FIGHT OVER PAYING SOLDIERS RAGES IN SENATE

Socialist Junta Is Overthrown In Chile

MILITARY HEAD SEIZED DURING SWIFT REVOLT

Colonel Marmaduke Grove and Associates Made Prisoners by Counter-Revolutionists, Supporters of Former Government Head.

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN, Associated Press Staff Correspondent

Santiago, Chile, June 17.—(AP)—Chile's Socialist junta, which went into power by overthrowing the government of President Juan Esteban Montero less than two weeks ago, was overthrown in a brief but dramatic counter-revolt today.

Colonel Marmaduke Grove, military leader of the revolt of June 4 and head of the junta which routed the government of Carlos Davila last Sunday, was taken prisoner by the counter-revolutionary forces together with his associate, Eugenio Matte.

The counter-revolutionaries comprised army and navy air force groups, apparently supporters of Davila, who charged the junta had gone over to communism.

Later today they turned the government over to a new junta composed of Senor Davila, Senator Alberto Cabero, member of the former President Montero's radical party, and former Deputy Nolasco Gardenas. The new junta was sworn to outlaw communism, but to continue the socialist republic established after the June 4 revolt along moderate lines, friendly to foreign interests.

Colonel Grove had announced he would die before he would surrender to the army groups, who besieged the palace with eighteen field guns, but he finally was captured alive and taken to a regimental barracks, with Senator Matte, to await the new government's decision regarding their fate.

A temporary junta was formed, comprised of military and naval officers.

The revolt began last night when a group of army officers invaded the presidential palace seeking Colonel Grove. The search was unsuccessful, for the colonel had hidden himself in an obscure room, and from there was sending hasty appeals to his followers to come to his assistance.

In the meantime rebellious troops were marching on the city to besiege the palace. Machine guns began to rattle and great crowds of people, many of them communists, sent up a terrific din in the streets.

Airplanes of the attacking forces flew over the city and the sky was lit up by bursting star shells and rocket flashes, while from the north the troops entered the city.

Forces loyal to Colonel Grove mounted machine guns on the palace and prepared to defend it, but as the counter-revolutionary hosts gathered in the streets outside, massed their artillery around the building and set up headquarters in the ministry of war building across the street, the loyal troops and the carabinieri began a general desertion and Grove and Matte were left practically without defense.

To E. O. Smith, farmer of the Vanceboro community, goes the honor of putting in the first barn of tobacco reported this season.

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—Aggressively clearing away the mass of legislation awaiting enactment, Congress pushed on today toward disposal of its final big issue—relief for the unemployed.

J. P. FLEMING BURIED HERE

Final Rites of Prominent Planter Conducted at 4 O'clock Yesterday.

Final rites for Julius P. Fleming, 54, prominent Pitt county planter, who succumbed to a heart attack at his home on Summit street early Wednesday morning, were conducted yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Services were held from the home by Rev. A. W. Fleischman, pastor of Memorial Baptist church and a big crowd of friends and relatives from various parts of the county were in attendance. A large floral tribute expressed the high esteem in which Mr. Fleming was held.

The deceased, a former merchant of Pactolus, was considered one of the county's most progressive farmers and had operated farms in the Pactolus vicinity for a number of years. He was a member of Memorial Baptist church and the local Masonic order.

Mr. Fleming was a native of Pitt county, having lived in Pactolus community the major part of his life before moving to Greenville about four years ago. He was kind and considerate with those whom he came in contact with from time to time, and his death was received with pronounced shock and grief.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters and several other relatives.

CAPONE AIDE IS SHOT TO DEATH

Two Men Held in the Slaying of George (Red) Barker at Chicago Last Night.

Chicago, June 17.—(AP)—A torrent of gangland bullets has drummed public enemy George (Red) Barker, associate of the Capones, out of the ranks of underworld leaders.

Today vacant was the throne he was reputed to have reared on labor racketeering, terrorism, bombings and a multitude of crimes of violence.

The death volley was fired from a flat across the street where the assassins apparently had lain in wait for hours and left empty cartridges and remnants of a dinner about. Two young men and a young woman rented the flat two weeks ago.

The gunmen pumped 18 rifle and pistol bullets into the body of "Barker the Immune," who—until last night—neither the feds of gangland nor the arm of Cook county law had been able to check in the career of crime which he began in 1916.

Two men were held today for investigation in the slaying—Larry Egan, a waiter, and George Bickford, hotel clerk, who helped three others pick the gangster's lifeless body off the street and rush it to Keystone hospital.

There, physicians said no man could have survived the leaden torrent for more than a few seconds. Death they decided, was almost instantaneous.

FURLONG HELD IN EXTORTION

Former Wilmington Police Chief Under $5,000 Bail in Black-mail Plot.

Wilmington, June 17.—(AP)—Charged with extortion under threats of death, John J. Furlong Sr., former chief of police and county recorder here, was held under bail of $5,000 today on orders of Judge George Harris, who granted continuance of the case after giving Furlong a preliminary hearing. Continuance until Tuesday was granted on motion of the state attorney.

Five negroes, it has also been revealed, are under arrest as material witnesses. It is said that they were taken into custody after they received a package containing $25,000 at a filling station seven miles south of Wilmington.

Chadwick Sent Back to Florida

Wilmington, June 17.—(AP)—D. N. Chadwick, Jr., former Wilmington city commissioner, left here today in custody of two Duval county, Fla., deputies, enroute to Jacksonville to face charges of forgery.

Hearing of charges lodged against Chadwick in Richmond, Va., in connection with an alleged attempt to cash Liberty bonds allegedly stolen from a Philadelphia bank, were scheduled today but local attorneys could not say what bearing his extradition to Florida would have on this case.

Roosevelt Thanks N. C. for Support

Raleigh, June 17.—(AP)—"Good old North Carolina" was the way Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, thanked the Tar Heels for their instructions to this State's delegation to the Democratic convention to cast their 26 votes for him for the nomination for president.

Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, secretary of the navy in the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson, under whom Roosevelt served as assistant, received a telegram from the New York governor last night using that term in expressing his appreciation.

The chairman of the Democratic National committee was named as a participant along with William Fox, former head of Fox Film and Fox Theatre corporations in the committee's investigation of the N. Y. Stock Exchange.

William F. Kenny, Mrs. Elizabeth Meehan, Joseph E. Higgins, Bradford Ellsworth, Walter P. Chrysler and Nicholas F. Brady were others named.

Raskob, Chrysler, Brady and Fox were described as the largest participants, having assumed a liability of $1,000,000 each.

RESCUE THREE FROM RIVER

Two Boys and Girl Taken from Neuse River After Boat Capsizes.

New Bern, June 17.—(AP)—Two boys and a sister of one of them, who went sailing on Neuse river, were safe today after the harrowing experience of clinging for thirty minutes to the bottom of their overturned craft four miles from New Bern.

They are Joseph Hodges, 15, and Evelyn Hodges, 19, children of the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Hodges, the former of whom is pastor of Tabernacle Baptist church here; and Wilfred James, 16, of Leesville, S. C., who is visiting in the Hodges home.

The boat was overturned in a sudden squall yesterday afternoon and they had about abandoned hope of rescue when a fishing party headed by W. W. Brinson, of New Bern, approached. The young people hailed the boat, were rescued, (Continued on page six)

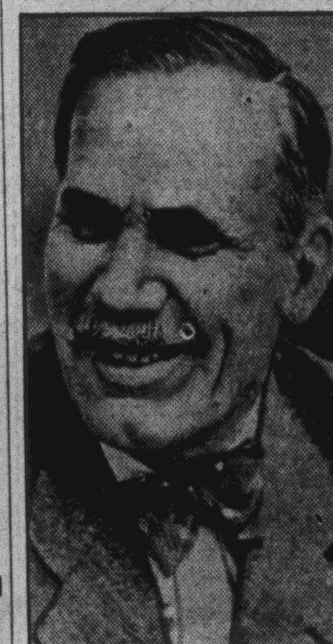

State Democrats Stand Aloof From Dry Wrangle

Raleigh, June 17.—(AP)—North Carolina democracy today stood aloof from proposals to submit to the people the question of prohibition, was in favor of Governor Franklin D. In spite of the unprecedented economic situation affecting every part of the country, the post commander asserted that membership of the local post was standing the fiery test. He expressed appreciation (Continued on page six)

ITALIAN DUCE RAPS AMERICA

Mussolini Says U. S. Has No Policy; Predicts Series Economic Wars.

London, June 17.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini was quoted in an interview published today by the Daily Express as caustically criticizing the United States and democracy generally and predicting a long series of "political, economic and military wars" for the world.

"America has no policy," the correspondent quoted him as saying, bitterly and with "sardonic contempt."

This was in reply to a suggestion that the United States was "one of the life belts, to which idealists are clinging for salvation in the world crisis."

"Dry America will never find herself," he was reported as saying. "She must go wet to find herself. In the meantime Europe is drifting to disaster and revolution."

Smiling derisively, the correspondent said, Mussolini then turned his guns on democracy.

"Democracy is nothing," he said. "The people are nothing. In every country they are weary of talk. They need men of action. They cannot save themselves; they need saviors."

And he added: "There are no saviors." For the future, he was quoted as saying, he foresaw a long series of wars. "There's war now," he added. "The era of reparations is ended," he added, and said "If Germany says 'no,' Italy will say 'no!'"

PROPOSERS PLEA FOR BILL

Opponents predict Defeat as Oratory Continued During Afternoon; Blaine, Brookhart and Robinson, Advocates of Cash Payment to Veterans, Make Powerful Appeals for Measure.

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—Hundreds of ragged—but orderly—war veterans looked down from packed galleries today while the Senate neared a vote expected by leaders to kill all chances of immediate payment of the $2,400,000,000 soldiers' bonus.

Outside, several thousand former service men, who had trekked to Washington from all parts of the country, whiled away the time pending a roll-call by listening to their leaders counsel against any disturbance.

Proponents of the legislation, for the most part, occupied the Senate floor. Most of those opposed, confident of enough votes to kill the legislation, remained quietly in their seats.

One of the speakers, Blaine (R., Wis.), said he was no new convert to the proposal to pay the bonus immediately.

"There is no one who denies the obligation. The Congress of the United States has determined that there was an obligation. I need not discuss the validity of the obligation."

"The only question before Congress is whether we will pay now or wait until 1945?"

Blaine contended that the $1,500,000 in debentures which Congress authorized the Reconstruction Corporation to issue were of "identically the same character," as the obligation proposed in the bonus bill.

"There is only one difference," he said. "They were designed for the railroads and the banks and the House of Morgan, while under this bill they are designed for relief of human misery."

Senator Brookhart (R., Iowa), an advocate of the cash payment of the bonus, took the floor at the start of the discussion.

"The bonus army might as well assemble here as anywhere," said Brookhart.

"They have no jobs," he continued. "I can see no reason why 100,000, 200,000 or 500,000 shouldn't assemble here."

"The government of the United States has done much for everybody but the common people," Brookhart continued.

"This bill will raise commodity prices and will help agriculture," he said. "The bonus bill it not only in the interest of the soldiers themselves, but the great agricultural interests, the seven or eight million unemployed, and it is sound business."

"It is the only patriotic course this country can take under the flag these men followed."

Senator Robinson (R., Ind.), followed Brookhart with the assertion, "I fear for this legislation—fear for it because it is fundamentally right."

"If it is right to be thoroughly grateful to those who have defended the country in its time of peril, now that they are needy and hungry, then it should pass," he asserted.

"I do not like the word 'bonus' connected with this measure," Robinson continued. "It is a debt—a debt which has been acknowledged. I want this country ever to be able to defend itself, but first of all and foremost I am anxious that those who come after us shall know that we have properly cared for those who defended this country in time of peril."

"A country which does not deal fairly with those who defended it in time of peril is not worthy to be defended."

While the Senate debate continued the crowd outside rapidly increased and speakers mounted a railing to keep up an unbroken effort to maintain order.

ELATED OVER CHICAGO MEET

Republicans of Carolina Return Home to Continue Drive for their Party.

Chicago, June 17.—(AP)—Republican delegates from the Carolinas to the national convention here were on their way back home today with the same presidential ticket which swept the country in 1928 plus a resubmission prohibition plank.

Except for fears on the part of a few North Carolinians that the prohibition plank is not dry enough both delegations were well satisfied with the convention's accomplishments.

The North Carolinians feel the big job now is to keep the state in the Republican column to which it jumped in the Hoover landslide four years ago.

South Carolina, one of the few southern states not captured in 1928 is not expected to change its allegiance but J. C. Hambright, new Republican leader in that state, promises a much larger vote than that given the president four years ago when only about 3,000 Republican ballots were cast—slightly more than one per cent.

During the convention the Tar Heels took things easy, voting with the administration throughout and functioning in complete harmony except in the vote on the substitute dry plank when three delegates held out for the Bingham resolution of repeal.

On the other hand, South Carolina delegates spent a tumultuous week and all were elated when the final gavel fell.

Fire Whistle Goes Rampage During Storm

A short circuit caused by the rain and electrical storm which visited this community yesterday afternoon caused the fire whistle over the fire station to go on a rampage which continued intermittently through the night before the cause could be remedied.

The whistle cut loose at full blast while the storm was at its height, and while the rapidity of the alarm sounded something like a riot call, nobody felt any apprehension, and if they did they were not able to do anything about it on account of the torrential downpour.

Several times during the night citizens slumbering peacefully under the cooling breezes following the storm were awakened by the bull-nosed whistle, but as no particular number was sounded, they turned over on the other side and again gave over to the hypnotic invitation of Morpheus.

While the whistle, operated by air pressure, was issuing one blast right after another, a citizen remarked facetiously that somebody had "stuck a pin in the bull," but this was denied today by George Gardner, chief of the fire department, who attributed the whistle's outbreak to the storm.

ABOUT TOWN

The Republicans probably did not expect that they would be in the nomination of President Hoover as their standard bearer in the national election in November.

That the party is fully behind President Hoover was evidenced by the enthusiasm when the nomination speech was made. It is likely the mention of the name of any party member would have elicited such widespread favor and goes to show the Republicans still are faithful in their leader.

President Hoover made the nation his own promises of prosperity in the last campaign and these will be forgotten by the masses in view of the tremendous ovation at Chicago. The President has made magnificent attempt to retrench and to live up to his campaign promises, but the public will be hard to convince and he will be to talk long and determinedly to an audience outside of his party.

Democrats at Raleigh pledged themselves to support Roosevelt at a Chicago convention in the near future. This gives the New York city a lead for nomination for the presidency and it is almost a foregone conclusion that he will win.
The time for Democratic harmony is come and if the delegates at Chicago will work harmoniously and be in the way of a candidate and subsequent plank their chances of winning with the crown of victory on their brow is better than in the past.

The prohibition question has been brought into the forefront by powerful organizations and action of the publican national convention making it absolutely inescapable for the Democrats.

If there should be a preponderance of favor for resubmission of the question to the states, then there is only one thing to be done and that is let the people have a word in the matter. Control by the few seems to be about the only way out, making it possible for states desiring to remain dry to do so and at the same time giving a thirsty an opportunity to obtain whiskey in preference to the dry stuff they drink these days.
If on the other hand, it is believed prohibition is desired by the majority, then let the matter stay in it. The majority has always ridden roughshod over the minority and it will do so in this case if put to a vote.

After riding high, wide and handsome through the House, the bonus bill is destined to die in the Senate unless somebody comes to its rescue.

Members of the Senate have been posed to passage of the measure ever since it was first proposed and position has developed to such extent it will die before it gets started.

The veterans feel that they need compensation more now than they needed it before and they will be a long time forgetting action of the Senate.

The Senate maintains that passage of the bill at this time would do irreparable harm to the country, while on the other hand proponents declare it would be instrumental in relieving the severe economic condition.

It is one of the most controversial issues of the day and promises to be a deciding factor in the delay of many men now holding powerful positions in the political life of the nation.

With announcement by Lieutenant Governor Fountain that he will in a run-off primary with J. C.
Ehringhaus to determine which of the two will be governor of North Carolina, voters have another opportunity to decide upon in the second primary, July 2.

This will enable the public to vote for U. S. Senator and Governor in addition to the county offices to be decided upon in various

Gambler's Throw

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Jerry Calhoun, who has been trailing Limpy Ashwood's gang of kidnapers, arrives at Ashwood's island headquarters, hoping to be believed a castaway. He has flown to a nearby island with a detective and a friend. Ashwood is holding prisoner Nancy Wentworth, abducted over Jerry's defense and five men.

HORNET'S NEST

"I've been reading the newspapers
Mr.—but you haven't introduced yourself," said Jerry.
"How neglectful of me," apologized the cripple. "I am called Limp Ashwood."

"Sorry," Jerry shook his head thoughtfully. "That doesn't mean a thing to me. But, as I started to explain, I do read the newspapers and I'm afraid that I've tumbled into a hornet's nest. There are a lot of people in this country who would like to be introduced to Miss Wentworth and One-shot Lucci right now."

"Then I'm sure you'll understand," murmured Ashwood suavely, "why you may as well settle down to become a member in good standing of our little household."

Jerry grinned ruefully and nodded. Then he patted his dripping clothes suggestively.

"A thousand pardons!" exclaimed the cripple. "Alfred, show Mr. Peabody to his room instantly. We'll complete the introductions at your convenience."

The first oblique shaft of morning sunlight snapped Jerry out of a sound night's sleep. For a moment he gazed in bewilderment around the plain, comfortably furnished room. Then, with a wide grin of anticipatory excitement, he leaped out of bed and strode to the window. The Gulf of Mexico was an infinitely vast lake of molten silver, shimmering under the cloudless sky. Another hot day was indicated for the not the slightest whisper of wind rippled the surface of the water. The palms leaned this way and that as though discouraged and weary. Their leaves were dry, browned at the tips.

No wonder, thought Jerry, these people were unstrung and ready to leap for one another's throats at the flicker of an eyelid. Never even during those last hectic days at the front when pilots came in from patrol cursing at the tops of their voices, had he known such nervous tension.

All evening, as the "guests" had sat about the living room he had expected to witness a riotous outbreak among the fidgeting, taut-nerved men. Lucci and Mallory, their puffed and bruised faces covered with bandages, regarding each other with malevolent eyes, greedy for an opportunity to finish the struggle of the evening before.
Those two strange, silent men, Martin and Williams, gazing steadfastly at Miss Wentworth with expressions in their somber eyes which caused the flyer to watch them more closely than he did the others. Lucci and Mallory, whatever they may have been before coming to the island, were now savages, knowing it and not caring. But what damage the heat and the unnatural atmosphere of the place had done to Martin and Williams was not so evident. They would bear quiet watching.

That devil, Ashwood, had lounged in his chaise longue, playing upon their nerves as an organist manipulates his banks of keys. A dozen times during the hot, interminable evening, Jerry had tensed his muscles, expecting the victims of the cripple's thrusts to break into a murderous frenzy and run amuck. But always, at the very last instant before an outbreak, Ash-wood would smooth the other's ruffled nerves and turn his attention to the next. Only two of all those who had dwelt in that house for many days seemed unmoved by his verbal efforts to soothe their anger. Hamilton, concentrating upon his everlasting solitaire, answered the cripple's quips carelessly, seemingly to regard them as only slightly irritating interruptions to the vastly more important business of placing one card upon another.
And Nancy somehow came through the evening unscathed. Ashwood's salles in her direction did not cut to the raw. They were kinder, perhaps. At any rate, the girl held her own without great difficulty.

Jerry had not sought an opportunity to explain his presence to her. At dinner, he had surprised her studying face thoughtfully and meeting her eyes, had seen her sections.

In Pitt county John Holmes and Jack Edwards will decide who will occupy the seat in the House of Representatives and three townships will vote on constables who failed to obtain sufficient votes for nomination in the June primary.

It is unnecessary to impress upon the voters the necessity of giving additional attention to the candidates. This fact has been mentioned time and again the last several months, and if abided by the second contest will be just as interesting as the first although only a few candidates are involved whereas there were scores last time.
The offices of governor and senator are tremendously important and voters should see to it that only the best qualified men fill them.

shake her head ever so slightly, then look away. So he knew that she recognized him and was warning him to make no slip that would betray him.

It was with much regret that he gave up hope of drawing her aside for a few moments conversation before Emory and Stevens precipitated a battle royal. She could have told him how many guards patroled the beach, how many machine guns could be expected to open fire upon the airplane and where, perhaps, would be the most likely place for him to start a row to take the defenders' attention away from the approaching monoplane.

He knew of a certainty, that the extraordinary Ashwood did not believe his ingenious story of being cast away upon the neighboring island.

He did not underestimate, in the least, the difficulties before him.
Ashwood would be warned by his suspicious visit and would undoubtedly see that his guards did not relax their vigilance. This Ash-wood was no heavy fisted morose;
he was infinitely more dangerous as an enemy.

Jerry knew that the most practical plan would be to find some way to signal his friends to fly to the nearest town and secure adequate assistance from the authorities. But, being young, reckless and headstrong, he resolutely pushed the conviction away.

Suddenly he stiffened in alarm.
The familiar bark of a powerful motor beat into his ears. His throbb-ing roar mounted as it responded to an advancing throttle until the entire house seemed to vibrate.
Then, dying down, it popped and back-fired unevenly.

Jerry's first impulse was to rush to the porch to signal to the silver-winged monoplane. But after the first instant of indecision, he realized that he was listening to Ashwood's amphibian in her hangar at the inlet. He dressed hastily and hurried out into the fragrant morning air just in time to see the odd-shaped plane take slowly to the chamber, and take off toward the south. He stood on the porch, his hands clenching the rail, watching the plane's rising flight.

What a fool he had been to underestimate Ashwood's shrewdness and not to know that he would make an effort to check up on his story! If the amphibian continued on her present course for five minutes her crew could not fail to see the monoplane, whose bright wings would loom up in the sand like an air marker thoughtfully placed there to draw attention to the spot.

The white-coated steward appeared at Jerry's side and bowed civilly.
"Mr. Ashwood's compliments, sir, and will the gentleman kindly join him at breakfast?"

Jerry hesitated. He wished to watch the course of the plane. But the steward waited as though he expected the summons to be obeyed immediately, so the pilot nodded reluctantly and entered the house.

In the long, dim dining room, Ashwood waited him, cool and immaculate in a suit of Chinese pongee. The large table, set with places for two, was covered with napery of magnificent damask.

"Good morning, Mr.—ah—Peabody," smiled the cripple. "It is so good of you to join me. Our other guests will presently have their breakfasts in their rooms and I dislike eating alone."

Jerry acknowledged the greeting absentmindedly. He was listening for the faint whisper of the am-phibian's engine. Had it stopped suddenly or had it dwindled into silence in the distance?

The soft-footed steward placed an iced grapefruit before him. He found that despite his disquiet of mind, he had not lost his appetite.
"Nice place you have here," he observed politely.

"Isn't it? I congratulate myself upon a happy thought when I purchased this house in sections and had it assembled here after my plans. The guests inhabit the west-wing which leads off the living quarters over the hangar-boat house. An admirable arrangement."

Jerry grinned wholeheartedly.
There was something in the nerve and the imagination of the fellow that was very appealing.

"Mr. Peabody," said the other unexpectedly, "were you ever in the Air Service?"

"Yes," admitted Jerry steadily.
"Why?"

"Did you, perchance, know Captain Jerry Calhoun?"

Is Jerry trapped, or can he be successfully? He receives a serious warning, tomorrow.

CARDS BLANK PHILLIES BY 2 TO 0 SCORE

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The St. Louis Cardinals may be expected to come right along, now that the veteran Jess Haines appears finally to have recovered his form of the last two seasons. Haines was a big help to the world champions last year, winning 12 and losing only three, but injured his arm about a month before the campaign closed and didn't get a chance in the big series. It looked like the 38-year-old righthander had lost his effectiveness for good when he dropped three of his first four engagements this season. He signaled his return to form by holding the Boston Braves to five hits a week ago, and yesterday gave a convincing demonstration in blanking the slugging Phillies, 2 to 0.

In addition to holding the Phils scoreless, Jess clinched his victory with a homer in the third inning off Ray Benge.

The Cardinal cast-off, bristling Burchell Grimes, pitched the league-leading Chicago Cubs to a 2 to 1 victory over the Giants and broke a six-game streak for Bill Terry's crew. The spitballer yielded only seven hits, and was deprived of a shutout when Sam Leslie hit a pinch homer in the eighth.

Ray Kolp's great relief pitching after he relieved Larry Benton in the second gave Cincinnati a chance to come from behind and beat Brooklyn again, 8 to 6. Harvey Hendrick hit a triple, a double and a single to lead the Red's attack on two pitchers. Pittsburgh was rained out at Boston.

The St. Louis Browns, who were beginning to go places in the American league, succumbed to big Geo. Earnshaw of the Athletics, 5 to 1. Fred Schulte's homerun in the first inning gave the Browns their only score.

Lloyd Brown, Washington southpaw, turned back the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 0. He gave only five hits, two of them by Heine Schulte, and allowed only one man past first base. Joe Cronin returned to the Senator's line-up after a two-week absence to knock in two runs with a triple and score once. Bill Dickey's eleventh homerun wit htwo mates on base featured the Yankees' 6 to 1 victory over Chicago. Charley Ruffing was steady in the pinches, striking out 10 Sox. Rain stopped Boston and Cleveland.

PATS DROP TO FOURTH RUNG IN PIEDMONT

Charlotte, June 17.—(AP)—Back in fourth position today and tied with the Asheville Tourists for that place, the Charlotte Bees journeyed over to the home lot of the Wilmington Pirates to try to better their standing in the Piedmont league.

The Hornets, their chances gone to bring about materializing of the fond hopes of Manager Guy Lacy to sit atop the league by Saturday night, stayed at home and awaited the coming of the Winston-Salem Twins, from whom they had hoped to wrest the lead.

The Durham Bulls entered the capital city just as the Democrats were evacuating it, and the High Point Pointers trekked over to Greensboro.

Only one change took place in the league standing which has been a rather shifty table of late, as a result of last night's games, that change was Charlotte's switch to fourth place—where the Bees are tied with the Tourists—and the Patriots' hop to third position.

The High Point Pointers hurried five players across home plate in the ninth inning of last night's contest at Wearn Field, just enough to wrest almost certain victory from the ambitious Hornets. The Pointers won by the score of 11 to 10. Spectators' enjoyment of the game was marred by considerable argument over a play.

Undeserved runs were blamed for the Raleigh nine's victory over the Asheville Tourists last night, 6 to 4. Support of Rookie Hurier McLean of the Tourists became warped in the fifth inning, and two of the Caps' runs were made on errors. McLean looked good, though; he allowed the Caps only six hits, while his own team mates were chalking up ten against Flinn of Raleigh.

Sluggers Borgmann and Batterton of the Patriots were due a card of thanks from the fans at Greensboro, for it was they who elevated the Pats to third place in the league standing. They got three hits apiece in leading the Patriots to a win by 7 to 3 in their home park, where they entertained the Wilmington Pirates.

The Bulls put up a brave battle at home to pull down the average of the Twins, but the Winston-Salem organization wouldn't allow it. They beat the Bulls 8 to 7, when Pitcher Kelly forced in a run by walking two men in the ninth. Poor base running also worked to the disadvantage of the Bulls.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 1-4 higher in response to steeper Liverpool cables and continued showery weather in the eastern belt, July sold at 5.27, an advance of 4 points, despite continued liquidation.

The demand tapered on the advance to 5.66 for December, and after initial orders had been supplied prices eased. Favorable crop advices from the southwest, including reports of an almost complete absence of major insect damage in all sections of Texas despite general distribution of various insects, led to scattered selling. There was also a little southern selling here, July reacted to 5.23 while December sold off to 5.62, but the market was quiet around yesterday's closing quotations at the end of the first half hour. Liverpool cables said liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and reported a fair cloth inquiry although the turnover was disappointing.

Grain Market

Chicago, June 17.—(AP)—Selling pressure broadened and buying support gave out in wheat late today, with the market falling more than 2 cents from the day's top.

Weakness of the New York stock market had considerable bearing effect, and so too did good rains in parts of the American northwest as well as at some points in Canada, together with favorable weather for harvest operations southwest. North American export demand for wheat was again slack.

Stock Market

New York, June 17.—(AP)—A slow downward drift developed in the stock market today, as buying power appeared to have exhausted itself.

German bonds perked up, in both the London and New York markets as the Lausanne conference appeared to have opened auspiciously, and sugar remained a firm spot in the commodities, but traders in stocks seemed dispirited at the list's apparent inability to push through the resistance level encountered in the rally of a fortnight ago.

Leading shares sold off a point or two in sluggish trading, recovered just before midday coincident with a little buying of Case, but then sagged again. Issues off 1 to 2 included U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Commercial Alcohol, J. C. Manville, National Biscuit, American Tobacco B, North American, Coca Cola, Union Pacific, Santa Fe and others. Oils held fairly steady. Gas turned an early loss of 1 into a gain of a point, then slid back. American Sugar was a firm spot.

The dollar continued to give a good account of itself in the foreign exchange markets, and Wall Street was interested in the remarks of Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank, who said in an address that the gold outflow was practically over and an early reversal of the tide was to be expected.

Domestic hoarding, he added, had practically died out, and on the whole, the picture looks much more cheerful.

TWENTY-THREE DIE IN BLAST ABOARD SHIP

(Continued from Page One) at noon, nine hours after the first blast, and 13 others were believed to be in the wrecked tanker's hold. Fifteen of the injured were firemen called out to combat the flames that followed the first explosions. Flaming oil shot 100 feet in the air when the first blast occurred as 100 workmen were rushing repairs on the Cymbeline in the Great Vickers drydock, which was built in England and towed across the Atlantic to Montreal.

A number of minor explosions occurred and an hour later, while firemen were fighting the flames and searching for victims of the blasts, another detonation, more severe than any of the others, shook the damaged ship.

In this final blast Fire Chief Raoul Kauthier, former president of the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Association and known throughout the dominion for his courage, was killed with four of his men.

The bodies recovered were those of Fire Chief Kauthier, Paul Harrison, J. Debrunne, J. Hamelin and R. Noel, the four firemen who perished with him; and James Wilson, John Riddell, James Corbett, Donald Gunn and William Atherton, all employees of the Vickers Company.

HOOVER PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

He will launch his bid for return to the White House from the south portico of the Presidential mansion, looking out to the inspiring shaft of the Washington monument, unless plans now being made have to be altered. This first battle cry will be spoken a few weeks hence, after the Democratic party has chosen its opponent and announced that issues upon which it will contest Republican domination of the government.

Then Mr. Hoover will receive formal notification of the nomination granted him yesterday amid acclaim and enthusiastic uproar in Chicago. He and Mrs. Hoover heard it all by radio, and directly he dispatched to the convention chairman, Representative Bertrand Snell, his message of appreciation and his promise to "labor as I have labored" to meet the trials and difficulties now besetting this nation.

As his plans now stand the White House and the mountain retreat on the Rapidan River in Virginia will become campaign headquarters. But he will confer shortly, and make definite arrangements with Everett Sanders, the new Republican party chairman, who is to direct the party's election fight from central headquarters in Chicago.

SAYS UNFAIR FREIGHT RATES MENACE SOUTH

tween North Carolina cities and Lynchburg, Va., and between Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Lynchburg, by which Greensboro, Asheville and other cities' manufacturers are shown to be paying a much higher rate for a shorter haul, the commission declared that, "If North Carolina is to be burdened permanently with a system of class rates which is not at all adapted to industrial needs, or to its transportation conditions, or to its traffic conditions, then North Carolina is permanently doomed to industrial inferiority."

The brief, entitled "Shall Freight Rates Kill Southern Industry?" has been filed with the United States Interstate Commerce Commission in a case in which lower rates are asked between southern and official territory. Reprints of it were made by the North Carolina Traffic league, another petitioner in the case, and distributed yesterday by the league's secretary, W. S. Creighton.

The commission asks why the "rate on over 100 items from Greensboro to Lynchburg for 112 miles" is "higher than the rate of the same articles from Chicago to Lynchburg, 731 miles?"

"And, why in the name of fairness," the brief continues, "should the rate on such typical articles as towel cabinets, window glass, cork and electric generators be 82 cents for the haul of 112 miles from Greensboro to Lynchburg, while St. Louis, Mo., enjoys a rate of 73 cents for a haul of 785 miles to Lynchburg; and if Lynchburg is exactly half way between Philadelphia and Asheville, why should the rate on dried fruit, various kinds of hardware, and window glass be $1.07 from Asheville and 45 cents from Philadelphia? And why should North Carolina be required to pay the high southern class rates on such commodities as rayon yarn, while Virginia competitors enjoy commodity rates even less than their lower class rates?"

Democratic party has always been responsive to the will of the people, and in obedience thereto has sponsored and enacted all the prohibition laws of North Carolina. Recognizing, however, this right of the people, in a legal way, to amend the constitution of the United States at their pleasure, and to vote on all questions of issue, we declare our party stands firmly for the enforcement of these laws and every provision of the federal constitution as long as it remains the law of the land.

A substitute plank read by H. P. Fochall of Tarboro, would have instructed the delegates to vote for submission of the question to the people, but the substitute was rejected.

The platform endorsed in enthusiastic words the record of Gov. O. Max Gardner and his administration, and the Brummitt criticism of the governor was not mentioned in the convention.

"No other state in the Union has made so favorable a record," it was said by Col. George Freeman of Goldsboro, keynote speaker. The majority platform report, submitted after considerable argument over the prohibition question and the portion of the declaration dealing with the Gardner administration was signed by J. C. M. Van der Monroe, who read it to the convention; Rufus A. Doughton of Sparta, chairman of the committee; L. I. Moore of New Bern, W. D. Siler of Pittsboro, P. W. Glidwell of Reidsville, S. C. Brawley of Durham; H. A. McKinnon of Maxton, Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby, and R. R. Williams of Asheville.

It pledged revaluation of property in the state for purposes of taxation; removal of the 15cent property tax for the six-month public schools; a balanced budget to preserve the state's credit; maintenance of the public school and college system with high standards; promotion of public health and welfare; care of the unfortunate and helpless in the humanitarian institutions; strict economy in state government; a reasonable effort to reduce expenses and avoid unnecessary taxes; enforcement of all laws; a "continuance of our policy of frank recognition of rights of both capital and labor, and a broader distribution of employment as a means to a satisfactory and sustaining progress of industrial development"; and to maintain the high standards of the state's institutions.

P. evacuated their Chicago haunts during the night with no lost motion.

Today nearly all of the Michigan Avenue hotels which housed them during the three convention days were back to the normal ways of life.

The vanguards were here before the Republicans were beyond the city limits. Advance agents of a dozen presidential candidates will be getting headquarters space in shape over the present week-end, and then it will be a matter of steadily increasing activity until the gavel drops.

The Republicans left behind them the memory of at least two events which bid for places in political history. One, of course, was the sudden upward surge of sentiment for prohibition repeal, curbed only after a real convention battle. The other was the final victory yesterday of Vice-President Curtis in his candidacy for renomination.

For a time, even toward the end, it appeared that Curtis was on the verge of defeat, despite the fact that every key man in the convention understood President Hoover wanted his running mate of 1928 kept on the ticket. There was wet opposition to him. There was a movement for a younger and more spectacular figure. And there was an important undercurrent of opposition growing out of the social war which had been waged in Washington, over precedence, between Mr. Curtis' sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann and Alice Longworth.

When the Curtis camp found in Chicago, that it needed the help of the administration, it got it. Not openly, which might have defeated the purpose, but genuinely and effectively. The administration men, very plentiful everywhere, gave advice in many cases by suggestion, and in every case, of a kind to fit the circumstances.

States lukewarm toward Curtis, for instance, but undecided where to go, were advised to put up favorite sons, and keep on the side lines until they saw how events were turning.

It worked very well. When the roll was called, the opposition was widely split, and no one was within gunshot of Curtis. He himself did not quite have the needed majority, but under the circumstances, the big Pennsylvania delegation quickly changed its vote to him.

It was the understanding that the President was looking for a business man for chairman, with contacts which would be a help in filling up the empty party campaign chest.

Sanders, a former member of Congress, had practiced law in Washington since he retired as secretary to President Coolidge. He has not maintained a very active contact with politics.
