ARMY AIR MAIL FLIER KILLED IN CRASH IN OHIO

Fog, Snow And Bad Visibility Causes Wrecks

TWO OTHERS FORCED DOWN IN MID-WEST

Lt. Lowery Dies When His Plane Crashes In The Woods Near Deshler, Ohio; Unidentified Pilot Forced down In Indiana Without Serious Mishap; Lieut. Hollstein Damages His Plane In Forced Landing Near Uniontown, Po.

Cleveland, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Fog, snow and a low ceiling played havoc with the army mail schedule in the mid-west early today bringing death to one flier and sending two others to emergency landings.

Lt. D. G. Lowery, out of Chicago for Cleveland, nosed into the woods near Deshler, Ohio, fifty miles south of Toledo and was killed, but he threw some of his mail free before the crash. An unidentified mail pilot was reported forced down in the vicinity of Goshen, Ind., without serious mishap and the mail was continued by train.

Lt. C. T. Hollstein, of Cleveland for Washington was forced down near Uniontown, Pa., in a heavy fog. His plane was damaged but he escaped unscathed and his mail was saved, according to reports sent to the Cleveland airport.

KING ALBERT BURIED TODAY AT BRUSSELS

Thousands of Distinguished People From All Parts of World at Funeral

Brussels, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Belgium buried her king today—Albert, the valiant. Kings walked in the funeral procession, and commoners. A hundred guns saluted and church bells tolled. Behind wooden barriers crowds that in places backed to a depth of 200 yards watched the solemn march.

Some likened this funeral of Albert I, killed Saturday while mountain climbing, to that of Marshall Foch. It drew even a more brilliant line of titled foreigners.

Active and former rulers of the world's remaining monarchies, high officials of democracies and leaders in the allied armies escorted the king's coffin as it was taken from the palace crypt and carried to the little gray church at Laken.

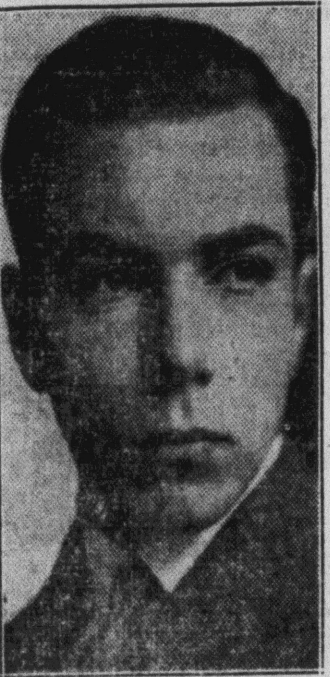

Brussels became vast camp for the sad occasion. Thousands of visitors of every circumstance spent the night in the streets to obtain a good place along the route of the procession.

Once more on the march, but this time without arms, between 30,000 and 40,000 Belgian war veterans who knew the king as their leader against the armies of Kaiser Wilhelm marched past the coffin before the procession started.

True to Belgian custom, no women took part in the ceremony. The broken widowed Queen Elizabeth and the future Queen, Princess Astrid, remained in seclusion at Laken castle while Crown Prince Leopold and his brother Charles followed their father's body afoot.

Tests by tractor manufacturers under guidance of the department of agriculture have shown that the use of alcohol as motor fuel blend is practical mechanically but not economically as yet.

TWO WOMEN RE-ARRESTED IN RY. MOUNT

Charges From Moore County Lodged Against Mrs. Holder And Mrs. Fowler

Rocky Mount, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Another attempt to free Mrs. Edith Holder, of Greensboro, and Mrs. Victor Fowler, of High Point, re-arrested late last night several hours after they had been released on a writ of habeas corpus, will be made here this afternoon at 3 o'clock, provided Judge N. A. Sinclair is able to hold the hearing.

The women were re-arrested by Sheriff C. L. Johnson, of Nash County, before they had an opportunity to leave on warrants sworn out in Moore county charging them with receiving stolen property.

They were given their freedom here last night on a writ signed by Judge Sinclair when no charges were lodged against them in the hearing.

Harold Cooley, of Nashville, attorney for the women, said that in case Judge Sinclair was unable to hold the hearing this afternoon he would seek a hearing before Judge Walter Small, of Elizabeth City, here on Monday.

Critically Injured In Train-Car Collision

Roanoke Rapids, Feb. 22.—A. W. Connor was taken to the local hospital this afternoon with a fractured skull and broken leg in a semi-conscious condition as the result of a collision between the truck he was driving and Seaboard Air Line passenger train No. 14. The train was just pulling in at the station here when Connor was seen driving straight into the side of the engine. The front of the truck was torn off and Connor was thrown between it and the train. With signals working and the view unobstructed, eye-witnesses could not explain the accident. E. W. Tubant, local Seaboard agent stated this was the first such accident during his stay here, a period of over 13 years.

ALLOT $189,000 FOR WATERWAY DREDGING

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The War Department yesterday allotted $189,000 for dredging of the intra-coastal waterway from Cape Fear river, N. C., to Winyah Bay, S. C., south of Little river, to secure a channel eight feet in depth at low water.

FEAR DEATH FOR PARTY ON BIG ICE FLOE

Crumbling Ice Threatens 101 Shipwrecked Persons in Bering Strait

Moscow, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Crumbling ice and a raging gale carried today a grave threat of death to 101 shipwrecked victims marooned on a drifting ice floe in Bering Strait.

The stranded party—including eight women and two small children—comprised Professor Otto Schmidt's Wrangel island scientific expedition. They took refuge on the ice when their steamer sank while returning from the island Feb. 13.

First real fears for their safety were aroused when the government rescue commission at Moscow announced that the storm blocked all efforts to reach them.

Food supplies are plentiful, the commission said, but the ice field was reported to be disintegrating. The fact that it was being driven north by the wind darkened hopes for rescue.

MAN ADMITS ATTEMPT TO SNATCH ADLER

Charles Phillips Confesses Kidnap Plot To Obtain $40,000 Ransom

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A prisoner's dramatic confession that he plotted to kidnap E. P. Adler, a newspaper publisher, for $40,000 ransom marked a victory today in the drive to end the snatch racket. The plot was frustrated by the stout resistance of the 61-year-old publisher and bank president.

When Charles Phillips, alias Fred Mayo, an accomplice slugged him with a blackjack in the Morrison Hotel, Adler fought them off.

Phillips, captured a short time later, admitted last night after fifteen hours of questioning that he and his accomplice, known as Al Wyman of Des Moines, planned to put Adler into a trunk, ship him to a southside flat to await ransom negotiations.

Today police flung a wide net for Wyman who was still at large. Suddenly breaking down, Phillips confessed to Sergeant Thomas Kelly that he and Wyman came from Des Moines to slug, drug and kidnap Adler. A woman, believed by police to be Wyman's wife was seized at a southside flat for questioning. He said her name was Mrs. Minnie Laeey.

WORKERS MUST RE-REGISTER

Reemployment Office Says All Who Have Not Registered Since January Must Do so

All unemployed persons who have not re-registered since January will be required to do so before the latter part of the month if they will be dropped from the lists, it was stated today by J. T. Bland, in charge of the local re-employment bureau.

With over three hundred CWA workers being dropped from the payroll here this afternoon in accordance with a recent government order, Mr. Bland said it would be necessary also for these men to register again.

The bureau is making an effort to find employment for everybody possible but this will be impossible if the files are not kept in order, hence the necessity for re-registration before the latter part of the month, Mr. Bland said.

Work has been going on for hundreds of persons during the last several months, and with the beginning of farm work in a month or so it was expected probably that a new field would be open for some of the unemployed.

TALK ROAD SAFETY HERE

Safety Committee to Be Named at Public Meeting This Afternoon

Highway safety is the keynote of the public meeting to be held at the Woman's club this afternoon at 4 o'clock under auspices of the Kiwanis club and other organizations of the city interested in reducing the terrific loss of life suffered from automobile accidents in this state each year.

The meeting is being held in connection with a state-wide movement to form safety clubs in the various communities and to educate people in thinking in terms of safety when they get in an automobile and start out on the public highways.

Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, who sometime ago was selected to lead the movement here, will preside over the meeting today and explain the purpose of the Carolina Motor Club to reduce loss of life occurring on state highways.

Dr. McGeachy said that in view of the tremendous toll of life and property exacted by automobile wrecks each year it was imperative something be done to improve the situation, and thought that safety committees in all parts of the state should play an important part in this connection.

The meeting is of a public nature and everybody interested in the movement has been invited to attend.

CAFE ROBBED LAST NIGHT

Small Amount of Cash and Tobacco Products Stolen From Rollins Cafe

Officers reported today that robbers entered the Rollins cafe on Ninth street last night, obtained about $3 in cash, five cartons of cigarettes, a supply of snuff and chewing tobacco and escaped.

Although an investigation was instituted this morning, Chief of Police George Clark said no clue leading to the capture of the robbers had been obtained.

The robbery was discovered this morning when employees opened the building for business.

Entrance was made through a back door. Bolts were taken out of the hinges, the door lifted off and the thieves had nothing to do but walk in and take what they wanted.

The money had been left in the cash register for change when business was resumed this morning.

Chief Clark said he thought the total loss would not be over $10.

Back Broken in Accident
Sanford, Feb. 22.—G. L. Stroupe of Colon, who received injuries of a serious nature Monday when his automobile left the highway and turned over near Apex, is in Lee County Hospital. Mr. Stroupe's back was broken, and he received injuries about the head.

The accident was due to the slippery condition of the highway, caused by a rainfall. G. L. Cacey of Sanford, who also was in the car, received only minor injuries.

DAMAGE SUIT SLOWS DOWN COURT HERE

Farmville Man Asks $3,000 Damage For Gin Erected Close to His Home

The civil term of Superior court was slowed down yesterday and again today by hearing of a damage suit over a cotton gin in the town of Farmville.

The suit was started yesterday morning and was expected to consume a greater part of today's session.

It was brought by T. B. King against W. G. Ward, trading as the Pitt Gin Company, and the Town of Farmville and seeks to recover $3,000 as damage for a gin erected near the home of the plaintiff in Farmville.

Court sustained a demurrer for non-suit on the part of the Town of Farmville shortly after hearing started and that leaves only W. G. Ward, operator of the gin, as the defendant.

The plaintiff contends that the gin is so close to his house as to endanger the health of his family as well as reducing the value of his property.

The defendant, on the other hand contends that the gin is conducted in a highly sanitary manner and is not a menace to the health of the public or a detriment to property values.

Numbers of citizens of Farmville, including members of the medical profession testified for the plaintiff yesterday that the gin did constitute a menace to public health as well as an embarrassment to the residential area in which it is located.

Testimony to the contrary was on the stand today by the defendant. Argument was due to be completed during the mid-afternoon with indication that the case would reach the jury shortly afterward.

MILLS SEEKS OFFICE FROM CHICOD AREA

First Announcement in Democratic Primary in June Made Here Today

First announcement in this county for office in the Democratic primary to be held next June was made by W. L. Mills, who seeks the post of constable in Chicod township.

Mr. Mills said he probably was a little bit early in making known his political desires, but he wants people to know in advance that he will be in the race and will do his best by the office if elected.

With announcement for public offices being made in other sections of the state, especially for legislative posts, it is expected prospective candidates would be tossing the proverbial political hat into the ring in the near future.

Although announcement has not been made, it has been stated that S. I. Dudley, member of the County Board of Commissioners, and a former sheriff, will oppose S. A. Whitehurst for the office of sheriff.

On the legislative side Mrs. J. B. Spilman has signified her intention to oppose A. B. Corey for the Senate post in the state legislature.

There have been no developments for seats in the House of Representatives and the present incumbents, E. G. Flaanagan and Jack Edwards are "sitting tight" and watching the political barometer to determine the nature of the political atmosphere nearer the time for the battle of ballots.

Although it is impossible to say how many will be in the race for various offices, it is believed the usual bountiful crop of candidates will be on hand to provide a merry race for the entire county.

CWA HIGHWAY PROJECTS ARE HALTED HERE

Three Hundred and Forty Two Men to be Dropped From Payroll Tonight

Three hundred and forty-two men employed in various CWA projects throughout the county will be dropped from the payroll here tonight in keeping with the reduction order received from National Administrator Hopkins the first of the week.

The CWA state highway program will be the hardest hit by the reduction program as orders have been sent to suspend work on such projects. This means that 182 men employed in this phase of activity were dropped from the payroll, and the remainder of the 342 will stop tonight.

K. T. Futrell, Pitt county administrator, said today that all necessary projects would be continued and full forces of workmen would be on duty all the time. These projects include public school work, health program, swimming pool and community buildings.

Whatever materials have been purchased on such projects, Mr. Futrell stated, work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. The cutting off of so many men means that workmen will find themselves switched from one job to another to keep forces at normal strength. For instance, those not dropped in the suspended highway program will be sent to other jobs immediately. Basis of actual need is the only thing that will be considered in keeping men on the payroll in the future, the administrator said, and then only one persons from each needy family will receive consideration.

The curtailment leaves slightly over seven hundred men at work on various projects of the county at this time. They will be paid according to the prevailing scale of pay in the various communities, but not under thirty cents an hour.

Lottery Operator Is Declared Guilty

Winston-Salem, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Fannie Richardson Thompson, Winston-Salem hotel operator and lottery "queen", today was convicted of seven counts, ranging from lottery operation to immorality charges and fined a total of $2,000. She was sentenced to an aggregate of 42 months in jail.

Ten young women were convicted and given suspended sentences on immorality charges and three men had their sentences suspended as a result of a police roundup early yesterday morning on Mrs. Thompson's two hotels. The cases were tried in municipal court.

One of the ten young women was Mrs. T. J. Burns, whose husband is now serving time as head of the Burns "gang" for a series of robberies. Mrs. Burns was tried on a similar charge but the case against her was dismissed.

Mrs. Thompson has had a number of brushes with the law. Following conviction and sentence today she gave notice of appeal. Bond was set at $7,000.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED

City Joins Other Parts Of The Nation in Paying Tribute to Great Leader

Greenville people today joined the rest of the nation in the celebration of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the first president of the United States and commander-in-chief of the American army during the Revolutionary war.

The observance probably was not as elaborate as in some other sections of the country, but the majority of people nevertheless, turned their attention to some of the achievements of the "father of the country" during the birth of this one of the greatest nations on earth.

The postoffice was closed and neither city or rural carriers made their rounds. All departments of the office were closed and only incoming first class mail and daily newspapers were being moved.

Banks were closed and employees turned their attention to thoughts of the life of the man whose birthday is so widely celebrated every year.

Schools, as usual, had their Washington programs, and students were in possession of more information about the man who was "first" in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen, than they ever were before.

Not only in Greenville but throughout the country, the birthday of the great American leader was being celebrated both by clubs, schools and other organizations, realizing and appreciating Washington's influence on public life.

NRA CONFAB SCHEDULED FOR MAR. 5

General Johnson Hopes Permanent Social Order Will Flow From Meeting

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—General Hugh S. Johnson hopes that a permanent system in the social order will flow from the great fathering of NRA code authorities here March 5—an assemblage which officials already are likening to the first economic conference.

Elaborate preparations for the meeting indicate that Johnson wants it to be a forceful demonstration of two things:

That industry under the NRA has the capacity to ask for the nation's well being and that the new system—which to date has been frankly experimental—is worth perpetuation.

Meantime more immediate problems are also occupying NRA attention. Johnson disclosed that correspondence is in progress with the Ford Company on complaints submitted by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that two Ford plants have violated the collective bargaining provisions of the auto code.

Warning against fairy tales, the NRA nevertheless said that if the complaints are true it will be a challenge to the government. Johnson added that a court suit would be the only recourse.

Meantime Senator Wagner, Democrat of New York, reported to President Roosevelt that he was troubled by the increasing opposition by industrialists to the activity of the national labor board of which he is chairman.

More than 33 cases involving 164,000 workers are still pending, Wagner said. About 100,000 of these employees are on strike, he added. Although Johnson undoubtedly will suggest a lowering of the industrial work hours at the forthcoming code meeting he still stood today upon his assertion that an arbitrary 30 hours a week could not be applied.

BANKERS MUST LEARN TO SERVE

(The Pathfinder)

Uncle Sam has been giving repeated hints to the bankers that unless they reform themselves entirely he will take charge of the banking business. In past days there has been a general objection to the government's going into business, but it has had to do it, as a choice of evils, in many cases. Sam runs the postal business all by himself, and he does it mighty well. He already has a smooth-running bank as a side line of the postal business, and in the last several years these postal savings banks have been taking a whole lot of business away from the banks.

What is the explanation? The explanation is that the people will trust their Uncle Sam and the politicians with their money and other interests much sooner than they will trust private institutions. This is especially true in times such as have existed in the last few years. Sometimes their confidence in the government is shaken a little—but when they compare Sam with the professional financiers and the magnates of big-business they give their preference to Sam every time. So it is very significant when the authorities of the government tell the bankers they must do better than they have been doing—or else!

Jesse H. Jones, head of the RFC, himself a banker, talked turkey to the bankers when he addressed a lot of them recently. Speaking as a man who is familiar with the problems and responsibilities of banking, he gave warning that the banks must show a more liberal spirit or they will sacrifice their position in the business world as recovery comes. He urged the bankers to "return to the first principles of banking," to get acquainted with the people and the requirements of business in their neighborhood and to conduct their affairs "more in a spirit of public service than purely for profit."

He denounced those bankers who have adopted a critical attitude toward government monetary policies and have turned a deaf ear to the appeals of borrowers. He said: "It should be remembered that it is the money borrower—the man upon whom most of the bankers look askance when he comes into the bank—who employs people, buys materials and makes for better business." Hence, the bankers ought now to adopt a new and more sympathetic policy, and encourage the restoration of business in every way possible.

It was only a short time ago that the bankers, acting under the pretended authority of the NRA, sought to load on their customers the cost of bank deposit insurance and the cost of cashing checks, as well as a long list of "service charges." Uncle Sam, after hearing many protests from the public, forced the bankers to adopt a more liberal plan. While depositors may still be required to keep a certain agreed balance in the bank, or be subject to carrying charges, these charges must be reasonable. Sam says: "It is too bad that the bankers have had to be spanked so much, but it is no doubt 'all for their own good'—as well as the public's."

KILLER IS HELD WITH OUT BOND

Trenton, Feb. 22—At a preliminary hearing held here last night before Magistrate Paul B. McDaniel, S. W. Green, 45, was ordered held for the grand jury without bond in the killing of Frank Craft, 38, Tuesday at Comfort.

The magistrate announced that if no new evidence came out by Saturday, Green would be released upon giving $5000 bond.

According to the evidence, Kraft went into Green's store and the two had a quarrel. Kraft ordered Green out of the store into the road. Green took one step, reached for his gun and fired. Craft staggered a distance of about 25 yards and died in about five minutes. It was ascertained that he was shot in the back of the head and that Green thought Kraft intended to attack him.

It was not brought out in the evidence what the men quarreled about. Solicitor D. M. Clark prosecuted the case and Green was represented by J. J. Jones of Kingston.

BLOND GODDESS
 A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame, the explorer and James Kent, mountaineer, fall into a mysterious valley while escaping from a band of war-demon savages in the interior of Yucatan. They cannot get out of the valley, and to their horror they find the high priest of the tribe imprisoned with them. To save the climax, they find Bill Langton also, and Langton is the aviator friend of Grahame who has been missing many months.

Chapter 39
LANGTON'S STORY

JANICE exclaimed in a choked voice, "He's hurt, Frank, oh, he's hurt!"
 Langton hurried. "That happened weeks ago. I'm all right now. I got cracked up badly trying to get out of this valley. A line I'd made broke when I was halfway up the cliff. . . . Getting food was pretty hard for a few weeks. . . ."

Janice's eyes glistened. Langton smiled. "Don't feel sorry for me Miss Kent—wait 'til I show you my cruceo bachelor quarters. I've got everything including running water. Too much running water, but I'm afraid not so many groceries as I'd like. . . ."

He chatted on, gayly, inconsequentially, as if he were admitting them to his house for an afternoon's visit. Frank could not take his eyes from the gangling emaciated figure.

The few rags of clothes he had were soiled and torn and hung from him like pitiful tatters on a scarecrow. He suggested that they walk to his camp.

He ambled ahead with a grotesque limp, swinging his stone-tipped bludgeon with what was almost an air of gay insouciance. The other arm stood out at a pitiful angle.

The afternoon sun dipped beyond the western cliffs as they reached Langton's fire. The high-priest lay as they had seen him earlier in the afternoon, face immobile, eyes hateful.

Frank experienced a little crawling of the muscles of his back as the ahkin's eyes rested upon him. Helpless as the man was nevertheless his glance seemed to have substance.

Frank felt the malevolent impact of his gaze. The ahkin seemed to have a power for harm that was beyond the physical.

Langton poked the fire with a stick. Several hours had passed since they had found him at their camp across the stream. After showing them his "Cruceo quarters"—the small shack that stood before the entrance to an extensive cave, he had pressed them with questions of the outside world.

His months out of civilization, he had said, seemed like so many years. Frank had gossiped steadily, and his news, supplemented by what Janice could tell, seemed to bring back the side of Billy Langton's nature—the impudent, reckless charm—that the world had thought lost forever to it.

Langton listened with the complete absorption of a child with a fairy tale.

Once with a vast penitence he interrupted to ask them if they were hungry. He barely waited for their answer, but disappeared into the cave and brought out a woven basket of dried venison.

Janice and Frank ate ravenously. The ahkin, when it was offered to him, had waded his hand negatively, almost contemptuously. Nor did Langton eat any.

"He's like I am," Langton grinned. "I'm so sick of the stuff myself I'd rather eat a bucket of spinach. . . . If I had a bucket of spinach."

FRANK glanced at him suspiciously. "Is that all you have?" He pointed at the basket.

Langton chuckled behind his blond beard. "I get you. But you're wrong this time. . . . There's more in the cave. And more running around loose in the jungle."

"This place is sort of a wild game trap. Animals that don't fall off the cliffs float down the stream and land here. They can't get out." He stared with impassive reflection into the fire.

"I've done as well for food as could be expected. I've had enough, anyway. I made a rope of vines and cactus fiber. With it I could trap a deer when I wanted."

"I've even caught a turkey or two, and managed to net fish. The trouble was—" Langton made a grimace—"that the rope finally got me in trouble."

"I made a long one, tied a rock to

John D. Larkins of Trenton, Green was incarcerated at Kingston as the jail here is not regarded as safe.

Craft was buried in the family burying ground near Comfort and, after the service conducted by Rev. George Turner, Houses minister, he was buried by his wife and several small children.

"The cabbage seed with hot water has been found to be an effective means of killing the eggs of the pest known as black rot and like it."

it and practised slinging it. I got so I could throw it quite a distance. It occurred to me that if I could sling it up over the lip of the cliff it might catch on something and I could haul myself up by it.
 "I tried it. After a while it fastened on something—I thought stoutly—and after testing it by climbing ten feet or so I decided to risk the entire climb. Well. . . . It let me down. . . ."

He pointed to his maimed arm. "I broke that, and dislocated my hip. I crawled back here. It was pretty bad for a while. I had some food but I couldn't hunt—I guess for weeks." He grinned again. "But my appetite wasn't what you'd call hearty, and I got by all right."
 "What did you do for fire?" asked Janice.

"That was the least of my worries. I found a wood that burns forever, in the city, and I had a few matches."

They sat and talked late into the night. The mosquitoes did not bother them. Langton claimed that it was because there was good drainage into a swiftly flowing stream, and therefore there could be no breeding places.

Langton's story was that he had been blown out of his course by the hurricane and sighted no place to land until to his amazement he saw the great stone-slabbed clearing near the pyramid.

Not only could he land there but it appeared designed for a later take-off. He had, then, no hesitation in landing.

"I'd been spoiled, I guess," he went on with a hint of apology in his smile. "When the natives surrounded me I thought that they composed a sort of jungle reception committee. They seemed to know who I was, too."

"I used to read stories about these people down here who made gods of blond men—you know lots of those old Spaniards were blond, which was one of the reasons they got by so well in the old days."

"Even when they came they found the natives had blond-gods from the east-legends. The Spaniards took advantage of those legends."

"Maybe I thought I might do the same for a little while. I'm kid enough, I guess, to try feeling how it is to be a king. Yep," he continued, "I tried, but I didn't get away with it. I met the ahkin here in a day or two and I began to wish that hurricane had blown me somewhere else."

"The high-priest isn't a bad sort, really. I think he's a remarkable fellow. He doesn't speak English—only Spanish—yes, that's right, just Spanish and his own language, but he can read your mind like a book."

"Don't tell me you don't believe in telepathy. Frank—this boy can give you some startling exhibition. Either that or he's a twin brother to Herman the Great. Anyway we got along fine when I'd ask him questions that he could answer with a yes or a no in Spanish—I know that much of the language, anyway."

"We got along fine, I say, until I was taken to the top of the pyramid to witness one of their little sunrise performances. They'd dressed me up quite trickily."

"They killed a poor devil on the sacrifice stone. . . . and a girl. I went a little haywire and in the fight came out second best."

"They put me in a stone room, and gave me to understand that my scrap on the pyramid top had elected me to take a more or less personal part in the next performance."

"They treated me all right though. They gave me some stuff from the ship, pop, chewing gum, and chocolate bars—" He grinned a little shamefacedly. "You know me, Frank. Frank used to tell me, Miss Kent, that all I needed on my crate was a peanut whistle to go into business."

"I wrote a note on a cablegram envelope, and scratched my story on the wall, high up. The envelope I put in a pop bottle and sealed it with chewing gum and a piece of rag from my shirt. When they took me to the pyramid top I carried the bottle with me."

"To cut a long story short, I tried to take the ahkin with me—not because I had anything personally against him, but he is a dangerous lunatic and with him out of the way the vital statistics of this ancient city would take quite a drop for the good."

Told Her Daughter To Take CARDUI

"I took Cardui for a week, run-down condition," writes Mrs. John Behme, of New Madrid, Mo. "My back ached, also my sides. I did not feel good, so did not feel like doing my work, and there is a lot to do on a farm. I read about Cardui and decided to take it. Cardui helped me. It is the best tonic I have found. I told my daughter to take it, too, and it helped her."

HOME LOAN BANK HOLDS MEETING
Winston-Salem, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Shareholders of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem, in their first annual meeting here yesterday, went on record as opposing a measure now in Congress which would authorize the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to lend money direct to home owners for building and repairing homes.

Shareholders manifested some curiosity as to the financial operations of the bank, adopting a resolution calling upon President Thos. W. Ellett to file a supplemental report on operating expenses, including salaries paid officials, together with any increases in salaries made since January 1 of this year.

The bank, which was set up October 15, 1932, serves Alabama, the District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

In his report, President Ellett told the shareholders that the organization now has 252 members, which have been authorized to obtain loans totaling $32,000,000. At the end of last year, the report showed undivided profits and reserves of $25,967.40.

Through its activity, the president reported, 10,000 home owners had been aided, while of $9,025,483 advanced before January 1 of this year, $2,109,670 had been repaid.

CARY WATER SCARCITY HAS COME TO AN END
Cary, Feb. 22.—Water is again flowing freely in Cary after a scarcity for over ten days. It was thought at first that the deep wells from which the supply is gotten had become low and so another well on the lot of J. F. Further investigations revealed that several main had burst and were causing so much leakage that the pumps could not get up enough pressure to supply the town needs.

Regardless of Price Judge the new FORD V8 on what it will do

Thousands of people who can afford to spend two or three times as much for a car, are today choosing the Ford V-8 for 1934, instead. Here are some of the reasons.

POWER. The Ford V-8 for 1934 gives you better than 80 miles per hour with the quicker acceleration and greater smoothness of an 8-cylinder motor. Power has actually been increased by 12 per cent over last year's model.

COMFORT. The Ford V-8 for 1934 offers more actual body room than many other cars that cost considerably more. It offers you new Clear-Vision

Ventilation, with the window in one piece. It offers you free action for all four wheels—plus the comfort of Ford Cantilever Springs and the proved safety of a front axle.

SAFETY. With the new Ford V-8 you get an all-steel body, safety glass, welded steel-spoke wheels, exceptionally low center of gravity and more braking surface per pound of weight than any other American-made car we know of.

ECONOMY. Gasoline economy is increased by two or three miles per gallon with the new Ford V-8. Test runs show that the new engine will give 20 miles per gallon at 45 miles per hour.

Sanford, Feb. 22.—At the weekly meeting of the Sanford Rotary Club at the Wilrik Hotel Tuesday, President W. H. White asked the members to stand for a moment in silent tribute to a fellow Rotarian, King Albert of Belgium, one of the world's best-loved heroes, who has recently passed away.

Judge Edward Rawley of Newark, Ohio, a member of the Kiwanis Club was a special guest of the meeting. He delivered an interesting address on the value of friendship, which the civic clubs are doing much to foster, and on the work that various clubs are doing in the way of making better citizens.

provisions of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill to place the exchange under Federal regulation. Whitney said the bill as now written would drive stock off the exchange.

The provision in the bill calling for quarterly audit reports to the Federal Trade commission would cost an average firm of $5,000,000 capitalization from $500,000 to $1,000,000 a year, he said, after he had read from a lengthy prepared statement criticism from the proposed legislation Whitney was made by Representative Pettengill of Indiana for his suggestion for a bill to be drafted in the public interest.

Whitney said he would vote voluntarily to submit a draft of such a bill.

Haw River Bank Robbed

Haw River, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The bank of Haw River's vault was found open and robbed of $1,000 when bank employes came to work today.

Officers said yegmen apparently had robbed the bank by working the combination of the vault.

After a preliminary check J. A. Long cashier said $5,000 had been overlooked by the robbers and that the loss was less than $1,000.

A trail of silver money from the bank to Haw River bridge several hundred yards away indicated the robbers had left the car at the bridge and in their hurry after opening the vault had dropped a part of the loot.

Entrance to the bank was made by prying off the lock to the front door. Two combinations were worked to gain entrance to the vault. Long said the money overlooked by the robbers had been wrapped and set aside separately as payroll for firms which were to call for them today.

Brown Testifies

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Walter Brown, former postmaster general told senate investigators he had always acted within the law and with the approval of the President in his air mail contract dealings.

Brown made the statement during questioning by Senator Austin of Vermont who seized the reins of the senate inquiry to compare 1930 air mail operator's conference with one purportedly came during the present administration by William Howes, first assistant postmaster general.

Austin read from Howe's testimony before a house appropriation committee that the postoffice department had called a meeting of mail contract holders and told them it would be necessary to trim payment under an appropriation cut.

Brown previously testified that Andrew Mellon, while Secretary of the Treasury, as well as W. L. and R. K. Mellon had written him in 1930 for Pittsburgh action in which the Pittsburgh family was interested.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Twelve hours after he confessed an abortive plot to kidnap Manuel Phillip Adler of Davenport, Iowa, Fred Mayo of Birmingham, Ala., alias Charles Phillips, hanged himself in the Marquette police station cell.

He died after police found him suspended by his pecktie from the cell bars. He was called to be taken before Jack Lacey, alias Wyman, an alleged confederate, arrested today. He was rushed to the county hospital in the hope of resuscitating him, but efforts were futile. He had taken on himself the capital punishment; he feared the state would in- stitute upon him for the kidnaping.

14-POUND TROUT IS SENT TO ROOSEVELT

New Bern, Feb. 22.—President Franklin D. Roosevelt may be disappointed in having to cancel his planned sea voyage during the spring, but he may get a taste of the water this week, if he eats a 14-pound speckled trout sent as a gift to him by Mack L. Epton, local fish dealer.

The trout is the largest of the species ever seen here by Mr. Epton; and he sent it to President Roosevelt not only as a token of appreciation for national leadership but also as an incentive perhaps in encouraging the President to come to this section sometime on a fishing trip. The fish was caught by Capt. John Day, of Oriental, about 12 miles down Neuse river.

Make This 25c Test

Lax the bladder as you would the bowels. Drive out impurities and excessive acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Get a 25 cent box of BU-KETS, the bladder laxative, from any drug store. After four days if you are not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. BU-KETS, containing buchu leaves, juniper oil, etc., acts pleasantly and effectively on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. If you are bothered with backache, or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. a better FERTILIZER for better times

THIS is an epoch-making year. There are changing conditions on every side. Much is being done to bring better times to the farmer. Bright tobacco growers will bend every effort to produce a better quality, higher-priced crop on a reduced acreage. Most low-grade tobacco will probably never reach the floor.

It is more important than ever to make sure you are using the proper fertilizer. Remember, potash is the quality-producing element in tobacco fertilizer. The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the North Carolina State College of Agriculture recommend a fertilizer containing 6 to 10% potash for bright tobacco.

Chemical analysis of high-quality tobacco plants proves that a 1,000-pound crop contains more than three times as much potash as 800 pounds of 3%-potash fertilizer contains. In fact, this analysis shows that tobacco removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined.

If you are dissatisfied with your yields and quality you probably have not been using the proper fertilizer. Plan now to use a mixture well-balanced with plenty of potash this season. Tell your fertilizer man you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER.

According to the new North Carolina fertilizer laws, the nitrogen in a fertilizer analysis will now be expressed as nitrogen instead of as ammonia as in the past. This means that this year's fertilizer as compared with last year's fertilizer of the same analysis will contain about 21% more actual nitrogen.

Fertilizer containing too much nitrogen produces rough, bony tobacco. Avoid this by selecting a fertilizer mixture in which the nitrogen has been well-balanced with plenty of potash. Tell your fertilizer man you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER.

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER is nothing new. It has proven its value in tests conducted over a period of years throughout the entire bright tobacco belt. The results of these tests show that farmers can very profitably apply two to three times as much potash as the average crop receives. The table below shows the results obtained by increasing the potash content of the average fertilizer used by 138 farmers on 1,242 acres of bright tobacco.

In these tests a fertilizer containing 8% potash was compared with a fertilizer containing 3% potash, or a fertilizer containing 10% potash was compared with a fertilizer containing 5% potash, etc.

GAIN IN DOLLARS PER ACRE FROM INCREASING THE POTASH IN THE FARMERS' FERTILIZER AT AN AVERAGE COST OF $3 PER ACRE
Year	North Carolina—Virginia	South Carolina	Georgia—Florida
1928	$45.27	no tests	$25.12
1929	36.99	$20.62	30.75
1930	39.60	24.85	18.75
1931	28.46	32.84	21.91

This extra cash from bright tobacco was obtained not only from increased yields, but also from greatly improved quality. The North Carolina Tobacco Experiment Station has said: "Potash is perhaps the most important single constituent of the fertilizer mixture for the growing of tobacco from the standpoint of quality."

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER gives best results with closer rows, closer spacing, ridge cultivation and late topping. Set more plants per acre and top after about half the crop is gathered. 3-8-8 holds the tobacco on the hill after it matures, without burning, producing a thin, grainy leaf with "high-dollar" quality.

When you buy fertilizer, remember that 800 pounds of 3-8-8 usually costs less than 1,000 pounds of 3-8-3, yet 800 pounds of 3-8-8 contains more actual plant food and is a much better balanced fertilizer. Tell your fertilizer man you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER.

The New Deal Demands Quality! The growers who produce the best tobacco will benefit most from better times. Plan now to produce a thin leaf on the bright side. Use the best cultural methods, correct spacing, high topping and the proper amounts of 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER. The extra potash in this fertilizer adds the grain and texture that brings more on the floor.

Your fertilizer man recognizes the importance of furnishing you with the mixture which will pay you best under present conditions. He now has 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER on sale. Tell him you want to produce "high-dollar" tobacco in 1934. Tell him you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER.
