for an average of .912, was the league's champion hurler, while Milwaukee Al's mark of .289 just about assured him the batting title.

Grove could lose another decision and still surpass the high major league percentage mark of .872, set in 1912 by Smokey Joe Wood of Boston, and Simmons' margin of seventeen points over Babe Ruth of Cleveland, still the highest of the remaining batting honors belong to Lou Gehrig of the Yanks, although he dropped the base hit leadership to Earl Averill of Cleveland, during the week. Gehrig had batted in 180 runs—10 less than the Major League mark set by Hack Wilson last season; led Babe Ruth in home runs, 45 to 44, had scored 159 runs, and had a total base collection of 298.

Ben Chapman, Yankee outfielder, stole three more bases and led with the handsome total of 61, while Earl Webb of Boston, improved his own record in batting out doubles to 66. The remaining leaders in hitting for three bases, was held by Roy Johnson, Detroit outfielder, who had 18 triples. Following Simmons and Ruth in the "first ten regulars" were: Morgan, Cleveland, 350; Cochrane, Philadelphia, 348; Gehrig, New York, 340; Webb, Boston, 336; Goslin, St. Louis, 336; West, Washington, 335; Averill, Cleveland, 338; and Alexander, Detroit, 331.

Cleveland's batting pace was slowed down, but the Indians led New York by one point, .297 to .296. Washington and Philadelphia remained tied in team fielding at .978, the same figure as last week, while the St. Louis Browns were in front in double plays with 156. Chicago had accomplished two triple plays, and New York, Detroit and St. Louis were credited with one triple killing each.

Four pitchers had reached or passed the 20-victory mark. George Earnshaw of the A's, and Wesley Ferrell of Cleveland had 21 each; the former having lost seven, and

SEVERAL GRID UPSETS MARK OPENING PLAY

By WHITNEY THARIN
Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 28.—(AP)—North Carolina's 1931 football package lay wide open today, and a number of gridiron surprises were causing joy or sorrow, depending on one's sense of humor. Wake Forest followers probably thought it anything but funny when North Carolina romped on the Demon Deacons Saturday for a 37 to 0 win, while there was little joy at Duke where the Blue Devils were trying to forget a 7 to 0 defeat at the hands of South Carolina.

Ask any N. C. State alums, however, how the world looks today and he'll break out in smiles. Call for comment from a North Carolina supporter and things will seem even brighter.

State, under the direction for the first time of Coach John P. (Clipper) Smith, rolled over Davidson 18 to 7 at Greensboro Saturday night. The Wildcats have a fairly good team this season and the showing of the Wolfpack against an outfit that licked them last year heartened State hopes.

Wallace Wade, making his Duke debut, saw his pre-season statements prove correct in actual combat as the Gamecocks defeated his team. Wade said his outfit was weak on blocking and tackling. It was, but a "galloping Gamecock from Gaffney," Earl Clary, was the main reason the South Carolinians won.

The manner in which Wake Forest folded up under the Tar Heel attack was probably the most disappointing feature to disinterested persons who followed the pre-season training months. The Deacons have the material for an excellent line, a heavy front wall that should make for a good defense. It failed to click, however, and faded away before the Tar Heel players.

Johnny Branch, the veteran quarterback of the Heels, will have to look to his laurels if his understudy, Johnny Peacock, keeps up his good work. Peacock broke into the Wake Forest game as a substitute and ran back a kickoff for a touchdown. Coach Chuck Collins' complaint that his backfield was not up to expectations was not sustained if things like this continue.

Four North Carolina Conference teams opened their seasons against out-of-state opponents, and each of them, except Catawba, which played Milligan, of Tennessee, to a 7 to 7 tie, went down in defeat. Yonahburg beat High Point 7 to 6; Roanoke licked Elon 27 to 9 and William & Mary walloped Guilford 31 to 0.

Four of North Carolina's "big five" teams play Southern conference outfits next Saturday. N. C. State meets Florida at Raleigh; North Carolina goes up against Vanderbilt; at Asheville; Duke engages Virginia Military Institute at Durham; and Davidson, a non-conference team, plays Washington & Lee at Lexington.

Wake Forest will play Furman, the strong Greenville, S. C., team, at Gastonia.

Presbyterian College, S. I. A. champions, will furnish the opposition for Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory Friday night. Schedules of other North Carolina conference teams pit Elon against George Washington at Washington, D. C.; Guilford against Randolph-Macon, at Petersburg, Va.; High Point against Appalachian at Boone, and Catawba against Atlantic University at Salisbury.

Southern Pines.—(AP)—Civil leaders and city officials joined here in a celebration in observance of the 50th anniversary of Rev. T. B. McLean, 78, negro leader of his race, entering the ministry.

The Indian star having dropped 12 decisions. Vernon Gomez, the young Yankee southpaw, and Rube Walberg, the other Philadelphia left-hander, had won 23 games each, with Gomez losing nine, and Walberg 12. Grove had 169 strikeouts.

GOULD SIZES UP STRENGTH OF CHAMPIONS

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The World's champion Athletics have a decided edge over the Cardinals in offensive strength, measured by the power of their long range guns and the ability to strike swiftly in the pinches. The Cardinals excel in speed on the bases.

There are weak spots in the A's batting order, but the dynamite is likely to explode any time Al Simmons, Mickey Cochrane or Jimmy Foxx steps into a fast ball.

The champions have a habit of blasting opposing pitching all over the premises just when they look to be well under control. The Cubs as well as the Cardinals have had bitter experience with the ability of Mack's young men to emerge suddenly with a cluster of runs.

Gabby Street regards Simmons as the greatest menace, thereby being in complete accord with seven American league managers. Gabby also recalls Cochrane's slugging a year ago as well as Foxx's home run that broke up the crucial fifth game.

This trio, along with such timely batsmen as Bishop, Haas and Miller, comprise the principal attacking weapons that Grimes, Hallahan, Derringer and other Cardinal sharpshooters must worry about.

The Athletics, in the season's unofficial averages, show a club batting mark of .287 to the Cardinals' .285. The slugging records showed a more conspicuous difference in favor of the A's, who collected 118 home runs against only 58 for the Cards.

The last world's series told much the same story as these figures. The club marks were nothing to brag about, only 200 for the Cards and 197 for the A's.

The world's champions, however, made 18 of their 35 hits good for extra bases, including six home runs, whereas the Cardinals registered only 13 extra base drives in their total of 38 hits.

Charley Gelbert, sensational little shortstop, was the batting leader of the Cards a year ago in the championship fray with 216. Sunny Jim Bottomley, bothered by a hand injury, hit only .045 and was a "bust." Chick Hafey hit a mere .273. These two sluggers have been hitting harder than ever this year, despite the less lively ball, and are counted upon to redeem themselves.

If Bottomley and Hafey can hold their own with Simmons and Cochrane or Foxx in the long range work when bombing drives are needed, it will be anybody's series.

The difference is that the Cardinal pair were comparatively easy for Grove and Earnshaw last October whereas Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx manifested their ability to shuck the best pitching the Cards could offer. Simmons hit .374 to lead both clubs a year ago and has just finished winning his second straight American league batting title.

Frank Frisch hit poorly in the last series but his all-round record as a "money player" is superlative. The Cardinal second-sacker has pounded his way well above the 300 mark this season after a slow start. Pepper Martin, George Watkins, Jimmy Wilson and Gelbert all pack a dangerous punch.

Yesterday's Stars

Den Taylor, Cubs—Hit homer in each game in double victory over Pirates.

George Blasholder, Browns—Fitted Browns to 2-1 victory over White Sox in second game to take fifth place.

Buzz Arlett, Phillies—Hit pinch double, in driving in runs that beat Boston 5-3 in first game and clinched sixth place.

Joe Vosmik, Indians—Clouted triple and two singles against the Tigers.

Paul Derringer and Sylvester Johnson, Cardinals—their steady pitching enabled Cards to take two games from Reds.

Tony Lazzeri, Yankees—Made four straight hits and batted in four runs against Athletics.

EXCITING PLAY IS PROMISED IN WORLD SERIES

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Fishing the 1931 major league season with margins of 13 and 131-2 games respectively over the New York teams which wound up in second place, the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics, have given promise through their year's performances of an exciting struggle in the world's series.

Both the American and National league champions not only wound up with better records than they did in winning the same pennant last year, but turned in more victories than any Athletic or Cardinal teams that ever captured a championship.

Although they took a severe trouncing from the New York Yankees in their closing game yesterday, losing by a 13 to 1 count, when their pitching acts, Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg, all were walloped freely, the A's wound up with 107 victories and 45 defeats for a .704 average, this gave them three more victories than the great Athletics of 1929 and made them the second American league club to gain a 700 average for the season.

The Cardinals finished strongly yesterday, winning from Cincinnati 6 to 2 and 5 to 3 behind the pitching of Paul Derringer and Sylvester Johnson, and checked in with 101 victories and 53 defeats. The best previous Cardinal mark was 95 won and 59 lost in 1928.

With several places in the standings still undecided until all the games were over, there was little dullness in the closing day's program for the big leagues. The three cornered battle in the American league's second division wound up with St. Louis, Boston and Detroit in that order. The Browns took two games from Chicago White Sox, 10 to 6 and 2 to 1 to capture fifth place by the margin of a single point over Boston's Red Sox. The Sox gained a virtual tie for the place when they drowned the Washington Senators, holders of second place up to Saturday, 4 to 2. Two more games played gave St. Louis the higher average.

Detroit lost out in the struggle when Cleveland pounded out an 8 to 5 victory in the last game.

Philadelphia settled the matter of the one doubtful place in the National league season by beating Boston in the first game of a double header, clinching sixth place. Boston easily pounded out a 12-2 victory in the second game.

Brooklyn and New York finished all square for the year when the Robins pounded out a 12 to 3 victory behind Clark in the first game of a twin bill and darkness halted the second before four innings were completed. Timely home runs enabled the Chicago Cubs to take two games from Pittsburgh, 3 to 1 and 6 to 4, with Vince Barton's homer with the bases full as the climax of the last encounter.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 3 points lower to 1 point higher.

Traders here seemed to be paying very little attention to fluctuations in Liverpool, which were attributed to changes in sterling, and orders at the start were quite evenly divided.

The trade was a considerable buyer and there was some offerings increased after the opening with the south a considerable seller while there was some further October liquidation.

All months made new low records for the movement and season with December selling off to 6.17 and March to 6.47 under this pressure with active months showing net declines of 7 to 8 points by the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool attributed the decline in that market to local and continental liquidation on the recovery in sterling but said the demand for cotton cloth and yarn was well sustained.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Enlarge export business in North American wheat helped to steady grain prices today after early setbacks.

European purchases were the best in more than a week, 1,800,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and 250,000 bushels from the United States.

A decrease of 1,506,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply total was also an aid to the bulls.

STOCK MARKET

By CLAUD A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Financial markets were somewhat spotty, but maintained a firm undertone at the start of the new week.

Stocks encountered scattered selling in the morning, but rallied moderately after midday. As the afternoon wore on, however, gains were not well maintained. Weak spots cropped out in foreign bonds and foreign exchanges, but most of the leaders were well supported.

Coppers and rails developed notable firmness in the share market, and morning losses rang-

TO PUSH CLAIM FOR MILLIONS

some of her 74 years. "I have never been wealthy," she said wistfully, "but I wish that I was a little younger if I'm going to get it."

Despite her advanced age, she was spry and active as she hustled about a hotel lobby, turning from her attorney, Winfield P. Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., to newspapermen as questions were asked about her claim. Mr. Jones did most of the talking but Miss Stansbury interposed occasional remarks.

"This is my first interview," she said, as she pleaded with reporters not to call her a "little old woman" "I'm old only in years," she explained, "I like young people and always have."

She declared she had signed a release in New York of her claims to the estate only with the understanding that Mr. Jones was to advertise the paper before it became effective. Under that agreement, she was paid $1,000 and promised $24,000 more when the will is finally probated if she would not contest the document.

She is visiting in Raleigh at the home of Mrs. Godfrey Cheshire, daughter-in-law of the Rt. Rev. Joseph Blount Cheshire, Bishop of the Episcopal church in this diocese. Mrs. Calder is Mrs. Cheshire's granddaughter.

Mr. Jones said it is "admitted by all parties" that Miss Stansbury is the next of kin to the late Miss Wendel. He said she was related in the "fifth degree" under the New York State system of computation. He said George Flint Warren, Jr., New York attorney for the executors of the Wendel estate, had secured Miss Stansbury's signature to a waiver agreement.

"Miss Stansbury signed the paper under circumstances which make it illegal and invalid," he continued, pointing out that it was not to be effective "until she had secured my approval."

"I disapproved of the paper as soon as I saw it," he said, "prompt steps were taken to repudiate the release. One reason on which we based the repudiation is that we believe we have sound grounds for a contest. We will contend that the deceased, Ella Wendel, did not possess the testamentary capacity to make a will." Miss Stansbury, he said, has signed an agreement with 27 other persons, all related to her, to contest the will.

Among immediate relatives of Miss Stansbury who would share if the contest were successful, are: John A. Grant, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Gladys Grant Burke, Atlanta; L. P. Grant, with the United Fruit Co., Central America; Harry H. Stansbury, Houston, Tex.; and George Barbatt and Charles Barbatt, both of New Orleans. Others included descendants of the Astor family in New York and persons in Baltimore whose names Mr. Jones did not have.

TAKES JAIL TERM FOR PRINCIPAL OF THE THING
Lexington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—David Styers of Southport took a jail term on "the principal of the thing."

Istanbul, Turkey — Santa Sophia, the renowned Church of Justinian, may emerge from the centuries to rival the grandeur of the Temple of Solomon, if America and Turkey can come to an understanding. Turkey has given the byzantine institute of America authorization to uncover the famous mosaics of the church, under certain conditions. The mosaics were covered when the church was turned into a mosque in 1453, Moslem religion prohibiting the depicting of the human form.

Los Angeles. — Because Mary Pickford dislikes to fly, she probably will not travel to South America in December with her husband, Douglas Fairbanks. Fairbanks and two companions plan to make the trip in two planes, carrying camera and sound equipment.
