BIG SLASH IN EXPENSES OF GOVERNMENT

Nation to Have $350,000,000 Less To Spend This Year Than Expected.

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Executive departments of the government will have at least $350,000,000 less to spend during the next fiscal year than they had expected.

It was the administration's partial answer to the problem presented by a steadily mounting treasury deficit and decreased revenues.

The 1932 budget called for $3,932,642,411. The Chief Executive's estimate places the figures which will be sent to the coming congress at $3,582,642,411.

Unless golden rains somewhere up the river of prosperity fill the treasury reservoirs, there is little likelihood the $350,000,000 will wash away the deficit which has accumulated this year.

It has grown to more than $661,000,000 with only a third of the fiscal year over. At its present rate of expansion, it would be close to $2,000,000,000 before July 1, 1932.

In addition, there is the $903,000,000 on the wrong side of the treasury ledger from the last fiscal year, a heritage from expenditures of $4,320,000,000 and receipts of only $3,417,000,000.

In studying taxation questions, the administration has considered the possibility of a modified sales tax, revision of income taxes and other possible revenue raising means.

There were no details of the $350,000,000 mentioned in the president's statement.

Greigh, Nov. 7.—(AP)—In a address urging the people of North Carolina to support the American Red Cross, R. W. Heninger, executive secretary of the governor's council on unemployment relief, said the Red Cross and the council would work hand in hand in North Carolina this week.

He added that in many respects North Carolina was better off than many other states, but insisted that the general public must be prepared to spend normally and given more liberally than in the past.

COURT ENDS SITTING HERE

Over Sixty Cases Completed During One Week Term of Criminal Court.

After disposing of seventy-odd cases the one-week term of criminal court was adjourned by Judge M. A. Sinclair, of Fayetteville, late yesterday afternoon.

With a docket containing over a hundred cases, the court practically cleared all jail cases in addition to disposing of a considerable number of actions which had been hanging fire for sometime.

It was the last session of criminal court to be held in this city until January and every effort was made to dispose of the most pressing cases.

Judge Sinclair during the closing sessions passed sentence on several defendants given hearing during the earlier part of the week, and quite a number found their way to the roads for periods ranging all the way from six months to two years.

J. O. Manning, of the Bethel community, charged with stealing a cow, was sentenced to one year on the roads. Dock Moore, colored, held in connection with the same case, was given six months.

A third party, Pearl Whitehurst, held in connection with the charge had judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

John Prayor was sentenced to the roads for six months for larceny.

Milton Cox, colored, drew six months for carrying a concealed weapon.

Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers; Paul Green, Pulitzer playwright prize winner; Miss Catherine Albertson, St. Mary's School; D. B. Fearing, R. B. Captive Child Released From Dark Closet

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Thirteen year old Edith Riley is free from a windowless closet prison in her parent's home for the first time in four years.

When removed yesterday by police she weighed 38 pounds.

Her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Lester N. Riley are charged with cruelty. They were arrested and released in bonds of $1,000 each.

The child, said by doctors to be five years old in physical development, is in a hospital where she is being fed.

When policewoman Ruby G. Brandt searched the Riley home she said she found Edith crouched on the floor of a dark closet amid filth. When removed to lighter quarters, the child could see with difficulty and was barely articulate.

She had been fed little but liquid foods and was clad only in a shirtlike garment.

The father's only reply to police questioning was that the child had bad habits and had to be locked up. He is 49 years old and is a plasterer.

When the emaciated child was removed to a hospital she was examined by physicians who prescribed solid food. Edith at a large meal of meat, vegetables and eggs which she seemed to enjoy.

Death of Caraway Gives G. O. P. Senate Control NOT PREPARED TO ACT AS YET

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Fate, which for months has disturbed the alignment of Congress, seems to have settled at last upon Republican control of the Senate and Democratic organization of the House.

The death last night of a Democratic Senator, Thaddeus H. Caraway of Arkansas, restored the Republican plurality of one which was lost by the recent death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey.

With a Republican likely to be appointed to fill the New Jersey vacancy before Congress convenes a month from today and a special election necessary after the first of the year in Arkansas, the Republicans will hold a two vote sway over the Democrats unless further deaths of illness intervene. TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Jack Moyer and Allan Osborne Painfully Hurt When Car Goes Through Fence.

Jack Moyer and Allan Osborne, local tobaccoists, were painfully injured when the automobile in which they were riding left the road and plunged into a fence on the Greenville - Washington highway, about three miles from Grimesland last night.

They were rushed to the Pitt Community Hospital for medical attention. Their condition today was described as painful but not serious. Osborne received a severe scalp wound and Moyer suffered mostly from bruises and shock.

Highway patrolmen who investigated the accident said that Moyer evidently lost control of the car while returning to Greenville. The machine plunged across the highway and then back again before crashing into a fence several yards from the roadside.

Brummitt Tells Of Two Sources For More Taxes

Durham, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Tobacco manufacturers and bottlers of North Carolina are not carrying their proportionate share of the state's tax burden, Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt told North Carolina county school superintendents at their meeting here.

The attorney general, who has just withdrawn his name from consideration for the governorship, also predicted a deficit in the state treasury of approximately $8,000,000 at the end of the present biennium.

State Senator John W. Hinsdale, sales tax champion in the last legislature, told the educators this plan was a direct answer to the need cited by Mr. Brummitt.

The attorney general also told the superintendents that they should watch the next legislature and see to it that the state school laws is revamped.

Other speakers were Dr. John H. Cook, president of the State Educational Association and Dr. Edwin Mims, of Vanderbilt University. Approximately 1,000 attended the meeting.

Broken Glass in Car Saves Life

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The broken glass Joe Edwards, 23, had planned to have replaced in the rear window of his automobile before winter set in has saved his life.

Edwards, who lives at Everett's Cross Roads, was driving his machine across Cherry's creek near here yesterday when it plunged through the railing into 12 feet of water.

Edwards escaped through the broken window. He was not injured.

Harvard President

A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university, put at rest rumors when he authorized statement that he has "no intention of resigning at the end of the current year." He is 74 and has been president since 1909.

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The American government is not yet ready to indicate whether it would join in a "diplomatic boycott" against Japan if that country should continue its occupation of Chinese territory in Manchuria.

This fact became public today after Secretary Stimson had conferred with President Hoover. On leaving the White House he said the Manchurian situation and other matters had been discussed.

It developed, too, that President Hoover is keeping all the cabinet informed on the status of the situation in Manchuria.

Official observers of the controversy believe withdrawal of diplomatic representatives from Japan by all important nations would be a step toward a settlement.

Japan is proud of its relations with the great powers of the western world and probably would feel the moral force of such a move almost as much as a practical boycott on its economic goods.

American officials hope Japan will yield to the urgings of many countries, including the United States, and make actual pressure unnecessary.

If the diplomatic withdrawal should be undertaken and fail to save the desired result, the next step to consider would be economic boycott. The United States holds the key to any such move as this country and China are the principal commercial customers of Japan.

China already is boycotting Japanese goods with a marked effect upon Nippon's trade.

Geneva, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Pressure of economic and diplomatic boycotts against Japan by the rest of the world's powers who are members of the League was under consideration today as a possible next move in the effort to settle the Sino-Japanese conflict in Manchuria.

The legal section of the League secretariat is engaged in a study of Article 15 of the League covenant to determine whether member nations can be asked to recall their ambassadors and ministers from Tokyo if Japan continues to reject arbitration measures when the council meets again November 16.

The examination also was understood to embrace the question of (Continued on Page Six)

Dino Grandi on Way to America

Naples, Italy, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, sailed for New York today expressing the hope that his visit to President Hoover will assist his country's determination to play a useful part in world recovery.

"I'm glad to be going back to America," he said shortly before the ship pulled out. "It's a great country and I never have forgotten the trip I made there five years ago."

He referred to the occasion in 1926 when he went to Washington as undersecretary for foreign affairs to assist in a debt settlement. That was the first time he met President Hoover and many of the other American leaders whom he will see again.

He mentioned particularly his hope that he will be able to renew his acquaintance with United States Senator William E. Borah "for whose intelligence I have the highest respect."

"I am going this time as my country's ambassador," he said, "but also as an Italian to interpret to the American people the real friendship we have for them."

Signor Grandi, making her first trip across the Atlantic, and an official staff of five men accompanied Grandi.

At the front door, Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. N. O. Warren welcomed the guests and introduced them to the receiving line, which was formed in the living room. In the receiving line were Mrs. McGeachy, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. R. S. McClelland of Wilmington, Mrs. Marvin Sugg, a recent bride, and Mrs. J. P. Parrott of Kinston. Mrs. C. W. MRS. HOBGOOD GUEST OF WOMAN'S CLUB

A most interesting meeting was the one held by the Woman's Club on Thursday afternoon. The club home was beautifully decorated with fall flowers, a color scheme of green and gold being carried out.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. S. M. Crisp. Matters of business were quickly disposed of and the regular program begun. Miss Jesse McCre and Mrs. Knott Proctor entertained the audience with lovely solos.

The president, in an unusual and attractive manner, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Crisp likened the journeys of Mrs. Hobgood across the state from east to west and from north to south to that of the journeys of Queen Elizabeth during the Elizabethan period. "The queen was made much of and so had been our Mrs. Hobgood," said Mrs. Crisp.

Mrs. Hobgood spoke in a most interesting way of the great aims and principles of the State Federation of Women's Clubs in North Carolina. The program as outlined was big. It was magnanimous as well. "Not only must we during this critical economic period keep up the regular program as heretofore carried forward, but we must also pay special attention to those unfortunate, our friends and brothers in need," said Mrs. Hobgood. Mrs. Hobgood spoke as one knowing the work of the N. C. F. W. clubs and as one having her heart and soul in the great principles of the federation.

Following the regular program, an informal tea was given in the Salle Southall Cotten drawing room. Mrs. R. L. Smith and Miss Ward Moore poured tea. Mesdames Walter Harrington, George Hadley and Durwood Tucker served sandwiches.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved daughter and sister, Estelle Barrow, who departed this life 10 months ago today, February 9, 1930. A precious one from us is gone. A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled.

How we miss our darling daughter, No one but God can tell; We miss her precious footsteps, Her smiling face as well.

Called in the bloom of childhood, Just in the prime of life, Away from the world of sorrow To the land where all is bright.

The golden gates were open, A gentle voice said "Come," And with farewells unspoken She calmly entered home.

We'll no more hear her footsteps, Nor meet her at the door; She has gone away and left us, Never to return any more.

Why she was taken from us, We cannot understand; But God needed a shining angel, To complete His holy band.

And now that our circle is broken, And parting filled us with pain, We hold a glorious token, The bright hope of meeting again.

Softly at night the stars are gleaming, Upon the lovely grave, Where sleeping without dreaming, Lies the one we love but could not save.

In our hearts your memory lingers, Loving, kind and true; There is not a day, dear Estelle, That we do not think of you.

They say time heals a broken heart, But, oh, it seems untrue, For one long year our hearts have ached, Dear Estelle just for you.

Gone but not forgotten, her loving Father, Mother, Brother and Sister.

DON COSSACK RUSSIAN CHORUS HERE NOV. 17th

The Don Cossack Russian Chorus "The Singing Horsemen of the Steppes," who will give a concert at East Carolina Teachers College on the evening of Nov. 17, have begun their coast to coast tour of 100 concerts in America and Canada and the tour seems to be turning into a triumphal march. Wherever they have sung they have created a sensation by their marvelous singing.

The program is in three parts, religious numbers, folk songs and soldier songs. They range from the loveliest delicate, haunting folk melodies, and beautiful Russian hymns, to stirring soldier songs interspersed with the shouts of Cossacks on the march. Their voices are of all kinds, from the deepest bass that descends to sepulchral depths to tenors with a falsetto that imitates the soprano voice.

These men served in Wrangle's White army in the Crimea and after defeat were sent to a prison camp near Constantinople. A young lieutenant, Serge Jaroff, who was a choir director, noticed the excellent singing around the campfire. He selected the best voices and formed a chorus, the nucleus of this chorus that is now considered one of the best in the world. Through prison camp life and exile they have kept together, singing first for their own pleasure, then in a small Russian embassy church in Sofia. They added secular songs to their programs and began giving concerts. In six years they gave far more than a 1,000 concerts throughout Europe and Australia.

Last year was their first visit to America and this year is their first extensive tour in this country.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH HAS LARGE DELEGATION AT CONVENTION

The Eighth Street Christian Church had a representation of nearly sixty members attending the state convention of that denomination held in New Bern during the past week. This was one of the most successful conventions ever held by this group in North Carolina. Important changes were made in various departments of the denomination. Among these were ruling planned to appreciably raise the standards of equipments for ministers applying for ordination within the jurisdiction of North Carolina state organizations; changes in the requirements for membership on the board of trustees of Atlantic Christian College, making it possible for the present board to elect three members from other religious bodies to serve as trustees. This action assures to the college a broader basis for fellowship and co-operation with other religious groups, and should appreciably enlarge its field of service. A ten-year expansion program presented by the president, Judge Guy Elliott of Kinston, was adopted. The total attendance was about six hundred. Next year the convention will meet in Winston-Salem in the Fourth Street Christian Church.

Indict Caldwell For Attempt To Beat Income Tax

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 7.—(AP)—A United States grand jury has indicted Meredith Caldwell, Nashville capitalist, on a charge of attempting to evade payment of $8,945.34 in taxes on his 1929 income.

Caldwell was arrested on the charge September 1 but made $2,500 bond ending grand jury action. Return of the indictment against him was made yesterday.

Assistant United States District Attorney W. Poe Maddox said Caldwell swore in his tax return that from a gross income of $619,947, he realized a net income of $54,088 on which a 2.366 tax was paid. The grand jurors charged from a gross income of that amount Caldwell had a net income of $96,696.

Meredith Caldwell is a brother of Ross Caldwell, investment banker under both state and federal indictments on charges that arose from operation of Caldwell and Company and the Bank of Tennessee here.

DEATH OF CARAWAY GIVES G. O. P. SENATE CONTROL

Although news of Senator Caraway's death was followed by expectation in the capital that a Democratic successor would be appointed immediately, Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, upset this calculation. At his home in Arkansas, Robinson said a special election would be necessary within not less than 60 days nor more than 120 days. Had Caraway lived two more days the seat could have been filled by a governor's appointment. The Republicans with 214 seats to 217 for their opponents face being in the minority for the first time since 1918. There vacancies exist, with the Democrats confident of winning at least one of these seats.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY

Generally fair although some probability of showers over north portion about Thursday, warmer Monday and mild temperature thereafter, except cooler at end of week.

SEN. CARAWAY DIES SUDDENLY IN ARKANSAS

His career was marked by hot disputes and stormy crusades, the latest of which involved a spectacular attack upon President Hoover's economic relief program. Caraway wished it liberalized and with Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, organized a fight to that end.

ABOUT TOWN

Building activities throughout southern states are doing much toward relieving depression which has been sweeping across the world the last two years.

A sum estimated at $250,000,000 is to be spent for road building and other public improvements and thousands of men who were unable to find jobs during the summer months are down at work now.

If the major part of idleness were eliminated in this nation the depression which everybody has been deploring would soon vanish. In fact, the lack of work has been one of the main causes of the depressed times, and if it could be entirely eliminated this would be one of the happiest and most contented nations on earth.

With mills and other industries taking on men every day in various parts of the country it ought not be long now before conditions improve and the public is able to get a view of the corner Mr. Hoover has been talking about for so long.

Stick to the live-at-home program and rest assured the present situation will right itself, was the advice which Governor O. Max Gardner imparted to the several thousands of people at the Faison Thanksgiving celebration yesterday. The present dilemma cannot be met by temporary planning, the governor said, but by permanent measures over a long period of years.

As one of the principal exponents of the live-at-home movement in this state, Governor Gardner told the Duplin county people to continue producing the things they consume at home and that they would eventually find their way out of the economic quandary.

The advice is good and if followed should be instrumental in the restoration of the prosperity enjoyed before the grim spectre of depression with its accompanying poverty and want swept over the land.

Gipsy Smith, one of the most noted defenders of the Bible in the country, will begin a series of revival services here next week as well as delivering the Armistice Day address before members of the Pitt County Post of American Legion.

The services will be held at Immanuel Baptist church, and members of the congregation have already made extensive preparations for the coming of the distinguished divine.

The first of the services will be held Sunday night, and while Mr. Smith will not reach the city until Tuesday the first two sermons will be delivered by Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church.

Through a series of cottage prayer services Immanuel Baptist have been preparing for the religious revival, and hope has been expressed that everybody will make it a point to attend.

The six-month grand jury which completed its work here Thursday asked the people to co-operate with the Department of Health in attempting to prevent the spread of scarlet fever in the sections of the county where it has been reported.

Although the health workers are doing everything in their power to improve the situation and hold the fever to the areas where it originated at lot of its effort will be futile unless the public helps.

By observing quarantine regulations and by keeping children with sore throats out of schools, parents can play an important role in the fight against an epidemic.

The health office has sent out numerous warning regarding the prevalence of scarlet fever, and it is hoped the public will regard them seriously and help in the fight in behalf of health conditions.

By the raising of chickens and fogs Pitt county farmers are doing their best to offset the hard times they have been experiencing as result of low prices for cotton and tobacco.

This paper recently carried a story dealing with this line of industry, and it was gratifying to note that some of the most influential growers of the county were taking the lead in the raising of chickens, hogs and cows.

Extra money crops and the raising of the things used at home are going to prove invaluable assets in the future life of the community and growers who have not been giving the matter consideration should get busy and do so immediately.

The planting of trees along the Falkland highway from this city to Bruce as a memorial to the late

Mrs. Sally Southall Cotten is a very commendable undertaking and the members of the Woman's Club and other organizations engaged in the movement are to be congratulated upon the activity.

Mrs. Cotten was one of the most beloved women of the community. Through her activities in club life she endeared herself to people throughout this and other states. She also did much to improve the life of this community, and it is only fitting that the memorial highway should be set aside to keep her memory ever fresh in the minds and hearts of the people she served so lovingly.

LADY with a PAST

By Harriet Henry

SYNOPSIS: An invitation to Mrs. Coates' villa at Biarritz gives Venice Muir further scope in her campaign for popularity. She is creating for herself the reputation of dazzling social success in Europe with which to return home and win a New York that has considered her a social liability. Guy Bryson has helped launch her in Paris. Now Rene de Thenardier is pursuing her. Mrs. Coates has invited Rene in the hope of interesting him in her niece, Rosemary. Venice cares for Rene only as a symbol of her success, and wants him to marry Rosemary.

Chapter 24
A WINDOW OVER THE SEA

Venice had one serious discussion with Rene about Rosemary. They sat on the grass outside the villa one golden afternoon watching the sea and, hatless, letting an impertinent little breeze play with their hair.

"She's the best-natured girl I ever met," said Venice.

Rene shrugged and raised his hands with a delicate kind of horror.

"But no grace, no aplomb." "But such a sense of humor." "So has a rsmonger." "That's the unkind. Rene. And she likes you."

"So does the femme de chambre." "But the femme de chambre is not eligible."

"Neither is Rosemary." "What do you mean?" She's simple and jolly and rich. What more do you want, Rene?"

"Charm."

"Charm won't comfort you when you're ill or if you're lonely hours." Why was she taking such pains over Rosemary's future, Venice wondered. Because she liked her, of course, and because obviously Rosemary was bovine enough to fit into any marriage of convenience. And as far as Rene's was concerned surely one match for money was as good as another.

"C'est vrai," he admitted. "But charm is a—what do you say—a stop gap for the hours of monotony that marriage is bound to bring." Venice sighed. This was proving difficult.

"I think you're stupid," she protested. "You would love to have money and here it is for you on a silver platter."

"No," said Rene. "It is on a pugy and, I do not like fat."

He shrugged with real aversion. Venice rose and brushed the grass from her skirt. "Of course I've been impertinent. It's not my business anyway."

"Don't go," he caught her hand and tried to detain her. "I want to tell you something, Venice."

"Is it nice?"

"Very."

"Then save it, please, Rene. I promised Mrs. Coates I'd be ready at four to drive to St. Jean with her."

Somewhat sullenly he followed her to the villa. Mrs. Coates was sitting in the Rolls impatiently. This was impossible. Venice with Rene! All afternoon, Rosemary upstairs asleep, she slept too much anyway, and Guy writing letters.

"I'm sorry," cried Venice, "to have kept you waiting. It was lovely in the sun."

"It was divine," said Rene. Mrs. Coates looked disgusted.

"Do you want to come with us?" she asked.

"Please."

The three of them drove to St. Jean-deLuz. When they returned to the villa there was a letter on the hall table for Rene. He took it with noticeable eagerness and disappeared. Later at dinner he Venice watching him wondered who the letter was from and ate little it could have held. Rene's face was strained and there were shadows under his eyes as though he had suffered in the last hour. She noted that Guy watched him too. She had heard the two men talking after Rene had gone upstairs with the letter and she surmised that Guy knew what it contained.

There were no plans for the evening and Guy, Rosemary and Mrs. Coates went out on the veranda. With their going Venice looked about for Rene. He must be left alone with that stricken look in his eyes. She went slowly upstairs, determined to knock at his door and ask him to join the others. It was unnecessary.

Rene sat in a bay window of the hall jutting out over the sea. One elbow on the sill, his chin rested in the cup of his hand. His face was turned away towards the water.

"Rene," she said softly.

He turned. "Ah, Venice, it is you. Come and sit down."

He moved over and she settled on the broadened seat beside him.

"You're sad," she said. "What is it, Rene? Can I help you?"

"Not sad. Serious this evening. Will you do me the honour to marry me, Venice?"

She had never felt so painfully embarrassed in her life. His tone was inexplicable; desperate, soft, gentle yet devoid of any passion whatsoever. She was anxious to know whether her answer would hurt him or not. She remembered his desire for American money and yet there was something pregnant with meaning in his face. Was it feeling for her? Or that letter? Were they connected? Perhaps his apparent distress during dinner was preparing for this. She laid a hand on his that tensely gripped his knee.

"I can't Rene."

"Why?"

"I don't love you that way."

"I could teach you."

"No. I'm not like that. I must love."

"Please. Mon Dieu!"

It was as though he was drowning. She felt herself suffocating with a situation that she could not fathom. She remembered Guy warning her. There was a married woman somewhere.

"No," she said, getting up, longingly to flee from the tenseness of this scene of which she was not really a part. "It's impossible, Rene. She pressed his hand to cast her words of any harshness they might hold and started down the hall.

She did not look back. She dreaded seeing those new shadows under his eyes and the new desperation in his face. Did he love her? Could Guy be wrong?

She heard a curious scuffling noise, the noise of something knocking the sill. She turned suddenly. He was nowhere about. She knew, before she had run back to the window, that he had jumped out but she had to make sure. Her heart was pounding. He lay on some jagged little rocks below and as she gave a quick glance his body rolled into the sea.

"Guv," she shrieked. "Mrs. Coates."

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 1 to 2 points on southern selling on realizing, but offerings were absorbed by trade buying and buying from the west.

Buying became slightly more active after the opening and prices worked about 5 to 6 points net higher, with December around 6.73 and March 6.95, at the end of the first half hour.

The advance appeared to be meeting considerable realizing, or evening in preparation for the government crop report on Monday, but trade continued moderately active with the undertone steady.

Brokers credited with acting for the co-operative interests were reported sellers here again this morning.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 178,000 bales against 171,000 last year.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Rye outdid all other grains today, soaring almost 4 cents a bushel on assertions that Germany had bought all the rye available in European continental ports. It was furthermore announced that Germany had purchased big quantities of Canadian rye, and that Russian rye quotations had jumped 10 cents a bushel this week.

It was a drawn battle in the other grains today, prices finishing almost the same as yesterday after tempestuous fluctuations, and augmented volume of trading.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Bull forces launched the most aggressive drive in several months in today's stock market, boosting shares 1 to more than 5 points to new highs for the autumn recovery.

Estimate of a sharp increase in steel mill output in the Youngstown area next week, and indications of early acceleration of production by some of the leading automobile makers, together with firming gasoline prices, added fuel to speculative fires. The movement began in the oil shares, but soon spread along a broad front. Shorts were mercilessly pressed to cover.

The wheat markets stubborn resistance to the pressure of profit taking sales and continued demand for high grade bonds gave Wall Street renewed courage. Several brokers noted increasing public participation in the share market, as odd lot transactions swelled in volume.

Professional operators were busy, and Wall Street was buzzing with rumors and reports of pool manipulations. Some conservative brokers again expressed apprehension lest the market be getting out of hand, and the technical position weakened. Nevertheless, others pointed to the improved business sentiment in many sections of the country, and brightened prospects for a good volume of holiday trade, as giving a real basis for the movement.

Bulls had to contend with a large volume of week-end profit taking, but it was persistently absorbed in heavy trading. The turnover of about two million shares was the largest for a Saturday in nearly two months and the largest Saturday for a rising market in several months.

Foreign exchanges were mixed. The Mexican dollar was again strong in sympathy with silver but the Shanghai tael, also based on silver, sagged. Sterling cables at $3.80-1.2 were off a cent. The French franc stiffened, after its recent sag. German and Dutch currencies were off a little.

FIRE DESTROYS PACKHOUSE AND STABLES NEAR CITY

A combination packhouse and stables belonging to V. C. Fleming, on the Greenville-Bethel highway, about a mile from the city, was completely destroyed by fire last night about 12 o'clock along with 206 bales of hay and four barns of tobacco.

Two mules were confined in the stables and one was killed and another seriously injured by an automobile when they dashed out of the burning building.

The origin of the blaze had not been determined today. Loss was estimated at approximately $4,000. The building was insured, but the contents were a complete loss.

The fire department responded to the alarm, but the building was so far gone when it arrived that the firemen confined their attention to nearby buildings. The Standard Oil Station, located only a short distance away, was slightly damaged.

AMERICA CONSIDERS PROPOSED JAPANESE BOYCOTT

As the program stood today, another effort will be made to induce Japan to adopt a more conciliatory attitude toward China and if that fails the council will probably call for members to recall their envoys. This request probably would also go to signatories of the Kellogg Pact, which would include the United States.

If Japan remained unbending still, the plans call for consideration of ways and means of enforcing an economic boycott.

The League is counting on the United States to cooperate in these steps and the whole course is predicated on the condition that the Japanese army continues its activities in Manchuria. Far Eastern experts believe Japanese moderates are doing their best to curb the power of the military elements.

In the meantime, M. Briand is said to be doing his best to convince M. Koshizawa, Japanese Ambassador at Paris, that Japan must return the salt tax revenues China complains have been seized in Manchuria and discontinue setting up puppet governments there, which has been reported to international circles.
