NEWS PAPER MEN TALK TO EHRLINGHAUS

N. C. Governor Refused to Commit Himself if Conference Fails to Reach Satisfactory Price Agreement; Declares All he Can say is That Order Opening Markets Monday Still Stands

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Governor Ehringhaus of North Carolina today told newspapermen a proclamation opening the North Carolina leaf markets on Monday stands for the present.

During an answer to questions whether he would rescind the market opening order if a satisfactory plan to raise prices to fine cured tobacco growers were not reached at the hearing said he did not wish to commit himself.

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)—It was announced here today that the old leaf tobacco market will open October 17 and that of the middle belt one week earlier. The middle belt market originally was scheduled to open Sept. 19, and the old Sept. 26.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Conferees between representatives of the tobacco manufacturers and farm administration officials delayed the opening today of the public hearing on the tobacco trade agreement.

SEEK TO HELP WAR MOTHERS

American War Mothers Will Endow Home For Care of Dependent Mothers

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Asserting no mother who gave a son to war service should ever be dependent upon public charity, the National Executive Committee of the American War Mothers' organization went into session here today to develop a plan for an endowment fund to meet such situations.

One plan under consideration includes changing of the organization's by-laws to increase annual dues from $1.50 to $4.00 a year. There are approximately 13,000 members in the organization.

TO PETITION ELECTION ON PUBLIC POOL

Board of Aldermen To be Asked to Make Application For Government Funds

The Board of Aldermen will be petitioned to call a bond election for erection of the proposed swimming pool here, it was decided at a special meeting at Sheppard Memorial Library here last night.

Called by the citizenship swimming pool committee named recently to push the swimming pool movement, the meeting was well attended by citizens interested in the proposal to obtain government funds for erection of the project.

The proposed pool will cost approximately $15,000, it has been estimated by the committee, and the Board of Aldermen in addition to calling the necessary election, will be asked to go ahead with application for the government fund.

The committee was definitely instructed to continue its efforts in behalf of the pool and to petition the aldermen to take the required steps in obtaining the government funds.

Howard McGinnis, member of the committee, presided over the sessions and expressions from various citizens were made in connection with the public pool.

The pool would be located on Fifth Street across the street from the high school building. The lot is owned by the city and no extra expense in the purchase of a location will be incurred because of this fact.

The committee was expected to get in touch with members of the board immediately and inform them of the sentiment of the meeting at the library.

DENY RUMORS OF DIPHTHERIA

Health Office Declares There is Only Five Cases of Disease in City

Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, today denied rumors regarding an epidemic of diphtheria in Greenville.

Declaring he believed the public is entitled to know the true facts in the case, the health official asserted there were only five cases under quarantine in the city proper with one on the outside of the city limits.

POLICEMAN KILLED IN BOLD HOLDUP

Five Gunmen Rob Four Federal Employees in Famous Chicago Loop

Chicago, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Behind a smoke screen laid in Chicago's loop today five gunmen staged a daring holdup of four Federal Reserve employees and five minutes later shot and killed a policeman after their automobile collided with another.

The robbery, carefully planned and swiftly executed, probably will not net much in the way of fruit, an official of the Federal Reserve Bank said.

The policeman was killed as he and a fellow officer approached the desperadoes' car about a mile from the scene of the robbery without knowing of the holdup. The officer killed was Miles Cunningham, 35.

A moment before the machine had overturned after striking another and as Cunningham and Policeman Morris Fitzgerald stepped into the street the men crawled from the wreckage and sent a barrage of machine gun bullets towards the officers.

Cunningham fell mortally wounded and Fitzgerald jumped behind a steel sign and returned the fire for a moment.

The desperadoes commandeered a passing motorist's machine and sped from the scene. A few minutes later they forced another motorist from his car and fled leaving the other behind.

The whole chain of events, including the robbery, the slaying of the policeman and the dramatic escape of the gunmen, occurred in such swift succession that police were not informed of the holdup until word of the officer's death was received.

KIDNAP MONEY FOUND IN PARIS

Police Uncover 1,000 Pound Note Given Out in Lindbergh Kidnap Case

Paris, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The trail of the Lindbergh kidnapers was sought today by Paris police who said they had the name of a man who had in his possession a 1,000 pound note identified by the Bank of England as part of the ransom money extorted from Colonel Chas. A. Lindbergh last year.

PRESIDENT OF R. J. REYNOLDS GIVES VIEWS

Tobacco Executive Would Bind Concerns to Pay 17 Cents Parity Price up to March 31, 1934; Proposal Offered at Hearing at Washington; Plan Intended As Substitute For Government Proposal

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Tobacco manufacturers proposed substitute today for the marketing agreement put forward by the government attacking the latter on the ground it would empower the secretary of agriculture to limit expenditures for advertising.

S. Clay Williams, president of R. J. Reynolds Company, and representing others in the business as well as proposed at the public hearing provisions to bind the concerns to pay an average of 17 cents a pound for fine cured leaf they buy up to next March 31.

When Williams objected to the proposal on the ground that this would limit advertising expenditures he was asked by Governor Ehringhaus to point out the section in mind.

The witness pointed to the clause which would prevent the tobacco buyers who entered the agreement from increasing release prices for fine cured tobacco over the level of Sept. 15, 1922, without the approval of Secretary Wallace.

His position was that if the government took the right to keep the tobacco companies from raising prices it also took the right to limit advertising and other expenses.

As to his substitute marketing proposal Williams said it was possible only on condition that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration would give tobacco companies entire freedom in business policies. He emphasized this was the condition the tobacco concerns he represented would insist upon be-

DRYS START DRIVE HERE

Meeting Salled Sunday to Set up Organization to Combat Repeal

The first concerted drive to prevent repeal of the national prohibition law was started today by the United Dry Forces of Pitt County by the calling of a meeting Sunday afternoon, September 24, for perfecting an organization to combat attempts of the wets to take the 18th Amendment out of the Constitution.

The meeting will be held in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and all persons interested in the movement to preserve the prohibition law were urged to be on hand and do their bit in behalf of the cause.

Mr. Burnette, of the United Dry Forces of North Carolina, will be on hand to assist in perfecting the organization, numbers of which are being set up in all sections of the state to offer stout resistance to inroads of the wets.

Although there has been considerable talk of the repeal battle in recent months, this is the first direct step taken in this county to prepare for the state-wide election on the question November 7th.

After perfecting the organization, the drys, it was said, will immediately set in motion plans for selecting their candidate in the election.

CITY TEACHERS ARRIVING HERE

City Educational System to Begin Fall Term Next Monday Morning

Teachers began arriving in Greenville today for the opening of city schools next Monday morning. The majority of the faculty members were expected to reach the city by tomorrow night with belated ones arriving during Sunday.

There will be no teachers' meeting prior to the opening of schools as in the past, Superintendent J. H. Rose declared today, but this will take place shortly after the institutions begin work.

The annual pilgrimage back to the school room was expected to be marked by increase attendance in spite of the shortage of appropriations for this year's work, and the loss of a few faculty members under the State-wide school law passed by the last General Assembly.

With one of the country schools a few miles from the city being added to the Greenville school district, school heads found their work increased in the face of a pronounced decrease in pay as compared with last year when all faculty members accepted reductions of pay.

FORD TO MEET TERMS OF CODE

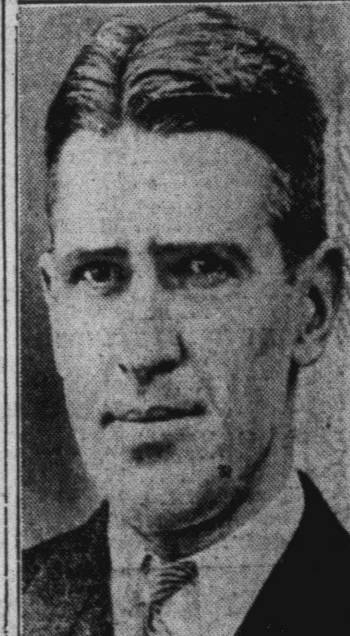

Indications Are That Company Will Place Employees on 32 Hour Basis

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—There were strong indications today that the Ford Motor Company within a fortnight will place its employees on a 32-hour week basis thus bringing the company within the work-week provisions of the NRA automotive code which it has not signed.

Although there was no official statement from the company comment in automotive circles generally was that the company is revising its working schedules so that employees will work 64 hours every two weeks averaging 32 hours a week.

The NRA automotive code provides for a 35-hour work week and minimum pay of 43 cents an hour. The Ford scale at present is 50 cents an hour for the lowest paid employees.

PRESIDENT CONSIDERS COTTON PLAN

Roosevelt Favors Higher Staple Prices, Probably 12 Cents a Pound

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today called in his agriculture advisers to consider the cotton purchase plan submitted yesterday by the conference of southern representatives.

Those summoned were Secretary Wallace and George Peek, the administrator of the agricultural adjustment act and Senator Bankhead of Alabama, leader in the cotton conference.

The cotton belt states proposed the government purchase half of this year's crop still held by producers—about $5,000,000—at 15 cents a pound with the understanding that for every bale bought by the government the producers will cut next year's crop that much.

To all appearances the President is looking favorably on the proposal to lift cotton prices but there is reason to believe he favors a lower price for the government purchases nearer 12 cents a pound.

Seven Months' Old Child Dies

Geraldine Ross, 7-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ross, who reside in Greenville township on the Belvoir road, died last night at 8 o'clock.

Funeral services were conducted this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and burial was made in the family cemetery on the Belvoir road. Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the local Presbyterian Church, was in charge of the final rites.

Surviving are the parents and a twin, Betty Jean Ross.

ROOSEVELT PUTS POWER IN CAMPAIGN

President Confers With Agricultural Heads Regarding Purchase of Surplus Food Crops for Public Aid; Wallace Arranges With Representatives of Emergency Relief to Carry Out Plan

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today speeded his program for Federal purchase of surplus foodstuffs and staples for the needy with orders to get it under way within thirty days.

He conferred with Secretary Wallace and Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, who arranged for appointment of a special committee to carry into effect the dual plan to take surpluses off the market and to feed the unemployed.

Douglas arranged for the necessary funds which are roughly estimated to be about $75,000,000.

Secretary Wallace named Chester Davis and L. H. Bean, of his department, to co-operate with a representative from the Federal Emergency Relief Agency in carrying out the Roosevelt proposal to purchase surplus feed, dairy and poultry products, cotton and cottonseed.

Wallace also took up with the President the problem of a long time program for reduction and control of corn and hogs. He is considering the possibility of including surplus voron purchases in the new relief plan, but he is more interested in providing for a permanent price-lifting plan for corn and hogs.

TAX VALUES IN N. C. DROP

Valuations of Utilities Show Cut of 20 per cent Within Past Year

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Today's property valuations for tax purposes of public utilities operating in North Carolina except power and gas companies will be only $182,909,643 for 1933, a cut of more than 20 per cent below the value of $226,565,651 placed on them in 1932 by the State Board of Assessment.

Railroad valuation, including the first general revaluations since 1927, was reduced from $4,954,876 to $160,574,875, a cut of 21 per cent. In 1929 the carriers included only the valuations on telephone companies showed an increase over 1932.

This year's value was set at $19,664,435 compared with $18,140,733 for 1932.

Values of property of the bridge, canal, steamboat, water, refrigerator express and telegraph companies and the Pullman Company all were reduced.

Jobs May Land Zepplin Miami, Fla.—(AP)—Commander Hugo Eckener has sent word that he desires a ground crew of 500 men to land the Graf Zepplin when the ship arrives here October 23. W. H. Green, in charge of unemployed forces in Dade County, says he is prepared to supply the men.

SIX VETS' ON CAROLINA LINE

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 22.—The first string line Carolina is grooming for its season opened with Davidson, September 30, lists six letter-men and averages 186 pounds to the man.

The personnel is: Julian Frankel and George Brandt, ends; Jim Tamm and Bill Collins, tackles; George Barclay and Edwin Kahn, guards, and Bill Moore, center. Moore, a soph, is the only non-veteran.

The early season dope sheets rate Carolina as being stronger in the line, while Davidson is expected to excel in the backfield.

That "thin red line," however, that Doc Newton is building down at Davidson averages one pound more to the man and is expected to give the Tar Heel forwards a great battle.

Gene McEver, former All-American back, is said to be polishing three separate combinations at Davidson, and the Wildcats' first backfield of Mackorell, Wingfield, Hutchins, and Willson has been called one of the best in the State by some of the sports writers.

The Davidson backfield commands plenty of speed, power, and experience together with great reserve strength.

On the other hand Carolina must depend on new men, sophomores and reserves, to supply much of its drive and broken field running.

Among the backs who were looking best today were the veterans, Captain Bill Croom and Charlie Woollen, the reserves, Don Jackson and MacBell, and the sophomores, Jim McCachren and Harry Montgomery.

The Tar Heels are pointing to Davidson as one of their hardest games. Another game scrimmage is expected Saturday, when Davidson will be opening its season with Elon.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan Gould

The familiar war cry, "beat Nebraska!" is ringing through the Big Six conference, writes our Mr. Charles Grumich, and comments: But it will be no simple task to junk Coach Dana Bible's Cornhuskers in their bid for a third consecutive title.

A continuation of the open game to which Nebraska turned with great success last season is promised by Bible, who expects a further departure from power football with a lighter, faster eleven this year.

Bible can turn loose an all-senior team if he desires.

George Henry Sauer, a big cog in Nebraska's impregnable pass defense that played a major part in winning the championship last fall, is the Huskers' main backfield threat. The Bernis Masterson, quarterback and rummy pass-grabber, Jack Miller and Hub Boswell complete the veteran backfield quartet.

The line likewise abounds with experience. There are few better than Bible's watch-dog guards, Clair Bistup and Warren DeBus. The 1932 all-American center, Lawrence Ely, will be missed.

The Huskers' principal opponents outside the conference are the Pitt Panthers, whom Nebraska tied last fall after the Panthers' stunning conquest of Nre Dame.

Rivals Depend on Sophs Kansas and Oklahoma, which finished last season in a deadlock for the runner up honor may or may not threaten Nebraska, depending upon the development of sophomores.

Oklahoma's backfield is built around the Panste brothers, Bill and Art, diminutive speedsters, who will go far if they avoid injuries which benched them last season, and Bob Dunlap, triple-threat all Big Six quarterback in 1932.

Oklahoma opens against Uncle Dan McGugin's Commodores of Vanderbilt, whence came Lewis Hardage, the Sooner head mentor.

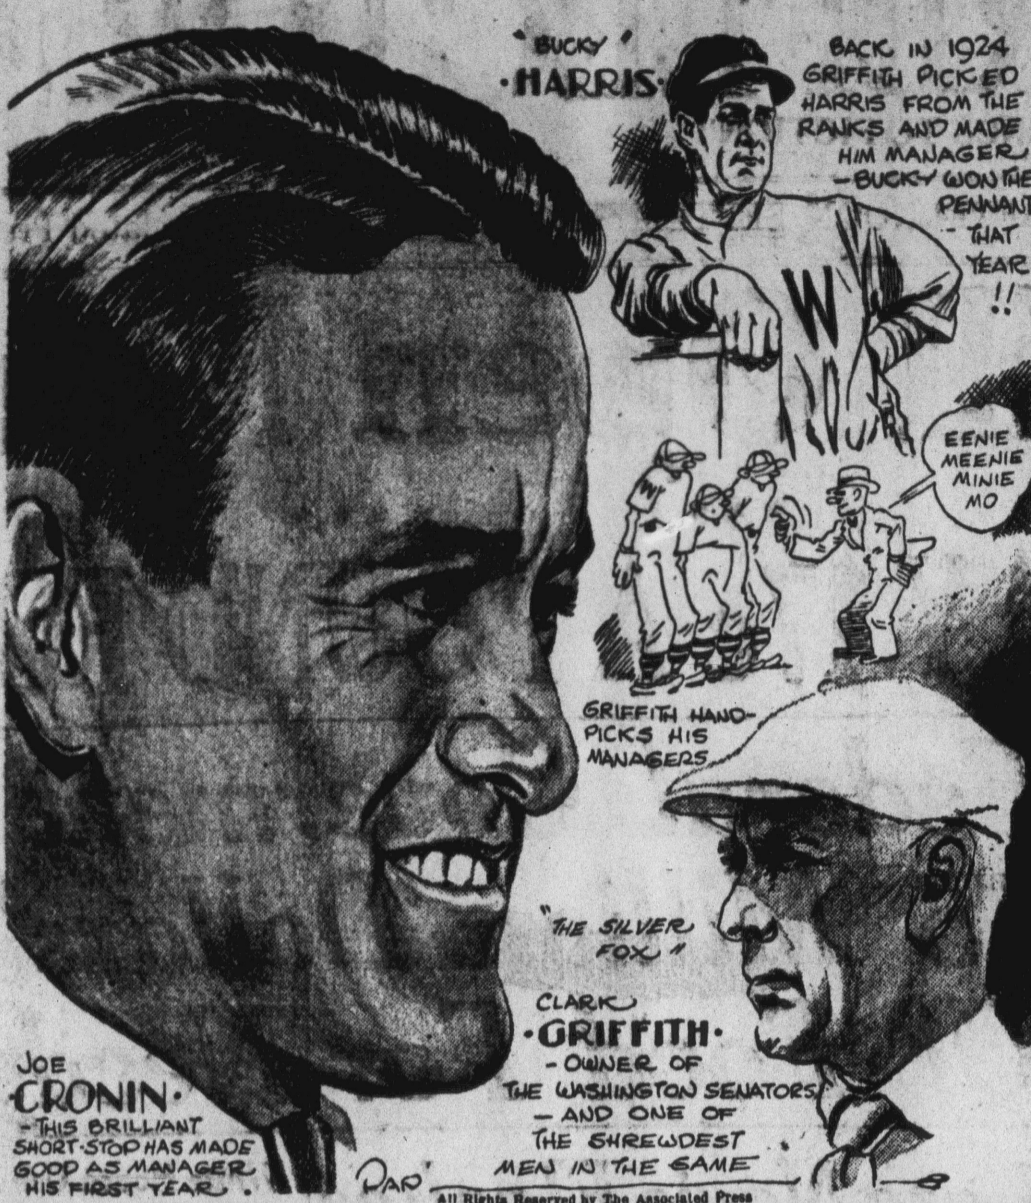

Kansas lost the passing combination — Carnie Smith to Elmer Schaeke — that scored on Notre Dame and beat Missouri, and Coach Adrian Lindsey avows he needs a quarterback and kicker to replace Schaeke, as well as a center and more strength at guards. He has, however, among 17 lettermen, Ormond Beach, blocking and defensive fullback, and Pete Mehrlinger, rated by Notre Dame players as equal to Eddie Smith of Southern California, at tackle.

Carideo Tries Again Frank Carideo is beginning his second year at the helm of the Missouri Tigers without much stand-out material, but with the advantage of having laid the groundwork for the Notre Dame system he espouses.

Bo McMillin's Kansas State squad which placed fourth last year, includes Ralph Graham, one of the best smashing backs in the circuit. McMillin is short-handed, as usual in reserves.

At Iowa State, coach George Veenker has prospects of a team with weight, speed and experience. A dozen lettermen are on hand.

Hollering Champion Plans To Try To Out-Roar Big Town Noise

Danville, Ky.—(AP)—Lee Chrisman, champion "hollerer" of the Kentucky mountains whose voice has been heard eight miles away on a still night, is thinking of going to New York, Chicago and other big cities to see if he can drown out the "L" and the roar of city traffic.

Chrisman, an auctioneer near Danville who sells stuff at public sales for Boyle County farmers and pies and cakes at church festivals, attracted attention not long ago when he went to the top of The Pinnacle at Cumberland Gap, and with three pairs of judges located eight miles away, made his voice heard in the three States of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia.

What a "Hollerer" It was a still night, and his mighty "yee-hoo" reverberated and echoed through the quiet mountains quite clearly.

Chrisman's neighbors, who are accustomed to hearing him "tuning up" three miles away, were so impressed by this feat that 5,000 of them gathered at Danville just to hear the champion "yee-hoo" at a sort of homecoming demonstration.

The resulting publicity brought the auctioneer several offers to go on the stage, but he refused them all and said he preferred to remain in the "amateur class." While not

In the Series

This is the fifth of a series of sketches on individual stars of the New York Giants and Washington Senators, world series rivals.

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—"General" Alvin Crowder asked Manager Joe Cronin last spring at training camp in Biloxi to let him pitch the first game of the world series. And he wasn't fooling—

The "General" was in the regular army first in Siberia and later in the Philippines, where he started playing baseball. He took up the game because he noticed that the soldiers who belong to regimental baseball teams were excused from many weary hours of drilling and "K. P." duty.

First he thought he was a short-stop, but was such a fizzle that he started pitching. When his outfit returned to San Francisco, that club signed him only to let him go. His home-town club of Winston-Salem in the Piedmont League, however, gave him a trial and he did so well that Rochester bought him.

He finished the season in the Eastern League, then pitched for Birmingham in 1926 and 1926. Washington bought him in '28, but the next year he developed stomach trouble and was traded to St. Louis. Washington regained him in 1930 along with Heinie Manush in a trade whereby Goose Goslin went to the Browns.

Last year the "General" led the American League pitchers with 26 victories, finishing the season with thirteen straight wins.

He is a horse for work, and is willing to pitch three games a week. "Gimme the ball Crowder" his team mates have dubbed him this year, as he has again led the league in pitching.

Crowder is a native of North Carolina, is 32 years old and weighs 175 pounds. He stands five feet 10 inches, throws right and bats left.

Chimpanzees As Well As Babies Found To Have 'Sign Of Babinski'

By HOWARD W. BLSKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor) New Haven, Conn.—(AP)—The "sign of Babinski," a big toe reflex once considered exclusively human, has been found in chimpanzees at Yale University Institute of Human Relations.

The discovery gives medical scientists a bit of information of potential value in studying human nervous disorders. It also bridges another gap in evolution.

Tickle a baby's instep and the big toe will try to turn upward, instead of curling downward like an adult's reaction. That toe upturning is the "sign of Babinski." The name is from Joseph Babinski, French physician who discovered the reflex about thirty years ago.

Symptom of Nervous Trouble In babies it is a healthy sign of the stage of still incomplete development of the higher nervous centers. But later in life the "sign" disappears, except during deep sleep. Reappearance of the "Babinski" in adult waking hours is an important symptom of nervous disorders.

The sign points directly to trouble in the brain, in the nerve centers which transmit control of bodily movement. In the World War many soldiers showed the Babinski after head injuries. It is a symptom of the stumbling trouble called Little's disease.

Now comes the Yale experiments in which the sign emphasizes how brains probably developed in evolution. The studies were made by John F. Fulton, M.D., professor of physiology, Yale School of Medicine, and Allen J. Keller, professor of physiology, University of Alabama.

Found in Chimpanzees Beginning with the lower forms of monkeys, they watched for the "sign of Babinski" to appear as a result of brain injuries. But nothing like the sign was detected from such injuries until they had advanced up the evolutionary intelligence ladder to chimpanzees, which, with gorillas, occupy the rung just below man.

Speculative scientific writing heretofore has attributed the "Babinski" in man to an atavistic reversion to the dim past when he lived in trees. When he was thought to have had an "opposable" big toe, one which could be used like a thumb in grasping. Dr. Fulton says the Yale studies show that this belief is a fallacy.

"As yet," the report of the scientists states, "we have no suggestions to offer as to the ultimate atavistic significance of the reflex."

The normal reflex, when the toe curls downward, generally is believed to be a protective mechanism. It is part of the motion of jerking the sole away from injury in stepping upon a sharp object.

Food Problem Solved Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)— Shelby County's eating problem is nearing a solution. Thousands of bushels of vegetables, grown in community gardens by the unemployed, are being canned at the county penal farm. The city of Memphis and the county contributed $5,000 each toward the work and an RFC allotment made three carloads of cans available.

DEVICE MAY MAKE BANDITS COOL THEIR HEELS

Brownston, Ind.—(AP)—"Sorry, gentlemen, the safe is locked. Kindly be seated in the lobby and the vault will be opened in fifteen minutes."

Such may be the stock answer of the banker to the bandit in the future as the result of a time-lock invention of William Richards, Brownston banker.

Richards' invention consists of a steel bar fitting across the front of the safe door, in full view of doubtful bandits, and operating with a timing mechanism.

The vault cannot be opened until the banker sets the timing mechanism in motion—and it takes fifteen minutes for the mechanism to work.

Richards' idea is that bank bandits usually are in too big a hurry in man to an atavistic reversion to wait fifteen minutes.

TWO GIFT ARTICLES

For Housewives Who Want Brighter Homes

Dear Madam:

Here are two articles which we will give to you for only 5c. One, a Brush of the latest type, 1 1/2 inches wide, 8 1/2 inches long,—with bristles set in rubber. The other, a Metal Guard to protect surfaces such as window glass, wall paper, etc., while you are painting or washing. With it you can paint window sash, woodwork and other surfaces quickly and cleanly without muss or smear. Also borders and straight lines.

Just bring the coupon with your name and address, and we will give you these two articles for 5c.

Our reason is this: We want the names of women who, from time to time, wish to brighten up their homes. We have some literature to give them, telling how to do it. We have some new facts to tell them about the latest creations in paints and varnishes—about quick-drying enamels, lacquers and varnish stains in a wealth of colors. About the proper coatings for wood floors and linoleum, the best coatings for walls—the latest of everything in these lines for indoors and outdoors.

This Company—The Glidden Company—has for generations been a leader in this line. The first varnish stain—called Jap-A-Lac—was their development. The latest things in enamels,

Royster
FIELD TESTED FERTILIZERS

I COULD take you through our laboratories and plants and show you how Royster Tobacco formulas are developed and materials tested to insure quality in the finished product. But I know you're far more interested in results. And you can see them for yourself. Just take a look at the quality of the tobacco made with Royster Fertilizer. Then look at the quality made with other fertilizers. And compare the price each brings. That's the only sure way to judge tobacco fertilizer.

Behind the results that Royster Tobacco Fertilizer brings lie nearly 50 years of experience and research. Royster experts are constantly studying the tobacco plant —finding out all there is to know about its plant food needs, as well as the requirements of the tobacco trade. These men spend their entire time locating, testing and refining materials to make certain that Royster Fertilizers contain only the best that can be obtained. And their continuous field tests prove that Royster Fertilizers make premium quality tobacco.

Remember this: The chief aim of the Royster organization in the manufacture of tobacco fertilizer is to make one quality—the best—which will bring you the highest price for your crop. Check my statements for yourself. Compare the tobacco on the warehouse floor.

E. C. T. C. CLASS WORK BEGINS

Every Teacher in Place as Students Begin Annual Dig For Knowledge

Regular class work at East Carolina Teachers College began this morning at 8:15 o'clock with every teacher in place, and 863 students fully registered and reporting for work. There are others yet unregistered because of irregularity of schedules or delay in leaving homes. This is a high registration for the opening, and an indication that the number for last year, 900, will be reached the first term. There are approximately 225 freshmen.

There are eighty boys enrolled so far, with prospects of a hundred. Fifty of the boys are from out-of-town, whereas, in the past, the majority of boys have been from the town of Greenville. The boys are scattered throughout the four classes of the four-year course. The number of colleges from which the upper classmen come is noticeable. Credits have been transferred from State, the University, Duke, Wake Forest, the Citadel, Davidson, Mrs. Hill, Roanoke, Atlantic Christian, and Campbell.

There are a number of transfers among the women students also. Among the colleges represented are the Woman's College of the University, Greensboro College, Winthrop, Salem, Louisiana, Queens-Chicago, Flora McDonald, Erskine Chowan, Peace, Virginia Intermont, University of Florida, State Teachers College of Fredericksburg, Va., and San Antonio (Texas) Junior College.

At the assembly hour the Austin auditorium was overflowing. President Wright expressed gratification over the excellent opening and gave instructions about the order of exercises. He talked briefly on what a college can do for a person. It can only offer one the opportunity to do something with himself. All it can do is to throw an environment around one and hope that will help him to grow into something fine and great.

Tomorrow morning he will talk on church attendance.

AUTUMN

A CLEAN, white page is turned . . . a new season, new hopes, new ambitions. Start right . . . square your debt to yourself. Buy the clothes you want and need. Scrimping is no longer the fashion. Buying, entertaining, grand gestures are. Look expensive . . . it's the aim of all smart women, and it has its stimulating effect. And it doesn't mean spending exorbitantly. It means buying the correct, lavishly feminine clothes that just naturally look like money . . . without costing much. For instance the kind of clothes which we have always shown. Fine clothes, as right as Paris . . . We invite you to see them. To buy them if you please, but surely to inspect them to know what fashion has done for a brand new season.

NOW IS TIME TO GET POOL

A group of citizens in meeting last night urged the recently appointed swimming pool committee to continue its efforts to procure a pool for Greenville and to petition the Board of Aldermen to call the necessary bond election in connection with securing the government loan for the project. There is no question that Greenville needs a swimming pool and as we see it now is the time to get one when the government will make us a present of 30 per cent of the amount necessary to build the pool.

Of course when you say bond election a great many people begin to howl because it is believed that it will mean higher taxes, but in the case of this pool, according to conservative estimates, the project will be self-liquidating relieving the taxpayers of any increased burden because of the pool. In view of this there should be no fears on the part of our people. Viewing the situation from the standpoint of the city administration there should be no fears for the calling of the bond election for the administration at all times desires to carry out the wishes of the people. If the election is called and the people vote for the bonds, the administration will know the people want this swimming pool, or if they vote against the issue then the administration will have nothing to fear for they will know that the will of the majority must be carried out.

If we are to ever have a swimming pool now is the time to get it when we can get a part of the money given us by the government and while the construction work will make work for a number of the unemployed.

THE ANNUAL SLAUGHTER

The Lind, Washington, Leader defines: "Americanism: Doing the daily dozen for health and trying to pass another car on a blind curve an hour later."

That is something more than a witticism. The recklessness of driving in this country amounts to a national tragedy. It is a constant menace to the lives of us all. It touches every pocketbook in a dozen different ways. And, in spite of aggressive and well-directed efforts to lessen highway accidents, the toll grows.

Passing on curves is one phase. So is disregarding

Sundown Stories

No Food

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
The shed behaved very well, and while the animals rocked around inside because of the wind blowing over the water, they were safe. All of the things that Top Notch had had in his shed for sale such as string and other odds and ends which he had found were scattered everywhere, but Top Notch did not mind. His General Store had not had much attention of late and it needed to be completely made over anyway.

"All that matters now," said Top Notch, "is that we are safe. How long do you suppose it's going to continue raining?"

"I've no idea," said Willy Nilly. "I've never known anything like this in all my life."

They looked out of the little window of the shed, but all they could see was the heavy, heavy rain.

"Bow-wow," said Rip, the Dog. "I haven't had anything to eat in ever so long. I was so frightened before that I did not think about food. But now that we seem to be getting along all right with this shed for our protection, we should have something to eat."

"That's so, we should," agreed Willy Nilly. "I'm starved."

"I could eat and eat and eat," sighed Top Notch, the Rooster.

"Quack, quack, but I'm hungry," said Mrs. Quacko Duck.

"Quack, quack, I'm with you there," quacked Mr. Quacko Duck.

"What have you got in this shed to eat?" asked Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Nothing," said Top Notch dismally.

Suddenly the truth dawned upon them. They were without food, and water was everywhere around.

Tomorrow—"Danger Ahead"

signal lights and warning signs. So is driving at high speeds where conditions call for caution. So is one of the most fundamental and deep-rooted of driving ills—simple discourtesy.

Some time ago an insurance magazine carried a vivid editorial concerning a "Roman holiday" that was to take place. Thirty thousand people, of all ages and classes, were to be gathered in a field. Motor vehicles—private cars and trucks and taxis and buses—would drive in and roar about the field until all its occupants had been killed. The public would look on disinterestedly.

The only difference between that horrid event and the annual automobile accident toll is that we kill the thirty thousand people during 365 days instead of one, and in ten thousand different places instead of the single field. The result is identically the same. And it is going to occur this year and the next and every year after that until the average motorist awakens to his responsibility.

Remember that "Roman holiday." It will be worth thinking about next time you contemplate passing on a curve, or doing any of the scores of things that may lead to death, injury and destruction.

TWO BADLY INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Tarboro, N. C., Sept. 22.—A serious automobile accident occurred about 9:03 o'clock last night near this city on the Tarboro-Greenville highway when an automobile driven by Mr. Whitehurst, of Bethel, was struck in the rear by an automobile in which were R. C. Chapps, Milford Rbsh, Harry Avery and C. B. Scott, said to have been from Durham and Raleigh. Miss Reba Proctor, a teacher in the Conetoe school who was in the car with Mr. Whitehurst was severely injured, having one of her eyes split open. Miss Proctor was taken to Rocky Mount to an eye specialist and he said the member would have to be removed.

C. B. Scott is in a local hospital with a broken leg and the other men who were in the car with him are in jail awaiting trial. They were not injured nor was Mr. Whitehurst.

Outrageous Fortune

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Two women go to the Elton hospital in response to an inquiry broadcast by the authorities after a man is picked up on the shore, dazed from his experience in a shipwreck. He has talked in his sleep about "Jimmy Riddell" and about green heads, and emerald. Nesta Riddell tells the hospital staff the man is her husband, and removes him to her brother Tom's car. Caroline Leigh arrives too late. She believes the man may be her cousin, Jim Randal, an engineer. The nurse explains, and tells her that unless she is sure Jim Randal was on the subway boat, she must continue to "hope for the best."

Chapter Five MORE MYSTERY

"OH—" said Caroline. "And he hadn't any papers or anything of that sort?"

"Not a thing—nothing at all, except the torn-off end of a letter."

"Oh, that's something!" Caroline's voice thrilled. "A bit of a letter? Oh please, what was on it?"

"Nothing but the signature," said the day nurse.

"What? Your affectionate Uncle Alfred, or Aunt Maria, or Cousin Jemima?"

The day nurse felt a little disturbed; she did not know why.

"No—it was only the name."

"What name?"

"Just Caroline."

Caroline put both hands to her head as if she were afraid that her hat would blow off in some violent, intangible wind. She felt giddy with the rush of it. It slapped her face and sang in her ears. She held on to her bright brown curls and opened her eyes as far as they would go.

"Caroline?" she said in her very deepest voice.

"That's all."

"It's quite enough. My dear thing, it's more than enough—because I am Caroline."

"Oh!" said the nurse. Then she said, "Caroline—" in an experimental sort of way. Then she stopped dead.

"Caroline Leigh," said Caroline with a warm rush of words. "I told the girl who let me in, but I expect she forgot—or perhaps she just didn't like the name—lots of people don't. But I am Caroline Leigh, and I wrote to him and signed it just like that—just Caroline. And what do you think of that?"

The nurse did not seem able to think at all. She took refuge behind Nesta Riddell.

"Mrs. Riddell said he was her husband."

"Is her name Caroline?"

"I don't know. I did ask her if she knew anyone by that name?"

"And what did she say?"

"She said she might."

CAROLINE stopped holding her curls. The wind had blown past her and away. Her right hand took her left hand and pinched it hard.

"She said it was her husband?"

"Yes."

"She ought to know. What was he like? I ought to have asked that straight away—oughtn't I? What was he like?"

The day nurse looked vague. Her mind didn't work as quickly as that; it did not in fact work quickly at all, except on the accustomed lines of routine.

Caroline's eyes sparkled and implored. They were bright, as deep spring water is bright—bright, and brown, and eager.

"Oh, what was he like? Aren't you going to tell me?"

"Well—" said the nurse slowly. "It's not so very easy to say, you know."

PASSPORTS DRIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND OUT OF MOSCOW
Moscow—(AP)—The population of Moscow has been reduced more than 100,000 by the passport decree which expelled from the capital to smaller cities and the provinces all those engaged in "socially useful" work.

One June 1, after distribution of passports was complete here, the population had fallen to 3,546,000 from 3,663,000 as of January 1, 1933. Only 2,485,184 persons received passports, but children were not required to have them.

Final figures have not been received on the passport system's effect on the ten other cities to which

Texan Wants Irish School
Dublin—(AP)—Prof. C. H. Slower of the department of English in the University of Texas and a recognized authority on Anglo-Irish medieval relations, declared the growing interest taken by Americans in Celtic antiquities justifies the establishment in Dublin of an American school of Irish archeology.

Total valuation of property in Utah for assessment purposes was decreased more than $48,000,000 or 8.4 per cent for 1933.

"I am Caroline Leigh."

THIS was going too far for the nurse.

"I don't see how it could be your letter," she protested. "No—we left it in his pocket just where it was."

Caroline turned again. The signature would have told her everything at once. Now she'd got to wait and wait and wait. Eight miles, or eight hundred, were all the same when you wanted to know something at once—at once.

"Miss Leigh—"

Of course she hadn't said goodbye. How frightfully, unforgivably rude. She flung round with an impulsive hand out.

"Oh, please forgive me—you've been so kind!"

But the nurse was taking something out of her apron pocket.

"That's nothing. But if you're seeing Mrs. Riddell, perhaps you'll give her this." She held out a flimsy folded paper. "The nurse who let her in thinks she must have dropped it when she opened her bag. She's just given it to me, and though I don't suppose it's important, still if you are seeing her—"

"Yes, of course. What's the address?"

"She didn't say—but Marley's quite a small place."

"Good-bye, and thank you," said Caroline.

The nurse had said she was busy, yet she stood quietly in the door as Caroline got into her little car, turned and disappeared down the drive as quickly as the conformation there would permit.

The nurse was thinking, and it was difficult for her. There were, evidently two Carolines, since Nesta Riddell had practically admitted to knowing one. It was asking a good deal of coincidence to believe there were two missing men as well, yet Caroline was on the trail of a Jim Randal, and Nesta Riddell had a Jimmy Riddell in her care at the moment.

Or could it be—a voice shrilled behind her, and the nurse, suddenly called back to earth, disappeared with a sigh.

GREENVILLE MARKET REPORT

Markets Reopen Monday

Information has reached us that no market in South Carolina will open until next Monday; date now set for reopening of all tobacco markets following conference of buying companies with government officials in Washington, D. C., today.

We urge that you do not rush your tobacco to market, as we look for prices to strengthen as the season progresses.

We wish to congratulate the tobacco growers for their quick response to the government's request for your assistance in curtailing production of flue cured tobacco during 1934-1935. It is marvelous that so much has been accomplished in such a brief time.

The growers should be praised for their patience during these trying days. The government assures you better prices as your reward. Examine your tobacco carefully. Keep it dry and don't rush it to market.

Tune in on Greenville's Radio Station WEED every day (except Sunday) at 9:45 A. M., 12:45 P. M. and 5:45 P. M., for latest tobacco market reports. Will find it on your dial around 142 or 1420.

Tips on CONTRACT

By TOM O'NEIL
Driven To Slam

When there are game possibilities with the cards of either partnership there often is spirited bidding, terminating in deliberate overbidding with the hope of saving the rubber at a small penalty.

Caution is required in some such overbidding lest the enemy be driven to slam which can be made, especially when a double helps locate key cards. Here is a hand in point:

Both sides were vulnerable. North opened the auction with a spade. East passing and South offering two clubs. With great distributional strength, West overcalled with two hearts.

Having a void in hearts and a fit with South in clubs, North envisioned slam. South held more than a minimum. North could have bid hearts to show control of that suit, but offered four diamonds to see if there was another fit with South. East passed. South bid four spades. West overcalled with five hearts. He could have made a preemptive four hearts call over two clubs in the first place, but it would not have deterred North.

As a matter of fact, West and East can make four hearts and no more. To West it seemed as if the opponents had a certain game and a five-heart-contract could suffer little.

Double Falls

North now bid little slam in clubs and West ended the auction with a double. North thought the possibilities of slam were better than penalizing West heavily.

Success with the contract was a matter of excellent timing and judgment by the holder of the South cards, Mrs. Maud Hilda Zontlein of New York.

West led the singleton diamond knave. The declarer read the lead as a singleton and came up with the ace, then played on the assumption that most if not all of the adverse suits were held West. A low club was led to the ace and the knave was led from the South hand. West covered. Another trump lead exhausted West and left one club North, which was highly important for ruffing a heart. Two clubs remained South.

A lead of a low spade then gave South her first real hope of success. West dropped the queen, an obvious slip, and his holdings were apparent to the dealer. Came a backward finesse of the spade nine and a lead to the spade knave. The jack of hearts was ruffed with dummy's last trump, and two diamonds were discarded on North's good spades. A diamond trick was lost from the South hand to East at the end.

The WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

High spots in the life of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, English explorer, are depicted in the latest issue of stamps from Newfoundland.

Put out in celebration of the 450th anniversary of the Sir Humphrey's annexation of Newfoundland to the mother country, England, the issue contains 14 stamps, running from one cent to 2 cents. The one-cent bears the picture of Sir Humphrey, while on the 2-cent is Queen Elizabeth.

On the 20-cent is an old map of Newfoundland, on the three-cent is the Gilbert seal, on the 14-cent is the arms of England, the 5-cent pictures the miniature anchor presented to Sir Humphrey by Queen Elizabeth, while on the 2-cent is the statue of the explorer, the original of which is on the Truro cathedral.

The seven other stamps show various episodes in the life of Gilbert including the annexation in 1583 on the ten-cent, the departure of the Gilbert fleet from Plymouth on the eight-cent and the arrival at St. John's on the nine-cent.

What's Going On.

The recent NRA stamp seems to be calling forth more comment from collectors than any other previous stamp issued by the U. S. in recent years. The latest is based on the fact that of the four figures on the stamp that representing business has the right foot forward instead of the left of the others. Previously references had been made that the figure representing agriculture was "Russia."

The Irish free state has planned a two-penny and a three-penny stamp in connection with Holy year. Brazil has joined the Latin-American countries putting out "flag of the race" stamps on commemoration of Christopher Columbus sailing from Spain. Red in color, the value is 200 reis.

Peru has prepared a set of nine postage and six airmail stamps commemorating the death of Atahualpa in 1533. Drawn by Peruvian artists, the stamps portray historic incidents connected with the con-

For the third time since the accession of Prince Francis I on Feb. 11, 1929, Liechtenstein is paying tribute to its ruler through postage stamps. Rio de Janeiro (AP)—The government coffee department has started an inventory of federal and state warehouses to determine just how many million sacks it has on hand. Settling the definite figures will help determine the extent of the government's destruction policy. Nearly 20,000,000 sacks have been destroyed since 1931.

Landing At South Pole One Aim of Byrd As He Probes Antarctic Secrets Anew

By WILLIAM GAINS

New York (AP)—Having flown over the South Pole in 1929 Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd now has the ambition to land on top of it.

For this reason he is taking an autogyro on his second expedition into the antarctic regions. Its peculiar construction enables it to make a more or less vertical landing, whereas no orthodox airplane could be swooped down upon the icy roughness of the polar area.

But figuratively dropping out of the air on to the point of the pole is only an incidental design of this most ambitious antarctic invasion. Byrd's scientific program is so elaborate that it probably has not been approached by any other expedition planners.

30 Scientists Plan Program

More than 30 well known scientists have labored long and arduously preparing a program of all possible fields of investigation in the frozen south. They are to be recognized as the admiral's "honorary scientific staff."

At least nine men of science will go to the bottom of the earth with Byrd.

It is the purpose of science to take from the realm of speculation the largest portion of the earth left to our imagining and reduce it to the commonplace of something exactly known, traveled and mapped.

Very probably Byrd will outline the boundaries of a continent as large as the United States and Mexico combined; perhaps two continents.

To Sound Sea Depths

The admiral and his followers will attempt to sound the depth of the dismal polar seas, the ice caps and record the influence of the area's magnetic factors. They may gather meteorological data of inestimable value to the whole world.

And what a price they will pay—this venturesome admiral and his 70 men. Perhaps two good years of their lives away from civilized life, and the party—about 30—will spend at least one bleak, dark antarctic night of inaction on the frozen wastes of the Bay of Whales shore line.

The group will leave Boston late this month in the rugged barkentine The Bear, an ice breaker, and the supply ship Pacific Fir. They will go through the Panama Canal to Dunedin, New Zealand. Byrd's ship base on the last expedition. From there the ships will proceed south to the Bay of Whales and land the ice party in Little America.

The antarctic summer is our winter, and there won't be much of it left when the explorers reach Little America. Soon the ships must turn back again to New Zealand, and the ice party will, in a sense, be stranded until next fall. Through the long antarctic night they will merely exist, waiting for their summer, which will come with our fall, when they may get under way with their major endeavors.

All of the time, if luck is with them, the ice party will be in communication with this comfortable continent by short wave wireless, and newspaper readers will know what small or large excitements they may have.

And perhaps a year from now the nation will learn that Byrd has dropped from the skies to score a direct hit on the southern pole, and science will be indebted for the more important achievement of the second Byrd antarctic expedition.

CURT LINES 2 COLMS

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd (right) soon to head south on his second antarctic expedition, hopes this time to land at the South Pole having flown over it on the first trip. He is taking an autogyro for this purpose. Scientific study of all kinds also is on his program. The barkentine, The Bear, shown in center, is one of the two ships which will carry the party. Map shows the region to be explored.

NAVY USING GLIDERS IN TRAINING PILOTS

Pensacola, Fla. (AP)—Gliders are being tested by the Navy at its air station here as aids to training student fliers in developing aircraft "sense" or "feel."

Two of the motorless ships have been put into service to see whether their use in training may shorten the time required for dual instruction and increase the confidence of student pilots.

The students first "fly" the glider as it is pulled along the ground behind a towing car. When they have learned how to control the wing level and keep a straight course with the rudder the speed of the tow car is increased until the glider is a few feet in the air. Altitude is gradually increased as the students become more proficient.

Next steps are learning to make turns and finally precision landings.

ONE-DISH DINNER APPROVED IN GEORGIA'S RURAL HOMES

Athens, Ga. (AP)—One-dish dinners have won wider approval on the tables of Georgia housewives this summer than ever before, says Susan Matthews, extension nutritionist at the University of Georgia.

One-dish dinners, as outlined by Miss Matthews, include a meat, a starchy vegetable, a root or other vegetable and a sauce or gravy. They are often served from the dish in which they are cooked. Most of them, she says, are a meal in themselves and need only bread and butter and a beverage to complete them.

FATAL BRAIN DISEASE NEW MENACE TO STOCK

Provo, Utah (AP)—A brain disease which made its appearance in California two years ago and last summer spread into Nevada has gotten as far east as Utah and is taking toll of horses and mules in two counties in this State.

The disease, believed to be carried by insects, chiefly mosquitoes, is prevalent in Weber and Davis counties. It is known as encephalomyelitis. The first symptoms of the disease is profuse sweating, a tendency to fall down and refusal to eat, says W. H. Hendricks, chief deputy of the State Bureau of Animal Industry.

Help yourself to YOUTH You can buy it by the bowlful!

IT'S TRUE... you're as young as you feel! And one food that will help keep you feeling young is Shredded Wheat. Here's why: Shredded Wheat is 100% whole wheat. And whole wheat is the cereal most bountifully blessed by Nature with all the vital elements—proteins, minerals, vitamins, carbohydrates, and the just-right measure of bran. In Shredded Wheat you get them all... nothing added, nothing taken away.

Try this vitally different food for breakfast or lunch. It's ready-cooked and ready to eat with milk or cream, with the fruit you like best. Keep up the good habit for at least ten days... and find new vigor, new energy... YOUTH!

When you see Nissara's Face on the package, you KNOW you have Shredded Wheat.

It's making people talk!
"higher anti-knock!"
"more power!"
"quicker starting!"
Last week alone, 12,700 people told us "Your new Gulf gas is a real value"
"Higher anti-knock"... "more power"... "quicker starting"... that is what motorists are telling us about the new and better Good Gulf Gasoline.
They have tried it themselves... and they like it!
In just one week 12,700 of these motorists sat down and wrote letters telling us about their experiences with Gulf's great new motor fuel. And here is what some of them said:
"Made the knock in my motor disappear like a magician's handkerchief!"... "Power? Oh, boy! It takes me up hills like a shot out of a gun!"... "Fired at the first touch of the starter" and "As smooth a pick-up as you ever saw"... That's what they are saying about Gulf's latest and greatest achievement... That new and better Good Gulf Gasoline!
Try it today. You'll get more power, more miles and more value for your money!... Stop where you see the "sign of the Orange Disc."
