President's Veto Overridden By Senate Last Night

NEXT MOVE TO GET MONEY

Restore 29,000 World War Veterans To Rolls And 10 Per Cent Federal Pay Cut

Washington, March 29—(AP)—The administration without immediate answer today where to get another $228,000,000—the cost of the surprising overthrow of President Roosevelt's first major veto.

Early speculation had it that either new taxes could be suggested or a deficiency appropriation voted to expand the budget to the needed amount.

The Senate action last night after seven hours of furious debate did not cause quite the surprise engendered when the overwhelmingly Democratic House defeated the veto.

On the federal pay question, Mr. Roosevelt had been expected to stand a 10 per cent restoration of the cut as of July 1 but he was unilaterally opposed to the restorative feature.

It was held to be a bad precedent and involve many administration difficulties. The measure was amended pertaining to veterans increases to a basis of the old rate for permanent disability so that those veterans who were cut about 10 per cent under the economy act will not receive $100 per month.

Williamston, March 29—(AP)—Sheriff C. B. Roebuck Tuesday received a telegram from Easley, S. C., authorities saying that Caleb and James Moore, charged with safe-cracking in Eastern Carolina are in jail there awaiting transfer here.

The Moores are wanted in this section on several charges of robbery. The home near here of Mrs. Lilly Johnson recently was raided and a large quantity of stolen goods found.

Washington, March 29—(AP)—Some aviation concerns sought today to have the administration clarify its call for new air mail bids.

With the demand for more and better eggs for the Easter season, a Game hen of Edward Jenkins, colored, of this city did her bit to aid in supplying the demand by laying egg Tuesday of this week that tipped the scales at exactly one quarter of a pound.

Heiress Elopes

Geraldine Swift, 22, daughter of Gustavus Swift, packing house president, who eloped at Chicago and married Albert Thomas Taylor, brokerage clerk, was forgiven by her parents.

SUTTON CASE STILL BEFORE COURT HERE

Charge That Case Had Been Talked Before Jury Caused Temporary Halt

The J. W. Sutton case in which Sutton is suing to recover certain properties disposed of while he was declared a non compos mentis, continued to hold attention of civil court here today with indications that the matter would take the entire time of the court for the balance of the week.

For a short time this morning a blow up of the hearing was threatened when affidavits were presented to the court that during the noon hour yesterday, the plaintiff and witnesses had freely discussed the case in the presence of jurors as they ate lunch in a downtown cafe.

FIRST POLICE WOMAN SUCUMBS AT TRYON

Tyron, March 29—(AP)—Miss Mary Steel Harvey, America's first policewoman, died about 9 o'clock Monday night in a hospital here following an illness of several weeks.

The funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Interment will be in Tryon cemetery.

Mrs. Harvey was appointed by Judge Morris Soper, Baltimore police commissioner in Baltimore in 1912. She was the first woman in America to wear the police badge.

Hen Does Extra Duty For Easter

With the demand for more and better eggs for the Easter season, a Game hen of Edward Jenkins, colored, of this city did her bit to aid in supplying the demand by laying egg Tuesday of this week that tipped the scales at exactly one quarter of a pound.

MARTIN INSULL NOW IN JAIL AT CHICAGO

Placed In Jail When Friends Hit Snag In Arranging His $50,000 Bond

Chicago, March 29—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, once powerful figure in the gigantic public service structure his brother Samuel built up was behind bars here today—just another prisoner.

Awaiting trial on a charge of embezzling $364,700 from the Middle Western Utilities Company, Insull was locked up for the night, last yesterday after a hitch had developed in arrangements made by friends for his immediate release on $50,000 bail.

A residence scheduled as part of the surety was said to be $5,000 short of the necessary valuation. His friends hoped to get the matter straightened out today.

CANDIDATES SLOW TO FILE

Time Limit For Filing For National, State And District Offices Near

Raleigh, March 29—Candidates are slow in filing notices with the State Board of Elections, and yesterday Secretary Raymond Maxwell called attention to the final dates for filing and the fees required by the law.

Saturday, April 14, is the last day on which candidates for National, State or district jobs may file, and Saturday, May 5, is the final day for county and legislative candidates.

Filing fees: legislation, $2; solicitor, $39; judge, $65; congress, $130; county commissioner, coroner survey or county board of education and township officers $1.

Other county officers are charged a fee equal to one half of one per cent of the annual salary for the job they seek. Where the job works on a fee basis there is a minimum charge of $10, and the county board of elections is empowered to increase the charge in their discretion but not to exceed one-half of one per cent of the estimated fees of the preceding year.

In addition to legislative and county candidates, the North Carolina electorate this year will vote on a State Treasurer and Utilities Commissioner, Court Judges and 10 Superior Court judges.

Thus far no candidates for the Superior Court bench have filed from the Third, Fourth, Eleventh, Seventeenth or Twentieth districts. Candidates have filed from Seventh, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth and Nineteenth districts.

In all except the fourth incumbent-judges, will run to succeed themselves. The hottest race looms in that district, where three candidates are after the seat Judge Frank A. Daniels will vacate next January 1 through voluntary resignation. Those aspirants are Charles Ross, general counsel for the State Highway and Public Works Commission; Clawson Williams, present solicitor in the Fourth; and K. R. Hoyle, Sanford attorney.

Two candidates filed yesterday to succeed themselves as solicitors: James A. Powers of Kinston, in the sixth, and Herbert Leary of Edenton, in the First Judicial District.

Another, David Bell of Pittsboro, filed for the Fourth District solicitorship.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Pass Bankhead Bill

Washington, March 29—(AP)—The Senate passed the Bankhead compulsory cotton control bill and returned it to the House for action on amendments today. The vote on the final passage was 46 to 39.

The bill described by its supporters as having administration support is designed to stabilize cotton prices by limiting production of the coming cotton year to 10,000,000 bales and levying a prohibitive tax on the staple produced in excess of each grower's quota for production.

The House tax of 50 per cent of the market value of not less than five cents a pound was raised by the Senate to 75 per cent or not less than eight cents a pound.

Termed an emergency measure the bill would apply for only one year as passed by the Senate. The House would give the measure two years of life with the President emergency.

because of its connection with the employer, could not properly function as spokesman for employees. The Federation was trying to dictate to all labor, for its own purpose, and through labor to capital as well.

The President was asked to say whether the company union could continue in business, and in what manner.

What he replied was, in effect, that any union was legal so long as it represented the free choice of the workers; and that machinery would be created to guarantee there was no coercion and no discrimination as between the various kinds of unions.

It came down, in the end, to a question of confidence whether the promise of proper safeguards could and would be fulfilled; and both sides put their confidence in Mr. Roosevelt's word that it not only was possible, but would be done.

So passed the first major labor conflict under NRA; and unless the expectations of jubilant administration officials fail, the issue of the company union passed with it.

STORE LOOTED, TWO ARE HELD FOR COURT

Smithfield, March 29—The store of Marshall P. Lassiter in Elevation township was broken into Sunday, March 25, about midday and Lathan Morgan and Albert Bain two young colored men who live in that community were placed upon trial in recorder's court Tuesday. Probable cause was found and each defendant was bound over to the next term of Superior Court. The evidence tended to show that these defendants, with two other men, went to this store to buy cigarettes Sunday, but no one was found at the store. The defendants were left there and, according to the charge they broke in the side door and took a quantity of cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and gum, after having rifled the cash register of about $5 in money. The defendants were arrested Sunday afternoon, and in default of bail they are in jail.

YOUNG WELDON GIRL BADLY BITTEN BY DOG

Weldon, March 29—Miss Alice, 16-year-old daughter of M. and Mrs. E. L. Hannell was attacked by a neighbor's dog on Monday afternoon while on her way home from school. The dog, which belonged to E. S. Jones, had got out of the back yard where it was kept as a watch dog, and upon seeing Miss Hannell walking along the road became infuriated and attacked her. She received several severe bites on the arms, legs and the side. A veterinarian was called but pronounced the dog not mad.

CWA PROGRAM COMES TO END HERE TODAY

Workers Will Receive Final Checks on Saturday; New Plan Under Way

CWA is over. With the closing down of each job this afternoon, the CWA program came to an end. The workers will receive pay checks drawn on the United States Treasury and signed by the assistant disbursing officer of the Federal Civil Works Administration for the last time on Saturday morning.

Approximately 300 workers will receive checks on Saturday morning totaling $3,000.00. Since the beginning of CWA in Pitt county the latter part of November, the Pitt Disbursing office has prepared and paid checks for the sum of $145,000.00 and about $35,000 worth of materials have been purchased by the Federal Government.

Effective April 1, the new plan for helping the needy unemployed will be used. K. T. Putrell, Relief Administrator for Pitt county, said this morning that all speed was being used to set up the machinery for carrying on this new way of dealing with the problem of relief. There will be two divisions, a rural rehabilitation program and an urban division. Every effort will be made towards putting the people employed by these two divisions on a firm economic footing so that they may become self-supporting rather than a charge upon the government. Under the CWA program, anyone who was unemployed was eligible for a job.

The new plan provides that only those people who are in actual want for the necessities of life shall be employed.

This rule will be rigidly followed and the degree of necessity will be determined by a careful investigation of each family now on relief rolls or any other families which should be on the rolls. The needs of the man will be paramount rather than the needs of the job "for a common laborer or a skilled worker."

The wages paid for work shall run between thirty and seventy cents per hour instead of the forty-five cent minimum and the dollar ten maximum originally paid by the CWA.

Charlotte, March 29—(AP)—An admitted participant in the $105,000 mail truck robbery last November, Isaac Costner, promised today to "spill the works" about his Chicago Touhy gang pals when he is brought to trial.

"I'm going to tell everything because I couldn't beat the rap anyway," said the philosophical and loquacious gangster.

Costner was brought here last night to await trial at the April term of federal court. Without waiting for his trial Costner started in to give what he said were the "inside facts" about the mail robbery here.

Istanbul, Turkey, March 29—(AP)—Samuel Insull, whose mystery ship Majaletis put in here for provisions early today, sailed this morning for Rumania it was reported by apparently authoritative sources. The decision to depart for Rumania was said to have followed wireless instructions from Athens delivered to the 74 year old fugitive this morning.

Insull, asleep when his dingy vessel nosed around the Golden Horn at 6:30 today, remained aboard his ship in the face of strict police surveillance.

Local Woman's Brother Dead

Morganton.—John L. Anderson pioneer Morganton merchant and retired real estate operator, succumbed in a local hospital at 8 o'clock last night following a months illness from gangrenous poisoning. In a desperate effort to save his life, surgeons amputated the right leg two weeks ago but he failed to respond to treatment.

THINK EVANS MAY TRY FOR SEAT IN CONGRESS

Henderson, March 29—Possibility that this year's Congressional race in the Fourth District, now and for the past 34 years represented in Congress by Edward W. POU, may be a three-cornered affair, was discussed here today following a visit to Henderson Tuesday of W. F. Evans, of Raleigh, who has figured in politics in Wake county for years. So far as could be learned, Mr. Evans made no definite statement, but it is said to have let it be known that he is considering entering the contest.

Mr. POU is a candidate to succeed himself, and Palmer E. Bailey, Raleigh attorney, got into the race several months ago. Bailey is no relation to United States Senator J. W. Bailey of this state, also of Raleigh but was for a time employed in the Senator's office in Washington.

Deposits of iron ore lie beneath lakes in the northern part of Minnesota, and the state wants to determine its right to them.

REPUBLICANS SEEK TO CURB TARIFF POWER

Would Clip Authority From President To Make Reciprocal Trade Pacts

Washington, March 29—(AP)—A Republican drive to clip some of the power requested by President Roosevelt from the reciprocal tariff bill was planned today in the House. The effort appeared to be headed straight against a wall of solid Democratic votes.

The administration House chief tain after counting noses of his followers predicted the measure would be approved in substance in its present form. The minority leaders, nevertheless, prepared to offer a sheaf of amendments which if enacted would sharply curtail the president's authority to make reciprocal trade agreements with any nation without the necessity for Senate ratification. In the bill as it stands he would have authority to raise or lower any duty by 50 per cent.

Five days bitter debate came to an end yesterday.

EXPECT MINISTER TO REAPPEAR ON SUNDAY

New Bern, March 29—Members of the Swansboro Methodist Church have received no word yet from Rev. S. S. Ellington, their pastor, who with his family, departed unceremoniously after a disagreement with members of the church.

Rev. L. B. Jones, presiding elder, held a conference with stewards, trustees of the church and officers and teachers of the Sunday school and said he would take no action until quarterly meeting at Bear Creek on Sunday. He said he felt sure Rev. Mr. Ellington would appear at Bear Creek Sunday and present his side of the questions at issue between himself and his flock. The differences are said to have occurred over one of the Sunday school teachers, Mr. Ellington claiming she was unsuited to the job and most of the members of the church arraying themselves on her side.

Rev. Mr. Ellington, his wife and their four children left sometime Saturday night without giving notice of destination.

Animals slain by hunters included 58 mountain lions bagged in the forests of the Kootenai and Blackfoot districts in northwestern Montana.

"Battle Of The Posters" Keeps Paris On Edge

By ALEXANDER H. UHL

Paris (AP)—Now that the shooting has died down, Paris is staging one of the most hectic "battles of billboard posters" that it has ever known.

Since the night of February 6, when 18 persons were killed in the worst disorders in the history of the Third Republic, the bill posters' union has been having a field day.

Stavisky, of course, is the hero or villain—in the piece, but back of him lies a hot political fight that may yet upset "Papa" Doumergue's cabinet of political truce and peace.

"Down With the Thieves!" and "Down With the Assassins!" shriek the billboards while knots of Parisians gather around the posters solemnly reading the cries for justice and relating their personal experiences on the night that apparently is destined to become historic perhaps to end up with its name attached to some street as "the street of the Sixth February."

"He escaped German bullets, but the bullets of the Cartel didn't miss him," says one poster picturing a wounded and dying veteran on the ground with his wife and children in the background. "They were veterans, without arms, who simply cried, 'Down with thieves! Vive la France, that the Cartel killed on February 6.'"

"A mafia assassinated Magistrate Prince," cries a bright yellow poster. "This magistrate who was to have given evidence the next day on the Stavisky case and to reveal the names of the guilty politicians was ferociously assassinated at Dijon on February 20. This horrible crime was committed by a mafia. Who form this mafia? Down with thieves! Down with assassins!"

The more direct political attacks in general are directed against the dominant radical socialist party of which former Premier Herriot was one time head. The "history" of recent radical socialist governments is given as follows:

"The Chautemps government finished in the mud of the Stavisky scandal; the Daladier cabinet sank in the blood of the veterans whom it fired upon in the Place de la Concorde. Have you confidence in the radical socialists?"

Another attack on the Left Cartel is phrased in three dramatic pictures with the heading: "Result of the Cartel—

1914—War.
 1926—Financial Failure.
 1934—Civil War.

Another poster makes an appeal to the radical socialists to break definitely with their former allies, the regular socialists, saying: "Radical socialists! 'You made an alliance with the socialists for the elections of 1933 and since then you have exercised power with their support. In 20 months there were six ministries. 'Today when a national union cabinet for France and for a clean republic has been formed behind M. Doumergue, your socialist allies turn their backs and are preparing an intense campaign of agitation of which you will be the first victims. 'Are you going to persevere in your error?'

Posters such as these are beginning to get under the skin of the radicals who declare that the right is not living up to the political truce announced by Premier Doumergue. A determined move to get the radical ministers, such as Herriot, out of the cabinet will be launched at the party congress in May. If it succeeds, the Doumergue government will face a crisis.

Meanwhile, the left is answering as best it can the flood of right posters. One left poster signed by 200 deputies, including Daladier, Chautemps and Bonnet, reads: "Democracy in Danger—

"What we cannot accept and what the French people will not tolerate for a minute is that under cover of a campaign of protestation against the Stavisky scandal (which was born under a right government) a certain number of persons are attempting to impede the democratic liberties."

The poster declares "the partisans of fascism," the "enemies of the Republic," are responsible for the disorders of February 6.

If Solomon were alive today... this is what you'd hear him say!

"So you want to know what motor car to buy? Well, this is my best advice:

"First, be sure it is a General Motors car. General Motors, remember, is the foremost automotive organization in the world—with the greatest experience and the finest facilities for building superior automobiles.

"Second, be sure it is an eight-cylinder car. The trend today is unquestionably toward the Eight because of its greater smoothness and finer performance.

"Third, be sure it is a Straight Eight. The Straight Eight engine, you know, has been developed to a state of highest perfection for use in cars of the more popular type.

"Fourth, be sure it is not too expensive. Nowadays you can get good cars for comparatively little money.

"Fifth, be sure it has a Fisher body, for in no other can you get the quality for which bodies by Fisher have long been famous.

"Sixth, and most important of all, be sure it is a car you can be proud of. No car is a bargain unless you can be happy with it.

"Now, if you have studied cars, you will know that there is only one car on the market that meets my description—the Pontiac Straight Eight!

"Pontiac is practically no more expensive to buy and no more expensive to operate than cars in the very lowest-price field.

"Pontiac lifts you out of the mass group and into the class group at almost no additional cost.

"Yes, Pontiac is the car I think the average American family should buy!"

Why not come in and see the new Pontiac Straight Eight—get behind the wheel and put it through its paces!

Tonight and tomorrow evening conclude these services with the group of messages brought to us with the purpose of strengthening of our faith, and making us more effective workers in the Master's cause. We have been gratified with the congregations present. However, we still urge others who have not been present to join us in the closing evenings. Beginning tonight the children will not have to prepare for school the following day. Parents, let us make it a family night. Come, and bring the children. You will find blessing in these hours of fellowship, and in our consideration of God's truth. No other voice speaks to the souls of the children, or to ourselves, concerning God than the church. Red Pepper

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Do you mean to say that you tricked me and that there are no bones around?" the dog singer asked.

"I don't know," said Rip, "and if I knew of any I had buried I wouldn't tell you about them."

The dog flew at Rip and took a bite at his ear, and Rip flew back at the circus dog and took a nip at his ear, too. Soon they were hard at it, growling, fighting, and pulling at each other.

Willy Nilly had feared that Rip was going to play a trick of this sort, and while he thought it was very bright of Rip to have stopped the song in this way, he did not want to have any dog fights around Puddle Muddle. So he had followed the dogs, after stopping for a moment at his house.

He came upon them and saw that they were having a regular dog fight, but so far neither had done any serious harm to the other.

All of a sudden the circus dog started to sneeze. Then Rip began to sneeze.

The circus dog was about to get a good hold of Rip's ear when he sneezed again. Rip was about to grab the circus dog by the back of his neck when he, too, sneezed once more. And then they both had to stop fighting for they were sneezing every few seconds.

When Rip caught sight of Willy Nilly he knew what had happened. Willy Nilly had brought along just enough red pepper to throw around them so they would sneeze and stop fighting.

And now the sound of the hand could be heard. Willy Nilly, the circus dog, and Rip ran back to listen.

SPRING HOLIDAY BEGINS AT COLLEGE

The spring holiday at East Carolina Teachers College began at noon today and continues through next Wednesday. Classes will be resumed on the morning of April 5 with the first period.

At the request of the students several years ago the spring vacation was changed so as to include the Easter holidays instead of coming between winter and spring terms.

The campus at noon was filled with cars from all over the state and special buses waiting to take students home. Very few will be left on the campus. Most of the girls and boys will go to their homes. Some who live at a distance will spend Easter with friends.

It is gratifying that the sub-committee of the House Ways and Means Committee is looking with favor upon the move for a horizontal reduction in Federal tobacco taxes.

With the end of CWA the question is "Now What?" Every effort of course, will be made to place the laborers in gainful occupations but the serious situation right now is where are these jobs to be found in this community.

Former Governor To Address Meet of Commerce Body

Ex-Governor William E. Sweet of Colorado, Educational Director of the NRA of Washington, D. C., will

Judith Lane

by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Judith Dale has felt that her husband was siding against her in her contest with the Bevin heirs. Judith was left a fortune and instructions for completing Big Tom Bevin's Rio Diablo dam, but aided by Morton Lampere, Mrs. Bevin and her daughter Mathile plan to break the will. But Judith has had a letter from Norman, and plans to fly to him at Galveston that night. Now she is visiting a directors' meeting of a spy, J. C. Scathborne.

Chapter 22 MATHILE AGAIN

"MATHIS... Mathis... just a minute," said Judith as if trying to recall the name. "Oh yes, now I remember, he was the gentleman who left town so hurriedly when the last election scandal was being investigated... something about buying blocks of votes from itinerant oil field workers."

"Why... why..." sputtered Scathborne.

"You'll forgive me if I'm wrong, but it seems to me I heard something about a matter of five thousand dollars passing between Mathis and some gentleman with a name similar to yours, Lampere, I believe, provided the money for the—"

"Mrs. Dale, I didn't come here to be insulted," snapped Scathborne.

"There are nicer places, aren't there," Judith said consolingly, "but suggest to Mr. Lampere that next time he send someone not labeled with a cancelled check."

"Are you psychic?" demanded Justin Conard pleasantly, in the silence which followed the slamming door.

"No," Judith laughed with the others, "but I have a friend on a newspaper, which is practically the same thing. She came to the door with me and recognized our departed guest. However, and now she spoke seriously, 'it means, gentlemen that Lampere will not hesitate to plant his men in our midst to say, or to cause dissension.'"

"He was more subtle," said one of the new members, "he tried to minimize your importance in such a gentle way we scarcely recognized his intentions."

The rest of the afternoon passed swiftly, and shortly before sundown, Judith drove to the airport where Slim Sanford awaited her. Judith, seeing the tall Texan, thought he seemed slimmer and browner than ever. Even his smile, which usually showed in such a brilliant flash, seemed strained.

"Hello small Jude, ready to trust your heart 'n hand to me and my ship?"

"Any time, any place," Judith responded.

"If I thought you meant that," retorted Sanford. "I'd head west then south to a neat little spot near Oaxaca where there are no fortunes, platinum blondes, nor heartaches."

"Did you mention Oaxaca or heaven?" queried Judith, breathlessly, puzzled by his manner.

"It would be both... hop in." He helped her into the tiny cabin, smiled his queer, tired smile and slid into the pilot's seat.

The motor roared, sputtered, then to the rhythm of three motors taking their beat the ship taxied down the runway, nosed up and out.

JUDITH was on her way to Norman. She had no other thought save a sub-conscious enjoyment of the flight. As a child she had always had the highest, most dangerous swings in her various neighborhoods, and with her father had delighted to spin across some chasm in a cable carriage, suspended above rocky gorges by a web-like line.

Now her enjoyment was double for she was on her way to her husband. She would drive back with him. They would stop at the white farmhouse on the Houston highway for their dinner as they had on their honeymoon, and there would be old fashioned flowers, stalks and cinnamon pinks along the paths, and fireflies would hold their tiny lanterns against the screened windows. Only of course, it was too early for cinnamon pinks and hollyhocks.

Slim Sanford looked back, saw the smile on her face and switched off the motor so they seemed to float in the sunset. "Small Jude," he said, "I'm sore-tempted."

She wrinkled her nose at him and pointed below. Galveston lay there. The long island, thick at its eastern end and thin at the western, looked like an exclamation point.

He nodded and a few moments later they had come to a smooth landing. "I'll wait here until ten o'clock, in case you want to go back," he said, as he helped her into a cab. "Meet me here or telephone."

"Well... well all right." Judith was positive she wouldn't need him, but he looked as wistful as a tall, sun-bronzed man could look.

She drove directly to the Galvez, dismissed the cab and waved away the bell boys. For a moment she stood looking at the dining terrace. It was too early in the season for it to be in use, but she and Norman had had such delightful times there on their honeymoon.

She started to turn, and in turning her eyes caught two figures seated at a window table in the dining room. Shocked, she scurried along the footpath to the point just below. She looked in.

There sat her husband Norman, talking and laughing with Mathile Bevin. She had pushed a cherry parfait to one side and was leaning forward for him to light her cigarette. The flare of his lighter illuminated their faces.

JUDITH stood staring at the window, too shocked to move. There was something in the intimacy of Norman lighting Mathile's cigarette that lingered after the flare had died away.

Mathile looked stunning in her mourning. A severe black dinner gown, with loose sleeves caught at the wrists with silver bands, flowing shoulder drapes, suggestive of veils caught at the shoulder with silver bars.

"I didn't come here to be insulted," snapped Scathborne.

"Ready to trust your heart 'n hand to me, Judy?"

The flare of his lighter illuminated their faces.

Judith knew that at the very moment other diners in the big room were remembering the news of the day—"Dale may sue wife to regain fortune for former sweetheart." How could he pretend to love his wife, yet dine publicly with Mathile at a time like this?

She turned from the window and walked to the seawall, but the sight of the lighted area of the piers, recalled too many poignant memories of her honeymoon.

She called a cab, sank into the seat and felt again the queer numb feeling which had come with the shock of Big Tom's death. She wouldn't think of what happened until she reached home. She might as well go there if she sought refuge any place else.

Sanford was waiting. He helped her out of the cab, took a look at her face, and suggested they fly to Beaumont or Lake Charles for dinner.

THERE'S NO RIDDLE TO FERTILIZER BUYING AFTER YOU STUDY THIS CHART

The tests were made in 1932 and 1933 by 14 highly skilled and highly reputable tobacco growers. Competitive fertilizers were of their own choice. Strictly scientific procedure was followed, and accurate record kept.

Table with 4 rows and 3 columns. Rows: Average Yield per Acre (842 vs 992 lbs), Average Price per 100 lbs ($18.03 vs $20.30), Net Return per Acre ($151.97 vs $200.46), Net Return per Ton ($303.94 vs $400.92). Columns: Metric, 24 Competitors, Orange.

DO the claims of various fertilizer manufacturers confuse you in buying your tobacco fertilizer? If they do, take a look at this chart which shows the proof of the claims we make for Orange Tobacco Fertilizer. Remember that it is the only scientific proof that has ever been published by a manufacturer. And what does it prove? Simply what we have always said—that Orange will outgrow, outproduce, outquality and outdo any other fertilizer known. Buy by known facts—buy Orange! It is worth the few dollars per ton extra it costs. Jamaca is our standard goods. Next to Orange, it is the best tobacco fertilizer we know, and we firmly believe it to be "better than anybody else's best!" S-D also makes fertilizer for cotton, peanuts, truck and grain—every one the finest of its type.

"I will personally guarantee you one thousand dollars for your National Folk Festival appearance here. Please telegraph reply immediately. Know you will be one of our best features and look forward to meeting you all, Maurice Well."

The Festival is to be held in connection with the dedication of a new municipal auditorium and community center in St. Louis, the purpose of which is to promote folk music, folk dance, folk plays, folk arts and crafts.

The Playmakers will give, probably on May 1 and 2, one matinee and two evening performances of folk plays from their repertory based on the legends and traditions of the mountain people of North Carolina.

In fulfilling the purpose of the Festival, "to bring together from the many regions of the United States exhibitions of the various folk arts which are the richest heritage of our people," its Committee has arranged for the appearance of many unique groups.

Twenty-five Spanish players from Albuquerque, N. M., will present a Spanish play, "Los Pastores," handed down for 400 years by word of mouth.

Kiowa Indians from Oklahoma will appear in dances of tribal customs and rituals.

A group of old sailors from Staten Island will sing sea chanteys.

Jilson Setters, "The Singin' Fiddler" of Lost Hope Hollow, Ky., the Old Harp Singers from Nashville, Tenn., the French Guitanoles Singers from Ste. Genevieve, Mo., Folk Singers from the state of Vermont are on the program.

Cowboys from Arizona in ballads that that have been sung on the plains for 300 years will be brought by Fomaine Lowdermilk of Rimrock Ariz.

Singers and fiddlers from the Ozarks; one thousand negroes from St. Louis; ZoZo Hurston and her group of Negroes from Daytona Beach, Fla.; these, too, are to appear on the Festival program.

In urging that the Carolina Playmakers attend the Festival its committee stated that as the Playmakers held the place of highest eminence in their field, they would be one of the chief features at the National Folk Festival.

Six Pitt County Men Enrolled At Wake Forest

Wake Forest, March 29.—There are six men from Pitt county among the 900 students enrolled this session at Wake Forest College. Three are from Ayden, two from Winterville, and one from Greenville. There are five freshmen and one senior in the group.

They are: from Ayden: W. M. Jolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Jolly; A. M. Mumford, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Mumford; and W. C. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Rogers.

From Winterville: R. T. Cox, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cox; and G. A. Jackson, son of Mrs. Mary C. Jackson.

From Greenville: R. E. Pittman, son of Mrs. R. E. Pittman.

This delegation from Pitt county is making a significant contribution to the campus life at the century-old institution. R. T. Cox, Jr., was sub-assistant basketball manager. W. M. Jolly is enrolled in the Philomathean Literary Society, sings in the freshman choir, is a candidate for the freshman tennis team, and is a member of the Dramatic club. A. W. Mumford played on the Baby Deacon football eleven.

During the last week in May in connection with the commencement program, Wake Forest will observe her 160th birthday. The occasion will be marked by the dedication of a handsome new administration building. Blueprints are now being prepared for an auditorium to replace Wingate Hall which was burned recently. When this structure is completed Wake Forest will have replaced both of its buildings which were destroyed by fire. Last year a new medical building was constructed as a memorial to the late William Amos Johnson, and concrete bleachers were erected on Gore Athletic Field.

Three salesmen at the 1934 Kansas City auto show had attended among them 75 annual exhibitions of the kind.

Washington. — Senate critics of Professor Rex Tugwell muffed the opportunity to "dress down" the man now regarded as the administration's chief "brain trust," but members of the house let go at him with both barrels.

The agricultural appropriation bill this year carries a provision for the creation of a new post in that department to be known as under-secretary of agriculture.

Although little was said about it openly, it was believed generally that the new job was tailored especially to fit Professor Tugwell, now serving in the department as assistant secretary.

Some members of the house so construed it at any rate. If senators had any idea on the subject they kept them to themselves. Approval was given by the body without much being said one way or the other.

In the house, however, it was a different story.

Dislike 'Brain Waves'
There has been an increasing resentment on the part of some in the house to what one representative has described as the "Tugwell brain waves."

It flared up during debate on the Bankhead cotton compulsory control bill which passed the house recently. The charge was made openly by some that the idea back of the Bankhead bill was inspired by Tugwell and his school of thought in the department of agriculture.

"If (the Bankhead bill)," charged McFadden of Pennsylvania, "is the plan of Tugwell and others and is a part of the whole plan of setting up a corporate state in this country."

Snell, the republican leader, advanced the idea that the new job was created for Tugwell's benefit and others joined in.

"My idea," said Snell, "is the purpose of giving another democrat a job and giving this man Tugwell a $10,000 a year salary."

G. O. P. Disclaims Tugwell.
A democrat suggested slyly that the professor really was not a democrat but a republican. At this Snell exploded.

"Tugwell!" he shouted. "Forget it! Forget it! He never claimed to be a republican and we certainly do not claim him."

Several other representatives took a crack at the good professor and his ideas before the house consented to the creation of the new position. No one doubted that consent would be given. It was a desire to strike at Tugwell they wanted. Incidentally, if Tugwell does get the job he will be one of the two under-secretaries in the cabinet. Under-secretary Phillips of the state department is the other. A similar position exists in the treasury, but as yet Secretary Morgenthau has not found a man to fill the post.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Baer, bigger and a harder hitter than Loughran, figures to be the logical candidate to apply the grand with Max Baer.

For a big man who has done no real harm other than to be the unhappy cause of the death of Ernie Schaff—whose condition and not his opponent was to blame for that ring tragedy—Primo Carnera has around a good deal of indignation in the ranks of American pug-ics to over-rate Baer until Steve Hamas came along to give the German a shellacking in Philadelphia this winter. Otherwise Baer's record is erratic and unimpressive. He has done more talking than fighting. He could not lay a glove on Loughran.

Plenty Financial 'Angles'
Percentages were scattered around so profusely among those involved in finally matching Carnera and Baer that the bout probably sets a new record for financial "angles." Everyone except the bat boy seems to have been "cut in" on this one and the Madison Square Garden corporation, still a trifle groggy from its pathetic Florida venture this winter, will be lucky if it does not wind up holding the sack once more.

So far it is publicly conceded that Carnera will get 37 1-2 per cent, Baer 12 1-2 the Milk Fund 10 and Jack Dempsey 7 1-2 as the challenger's godfather. This accounts for 67 1-2 per cent but by no means covers all the individuals who have an "angle" in the affair or sundry items for expense and manipulation. The lawyers alone probably will emerge with anywhere from 10 to 20 per cent and perhaps clear the biggest profit of all.

Dempsey Still Making Money
It has always been somewhat generally considered that Gene Tunney was the better business man than Jack Dempsey but we have to reverse the notion before the final findings are posted.

It's nearly seven years since they fought in Chicago, where Tunney got close to $1,000,000 and Dempsey half that sum out of the last tremendous heavyweight "gate." Tunney forced Tex Rickard to pay him $500,000 for his last title defense, against Tom Heeneey in 1928, and then retired. Dempsey, meanwhile, has kept such active connection with the fistie business that he is now able to "cut himself in" substantially on the earnings of the landing title Miami, Fla., police recovered a challenger, Baer. For exhibitions, stolen automobile recently in ex-officiating and promoting work the actly one minute. Old Manassa Mauld has been annually drawing anywhere from $50. As Teiryu Murakami was about to 600 to $100,000, even in the leanburn some old papers in Tokyo he years, while Tunney has been but-discovered one was an issue of the ang to save a fortune from going New York Herald announcing President Lincoln's death.
