Grimes Hurls Cards To 5 To 2 Victory Over the Athletics

ALLOWS ONLY PAIR OF HITS

Athletics Stage Rally in Ninth with Home Run by Simmons with Man on Base; "Pepper" Martin Again Aids Cardinals with Sensational Stick Work; Pres. Hoover Watches St. Louis Team Make It Two Out of Three of Series.

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Burling Grimes, veteran right hander, pitched brilliant two-hit ball and drove in two runs to tie the St. Louis Cardinals, aided again by "Pepper" Martin's sensational hitting, hammered Lefty Grove to win the third game of the World series, 5-2.

Grimes pitched with dogged care and perseverance to avenge the two hit beatings he took from the Athletics in last Fall's series, pitched seven innings of hitless ball, equalling the record set by Herb Pennock for the Yankees in the World series of 1927 with the Pirates.

It was the sixth two hit game in World series history, the last being Walter Hoyt's performance for the Yankees against the Giants in 1921.

First Inning Athletics—Bishop up. Strike one, called. Strike two, swinging. Ball one, it was almost a wild pitch. Poul, down the right field line. Ball two, wide. Foul, into stands back of the plate. Ball three, it was a wide curve. Bishop fanned on a called third strike. Haas up. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, it was into the upper stands off third base. Ball one, high. Foul, it caromed into the upper stand again. Ball two, wide. Ball three, outside. Foul, against the center of the left field line. Haas led to Frisch who made a nice catch in short center field. Cochran up. Ball one, high and outside. Cochran flied out to Roettger on the right field foul line.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Cardinals—President Hoover threw out the first ball, and Cochran made a miss of it.

Adams up. Strike one, called. Umpire Stark went back and handed the ball to the president. Ball one, inside. Ball two, low, outside. Strike two, called. It was a fire ball. Adams swung and it was a foul into the stands. Adams popped to Fox. Roettger up. Roettger grounded out, Bishop to Fox. Frisch up. Strike one, called. Ball one, it was a low curve. Frisch was out to Fox, misjudged.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Cardinals—Bottomley up. There was a short conference at the plate. Ball one, outside. Ball two, inside. Ball three, inside. Strike one, called. Bottomley walked, the fourth will be going wide. Hafey up. Strike one, swinging. Ball one, outside. Strike two, called. It was a smoke ball. Ball two, inside. Hafey popped to Fox. In foul territory. Martin up. The Card youngster got a big hand. Martin singled over second base and Bottomley raced to third. It was the hit and run play. Wilson up. Ball one, inside. Foul. Strike one, it went into the green. Foul, strike two down the left field foul line. Foul into the upper deck behind the plate. Poul in the same spot, Wilson singled to right and Bottomley scored. Martin and Bottomley scored. Martin

HOOVER GREET'S LEGION LEADERS

SYNOPSIS: Sam Sherrill plans to marry Peak Abbott, a young millionaire, but she is upset because her stepfather, Fourth Aldredge, has sold an invention which she knows is commercially valuable. Eugene Frye, a rich widow who is in love with Fourth, has been trying to solve the mystery of the sale.

Chapter 35
BOUGHT BUT UNDELIVERED
"That's right. Eugene beamed and pointed a triumphant finger at Nelson. 'What did I tell you, Mr. Aldredge? I told you that your sister was a sensible young woman and that she'd catch on quick as a wink. I told you that she wouldn't make any trouble!'"

Sam had a strange feeling of detachment. From what seemed a great distance, she heard her own voice. "I won't make any trouble. Just tell me what you have to say. Tell it as quickly as possible."

"That's right. We'll just hand out the facts and we'll make it as snappy as we can. I believe in that. The widow leaned back in her chair. 'Well, in the first place I never thought much of Mr. Aldredge's invention. I had it investigated, and I decided it wasn't any good—much too expensive to manufacture. On account of that I couldn't believe my ears when you told me that somebody had paid him a lot of money for it. It did not sound right. It sounded fishy and the more I thought about it the fishier it seemed. I made up my mind something was wrong, and I made up my mind to find out what it was."

"And you did?" Sam inquired tomesily. "You must have, or we wouldn't be sitting here now." "I did," Eugene nodded. "At least my agents did. My agents are a clever bunch, Miss Sherrill, and I don't mind saying they had a hard job this time. The A. A. Burk Manufacturing Company was a tough nut to crack. It took a lot of cagey work to get a man in their office, and it took a lot more cagey work for him to find out anything after he was there. He spent days and days—"

"Please, Mrs. Frye! Sam interrupted firmly. "Do you mind my saying that I'm not interested in the way this thing was discovered? I'm not. I just want to know what was discovered." "Is it—has Fourth been—discovered?" "Dishonest? I should say not!" The widow was shocked. "Nothing of the kind! Mr. Aldredge thought and he still thinks that everything is just as advertised."

"Oh," Sam shrugged. "Then that's something. I was afraid." "There's nothing for you to be afraid of," said Eugene severely. "I should think you'd know that your father isn't that kind of man. He has just been deceived. He's been tricked all along the line."

"Well, it's this way. The Burk Manufacturing Company aren't behind your father at all. He has an office at their place, and they sign the checks they give him, but all that is just a blind. The Burk's crowd is just acting as agent for somebody else. Somebody else is doing the paying."

"But why?" Sam was bewildered now, and incredulous. "If the invention isn't any good, why would anybody pay him a lot of money for it and pretend that it is going to be put on the market? Who would be such a fool?"

"That's the funny part," Eugene glanced at Nelson. "That's why I came to your brother instead of you. When I found out who was doing it, I decided I'd better talk to your brother first."

"But why?" Sam was still more bewildered. "I don't understand! Who could be such a fool? Nobody could! Absolutely nobody, unless Sam suddenly went pale. She seemed to shrink back in her chair, and there was a long moment of absolute silence. Then she spoke in a small, strained voice. "Unless it could be—Peak Abbott? It isn't Peak Abbott is it, Nelson? Tell me it isn't!"

Nelson's eyes shifted from hers and he coughed nervously. Eugene said quietly: "Yes. You're right Mr. Abbott is the man."

There was another long period of silence. Then Sam said pleadingly: "Peak Abbott? But why? Why should he do such a thing?" Nelson stirred impatiently. "It's nothing to get excited about, Sam, and it's nothing so very terrible. It's perfectly understandable why Peak did it."

"Is it?" "Yes, Peak realized that we were poor and that being poor wasn't much fun for you. He wanted to help you out, and he did it the only way he could. He knew that you'd never knowingly take money from him, personally. I think he was darn generous and pretty clever into the bargain."

Sam heard herself laughing. "Clever? I suppose so. Very clever indeed! So all this time we've been living like kings on Mr. Abbott's money. 'Marvelous! Superb!'"

"See here, Sam," said Nelson with a frown. "I can't see that it's anything for you to worry about. If you'd been the only one concerned, I never would have told you. It doesn't matter about you, because you're going to marry him anyhow. It's the rest of us that are in sort of a bad position. When you come to think of it, we've just been accepting charity."

"That's right," Sam's eyes widened. "We've been charity patients all the time!" After that both Nelson and Eugene did a lot of talking. They urged her to tell Fourth everything and to make him resign his position at once. They said that Fourth must also return whatever money he had received and had not spent. They suggested a number of things that Sam must do, and Sam agreed to them all. She would have agreed to almost anything at that time, in order to get away.

When she left the apartment she got into her car and headed it toward the city center. Her face expressionless, she drove slowly and carefully, without the slightest knowledge of where she was going. For an hour she followed a treatment highway that seemed to lead nowhere. Then she turned the car around and retraced her path until she found herself in the city once more. It was just dusk when she pulled up at the curb opposite a small drugstore and shut off her motor.

To the clerk behind the soda fountain in the drugstore she said: "Will you get me a sheet of writing paper, please—and an envelope—and a pencil?"

The clerk stared at her and then went away. Returning, he laid what she had requested on the marble counter and accepted her money. He continued to stare as she climbed up on one of the high stools and pulled off her gloves. Then he said suddenly: "Pardon me, lady, but are you all right? You ain't sick or anything, are you?"

Sam looked at him. "No, I'm not sick. I'm perfectly all right."

"Excuse me," he shrugged and turned away. "I just thought you looked sort of peaked—kind of white like."

"I'm all right, thanks," Sam wrote her letter on the soda fountain counter. She wrote slowly but without hesitation or pauses. She knew precisely what she wanted to say.

"Dear Peak" (Sam wrote in firm pencil) "You have brought the goods and paid in advance. Now you are learning that the goods will not be delivered. That's not fair, is it? I'm sorry. Fourth will return to you whatever is unpaid of the money you have given him. I'm afraid you'll have to wait for the rest, but I can assure you that it will be repaid some day. I am going away tonight for an indefinite period. I shall tell Fourth where I'm going and he will probably tell you. Please don't follow me. I don't want to argue. There's nothing to argue about. Nelson says that you are very clever, and I agree. You are almost too clever. I shall leave your mother's engagement ring with Fourth. I'm afraid I'm making a great deal of trouble but charity patients are always troublesome. I suppose I'm sorry."

She placed the letter in the envelope, sealed it, and wrote Peak's name and address on the outside. To the clerk she said quietly: "It's here a letter box near here?" "Yes, Ma'am. Right on the corner."

"Thanks," Sam nodded. "Good night."

Sam is running away, but she has a plan. Where will she be tomorrow.

"Well, along about 3 o'clock old man Boschert drove out from town. He started down the outside steps to the cellar. I loaded up the gun and let him have it. I'm sure glad I did, too."

said industry, chief beneficiary of the machine age, must aid by maintaining the American wage standard by allowing shorter working hours and through work insurance.

"It must help through keeping up wages and providing jobs, or it must help by paying taxes," he said.

First actual work before the delegates was presentation of the executive council's report, recommending a national conference on work apportionment, shorter hours wage standard maintenance, work insurance, prohibition of child labor, industrial stabilization, particularly in seasonal industries, and balance of production to equalize supply and demand.

It suggested higher taxes on great wealth, modification of the Volstead Act to permit 2.75 per cent beer, private and community unemployment relief work, and comprehensive planning to prevent future depressions, with "national economic conferences" to show the way.

sued by Mr. Hooker sets forth in part:

"That he is informed and believes and thereupon alleges on behalf of the taxpayers in Pitt county, that farm lands generally have been by the defendant county listed for taxation for the year 1931 at fictitious values greatly in excess of their true value in money; the excess value thereof, very generally, is fifty per cent greater than the true value in money;

"That more than fifty owners of such real property in apt times excepted to Equalization and Review; that said board refused to grant said owners' prayers for corrections that would cause said property to be listed for taxation at its true value in money; that appeals on exceptions were taken in apt time to the State Board of Assessment; that the latter named board has ratified and refused to grant such real property owners hearing on said appeals. That taxes assessed and levied on such valuations, as this plaintiff is advised and believes are illegal and void."

It is also charged "The defendant county's tax supervisors and township assessors, before entering upon their duties as such officers for the year 1931 did not take the oath as prescribed by law, thereby binding themselves, as contemplated and required by law, to assess and value each tract, lot or parcel of real property at its true value in money. That the county directed its tax supervisors and township assessors for said year to equalize as between particular pieces of real property, but that such equalization would not be accepted by the defendant county if it affected the total value of real property in said county to a greater extent than ten per cent of the values of real property in said county 1930; That this plaintiff is advised and believes the said tax supervisor and assessors acted on said instruction and he so alleges that tax assessments and levy made by the defendant county for the year 1931 are illegal and void."

The complaint also sets forth that the defendant is advised and believes that there has not been a revaluation of real property in Pitt county since the year 1928, specifically that the defendant county to not cause to be a quadrennial assessment in the year 1923, nor in 1927, nor 1931.

The complaint states that it presents questions of common interest and general interest to the taxpayers of the county, and that they are so numerous and impractical as to bring them all before court, and that the suit is prosecuted for the benefit of all persons similarly affected.

SHE'S CHAMPION FARMERETTE

of new industries and raising assessments on large incomes. The New York Republican drafted his plan at the request of both Republican and Democratic independents in the House and it will be considered by them at a meeting before Congress convenes.

He estimated the increase in income and inheritance taxes would next about $300,000,000.

The administration has given no hint of what plans it has in view for meeting the situation. However, as the sources from which its income is chiefly derived seemed to have been wiped out during the last and present year, it was regarded as doubtful that the treasury would recommend a continuance of the policy of borrowing to meet expenses with little hope of increased revenue in the next two years. This situation seemed to indicate that Congress must be asked to devise means of increasing the government's revenue to a point where it could balance its budget. Officials have said that they wished to avoid any increase in taxes at this time if possible.

Various plans for increasing the government revenue through additional taxes have been considered. Nothing has been accepted as final, however.

TARIFF THREAT GREETES CONFAB

Straw predicted substantial progress in international trade if efforts were directed at building up goods and services rather than toward balancing trade between any two countries.

As the more than 500 delegates convened in the beautiful hall of Americas in the pan-American building, word from Mexico City carried the anti-American tariff threat.

Members of the Confederation of Chambers of Commerce said openly that the aim of Mexico's delegation to the conference would be the formation of a Latin-American bloc against America's tariff policy.

President Hoover will address the conference at a plenary session Thursday.

Tracing the roots of the worldwide depression to the World War, Secretary Lamont cautioned that "each country must correct its own mistakes and get its house in order."

The nation first to correct the unbalanced economic conditions within its border, he said, would lead the world back to normalcy, and when all have brought this about "the world will smile again."

Secretary Lamont emphasized that the tasks before the conference led directly to promotion of helpful and harmonious intercourse and a higher standard of living.

BABY KILLER AND GANG ARRESTED IN NEW YORK

child and wounding four others, Inspector John J. Sullivan announced today.

These prisoners are the baby killers, Inspector Sullivan said, as the five mounted the brightly lighted platform in the police lineup.

They are responsible for the shooting in East 107th street. We have information that each and every one of them was in the automobile at the time of the killing.

Last night police said Coll and one of his gangsters had been identified as occupants of the car. They refused to say where they got their information because of danger to their informant.

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Vincent Coll, at odds with the law since he was a lad of 11 years, was held today as the long-hunted Bronx "baby killer."

In raids here and at Averill Park, N. Y., in which 300 policemen participated, the entire Coll mob-knife to police as a crew of racketeers, musclemen and rowdies was captured. The gangsters at Averill Park resisted arrest with firearms but were subdued without casualties.

Coll, a 23-year-old desperado blamed for many crimes but consistently elusive, offered no resistance when detectives surprised him at a hotel where he was registered under an alias. His brown hair had been dyed black, and he had grown a mustache.

When the formal charge of murdering five-year-old Michael Vengalli last July 28 was read to him at the police station this morning, he denied it. He said he had been out of town all summer, returning only Friday.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, however, said there was no mistake. Witnesses, he said, had identified Coll positively as one of the men in the automobile from which poured bullets that raked the "Little Italy" street on which children were at play. The Vengalli boy was killed and four of his playmates were wounded. One of them was tumbled from a baby carriage. The gunfire was meant for a man lounging in a doorway. Though 60 shots were fired, the man was unhurt.

Coll had $4,600 in his pocket. Several other members of his gang each had $1,000 or more in currency.

ry. The murder Friday of Joe Mullins—a "Dutch" gangster—and the bombing of a garage a few hours later proved the clue which snared Coll. The number on the license plates of the car used by Mullins' slayers and on the car used by the garage bombers was obtained. This it was discovered that the same machine was used in both crimes.

A policeman saw the car in a garage. Headquarters was notified, and 200 detectives were put into the area. A man giving the name Vincent de Lucia called for car and was arrested. On information obtained from him other arrests were made, including two women and Dominick "tough" Aderno. Commissioner Mulrooney said Aderno was in the car with Coll when the baby murder was done.

Others arrested were Pasquale del Greco, Michael Basile, Frankie Giordano, (five pistols and a slinger were found in his apartment) Betty White and Louis Kreisberger. Coll's sister, her husband and three others were taken into custody at Averill Park. Two pistols were found in Coll's hotel room.

Coll was first arrested when he was 11 years old and was sent to the Immaculate Virgin Mission. Thereafter he served short terms for larceny, unlawful entry and similar crimes. Until last March he was regarded as a lieutenant of "Dutch" Schultz, but in recent months he has been at war with Schultz, police said, over beer privileges in the Bronx.

additional $25,000 prize which they said is offered by a wealthy Texan for the first flight from Japan to that city with only one stop in route. In making the first non-stop flight from Japan to the United States, they qualified for a $25,000 prize offered by a Japanese newspaper.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Colonel W. E. Easterwood, Jr., Dallas aviation enthusiast, said today Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, who successfully completed a flight from Japan to Wenatchee, Wash., could "fly in some other direction" that they would not be eligible for the $25,000 prize he offered for a Japan-to-Dallas flight.

"They called me" from Tokyo asking about my offer while I was attending the American Legion Convention in Detroit," he said, "and I replied that Texas will pick its own aviators, that we are interested in flights for the advancement of aviation not in stunts. I will have to be the judge of the plane and of the aviators in such an attempt."

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The young wife of Hugh Herndon

Jr., received the news of the landing of Herndon and Clyde Pangborn after their Japan-Washington non-stop flight when she telephoned her home during a downtown shopping trip.

Mrs. Herndon left her home in a suburb of Albany early this morning. At each of her frequent visits to stores she called her home. Finally her calls brought the good news that the fliers had landed safely at Wenatchee, Washington. The young wife hurriedly slammed the receiver of the hook and took a car for home.

ABOUT TOWN

Although traffic lights at Five Points have been discussed for a number of years the action has never been taken to provide them despite the general increase in traffic over the last several years. Congestion becomes very pronounced at this point from time to time, but this could be eliminated entirely if there was some kind of lighting system to guide motorists. Traffic lights not only tend to speed up traffic and prevent accidents but make driving much easier for the thousands of people who pass over main city thoroughfares from day to day. An adequate lighting system could be installed at Five Points without any great expense and the increased safety to public life and property should make them well worth the price to the city government.

With virtually every interest in the nation attempting to do away with depression this bane of human existence should be entirely eliminated before the passing of many months. The greatest campaign is being waged at this time by President Hoover, but if anything definite has been accomplished it has not become evident. The United States Chamber of Commerce is one of the principal organizations that has taken up the battle against the unprecedented economic condition and it proposes to bring about an improvement through adjustment of consumption and production. Just how they will proceed about this matter is yet to be determined but that they have undertaken a monumental task is not to be questioned.

The question troubling the country at this time is the production already on hand and if this could be disposed of to the benefit of the millions of producers it should not be a difficult matter to adjust the output of our industries in the future.

People are suffering from lack of money and employment at this time, and if President Hoover or the Chamber of Commerce should be able to evolve plans for providing either they would render the nation a service that would immortalize them.

Persons who have been neglecting paying their taxes should make an effort to take care of this important matter at the earliest date possible. The only way towns and counties are able to meet their obligations is through the money they collect from taxation, and when failing to do this, they are forced to issue bonds to take care of the debts until collections become possible.

Practically every city and county in the nation at this time is suffering because of poor tax collections, and thousands have been forced to borrow money to tide them over until conditions improve. Many suits have been filed to force payment of overdue taxes, but such action is against the wishes of officials who are forced to take the step to protect the communities they have sworn to serve to the best of their ability.

This is the best season this community will have until the coming of another harvest season and it should be the purpose of appreciative citizens to exert every effort to make complete settlement of overdue taxes and not subject themselves to litigation.

When organizations begin talking about consolidation the next step to be expected is the loss of jobs by employes who have served them faithfully over a period of many years.

The latest consolidation scheme proposed in this country comes from eastern railroads. They wish to merge into four big systems. It is impossible to estimate how many men will be thrown out of employment by the action, but that it will be considerable is not to be doubted.

What this nation needs at this time is less consolidation and more jobs. It is true the railroads have

Spring Hill will be Tulane's opponent Saturday at New Orleans. Mississippi and Tennessee tangle at Knoxville and Clemson plays North Carolina State at Charlotte.

DUKE AND CATS ABLE TO CHALK UP VICTORIES

By WHITNEY THARIN Charlotte, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Without Davidson and Duke, North Carolina's football picture today would be in pretty bad shape.

The Wildcats and Blue Devils in the Big Five and Catawba in the North State conference were the only state teams able to chalk up wins in the Saturday contests.

Davidson, by defeating Washington and Lee 7 to 0, won the right to wear the crown with the brightest jewels for at least a week.

The Wildcats were doped to lose to a much stronger eleven by at least a couple of touchdowns, but the system Coach Jimmy DeHart has devised for the Generals failed to take.

Another Virginia team, V. P. I., will furnish the Wildcat opposition in Blacksburg next week.

The Gobblers were just a practice session for Georgia but Davidson will find them mighty tough.

Duke presented Wallace Wade with his first victory by turning back Virginia Military Institute 13 to 0 but the Devils did not look up to scratch.

The Devils play Villanova in Durham this week.

North Carolina's 13 to 0 defeat by Vanderbilt was about what had been expected but if the Tar Heels had not fumbled so often and at such critical times might have been different.

Vandy has a powerful team and its victory over North Carolina was won only after a bitter fight in which Johnny Branch starred as usual.

Coach Chuck Collins will take his charges to Gainesville this week to meet the Florida Gators.

The Gators gave N. C. State a 34 to 0 trouncing at Raleigh Saturday and the Tar Heels' efforts against the sunshine boys should prove interesting in a comparative way.

State followers had generally conceded the Wolfpack a match for Florida, basing their estimate on the Pack's win over Davidson and reports that Florida was weak.

The Pack is somewhat handicapped by the installation of a new coach and a new system but its game this week in Charlotte with Clemson should determine how good the team may be.

Clemson, too, is being guided by a new hand; Coach Jess Neely who once helped Wallace Wade at Alabama.

The Tigers, in the last few years, have had excellent teams but this season appear to be on the downgrade.

Presbyterian College, last year's S. I. A. A. champions, played them to a scoreless tie and Tennessee made Cannon fodder out of them.

If State has a chance to win any other games on its schedule this appears to be it.

Wake Forest, so far, has proved to be the disappointment of state Big Five teams.

The Deacons, before the season opened, appeared to have all the assets of a winning team except strong reserves.

They have a heavy line, many veterans and a good coach in Pat Miller. Against North Carolina, they looked bad and against Furman they looked worse.

The Purple Hurri came blew the Deacons away 36 to 6 at Gastonia.

Little Atlantic University of Virginia Beach, Va., a last minute opponent selected mainly to fill out an incomplete schedule, will furnish the opposition for the Deacons this week.

If they don't win this one they had better start basketball practice.

Catawba beat Atlantic University 6 to 0 at Salisbury Saturday and meets Kentucky Western at Bowling Green this week.

VANDY RISKS TITLE HOPES AGAINST TAR HEELS

Vanderbilt's football team will be the only southern conference favorite pitted against a dangerous foe October 3. Coach Dan McGugin's 28th edition of Commodores will meet Coach Chuck Collins and his North Carolina Tar Heels at Nashville. Little Johnny Branch, quarterback, will no doubt make trouble for Capt. "Red" Leonard and his men.

Jacques Brunon, veteran doubles player and guiding spirit of France's Davis Cup tennis team, must have experienced a qualm or two the other week when he sat under the marquee at Forest Hills and watched Ellsworth Vines Jr., lanky Pasadena youth, sail through the national tournament without drawing a deep breath.

Before he saw the new American champion in action, Brunon was pretty certain France would hold on to the Davis Cup for another year or two at least.

He didn't think there was a player on either side of the water capable of beating Henri Cochet. It's a ten to one bet, now, that he has his doubts about the matter.

One thing he knows for certain—that there is not a member of France's "new crop" in the same class with the 19-year-old Californian.

There isn't the slightest doubt Vines will be America's No. 1 player in the 1932 invasion. In all probability, he will supplant the erratic Sidney Wood Jr., who passed out like a light in the third round of this year's national meet.

Frank Shields, the better minds believe, will be given another chance, even though he failed to reach the finals in the national.

He and Vines would make a powerful pair in singles, and with the old reliable team of Johnny Van Ryn and George Lott Jr., to carry on in doubles, the United States would be mighty well fixed.

Strictly on the heels of his forin in the national event, when he played some of the finest tennis of his career to reach the finals, Lott would rate a singles berth on the next Davis Cup squad.

The consensus is, however, that the 26-year-old Philadelphia is too valuable as a doubles player to be used up in singles and that the cup committee will continue its quest of a younger pair capable of beating back Cochet and Jean Borotra.

But England's Still Around There is still England to worry about, however, before the U. S. A.

becomes too confident of getting back into the challenge round. Henry (Bunny) Austin and the volatile Frederick J. Perry have had a great year and next season they may be better. Austin scored twice against America in the singles, Perry once.

Over here Perry scored one victory over Vines and was the only player in the national championship to the five-set limit. In fact Perry's clewless tactics cost him a great chance to whip Vines in straight sets in the semi-finals.

Outearns Big Bed Twenty Grant's record may not be quite as impressive but Twenty Grand has earned $60 more than his great prototype. Man o' War won 20 races and $249,465. Twenty Grand has accounted for only 11 races and won $249,525.

The Greenlee star stands a chance of going much higher, however, as he has several ring engagements this fall and will be raced again next year. Man o' War was retired to the stud at the end of his three-year-old career.

These three-year-old campaigns also closely compare. Both won the Preakness, the Belmont Stakes, the Dwyer, the Travers and the Lawrence Realization. In addition Twenty Grant accounted for the Kentucky Derby and Saratoga Cup, in which Man o' War did not start and the Wood Memorial and the Classic, which were not on the racing calendar.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Record-breaking low prices for grain today followed new downhill slides of the stock market. Wheat tumbled to about 8 cents a bushel under the levels reached after Great Britain's abandonment of the gold basis. No export business of any consequence in North American wheat was heard of, and the United States wheat visible supply total increased 1,483,000 bushels for the week.

Wheat closed unsettled 7-8 to 1-1-4 cents lower, corn 1-4 to 5-8 down, oats 3-8 to 1-2 off, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents set-back.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—World financial markets began the new week in unsettlement today and security prices in New York were marked down severely, several prominent stocks dropping 3 to more than 7 points.

Sales approximated three million shares.

A report of suspension of a well known Montreal investment house reached Wall street in the last hour, and presumably contributed to the volume of selling.

It was distinctly a day of discouragement in financial quarters. The sudden death of Senator Morrow of New Jersey, a former partner of J. P. Morgan and Co and highly respected in Wall Street, was a deep shock to former associates.

The rail stocks broke badly. Union Pacific fell below par for the first time since 1904. Santa Fe dropped

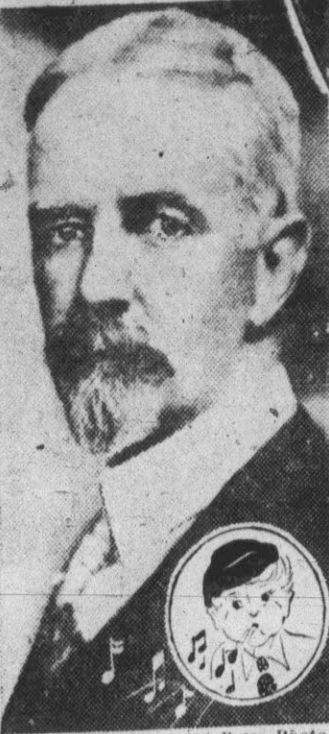

"She begged him to marry her..."

"But did he... Would he? Oh, no! For he had met another girl, with beauty, wealth, position... and in contrast the little factory girl looked poor indeed!"

Angers Whistlers

Here's the man who started that controversy about whistling. He is Charles Gray Shaw, New York university philosophy professor, who said whistlers were morons.

Shaw under par for the first time since 1924. U. S. Steel tumbled about six points to a new low since 1915. American Telephone lost 7 points. American Can, Liggett and Myers, Consolidated Gas, North American, Southern Pacific and New York Central lost 4 to 6.

You purchase shoes, fruit and candy. You call for cigarettes.

It's like this: WHEN YOU

GO TO BUY A PAIR OF SHOES, you examine the leather, the way the shoes are made, their shape. You try them to see if they fit—if they satisfy you.

Why not follow the same method in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes that are made from the very best tobacco—mild, ripe, sweet. You want them made right. You want them free from harshness and bite and "pinches." In other words, you want cigarettes that satisfy you.

WHEN YOU GO TO BUY FRUIT—oranges, grapefruit, apples—you want ripe fruit, fruit that has matured before being taken from the tree; fruit that has been handled right and packed right; fruit that's the same throughout—not green on one side and ripe on the other.

Why not apply the same test in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes made from tobaccos handled right by the farmer—ripened, sweetened in the sun and cured right. You want cigarettes that taste the same, day in and day out. You want them pleasing in taste—mild and satisfying.

WHEN YOU BUY CANDY, you want to know, above all things, that it is pure. Is it real candy or are there a lot of other things mixed in with it? And you want it fresh. You want it freshly made and you want it so packed as to reach you just as it was when it was made.

Why not apply the same test when you buy your cigarettes? You want a cigarette that's pure; for purity counts in cigarettes just as it does in candy. Then again, you want a cigarette that's just as fresh as when it was made.

Now, if you apply to cigarettes all the tests that you apply in buying shoes and fruit and candy you will purchase CHESTERFIELD like millions of other smokers.

First, because tobacco men will tell you that in Turkey, Kentucky, Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia, and Maryland, only the mildest, ripest tobacco is bought for CHESTERFIELD—tobacco cured by the sun's pure rays, by the farmers' slow-burning ovens, and finally by great high-pressure steam drying machines. In the tobacco regions where they grow tobacco and know tobacco, CHESTERFIELD is usually the leading seller.

Second, because the carefully selected CHESTERFIELD tobacco leaves are blended and cross-blended. This exclusive CHESTERFIELD blending method is not just mixing together different tobaccos—it is mixing them in such a way as to bring out the finer qualities of each. It's like producing a new and better type of tobacco—tobacco with greater mildness, more smoothness, much better taste.

Third, because the cigarette paper is selected with the same care. CHESTERFIELD paper is the purest, the best that money can buy. Then the cigarettes are made and packed by machinery in clean, sanitary factories. And the moisture-proof, attractive package—free from heavy inks or inky odor—comes to you just as if you passed the factory in the morning and took your CHESTERFIELDS from the machine.

Good . . . they've got to be good.
