GOVERNOR AGAIN ATTEMPTS TO END MILL STRIKE

Court Orders Big Coal Combine To Surrender Charter To Government

ISSUE ORDER AT RICHMOND

Appalachian Coals, Inc., Declared By District Court Judges To Be Operating In Restraint of Trade; Price Situation Affected By Tremendous Volume Handled by Organization, Eliminating Competition

Richmond, Va., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Appalachian Coals, Inc., formed by 137 producers of bituminous coal in Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, was held to be an organization in restraint of trade by the United States District Court for Western Virginia in an opinion today granting an injunction to the government dissolving the organization.

Appalachian Coals was ordered to surrender its charter. The decision was reached by Judges John J. Parker, Elliot Northcutt, and Morris A. Soper, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting as a Federal District Court. Judge Soper rendered a separate opinion which, however, did not dissent from the conclusions in the majority opinion written by Judge Parker.

Judge Parker said the court found that the organization would control not only the major part of the coal produced in the area in which its members were located, but in the markets in which it would compete. The admitted effect, he said, would be to eliminate competition among the producing members themselves. When the producers engaged in interstate commerce, he added, control so much of the coal produced and marketed, the inevitable effect would be to effect prices.

He said the court found no effort to eliminate other competitors, and added that the Appalachian Coals, Inc., would not have monopolistic control or power to affect prices. The courtroom contained a number of representatives of the coal producers when the decision was announced. Judge Parker said the court had been impressed with facts presented as to distress in the coal industry and the need for organization, but that this was a matter for law-making bodies and not for the courts.

Two Men Held For Inquiry In Russel Death

Asheville, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Persons who were near the scene of the bold slaying of Lonnie G. Russell here Tuesday night were to view today two men held in connection with his death.

The two, Gus Langley of Wilmington and Wilcey (Sherry) Johnston of New Jersey, were arrested Saturday night in Wilmington and brought here. Both denied connection with the killing, asserting they left Asheville several days before Russell was shot down.

Officers planned to bring persons who were near the filling station at the time of the slaying and saw four men jump into an automobile and speed away, to the jail today to view Langley and Johnston. The two had an automobile bearing a New Jersey license plate one business said was on the car the robbers escaped in. Russell, 34-year old filling station operator, was robbed of more than $300 by his assailants.

DEMOCRATS TO RALLY DAY IS STAGED HERE

Rep. Byrns Says Party Will Rule Next Congressional Body By 100 Majority

Washington, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, considers that a "conservative estimate of the Democratic majority in the next House is one hundred."

The Tennessee Democrat made this statement to newspapermen at a press conference held as he packed his bags yesterday to leave for New York where he will report the results of his canvass of the situation to party leaders.

"Three months ago I predicted that we Democrats would have at least 50 to 75 more seats in the next House, but I was too conservative," Byrns said. "Reports from the Northern, Eastern and Western States convince me we will have a (Continued on Page Four)

Mexico City, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Mexican government threw down the gauntlet to the Vatican today over last Friday's encyclical in which Pope Pius XI protested against what he called "the new and legal persecution" of the Church and Catholics in the country.

"If the insolent, defiant attitude shown in the recent encyclical continues," President Abelardo L. Rodriguez said in a statement, "I am determined that the churches will be converted into school and shops for the benefit of the nation's proletarian classes."

The president's statement was followed by an announcement that the National Chamber of Deputies would meet late today to consider the encyclical.

TREASURER IS SUICIDE

Mecklenburg County Official Kills Himself in Charlotte Courtroom

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—S. E. Cornwell, treasurer of Mecklenburg County, shot himself to death in the county courthouse here today.

Coroner Frank Hovis said the shooting was a clear case of suicide. No motive was immediately advanced either by Hovis or by friends of Cornwell.

The treasurer, a cripple, went to his office as usual today. Shortly afterwards he went into a small ante-room off the criminal courtroom.

A shot was heard and when courtroom attaches rushed into the room they found Cornwell with a bullet hole in his right temple and a pistol lying nearby. Cornwell who used crutches because of the loss of one leg, was seated in a chair. His crutches lay against the arm of the chair. Attaches who hurried into the ante-room when the shot was heard, said that Cornwell apparently leaned back in the chair, placed the barrel of the revolver against his temple and pulled the trigger.

MISTRIAL IN DAVIS CASE

Insufficient Evidence Causes Ending Of Trial Against Senator in N. Y.

Federal Court, New York, N. Y., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Trial of United States Senator James J. Davis came to an abrupt end today, Judge Frank J. Coleman declaring a mistrial because two of the jurors communicated with defense attorneys over the week-end.

Senator Davis was charged with violation of Federal lottery laws in the conduct of charity balls by the Royal Order of Moose, of which he is director-general.

Announcement of the mistrial was made as Judge Coleman opened court for what would have been the third week of the trial.

Report of the acts by the jurors were reported to the court by Defense Counsel Charles J. Margiotti. The court commented Margiotti and also lauded Senator Davis "for participating in the action of his counsel" in reporting the incident.

Judge Coleman said he immediately would suspend judgment insofar as the two jurors were concerned.

In Asking Governor for Conference, Business Men Of Strike Area Say They Are Hard Hit By Effects Of Walkout; Governor Refuses to Comment But Goes To Scene of Walkout For Conference

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Governor O. Max Gardner left Raleigh shortly before noon today for Rockingham where he will confer with business interests there this afternoon in the hope of terminating the Rockingham textile strike.

The governor was accompanied by Edwin Gill, his private secretary, and a party of Raleigh newspapermen.

Rockingham, N. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Settlement of Rockingham's long-lived textile strike was the goal of a conference to be held here today with Governor O. Max Gardner cast in the role of negotiator.

Their business sufferings because there were no pay-rolls for the 1,200 workers on strike, business and professional men of the town signed a petition asking the governor to confer here with the interested parties.

Governor Gardner, whose previous offer to serve as a negotiator had been rejected by owners of the two mills involved, accepted.

A committee of six from the strikers' organization, a similar committee from the "loyalists," or workers who oppose the strike; representatives of the mill management, and a committee representing business interests of the town.

The strike entered its forty-second day today. It began August 22, involving the number one and two mills of the Hanah Pickett Manufacturing Company and mill number one of the Pwistive Manufacturing Company. The strikers protested a wage cut and are seeking recognition of a union, among other things.

Magicians Meet at Winston-Salem

Winston-Salem, Oct. 3.—(AP)—It'll all be done with mirrors, nimble fingers, frock coats and silk hats when the North Carolina Association of Magicians meets here tonight.

If a magician can't be present when the program opens, R. C. Flowers of Winston-Salem president, probably will wear his hat and pull the absentee from a pack of cards. If he doesn't have a pack, he'll reach into the air and get a pack.

Thomas Stride of Thomasville, vice-president of the association and nationally known as an expert exponent of eccentric art and other magic, will give a public performance after a banquet opens the one-night session.

The association is made up of professional and amateur magicians from the state. Prospective members, who can prove their proficiency in snatching rabbits from handkerchiefs and making young ladies vanish with a flip of the wrist, will be admitted to the association during the meeting.

Between 80 and 75 members are expected tonight, officers will be elected and plans looking toward affiliation with the national magicians' organization probably will come up.

Yanks Take Four Games In A Row To Win Great World Base Ball Classic

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer) Chicago, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The World Series of 1932 trailed off today toward its final resting place among baseball's legends leaving the national pastime once more under the absolute rule of the American League, and one of the greatest champions in all sports history—the New York Yankees.

Never before in all the glamorous past of the game has any ball club approached the amazing record of the belting Behemoths from Broadway, conquerors of the Chicago Cubs in four straight games, possessors of a streak of twelve successive World Series triumphs.

It was something to set down in the record books with a proper touch of awe and veneration when the Yankees of 1927 and 1928 swept through first the Pittsburgh Pirates and then the St. Louis Cardinals to win two world titles without a single defeat. Now the Cubs have been added to that amazing record, without having even extended the mighty cast of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Tony Lazzeri and the rest of the dynamometers.

And worse still for the National League and its sorry attempts to keep from being trampled on by the marauding giant, there seems little prospect of the present situation taking any immediate turn for anything but the worse.

Almost as a big good natured St. Bernard, unaware of its own strength, cuffs in fun at a game little puppy, all but the mortally wounding its playmate with even the lightest touches, did the Yankee leap upon the punch soapy National League champions to shatter them yesterday for the fourth straight time 13 to 6 in the final match of a series that for lack of real competition has only been equalled in the past by the Yankee conquests of 1927 and 1928.

For one day the bats of Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth that boomed like 16-inch guns in the victory of the first game here Saturday lapsed into comparative silence, but there was no relief for the desperate cause of the shattered Cubs. From new, and hitherto peaceful quarters, the firing broke out with sudden, terrific effect, and five pitchers, Guy Bush, Lon Warneke, Jackie May, Bud Tinning and even old Burtleigh Grimes went down under stunning nineteen-hit barrage.

The composite picture of the five hurlers, the first two aces of the National League, gave the impression of a Dutch boy with no fingers at all trying to stem breaks in a dozen dykes at once.

There was but one last flare of hope for the vanquished in the final episode, as the Cubs, hitting almost like the Yankees at the start, soundly belted young Johnny Allen, freshman right-hander, and disposed of him with a four-run assault in the opening inning that was climaxed by Frank Demaree's home run smash into the left field bleachers with two hitters on base ahead of him.

It was a hope that quickly faded into disillusionment for the 50,940 militant Chicago faithful who twice in the two games here crowded the tight little band-box of Wrigley Field to capacity and never stopped hoping for the miracle that never came.

peak in less than a round, although they counted but once, as they Warneke for a pair of runs in the third and drove him out of there in the fourth, then they nicked Jackie May for a couple in the sixth and piled full force onto the unfortunate southpaw for four runs in the seventh and the staggering grimes for another four in the ninth.

The heaviest fire came from a gun that previously had sputtered as though the fuse were wet, Tony Lazzeri, and he belted two home runs in his anxiety to get his licks in before it was too late.

Gehrig and Ruth, who shattered the Cubs with a pair of homers apiece Saturday were held to three hits between them, two of them by Larruping Lou, but Jolie Sewell, Earle Combs and Bill Dickey as well as Lazzeri came away from their last chance with three hits each.

The Cubs might have done better had they introduced earlier young Bud Tinning, the only pitcher who troubled the Yanaks during the series.

Once rid of Allen, the Cubs bumped into old Cy Moore, veteran of the 1917 and 1928 conquests. The bald Missouri mule tamer held them in subjection, except for a brace of infield errors that allowed a run in the sixth, until a pinch hitter brought Herb Penneck out to work the last three innings.

Penneck, never beaten in five full World Series games, savior of George Pipgras in a championship battle, though his ancient left arm no longer held the speed and stamina it once knew. Herb allowed only a gift run in the ninth, when the Yanks refused to pay any attention to Bill Herman after the second baseman opened with a hit and let him round around unnoticed until he finally scored on an infield out.

But by that time the Cubs had nothing left but gestures, as effective as a campaign orator who had lost his voice, and when Riggs sallied the last put out to Ben Chapman in left field, they seemed to join in the general relief of the crowd and the critics that the humiliation at last was over.

ALABAMA TO TACKLE DUKE ON SATURDAY

Atlanta, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Alabama Polytechnic will have opportunity against Duke Saturday to show whether the high scores it has rolled up against minor football opponents actually mean anything.

This Southern Conference game will be the first real test for the Auburn plainsmen who shelled Birmingham-Southern 6-0 and larruped Erskine 77-0 in their opening games to lead Dixie teams in scoring.

After a slow start against Davidson, Duke uncorked a smooth, fast attack against V. M. I. Saturday to win 44-0. Wallace Wade has a team well drilled in blocking and tackling and Auburn will find it no easy mark to slip halfbacks loose.

Tulane's contest with Georgia and Tennessee's engagement with North Carolina also take high rank but these hardly carry the element of close competition promised in the Auburn-Duke go.

Four other conference games are billed this week. They bring together Clemson and N. C. State at Raleigh; Florida and Sewanee at Jacksonville; Georgia Tech and Kentucky at Atlanta and Maryland and Virginia Poly at College Park, Md.

Alabama goes to Washington, D. C., to play George Washington University and Washington and Lee meets Navy at Annapolis. Louisiana State meets Spring Hill at Baton Rouge. Mississippi plays Howard at Oxford; South Carolina takes on Wake Forest at Charlotte; Mississippi State engages Mississippi College at Jackson; Vanderbilt has a breather with Western Kentucky at Nashville; Virginia plays Roanoke at Charlottesville and Virginia Military meets the Citadel at Charleston.

Other games include Presbyterian and Mercer at Macon, Union and Louisiana Tech at Ruston, La.; Mississippi Teachers and Southwestern Louisiana at Lafayette, La.; Chattanooga and Middle Tennessee at Chattanooga; Southwestern and Millsaps at Memphis; Loyola and Baylor at New Orleans; William and Mary and Gullford at Williamsburg Va., and Oglethorpe nad St. Xavier at Cincinnati.

She is an indefatigable worker and systematic and business-like.

Wherever she appears her audiences are thrilled by her three-fold appeal, her beauty, the loveliness of her voice, and her charm. She is a slender blond, a southern girl who began her career as a choir singer in a little Tennessee town.

Greenville, S. C., Sept. 28.—In a quiet ceremony, witnessed only by immediate relatives, Miss Blanche Waters of this city and Leon L. Moore of Greenville, North Carolina, were united in marriage here today at high noon.

The vows were spoken in St. James Episcopal Church, with Dr. Alexander R. Mitchell, rector of the church, officiating, the ring ceremony being used. The bride was attended only by her brother, John Oliver Waters Jr., who gave her in marriage.

The bride, popular and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver Waters of this city, wore a lovely brown crepe ensemble with harmonizing accessories. Her flowers were bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mr. Moore is the son of the late W. W. Moore, and Mrs. Moore, of Greenville, N. C., where he is popular among a wide circle of friends. He holds a position with the Standard Oil Company of that city.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Moore left for a short tour through Georgia and Western Carolina, after which they will be at home in Greenville, N. C.

PROMINENT DEMOCRATIC WOMEN OF PITT COUNTY MET HERE SATURDAY

An enthusiastic meeting of the precinct vice-chairmen of Pitt county was held here Saturday at the home of Mrs. J. B. Spilman, vice-chairman of the county.

Plans were discussed for a more thorough organization of each precinct in order to bring out all eligible voters in the coming election.

A short talk on precinct organization was given by Miss Ward Moore.

Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale gave a report of the meeting held in Izaiah and told entertainingly of the reception given to the women by Mrs. O. Max Gardner.

A magazine article "Cutting the Political Pie," was given by Mrs. Judson Plett. This article told in glowing terms of the good deeds of charity the precinct worker could accomplish. It spoke of politics as being a fascinating and mysterious game. It is truly so, and there is no end of the amount of good that the faithful worker going from home to home can do. She finds herself the "Good Samaritan" as well as a good politician.

Blount closed her talk by saying: "Women are new to politics; they can bring it new ideas. They can make it become an instrument of service to the community of which women only so recently have become an articulate part."

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. L. Shackelford of Farmville, Mrs. R. C. McCotter of Grifton, Mrs. M. T. Frizzelle of Ayden, Mrs. Tyre and Mrs. G. H. Pittman of Falkland.

Miss Clara Louise Moyer represented the young Democrats and told of their plans and accomplishments.

At the close of the meeting, the hostess served a salad course with coffee.

ABOUT TOWN

Babe Ruth and Gehrig tried to receive for home run honors in the World Series. Gehrig rapped out a circuit drive in the first game to furnish a spark that fired the bats of his teammates into a blaze of triumph.

We are both going in the same direction and we might as well combine to pull together with best interests of the community in view. This was the consensus of opinion among city school teachers and Kiwanians at the annual entertainment of the teachers by the clubmen last Friday night.

The political rally at Greenville next Saturday promises to cutclass anything of the kind ever held in the county before. Ayden people, who have always had the reputation of doing things in a big way, are planning to entertain thousands of people from this part of the state, and have provided a program in keeping with importance of the occasion.

Hunting season is on and people who frequent the woods in the quest of game should be careful how they shoot. Every season brings some tragic accident and this year is no exception. Last Friday one of the most beloved high school boys of the city accidentally killed himself while hunting within a few hundred yards of his home.

Nothing Venture

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

SNOPSIS: A battle between her intuition and the known facts of Jervis Weare's disappearance rends the mind of his wife Nan. Intuition tells her he is in grave danger; the fact that clothing and toilet articles are gone may indicate that he has left on a hurried trip. Nan can only wait—in agony.

Chapter 37

F. F. TRIES TO HELP

There was no letter from Jervis next day. Nan did not know that she was counting on one until the mail had come and brought nothing. She looked at Ferdinand, and Ferdinand exercised some ingenuity.

"Buck up, Nan, here's a thing he might have done—a thing I've done myself when I've had my mind all taken up with something. He might have written a note to leave here, and have gone away with it in his pocket. If he finds it, he'll send it back home. It's a thing might happen to anyone.

"Why, in my own town there was the case of Reggie Lawson. Poor old Reg had got it bad. He was just a shadow—Cornelia Van Bien's shadow. And then all of a sudden he disappeared and everyone was sure Cornelia had given him the mitten.

"Bye and bye Cornelia began to look shadowy, too. She'd never been robust, but she got to peevish-looking that she nearly wasn't there at all. And then one day she got a cable from Cape Town, South Africa. He said:

"Letter proposing marriage just found pocket winter suit; can forgive love you to distraction cable reply or shall go crazy Reg."

Nan had been looking down at her plate. She had made a very fitful breakfast. She heard Ferdinand's voice, but she did not really hear what he was saying, because her own thoughts were speaking so loudly all the time. She felt suddenly as if she could not sit there and listen to them any longer. Her face changed, her mouth quivered. She pushed back her chair and got up.

"I must go and see Mrs. Mellish," she said. She proceeded to the housekeeper's room, and was received with Mrs. Mellish's usual austere respect—a respect not in the least personal—but in the nature of the fact that Mrs. Mellish knew her manners.

Today Nan approved the menu without so much as reading it. She stood, and Mrs. Mellish stood. She said, "Yes, that will do very well," and continued to stand, looking past Mrs. Mellish in a manner which was secretly resentful.

"Was there anything further, ma'am?" she said in such a politely controlled voice that anyone less absorbed than Nan could scarcely have missed the offence behind it. Nan did not start, but she came out of her abstraction and turned her eyes upon Mrs. Mellish's face.

"Yes," she said. "I wanted to ask you whether you or the maids heard anything on the night Mr. Weare went away. We think he has written, and that the letter has been mislaid."

"Yes, ma'am?" Mrs. Mellish's tone was not really a very encouraging one. "If anyone noticed anything," said Nan, "it would be a help. Someone may have heard him moving about. It would be a help if we knew what time it was when he went out. We are—" She paused for a long time, and then said, "Anxious."

"Yes, ma'am," said Mrs. Mellish. Her plainly banded hair made the nearest possible frame to her plump pale face. The hair was iron grey. In the morning Mrs. Mellish dressed to match her hair, in a strong iron-grey material which suggested in the most insistent manner reliability and moral worth.

"Will you ask if anyone noticed anything?" "Certainly, ma'am," said Mrs. Mellish.

She left Nan to a feeling that she had been knocking impudently upon a door that was not made to open. Then, as she stood waiting for Mrs. Mellish to return, it came to Nan that it was not so much that the door was not made to open, as that it had been deliberately slammed in her face.

She stood there and thought about this. Why do people slam doors? Either because they are angry, or else because they have something to hide. There wasn't any reason why Mrs. Mellish should be angry with her. Had Mrs. Mellish by any chance got something to hide?

Mrs. Mellish came back into the room with the slow walk of a comfortably covered woman who is concerned with her dignity. It appeared that nobody had noticed anything.

"And you, Mrs. Mellish? Your room is the nearest." "No, ma'am." Her eyelids came down over her rather pale and prominent eyes. There was the effect of a blind being pulled down. First the door of the house had been slammed, and now the blinds were down.

Lonely going to the woods should employ unusual precaution while firing their guns. Too much care cannot be used in cases of this kind and it is hoped everybody will think of the value of human life and not take any chances.

Nan found Ferdinand in the study. "I want to go and see Rosamund," she said.

"Why?" "Nan put her hand to her cheek. 'She talked too much on the telephone—I suppose it was yesterday.' 'How do you mean, she talked too much?' Ferdinand's eyes darted questions.

Nan pushed back her hair. "She doesn't talk—much—to me—as a rule. She wouldn't speak to me at all unless she simply had to. But when I telephoned to ask her if she had seen Jervis, she talked a lot."

"What did she say?" "I think she was trying to make me angry. I can't remember what she said—it wasn't worth remembering." Her chin lifted a little. "I just wondered why she said so much."

Ferdinand frowned. "Do you want me to drive you up there?" "Nan nodded. They had a silent drive. When they came to the place where the wheel had come off Jervis' car two days before, Nan, on the seaward side, looked down over the cliff with a steady thought gaze. She turned her eyes from the sea to the square ugliness of Robert Leonard's house. "Leonard's been away," said Ferdinand.

Where Nan should find sympathy, tomorrow, she finds only bitter scorn.

FARM NOTES

(By E. F. Arnold, County Agent)

Swine Farmers in adjoining counties are taking advantage of the cheap price on purebred hogs to establish good foundation herds. Week before last Northampton county farmers purchased sixteen purebred gilts from J. H. Boyd at a total price of $300.

These farmers are buying good breeding stock at the price which grade hogs brought on the market a few years ago. The price of hogs is bound to come back and when it does, these farmers will have fancy hogs at low prices. Our local farmers will do well to take advantage of these low prices to establish new blood in their herds. Mr. Boyd has an outstanding herd of hogs and has been able to place breeding stock in a number of adjoining states.

Farmers' Grange There is a movement among the farmers of Pitt County to organize local units of the National Grange. The National Grange has been invited to North Carolina by the agricultural leaders of the state and is being promoted as a state organization. More than five thousand farmers have already joined the Grange in this state, a large number of which will take the seventh degree at the National Grange meeting in Winston-Salem in November.

Farmers of the Fountain section and Beaver Dam section are getting ready to invite the deputies of the state organization to come into their communities for organization purposes and it is hoped that other communities will follow the lead of these enterprising communities and make the Grange a strong organization and a factor in the rural life of this section.

Small Grains. A number of farmers have been making inquiries of this office relative to the seeding of barley and other small grains. The soil preparation is one of the important factors in the production of small grains. The land should be well broken in time. If possible, to be settled by rains. If not, the land should be well rolled with a good cultipacker or if it is not convenient to use one of these, a roller can be made out of a log by driving spikes in each end and using a chain length.

Barley should be seeded at the rate of two bushels per acre and be purchased for less than $1.00 per bushel. The Pitt County Mutual Exchange is assembling orders at this time and hopes to be able to advise farmers in the near future as to the lowest price available. Small grains sown either for pasture or for grain production should be seeded if possible, between now and the 20th of October.

NEW CANDIDATES CAN EARN WEEKLY SALARY OF $100

(Continued from Page One) eight candidates in all who have made a first subscription return to the campaign office upstairs in The Reflector Building, and at least a dozen more who have taken a subscription receipt book and promised to get down and work for renewals have yet to send in their name and new subscriptions there is plenty of room on the list for a new face, for there has been little accomplished in actual subscription gathering.

It may be that all five winners have yet to send in their name and compete for the big share of the more than $1,500 in prizes and commissions that the paper will award on November 12, just five weeks from this coming Saturday. In the campaign conducted by The Reflector some three years ago the winner of the leading prize was at least three weeks late in sending in his name and getting down to business.

The prizes this year are all in cash and include besides the $600 leading award, others of $300, $150, $100, and $50. Besides these cash prizes that will go to those earning the highest number of votes issued on paid-in-advance renewals and new subscriptions to The Reflector there will be paid a cash commission of 50 cents on each yearly $1.00 subscription received. This is a commission money figured on 10 per cent of the cost of the paper, and will be paid on all work turned in.

A reduction this year in the cost of the paper has been made in the longer term subscriptions only. Six months' subscriptions are at the usual rate—$2.50; a year sells for $5.00; two years at $9.00, and three years at $12.00. Credits given each contestant that count toward the winning of the prizes are as follows: Six months, 800 votes; one year, 2,000 votes; two years, 6,000 votes, and three years 12,000 votes. The first decrease in the voting schedule does not come until October 15, which is one week from Saturday, thus giving those who have been thinking about joining ample time to settle down to business and secure their subscriptions in the large half of the voting schedule. A subscription turned in any time between now and October 15 counts just as much in credits as it did on the opening day of the campaign some two weeks ago. After the 15th of October the schedule will decrease and the 2,000 votes now being issued on a yearly subscription will drop to 1,600.

Much territory is yet unrepresented by an active work. Perhaps your neighborhood has not been canvassed, or if it has, perhaps it has been skipped over by an outsider who has not the time to put in by calling on each individual person.

So if you want to see what you can do during the next six weeks write to The Reflector and ask to have a receipt book sent and further details of the enterprise explained more fully. It costs you nothing, and it may bring you rich returns in the way of a cash prize November 12. You can't lose anything for the time invested, for the paper will pay you a commission on each subscription turned in. This commission will be paid daily on all reports as submitted.

CHICAGO DAZED BY SWIFT YANK ROY; BIG PLUNDER

(Continued from Page One) about $1,000 less than the individual plunders collected by the Yankees. Although the Yankees' team share totaled $152,805.35 to $101,870.24 for the Cubs, the champions set less individually because they divided the purse into 30 1-2 shares whereas the Cubs split their twenty-four ways, leaving their former manager, Rogers Hornsby out without a cent and giving Mark Koenig a half share. Hornsby has filed a protest against his exclusion in the division to Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, but there was little chance for it to be successful as no ineligible player for the World Series can be cut in. The "Rajah" was deposed as Cub pilot on August 2 and was not named on the list of Cub players eligible for the big show.

The player melon, $363,822.27 was not large as the record-breaker of 1928, but it was surprising for this year because of business conditions.

During the four games 191,996 fans crowded into Yankee Stadium and Wrigley Field and paid $713,377. The high receipts also were surprising for players of the second, third and fourth place teams of each league, which were cut in generously. Philadelphia's Athletics and Pittsburgh's runners-up in the current races, each received purses of $29,786.67. Washington and Brooklyn were given $18,174.44 each, while each fourth place team in the two major leagues, Cleveland and the Philadelphia Nationals, were awarded $6,612.23 each for division among players.

DEMOCRATS TO CLAIM HOUSE

(Continued from Page One) majority of at least one hundred and probably more. Bryns said that even in California, President Hoover's own State, and in Iowa, the State of his birth, the Democrats will win many states. He added:

"Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Oregon, Colorado, Washington and other normal Republican territory, will send more Democrats to the House than they ever have before, according to my information."

In addition, Bryns said, "indications are that six Democrats at least will win in Pennsylvania, while nearly all of the Ohio seats are going to be occupied by Democrats in the Seventy-third Congress."

"Reports from Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas and Montana, indicate the Democratic contestants are receiving substantial support," he continued. "The South and border States, with one or two exceptions, will send solid Democratic delegations. Several seats will be picked up in New Jersey, New York, and the New England States, in addition to the two already in the Democratic column from Maine."

WILL OPPOSE 'DRY' REPEAL

(Continued from Page One) said in a statement yesterday a formal call had been issued to all state superintendents and other League officials, and added:

"Delegates will be invited to represent all church and temperance groups opposed to the liquor traffic. The coming convention was called for the special purpose of making a definite nation-wide appraisal of election returns and to formulate the Anti-Saloon League program in opposition to modification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or the legalization of beer."

The statement quoted Dr. F. Scott McBride, General Superintendent of the League, as saying:

"The political situation involving prohibition has made it desirable for us to determine the exact attitude of the next Congress which will then have been elected, and to outline our dry legislative program. In conference, we will also make our plans for the congressional elections of 1934. We expect the aggressive fight now being made by the drys in the present senatorial and congressional campaigns will keep the Eighteenth Amendment from being changed by the next Congress."

"In 1934, we look for a campaign and election that will decisively stop the present depression-prompted drive of the wets to repeal legal dry liquor."

HOOVER WILL SPEAK IN IOWA

(Continued from Page One) and his views on many of the problems of the day. The President's friends expect him to devote much of his speech in Des Moines to the agricultural problem, which was discussed by Governor Roosevelt in the same state only last week.

White House aides said, however, that the President also would discuss other current issues and Republican leaders expected him to touch on some of the subjects expounded by the Democratic candidate.

Coincidentally, the Republican candidate is leaving for his first campaign trip the same day the Democratic candidate is returning to Albany from his first travels of the campaign, and both parties were into the west.

In contrast, however, President Hoover's trip will be a speedy jump out to Iowa and back, while Governor Roosevelt spent three weeks in an extended tour of the middle and far west.

The President and his party were expected to leave the capital in mid-afternoon, reaching Des Moines about four o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A stop will be made at Davenport, Iowa, tomorrow to pick up Governor Dan Turner and an official reception party and the trip will be interrupted briefly at West Liberty, Iowa City and Newton.

ROOSEVELT IN ALBANY AFTER LENGTHY TRIP

(Continued from Page One) tivities he will plunge into the Democratic state convention which will name a nominee for the governorship he will relinquish on January first.

He was represented as hopeful that harmony would be attained and that his choice for the nomination, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman would win.

At Detroit, crowds which filled the naval armory to its capacity of 5,000 and extended outside the building to a number estimated by police at 25,000 heard Mr. Roosevelt talk yesterday on what he termed "Social justice, through social action." He labelled it a non-political address.

In "our boasted modern civilization," he said, there are two schools of philosophy at conflict; one which would "let things alone" and the other "that strives for something new—something that the human race never has attained—social justice through special action."

The philosophy of "letting things alone" Roosevelt asserted was "resolute in the jungle laws of the survival of the so-called fittest."

"The philosophy of social justice," he continued, "calls definitely, plainly for the reduction of poverty."

He enumerated social legislation toward that end as workmen's compensation, old age insurance, public health, hospitalization of the insane, child labor restriction and rehabilitation of law breakers.

"The followers of the philosophy of let alone," the Democratic nominee continued, "the people who have been decrying all these measures of social welfare, what do they call them?"

"They call them 'paternalistic,' All right if they are paternalistic, I am a father."

After private philanthropy, social organizations, the church, city and state have done their utmost to prevent poverty and alleviate distress, Mr. Roosevelt said "above and beyond that the national government has a responsibility."

Roosevelt quoted church assertions to support his contention that social justice "now is accepted by moral legislation of all the great religious groups of the country."

MEXICO RAPS POPE PIUS XI

(Continued from Page One) "The statement said, 'there has been published the encyclical 'Accebra Anima,' the tone of which does not surprise us because methods filled with falsehood against this country are characteristic of the papacy.'

"To protest against the laws that in their conception oppress the liberty of the church openly incite the Mexican clergy to disobedience of existing laws and provokes a social disorder within the eternal work of the clergy, which is unable to resist itself to the loss of its dominion of souls and possession of property by which means it held in complete lethargy the proletariat classes that were impudently exploited."

"The Pope's protest was directed particularly at the laws limiting the number of priests in each Mexican state to as few as one priest to each 100,000 inhabitants in the state of Vera Cruz."

"Mexico has now entered into a complete period of stable institutional government," the president continued, "of progress and achievement, and it will not permit the subject into national affairs of a regency whose official existence is not recognized in our laws, which have provided for complete separation of the church and state."

BUSINESS DESCRIBED AS ON UPGRADE IN CAROLINA

(Continued from Page One) eral Reserve district in August some seasonal increases in special lines were noted and several barometers of trade show more than a mere seasonal rise," the summary said. "Definite improvement in nearly all classes of business is reported from the Carolinas, where cotton and tobacco play a more prominent part than in other sections."

Continuing, the summary said: "The textile situation improved more than any other industry last month. 'Higher cotton prices as a result of a much smaller crop than in recent years' stimulated buying of textiles 'quite materially' it was noted and cotton consumption increased 'more than seasonally in August.'

Mills took on more employees and orders were received in August "in sufficient volume to run the mills several weeks." Retail trade as reflected in department stores, in spite of very unfavorable weather for early fall trade, was up to seasonal level and wholesale trade showed seasonal gains in all lines for which data are available.

Prevalence of severe droughts in some small scattered sectors of Virginia and Maryland are reported but the dryings came late in the summer and is not as devastating as was the state-wide Virginia drought of 1930.

MARKET REPORT

Sell Your Tobacco in Greenville FOR MORE MONEY

Greenville is leading all Eastern Carolina markets in pounds sold and prices paid for every grade of tobacco. Competition has never been keener, and some of the markets are so desperate the warehouses are offering to haul your tobacco free with their trucks, if you will only take it to their warehouses. Every thinking farmer knows that this practice of hauling tobacco free is dangerous and that by doing so, they cannot get what rightfully belongs to them. There is bound to be trickery when one offers something for nothing. We are asking you not to be misled by these markets in this way. Look them all over and you will be convinced Greenville is higher on every grade, and the place to sell your tobacco for more money. If they haul your tobacco free, whether you know it or not, you yourself are paying the bill, and paying dearly.

It is very important that you keep your tobacco dry during this soft weather. Many farmers are tying their tips without grading. Let us urge that you separate your green, black and reddish-brown leaves from your bright tobacco, and market it in the best possible condition.

Now that most of the cotton is picked, attention will be turned marketing the tobacco. A great deal of tobacco reaches the market after sale time. Let us suggest that you bring it in earlier in order to avoid any rush.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 3 points lower to one higher on slower Liverpool cables being offset by rains in Texas. Very little Southern selling was reported and the light offerings were taken by trade buying or covering. Active months sold about 5 to 7 points net higher during the first few minutes. December advanced from 6.98 to 7.06, but the forecast for further showers in the South failed to stimulate buying and prices later sagged a few points. The market at the end of the first half hour was quiet and fairly steady within 2 or 3 points of Saturday's close. Liverpool cables said buying on the Texas rail news in that market had been supplied by hedging and liquidation in sympathy with weakness in Egyptian.

Grain Market

Chicago, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Responsive to weakness of securities, wheat values suffered setbacks today, and showed but little power to rally. With President Hoover scheduled to deliver an important political address tomorrow, grain traders were generally inclined to go slow on either side of the market until more was known regarding what he would say. Rural deliveries of wheat in Canada continued heavy and export demand disappointing.

Stock Market

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)
New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The stock market found scant nourishment in week-end business news today, and prices drifted quietly lower.

Bidding was in moderate volume, although there was a little more activity than during Saturday's trading. A feeble rally in the first hour soon petered out, and many issues slid down 1 to 3 points, although the decline was checked by early afternoon.

Rails were notably heavy, but several utilities and industrials also sagged. Losses of about 2 to 3 points appeared in such issues as Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Lackawanna, Nickel Plate, American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Johns Manville, Westinghouse, Dupont, American Can, Case, United Aircraft, and others, while recessions of 1 to 1 1/2 points appeared in many prominent issues. Oils held fairly well, and general electric kept close to its previous closing level.

The filing of a bill in Federal Court asking for a receiver for the Nickel Plate again attracted attention to the situation facing that carrier, while efforts were still being made to obtain sufficient deposits of the 6 per cent notes which matured last week to make the refunding plan effective. Furthermore, the weekly report of the movement of revenue freight which appeared on Saturday showed an important gain only in the movement of coal, and an aggregate gain which came up only to about the normal expectation for that period.

The stock market has come into October with Wall Street as a whole displaying considerable uncertainty as to its immediate course. Analysts pointed out that such business barometers as the movement of freight, and the production of steel normally reach their seasonal peak in October. How much farther the recent improvement can be carried is now regarded as a matter of conjecture. Some quarters expressed the hope that improvement had been of such a fundamental character that it represented more than a mere seasonal upswing.

SEN. WAGNER FLAYS HOOVER

RALLY DAY IS STAGED HERE

Speaking at the Sunday school hour, Mr. Fleischmann expressed appreciation of the many kindnesses shown him during his absence and said it was a joy to be able to return to his people and help them carry out their program for advancement of the work of God's kingdom.

Similar expression was made during the morning sermon. Speaking on the subject of the "New Covenant," the minister delivered one of the finest sermons heard here in sometime.

The theme centered around the Lord's Supper, that momentous period in Biblical history when Christ provided a way for the remission of the sins of mankind and opened up a way to immortality.

The new covenant, he said, provided that the world should commemorate the things which Christ taught during his brief stay on earth, so that people of all generations and all climes might know about them and be able to derive inspiration from them.

It was a pact through which the Saviour of mankind gave His own life that the lives of millions of people might be saved from the fate of the unrighteous and enjoy the freedom which the teachings enunciated by Christ bring to those who follow the straight and narrow path.

Another large crowd was present last night and heard the minister in another gripping sermon dealing with the importance of the teachings of the Bible.

During Sunday school hour several classes in the primary department received promotion certificates. While promotions were not completed, these will be announced next Friday.

Mr. Fleischmann has worked out plans for reorganization of young people's work and is expected to inject new enthusiasm in this field of activity.

HIGH SCHOOL YOUTH BURIED

ticularly large representation from the Senior Class of which "E. C." was a prominent member. The active pallbearers were all members of this class. The honorary pallbearers were the men of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers' College, the men of the faculty of the Greenville High School, and Dr. W. I. Wooten, Dr. M. B. Massey and Judge Albion Dunn.

The services were in charge of Rev. E. L. Hillman of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church of which the deceased was a member. Mr. Hillman paid a fine tribute to the life of the young man, recalling his faithfulness in the work of the Sunday school and other church activities. Mr. Julius H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, also spoke, recalling the fine record of "E. C." in all his school activities, his faithfulness in meeting the duties and obligations imposed upon him, and the high esteem in which he was held by both the faculty and the student body.

After the services at the home the body was taken to Greenwood Cemetery for interment. Beautiful floral offerings told of the respect in which "E. C." was held.

The music at the home and the cemetery was rendered by the choir of the Methodist Church assisted by D. S. Spain, Jr., and Mrs. C. W. Hearne.

"A more pleasing Taste and Aroma"

Enough Turkish... but not too much

You can smoke pack after pack of Chesterfields...and never grow tired of the taste. That's partly because Chesterfield uses just the right amount of Turkish tobacco to "season" the mild, sweet Domestic tobacco.

Too much Turkish makes a heavy-smoking cigarette... too little takes something away from taste and aroma. Just enough of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco—that's one reason why Chesterfields SATISFY!
