

TOKYO AGREES TO U. S. HELP IN MANCHURIA

Encouraged by Japs' Change of Mind, Mr. Stimson Looks For Early Settlement.

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Days of misunderstanding between the American and Japanese governments have ended with Tokyo consenting to United States participation in discussions by the League of Nations of the Manchurian controversy.

Encouraged by Japan's change of mind on the question, Secretary Stimson is again looking expectantly toward the Orient for settlement of its own Sino-Japanese difficulties. He hopes further steps to emphasize the world's opposition to war will be unnecessary.

These hopes were buoyed yesterday by Japan's diplomatic emissary to Washington. Late in the afternoon Ambassador Debuti went to the State Department to convey to Secretary Stimson the information that Japan no longer objected to an American representative sitting with the league.

What interested the secretary almost as much, though, was the ambassador's comment upon the Manchurian conditions.

Debuti predicted that a few more days without hostilities would virtually assure the peace which the leading nations of the world have sought so insistently, forecasting that no further fighting would ensue. Debuti said his government was prepared to negotiate a settlement directly at any time and would draw all of its troops to the railway zone if guarantees of the safety of its citizens and their property were given.

Meanwhile, the Chinese legation here issued a statement picturing troubled Manchuria through the eyes of Robert E. Lewis, who is described as general secretary of the International Y. M. C. A.

"The Japanese army," Lewis said, "is trying to induce the Mongolian princes to sign away their rights and set up an independent government under Japanese protection."

Withdrawal of Japan of her objection to America taking part in Geneva discussions came while this country awaited formal notification that five other nations had already invoked the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty against the disputants. The United States decided to await the invitation of the others to participate in the action, rather than risk appearing hasty.

C. J. McGlohon Dies Suddenly

C. J. McGlohon, prominent farmer residing between Ayden and Grifton, died suddenly at his home last night, according to information reaching the city today. He was sitting in a chair apparently in the best of health when he was seized by a heart attack and died instantly.

The Ayden Masonic Lodge, of which the deceased was a member, will be in charge of the service, and the funeral oration will be delivered by Rev. W. H. Brunson, pastor of the Ayden Christian church. Two Negroes to Die in Electric Chair on Friday

Raleigh, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Two negroes, J. W. Ballard, alias Bus Jackson, and Bernice Mathews, will be electrocuted at States Prison on Friday unless Governor O. Max Gardner intervenes.

Convicted in Rowan county the middle of last month of the murder of Frank Stewart, a filling station operator, the two negroes have confessed their guilt.

Ballard is from Salisbury and Mathews claims Thomason, Va., as his home.

At the time the men were convicted their attorneys, who were appointed by the court, served notice of appeal but it is understood here that this has been withdrawn.

Two other negroes originally scheduled to die this week will have stays of execution until the Supreme court decides appeals from the lower courts.

Three State Elections May Decide House Fate

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Decisions which may have important effects in national politics will be made by the voters two weeks from today, when three states elect governors and five vacancies are filled in the House of Representatives.

Although the issues are predominantly local, and only scattered sections will vote at all, the situation has three aspects related to the national picture:

SEEK THREE IN TRUNK MURDER

Two Men and Woman Sought After Finding Bodies Two Women in Trunks.

Los Angeles, Oct. 20.—(AP)—An admission that his sister had confessed to him the killing of two companions in Phoenix, Ariz., was made today to the Associated Press by B. J. McKinnell, Los Angeles University student, and brother of the suspected slayer, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd. McKinnell made a positive statement after a series of reports had been circulated in which police denied the young man's alleged statement.

Los Angeles, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Two sinister looking trunks, opened by the police here last night, yielded the bodies of two young women and led to the quick detention of two men and an intense hunt for a woman suspect, but failed to clear up much of the mystery veiling the slayings.

The victims were tentatively identified as Mrs. Agnes Lerol, X-Ray technician of a clinic in Phoenix, Ariz., and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, her roommate. The woman hunted was Mrs. Ruth Judd, a secretary at the clinic and supposed friend of Mrs. Lerol and Miss Samuelson, who had been missing since last Friday.

Police soon located B. J. McKinnell, Mrs. Judd's brother, and her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd and questioned them while other officers hunted for the woman. The latter was believed to be fleeing by train from Los Angeles to Phoenix. Police said McKinnell admitted having gone with his sister to the railway station to claim the trunks which had been sent here from Phoenix, presumably by Mrs. Judd. McKinnell denied knowledge of whether his sister had killed the women, but said "if she did it she must have been insane." Dr. Judd insisted he knew nothing of the case. (Continued on Page Three)

PROBE DEATH W. B. VAUGHT

Mystery Surrounds Finding of Young Man's Body in Partially Burned Home.

Greensboro, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Mystery cloaked the death of William B. Vaught, Jr., orchestra leader who had played as a guest for the Prince of Wales, while a coroner's jury today attempted to fathom circumstances which led to the finding of the body in his partially burned cottage last night.

Two small boys gave alarm of the fire which led firemen to find the 28-year-old man fifteen minutes later, undressed with his feet in a bathtub.

A few scalds or burns were found on the body when it was rushed to a hospital but it was not determined whether death came before firemen broke into the locked house or after the trip to the hospital was begun.

Vaught was alone at the time. His wife and three-year-old daughter, Logan, and Mrs. S. P. Collier, in Winston-Salem.

The fire started in the living room of the brick cottage and firemen placed the point of origin at a sofa which was totally destroyed.

Vaught's burned dressing gown was found in the bedroom which had not been touched by the fire. The young man was found in the bathroom with a wet towel in his hand. There was not water in the tub. The door was closed but unlocked.

A wood fire burned undisturbed in the living room fireplace when the firemen arrived.

Firemen believed Vaught had gone to sleep on the sofa with a lighted cigarette and that it had (Continued on Page Three)

SEVEN HELD FOR MURDER

Indians Jailed When Girl Breaks 4-Year Silence to Tell of Slaying.

Lumberton, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A tale of murder, executed with the horrifying details of a fiction plot, today had landed seven Indians in jail because Lucille Cummings, Indian girl, broke a four-year silence to officers.

Sandy Brooks, Indian was killed at Pembroke four years ago. His death had been a mystery since that time until the girl, unable to restrain herself longer, told police she had witnessed the entire affair.

Today Lucille Cummings—her mother—Jung Braboy, Joy Franklin Oxendine and his wife, Hester and Bonnie Oxendine and Harvey Jacobs were under arrest while police searched for several others in connection with the slaying.

Rewards of $200 by the county and $100 by relatives have been offered for the capture of the guilty party or parties.

Lucille Cummings came here Sunday to tell her part of the killing. She said she was living with her stepfather, Kinney Cummings, and that he took her to see her mother who was ill at Pembroke. As they arrived at the house she said Brooks started in the door.

Someone struck him and he fell she said. One man dug his eyes out with a pick and others beat his head into fragments. The girl said she rushed to a window as the body was dragged inside and heard her mother tell the men "you've got the wrong man."

Joe Oxendine replied "we've been wanting him a long time," the girl related and then, she said, four men held a sheet outside the window while others tossed the mutilated body into it.

The body was then dumped in a clump of bushes not far from the house by a railroad track where it was later found.

Cummings said he was in an automobile in the yard when four men passed him something in a sheet. The girl said she had been warned to say nothing but that she could hold her story no longer.

Asheville, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A few words by a blind newspaper columnist and Asheville city councilman, spoken at a club meeting here recently, today had stirred up what promises to be one of the most vigorous investigations in recent years into the workings of North Carolina court system, especially with respect to Buncombe county.

SEEK SPECIAL LEGISLATURE

Resolutions Adopted Here Asking Governor to Deal with Cotton and Tobacco.

Resolutions calling on the Governor of North Carolina to call a special session of the Legislature to deal with acreage reduction of cotton and tobacco were adopted at a mass meeting at the court house here yesterday afternoon.

A copy of the resolutions will be presented to Governor Gardner by a delegation from this county at a meeting to be held in Raleigh tomorrow. Representatives of several other counties in this section of the state will attend the session and present similar resolutions asking the governor for a special session to deal with the serious situation confronting the two principal crops at this time.

Governor Gardner has made it known that he will definitely decide at the meeting as to whether or not he deems it necessary to call the Legislature into session to provide legislation along the lines adopted by other cotton producing states.

About a hundred persons interested in both crops attended the meeting here and several expressed themselves as in favor of the reduction of acreage through legislation.

The speakers were: Senator M. K. Blount, member of the Legislature from this county, Mayor R. C. Flanagan, Charlie Little, J. C. Tal-loway, J. R. Moye, M. O. Blount.

Although no committee was named to present the resolutions to the governor, it was stated that a representative delegation would attend from this county and use its influence in behalf of the cause.

Governor Gardner has made it known that he will definitely decide at the meeting as to whether or not he deems it necessary to call the Legislature into session to provide legislation along the lines adopted by other cotton producing states.

About a hundred persons interested in both crops attended the meeting here and several expressed themselves as in favor of the reduction of acreage through legislation.

CITY PROVIDES NO WELCOME

Midshipmen Give the Chief Executive a Rousing Welcome, But Mayor Fails to Appear to Greet Visitors Because President Had Previously Failed to Recognize Annapolis Delegation; President Says a Misunderstanding Prevented Him from Greeting Annapolis Citizens.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 20.—(AP)—President Hoover received a rousing welcome from the Annapolis midshipmen today but the City of Annapolis as such did not participate.

Presidential salutes rang out as Mr. Hoover departed from the battleship Arkansas and entered the grounds of the Naval Academy to pass between two long lines of midshipmen to the White House automobiles. Another salute boomed as the party left the academy grounds.

More than 2,000 Annapolis citizens made up the crowd assembled about the academy, but when Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commandant of the Naval Academy, called for Mayor Walker Quenstedt just before the arrival of the president, he was informed the Annapolis executive was not present.

Quenstedt yesterday wrote to President Hoover protesting the failure of the Chief Executive to recognize and official welcoming party from Annapolis as Mr. Hoover traveled to that city to board the ship last Saturday.

In making known he had written such a letter, the mayor said plans for the city's participation in ceremonies welcoming the president upon his arrival today had been abandoned.

The mayor declined to make his letter to the president public, but said if a satisfactory explanation did not come from the White House he would give newspapermen both the letter he wrote and the presidential reply.

He said he had arranged with C. C. Drescher of the secret service for Annapolis for the president to take part in the exercises last Saturday, but when the presidential party met his caravan outside the city, it was not recognized.

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—President Hoover's failure to greet the mayor of Annapolis last Saturday while he was enroute to Yorktown was explained at the White House today as merely a misunderstanding.

It was said at the executive offices that neither the president, his secretaries nor any of his immediate aides knew anything about plans to greet the Annapolis mayor as they passed through the city.

One of the secret service men had gone ahead of the presidential party to make police arrangements. It was said, and he had talked with Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt.

It was explained he understood the mayor would meet the presidential party at the Naval Academy dock, where he was given a salute of 21 guns and other presidential honors.

The mayor was waiting near the cutskirts of Annapolis when the president's party sped through, led by an escort of motorcycle policemen that cleared all traffic.

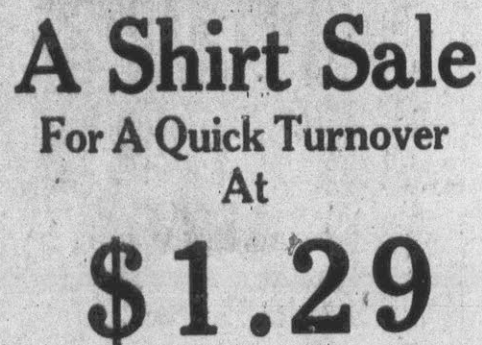

President Hoover was described as regretting the incident and probably will incorporate this explanation in a letter, answering one from Quenstedt.

THREE STATE ELECTIONS MAY DECIDE HOUSE FATE

214 Republicans, 214 Democrats, and one Farmer-Labor, an upset in any district in favor of the Democrats might well mean a Democratic House. Three of the five districts electing are traditionally Republican and two are traditionally Democratic.

Should a Democrat be elected governor of New Jersey, and should he decide to call a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Morrow, it might mean a Democratic Senate. The membership stands today 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats, and one Farmer-Labor. Governor Larson of New Jersey is expected to appoint a Republican successor to Senator Morrow before Congress convenes.

Overwhelming victory or defeat for the constitutional amendments sponsored in New York state by Governor Roosevelt, and particularly the amendment opposed by former Governor Smith, would be hailed as an important commentary on Roosevelt's candidacy for president.

Finally, the emergency of some new political leader always is a possibility when elections are held in time of unsettlement. Already the friends of former Governor Moore of New Jersey are talking about a Democratic presidential boom for him if he again lands in the governor's chair at Trenton.

Besides New Jersey, the state electing governors on November 3 are Kentucky, where a hard-fought campaign is in progress on local issues, and Mississippi, where the Democrats always have a walk-over. Several other states will elect minor officials and hold municipal and county elections, and others, like New York, will vote for constitutional amendments.

part physicians said, by the experience.

Mrs. Bowie suffered greatly from shock after the encounter with the three hold-up men and was removed here to the home of a nephew over the week-end. She died at his home.

Sheriff F. D. McLane of Abbeville county was continuing a search for the three men today but said he had no definite clues.

Mrs. McAdams, who is about Mrs. Bowie's age, was struck upon the head and knocked unconscious by one of the three intruders, who, intoxicated, broke into the home and demanded money.

The women insisted they had no valuables and were threatened with death if they did not reveal the hiding place of their money.

Finally the men bound and gagged them and hammered the combination from a small safe in the home.

They failed to open the safe and fled with a fourth man who had waited outside in an automobile.

pounds of bright leaf. It was not only the greatest amount of tobacco sold on any single day this season, but smashed all market records. On Monday of last week 1,577,662 pounds of leaf was sold. That was the record up to that period, but it fell before the high mark of yesterday's sales.

The season's mark was also shattered when the market hung up an average of $13.02 per hundred pounds against $12.22 for the corresponding period last week. The total amount of money paid out yesterday was $206,119.85.

The sale yesterday brought the season's poundage to 29,192,780, and the sale today will put it away over the thirty million mark.

The report of the supervisor also indicated that better grades of tobacco continued strong with competitive companies bidding lively for the various types.

started the fire. They believed he was partly asphyxiated and that he was to find himself in flames, rushed to the bathroom and there lost consciousness.

Dr. W. H. Harvey, county coroner, today expressed opinion that death had resulted from causes other than burns, scalds or asphyxiation. He said a preliminary investigation showed no signs of foul play.

The coroner said there were no burns on the body but there were marks that might have been made from steam. He said these marks had resulted when firemen played water on the fire which generated steam over Vaught's body.

Harvey said a bit of liquor had been found in the house and he was investigating the possibility of death from poison alcohol. A post mortem will be conducted late today or tonight.

Vaught was sales promotion manager for local representatives of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company. He previously had been advertising manager for the Chamber of Commerce and for a time was with an advertising agency in New York.

Some years ago he was director of a University of North Carolina orchestra that toured this and several foreign countries. His orchestra appeared as guest players at the Buckingham Palace and the Prince of Wales was so pleased by the performance he invited the group to return to America on the same liner with him.

SEEK THREE IN TRUNK CASE

Letters and photographs in the trunks led to the search for Mrs. Judd and her husband, and to the police assumption as to identity of the victims, each of whom apparently had been shot.

After discovery of the bodies, one of which was dismembered, police found a suitcase in a restroom containing a portion of one of the torso.

Officers here were informed that Mrs. Judd had lived with the two women or had been associated with them in Phoenix.

In Mrs. Judd's apartment at Phoenix was found a letter to her signed W. C. J., her husband's initials, saying:

"I don't want to write a letter to lie around for Sammy (Miss Samuelson's nickname) and Miss Loret to read," said the letter. "I hope you will let me know as soon as you can what the chances are of your clinic closing or your doctors quitting. I hate to think of you being alone."

"I had supposed that you thought so much of those two girls that you would be perfectly happy with them, but if you are not it puts a different face on matters."

"I am not at all surprised at what you tell me. I do not care to write you freely because you are careless with letters."

and sat down on the bed. She rubbed the hand that he had held and looked at it as though she expected it to appear changed. He was the nicest person that she had ever met. He was so kind and natural and easy to talk to. Had he been sorry for her or had he really liked her? Undoubtedly he had been sorry for her. She had asked for it, telling him right away like that that no one was ever nice to her at parties. She would not go back into the living room and watch him busy with other girls. She'd sneak away and telephone Lola in the morning to say what a lovely party it had been. How many times she'd told that lie in the last few years. A wry smile caught her lips with the speculation as to whether this would be counted against her in the hereafter. Or did God appreciate and discount such little social niceties?

Walking up Park Avenue to Eighteenth Street she took deep breaths of the clear air. It was like clean water after a muddy draught. Ann Duryea and her dubious past. Popularity the reward. Great limousines sped by, appearing omnipotent until a red or green light turned them into obedient servants of the city's laws.

but asked for two weeks in which to gather some facts he believed available.

Judge A. M. Stack opened court yesterday and took up the matter in his charge to the grand jury, which promptly issued subpoenas for 23 of Asheville's civic and business leaders in an effort to substantiate recently floated charges that court officials and others declined to indict certain public officers for what various civic organizations have insisted were fraudulent transactions.

Hearings are to start immediately.

Among those subpoenaed were Robert Latham, editor of the Asheville Citizen; Ben H. Evans, former foreman of the grand jury; Robert M. Wells, former solicitor of the 16th judicial district; Dan W. Hill, Asheville postmaster; A. C. Reynolds, superintendent of the county schools; Albert Teague, former chairman of the county board of education; and Marshall West, James Roberts, Claude L. Felmet and John A. Goode, former members of the board of county education.

Three days later something happened that lifted Venice from her monotonous round, made her feel a human being an individual with private affairs of her own. It was only a telephone call but it gave her a sudden warmth and something to which to look forward.

She was sitting at her spinnet desk, weebegonely nibbling at the end of a pencil and trying in vain to work out the second chapter of her book. It wouldn't unfold. The telephone jangled. She went to the bedside table.

"Hello."

"Hello, may I speak to Miss Muir please?"

"This is Miss Muir."

"Hello, Venice. I'm Drake Farrelly."

"Oh." And she couldn't think of another thing to say. Her heart suddenly quickened.

"Where did you disappear to the other day? Did you lose yourself thinking upstairs?"

"Oh, no. I went home."

"Why?"

"I—my head ached."

"No, it didn't. She heard his infectious laugh. "May I come to see you tonight?"

Her excitement rose and dropped in almost the same heart-beat.

"I am sorry, Drake. I'm going to the Mannings' for dinner."

Why couldn't she have shown how disappointed she was? Or at least make her refusal humorous and light?

"Damn," said Drake.

"But there're other nights," she forced herself to laugh quickly.

"Not for some weeks. Hence my blasphemy. I'm away on business tomorrow."

Venice wanted to say damn too but she only managed, "But you'll call me up as soon as you get back, won't you?"

"Of course I will. And don't you let that inferiority complex of yours grow in the meantime. Some day I'll make a little mouse of you."

"I haven't got an inferiority complex."

"Yes, you have, Venice Muir."

Suddenly she was at ease with him. She laughed.

"That's the first subject for debate when you return. The lion and the mouse. Good-bye, Drake."

She sat looking at the telephone. I wonder how long he'll be gone. All day her mind played about this unexpected conversation. She looked forward to the passing of the intervening weeks. Something new to anticipate. Not since her debutante days had she had anything to eagerly anticipate.

At the Mannings' dinner in the next installment, Venice meets a taun, and decides on aggressive tactics.

ABOUT TOWN

Only about half enough clothing to care for the immediate needs of the poor people of the community was collected in "Charity Bunde Day" drive by Boy Scouts of the city last Saturday. It was made known today by directors of the drive.

Scout leaders expressed appreciation of the response made by the public, but will continue working in hope of providing sufficient clothing to meet demands of the poor.

K. T. Fittrell, director of the Department of Welfare, expressed hope that the public would fully appreciate the situation confronting his department in attempting to meet the deplorable situation, and said he would be glad to send for any clothing residents wish to donate to the cause.

With scores of children unable to attend school because of lack of clothing, it is incumbent upon the people to do their best to see that they are provided for.

eral service hour is 2:30 P. M. President Hoover was still undecided today on his plan to attend the funeral. It was indicated by the White House secretaries that Mr. Hoover would reach a decision tonight.

Meanwhile a public demand for national tribute to Mr. Edison's memory has swept the country.

Acting Governor Wolber of New Jersey proclaimed that all electric plants in the state—in homes, or factories—be extinguished at 7 P. M. for one minute tomorrow as a reminder of what life would have been without Mr. Edison's invention of the incandescent bulb.

Several railroads and industrial concerns have announced they will suspend operations for one minute in honor of the inventor.

In New York and in many other cities, flags were ordered at half mast.

The Board of Education in New York started a movement to name one of its schools, now under construction, the Thomas A. Edison High School.

IT SHOULD BE DONE NOW

Tomorrow afternoon in Raleigh Governor Gardner will receive delegations from the various counties who are seeking a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of enacting acreage cut laws for cotton and tobacco and it is to be hoped that our people will gather in Raleigh in sufficient numbers to convince the governor that such a session is necessary. Not until the tobacco companies are convinced that there will not be another big crop, are they going to pay a fair price for tobacco and the sooner the law-making bodies of the tobacco states enact laws curtailing production the sooner the companies will begin to pay a living price to the growers. It is our honest opinion that immediate action by our Legislature and the Legislatures of the other tobacco states will reflect in higher prices for the unsold part of this year's crop and we are hopeful that Governor Gardner will lose no time in calling the legislators together and using his influence to get other tobacco states to cooperate in the movement.

PACKING HOUSE DID IT

Moultrie, Ga., is one of the most talked of cities in the south and all of this talk is brought about by the fact that its progressive citizens got together and constructed a packing house.

"Our whole section," says Mayor Cline, "has been transformed from cotton-raising to a hog-raising country. Our packing house will be enlarged in the fall so as to take care of 1,000 hogs a day. Hogs that were selling for five cents a pound are now selling for seven. You can scarcely find an acre of land planted in cotton in several counties surrounding Moultrie. I recently counted 3,800 acres that were formerly planted in cotton that are now devoted entirely to the raising of hogs. In Moultrie there is not a vacant store or dwelling, and we are building new stores as fast as we can. Prosperity is seen on every hand. We have three wholesale houses for the sale of grain seed, when a few weeks ago there was not such a store in our section.

Montgomery needs a packing house. We are talking about diversifying the crops and telling the farmer that he should raise more cattle, yet we have no packing house. Get the packing house and the farmers will raise more cattle.—Montgomery Advertiser.

The movement to call a special session of the Legislature to deal with the cotton and tobacco situation seems to be gaining impetus in the eastern part of the state, but nothing definite will be decided upon until the delegations from the various communities meet with Governor Gardner Wednesday.

At that time the chief executive will decide whether or not a special meeting of the General Assembly is necessary to deal with the situation.

A meeting was held in the city yesterday to decide what action Pitt county wishes to take, and the resolutions will be forwarded to Raleigh by the county delegation.

It is a recognized fact something must be done about the chief crops of the section but it would be suicidal to deal with cotton exclusively without throwing a similar safeguard around tobacco.

Both markets are hopelessly glutted and relief must come through reduction of acreage.

THREE GAMES SET FOR N. C. DURING WEEK

By W. T. PEACOCK
Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The "big five" football season's one and only three-ring circus will be presented this week.

A layout, such as the hungriest football fan would have arranged if he had been helping the schedulers, offers a chance to see four "big five" teams in action in three games. Gene McEver, the "wild bull" of Tennessee, is thrown in as a side attraction for those who would like to watch the prospective All-American halfback do his stuff.

Starting off the festivities in a clash of Demons and Devils (Duke and Wake Forest if you don't know) on Friday afternoon at Durham. A brief trip to Raleigh will put the fans there in plenty of time to see N. C. State work out under the arc lights with Catholic University.
On Saturday there is the choice of Chapel Hill, with the University of North Carolina meeting Tennessee and McEver, or Davidson with the Wildcats entertaining Erskine. Sticking out on Duke's record like a sore thumb as the Blue Devils meet Wake Forest will be a couple of the games. One was played last year and the score of it was Duke 13, Wake Forest 13. The other was played last Saturday and the score was Duke 0, Davidson 0.
After Duke's surprising failure to do better than battle Davidson thru four scoreless quarters, the experts

North Carolina, whipped 32 to 7 Saturday and outclassed by Georgia in everything but courage, can hardly hope to halt the charge of the Volunteers. N. C. State, beaten last week by Wake Forest 6 to 0, will brush up an offense this week for use against Catholic U. Much the same sort of attention is in store for Davidson's Wildcats, as Monk Younger primes them for Erskine.

Two important North State conference battles are also listed for this week. Catawba meets Appalachian Friday at Salisbury, and Guilford plays High Point at Guilford Saturday.

Lenoir-Rhyne meets King College at Hickory in another Friday contest.

Other games on the Saturday card include Elon versus Emory & Henry at Emory, Va., Campbell versus Rutherford at Rutherford, and Mount Pleasant versus Weaver at Asheville.

'BIG THREE' RULES SOUTH THESE DAYS

Atlanta, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The dynamite of Tennessee and Tulane has blasted the "Big Five" of Southern Conference football into oblivion and left in its place the "Big Three" with Georgia completing the trio of powerful pennant contenders undefeated or united this season.

Three Titles At Stake in Fight

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Three titles may be at stake when Tony Canzoneri and Kid Chocolate clash in a 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden November 20.
Canzoneri's lightweight and Junior welterweight championships are certain to be on the block and if Tony should make 130 pounds

Chocolate will be defending the junior lightweight crown he won from Benny Bass. Canzoneri should have no difficulty making the 130-pound limit for he rarely scales more than 131 or 132.

Tony, who won the lightweight championship by knocking out Al Singer here last winter, added the junior welterweight title to his list when he knocked out Jack (Kid) Berg at Chicago in his first lightweight championship defense. He defended both titles against Berg here several months ago and again trounced the Englishman.

Alumni Seeks Reinstatement of John Branch

Chapel Hill, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Efforts were under way today by a group of alumni to have John Branch, quarterback suspended from the University of North Carolina football squad for breaking training, reinstated.
The alumni plan to petition Coach Collins to give Branch another chance. Meanwhile, the former star has been keeping up his football training by working with the freshman squad.

Referring to our conversation with reference to the apparently widespread unfavorable report regarding the lights in your new warehouse and answering your inquiry on the subject we beg to advise that we are of the opinion that your warehouse is unusually well-lighted and that tobaccos offered on your warehouse floor show up to as good advantage as on the floor of ANY WAREHOUSE ANYWHERE.

Since this report has become so widespread it has been the subject of general discussion and we have had occasion to hear this matter discussed by the various buyers. Judging from expressions of opinion which we have heard from time to time, we believe the buyers on this market, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, concur in the opinion above expressed and it would, therefore, appear that any report to the effect that the buyers have indicated that they were unable to correctly judge tobaccos on your warehouse floor, either from too much light or too little light due to the lighting arrangement in your warehouse, IS WITHOUT ANY FOUNDATION WHATSOEVER.

We are very glad indeed to give you this expression of our opinion on the subject which we trust will contribute toward the clearing up of an erroneous impression which appears to be ENTIRELY WITHOUT MERIT.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 3 points higher to 2 points lower with near months relatively steady on covering and trade buying. There was evidence of southern selling by commission houses and offerings from the south were small, while a moderate demand appeared from domestic and foreign sources.

After selling off a few points, the market firmed up again on a continuation of the buying movement which appeared to be promoted by the steadiness of the stock market. The southern selling was comparatively light and there were reiterated reports of a fair spot demand with a firm basis in the south which probably contributed to the advance. December sold up from 6.62 to 6.79 and March from 6.84 to 7.07, with the active months showing net advances of 7 to 11 points at the end of the first half hour. Liverpool cables reported covering, continental and Bombay buying in that market and said there was freer cloth buying from India and China.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 20.—(AP)—With wheat up about 9 cents a bushel from the recent low point, heavy selling to realize profits gave the market a setback today. Prices, however, showed an evident disposition to rally when selling pressure relaxed. Material expansion of trade volume rendered it possible to fill large orders on either side without causing decided fluctuations in price.

Wheat closed unsettled 1-4-7-8c lower, corn unchanged to 3-8 off, oats varying from 1-8 decline to a shade advance, and provisions 5 to 12 cents higher, influenced by scattered buying.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Both stocks and bonds pushed forward with renewed vigor today.

The drying up of liquidation during the recent period of hesitancy, and signs of renewed confidence in this market abroad, were generally regarded in brokerage and banking quarters as the basis of the new upturn.

Rails led the advance in shares in the early trading, but were soon joined by other groups. There was an average rise of about 3 points in leading issues by early afternoon. Issues up 4 to more than 6 included American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Case, Eastman, New York Central, Santa Fe, and Union Pacific. A wide assortment of shares gained 2 or more, including U. S. Steel, American Can, Sears Roebuck, National Biscuit, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, North American, Westinghouse, Stone and Webster, Union Pacific, and DuPont. Trading was fairly lively in the morning, but quieted down after midday.

Renewed purchases of bankers' acceptances in this market by the Bank of France were interpreted as indicating the recent flurry of irresponsible rumors abroad, together with bear attacks on the dollar, had subsided. International bankers expressed unconcern over the Bank of France's request for higher interest on deposits here, saying that French funds were not needed in this market, and drawing down of large French balances would improve the underlying stability of the money market.

Call money held at 21.2 percent, but was available in the outside market at 2.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH GIVES HALLOWEEN PARTY HONORING COLLEGE GIRLS

Members of the congregation of the Presbyterian church entertain ed college girls at a delightful Halloween party last night. It marked the first of the series of entertainments given in honor of the college girls by the various churches of the city and was largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

A bonfire blazed merrily on the lot adjoining the church building at the corner of Pitt and Fifth streets, and the festivities began with roasting of marshmallows and playing of games.

Several ghostly-looking figures prowled about the lot and when the crowd repaired to the basement of the church their fortunes were told by witches who then directed them to go to certain places to obtain refreshments.

The party was described as one of the most enjoyable in years and was given under direction of Miss Ruth Hillhouse, director of the department of Young People's Education.

COLLEGE STUDENTS PAY VISIT TO TOBACCO MART

The student body of East Carolina Teachers College, accompanied by members of the faculty, visited the Greenville tobacco market this morning to get first hand information concerning Carolina's greatest industry.

The students followed the sales for sometime and expressed amazement at the rapidity with which the golden leaf was sold. The unique sales talk of the auctioneers also came in for considerable comment, it being the first time many of the young women had ever had the opportunity to observe auction sales of this kind.

Both members of the faculty and students were surprised at the magnitude of the industry, and the stupendous amount of work and energy employees put into the task of handling the golden leaf.

There was about 1,400,000 pounds of leaf on the market today and the young women had the opportunity of seeing the great corps of workers at their best, although the highest record of history was set yesterday in the disposition of over 1,500,000 pounds.
