The children were then invited into the dining room, which was dimly lighted by a Jack O' Lantern hanging over the table on which was a cake with eight candles. After the cutting of the cake Eskimo pies were served and lollypops dressed as witches were given as favors. Those present were Polly Harris, Doris Brown, Dorothy Wyatt, Emmy Lou White, Margie Dean Allen, Bettie Sue Tyson, Louis Dupree, Bettie Tyson, Frances Sellers, Dorothy and Randolph Mixon, Chickie Smith, Mattie Laurence and Elizabeth Holiday, Eloise Warren, Nell McGowan, Jane Tucker, Virginia Brown, Virginia Simpson, J. Plans Set For Tyson Reunion

Farmville, Oct. 31.—Arrangements for the Tyson reunion to be held on Friday, November 6, are being concluded in a highly gratifying way.

The reunion, which is held annually at Tyson's church, three miles from Farmville, gives members of the Tyson family throughout this and adjoining states, an opportunity to return and pay respect to their parents and ancestors, renew old friendships and take part in a delightful occasion.

The old church, built in 1776 by Sherrard Tyson, and remodeled in 1870 by Richard Lawrence Tyson, is a landmark. Standing as it does in its pioneer austerity, surviving the modern trend of embellishment, becoming more and more a place of worship, it is a fitting reminder of the early days of the country.

The Tyson family, which can be traced back to the time of William the Conqueror, was deeply religious from the first, as attested by the names recorded in their history and existing up to the present generation. Every individual family had a Moore, an Aaron, and John. Thomas, Matthias, Seth, Jacob, Amos, Joel, Asa, Isaac, and Enoch were always favorites for the males; and one, Noah, Tyson named his three sons, Shem, Ham and Jacob, while the women bore the names of Mary, Martha, Sarah, Elizabeth, Zephiah, Cepha, Esther, Naomi, Rachel and Tamar. So the conclusion is reached that the spiritual life was developed along with the cultivation of North Carolina soil by the pioneer Tysons.

The program will be as follows: Friday morning, 10:30, Sons, American. Invocation, Atty. Walter G. Sheppard, Snow Hill; roll call and minutes, president's report; greetings from D. A. R., Mrs. T. C. Turnage, regent; Major Benjamin May Chapter, greetings from the United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. J. W. Parker, president; Rebecca Winbourne Chapter, greetings from Greenville Post of American Legion; Tyson History; Attorney William S. Tyson, Greenville; talk, Brigadier-General B. Hawkins Tyson, Pikeville; reading of poems, Anne Arington Tyson, by Mrs. A. C. Hodges; introduction of speaker, Hon. J. Calvin Smith, Robertsonville; address, Hon. A. D. MacLean, Washington; music, The Family Round Table; business session; reports from genealogical committee, Miss Asahtha DeViscenti, Farmville; resolutions committee, O. H. Jackson, Winterville; election of officers; song "Faith of Our Fathers, Living Still." Basket Dinner.

The officers of the reunion are: President, Mrs. J. L. Shackelford, Farmville; vice-president, Dr. John Tyson, Greenville; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. O. H. Jackson, Winterville. The executive committee is composed of the officers with the addition of Dr. B. T. Cox, Winterville, Walter G. Sheppard, Snow Hill, and T. C. Turnage, Farmville.

PRAISES WORK OF BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB

President of the State Federation Says City Missing Lot by Not Having Club.

By MYRTLE ELLEN LA BARE.
It is a pity that the Greenville community is missing a lot by not having a Business and Professional Women's Club among its fine organizations. I know that the fine business and professional women in Greenville are missing much, and I feel that the women of the North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs would welcome the privilege of knowing and working with women of this place.

That is what Miss Nettie E. Brogdon, of Greensboro, president of the North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, said during a visit here Wednesday morning. Miss Brogdon, who is visiting the series of district meetings her organization is holding over the state this month, passed Wednesday morning here with her sister, Mrs. David Clark, on her way from Goldsboro to Smithfield.

At both places, she addressed banquet sessions, using for her subject, "A Vision of Service."

Miss Brogdon is supervisor of rural education in Guilford county. At least that is the title that decorates her office door.

But to the teacher in the county schools, from the principals on down to the little girl who is grasping her way through her first year of teaching, Miss Brogdon is a sympathetic advisor. The last one of them flock to her for advice or consolation when a snag is struck in the routine of running Guilford county's schools.

To the women of the State Federation, Miss Brogdon is one of the biggest and finest women in the state. They have seen her pour oil on troubled waters, they have seen her struggle, with knotty problems and finally work things through to a solution; they have seen her totally ignore petty jealousies and animosities that might otherwise have flamed into serious disturbances, and they have come to admire and love and trust her. She is a real leader among North Carolina women.

A native of Tennessee, Miss Brogdon was educated at Peabody College for Teachers, where she received a B. S. and a Master's degree. She did supervisory work in Maryland. During the year prior to her coming to Guilford county, she was state supervisor of education in Florida. She has been rural supervisor of Guilford county for the past five years. Her professional experience has also included college teaching. She has served as a member of the faculties of Peabody College for Teachers, Eastern Carolina Teachers College, the University of Maryland, and North Carolina College.

Miss Brogdon holds numerous responsible offices in educational and civic groups. She is state chairman of the Supervisors Group this year, as well as just having completed a term as vice-president of the Northwest District of the North Carolina Education Association. Numerous times, she has appeared on the program of the National Education Association's programs, and she was a member of the committee on the rural child of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection.

Miss Brogdon was appointed state education chairman, an office she held for two years. The State Federation was elected when part of Miss Brogdon's recommendations as education chairman were adopted by the National Federation's education department. This is Miss Brogdon's first year as state president of the Business and Professional Women. She has set as her slogan for the year's work, "plan your work, and then work your plan."

ABOUT TOWN

A highway patrolman was fired on by unknown parties while returning from Tarboro to Greenville Thursday, but fortunately escaped injury.

The driver of the automobile the traffic officer was pursuing was not apprehended, but a widespread search is in progress to apprehend him should he be rounded up it may be said with assurance that the courts will deal severely with him.

Highway patrolmen are exposed to sufficient danger without being fired upon by automobile drivers and it is hoped the culprit in this case will be brought to justice so that his prosecution may be a warning to others of the danger involved in attempting to retard the work of the highway patrol.

When Thomas A. Edison, world's greatest inventor, died he bequeathed the major part of his estate to two sons, making ample provision for his wife and remembering associates and servants liberally.

A few days after the will was made known, a third son comes along and announces he will contest the will on the grounds that his father was unduly influenced by his wife and the other two sons.

Just what the outcome of the case will be is purely problematical at this time, but it is a ten to one chance the courts will uphold the will.

It is difficult to understand why people cannot abide by the will of their parents after death, but the Edison case is one of hundreds of the same kind occurring throughout the nation and world.

Without going into merits of the case it is readily assumed that Mr. Edison distributed his property according to the way he deemed most advisable and to meet the best interests of all concerned, and the public will watch the effort to break his last will and testament with more than passing interest.

Members of the illicit whiskey traffic are being kept on the hop in North Carolina as result of constant raids by Federal officers, and numbers have been arrested and sentenced to the penitentiary as released with heavy fines.

Uncle Sam has gone after violators with renewed determination since the increase of the enforcement forces several months ago and much of the activity is expected to be reduced in the communities where it has flourished almost un molested for years.

Violation of the prohibition law, while regarded lightly by unnumbered thousands, is as serious as the violation of any other of the laws, and the government is beginning to tighten up on such cases in an effort to more fully impress the weight of the fact.

A score or more cases of this kind have been handled in Pitt County the last several weeks, and that more will come is assured by continued campaigns by the enforcement officers.

A substantial improvement in business conditions has been forecast by Albert Wiggin, one of the best known New York bankers.

Replying to questions of Senator LaFollette of the Senate manufacturing committee yesterday, the Chicago National Bank official said recovery abroad was essential to domestic recovery and that while American export trade amounted to only ten per cent of production this was "an enormous value."

"It is the last ten per cent that makes business profitable or unprofitable," he said, "and we are going to get an improvement here."

This is one of numerous expressions of a similar nature issued the last few months, and if they may be taken as an augury, it will not be long before the silver lining the optimists have been talking about will make its appearance.

Although lots of people will be prone to discount such statements, others will draw encouragement from them and push on to that time when they see them fulfilled.

Psychologists attribute most of the automobile accidents to slow-mined drivers.

The conclusion is all right as far as it goes, but it must also be added that the fast-minded drivers are responsible for a considerable number of crashes.

In fact it is the man that drives fast that usually winds up in the hospital or the morgue.

Statistics compiled since the view of psychologists lay the majority of accidents at the door of the confident driver, the man who feels so sure of himself that he not only drives fast but takes chances the less experienced driver would not think of taking.

But regardless of which conclusion is correct, it is incumbent upon the driver to keep his eyes open and his mind alert to meet all emergencies. If he does that then both psychologists and statistical experts will miss their marks.

ALL SECTIONS WILL MEET ON GRID FIELDS

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—North South, East and West, college football teams sallied forth again today to further clarify national and sectional championship alignments.

One outstanding candidate for national honors, Notre Dame, was a distinct center of popular interest for the Ramblers were matched against Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh in one of the big-time struggles of the day.

Despite a heavy intersectional slate, particularly in the east, there was just as much interest in half a dozen crucial encounters within the east, the Big Ten, the Southwest Conference and the Southern Conference.

In the South, a heavy conference schedule was topped by the meeting of Florida and Georgia's rampant Bulldogs.

In the East, two unbeaten and untied eleven, Cornell and Columbia, were squared off against one another at Ithaca, N. Y. Yale's Bulldogs, improving fast, tackled Dartmouth's Indians; Holy Cross played Brown, Lafayette sought to halt Penn.; Pitt tangled with Penn State; Georgetown was opposed to Boston College and Villanova stacked up against the tough Bucknell Bison.

In the Big Ten, the struggle between Wisconsin and Minnesota looked closest with Northwestern, Purdue and Ohio State favored over Illinois, Chicago and Indiana respectively. Nebraska looked much too strong for Missouri in the Big Six and Oklahoma was favored over Iowa State despite the improvement in the Ames' outfit. Kansas went outside the conference to clash with Oklahoma A. and M.

In the Pacific Coast Conference, championship games involved Washington State and Oregon State on the one hand, the Stanford and the University of California at Los Angeles on the other.

FREE MOVIES PROVIDED FOR POOR IN OKLAHOMA

Ponca City, Okla.—(AP)—Four years ago Lew Wentz, Ponca City multi-millionaire, stood on the curb near a moving picture theatre and watched a poorly dressed man enter with his large family.

"It cost him $1.45," Wentz said. "He probably received little more than that for a day's work. Then I thought of how many more families were paying more than they could afford for a picture show."

A few days later the oil man arranged to rent Ponca City's largest auditorium Wednesday and Friday nights, and for four years rich and poor alike have been admitted free to picture shows twice weekly.

DOUGLAS FIRS TALLEST TR EES, SAYS PHYSICIST

Washington.—(AP)—This tall tree talk has caused at least one expert to do a bit of researching.

Harry D. Tiemann, a physicist of Uncle Sam's forest products laboratory, says that the record height for trees appears to be held by the Douglas fir and not the redwood as is commonly believed.

A felled fir tree in 1900 measured 380 feet by the steel tape route. Another in British Columbia was reported to have been 417 feet high. The tallest known redwood, Tiemann says, is still standing and is believed to reach between 350 and 368 feet.

UNIVERSITY STATION ASKS LICENSE FOR TELEVISION

Iowa City.—(AP)—The only university-owned television broadcasting station in the United States is the distinction WSUT hopes to attain soon.

The station, operated by the University of Iowa, has filed petition for a permit from the federal radio commission.

University electrical experts and their student assistants have been experimenting with television here for many months, and recently conducted a television demonstration at the state fair.

SPORTS SLANTS

The old battery of Johnson and Street can't be kept apart. The first thing Walter and Gabby did on reaching Philadelphia during the world's series lull was get together in a hotel lobby and talk over the old days as well as the new.

It's their ambition some day to manage rival pennant clubs and match their stuff in a world's championship tussle. Street has now been in there two years in a row.

Johnson is on the verge of piloting an American league winner, providing he can do something about dislodging the Athletics and Yankees.

For a time this year it looked as though Johnson's Washington Senators might come through, but they are not yet up to sustaining the pace that the A's have been setting.

These two old partners have had a lot in common. They had raced setbacks and disappointments without being discouraged. Each has been at the top twice now, Johnson in 1924-25 and Street in 1930-31. Perhaps it will take another five years to bring them together for a battle of world's series wits. It will be worth waiting for.

Insight On Cobb

Johnson and Street fell to reminiscing about Ty Cobb, a mutual rival in the old days, after they had agreed that the young Cardinal outfielder, Pepper Martin, displayed many of the fiery characteristics of the great Georgian.

"I never will forget that day Cobb tore into you coming home," laughed Johnson. "You had him out 20 feet, and there was a look of pained surprise when Ty lashed into you instead of taking the put-out as most other base runners would have."

"You said, 'Hey, what's the idea?' and Ty yelled back, 'What do you think? I'm trying to knock that ball out of your hands!'"

Mickey Talks Out of Turn

It was a slurring remark about the ability of the Cardinals as base runners by Mickey Cochrane that influenced Gabby Street to turn his young base-running demon, Martin, loose in the sensational second game of the big series.

"I read some stuff in the papers where Cochrane remarked about how he would like to see some of the Cards try to fool him on the bases or words to that effect," said Gabby.

"Mickey's a good fellow, and he may not have meant it that way, but it gave me an idea. The second game's events were such that I could twice give Martin the signal to steal, at critical moments, and the youngster came through each time."

This seems to indicate another menace to the practice of player-writing or ghost-writing. Sowing ideas for the benefit of the opposition hardly comes under the heading of gainful occupation.

New Legume Builds Soil

Lillington, N. C.—(AP)—Hartnett county farmers have found an ideal builder in crotalaria, which is a new legume in this section. The legume is growing to a height of three feet on very poor sandhill soil in the county this year.

'BIG THREE' FACES HARD FIGHT TODAY

Atlanta, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The "Big Three" favorites in the struggle for the Southern Conference championship, sally forth to battle tomorrow against lesser teams to whom a victory would be the high spot of the season.

Tulane will take on the Mississippi Aggies in New Orleans in what looks to be a breather for the Greenies.

At Knoxville, Tenn., Coach Bob Neyland put Harvey Robinson, his best passer in charge of the Tennessee eleven, living a hint to the game he expects to wage against Duke. The experts, who take on a tremendous responsibility with each passing Saturday, are picking Tennessee.

Last year Florida surprised the nation with a scoreless tie with a powerful Georgia team. This season Georgia goes to Gainesville, Fla., with another good record to face the "Gator team. The experts again say Georgia should win by a good score, but they prophesied that last year.

Kentucky, one of the undefeated and tied teams in the conference, went south to play Alabama at Tuscaloosa. Vanderbilt comes to Atlanta to tackle Georgia Tech.

The University of Mississippi will open the south's intersectional bid this week-end with a game tonight against Marquette University at Milwaukee. Tomorrow Virginia will follow Mississippi lead, and go north for a tussle with Harvard at Cambridge. The Cavaliers plan to attack Harvard by the air.

An unbeaten Mercer team today was enroute to Danville, K., to battle an unbeaten Centre eleven in the feature contest of the S. I. A. A. South Carolina was the first conference team to set action this week defeating the Citadel yesterday at Orangeburg, S. C., 26 to 7. West Kentucky Teachers beat Union 12 to 0 at Jackson, Tenn., in another early game.

Today's schedule found Newberry and Presbyterian playing at Clinton, S. C.; Loyola and Detroit in an intersectional battle at Detroit; Louisiana Normal and Louisiana Tech at Ruston; Miami and Southern playing at Miami; Eastern Kentucky battling Georgetown at Georgetown; and Erskine meeting Wake Forest at Wake Forest.

FARMER-OWNED ELEVATORS IN OHIO REPORT PROFITS

Columbus, Ohio.—(AP)—Farmer-owned grain elevators in Ohio report good times despite low prices for farm products.

Of the 151 companies which submitted business accounts to B. A. Wallace, extension specialist in grain marketing at Ohio State university, 109 showed net profits for the year.

On the total capital stock of all the companies, $4,085,000, there was earned in this marketing year after deduction of all losses, $626 per $100 share.

Manchester, England.—(AP)—Hikers in England are growing so numerous that Rev. T. T. James urged the Congregational Union assembly here to provide open-air services for them at cross roads.

LOCALS LOSE TO NEW BERN

The inability to cover eligible pass receivers resulted in Greenville high school's defeat by New Bern yesterday at New Bern by the score of 32 to 0. All of New Bern's scores came through the medium of passes.

Greenville fumbled on her own 35 yard line in the first period and on the net play, Brinson shot a pass to the right end who had slipped out of the sidelines. He waded on the one yard line and Brinson bucked it over for a touch down. Twice more Greenville was caught asleep on the "sleeping end" play. The first half ended with the score 20 to nothing in favor of New Bern.

The third quarter saw the Greenville lads stopping every threat made by New Bern. Brinson, New Bern's great running back, was stopped time after time for a loss or no gain. Turnage found openings in the line for several first downs and it looked as though the scoring was over for the day as far as New Bern was concerned. In the last five minutes of play, however, New Bern completed two long passes for the last scores of the game.

The work of the whole Greenville line on defense was especially good. Brinson was held in check so long as he stayed on the ground but when he took to the air, well, it was just too bad for Greenville. The work of Wilson, playing his first game at center, and Summerville, captain for the day, was outstanding. Turnage was the tackled star for the locals, both offensively and defensively. Fleming got off several nice kicks.

For New Bern Brinson was the whole show with several of his teammates showing exceptional ability to handle his passes.

Battle Hottest In Michigan and Ohio Districts

Washington.—(AP)—The outcome of special elections November 3 to fill five congressional seats will go far toward determining which political party will control the house in the seventy-second congress, which opens in December.

The Democrats, hopeful of a successful invasion into Republican territory, are waging hard contests in the first Ohio and the eighth Michigan districts.

While the Republicans appear more confident of retaining their traditionally Republican party circles here say the outcomes are doubtful.

John B. Hollister is the Republican candidate for the seat held for more than a quarter of a century by the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth.

State Senator David Lorbach, Democratic nominee, appeared to have the edge in the contest until two Republican factions fighting over the Cincinnati city charter issue, agreed on Hollister.

Hollister and Lorbach are anti-prohibitionists. The Republican, who is the son of a prominent Ohio barrister, has been active in Cincinnati public affairs.

In the eighth Michigan district,

Michael J. Hart, Democrat of Saginaw, which has 32 per cent of the vote of the district, is believed to be running a close race with Foss C. Endred, the Republican, from Ionia.

There are six counties in this district, represented for eight years by the late Vird J. Vincent of Saginaw. There were eight candidates for the Republican nomination and Saginaw lost its man.

Endred is prominent in rural sections of the district while Hart is a well known business man.

Republican leaders say they expect no difficulty in electing their candidate, George Coits, over Charles S. Hill, Democrat, in the second Pennsylvania district, traditionally Republican.

This seat was held for many years by the late George Graham, chairman of the important judiciary committee.

The Democrats are confident the normally Democratic seats in the twelfth Ohio, Cleveland district, and the seventh New York Tammany Hill district, will remain in their columns. Already two representatives-elect to this New York seat have died since last November elections.

Republicans here believe that there is a remote possibility that William L. Padgett, their candidate, may win over Joseph Delaney, but the Democrats discount this.

Although the Republicans took the 20th Ohio district in 1920, the Democrats hold high hopes that Martin L. Sweeney will capture it from D. Hayden Perry, the Republican.

Two other vacancies created recently by the death of Representative Ernest R. Ackerman, Republican of the fifth New Jersey district and Representative Fletcher Hale, Republican, of the first New Hampshire district, also will figure in the house organization.

There is a possibility, however, that both these seats, normally Republican, will be filled before December 7 when congress convenes.

SIGNS POINT TO A HARD WINTER, SAYS FARMER

Chardon, Ohio.—(AP)—Unless all signs fall a hard winter is coming, says W. H. Miller, farmer. Here are a few of the signs he has noticed:

There is a big nut crop. Corn husks are thicker. The hogs' neck-pancakes are wider at the front end this year. Grubs and worms are burrowing deep in the soil.

The black rings around caterpillars are more numerous than usual. Gardeners use "V. Va." lots. Columbus, O.—(AP)—More than 3,500 vacant lots have been put to use in ten Ohio cities as industrial gardens to aid unemployed. V. H. Davis, of the department of horticulture of Ohio State University learned in a survey.

PINCH of BLACK-DRAUGHT after meals

"I had three spells of indigestion, one after another," writes Mr. John M. Creps, 902 Charles Ave., N. Charlotte, N. C. "I suffered a lot of pain. My back ached and I had pains in my stomach frequently. It felt like my breath was cut off in my chest. I was bothered this way for about a year. A friend asked me to try Black-Draught. I began by taking a pinch of Black-Draught after each meal and found that I soon got relief. We keep Black-Draught all the time."

LADY with a PAST

By Harriet Henry

SYNOPSIS: Suddenly left alone in Paris by the death of her mother, Venice Muir decides to make a drastic change in herself. Several seasons of unpopularity in New York have given her a keen desire to go back and prove herself a social success. She has been self-conscious at dances and tongue-tied at teas. Watching other girls, she has discovered that mystery holds a high allure for men. This knowledge aids her planning in Paris. She resolves to stay abroad for six months and return with a manufactured past. She will limit at her experiences, and her naturally reserved conversation will seem a certain for mystery. But as she asks Ronald Wainwright, who snubbed her, and surprise Drake Ramsey, who pined her. The decision makes her happy, but she has yet to work out details of her campaign.

Chapter 18

THE START OF VENICE'S PAST
Venice awakened the following morning to a benign day of warm, early summer sunshine and gentle, friendly air. Opening her eyes she knew that quick, excited feeling of something pleasant and unusual about to happen.

Of course. She was going to stay in Paris and launch herself, a gay and fascinating butterfly. After her pettish demeanor she wrote a letter to Uncle Livingston and one to Aunt Laura telling them of her decision to stay abroad for several months. She put it down to the desire for a change of scene and "more." Later with the slipping of the envelopes into a mail box she felt as if an important step in her future was definitely taken.

This sense of something about to occur was all very well, but after a week of wandering about alone, not speaking to a soul except the concierge and the maître d'hôtel at the Louise-Le-Grand, a clerk or two at the Bankers' Trust, and waiters who served her at this café or that restaurant, her heart began to sink. She began to feel herself caught in a blind alley from which no opening led to the things she wanted to achieve. When she returned to New York she wanted to be able to talk casually about Pigalle's, Florentine's, the Perquet and the Auteuil, Count So-and-So and Lord This-and-That. But how could she?

Walking slowly along the Place de l'Opéra one afternoon she mused over these unhappy thoughts. She must shake them. Passing the Café de la Paix she sat down at bit weary and half-heartedly ordered a champagne cocktail. She eyed the passing throng with forced interest. Here was life movement, colour.

Venice began to absorb it all with genuine enjoyment and to forget the slow sense of unavoidable stagnation that was creeping over her. Finally her gaze swept her companions at the neighbouring tables. On her left an English couple quite evidently included in heated word-over something that had occurred the previous night.

"My word," he exclaimed, "you are a nagger."

"That's better than being immoral," she snapped.

Venice's eyes wandered to the table at her right. A young man, shabbily but neatly dressed, vaguely debonaire, a trim, little sandy moustache, brown eyes that twinkled and a wide humorous mouth. You felt that his clothes had been very expensive once, but it was a long time ago. There were handsome links in his frayed, blue cuffs. His glance met Venice's with unexpected directness and she felt herself blushing uncomfortably.

"Parlez vous français?" he asked with such an unmistakably American accent that Venice smiled and answered, "No, not very well."

Without so much as a by-your-leave he slid over into the chair beside her.

"That's a relief. I'm tired of struggling with this appalling tongue."

"You're an American, aren't you?"

"Yes. And so are you. We were divorced the wrong way, can we?"

"What are you drinking? You must have another with me."

"A champagne cocktail?"

It all seemed quite natural and easy. Venice did not feel the least embarrassed or nervous. It was a nice, every day fellow-contryman and she knew a tremendous relief in exchanging words with some one who was not later to receive a tip from her.

"Whoops, dearie, an expensive American!"

He laughed and hailing a waiter, ordered her a cocktail and a beer for himself.

"Are you on a holiday?" she asked.

"No, I've been over here for several months. And now I'm too hard up to go home so I'm staying. I came over to take a position which they didn't hold for me. I haven't been able to get anything else."

He spoke cheerily. His dilemma didn't seem to matter much to him one way or the other.

"Hard luck," said Venice. You couldn't feel sorry for him somehow.

"But Paris is a grand town. Who cares about being exiled in Paradise?"

"I love it too. There's something—well, you can't put your finger on it, but there's a fascination, an allure about Paris. It's like wine in your veins. O, you've taught the glow of it you're slightly intoxicated."

"Neely put. You're a bit of a girl."

"Oh, no."

"Are you over on your own?"

"Yes."

"What are you going to do with yourself?"

"Everything."

"That sounds sweeping and exciting. Another cocktail?"

"Are you going to have another beer?"

"Of course."

"The people passing. Couldn't you watch them forever?" Venice made a comprehensive gesture towards the street. They lapsed into silence watching the parade.

Venice looked at her wrist watch. "It's almost seven. I must go," she said.

"What for? You should never hurry in indolent Paris."

"It doesn't quite it, does it? But I must."

"Garçon," he called. Then he turned towards her with a smile that lit up his entire face and positively charmed the cockles of her heart. "Look here, could you pay for this binge? And I had two beers at my table. I'm stony broke."

Venice laughed. You couldn't resist him.

"Is that why you spoke to me?"

"Primarily. But I'm glad I did anyway. You're a nice girl."

She handed him fifty francs.

"What a minute," she said excitedly. "Let's have another each. There's something I want to talk to you about. Her face was vivid with an unexpected idea."

(Copyright, Harriet Henry)

The idea led Venice to Giro's, on Monday, where she meets a marquis.

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

N. Y. STOCK LIST

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 8 to 10 points on relatively higher Liverpool cables and buying by the trade. Profit taking later in the day with evidence of some southern selling.

Hedging increased moderately during the first half hour of trading, and there was also some profit taking on the bulge. Brokers who some times are credited with operating on the co-operators were sellers, but the undertone of the market was fairly steady in the early trading.

At the end of the first half hour the market was about 5 to 5 1/2 points higher, December having sold off from 6.72 to 6.68. Liverpool cables proved to be easier sterling exchange and good trade calling. Manchester was quiet with some light trading. Cotton on shipboard waiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 198,000 bales against 207,000 bales last year and 225,000 two years ago.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Breadstuffs soared skyward anew today in a storm of buying, and flew above the season's top price record both for wheat and rye. The fresh buoyancy carried the wheat market to a point 37 per cent higher than quotations of less than one month ago. Purchasers based their operations mainly on prospects that owing to Russia's difficulties in fulfilling export grain contracts and with the potato and rice crops of the world short demand would be imperative for larger overseas shipments from the United States.

After a maximum jump of about 21-2 cents a bushel, wheat closed unsettled, 13-8 to 17-8 higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-2 to 1 up; oats 1-4 to 7-8 advance and provisions varying from 2 decline to 3 gain.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The security markets ended October today with a firm undertone, although late profit taking in shares reduced the gains, and some of the rails sank below the closing levels of the previous session.

Trading in shares was lively at times during the two-hour session, and the turnover was around three quarters of a million shares. Trading in bonds was quiet, although the trend was distinctly upward.

Buying of the oils was a feature of the share market, and farm implements came up, along with further strength in the wheat market. Gains in steels were narrow, but week-end steel trade surveys were optimistic.

Gains in shares ranged from fractions to 2 points, with a few issues showing losses of like extent. The general level, however, was some 13 points above the bear market low reached early in the month, and only 3 to 4 points under the peak of the recovery reached a week ago today.

Profit taking in the rails presumably resulted from somewhat more sober consideration of the prospect of wage reductions. While several carriers are understood to be negotiating with the employees for a voluntary and temporary reduction, there is a persistent report that employees may specify that the reduction will be on a loan basis, to be repaid when freight traffic picks up.

Shares closing up a point or two included American Tobacco B. Amer. Can. American Water Works. Eastman, Standard of N. J., Shell Union preferred, Houston Oil, Sears Roebuck, Lumber, Wrigley, International Harvester, Case, and Lewis. Union Pacific lost more than 2 points and issues off about 1 included Santa Fe, New Haven and Pennsylvania.

Reports from the steel trade again mentioned somewhat better inquiry from the automobile makers and the railroads, and good inquiry for structural materials.

tract be unaffected.
The note specified that this country was in no way prejudicing its position at the February general disarmament conference.

"The government of the United States hopes that by a unanimous acceptance of this true atmosphere of confidence will be created which will prevent completion in armaments and prepare the ground for the successful conclusion of the general disarmament conference," the State Department said.

Approval was secured from both the Navy and War departments.

Geneva, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Hopes for realization of an armament truce beginning November 1 revived today with receipt of the adherence of the United States bringing the number of nations which have returned affirmative replies to twelve.

These are: The United States, Japan, Russia, Hungary, Australia, New Zealand, Czechoslovakia, Egypt, Albania, Latvia and Luxembourg.

France and Switzerland also are known to have agreed unofficially to the truce. The replies of Italy and Germany have not yet been received but it is assumed that they, as initiator and hearty supporter respectively of the holiday, will join.

GRAND JURY RECOMMENDS INDICTMENT OF THE NORTH CAROLINA CORP. COMMISSION was corruption in the courts and said "judges and juries are sold like sacks of corn."

The investigation was then ordered.

In reporting it found no evidence of corruption in the courts the grand jury said:
"This jury recognizes fully the fact that our judges, solicitors and jurymen are human and therefore liable at times to make mistakes and err in judgment, but we have found absolutely no evidence of any intentional wrongdoing or corrupt practices in this county by these holding the above-mentioned most responsible positions."

Raleigh, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Judge George P. Pell, member of the State Corporation Commission, said this afternoon that the commission "probably" will issue a statement in regard to the finding of a Buncombe county grand jury today.

W. T. Lee, not in the city today, Judge Pell said he would have nothing to say until he had communicated with all members of the commission.

John Mitchell, former chief state bank examiner, informed here today that the Buncombe county grand jury had recommended his indictment on a charge of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance in office, declined to comment.

"I wouldn't like to make a statement without knowing more about it and having a chance to think it over," he said.

The car, a sedan painted maroon or dark brown, was said to have been operated by a negro, who was accompanied by several other persons. The machine was described as old, carrying a spare tire rim.

also developed spots as a Halloween adjunct and began parties and pranks.

In the fourth century after Christ the church decided upon an all Saint's day in which to honor Cleric Martin. Pope Gregory IV in 835 moved the date to November 1 and made observance compulsory. All Hallows hence gave its name to Halloween—hallowe'en.

Time modified the more religious aspects and merry-making increased. Early settlers in America gave scant attention to Halloween but descendants in the last 100 years have turned it to full blast and made it a day for pranks.

SERVICES WILL BEGIN SUNDAY
In addition to the preaching of Dr. Gasque the services will have as a special feature the singing of Mr. Charles Tillman, the well known song writer and singer. Several years ago Mr. Tillman directed the singing at a meeting held in Greenville at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. He will be remembered affectionately by many citizens of Greenville who learned to love him at that time and who still speak of him as "Brother Charlie." He is a very dear friend of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rose and other music lovers of this section.

SCENE OF TWO TRUNK MURDERS

It was in this bungalow in Phoenix, Ariz., that Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Leroi were murdered and their bodies shipped in trunks to Los Angeles. Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, roommate of the victims, told authorities she killed the women in self-defense. Curious passersby are shown examining the rear stoop of the murder cottage.

GRID COACH IS KILLED

Ray Perdue Dies After Being Struck by Official in Game at Statesville.

Taylorsville, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Ray R. Perdue, 24, coach of the Statesville high school football team, was fatally injured here yesterday when struck a single blow with the fist by Garfield Jennings, 22, of Taylorsville, headlinesman in a game between Taylorsville and Statesville.

The coach was calling from the sidelines to the referee at the time and Jennings, witnesses said, passed a few indistinct remarks with him and then struck the blow.

Perdue fell to the ground unconscious. He was placed in an ambulance and rushed to the Davis hospital in Statesville, but died before the arrival there.

Jennings was arrested by Sheriff J. B. Robinett and placed in jail, but was later released under $5,000 bond. Arrangements were completed today to give him a hearing on a charge of manslaughter here November 7. The hearing will be before Justice of the Peace H. C. Payne.

The Statesville club was leading 7 to 0 when Perdue called. After his injury the game was called off.

Sheriff Robinett quoted Jennings as saying he had not intended to injure Perdue, but was angry at the remarks of the Statesville coach. The sheriff said he did not know the substance of the remarks.

No inquest was deemed necessary since there were several witnesses to the encounter. Corner A. M. Edwards pointed out that the body was removed from Alexander county and hence he had no jurisdiction in the matter.

Statesville, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Members of the Statesville high school football team, shocked by the death of their coach Ray Perdue, today cancelled the remaining games on their schedule and made plans to attend Perdue's funeral at Roanoke, Va., tomorrow in a body.

W. R. Kirkman, principal of the high school, will attend with the team.

The suit was filed by Dr. Cyr in his capacity as lieutenant-governor. At the time, Governor Long said Cyr's action vacated him as lieutenant-governor and he recognized Senator Alvin O. King, president pro-tem of the Senate, as lieutenant-governor.

Today Senator King was paid the salary of the lieutenant-governor on a ruling handed down by Attorney General Percy Saint.

AC RADIO OPERATED FROM AUTO BATTERY WITH NEW DEVICE

San Francisco—(AP)—A converter to change the direct current of a storage battery into alternating current for the powering of radio sets in automobiles has just been demonstrated here.

The device, invented by F. F. Hutchinson, is declared to overcome the big factor which has hitherto operated against running alternating current radio receivers in autos—the severe drain on the battery due to loss of power in conversion.

Consisting of a small motor connected to a commutator, the device eliminates B. batteries, suppressors and filters and is declared to step up the voltage of an auto battery from the customary six to above 110 volts with a battery drain of only eight amperes.

For airplane radio, the invention is claimed to do away with the necessity of wind-driven motors.

Some Will Agree—Others Won't
Austin, Tex.—Need of exercise is no excuse for a Methodist pastor playing golf, in the eyes of Bishop Sam R. Hy. "If you want some exercise get out and visit your congregation or go chop some wood," he says. "don't spend your time dilly-dallying among useless things."
