Peacock Claims Contact With Men In Baby Probe

SAYS CURTIS WAS JUSTIFIED

Norfolk Minister, In Copyrighted Interview, Says He Was Convinced Men He Met in N. Y. Hotel Were Gangsters and Broke Off Negotiations; Upholds Curtis; 'Would Do Same Thing Over Again,' Says.

Ottawa, Canada, May 23.—(AP)—The statement that he himself was in contact with mysterious personages who asked for ransom for the Lindbergh baby, is made by Dean H. Dobson Peacock of Norfolk, Va., in a copyrighted interview published today by the Southern Newspapers of Canada.

Dean Peacock says he met "three tough-looking customers" at a New York hotel in response to mysterious telephone calls, and they demanded ransom, but he broke off the negotiations after he became convinced the men were "racketeers."

The interview, given to C. O. Smith, Washington correspondent of the Southern papers, says John Hughes Curtis' conduct throughout the whole negotiations was so convincing that "I would do the same thing again if a similar occasion arose tomorrow."

Curtis has confessed that the whole thing was a hoax, and that none of the mysterious persons and places described by the Norfolk negotiator existed except in imagination.

Dean Peacock, who formerly preached in Canada, said Curtis brought him into the case by relating how a man who "had been befriended by him in a bootlegging case" wanted an intermediary to get in touch with Colonel Lindbergh.

Curtis declared he would not act alone, and asked me to cooperate with him," said Peacock. Admiral Burrage having also been brought into the negotiations, the trio finally, on March 21, saw Lindbergh at Hopewell.

"Colonel Lindbergh remarked that he had no faith in the clue," said Peacock. "He doubted the story for the reason that our alleged gang had not exactly mentioned the amount of the ransom. Notwithstanding his doubt, he gave written authority to Admiral Burrage to continue."

Curtis continued to claim contacts, and announced the kidnapers had proposed a plan for depositing $25,000 in Norfolk, to be released after the baby was returned. Lindbergh refused to do this, but asked that the negotiations be pursued.

"Curtis was up north when I got a long-distance call from New York on April 21," said Peacock. "The speaker asserted he had vital information about the Lindbergh baby. I was instructed to fly to New York at once, register at the Park Central, and meet at the Park Central in the name of James Hill, and I would get instructions what to do."

"I flew to New York, registered as directed, and a man soon came to my room. He said I was to follow him to the party that had telephoned. I refused to leave. The man went away and within a few minutes the original voice called me. He warned me to follow instructions."

"I decided first to attempt to reach Curtis, and managed to do so. He advised me to return and learn more about what they would say. I did this. They took me to a room in the Cumberland Hotel, where three tough-looking customers joined us. They outlined a plan for the return of the child, quite similar to the one Curtis alleged go-between had suggested."

"It included payment of $50,000 ransom and a cash payment the next day of $500 for a special purpose. I was warned that every step that I took would be watched and was threatened if I made a false move."

"By that time I suspected them as racketeers. I went back to Curtis. (Continued on Page Three)

WOMAN FLIER SHOPS ABROAD

Amelia Earhart Putnam Dresses Up Before Attending Celebration at London.

London, May 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, the first woman to fly the Atlantic solo, demonstrated today that she is exactly as efficient at the feminine business of shopping as she is at the harder pursuit of flying an airplane.

After a light breakfast at the American Embassy, where she is staying, she sped off to the west-end shopping center before nine o'clock.

She completed her purchases in time to attend a luncheon given by the Institute of Journalists—and speed had no effect on her efficiency. On all sides she received (Continued on Page Four)

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—As a matter of "simple justice" to the Philippines, W. Cameron Forbes, former general of the Philippines, has recommended to the senate territories committee that restrictions on imports from the islands not be fixed at less than present amounts.

Forbes expressed his views in a letter to Senator Walcott (R., Conn.) that Chairman Bingham put into the Congressional Record today, along with the former governor general's opinions on the Hays-Cutting bill to give the Islands independence.

BORAH OUT OF PARTY BATTLE

Idaho Senator Will Not Take Part in Republican Convention At Chicago.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON, Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, May 23.—(AP)—The powerful voice and influence of William E. Borah, of Idaho, which played such a potent part in the 1928 campaign of Herbert Hoover, will be missing at next month's Republican convention for the renomination of the President.

Senator Borah's decision to take no part in the national convocation of the Republicans is final—whether congress is in session or not—and the reasons for it have led to considerable speculation in political circles.

The Idahoan himself has no comment to make on the subject. It is understood his determination has been made known to President Hoover in direct inquiry.

As for the election campaign itself, Borah is silent but his intimates are convinced the chances are very doubtful that he will go on the hustings.

Borah not only helped frame the platform at the last party convention but he took a leading role in the ensuing Presidential campaign. However, the President and the Idaho senator have not harmonized on a major issue since the administration began.

HOOVER HITS AT BOND IDEA

President Not in Accord with Proposal for Increasing Public Works.

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—The potency of a sharply worded White House letter has been thrown by President Hoover full against proposals to expand employment by extensive public works financed with bond issues.

Neither the bond issue plan of Speaker Garner nor that of the special Senate Democratic relief committee was mentioned by the Chief Executive.

But, in a letter the president asserted bluntly that "a larger and far more effective relief to unemployment can be secured by increased aid to income producing works."

"If it is contemplated that we legislate more authorizations of new and unconsidered projects by Congress," the Chief Executive said, "we shall find ourselves confronted by a log-rolling process which will include dredging or mud creeks, building of unwarranted post-offices, unprofitable irrigation projects, duplicate highways and a score of other unjustifiable activities."

Speaker Garner last week proposed a $1,000,000,000 bond issue for a governmental building program and on Friday the senate Democratic committee recommended a $500,000,000 bond issue for (Continued on Page Four)

Measure Providing For Legalized Sale of Beer Beaten On Record Vote

WARN AGAINST SOCIAL REVOLT

Roosevelt Sees Bad Condition Ahead If National Wealth is Not Distributed.

Atlanta, Ga., May 22.—(AP)—A warning that social revolt threatens unless "something" is done to equalize distribution of national income was flung forth here last night by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York in a commencement address at Oglethorpe University.

The candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination urged "social planning" to conserve production and natural resources and to influence the number of men and women entering the professions. There is need, he said, for general insurance of the necessities of life.

Toward redistribution of wealth, Governor Roosevelt advanced no definite plan but recommended "bold persistent experimentation," warning that the "millions in want will not stand by silently forever (Continued on Page Four)

PARTY LINES WIDELY SPLIT

Vote Was 228 to 169 on Bill to Levy Three Cents a Pint Tax On 2.75 Per Cent Beverage; First Record Vote in the House on Beer Since 1919; It Came After Twenty Minutes Debate.

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—The House of Representatives today flatly turned down the proposal to legalize and tax 2.75 per cent beer. The issue was on whether to discharge the ways and means committee of consideration of the Hull-O'Connor measure and put it before the House for a roll call.

The vote was 228 to 169, with party lines split wide.

Sponsored by Democratic and Republican wet blocs, the bill to levy a 3 cents a pint tax on 2.75 per cent beer, was brought up on a petition of 145 members.

It was the first record vote in the House on beer since 1919, and came after 20 minutes debate.

The Senate recently rejected proposals for legalizing beer. The roll call today came after Speaker Garner had overridden a parliamentary objection by Representative Blanton (D. Texas) who contended it was out of order since the House already had voted on submission of the prohibition issue.

The five killed in Louisiana died of burns when an automobile and a truck trailer loaded with sugar crashed on a bridge near Natchitoches and burst into flames.

BOB REYNOLDS SPEAKS HERE

Candidate For Senate Declares He is in Favor of Paying Soldiers' Bonus.

Declaring himself in favor of the bill now before congress providing for cash payment of veterans' pension certificates, Robert Reynolds, of Asheville, addressed a large crowd at the court house here Saturday afternoon in behalf of his candidacy for the U. S. Senate.

He based his support on the belief that the men who offered themselves a sacrifice on the altar of War had earned their money and should be paid in full.

Expressing belief that the payment of this enormous sum of money would help the veterans in their fight against unemployment, the speaker said it would also improve the economic situation by putting more funds in circulation.

Touching on the prohibition question, Mr. Reynolds declared he favored government control of the liquor industry so that taxes might be obtained to help bear governmental expenses. The nation needs this extra money, he said, and if there must be liquor, let it bear its just burden of taxation.

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam failed to reach Paris but she accomplished the feat of being the first woman to fly alone across the Atlantic.

This is a distinction in itself and were she never to attempt another flight, Mrs. Putnam would be able to look back upon her achievement with considerable pride in years to come.

She was fortunate in crossing the Atlantic in view of the danger involved from adverse weather conditions.

It takes a fearless person to attempt the trip in company with others, and nothing but sheer intrepidity is required when one sets out alone to pierce the storm-clouded ocean lanes.

able men have tossed their hats in the ring for election to the Board of County Commissioners and the people will have a wide range from which to select their favorites.

The board is one of the most important organizations of the county in that it has charge of all business in connection with government, and it is incumbent upon the people to choose only that type of man best able to serve in the most efficient and commendable manner.

The community, like every other section of the nation, is face to face with one of the most critical periods in history, and if we are to sail the craft of government to a safe harbor of prosperity it is necessary to select only the highest type of men to the high offices.

Not only Pitt, but all counties, should give special attention to this important governing board and see that it is properly equipped with brain power to carry on to the success assured every community where common sense and sound business judgment are used.

Two members of congress have declared they will remain in Washington until June 11 if the fight to settle fiscal problems is not concluded.

This is the kind of spirit that should bring the congressmen to their senses and cause them to get down to business and finish business which should have already been concluded.

Apparently some of the boys are willing to permit things to drag along from day to day in the same old way without exerting themselves to clear the calendar and get back home.

Qualifying rounds in the local golf tournament will come to a close tomorrow, pairings will be announced Wednesday and then the old contest for supremacy will get under way.

YOU CAN'T MARRY

By Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: Eddie Townsend wants a home, his wife Georgie wants to keep her job. She intends to work while he recovers from an accident, and has persuaded her cousin Jenny to pretend to be Eddie's wife because her employer would discharge Georgie if he knew she was married.

Chapter 31 HAGGLING OVER MARRIAGE "I do love you," Georgie muttered. It was though she were protesting them both, by saying it. "Jenny was sure you did," agreed Eddie. He seemed to accept Jenny as an authority on the matter and for once Georgie felt no twinge of jealousy.

"It can't buy happiness." "No. But it can buy freedom." "Of a kind." "It's the kind I need, them." "What are you trying to tell me, girl?" "That I love you. That I'll give up my job to make a home for you; but not yet."

"When my savings are enough to make the difference between slavery and freedom. I mean, a reasonable freedom, Ed. I'm not thinking any more of dinners and dances, I swear I'm not. I'm thinking of life that will keep us in love with each other. I—I want to be kept in love with you, always."

Eddie was looking curiously at her. For all his simplicity, for all his take-it-or-leave-it directness, he understood her better than she dared to understand herself. "What—what is it, Ed dear?" He roused himself and turned abruptly away.

"It's nothing. I was just thinking about what you've said. About what I suppose you'd call your point of view. I'd better be getting along, I think."

"Back to this crazy little room of yours?" Georgie laughed shakily. "I don't see why! Jenny can lodge there, if she doesn't want to stay at a hotel, and you can have your room here, as we planned at first. If I people think you married the other Miss Revell, well, Jenny does not really mind. It's a very convenient thing for them to think."

The United States Chamber of Commerce is boosting a reduction of governmental expenses as one of the most direct ways for improving the economic situation in this country.

Friends of Governor Franklin Roosevelt are boosting harmony among Democrats as date of the convention at Chicago draws near.

In a simple ceremony Miss Ruth O'Neal Worthington was wedded to Leon Couch, Saturday, May 21, at high noon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank Goodman, pastor of the Kenansville Presbyterian Church, at the Presbyterian manse.

The bride was charmingly attired in a smart blue traveling suit with accessories to correspond.

Next Saturday Is "Poppy Day"

Next Saturday little red poppies will bloom on millions of coats throughout America. As the annual day for the wearing of the poppy draws near it is well to bring to our minds the significance of this little flower. Why do we have a Poppy Day?

We wear the poppy once a year to express the feeling of reverence that is always in our hearts for the men who died on the poppy-studded fields of France and Belgium during the World War. The poppy is their flower. It grew on the battle fields where they fought and died; it grew over their fresh graves, the one touch of beauty and life in all that region of destruction and death known as the front. Nothing can symbolize our remembrance of the sacrifices of the World War dead in so fitting a way as the wearing of the poppy.

The funds derived from the poppy sale constitute the largest source of revenue for the Rehabilitation and Child Welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary. The dimes, quarters and dollars dropped into the contribution boxes on Poppy Day enable the Legion Posts and Auxiliary Units to carry out a constructive program of aid to the disabled and to the dependent families of veterans throughout the year. Poppy Day is the one day when the public is privileged to contribute toward this great work.

The American Legion Auxiliary with Mrs. D. M. Clark as chairman, will visit every home and business house in the city on Poppy Day.

Every one is urged to wear one of these little red flowers. You will not miss what you pay for the poppy and it will do some one so much good.

Wear a poppy on Poppy Day.

Masons to Meet At Rocky Mount

For the first time in Rocky Mount's history the city is going to have the honor of having as its guests on May 24 to 26 the High Priesthood of the Chapter, The Grand Chapter, Council, and Commandery of North Carolina. It's a matter of more than passing interest throughout the state and its occasion keenly awaited by the citizenship of the city, and regardless of the measure of success that has attended previous sessions its ambition of Masonry in Rocky Mount to outdo all previous records in this respect. Nothing short of this would do credit to the thriving hustling community of which this city bears the reputation.

These are days which are trying men's souls and never before has there been a more clear sounding clarion call that we should harken to the precepts and teachings of our great order. Many have lost some of what we have created, but we have lost none of our power to create, we may lose some beautiful things, but we have lost none of the love of the beautiful. These times are a challenge, not a catastrophe. Financial crisis can wipe out profits and bring business to a standstill but character is beyond its reach. Never was there a time in the history of this generation when men of our order should council together with more cordial or deliberate promptings than at this time.

Rocky Mount is centrally located and within a day's drive of any point within the state, and only a few hours of the great majority of those who will attend. The latch string is on the outside here and our city and section is going to do all within their power for the success and pleasure of your stay. The voice of Templarism beckons you to a progressive city of a great state and anything short of representation from each and every Commandery in this Grand Jurisdiction shall be a disappointment to the membership of St. Bernard Commandery No. 21. G. T. Matthews, commander.

The morning program, to be held in the school auditorium, Perkins Hall, will begin at 10 Friday morning with the Honorable Hamilton Fish, United States Representative from the State of New York as the main speaker. Congressman Fish, who is coming through the courtesy of Senator Cameron Morrison and Congressman Lindsay Warren, is an authority on national issues and will doubtless deliver an address on current happenings of world wide import, he will be cordially received and heard with much interest in this section.

Colonel Morse of Fort Bragg will feature the program also and Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cooke of the Bicentennial commission, honorary president-general of the National Society, D. A. R., and a noted speaker, has been invited to make an address. Dr. J. Y. Joyner, of Raleigh, prominent educator and a native of this portion of the state, will respond to the address of welcome and a number of local people, prominent in the life of the community will take part in the program, among whom will be Farmville's "Grand Old Man," R. L. Davis, highly esteemed beloved and familiarly known as "Uncle Bob" and Mayor Robert E. Belcher, who is completing his term of 18 years in this office.

Special music, of which Mrs. M. V. Jones has charge, will be one of the most enjoyable features of the program which orchestral accompaniments and selections played by the violin ensemble of the East Carolina Teachers College of Greenville of which Miss Gorrell, head of the music department of the college, is director.

The pages include 12 of Farmville's most beautiful and attractive girls: Misses Edna Poust Harris, Mae Joyner, Sue Barrett, Serene Turnage, Hazel Monk Mary Fria Rouse Vernice Lang Jones, Eva Mae Turnage, Dora DeGrace Rountree, Geraldine Gardner, Nan Moore and Bertina Lewis.

Mrs. T. C. Turnage, widely recognized as a woman of brilliant intellect and executive ability will preside over the morning program, and as regent of the Major Benjamin May Chapter, D. A. R., again at the patriotic exercises on the Old Plank road in the afternoon, when a boulder is to be unveiled to the memory of Alfred Moye, the first and only president of the Road organization.

The masque, "From Plank Road to Hard Success," about which the entire celebration revolves, will depict the various modes of travel and transportation along the road and six episodes are being developed by the committees in charge, of which Mrs. L. P. Thomas is the head.

The masque takes place at 8 in the evening and is to be followed by a colonial ball, when fancy costumes may be worn if desired, though this is not compulsory and the dance committee, of which Dr. and Mrs. P. E. Jones are chairmen, has decided not to make it a formal dress or mask affair.

Knott's huge warehouse, where both evening events will be held and which is to be elaborately decorated, will take care of the events well, and of the tremendous crowd expected. Admission fees for both events will be from 10 to 25c with an extra charge for dancing for the men. Proceeds will be used in defraying expenses with a portion going as Farmville's contribution to the State University emergency fund.

Watt Parker, commander of the James Thomas Smith camp, Spanish American veterans, and founder of that most unique of all societies, the Septuagenarians, first called the attention of the citizens here to this being Farmville's 60th anniversary, and has been agitating the celebration and untiring in his efforts to further and insure its success.

CONGRESSMAN FISH, OF NEW YORK WILL SPEAK AT 60TH ANNIVERSARY, FARMVILLE

By EVA H. SHACKLEFORD Farmville, May 23.—Recalling and recording the past accomplishment of the citizens of Farmville community, together with the commendable spirit of asserting confidence in her future, Farmville citizens are busily engaged in preparing for a fitting observance of her 60th birthday on Friday, May 27.

Farmville people are aroused to the necessity for and determination to cling to the principles set down by the founders of the town, beloved and revered by their descendants and successors. Faith in one's self, in one's country and in others is most essential at this time when the whole world seems bent on going askew, and it must be preserved at all cost.

To increase one's faith there is virtue in meeting together to discuss important current events as well as the past and revive the sturdy spirit and hopeful outlook of one's forefathers. Such a gathering of people with such a purpose will mark this event, not merely as a joyous occasion, but as an epoch in the history of the town and in the lives of the individuals at home and those who come home at this time.

The morning program, to be held in the school auditorium, Perkins Hall, will begin at 10 Friday morning with the Honorable Hamilton Fish, United States Representative from the State of New York as the main speaker. Soon after Watson fled, police arrested John F. White, his brother and Dave Bond, the negro, and charged them with aiding and abetting in the escape. The negro is in jail in default of $1,000 bond while John is at liberty under bond of the same amount.

Police said Watson came to Edenton soon after the affair and that he left almost immediately driving an automobile carrying John White and the latter's wife. As they neared the scene of the disturbance, they said, Watson noticed a machine following them and that he jumped from the car and fled.

Later, police said, it was reported he was seen talking to Bond and John White. He then disappeared and officers in North Carolina and Virginia were asked to search for him.

Mrs. Lawrence returned to her home last night suffering, physicians said, from a blow in the stomach. Officers said Watson kicked her and it was feared she might be injured internally.

The bank mentioned in connection with the 49 letters was the Federation Bank and Trust Co., and J. C. Jacoby, Jr., formerly treasurer, identified them. They were not read aloud, but were introduced into the record, Seabury remarked.

"They show that Sherwood deposited money in the mayor's account and transferred all his business with the bank from October 23, 1925 up to and including July 8, 1931."

An employee of another bank testified that in May, 1927, the mayor borrowed $10,000, putting 5,714 shares of Silver King Products Corporation stock as collateral, and Seabury read to the committee a letter purporting to be from Walker instructing a broker to turn the stock over to Sherwood so that he might take it to the bank.

Major General Kenkichi Uyeda, the military commander he replaced at Shanghai, was injured in the same blast.

General Shirakawa was Japan's supreme war councillor. He was 62 years old and had seen much military service, including monastic engagements with the Chinese and the Russo-Japanese war.

When the Japanese first went into Shanghai early this year they used only landing parties of blue-jackets from their warships. When the bluejackets failed to do the job army reinforcements were sent under General Uyeda, and when they failed General Shirakawa was summoned to an audience with the emperor, to whom the army owes personal allegiance, and was dispatched to the scene with several first divisions.

After a battle prolonged much beyond the time foreign military observers expected the Chinese to hold out, the general pushed the Chinese out of all their positions around Shanghai and the engagement was over.

A formal armistice was signed only a few days after the Hong-kew bombing, which was laid by Japanese officials to Korean revolutionaries.

CIVIL COURT OPENS HERE (Continued from Page One) Two hundred of the cases were set for consideration today, and it was expected the majority would be non-suited. Considerable progress was made during the morning hours and at the noon hour a big dent had been made in the calendar.

Virtually all actions set for today had been hanging fire over a period of many months, and it was the object of the court to either set a special date for hearing or definitely shunt them from the calendar.

Only a small crowd was on hand when court opened, and this was composed mainly of bar members, who gathered in order to assist in weeding out the old cases. It was expected attendance would be larger during the remainder of the session when the hearing of cases having direct bearing on particular localities gets under way.

Three State Convicts are Ill From Meningitis

Raleigh, May 23.—(AP)—Four North Carolina convicts have died within the last three weeks from meningitis and three others were ill with it in a hospital here today while state health and prison officials sought to guard against further spread of the malady.

John Henry Smith, negro, sent to prison from Winston-Salem, was the latest victim of the disease, dying yesterday. He and three others who were sick were brought here from Caledonia prison farm. A white man died from the disease in the Surry county convict camp.

Forbes said he felt "some such measure as the Hawes-Cutting bill "was best compromised" among the various proposals for a change in the status of the islands.

"It is pointed out as significant that his recognition and acceptance of independence, even as a compromise, indicates that he has no fear of Japan's annexation of the islands after independence." Bingham said, added many opponents were against freedom on that ground.

The report further shows that 299 farm visits have been made and that 76 farmers' meetings held with 6,116 in attendance. Two hundred and two farmers called at the office and 1813-4 pounds of tobacco seed re-cleaned. Six hundred and six farmers made cut loans for applications to the amount of $149,949.75.

The Mutual Exchange report, made by the manager, shows that 16 cars of hogs have been shipped for 78 farmers with a cash return of $8,930.53. Four poultry sales have been held from which 1,464 farmers received checks amounting to $10,860.28 for 74,399 pounds. Five cars of sweet potatoes were shipped for 14 farmers for $2,760.40. Fifty-two market days have been held since November 24 at which $2,786.67 worth of produce have been sold.

Following these reports E. Troy Ferguson, district agent, talked to the members of the board relative to the further development of the farm program in the county for this fall and winter in which he stated that our program of production had gone as far as was advisable until better methods of marketing were provided and urged the Board and the Mutual Exchange to devote a larger portion of their efforts to marketing activities in the future. He complimented the board on its activities and was highly pleased with the results being obtained by the exchange in marketing farm produce.

To date this season 1,564 hogs have been immunized against cholera for 98 farmers and 62 farmers have listed in the office 1,207 hogs which will be vaccinated within the next two weeks.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 1 point up to 3 points off on southern and local selling. July sold at 5.72.

Houses with Liverpool connections were credited with selling a little here on the differences and there was some liquidation but very little southern selling was in evidence and early offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying. This demand was sufficient to give the market a steady undertone and prices at the end of the first half hour held within a point or two of Saturday's closing quotations on active positions.

Liverpool cables reported continental liquidation, hedging and a poor offake in that market and said that Manchester was inactive with buyers cautious.

Grain Market

Chicago, May 23.—(AP)—Enlarged speculative buying, together with extra bullish news regarding local, domestic winter crop prospects, sent wheat prices upward today, the fourth day in succession. A decrease of 1,164,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply was a contributing incentive to purchase the total stock in sight being now 169,555,000 bushels against 181,408,000 at this time last year. Scattered export business was noted, including some United States hard winter wheat for Greece.

Stock Market

New York, May 23.—(AP)—The stock market perked up a little today, after quietly absorbing a further sprinkling of liquidation in the morning.

Trading was still in small volume but the ability of the market to hold fairly stationary during the past three sessions, in the face of continued cropping out of isolated soft spots, was regarded as encouraging, and apparently prompted further retirement of short accounts. Another advance in wheat was also a favorable influence.

In the early afternoon trading, a number of issues pushed up a point or two above last week's final prices, including American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B", Eastman, Case, International Harvester, International Shoe, Pullman and Union Pacific. U. S. Steel, New York Central, DuPont and Westinghouse got up the better part of a point. Consolidate Oil preferred shot up 6. In the early trading, Industrial Rayon dropped more than 3 points, and Loews, Public Service of N. J., and Brooklyn-Manhattan transit were moderately heavy. Liquidation of preferred issues continued, resulting in numerous losses of 1 to 3 among these thinly traded issues.

The start of the new week brought little in the way of new developments of a character to impel the market far in either direction. Slight gains in steel, and further urgings upon congress to deal promptly with the government fiscal affairs, brought some favorable comment, but financial quarters recognized that final acceptance of taxation, government economy and relief measures was still some weeks in the future.

The men told the governor they would give assistance in obtaining the return of the baby, whose body was found shortly after that about five miles from the Lindbergh home, provided that Capone, who is serving a term in Atlanta Penitentiary, be given "full credit."

"They said they believed Al Capone could help get the baby," the governor reported. "I promised to give their information to Colonel Lindbergh, which I did."

Noted Sports Writer Dead

New York, May 22.—(AP)—Bozeman Bulger, one of baseball's best known reporters, died suddenly at his home at Lynbrook, L. I., yesterday from a heart attack. He was 55 years old.

He was a baseball writer for the New York Evening World for 26 years and also wrote magazine articles and a baseball play in which Christy Mathewson was the central figure. He recently completed a book on the career of John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, who was one of his closest friends. He was a staff writer on the Saturday Evening Post, a weekly magazine, at the time of his death.

Bulger served in the World War as a major and later Lieutenant Colonel with the 308th Infantry Seventy-Seventh Division and was cited for bravery under fire in the Argonne offensive. Later he was with Pershing's headquarters in charge of press relations. He also served in the Spanish-American war.

Born in Dadeville, Ala., Bulger was graduated from the University of Alabama with a law degree and worked for a time in the office of his father, William Bulger, prominent Birmingham attorney. He quit law work to become a reporter on the Birmingham Age-Herald where he finally became managing editor. In 1905 he joined the Evening World with which he remained until it was sold last year.

Mount Holly.—(AP)—Dick Grice, negro, was killed when officer Frank Torrence's pistol discharged while they struggled as Grice resisted arrest for being drunk. A coroner's jury absolved Torrence of blame.

on the construction project and limits to those projects considered by the corporation as economically desirable.

A state or municipality borrowing for construction would have to turn over to the corporation obligations representing 20 percent of the cost of the project it was undertaking and would assume responsibility for any financial loss.

After the project had paid off its cost, the state or municipality would have the option to purchase it from the corporation.

A company could borrow under the same management, only it would be required to put up collateral of 30 per cent.

It also could put up 50 per cent cash and receive a half interest, with the right to purchase the other half.

public construction.

President Hoover's 2,200-word letter was in answer to a petition of a sub-committee of the engineering society suggesting that better times would follow a large issue of government bonds to finance public works.

Among other things, the president said governmental aid should be extended in this manner:

Balance the budget; avoid issuing further government securities; continue work of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; expand the credit through the Federal Reserve system; insure translation of these credits into actualities; soundly strengthen the foundations of agriculture; continue public works that do not place a strain on the taxpayer; continue national, community and individual efforts to relieve distress.

congratulations on the excellent taste displayed in her emergency apparel—emergency because when she landed in Ireland Friday all she had with her were the flying clothes on her back.

Mrs. Putnam wore a blue wool dress with a fetching white neckpiece.

Ambassador Andrew Mellon was present at the luncheon, as was Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary. The large assemblage cheered heartily as Sir John bowed and congratulated the smiling flier on her feat.

Mrs. Putnam landed at Hanworth air-drome last night during a terrific thunderstorm after a flight from Londonderry, northern Ireland, in a borrowed plane.

Today her first thought was of a shopping tour to replace the flying suit which made up her wardrobe.

"I can't be borrowing always," she said. At dinner last night she wore a dress loaned her by Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, daughter of Ambassador Mellon and hostess of the embassy.

The crowd which greeted her as she splashed to a landing at Hanworth was small but enthusiastic. Other thousands had gone to the Croydon airport, believing she would land there. Among the group at Hanworth was Ambassador Mellon, who welcomed her officially as she arrived at the club house, under an umbrella held by two officers of the field.

"I don't mind the rain," she said. "I got used to it Friday night."

The slim young woman, who is the only person in the world to have flown the Atlantic twice and the first woman to fly it alone, made friends instantly with the crowd by her quiet smile and gay manner.

"Here's your money," a friend told her a few minutes after she landed. (She carried only $20 in her pocket when she set out on her flight and her husband had cabled funds from New York.)

"Keep it until we get out of the crowd," she whispered.

"Have you talked with your husband?" a newspaper man asked. It was one of a volley of questions that greeted her.

"Oh, yes!" she replied. "The first thing I do always is check in like a good girl."

She interrupted her trip to the embassy from the flying field last night to broadcast her experiences by radio to the United States. After an hour at the British Broadcasting Company she refused to do anything else until she talked to her husband, George Palmer Putnam, by telephone and had a bite to eat.

He mentioned Mr. Morrison riding around in a big automobile, while he himself was bumping around the country in a Ford. He said he didn't blame the senator for riding in a big car, that he would have one as big as he could buy if his financial condition permitted it.

Reynolds is one of the most forceful speakers that has visited the city during the campaign and his style of delivery and subject matter were highly praised by scores of supporters who turned out to hear him in his first appearance in this city.
