PLAN UPWARD REVISION OF FEDERAL TAX

Both Parties Preparing Program Despite Action of President Hoover

By CECIL B. DICKSON
(Copyright 1931, By The Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Conservative and progressive leaders of both political parties in the House are planning an upward revision of federal taxes, regardless of what President Hoover recommends to the next Congress.

The chief executive is expected to base his proposals for meeting the treasury deficit on an exhaustive study being made of the budget and revenues by the treasury department. Results of this survey probably will be made public next month before his annual message to Congress.

Months ago, however, it was learned today that both Republican and Democratic members of the House ways and means committee that formulates all revenue raising legislation began a quiet investigation of tax problems.

With the assistance of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democratic member of the ways and means committee, accumulated information from the treasury and the Federal Reserve Board, and court decisions bearing on the revenue situation.

Garner's study, made last spring with a view to offering a concrete plan for the stabilization of the revenue flow and for more equal distribution of the taxation burden, was undertaken about the same time Representative Hawley of Oregon, chairman of the last House ways and means committee, announced he was surveying taxation legislation.

While the Texan, recognized as one of the outstanding tax legislators in Congress, has not divulged the scope of his study, it is known that he directed it toward increasing the inheritance tax, levying of a gift tax and raising income taxes in the higher brackets.

In addition, Garner has made a complete scrutiny of court decisions on big tax cases with a view to offering amendments to the income tax law to stop evasion of payments by the wealthy. He is represented as feeling that many wealthy men have been able to evade just payments through loopholes in the law.

In the meantime, a separate study of tax laws is being made by a group of Republican members headed by Representative Bacharach of New Jersey, another ways and means committee member.

Bacharach recently proposed raising the income tax in the higher brackets among other changes. His proposal follows closely that of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania for a sales tax to increase federal revenue.

Continue Search for Woman Sought in Trunk Killings

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The strenuous police hunt for Winnie Ruth Judd, wanted for the Phoenix trunk murders, continued throughout the West today, but the belief here was that either was hiding here or had committed suicide.

Although there were reports that persons resembling the hunted woman had been given rides by motorists near San Diego and at Central California points toward Sacramento, officers expressed the belief she might not have left the city.

The search was pressed while officers prepared for an inquest over the bodies of the victims, Miss Fredrick Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes L. Roi, which were shipped here in trunks claimed by Mrs. Judd.

On the theory that Mrs. Judd's body might be found in some out-of-the-way place, police looked over the beaches and hills around Los Angeles. Volunteers peered into deserted cabins and looked through the brushy undergrowth in canyons near the city.

Her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, and her brother, B. J. McKinnell, both expressed the belief that she would not be found alive.

French Premier Given Rousing Welcome Upon Arrival At New York

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Premier Poincaré, who worked from the dawn of a hack to the help of a chauffeur, arrived today to talk with President Hoover about methods of smoothing wrinkles of care from the face of mankind. New York gave him one of the greatest ovations in its history. Thousands banked Battery Park cheering like mad, fire boats spouted, and the big guns of Fort Jay thundered.

Edison's Son

William L. Edison of Wilmington, Del., son of the famous inventor was at his father's bedside when he died.

HOLD NEGRO IN SLAYING

Junius Austin Held As Accessory in the Murder of Southern Pines Police Chief

Durham, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Durham police, working on the theory that Everett McLean, 28-year-old negro, killed two people and wounded a third to prevent their testifying against him in a criminal action, this morning continued to hold Junius Austin, McLean's negro companion, as an accomplice in the slaying early yesterday of Police Chief B. H. Beasley of Southern Pines.

Officers said they believed Austin and McLean had planned the killing. McLean committed suicide a few minutes after being lodged in a cell here.

McLean, according to the story pieced together by officers, from him before he hung himself, Austin mission rejected all bids for consoling Chief Beasley from behind while the car officer was driving, and then turned the gun on his wife, who had caused him to be arrested some time ago when he hurled her from an automobile near Boydton, Va. His sister, Georgia, was killed when the driverless car crashed into a stump.

The party had been at Boydton, where Chief Beasley had sought to aid McLean in having the charges against him dropped.

The shooting occurred about 3 a. m. yesterday. Austin was arrested here, but McLean escaped to Tarboro by taxicab and bus before being apprehended.

Southern Pines, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Funeral services for B. H. Beasley, killed when Everett McLean, negro, ran amuck in a speeding car near Durham yesterday, will be held here this afternoon. Burial will be in Portsmouth, Va.

Prepare to Seize Capone Property

Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Authorization from Washington, D. C., expected today, only was needed to set government tax collectors busy seizing the property of Al Capone.

Robert E. Neely, acting collector of internal revenue, announced that the gang chief's property from what real estate he may possess to his $135 suits, may be seized after tax liens are obtained, for overdue income taxes.

Capone is to be sentenced tomorrow for income tax law violations, of which he was convicted by a Federal court jury. A maximum sentence of 17 years imprisonment and $50,000 in fines is possible.

JAPS REFUSE LEAGUE TERMS

Reject Proposal for Definite Time for Withdrawal of Her Troops

Geneva, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Japan's representative on the League of Nations council today refused to accept any definite time limit for withdrawal of her troops from Manchuria.

His announcement was in response to a resolution by Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister, who is chairman of the council, proposing that Japan complete the Manchurian evacuation by November 16 at which time the council would meet again.

The resolution also recommended that China pledge security of Japanese lives and property in Manchuria.

When Kenkichi Yoshizawa, the Japanese delegate, took the stand which he had been expected to take the council adjourned until tomorrow evening so that the Japanese delegation could study the proposals and so that Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese member, could ask instructions from his government.

The Briand resolution suggested that China and Japan begin direct negotiations immediately so that evacuation of the occupied area could be carried out quickly and

WEEK ROOMS FOR VISITORS

Merchants Association Desires Accommodations for Teachers in November

Determined to provide every comfort and convenience for the thousands of teachers expected to attend the fall conference of the Northeastern District Teachers Association to be held in this city November 13 and 14, C. B. Rowlett, secretary of Greenville Merchants Association, today called for two hundred rooms to take care of the visitors during their stay here.

Mr. Rowlett urged that anybody having rooms to rent notify his office at once so that ample accommodations might be provided for the visitors. The rooms will be paid for at the rate of $1.00 a day, and meals will be extra, unless hosts desire to give these free of charge.

While the majority of the teachers will not remain longer than one night, meals will have to be provided for practically two days. However, the thing the Merchants Association is mainly concerned with is rooming accommodations, and Mr. Rowlett expressed hope that people with extra rooms would get in touch with his office immediately and have them listed.

World's Largest Amphibian Plane On Major Flight

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The world's largest amphibian airplane took off here today on its first major flight, on a 1,400-mile journey to Miami, Fla., where it will be used in regular passenger service across the Caribbean sea.

Soaring into the sky at 6:43 A. M., the fifty-passenger ship, christened the "American Clipper" recently by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, headed for Norfolk, Va., the first stop in its itinerary. There were also scheduled stops at Charleston, S. C., and Jacksonville, Fla., before proceeding to Miami.

The "American Clipper" will become the flagship of the Pan-American Airways fleet.

Hears Confession

Burton J. McKinnell, brother of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, said his sister confessed to him the murder of two women whose bodies were found in trunks at a Los Angeles railway station.

AKRON DOCKED AT LAKEHURST

New Queen of the Air Berthed at Naval Air Station During the Morning

By W. A. KINNEY
Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Slipping thru a dark clouded sky, like a slim silver wreath, the Navy dirigible, Akron rode into her home port today and nosed down to her mooring mast at 6:34 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Only a small throng braved the wind-swept landing field to greet the latest queen of the air. At 1:45 a. m. when the Akron first hovered over the landing field, her rigging light blinking red and green, a handful of spectators were on hand to watch her cruise in wide circles while she awaited the dawn.

It was still dark, with the faintest pencil streaks of light, when the ship's landing crew, 75 strong, tramped out and the actual landing preparations started.

Fifteen minutes later smoke bombs were set off on the landing field to indicate the air direction to the crew of the ship.

On either side of the ship two propellers pulled downward, while the other two pairs brought the ship slowly forward. Finally at 6:14 the first landing line fell from her blunt nose. Two other lines dropped a moment later and the Akron drew nearer to the mast, while Dr. Hugo Bekker, the Graf Zeppelin commander, looked on.

A conveyer of fast navy planes took the air as soon as the landing procedure started, circling around the almost motionless Akron.

Contrary to the navy's original plan, their newest recruit, which will become an official ship of the line on navy day, October 27, was not berthed immediately. She remained on the field with Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, her skipper, and his crew, aboard her.

Finally at 8:35 the giant air liner was docked. Her huge fin grazed the top of the hangar entrance as she was walked in.

Commander Rosendahl and Dr. Bekker chatted while the $5,375,000 air levitation was being berthed. It took fifteen minutes from the time the tail of the Akron was lashed to its iron cradle on the mooring field until the ship was entirely in the hangar.

Aloftside of the Akron in the 800-foot hangar the Los Angeles rests, dwarfed by her new sister-ship. The Los Angeles requires only 656 feet of the hangar's space, while the Akron covers all but 15 of the 800 feet when she is berthed.

Sam T. Carson Drowned As Car Hits Bridge And Then Runs Into Tranter's Creek

Body of Popular Young Local Attorney Recovered After Two Hours' Search; Baxter Carson, Suffering From Injury and Shock, in Hospital Here; Funeral Tomorrow

Sam T. Carson, 28, popular young Greenville attorney, was drowned last night about 7 o'clock when his car crashed into the end of Tranter's Creek bridge, on the Parkway Washington road, fifteen miles from Greenville, and plunged into about fifteen feet of water.

Baxter Carson, brother of the drowned man, escaped when he was pulled ashore at the end of a pole which a negro threw into the water in attempt to save the two men. The body of Sam Carson was recovered about two hours later.

CURTIS DENIES HE WILL QUIT

Tulsa Newspaper Insists Vice-President Will Resign Before Christmas

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Denied by him as "pure nonsense," a new report that Vice-president Curtis will retire soon to private life has been injected into conjecture about his future plans.

The Tulsa (Oklahoma) World insists that the second ranking official of the government might resign to become czar of the American oil industry. In the face of his denial, the newspaper persists in its assertion that his formation is both "direct and reliable."

The vice-president will resign "before Christmas," it said. If the American Petroleum Institute approves the plan at its annual meeting next month.

Informed of this, Mr. Curtis said: "I have no idea where that report originated. There is absolutely no foundation to it."

To which N. G. Henthorne, editorial director of the Tulsa paper, replied: "We have nothing to change in our story."

The future plans of the vice-president have been one of the choice tid-bits of political gossip for months. He indicated to friends only recently that he had not decided whether he would resign or vice presidential nomination or would ask the Kansas electorate to return him to his old place in the Senate.

Reports have been widely published that this final decision would depend upon Mr. Curtis' belief in the possibility of the Republican presidential ticket being re-elected. There is little doubt that the vice-presidental nomination is his for the asking, and should he decide to seek his old place in the Senate, it would hold wide significance.

Periodic reports that he would accept a position outside public life have been little credited in the past among his friends.

Small Declares Dry Law Weakens U. S. Government

Asheville, Oct. 22.—(AP)—National "attemped prohibition" is "weakening the structure of government, inducing our boys and girls to use intoxicating liquors because the law is a challenge, and is making the American people a nation of hypocrites," former Congressman John H. Small told the Western North Carolina branch of the women's organization for prohibition reform.

The former congressman is to address another branch of the women's organization, in Lenoir tonight.

Government Considers Selective Sales Tax

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The government is considering a plan for selective sales tax as means of raising money to counter-balance declining income.

While no definite decision has been made as to whether it will be recommended to Congress, experts are carefully combing the field to see what articles could be included. They have considered many articles and it has been definitely decided that no tax can be played (Continued on Page Four)

STACY HEADS COMMISSION

Chief Justice of Supreme Court Elected Chairman New Constitution Body

Raleigh, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Chief Justice W. P. Stacy of the State Supreme Court, today was elected chairman of the North Carolina Commission on the Revision of the State Constitution.

The commission, named by Governor O. Max Gardner in compliance with an act of the 1931 General Assembly, will undertake the first re-writing of the constitution of the state since 1868.

Behind closed doors the members of the commission discussed "what we are going to do and how we are going about it," Judge Stacy said.

The entire commission was photographed during its session, a peculiar thing being that Governor Gardner stood between Chief Justice Stacy and Federal Judge John J. Parker of Charlotte, both of whom were students at the University of North Carolina with the governor.

U. S. REJECTS COTTON MEET

Turns Down Egyptian Proposal for International Conference on Cotton

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The American government has rejected a proposal by the Egyptian government for an international cotton conference.

The Cairo government recently formally proposed such a conference. Egypt and the United States are two of the world's largest cotton producing countries.

In rejecting the proposal today the State Department said that the Federal government was not in position to discuss restrictions such as limitations on acreage or export embargoes.

The note suggested that if the Egyptians desired to discuss the latter point they could send a representative to Washington for the purpose.

The State Department, in turning down the proposal, followed the advice of the departments of agriculture and commerce and the farm board. When the Egyptian suggestion was received August 29 Under Secretary Castle asked these three agencies for their opinion.

The principal point in the Egyptian proposal was that an international conference be formed to study the problem of surplus stocks and means of stabilizing prices.

Huge Shipping Combine Formed By R. S. Dollar

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A huge shipping combine which will affect the destinies of the American merchant marine in all parts of the world, was announced here last night by R. Stanley Dollar, vice-president of the Dollar Steamship Company.

Dollar spoke directly for the first time on the purposes of recent conferences between captains of the shipping industry on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

He gave details of what had been accomplished in the discussions between himself, Kenneth Dawson, Portland, Ore.; Herbert Fleishacker, San Francisco financier, and Paul Chapman, head of the United States Lines, all representing the west coast shipping interests, and John M. Franklin, of the International Mercantile Marine, and Kermit Roosevelt, of the Roosevelt Steamship Company.

IMPROVEMENT REPORTED IN U. S. BUSINESS

Brightening of Horizon in the Specialty Field Occurs on Atlantic Seaboard

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Brightening of the business horizon, at least in a number of lines that might be listed as "specialties," is reported from various industrial spots along the Atlantic Seaboard.

Among several concerns that cited good if not "booming" sales, it was noted that advertising, instead of being out, either had been sustained at previous levels or increased materially.

On the South coast improving conditions were found in several places. The Virginia Electric and Power Company, which serves a large section of the state including Richmond and Norfolk, has found from its ledger sheets that the recent summer months' consumption of power exceeded in volume the consumption in any similar period of the company's history.

This was attributed to the increased use of electrical comforts and conveniences in the home. The company has made no curtailment of its forces and has not reduced wages.

At the same time the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond reported retail trade in department stores of the fifth district was practically normal from the standpoint of volume, although there was a decline in sales in dollars and cents.

The Burnham & Morrill Company of Portland, one of the largest printing companies of Maine, reported it has had no slack season thus far; has kept its full force at work and even put on additional employees. Also it has maintained an extensive advertising campaign.

In the textile end the Premier Silk Mill Corporation of New Bedford, Mass., recently opened a new 48-loom unit and expects to install another 24 looms soon. At Lewiston, Me., the Chamber of Commerce said the Bates Manufacturing Company, makers of broadspreads, was operating with 40 per cent more employes than last year.

Another Lewiston firm, the M. C. Stone Company, shirt makers, doubled its previous production, enlarging its plant and machinery and adding 200 more employes to its force.

The Lynn, Mass., Chamber of Commerce recorded the establishment of two new shoe companies.

From Lawrence, Mass., it was announced the Boltz Rubber Company had purchased an additional mill and would add 250 employes to its present staff.

At Bristol, Conn., two brass companies stated business compared well with last year although not equalling that of 1929.

The hat manufacturers of New York, Conn., apparently have joined the ranks of the optimists.

At Danbury the hat makers are similarly cheerful.

Lindberghs Bound For Seattle Today

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh left here at 6:22 A. M. (Pacific Standard Time) for Seattle by airplane after arriving by steamer from the Orient, where their air trip was ended by the recent death of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey.

The Lindberghs disembarked from the President Jefferson at 5:23 A. M., and left immediately for the airport.

Shaking his head and declining to be interviewed, Colonel Lindbergh led the way through a group of persons gathered on the tarmac, and with Mrs. Lindbergh, left for the air field in an automobile provided by the American consul.

Mr. Lindbergh said she was eager to get back to her baby, whose first birthday anniversary was celebrated shortly before the Lindberghs started out last July on their aerial jaunt across Northern Canada, Alaska and Siberia to Japan and China.

The Lindberghs were given the "freedom of the port" here and no formalities were necessary.

Plans to Skate Around World

Wilmington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Jack Hyland, of Wilson, who roller-skated to the American Legion convention in Detroit, has announced that he will use the same method of propulsion for a trip around the world which is to start here in a few days.

He said he would go to New York and then travel westward through Texas, California, the Philippines and on around, using his skates wherever there is pavement and walking where there is none.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold activity: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LADY with a PAST

By Harriet Henry

SYNOPSIS: Venice Muir determines to be brazen and openly pursue a man who interests her after years of shy and unconfident behavior. She has grown used to her lack of popularity, and knows that she cannot be light and amusing; her loveliness is offset by her immaturity and lack of allurement. One man, Drake Farrelly, has seemed to like her. At the Manning's dinner, Venice meets Ronald Wainwright, a most attractive young man who looks like a faun. Her friend Lola tells her that Wainwright is the darling of New York, and that he likes women to be gay. Venice starts a conversation with him, but a girl with cerise nails takes him away from her. Venice breaks away from a sober man with over-curious spectacles, and goes over to the place where Wainwright is standing alone.

Chapter 10
COMPETITION WITH CERISE NAILS
"Here I am again," Venice said. "You're looking for Bacchus, aren't you Mr. Wainwright?"

"Bright girl. Where's that dratted butler?"
"Out of the corner of her eye Venice saw young Spectacles with a glass of creme de menthe in one hand looking vaguely about for her. A burst of light caught the green liquid and made of it molten emerald."
"There," Venice pointed to approaching Venice topped by a long, expressionless face like so much dough.
Ronald Wainwright lifted two little glasses from off the tray. Venice suddenly realized that one was for Cerise Nails hidden away somewhere. She lifted it from his surprised fingers.
"To Bacchus," she smiled and drained it quickly.
"To Bacchus," he echoed and sipped. His eyes over the little glass met hers with faint amusement.
"He's laughing at me, she thought, and the color swept up her face. The old embarrassment, that over-present diffidence and self-consciousness engulfed her. She looked away. Spectacles was sitting in one of the chairs by the fireplace alone. He was watching her with a curious expression. She glanced back at Wainwright. He was following the butler. She saw him take another glass from off the tray and disappear with it through the foyer. Quick, quick, she thought; what can I do that would be funny and impertinent and gay? What would Lola or Cerise Nails or Alice Schovler do? She hurried after him. She overtook him at the doorway of a small library. She put a hand on his arm.

"If you're so fond of Bacchus," she laughed, "you can have another liqueur with me before you have still another with some one else."
Her face was flushed with her own daring and her eyes were shining. She looked provocative and bright. Ronald Wainwright slowly put the two little glasses down on a nearby console-table. There was something baffling about his expression. Venice suddenly felt nervous and shy. Why didn't he say something? Suddenly he reached for her, and getting her in his arms, kissed her deliberately on the mouth.
Venice's liqueur glass dropped to the floor with a crunching sound. She got her hands up against his chest and pushed him furiously away.
"Why did you do that?" she cried.

Her cheeks were flaming. She put her palms against them as though to ease their burning.
"What did you want?" he asked, his eyes twinkling gayly, no displeasure in his tone. "You seemed to be persisting about something."
"Thank you," snapped Venice bitterly and turned away. She went to stand in the doorway of the living-room, furiously hurt. He had insulted her. It was the first time she had ever made a purposeful effort to corral a man, and she knew a tremendous sense of humiliation. Defeated. Cheap. Unexpectedly she hated him. But she wanted him just the same.
"How about a fourth at bridge, Venice?" Philip Manning at her elbow. She gave a little start, then forced herself to smile quickly into his nice, plump and white face.
"I'll like it."
She joined Philip Manning and an elderly brother and sister, who had sat at the same side of the dinner table as she and so had not escaped her notice. Facing a doorway that opened into the next room, she relished each opportunity when she was dumpy so that she could watch the dancing. Ronald Wainwright gliding gracefully with first one girl close in his arms and then another. Lola laughing continually from this partner to that. Cerise Nails sitting about more than she danced.
Venice won eleven dollars and forty cents. But the evening had been her loss. Young Spectacles took her home in a taxi. She received the unusual presence of an escort with complete indifference, and her mind excluded his attempts at conversation in angry retrospect of the dazzling young man. He was more than rude to me, she thought. I'll get even with him some day. This resentful attitude was not quite the honest reflection of what she felt. She should feel resentment. But she liked him. She wanted him to like her. It was necessary to exaggerate his slight to ease her own longings, to save her wounded pride.
"But you have something more to you than the average social capacity," the young man at her side was saying. "Why do you bother to strive for transient recognition in an empty milieu?"
Venice knew a sudden sharp fury. It is not pleasant to be assured that that which you desire in vain is not worth the losing.
"You don't really know anything about me," she said unkindly.
"No?" There was interrogation that irritated in his simple negative. Venice bit her lip.
The taxi drew up in front of the apartment house where she lived.
"Thank you for taking me home," she left him paying the driver, knowing well that she had been rude but uncaring in her bruised, unhappy state of mind.
She went to bed nursing an intangible prick. A thorn had pierced her desire for popularity. It remained there momentarily to ankle, but in an way dispelled the intensity of her longing.
The football season was left behind. Trim tailored suits and cloth coats gave way to wraps of mink or caracul, baby lamb or muskrat, depending on the finances of the wearer. Liveryed chauffeurs became black clumsy bears, and the ones that didn't become peaked and blue. Breaths lingered on the biting air like so much smoke. It was a cold winter.
The weather was the sole change in Venice's slowly dragging days.

She eagerly hoped and waited to hear from Drake Farrelly.

Not to turn the table in the next installment, and Mrs. Muir comes to an important decision.
Council Favors Balanced Trade Program in U. S.
Savannah, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The president of the newly organized Southeastern Economic Council advocates a program of balanced trade between sections of the country and the making of the "south a part of the United States."
Announcing the program, Hugh B. MacRae of Wilmington, N. C., who was elected to head the council following its organization yesterday at the close of a three-day meeting here, posted $1,000 as the initial subscription toward carrying out his ideas.
Delegates heard several speakers severely criticize the Interstate Commerce Commission's action in refusing railroads a 13 per cent increase in freight rates.
Edward McFadden, magazine publisher, flew here yesterday and addressed the conference. He advocated a back to the farm movement as an end to depression.
Three vice-presidents were selected for the Economic Council. They were: For agriculture, David B. Coker, Hartsville, S. C.; for industries, W. D. Anderson, Macon, Ga.; and for women's organization work, Miss Jenn W. Coltrane, Concord, N. C.

This fall YOU can't WEAR TALK nor PRICES

There's been tons and tons of wild language and truck loads of price exaggerations used in advertising this last 18 months. You can't wear any of it.

What are you going to wear (if you're like thousands of other men who have been once bit and are twice shy) — is clothing from a known name — clothing from a store you can trust.

Hart Schaffner & Marx have used every ounce of their vast resources to give you more value — VALUE VICTORIES we call them. The prices are low, too, for such quality. But "what you get" is more important than the price. It's "what you get" that makes a price low. And you get plenty here.

GREENVILLE, N. C.

State Rejects Camp Bids

Raleigh, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Because all bids were said to be out of proportion to the cost of a model prison camp built by the commission itself near here, the State Highway Committee to Creedmore was ordered and construction of ten new prison camps in North Carolina needed to care for convicts since the state has taken over the old county road system.
The commission announced that it would build eight or nine of the camps itself, advertising for new bids only on the Richmond county camp and possible one other.
At yesterday's meeting Chairman Jeffers was asked to confer with other state officials in an effort to prepare a conference looking toward settlement of the lead limit regulations now being questioned by the North Carolina Truck Owners Association.
A delegation from the western part of the state asked the commission to have routes 891 and 91 from Crossnore via Spruce Pine, Burnsville, and Weaverville to Asheville made an alternate route of the Park to Park highway.
A survey of route 21 from Crabtree to Creedmore was ordered and another of the Avery county end of the Yonahlossee highway was announced completed.

SEES HOPE FOR COTTON SOUTH

James Duckworth, of England, Believes Improved Conditions Are Ahead

By GLENN RAMSEY
Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Hope for improved conditions in the cotton South was held out here today by James Duckworth of Lancashire, England, who said textile manufacturing plants in his community had improved 10 per cent since Great Britain abandoned the gold standard.

He is attending the ecumenical Methodist conference as a lay leader in the United Methodist church of England. He is a justice of the peace at Lancaster and a shareholder in several textile mills there.

"It is not the fault of you people in the South that conditions are as they are in Lancashire," said Mr. Duckworth. "You are not to blame because cotton is selling at around six cents. Our people who returned again to the market would return again to at least 15 cents, a pound and 30 cents if possible, because if this was the case there would be a serious demand for manufacturing and, like you, would benefit."

"The fault in the instance of Lancashire and in fact with manufacturing in all of the islands is that we have such much machinery and the other countries, such as India and Egypt and Africa, which formerly sent us their raw cotton, are making their own textiles. The machinery people have profited, we in the cotton centers have lost."

"It is gratifying that this improvement of recent date has come about whereby our manufacturing has increased about 10 per cent and a dozen of our vast mills are in operation, due to the abandonment of the gold standard."

"I did not hope to see that there will be further gains in the industry and we can buy more of your cotton and give you more for it."

Increase N. C. Credit Fund. Raleigh, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A group of North Carolina bankers, in session here last night, to hear the details of President Hoover's national credit corporation plans, added $175,000 to the state's subscription to the $500,000,000 fund being raised for credit expansion.

The meeting was the first of a series to be held in all parts of the state at which Robert M. Hanes, of Winston-Salem, president of the State Bankers Association, and others, will make full explanation of the workings of the plan.

The general idea behind the Hoover plan, Mr. Hanes explained here, is to provide a fund whereby solvent banks, faced with overwhelming amounts of frozen assets, may receive aid in liquidating them and realizing cash with which to carry on their operations.

The national credit corporation has been described as a "pawn shop for slow paper."

Asks Release Of Opponents to Naval Cut

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Charging that certain officials in the Navy department have started "propaganda" against reductions in the naval budget, Representative Wood of Indiana, today recommended to President Hoover that these men be found out and released from the service.

The Indiana republican asserted minor officials of the navy department had resorted to "cheap naval politics" in starting rumors that reduction in the naval budget would be brought about by having the Constitution abolished, the navy band, closing the Boston and Charleston navy yards and other like steps.

Wood was chairman of the appropriations committee in the last Congress and will be the next if the republicans organize the house. The rumors proposed would cost $1,000,000. Wood asserted such rumors were started by officials without knowledge of the navy and were initiated simply to arouse public opinion against naval budget reductions.

Capone Faces New Charge

Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The federal government, which has already convicted Alphonse Capone, gang leader, on two charges, had another avenue of possible prosecution opened to it today.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson asked whether the gangster knew his bodyguard, Philip D'Andrea, carried a loaded pistol into the courtroom during the Capone trial, and pointed out that Capone himself could be cited for contempt of court if he had such knowledge.

The point was raised as D'Andrea's counsel asked, and obtained another continuance of his contempt of court hearing. Without leaving any definite orders, Judge Wilkerson made it plain that he thought Capone's connection with his sun-toting friend should be investigated.

ABOUT TOWN

Governor Gardner's opposition to a special session of the Legislature to deal with the cotton and tobacco situation was again manifested yesterday when he told a delegation of merchants that he would have to consider the matter further before coming to a decision.

This is the second time the Chief Executive has declined to act in the crisis, despite the fact that he has been shown the people want something done.

His decision, however, is not to be considered as final because the seriousness of the tobacco and cotton situation cannot have escaped the governor and he is bound to a conclusion that this State cannot hang in the rear of the movement to reduce acreage with other states taking definite action.

The salvation of the south, in the opinion of men just as brainy as the governor, must come through legislative curtailment of acreage, and the necessary action must come before another planting season.

The governor is confronted by one of the greatest economic questions that has faced an official of this state in years, and that he will use his influence to bring relief is the hope of the thousands of people vitally affected by declining prices and resultant economic depression.

The Pitt County post of the American Legion has installed new officers and named committees to look after Armistice Day celebration to be conducted here November 11.

Always on the alert to make the observance of the ending of the war as significant and impressive as possible, the Legion this year hopes to bring to the city a man of national prominence to deliver the principal address. Governor Roosevelt of New York was invited but pressing business prevented his accepting the invitation.

Not discouraged by this failure, the Legion is now conferring with another speaker and hopes to make known his name within the next several days.

Charlie Martin of Ayden is the new post commander inducted into office at the monthly meeting this week and that he will render distinctive service is not to be doubted. Charlie has been interested in the work of organization since its formation immediately following the war, and will use his every effort to see that the work of the post continues unhampered by changing business conditions.

Tim states have aligned themselves behind a credit extension plan to keep seven million bales of cotton off the market and thereby relieve the congestion.

This is one of the temporary remedies advised by President Hoover in his effort to bolster the economic situation in this county.

and should play an important part if acreage reduction is carried out by the various cotton producing states.

Bankers of the states involved have raised the required sum of money necessary to take care of their proportionate part of the cotton, and will hold it off the market long enough to permit the market to recover from the slump it has been experiencing the last several years.

It is going to make it necessary for growers to resort to other sources of revenue to make up for the curtailment program but if they raise the stuff consumed at home they should be in far better shape at the end of next year.

The trouble with the majority of the southern states is that they have been confining too much attention to the cultivation of money crops without raising the products used by their families. When they begin mixing crops the slump everybody has been howling about for so long should vanish as quickly as it came.

Greenville will get its share of the Gospel during the month of November with two revival services scheduled in addition to the annual meeting of the Methodist conference.

Gypsy Smith, Jr., noted evangelist, will appear at Immanuel Baptist church from November 8-22, and the congregation is preparing to handle the largest crowds in history of the church.

November 1, Dr. G. W. Gasque, eminent Episcopal minister of Atlanta, will begin a one-week service at St. Paul's Episcopal church, and Rev. W. A. Lillycrop, rector of the local church, is anticipating a genuine revival.

The Methodist conference will convene with Jarvis Memorial Methodist church during the week of the 18th. Notable ministers and laymen will be present and take part in what is always the most important church gathering of the denomination in this state.

Greenville people will have an opportunity to enjoy a genuine spiritual revival during the month, and it is to be hoped everybody will attend as often as possible and express their appreciation of the effort being made by the denominations for the advancement of God's kingdom.

Mr. Briand, in presenting his proposals, described them as subject to debate and modification after they had been studied fully by the Japanese and Chinese representatives.

The council's action lacked the firmness which had been desired in some quarters, but on the whole it created a favorable impression and aroused a new hope that its efforts to restore peace in the Far East might ultimately be successful.

The Chinese delegates indicated privately that while the Briand proposals were generally acceptable to them, they were dissatisfied with the length of time suggested for completion of the evacuation.

WAKE FOREST AND DUKE SET FOR BIG GAME

Charlotte, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Duke and Wake Forest were set today for their important battle in the Big Five race tomorrow.

The Deacons concentrated on defense as they would up their drills yesterday while the Blue Devils devoted their time largely to running signals after stopping the freshmen dead in a brief scrimmage. Each club planned only the lightest of workouts today.

The game will either give the Devils a firm hold on second place in the state race or drop them into a tie with Davidson for the cellar position. Wake Forest has turned in one victory and one defeat in games with Big Five members, losing to North Carolina and whipping N. C. State.

Duke's only game with a state opponent to date was last Saturday's scoreless battle with the Davidson Wildcats.

N. C. State's final heavy workout before meeting Catholic University tomorrow night gave indications that Coach Clipper Smith will start the two new backfield men, Phil Kinken and Bo Bohannon, who have been running on the first string in practice.

Both Kinken, a fullback, and Bohannon, halfback, are sophomores, as is Don Wilson who will start at the other halfback position. The only veteran of a season's play in the backfield will be Charley Jeffrey, quarterback, a junior.

Hunting a way to stop Gene McEver, Tennessee's great halfback, North Carolina is working hard on defense in preparation for the game with the Vunteers next Saturday.

Coach Chuck Collins, dissatisfied with the opposition offered by the freshmen in scrimmage, gave his varsity reserves a set of Tennessee plays and sent them against the first string yesterday.

Charlie Woolten, reserve quarterback, emulated McEver almost too well and carried the Tar Heel regulars with the tricky vol passes.

Departing from their routine of Wednesday scrimmage, Davidson's Wildcats worked on offensive formations for use against Erskine Saturday. Coach Monk Younger said he was fairly well satisfied with the showing.

BIG 'THREE' FACES EASY SCHEDULE

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP)—On the face of things, the three Southern Conference leaders—Tulane, Tennessee and Georgia—have plain sailing before them this week-end but each faces an opponent which with a few "breaks" could blast a lot of 1931 football hopes.

Georgia possibly, has the toughest assignment of the Big Three in Vanderbilt. It was only last Saturday that the Commodores were humbled by Tulane but the memory of their victory over Ohio State in the Big Ten conference is too fresh for them to be considered anything but formidable foemen.

It is that last week-end defeat that is worrying Coach Harry Mehre of Georgia. The Commodores have everything to gain and nothing to lose and it is just possible they might open up a brand of football that the Bulldogs, for all their strength, would find baffling.

Tulane has a little less to worry about in its meeting with Georgia Tech. The Yellow Jackets defeated South Carolina this season but they have been beaten by Carnegie Tech and Auburn. Still, Coach Alexander has his team's defensive play working a little better now and he has built up a pretty good line.

Tennessee should have no trouble with North Carolina but there again is a chance for one of those upsets that occur so frequently in football. North Carolina has a pretty good defense and its offense has drawn considerable favorable comment although the Tar Heels haven't done so well this season.

Bell Arthur Plans Fights

Fight fans in this section are being treated to a series of bouts at Bell Arthur each Friday night, and one of the outstanding attractions of the series is being planned for this week. It was announced by boxing commission members yesterday afternoon.

Rex Allen, of Greenville, who goes under the fighting name of Jake Lucas, will clash with Haywood Parrish, of Rocky Mount, in the Bell Arthur ring tomorrow night.

Fighters from Stokes and Murray will stage a couple of bouts before the main engagement. Several negro fighters are also entered for the preliminaries.

The preliminaries begin at eight o'clock and the main bout at 9:00 o'clock.

Big crowds have attended previous engagements, and large attendance was anticipated for tomorrow evening.

The fights are staged under the auspices of the Bell Arthur Boxing commission, organization composed of the majority of the young men of the community.

Allen announced today that he would challenge the winner of the Mooring bout to be staged at Bell Arthur in the near future. Allen has recently been fighting around Chattanooga, Tenn., under the management of James Marlowe. He has met some tough fighters, such as Billie Burkett, of Roanoke, and Teels Mosemeyer, of New York. He recently changed his style of fighting to that of a south-paw, and finds it decidedly more effective than his former style.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Akron, Ohio—Gorilla Jones, Akron knocked out Johnny Roberts, Huntington, W. Va., (3).

Jersey City—Kid Chocolate, Cuba, stepped Al "Rube" Goldberg, New York, (3).

Cakiland, Cal.—Max Baer, Livermore, Cal., knocked out Jose Santa, Portugal, (19).

Roanoke Rapids To Play Highs Here Tomorrow

The football team of Greenville High will be fighting for its first conference victory of the season when it meets the team from Roanoke Rapids here tomorrow. The game will start at 4 o'clock at the Third street grounds.

Turnage, star back, returned to practice yesterday afternoon and expects to show to good advantage in tomorrow's encounter. Cal Cahoon will be lost to the team and his place will be taken by M. O. Blount Jr.

The probable lineup is as follows: Ends, Gaston, Fleming or Whichard; tackles, Summerell and Dall; guards, Cobb and Rivers; center, Wright; quarter, Langston; halves, Blount and Hatem; fullback, Turnage. Others who probably will see service are Dennis, Brewer, Mosley, Wilson and Kasey.

Notre Dame Sings 'Nother New Song

Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Hearty (Hunk) Anderson, Notre Dame's senior football coach, is singing a new theme song for his men this week—and the title is "That Pittsburgh Line."

Anderson's scouts have brought in terrifying reports concerning the Pittsburgh line, and the more he hears about it, the less the work of his own forwards appeals to him. They failed to show the freshmen line around yesterday and Anderson told them some more about the "best line in the east" and finished by saying:

"That Pittsburgh line will charge you fellows right out of the park Saturday. You've got to charge faster or you are going to take a beating."

Nothing has happened to the Irish ball-carrying force, however, and if Anderson's treatment of the line situation proves satisfactory, Pittsburgh will have a full afternoon in its first appearance in the new brick stadium at South Bend.

Non - Political Cabinet Begins Work in Mexico

Mexico City, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A new non-political cabinet, swept clean of generals and politicians with one exception, took its place in Mexico today to aid in solving a political crisis that brought a shower of resignations and left a two-man government in power for seven days.

General Plutarco Elias was the only military man included in the new cabinet, announced suddenly last night.

The big four of the old cabinet, Generals Almazan, Amaro, Cardenas and Cedillo, are out of the new lineup which includes three former cabinet members in their old posts and replaces some of the retired ministers with political unknowns.

The three who remain are Finance Minister Luis Montes de Oca, Secretary of Industry Aaron Saen, and Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada.

Manuel C. Telex, former ambassador to Washington, succeeded General Lazaro Cardenas as Secretary of the Interior, and chief of the cabinet.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Cotton opened steadily today at an advance of one to three points on overnight buying orders. Some buying had been reported to have come from the south and commission houses, but the market eased off slightly after the initial demand had been supplied.

December sold off from 6.81 to 6.72 and March from 7.07 to 6.98. The offerings were absorbed by continued trade buying or covering, however, and prices steadied up again with active months ruling within 2 or 3 points either way of yesterday's closing quotations at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables said there had been continental buying and covering in that market and reported fair cloth sales to Egypt and the continent.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Stock market downturns found reflection in grains today, and there was a pause in the aggressive buying conspicuous of late among wheat traders. Prices slipped down, especially in the last half hour, and a disposition was shown to await an expected report from the Federal Board as to the amount of government sponsored wheat still held.

North American wheat export business today lacked volume, being estimated at 500,000 bushels, chiefly Canadian.

Wheat closed unsettled 5-8 to 7-8 lower; corn 3-8 to 5-8 off; oats a shade to 1-4 to 3-8 down and provisions 2 to 5 advance.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The stock market drifted somewhat lower today as Wall Street was preoccupied with the arrival in this country of Premier Laval of France the meeting of railway executives in Atlantic City, and the possibility of a further change in the rediscount rate after the close.

Save for a momentary upturn in the coppers, the market drifted almost steadily lower, with rails conspicuously heavy. But trading was extremely sluggish, and the market seemed to reflect little save neglect.

Losses of 1 to 3 points were numerous, but on the whole, the movement was narrow.

In the coppers, such issues as Anaconda, Kennecott, Inspiration and Granby rose a point or so, but these advances were not well maintained. Among shares declining 2 or 3 points were New York Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Santa Fe, Eastman, Coca Cola, Johns Manville, American Telephone and Consolidated Gas, General Electric, General Motors, U. S. Steel and others lost a point or so.

The two increases of one per cent in the New York rediscount rate in the past two weeks, lifting it to 3 1/2 per cent, has left Wall Street in a mood to expect almost anything from the Thursday meeting of the reserve directors, but in the main, bankers seemed to feel today that the present rate was high enough.

The money market gave no inkling of any further advance in the rediscount rate. Call money was offered outside at 2 per cent, against the official rate of 2 1/2, and some maturities of time money were slightly easier. Bankers' acceptances were unchanged.

Sen. W. Va., to attend the meeting today.

In a statement to the commission as it opened its meeting, Governor Gardner said the group had been assigned "as big a task as any similar group of patriotic North Carolinians in your day."

He pointed out that this is the only Southern state which has not substantially re-written the constitution adopted by it or forced upon it in the reconstruction era following the war between the states.

"Our constitution, written 63 years ago when North Carolina was a broken, impoverished, agricultural state, does not," said the governor, "of course, adequately serve the economic, industrial, social and governmental life that we have been developing since 1900. As you know, practically all efforts in recent years partially to reconstruct the constitution by amendment have been unsuccessful."

"The present constitution contains too many and too rigid restrictions upon the legislative, the executive and the judicial branches of our government in serving the public good. Under its cumbersome limitations we oftentimes cannot enact legislation which the best thought of the general assembly would indicate; we frequently cannot affect the soundest organization for the most effective administration; the judiciary is cumbered and hampered in its progressive and humanitarian service; it prevents an equal and fair distribution of the burden of taxation; and in large measure the particular prohibitions in our present constitution have come to defeat their own purpose."

SAM T. CARSON DROWNED IN TRANTER'S CREEK
from Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock by Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. W. A. Lillycrop, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Burial will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

The brothers were returning to Greenville from a visit to farm property several miles below Pacolet when the accident occurred.

The car was driven by Sam Carson, who was said to have been floundering in the hefts of an automobile parked near the bridge, and hit the end of the bridge railing. The car lurched into the stream, and Sam was said to have pushed his brother from the car and then came out himself.

While they were struggling frantically against the current of the cold water a negro residing a short distance from the stream and who had heard the crash, rushed to the creek bank and threw a long pole to the struggling men. Baxter was pulled to shore, but his brother drowned before he could be rescued.

Suffering severely from shock and lacerations about the face, Baxter was rushed to the hospital in this city where he received medical attention. He was still confined to the institution today.

The body was recovered by a searching party headed by Colonel E. S. Williams, of the accident. It was about twenty feet from the bridge and ten feet from the creek bank. The car was removed from the water shortly after the wreck.

Sam Carson was widely known throughout the state and very popular among a wide circle of friends. He was graduated from Trinity College (Duke University) in 1920, and after passing the state bar came to Greenville to practice his profession.

He was one of the star members of the Trinity College baseball team, and also played in the Eastern Carolina league. He was one of the organizers of the Lions club of this city and served as its first president. He was also a member of the Junior Order, Knights of Pythias and Masonic Order. He was also a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Until about six months ago he was a lieutenant of the local unit North Carolina National Guards. He was a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, and manifested much interest in the work of the denomination.

For the last several years he was prominent in the political life of the county, having served as solicitor of the county court. He assisted in the organization of the young Democrats of this section in the last campaign, and displayed considerable interest in state politics.

He was active in the business and social life of the state and had taken a prominent part in social affairs of the community since establishing his residence here.

He was a native of Bethel, the son of Mrs. Lucy Carson and the late S. T. Carson. He is survived by his mother and brother, also two sisters, Mrs. W. J. Bundy and Mrs. Selma Carson Moore, all of Greenville.

Cardui Had Helped Her During Girlhood
"I WAS tired all the time—had misery in my back and sides that kept me feeling bad," writes Mrs. H. H. Penn, 839 Front St., Portsmouth, Ohio. "I was in a nervous and weakening condition. I lost in weight."
"During girlhood, mother had given me Cardui, and it had helped me so much then that I decided to take it again. I took several bottles, and my strength began to return and I gained in weight. I soon lost that tired and weary feeling."
"Cardui has done me a great deal of good since then. I have taken Cardui several times . . . and have been benefited. It does me lots of good, and I am always ready to recommend it."

The reception aboard the Ile De France was saddened by the collapse of Henri Prince (hotel manager) and official interpreter for the mayor's committee. Overworked by the strain of preparation for the huge welcome, he fell unconscious on the dock during the handshaking. He was removed to the hospital where physicians said that although he was suffering from a heart attack and a hemorrhage, he would recover.

Before leaving for Washington after their brief stay, the premier and his daughter gratified some of their desire to see New York. They saw it at its wildest. Rolling up Broadway, surrounded by prancing horses, with ticker-tape showering and cheers rending the air of the narrow canyon, both seemed to enjoy it all.

As a guest invited to dinner by another self-made man, Premier Laval expects to permit his host to open the discussion and to give France's viewpoint only thereafter. It is generally understood that he does not expect to take back any definite agreement, on paper or otherwise, but merely to thresh out with the president, preliminaries looking toward co-operation on the various subjects.

As the premier stepped down from the Macon through the lines of tall silk hats backed by prancing police cavalry, his vivacious young daughter, Mile. Josette Laval, walked by
