COLD CAUSES MANY DEATHS IN THE SOUTH

Twenty-Five Persons Killed During Siege of Winter Weather Throughout Dixie.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A wintry week-end left the South with twenty-five dead from accidents and many of the fatalities were traceable to the cold.

Fourteen died in automobile mishaps on the icy streets and highways, six deaths resulted from exposure two were fatally burned, one was killed in a boiler explosion, one by a train and was drowned in a bathtub after being overcome by fumes from a heater.

Georgia led in deaths with eight. North Carolina and Louisiana reported four each. Alabama, Mississippi and Virginia two each and Kentucky, South Carolina and Florida one each.

SEEK TO SPEED SEED CLEANING

Farm Department Is Urging Farmers To Give early Attention to Tobacco Beds.

By E. F. ARNOLD Hereafter we have begun releasing tobacco seed the first of January. This year, however, we are asking that the farmers come in and have their tobacco seed re-cleaned as soon as possible due to the fact that during the months of January and February we will be busy assisting farmers in securing credit for the coming crop year. This year I will be in the office on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for the purpose of assisting farmers in releasing seed. The other days of the week are reserved for field work and farmers who do not observe these days may be disappointed if they call another day. It is impossible to give my entire time to this work during the week. Hereafter we have issued a letter to the growers advising them of the tobacco seed re-cleaning program, but due to economy measures, we will have to rely on publicity given by the newspapers of the county. We hope that the farmers of the county will cooperate with us in our effort to get the tobacco seed re-cleaning work out of the way before our farm loan work begins.

Curb Market. The curb market now opens at eight o'clock on Tuesdays and Saturdays of each week. The Thursday market has been discontinued. The market continues to offer a large variety of vegetables, dairy, poultry and poultry products. Special offerings will be made for the Christmas holidays. The general public is invited to attend our market days.

Farm Loans. A large number of farmers are making inquiries from day to day as to what they may expect in the way of crop production loans for the coming year. The Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Raleigh will soon be in a position to make loans to farmers in this area who are in a position to offer adequate collateral in addition to crop liens. So far there is no other source of crop production credit for farmers of this section. However, there is a bill introduced in the House of Representatives authorizing an appropriation of $50,000,000 to be loaned farmers on crop lien security. This bill has not yet been passed but it is hoped that same will be available sometime during the month of January.

Last year 558 farmers borrowed $113,470.00. It is expected that a much larger group of farmers will borrow through this source this year if money is made available. Those who desire loans of this type should make their wishes known to their representatives in Washington.

Boiled onions or cauliflower served in tomato sauce give a pleasing variety to the menu.

Bits of cranberry or currant jelly placed on top of the apple pie filling before covering with the top crust give added flavor.

BURNS STAMPS FLAGG A 'LIAR'

Chaingang Fugitive Fighting Return to Georgia at Newark, New Jersey.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Robert Elliott Burns, fighting a return to a Georgia chaingang, hurled the word "liar" today at Sidney Georg Flagg, of Seattle.

He said George was telling untruths when he declared that Burns planned to hold up and shoot Flagg. He also denied robbing his way to freedom from the chaingang to which Georgia wished to return him. Burns, author of "I Am a Fugitive From a Chaingang," issued this statement when he read Flagg's story.

DR. WRIGHT IS SPEAKER HERE

College President Delivers Sermon at The Morning Service At Baptist Church.

Dr. R. H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College, spoke at Memorial Baptist Church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in place of the pastor, Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, who has been sick the past several days with an attack of influenza.

The speaker dealt mainly with the life of Christ and the important part which it plays in the life of men and women of today as well as in other eras.

He held up Christ as the only way to happiness and salvation, declaring that people who abide by His teachings will never be guilty of violating the Commandments.

He urged his hearers to give more consideration to the teachings of Christ as enunciated on the shores of Galilee over sixteen hundred years ago and to let them count in rising to greater heights of spiritual achievement.

The service was in charge of Frank Brooks who presented Dr. Wright as a man well known to members of the congregation and who is doing his part toward furthering the cause of christianity.

SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

TRY TO AVERT SECOND MEET OF CONGRESS

Leaders Now Believe That Another Session Need Not Prove Inevitable.

Washington, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Prohibition, farm relief, appropriations and economy—these were some of the stumbling blocks facing Congress today as it entered this week before Christmas with conviction growing that a special session need prove inevitable.

House Democratic leaders prepared for the vote this week on beer evidently confident of passing but conceding difficulty when the proposal reaches the Senate.

Both House and Senate today devoted time to minor legislation with the former also continuing debate on the Interior Department's appropriation bill, the second of eleven major supply measures which must be enacted if a special session of Congress is to be avoided.

TWO FIREMEN ARE RESCUED

Dense Clouds Smoke Impede Firemen In Fighting Blaze At Charlotte.

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Two firemen trapped under a falling floor were rescued from a burning clothing store here today while dense clouds of smoke from the building impeded firemen's efforts to halt the flames which appeared to be spreading to nearby stores.

Captain James Ross and W. T. Austin, the firemen, said they saved themselves from asphyxiation by remaining close to the floor and as far as possible from the flames while comrades broke in the rear of the store to extricate them.

An ambulance was called, but the men after reviving in the fresh air returned to fight the fire.

The flames raged unchecked after firemen had fought them for more than an hour, and downtown Charlotte was blanketed by heavy smoke which poured from windows of the building.

Finds Leaf With Red Letters On It

Mother Nature, who has been performing many freaks in this county in recent months now has presented the Grimesland community with another marked leaf.

A maple leaf bearing the number 80,000 in red was brought to the Reflector office today by R. D. Edwards. Mr. Edwards discovered the leaf last May and preserved it. The lettering is very legible and shows only on one side.

Mr. Edwards said he had no idea what caused the lettering, but believed it was one of the signs referred to in the Bible as indicating the nearing of the end of time.

SECURES REDUCTIONS IN THEATER RENTALS

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Pramont Public Corporation announced today that the revision of theater leases so far this year had resulted in 637 rental reductions amounting to approximately $3,600,000 of which $1,100,000 is applicable to 1932.

The Paramount organization, one of the largest real estate owners and operators in the world, surveyed 1,044 domestic leases involving an annual rental of $17,196,000. It was stated that total savings effected in the realty departments from January 1 to December 1 were approximately $7,000,000, of which $2,500,000 was applicable to that period. The total included a saving of $173,196 on real estate taxes and $2,000,000 in the cancellation of two theater leases.

Under the supervision of John Hertz, chairman of the Paramount Finance Committee, the corporation was able to renew 98.8 per cent of maturing real estate mortgages.

G. O. P. CONTROL FIGHT SEEN

With reported discord between the Hoover administration and some republicans of congress apparently assuming larger proportions, a fight for control of the party machinery seems in prospect. Frank Hitchcock (upper left) of Arizona and Senator Moses (upper right) of New Hampshire have been linked with the Hoover forces as possible new heads of the party organization. The name of Senator Watson (lower left) of Indiana was heard among the old guard as a choice for national chairman. The "young guard" republicans of the senate are reputedly looking to Col. Frank Knox (lower right), Chicago publisher, as a leader. (Associated Press Photo)

PAGEANTS ARE TO SELL SEALS GIVEN SUNDAY ALL THIS WEEK

Four Christmas Exercises Given by Different Churches of City Yesterday.

The Christmas season was appropriately observed in churches of the city yesterday afternoon and last night by the presentation of pageants, and musical programs dealing with the Nativity. Three of the programs were presented last night, but that at the Eighth Street Christian Church was given at 5:30 in the afternoon.

Each of the presentations were inspirational to say the least, and large crowds were in attendance to show their appreciation of what is universally considered the most important season of the year.

The first of the Christmas pageants was given at the Presbyterian Church Sunday before last, and the final Christmas program will be presented at the Memorial Baptist Church next Sunday evening.

At each of the services yesterday gifts were taken for the needy people of the community, and these will be distributed through the regular relief channels during the holiday season.

At the Christian Church during the afternoon a delightful program of Christmas music was rendered by the choir, assisted by members of choirs from other churches. The program consisted mainly of traditional Christmas carols, bringing a keen reminder of the Christmas over (Continued on page four)

Late News Flashes

Sentenced For Bank Robbery. Smithfield, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Ralph Barbour today was sentenced to 15 years in state prison and Rupert Wilson was given five years by Judge W. C. Harris for their part in the robbery of the Bank of Pine Level near here last fall.

Barbour pleaded guilty to the crime and attempted to take all the blame but a jury found Wilson guilty and acquitted two others, Victor Barbour and John Hamilton, of connection with the affair. Judge Harris said he would recommend a parole for Wilson when he completed one year of his time.

Seeks World Debt Conference. Washington, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Cooperation with President-elect Roosevelt to insure continuity of American foreign policy, particularly as to war debts, a world economic conference or disarmament was proposed today by President Hoover in a message to Congress. Lacking congressional approval for revival of the war debt commission, the President declared it necessary for him to proceed independent of Congress to set up machinery for further debt discussions with all nations who have not defaulted. He suggested an interlocking of the debt, economic and disarmament question and indicated that a commission on debts would be appointed soon by him, some of the members of which would also be delegates to the world economic conference set for next year, whole others having a liaison would be present for disarmament negotiations.

19 SUICIDES IN THIS STATE

Forty-Two Homicides Also Reported in N. Carolina During the Month of November.

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Nineteen persons committed suicide in North Carolina, and in November forty-two homicidal deaths were reported and 107 others died in "preventable accidents," the State Board of Health Bureau of Vital Statistics reported today. There were 2,500 deaths in November in the State from all causes, a rate of 9.6 per thousand, while births total 6,349, a rate of 23.6 per thousand.

ROOSEVELT TO TALK TO GREEN

Federation of Labor Leader to Visit President-Elect Some Time Today.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 19.—(AP)—With less than two weeks to serve as governor of New York, President-Elect Roosevelt was back at his desk today with at least one national matter—a visit from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, on his program.

Mr. Roosevelt had expected to see Green yesterday, but the conference with the labor leader had not taken place when he motored away from Hyde Park toward Albany last night. Instead, it was said Green probably would come to see him today.

CUPID ACTIVE OVER WEEKEND

God of Love Begins Pre-Holiday Activities Here With Telling Results.

Dan Cupid, the little winged fellow that makes a speciality of sending people to the altar, was active in Pitt County over the week-end and indications were that he would continue heart treatments from now on through the first of the year.

Always active at this season of the year, the little mythical god of love sent five couples to the altar in Pitt County Saturday, four of whom were white and one colored. In spite of the shortage of money reported existing in all parts of the country at this time, the business of marrying was expected to be about normal during the holidays, and numbers of people who have been holding off for improvement in conditions undoubtedly will take the lead despite the economic strain.

Although the total for Saturday was about normal, Register of Deeds J. C. Gaskins, said it was nothing compared with the same day the previous week when eleven persons obtained licenses to wed. This was something of a record for the season of the year, and if taken as an index to the holiday season, it is impossible to predict what the outcome of Cupid's operations will be when his final campaign has been staged. Those obtaining licenses Saturday were:

Haywood Whitehurst, Coneto, to Miss Ruby Robinson of Bethel; Leland Mills, Jr., Martin County, to Miss Myrtle Weaver; David Purford, of Farmville, to Miss Annie Boss May, Pitt County; Leslie G. Griffin, Carolina Township, to Miss Helma Nobles, of Carolina; Leslie Midgette, colored, Greenville, to Josephine Vines.

CALIFORNIA WET AGAIN

Repeal Vote on November 8 Became Effective on Last Midnight.

Sacramento, Calif., Dec. 19.—(AP)—California was without a State prohibition enforcement law today for the first time since 1922. The repeal vote of 1,400,000 cast by November 8 officially expunged the Wright Act from the statute books at midnight.

City and county liquor prohibition ordinances that existed before the Wright Act was enacted, again were in effect today.

Several cities and counties already have taken steps to repeal such ordinances.

PITT LEGION TO GIVE ROAST

Former Soldiers To Enjoy Big Feast Of Oysters at Local Armory.

Members of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion will be treated to an oyster roast at the armory of Cotahnc Street tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock. J. Con Lanier, commander of the Post, stated today.

The roast will take the place of the regular monthly meeting of the organization and every member was expected to be on hand and eat his fill of oysters. All former members of the Legion also have been invited to attend.

Several new members have been added to the organization the last two months under the impetus of a new membership drive and others were expected to be acquired within the next few months.

Legionnaires from all parts of the county were looking forward with interest to the roast, which is expected to be the largest attended of any similar occasion in years. Commander Lanier urged that all members come prepared to pay their dues and help the Post start the new year in proper style.

BONCOUR WILL HOLD MEETING

Question of Letting International Commission of Experts Consider France's debt to United States Expected to Receive Support of Members of New Cabinet; M. Boncour to Meet His Associates Late Today.

Paris, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The attitude of the new French cabinet seemed moving early this afternoon toward advocacy of a plan informally expressed at Washington, for allowing a mixed international of experts to examine the problem of France's debt. The Associated Press was informed on the highest authority that one or more ministers intended to support the commission plan in the afternoon meeting of the cabinet, presided over by Premier Paul Boncour.

SANTA TO VISIT CITY IN PLANE

Cheery Old Gentleman to Land at One O'clock Wednesday, December 21.

Word was received here today from Santa Claus that he is coming to Greenville in an airplane. He said that he had heard so much talk about Greenville being "The Christmas City" that he wanted to fly over the city. Al Hoffman has volunteered to fly him over the city. As soon as he lands at 1:00 p. m., Dail Laughinghouse is going to pick him up with his pony and cart and drive him through the business district ending at the State Theatre. The high school band under the direction of Harold Sugg and Bancroft Moseley will accompany Santa Claus, furnishing music for the occasion.

Santa Claus is anxious for all the children to attend his food matinee at 2:00 p. m. at the State Theatre. Admission will be made by food which will be turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution to the poor and needy.

So on Wednesday, December 21st, come and see Greenville when it looks to be as it really will be, the home of Santa Claus—a joyous land of make-believe, ablaze with lights and color, governed by all that is joyous, gay and laughter-loving. Bring the kiddies and let them revel in the splendor of Christmas, the wonder of light and music.

FLOOD ZONE ENJOYS RELIEF FROM COLD

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Moderating temperatures brought relief to the Pearl River flood zone last night.

Six hundred marooned inhabitants of the Rankin County inundated area east of Jackson were safely removed to refuge camps here after the raging stream poured its waters over thousands of acres of lowlands.

General Thomas J. Grayson, in charge of a detail of Mississippi National Guardsmen directing the rescue work, reported last night that all persons in the stricken area in immediate danger had been removed.

Something of a Record. Garden City, Kas., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Joseph Sartorius, sugar beet factory employe, has been riding one bicycle 26 years and has traveled 34,320 miles in that period.

ABOUT TOWN

Apparently realizing she did wrong by refusing to pay her debt installment to the United States, she is preparing to receive further negotiations from the American government on the debt issue. It is held in official circles that the government would probably pay the debt if assured of revision in the future.

That, at least, sounds better than refusing to pay. Any country that defaults a debt damages itself and not the nation that was liberal enough to make the loan.

Unfavorable weather conditions last week hit merchants a staggering blow all over the country, but it is probable they will make up for some of the shortage with increased buying this week in preparation for the coming of Old Saint Nick.

There are certain things the people are going to have Christmas, and if they were prevented from buying them by bad weather last week they most certainly will make an effort to obtain them this week. Merchants should not be disheartened by the lack of business. The demand was not diminished by the rain, snow and sleet. If anything it was increased as the future will indicate.

High School lost the clash with Raleigh Friday night but the boys were not discouraged. They made an excellent fight and had it not been for the element of luck in the case of Raleigh, the story would have been entirely different.

The Raleigh boys made some of the finest field goal shots ever seen here. They probably would not be able to make the shots again in several games Greenville on the other hand failed completely on the field goals not so much because of lack of skill but because Lady Luck turned a cold shoulder to all of their efforts. Raleigh is to be congratulated upon her fine showing. It was an inspiration and will cause the boys of the local high school to reach out for greater achievement.

While making preparations for the coming of Christmas, the public is urged not to forget the poor that greet masses of humanity who will know little of the spirit of the Yule season if they do not receive aid of generous men and women who have been treated kindly during the year.

Various movements are on foot here to make the homes of the poor brighter during the Christmas holidays, but the showing will not be so great as it should without the combined co-operation of all organizations.

Many a tiny tot is wondering vaguely if Saint Nick will slide down the chimney of his home in the face of daddy's pies of hard times. But he need not worry. Santa Claus still lives in the hearts and minds of the American people and his heart will be lifted to rejoice by the gifts that will pour in upon cheerless firesides Christmas morning.

Don't forget the tuberculosis Christmas seals while preparing your letters and packages for mailing.

Money spent in this cause will carry comfort to men and women confined to hospitals of the nation suffering from one of the most devastating diseases known to mankind.

The Women's Club is making an effort to sell as many of the tiny seals as possible and it is hoped everybody will buy liberally and share by this spirit they are to sympathize with a movement to carry the spirit of Christmas into the

Buying Barbara
 by Julia Cleft-Addams • Author of "YOU CAN'T MARRY"

SYNOPSIS: Just as her father, Sir James Cane, mentions the bankruptcy of his old law firm, Quentin, Lodely & Cane, Leila Cane smatches Farrell Armitage away to tinker with the radio. The bankruptcy brought about the death of the senior partners, but Cane prospered. The situation is tangled by the fact that Farrell is supposed to be Leila's suitor, but has just fallen in love with Barbara Quentin. Barbara is to marry Mark Lodely in five days' time. And it was the mismanagement of Farrell's estate, long ago, that had brought about the failure of the old firm! Leila is about to tell Farrell her reason for suspecting her father.

Chapter 7
EXPLAINING "SUGAR" CANE

Leila was gorgeously dressed—in Farrell's opinion, too gorgeously for the informal dance to which they were going. Nevertheless, he admitted that gorgeously suited her. Over a dance-dress of scarlet chiffon she wore a short coat of gold tissue, eccentrically patched and fringed with silver. Her silver shoes had emerald heels and there was a square emerald on her finger.

He remembered a mischievous chuckle from his old vicar—"Leila Cane—ah yes, heart of gold, I know. And priced accordingly."

"No," she said, starting Farrell back to himself. "Nothing you could call a reason. Only this—that through all my earliest years, there was Mr. Quentin, Mr. Lodely and father. And then there was a smash and then Mr. Lodely shot himself, leaving Mrs. Lodely and Mark nothing."

"And then Mr. Quentin died—and Mrs. Quentin died because he did—leaving Barbara even less. And then father built this house and packed me off to a decent school and blossomed out generally. Bit—odd, isn't it?"

"Oh, I don't know! I shouldn't necessarily think it odd. Some of my own transactions could be made to look pretty odd if they were reeled off like that; but they were straight enough. I'm satisfied of that."

She shook her head impatiently and ground out her cigarette. Armitage felt embarrassment.

"Put it to your father, Leila. I'll wager—"

"I've tried. . . You've heard what they call him here? 'Sugar' Cane. And you know what sugar does in hot water? . . . Fidget with the radio, please—in case he comes in. . . I may have absolutely no right to all this—she dragged at her gold and silver motley. "It may be really Mark's."

"Or Barbara's said Armitage, juggling diligently with wave-lengths. He managed to sound immensely casual.

"Oh, Barbara!" Leila was casual, too; genuinely so. "One can't imagine she'd care about anything for herself, though, of course, she'd cut off a hand for Mark. She's wrapped up in him."

"And he in her?"

"They've been engaged for years," she said slowly. "Even before that, there was a curious childish understanding. There's a story that Mr. Lodely made Barbara promise always to look after Mark. They were mere babies then, but—"

"But?"

"She took it as a solemn pledge. She's that sort. I darsay you remember her at that garden party, too? She was probably there."

"Oh, no!" he replied with conviction. "She wasn't there."

that must inevitably come.

"Who is she, Farrell?"

"Barbara Quentin."

"Barbara?" Leila exhaled a long wisp of cigarette smoke. "I suppose you took her to Fort's—the place Mark told her to call at for his canvases?"

"No." Then:

"What does he do with canvas when he's got it?"

"He paints."

"Portraits?"

To his surprise, she swung violently away from him.

"Portraits—yes. When he feels cruel enough."

Farrell acquires a valuable ally, tomorrow, in his campaign to win Barbara.

Teacher-Pupil Relationships. Emerson has said that there are degrees of friendship, varying from passionate love to mere good-will. Somewhere between these two extremes should come the feelings that exist between teachers and pupils. It must be obvious to the least observing person in school that the more perfect the teacher-pupil relation is, the better will be the results desired of each.

The whole matter has two sides. The student whose relations with his teacher are harmonious benefits more than the opposite type of student; at the same time he gives encouragement and inspiration to the teacher. Those students who are thoughtful enough of themselves as well as of others always give inspiration to the teacher. Let interest, not to the class, and help to create a desirable atmosphere. At the same time they learn most for they are contributing most. Such students may not be bookworms; in fact, the preferable ones are not. They realize that application and concentration count for as much as studying. This type of student is well-behaved in class, usually has prepared his lesson, but most of all he shows that his thoughts are following the teacher's with some real interest. In other words a sympathetic and understanding feeling exists and teacher and pupil is aware of it. Agreement does not always result in such cases, but no teacher who is deserving of the name would wish everything he said to be swallowed verbatim. Students should know that teachers are fallible, that some things they say must be taken with a grain of salt. Nor must the teacher take the student too literally at all times.

Nothing gives me more help, nothing makes me do my best as does the presence in class of students who are interested and willing to be led. Counterfeit interest is easily detected; real interest manifests itself daily and in very certain ways. This type of student learns not only content material, but at the same time is learning the exceedingly valuable lesson of satisfying human relationship. Incidentally, but naturally, this kind of student receives more attention from the teacher. Nor is it an exaggeration to say that some classes are made pleasurable by the presence of one such student.

In developing the proper teacher-pupil relationship, each must consciously contribute toward this specific end. The teacher, realizing that he is dealing with plastic material, must tactfully approach and associate with the student in school and out. On the other hand, the student must realize that the teacher is sympathetically trying to understand and help to guide him.

The Christmas Spirit. In the early part of the seventeenth century or even earlier, it was the custom in England to celebrate Christmas in a way rather unusual from ours. Carolers would sing for hours under some fair lady's balcony or near some street corner where a crowd was likely to linger. The English believed in making merry and the saying, "Eat, drink and be merry" was on many lips during the holiday season. Then too they would go out and get large logs in their gay colored sleighs. These logs burned for many days during the merry Christmas season. This they called "Bringing in the Yule Log." From this we get our Yuletide title for Christmas. In countries all over the world, Christmas is celebrated in many different ways. Throughout the world Christmas songs are sung and the Christmas spirit is stressed.

In the midst of our joys and our happiness on Christmas day let us not forget that first Christmas ages ago when the world received its first Christmas present, the greatest and the most sacrificing gift the world has ever known, the tiny Babe of Bethlehem.

Traffic Regulations. The traffic rules adopted by the student body several weeks ago are still being enforced. The monitors for last week were Martha Scoville, Carl Joyner, James Dees and Frank Wooten. Thus far these regulations have been carried out successfully with practically every student in school cooperating. Students who find it impossible to get to class on time because of these regulations are asked to report to Carl Joyner or Mr. Rose their specific difficulty.

Seniors Give Program. On Friday afternoon the high school Christmas program was presented by the senior class, sponsored by Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer and Miss Clem Bridges. Several committees were appointed by President Carl Joyner and these had charge of the details.

The school assembled while the band played a professional. The Christmas scripture was read responsively from the programs, and Carl Joyner spoke the Christmas prayer. The singing of Christmas carols occupied the early part of the program. Those used were "Joy to the World," "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and "Deck the Halls."

Christmas in other lands was the feature of the program. Representative students were chosen to discuss briefly the Christmas celebration as held in other lands. At times the discussion was augmented with typical carols of the various nations; these were sung by the glee clubs backstage.

Germany's celebration was discussed by Martha Scoville; Holland by George Willard; England by Isabel Whitehurst; France by Jim Slay; Italy by J. T. Windham; Norway by Naomi Gaskins; Russia by Helen Sawyer; and the United States by Harold Suggs.

"Oh Little Town of Bethlehem" was played as an instrumental number by Harold Suggs, Tom Rivers, Bancroft Moseley and Ben Herring. The annual presentation of a basket to Willie, the high school janitor, by Carl Joyner, president of the senior class, was made possible by donations received from students and teachers throughout the school. The speech of acceptance was as usual, genuine and interesting. "Silent Night" was played by members of the freshman class on xylophones constructed by the class itself. After one stanza on the xylophone the audience hummed a stanza as the concluding event of the program. A band recessional was used as the students left for a two weeks' vacation.

most interesting operettas the high school has ever given.

Enjoy Picture. Through the courtesy of T. Y. Walker, manager of the State Theatre, the entire football squad of the high school enjoyed the picture "The All American" on Wednesday of last week. The players and school appreciate the co-operation and courtesy shown high school students by the management of the theatre. Home rooms winning in attendance every four weeks are guests of the manager at the State.

High School Opera. The score for "The Marriage of Figaro" for this year, is laid in Northern France during the 18th century. All the time of earls, dukes and lords. All of the action takes place in the courtyard of "The Golden Lamb Inn" in the village of Champ-De-Fleurs.

The play opens with the villagers decorating for the wedding of the Duke who is to be married for the fourth time. The Duke is coming to the Inn as an honored guest of Madame Zenobie, the inn-keeper. He is to be married to the beautiful Heloise De Maritney who has never been seen by any of the villagers or the Duke himself. She is said to be the most beautiful woman in the world.

While on her way, Heloise is captured by a band of highwaymen who have as their chief Edmund, the son of Madame Zenobe. Edmund comes to the inn and tells of the capture and immediately a search is started for Heloise.

When Madame Zenobie hears this she at once begins plotting to marry her daughter Nannette to the Duke, since she doesn't want Rene a village boy who is in love with Nannette to marry her.

When Heloise is captured she loses the "Royal Permission" which later is found and changed from hand to hand. In this way she meets the Duke. Here the tragedy begins, but turns out right for everyone including Rene and Nannette. Woven in with the main plot are other love stories and much comedy, all of which combined makes one of the SARGON SOFT MASS PILLS ARE THE IDEAL LAXATIVE FOR OLD FOLKS. THEY ARE MILD AND GENTLE, YET THOROUGH IN ACTION.

Unlike ordinary cathartics Sargon Soft Mass Pills do not shock or upset the system. They do their work by gently stimulating the liver to cleanse itself by increasing its production of bile—a more natural and thorough laxative than can ever be devised by man.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills are not like any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough in action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all, their directions call for a gradual reduction of the dose until the point is reached where you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

SANTA and the MAGIC DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

SYNOPSIS: Santa gives a party for Toyland after Inga and Pinocchio return from burning a witch who had turned Inga into a ragged old doll.

Chapter XI THE DWARF

All the time Inga and Pinocchio had been returning home so happily there was a very evil dwarf on the mountain, where they had found the witch.

"Say, Mr. 'at," he called, "let me ride on your back." The rat agreed and they went through the woods like a gray streak.

"Guess I'll just stay out here and wait for you," said the rat. "This is none of my business."

"I won't be long," said the dwarf, "hee, hee, hee."

He slipped into the toyshop and when Santa wasn't looking he walked up to each of the dolls with a silly grin on his face.

The little pink candles looked so good when he held them out that the little dolls never gave it another thought.

In a twinkling they were all asleep. Santa was sitting by the fireplace, putting together a toy-car, and he didn't see any of this.

When he had his potion bubbling nicely over the fire he poured it into tiny little molds and let it cool.

Then he hopped right out of the window and onto the back of the rat that was waiting for him.

Tomorrow—Hunting the Keys.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Late season college football developments hardly could have been better arranged in a number of conspicuous cases for the health and security of coaching jobs.

Few occupations are riskier or more subject to the fickleness of fortunes and alumni. Most big league college coaches know what it means to hear the cry of the wolves in the distance or the roar of the disgruntled pack at their very heels.

In times like these it may often be enough to make a man restless in his sleep or short-tempered with the children.

Phelan Secure

Thus it is gratifying to read that Jimmy Phelan no longer needs to worry this year about his job at the University of Washington. The talk about a successor to the former Purdue coach and Notre Dame quarterback has been stillled by the great battle the Huskies gave Southern California's champions. It was one of those glorious defeats that possess a value skin to victory.

Mal Stevens was supposed to be definitely out after this season at Yale, by mutual agreement, but now we hear that Eli partisans, deeply stirred by the smashing Eli triumph over Harvard, want the good doctor to stay in charge of the coaching at New Haven.

From South Bend comes the tip that "Hunk" Anderson will stay as head coach, but that Athletic Director Jess Harper will leave Notre Dame. The rout of the Army by the rejuvenated Ramblers is Hunk's big achievement to date, strictly a product of his own hand-work, and it carries big weight among Notre Dame men all over the country.

Hunk Comes in Handy

Speaking of Anderson, Frank Gram in the New York Sun tells, with a timely touch, the story of a time Hunk and Knute Rockne were riding along in a small car. Rock was at the wheel. The car was brushed by a big truck, from the high seat of which two very tough-looking eggs glared down.

Rock poked his head out of his side of the car.

"Why don't you look where you're going?" he demanded. "You're worse than a dumb tackle."

"See you," roared the driver of the truck. "Another word out of you and I'll bust you on the nose."

"You and who else?" challenged Rock.

"Me," piped the truck's assistant, as the two of them climbed down from the high seat.

"Now, Rock feared no man that lived—or no two men, for that matter. But it was a hot day and he was comfortably settled behind the wheel, so he turned to big, silent Anderson.

"You handle 'em, Hunk," he said. So Hunk opened the door of his side and stepped out and banged the two trucks' heads together and punched them full of holes and climbed back into the car. Rock stepped on the gas and the little car hummed down the road.

"Nice work, Hunk," said Rocke.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York, Dec. 19.—William Butler Yeats, over from Ireland to do a bit of lecturing and look to the interests of the Abbey Theater players from Dublin, is one of the few poets whose appearances are not disappointing.

With his flare of white hair, the soft bow at his throat and ribboned glasses, he looks his part. Were you to see him on the street, not knowing him, you might suspect at once: here is a man who writes poetry.

Yet the romantic Yeats is not the "inspired" poet of tradition. That is, he does not wait for a certain mood to strike him, then sit down and spill his soul on paper.

Yeats fashions an idea into words as painstakingly as a sculptor chisels his stone. Usually he labors from 11 in the morning to 3 or 4 in the afternoon. And what do you suppose he considers a good day's output?

Six lines!

After all of his careful effort, he professes not to remember any of his poetry.

Called upon to read from his works, he does it well, but in his absent-minded way sometimes repeats a verse without being aware of it. His absent-mindedness amuses those close to him. He appears always to be in deep meditation, and when asked a question his mental process of collecting and redirecting his wits is evident.

Years seldom answers a question directly, eyes or not. Usually he sketches a background for his reply, lucidly and quickly. When he is done he has made himself understood. In conversation his hands go through rhythmic movements, and for emphasis he is apt to pound the arms of his chair.

Oh, yes, and he doesn't like to wear his hat. He carries it in his hand wherever he goes.

Modest Abdullah

An entertaining conversationalist is Ahmed Abdullah, playwright and novelist. He is a stumpy, grayed and somewhat bald man, with prominent nasal equipment and a pleasant expression. Could very well model for John Bull.

At a party the other night he warmed up to a sparkling conversational style, but he is a slow starter. His reticence has to be broken down, always. Some one asked his wife about this (she's Jean Wick, the writer's agent). She told us: "Why, Ahmed is timid. He really is. He's a wonder with a few people around, but in a large group he draws into a shell. At home I never have many people in at the same time, because of Ahmed."

Abdullah said he was working on a couple of movie scripts. A little later he will go to Hollywood with them. He is fond of Hollywood; says it is more pleasant for him to work out there.

Waiting On Waiters

The ever-gentle Keley Allen, drama commentator, stops to say he has just come from a restaurant where the service is something like the food—not so hot.

A waiter idle by and Keley asked the fellow if he could tell him the time.

"Sorry," snapped the waiter, "that is not my table."

One of the droll gags going the rounds is credited to Phil Baker.

Phil said the depression lasted so long he began to think Eugene O'Neill write it.

PAGEANTS ARE GIVEN SUNDAY

At conclusion of the program members of the Bible school presented white gifts.

A white Christmas program was rendered at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church last night under the direction of Miss Laura Foley, member of the faculty of city schools. The presentation was similar to that given at West Greenville school some time ago and many children participated.

A musical program in keeping with the significance of the occasion was rendered by members of the choir and at the conclusion of the service a congregation presented gifts to assist in the community relief program.

A program centering about the pageant "The Star Came" was presented at Immanuel Baptist Church last night. Numbers of children took part in the production as kings. Wise Men and other characters in connection with the holiday season.

The church was appropriately decorated and a choir seated in the balcony rendered several numbers in keeping with the significance of the occasion. There were the shepherds, Mary, the manger, star and other things associated with the Nativity.

Lines of the pageant were read by Mrs. S. J. Everett, Dr. Herbert ReBarker, and Rev. W. H. Covert, pastor of the church.

Those taking part were dressed in colorful costumes, and these added color and life to the various parts of the pageant.

The choir rendered several musical numbers reminding of that eventful period when the Christ Child was born. Miss Eugenia Thomas presided at the organ. Mrs. Dink Jones dressed as an angel, rendered a solo number.

At the conclusion of the service, white gifts were presented to children for the orphanage of the denomination.

At St. Paul's Church, the Sunday school assisted by the church choir presented one of the loveliest pageants of the season. A crowded congregation witnessed the pageant and participated in the beautiful symbolism of the spreading of the light conducted at the end of the service.

The pageant opened with a processional of the vested choir. This was followed by an appropriate Scripture reading by the rector, Rev. W. A. Lilperop, which described the birth of Christ. Then as the beautiful medieval music of the Annunciation was played by the organist, Mrs. Elizabeth Hinds, Mrs. Curtis Perkins as the angel appeared in beautiful tableau with Miss Agnes Gaskins as the Virgin. Miss Bessie Brown, soloist, sang the exquisite Magnificat of the Scripture story in which Mary thanks God for the privilege of being the mother of Christ.

Accompanied by other appropriate musical selections, change was quickly made to the manger scene. In this the congregation was moved by the singing of "Away in a Manger" by the tiny children's choir composed of Anne Skinner, Sam White, Henrie Ruth and Mary Andrews, which, representing the little angels of the heavenly host. There followed the procession of the shepherds: W. V. Waham, R. S. Ray and Hill Horne as the choir rendered "While Shepherds Watch Their Flocks By Night." Then the processions of the kings: W. H. Dale, J. Claude Gaskins and P. W. Picklesimer, as James Dees sang, "We Three Kings." Next the light bearers: Sam Dees, J. J. Summerville, Jr., Hill Horne, Jr., and Frank Wooten, Jr., escorted the children representing the mission fields of the world to the manger. These were: Janet Gowen, Louis Park, Quantion Jones, Travis Flanagan, L. P. Harris, Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer directed the pageant.

SLAYER OF BROTHER RELEASED ON BOND

Kinston, Dec. 19.—Lloyd McDaniel who shot and killed his brother Lynn, at the former's home near here Friday afternoon, has been released under $1,500 bond.

The slayer is reported to be grieving and deeply remorseful. He had been drinking in a moment of anger he seized a shotgun and attempted to run his brother out of the house. The latter is said to have defied him, telling him he lacked the nerve to shoot. The next instant he fell dead, a charge from the gun in his breast.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to four higher on domestic and foreign trade buying.

January sold up to 6.07 and May to 6.31 on the initial demand, or about four to five points net higher, but the advance into new high ground for the movement attracted realizing and prices reacted to about Saturday's close by the end of the first half hour.

January eased off to 5.97 and May to 6.22, or about nine to ten points from the early high, but the trading at midday was quiet and the market held steady and around the figures of about 4 to 6 points net lower.

Stock Market

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Stock traders found the bull part of the market a little more attractive today and succeeded in elevating prices a point or so here and there.

Lacking any real stimulus, however, the market remained sluggish. Trading was still partly professional and activity appeared to be passed primarily on the hope of the usual Christmas rally.

Auburn was turned over in considerable volume, rising four points while Allied Chemical gained nearly half as much. Miscellaneous issues up a point or so included American Can, American Telephone, Air Reduction, Coca Cola, Union Pacific, Dupont, Westinghouse and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

A gain in lows of nearly a point failed to hold.

U. S. Steel mounted fractional.

Prices continued firm in the late trading. The market was unable to push beyond the gain of the first hour or two but held steadily to its earlier advance.

The turnover approximated 800,000 shares.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

Leas Denied Review

Washington, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher, and his son, Luke Lea, Jr., convicted of conspiracy to defraud a North Carolina bank, today were denied a review by the Supreme Court of the refusal of the North Carolina Supreme Court to grant them a new trial.

Apparently this ended the hope of Lea, a former United States Senator, for release from his sentence by the Supreme Court, altho his attorneys may ask reconsideration of the action today.

Such reconsideration, however, is rarely granted.

The ruling today was the second time that the court had refused to take up the conviction in North Carolina state courts of the Leas.

On October 21 Lea, his son, and Wallace Davis, former president of the Central Bank & Trust Co., of Asheville, were refused a review of their conviction on conspiracy charges which included claim that they had defrauded the North Carolina bank.

Lea, senior, faces a sentence of 6 to 9 years in jail, while Lea, Jr., faces the alternative of paying $25,000 fine or serving two to six years in prison.

U. S. Agrees To Examine Debts.

London, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Stanley Baldwin told Parliament today that the United States Government had agreed to undertake with Great Britain a joint examination of the whole question of war debt payments.

As spokesman for the government he declined to accept a suggestion by a member of the House of Commons that a five power European conference be called to discuss the possibility of "common action" toward securing a more favorable trade balance with America to facilitate the debt payment.

Home Releases Cotton

Washington, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Legislation to allot the last 329,000 bales of government stabilization cotton to the Red Cross for release distribution was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

Gangster Fatally Shot

Chicago, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Frank Nick Capone gangster, was shot probably fatally and a policeman detailed from Mayor Cermak's office wounded in the arm today in a shooting affray in the LaSalle-Wacker building.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! Get a COLD?

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of mints, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned. It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remot a substitute, 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.
