Bank Deposits Reach New All Time High Record in Greenville

Total Deposits of Two Banks Here Have Passed The $7,000,000 Mark

There is more money on deposit in the banks of Greenville today than there ever was in all the banks of Pitt County at any one time, according to statements made public by the banks here today.

The statement of the Greenville Banking and Trust Company shows that at the close of business Saturday that institution had on deposit, including its Bethel, Snow Hill and Belhaven branches, $5,163,310.38, of which $4,008,115.39 was on deposit in the Greenville bank. Figures for the State Bank and Trust Company, which has only the one bank here, show deposits of $1,934,700.82, making the combined deposits of the two banks in Greenville alone $5,942,011.11, and combined deposits, including the Greenville Banking and Trust Company's branches of $7,098,011.21.

Compared with deposits on the corresponding date October 27, 1933, this year's figures of the Greenville Banking and Trust Company show a gain in deposits of $2,989,969.67.

The State Bank and Trust Company figures for October 17 this year as compared with the corresponding date last year, show a gain of $1,206,283.62.

The combined statements show a total gain of over $4,000,000 for the year, or more money than was on deposit in both institutions last year.

Bankers and business men in commenting on this fine showing made by the Greenville banks in their statement today, declared that they bespeak a most healthy financial condition of the people in this community.

ROBINSON, SR. WILL NOT BE EXTRADITED

Alleged Kidnap Conspirator Wins Fight Against Removal to Kentucky

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 29—(AP)—U. S. Commissioner Julian Campbell ruled today that Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., may not be removed to Louisville for trial on charges linking him with the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

"From all the facts before me," Commissioner Campbell said in a prepared opinion, "I find not only that there is no probable cause to hold Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., for the government, but no fact or reason to believe a suspicion of his guilt."

The opinion added: "The government admits that the defendant is only sought for trial in Louisville, Ky., on what he did or might have done before the actual kidnaping as a conspirator. It results that it is my duty to refuse to order the defendant, Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., held for removal. I order that the defendant be discharged."

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News.

By GEORGE DURNO Washington, Oct. 29—Points: Now that the American Legion has again gone on record for immediate payment of a cash bonus you will begin hearing plenty from an organization known as the American Veterans' Association.

All members of the AVA are supposed to be active Legionnaires who think it quits out of order to be asking for cash bonus, expansion of the present pension system or other special treatment in times like these. Its leaders vehemently deny the charge of pro-bonus Legionnaires that it is a concealed outgrowth of the old National Economy League, which spent money freely several years back combatting what were termed raids on the federal Treasury.

Retiring National Commander Ed Hayes attacked the American Veterans' Association as a "fly-by-night organization but there are evidence it has plenty of financial backing for a vigorous anti-bonus lobby.

The AVA is not a brand-new organization but it does have a brand new Commander. He is Donald A. Hobart, who just resigned as an associate member of the Board of Veterans' Appeals of the U. S. Veterans Administration.

CRIMINAL TERM COURT OPENED THIS MORNING

Grand Jury to Investigate Theft of Money From Deposit Box Last Spring

A week-term of Superior Court for the trial of criminal cases opened here this morning with a large docket and several important cases, including two murder cases on the docket. Judge R. Hunt Parker, of Roanoke Rapids, who presided over civil court here last week, is likewise presiding over this week's sessions.

In addition to the court itself, the grand jury has a busy week ahead in the way of investigations, including a probe into the circumstances surrounding the robbery last spring of a safe deposit box in the State Bank and Trust Company here and the subsequent recovery of the money without any arrests in the case.

The robbery which occurred sometime between the latter part of March and the latter part of April was kept quiet until after a sum said to be more than $8,000 belonging to S. T. Hooker and removed from this box in the bank had been recovered by police and returned to Mr. Hooker. Other than the fact that the money, or practically all the money, had been recovered, neither Mr. Hooker nor the police would give out any statement, and Solicitor D. M. Clark when informed of the affair stated that he would have some investigation by the grand jury in an effort to bring indictments against the guilty party or parties. The matter was not placed before the grand jury at its session during the August term of court, but Solicitor Clark stated last week that some would be presented this week and he would request the jury to go into the matter thoroughly.

Several cases of a minor nature were taken up by the court this morning, but nothing that looked like a long drawn-out case was undertaken, as this afternoon was the time set for a special writ of habeas corpus hearing before Judge Parker in behalf of Mrs. Herbert Hoover and Donald Sasser, of Goldsboro, who last week were implicated in a statement made from the death cell in State Prison by Rufus Satterfield under sentence to be electrocuted for Herbert Grieg's death. In view of the new evidence, Governor Ehringhaus granted a 30-day reprieve to Satterfield pending investigation of his charges. Satterfield still under death sentence, was brought here from Raleigh this morning for the hearing.

Sundown Stories

Making Peace

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "I swallowed the nut all right," growled Jelly Bear happily and contentedly.

"So did I," growled Honey Bear. "I've just swallowed another, too, and I feel better now."

"Ours didn't stick in our throats," the cubs Blacky and Jupiter told their parents.

"She just said that to frighten us," said Jelly Bear. "Even though she's an old gipsy, she hasn't any power to make the food stick in our throats so that we have to go hungry."

The bears were very happy about this and ate and ate and ate to express their happiness.

In the meantime Willy Nilly had seen that the gipsies were given food to make up for what the bears had taken, and now all was peaceful again.

The old gipsy woman had promised to take away the bad luck she had wished on the bears. Willy Nilly did not know that it hadn't amounted to anything anyway!

All were the best of friends once more and now Willy Nilly was about to ask her if she wouldn't help him about his poor, pointed, sticking-out ears when Rip, the dog, barked:

"We must get back to Puddle Middle. Yes, we must, we must, we must!"

Rip caught Christopher's eye, and Christopher began to caw:

"Yes, of course, we must get back to Puddle Middle. We must, we must, we absolutely must!"

Willy Nilly did not know what they meant, but promising the gipsies he would return soon again, he left with Rip and Christopher.

Willy Nilly had realized that he was very tired, and he was only too willing to be urged to forget about everything and have a good sleep.

While he was asleep Rip and Top Notch and Christopher Columbus before the courthouse door of Pitt County, Greenville, N. C. sell to the highest bidder for cash at public auction, subject to all taxes and assessments, if any, the following described parcel of land, with improvements thereon, located in Greenville, N. C., and definitely described as follows:

"Located on Clark street adjoining the lands of F. G. James on the north and Will Bernard on the south and facing Clark street, said lot being the same as conveyed to Joseph Ed Harris by Oscar Hooker in 1897 and recorded in book H-6 page 47 and book B-10 page 465 of the Pitt County registry, reference thereto made, and being the same lands inherited by the present owners from their father and mother.

To Present Plays At College. Every phase of play-producing is receiving attention in the preparation of the three one-act plays to be presented at East Carolina Teachers College on Friday of this week, Nov. 2, under the direction of Miss Mary Dirnberger. The procedure in casting and staging these plays is the same as that used by the Carolina Playmakers and the local production should be as good as the productions given at Chapel Hill. In casting the plays the producers had an advantage in the rich material from which to choose as the try-outs were open to the entire student body, numbering a thousand.

The local merchants have been generous in their contributions to the staging. Miss Dirnberger's class visited an antique shop and were allowed to select from the stock in getting their setting ready for the eighteenth century play, "Counsel Retained." Other firms showed the same fine spirit of cooperation in contributing furniture and stage property.

Tea At Woman's Club.

On Saturday afternoon the Woman's Club was the scene of a delightful social event, when Mrs. J. H. Rose and Mrs. J. K. Brown received at a tea from 3:30 to 5:30. The clubhouse presented a most attractive appearance, with a profusion of lovely fall flowers and autumn foliage of gorgeous hues.

In the hall and parlors were autumn leaves, dahlias and crysanthemums of brilliant colors, while in the reception room the pastel shades prevailed. The mantel was especially attractive, banked with ferns, dahlias and crysanthemums.

Greeting the guests at the front door were Mrs. J. E. Spilman and Mrs. J. H. Blount. As they passed through the hall they met and talked with Mrs. J. L. Little, Mrs. H. J. McGinnis, Mrs. J. L. Kilgo, Mrs. J. B. James, Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell and Mrs. W. I. Wood.

At the door to the reception room, Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. S. T. White greeted them and presented them to the hostesses. In the receiving line were Mrs. J. H. Rose, Mrs. J. K. Brown, Mrs. Garland Brown of Chicago, Miss Rose Hadley, bride-elect, and Mrs. G. R. Combs. Next came Mrs. J. H. Woolard, Mrs. Charles White and Miss Hennie Long.

The table where ices were served was presided over by Mrs. E. B. Ferguson and Mrs. Carey Warren. The color scheme of pink and green was carried over in decorations, ices, cakes and mints, and the ornaments were of silver.

Mrs. George Hadley, Mrs. Marvin Sugg, Misses Frances Morton, Elizabeth Ferguson, Frances Harvey and Jane Hall served the ice course. In front of the mantel Mrs. Frank Brown and Miss Lillian Purvis greeted the guests as they passed on to the punch bowl. Here the color scheme was yellow and green, with cut glass appointments.

Misses Ward Moore and Frances Purvis presided at the punch table, assisted by Misses Anna Long, Frances Newsome, Polly Melvin, Minnie Lee Thompson, Janice McGowan and Annie Lee Hooker.

On the way to the register were Mrs. Ellie Brown Tolson and Mrs. E. W. Griffin, and Miss Lelia Higgs registered the many who called.

At the piano, Miss Ona Shindler played softly, and many stopped to express to her their appreciation of her musical contribution to a happy occasion.

Mrs. E. W. Harvey and Mrs. J. E. Winslow bade the guests goodbye, as they departed praising the hospitality of the hostesses, the commodious clubhouse which is so well adapted to social occasions of all kinds, and the beautiful autumn weather which makes this our most enjoyable time of year.—Reported.

Attends Meeting In Winston-Salem.

Miss Mammie E. Jenkins of East Carolina Teachers College, attended a meeting of the state board of directors of the American Association of University Women which met at Salem College in Winston-Salem, on Saturday, October 27. Miss Jenkins by virtue of her position as president of the Greenville branch, is a member of the state board, which is composed of state officers, state chairmen of committees, and the presidents of the local branches.

At the meeting Saturday, which was in the nature of an executive session, plans for the year were made, including the selection of a time and place for the annual spring convention. This will be held in Chapel Hill during the Dogwood Festival.

Mrs. Clyde Milner of Guilford College, who is state president of the A. A. U. W., is well known to the members of the organization in Greenville as she was guest speaker on College Day three years ago. The Greenville branch was hostess to the board of directors at their meeting last fall, and Mrs. Milner presided over that meeting.

Joint Hostesses.

Bethel, Oct. 29.—The members of Cherrio Bridge Club and their husbands and a few additional guests were most graciously entertained on Tuesday night, October 22, when Mrs. L. B. Roberson and Mrs. Harvey Ward were joint hostesses at the home of the latter.

Ten tables were placed in a lovely setting of autumn leaves, marigolds, burning cardinals and pumpkins, where the spirit of Halloween prevailed.

Club prize was won by Mrs. Howard Keel. Visitor's high score was set by Mrs. G. A. Watson of Greenville and Mr. Alvin Bunting of Bethel. Low score prize went to Mrs. Selma Carson Moore and Mr. Elbert Moore.

Mrs. C. Hemby of Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. J. T. Nelson of New York, were remembered with attractive gifts.

At the conclusion of a number of spirited progressions Misses Marietta and Rachel Moore assisted the hostesses in serving a delicious ice course which carried out the Halloween idea.

Two Large Crowds Heard Erickson Here On Sunday

At the two services Sunday a wonderful interest prevailed, and quite a few requested prayer for their souls salvation, which shows the people of this city are really interested in the old time gospel that is being preached at the Erickson revival corner Third and Cotacah streets.

If the Christians of Greenville would come to this revival and help pray believing God things would begin to happen here that happened when Jesus walked the shores of Galilee. Mr. Erickson has been and is still urging the people who come each service to pray and believe God and victory will be sure.

No services Monday night. Service Tuesday night 7:30 and a very special message, "How to know you are really saved."

Many church people are not satisfied with their present condition and want to know some things in a definite way. Come Tuesday night and find out how to know you are saved.

Nearly every public orator thinks he has a master piece, and if he tells a few good jokes, most listeners will remember him.

Revival At F. W. B. Church

Interest continued to grow in the revival meeting that is being conducted in the Free Will Baptist Church, and a fine spirit of co-operation among the people and the various churches of the city has developed and is showing itself in a very commendable way. From the very beginning the services have been well attended. The audience last night was the largest in attendance yet, filling the main auditorium to overflowing, making it necessary to open the adjoining class-rooms.

The special song service was of high order and inspirational. Mrs. J. C. Moye, of Snow Hill, was present and aided wonderfully in that part of the service. As well as aiding in these congregational and quartette selections, she brought a very pleasing and inspirational message in the form of a solo.

The speaker, Rev. R. F. Pittman, of Ayden, used as a text Heb. 8:3: "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?" He stressed the greatness of God's salvation in Christ Jesus and stated that the question in the text is unanswerable by man or even by Jehovah, declaring that there is no way of escape if God's grace in Christ is neglected.

Plans Being Made For Red Cross Drive

Washington, N. C., Oct. 29.—With the appointment of Mrs. E. P. Martin, as chairman of roll call, plans for the coming membership drive were being made. Mrs. Carl Bowers stated yesterday that the quota for Beaufort County had been set at 800 members and that this goal is expected to be reached as it has been the past two years. Mrs. Bowers is chairman of the Beaufort County Chapter. Assisting her are Taylor B. Attmore, Mrs. W. C. Ellis, Mrs. E. P. Martin and other members of the executive committee. The chapter's relief program has been extended this past year to instructional services in first aid and life-saving.

To Keep Down Over-Production

Norway, principal whaling nation of the world, has acted to keep the whale season closed until December 1. This is not to prevent annihilation but to keep down the world surplus of whale oil, the extraction and manufacture of which has been so greatly facilitated by the floating whale oil factories.

All of England's seventy-one "approved" schools for delinquent children are now filled to capacity.

Talks to Parents

Slovenly Peter

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH Ethel was a very untidy child. She objected to bathing on principle and when she was finally badgered into a bath, made her ablutions so sketchily that her neck and ears and even the edges of her face never saw soap and water.

No wardrobe could have been large enough to keep her in clean dresses. Her shoes were always down at heel and unpolished, her hair mussed, and her hands grubby. No amount of lecturing or persuading on the part of her family could produce a change. There was neither time to be forever after her, nor money to keep her in clothes. The child learned her lesson from her schoolmates. For children do value personal cleanliness in others, however careless they may themselves be. Ethel soon found herself excluded from games and parties. For a while she was unable to see the reason for being left out, but eventually the truth was borne in on her, and in time she learned cleanliness and tidiness and conformed to the standard which her playmates set.

It is too bad that some children have to undergo so severe a lesson before they learn conformity. But if parents could once realize this fact they would be saved much useless expenditure of time and energy. If the training of early babyhood, when the mother personally supervises the bath and dresses the child, does not teach neatness, only the comments of contemporaries will. Nagging by the parents, on the other hand, goes in one ear and out the other, and is wearing on parents and children both. The lesson is bound to be cruel, for children do not mind words when they make statements. But the child will recover from the rebuff, and feel less than the parents do.

Chapter 32
LILITH AGAIN

MARIAN was making a salad when Lon spoke. With careful hand she arranged the curled leaves of a lettuce heart on the rim of the dish, placed wheels of tomatoes in a circle, centered them with the heart of an artichoke and topped it with anchovies.

"McSwain?" she repeated, "I'd rather not go, Lon," she answered as though it were of no great concern. "Doctor Al and Anne are coming out to dinner you know."

"That's right," he answered and watched her ladle dressing over the salad. "As says he wants to buy a place here as soon as I get started. You'd like having Anne for a neighbor wouldn't you?"

"A neighbor?" she looked up. What a blessing a neighbor like Anne would be at a time like this. "Yes, I'd love to have Anne near, she's so practical," she said.

"Practical" women are nice, but I'd rather have you for a wife," was Lon's astonishing answer, then, "lan," he began in a troubled voice, "would you mind if I left you alone in the morning and played a round of golf? Blaine, Wylie, McSwain and myself."

"Of course not," she answered, and hoped he hadn't noticed her hesitation, "I think it would be fine."

"You're a good sport, lan," he commented, relief in his voice.

"So are you, Lon," she answered, "I appreciate your not insisting that I go."

During dinner they discussed the prune crop, and Lon agreed to let Waki take charge, and when they had finished he spoke of the next day, Saturday. "My first pay check, lan," he said, "the first one I ever received from anyone excepting Carrdoth. I think we should celebrate, what would you like to do?"

"A dinner and dance somewhere . . . I know, the Alameda, it has a nice cosmopolitan air; always a lot of foreign aviators around, and a good orchestra."

"And you'll wear that gold dress?"

"Yes, and have my hair done in the afternoon, and my nails and . . ."

"I can cash my pay check with Murphy at the gas station before we leave; too bad this is Doc's Saturday night on duty, or we'd call them to join us. How about Jackson and his girl?"

Jackson and his girl were delighted, and Marian, who had thought her honeymoon was definitely over, found Lon his old lovable self as they dined and danced the evening away.

IT WAS long after midnight when they reached home, and Marian slid into bed, happy that it was Lon and not herself facing a golf date in the morning. Several times when the sun had found its way into the bedroom she felt she should awaken and hasten him on his way but she was too blissfully sleepy. And when she did awaken she found he had gone.

At first she was alarmed, then chanced to look at the clock on the dresser. It was ten o'clock. The four some was supposed to tee off at ten. She counted the hours which lay ahead, a crowded Sunday course would mean that Lon couldn't reach home before two-thirty. The Steeles would arrive for dinner at three, giving Lon time to shower and change.

Afternoon Marian dressed, went into the patio, and curled up on the swing seat, a new novel in her hand. She sat a moment enjoying the quiet. In the kitchen, fricasseeed chickens were bubbling gently in a Dutch oven, salad and dessert were in the refrigerator, vegetables, ready to be cooked, reposed in cold water. In one end of the studio room the table was ready for guests.

She thumbed the pages idly, thought of the piles of books she had read prior to meeting Lon, she had scarcely glanced at once since then. The clock inside chimed one, one-thirty, two, two-thirty. She came back with a start to the world about her, left the book on the seat and hurried into the kitchen. Lon should sador Matsudaha privately made known his country's demands to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and 24 hours before the same ultimatum was lodged formally with chief delegate Norman H. Davis—certain newspaper men were summoned to the Japanese Embassy in Washington.

These correspondents were informed bluntly that Japan's insistence on parity was a take-it-or-leave-it proposition. Should it not be accepted by England and America, the Japs would go home and start building a navy just as she saw fit. It was obvious that evening that the Japanese diplomat was speaking a piece sent out from Tokio.

When the Washington news men returned to their offices they discovered the same procedure had been followed at London. Dispatches had already arrived in the identical tenor of what they had just been told.

Our officials regard Japan's threat to go home and start an unlimited building program as 99 per cent bluff. They recognize, however, that the current London session is going to develop into a long drawn-out affair.

Don't be surprised to see American experts hopping out of the next trans-Atlantic liner to give Norman Davis and Admiral William H. Standley aid and comfort. What was to have taken place next year very definitely has been moved up for a showdown.

Naturally the United States isn't going to take kindly to Japan's proposal going away with major battle-ships and airplane carriers. Neither are our naval experts anxious to see any agreement which would permit Japan to build a huge flock of submarines, destroyers and light cruisers.

Air: It didn't take the London-Melbourne air derby to awaken our military aviation experts to the crying need for dependable increased speed in pursuit planes but the success of that flight did serve to accelerate their experimental work.

In time of war flying craft such as successfully negotiated the hop from England to Australia would be bombers. To combat ships of such proven speed and flying range attacks planes vastly faster than those now in commission would be necessary.

Exhaustive experiments in this connection have been under way for some time. Aviation engineers the world over apparently are struggling with the same problem. It is easy enough to build planes with great speed but when machines guns and other appliances of war are attached it makes a difference in wind resistance which vitally affects dependability of performance.

Our experts are deriving much satisfaction from the fact the planes which finished second and third in the London-Melbourne derby were stock American models whereas the British-built winner was a special speed job.

Notes: FDR really owned about a third of his banking audience the other night . . . RFC stock brought in by Jesse Jones gives any such gathering a friendly tinge . . . The President was polite to the book publishers who presumed to select volumes for the White House library but private he prefers to make his own selections . . . A ghost writer furnished the same speech to the New Dealers by mistake and they nearly spilled the beans . . . Congress men are sore because the Public Works Administration has taken jurisdiction over river and harbor projects—the famous old "pork bar" . . . "Pretty Boy" Floyd didn't have to confess his identity—his fingerprints told the story . . . China fears that the Russ-Jap understanding means a new Japanese drive below the Great Wall.

By JAMES McMULLIN
New York, Oct. 29.—Stabilization: The best financial sources rate Ambassador Bingham's advocacy of a British-American monetary agreement as a highly significant step toward the official denials as part of the technique. By disclaiming authorization the government keeps a free hand either to adopt his proposition as its own or disavow it as an expression of purely personal opinion if it durs more raspberries than roses. You can make a memo right now that Mr. Bingham isn't to be rebuked for his "rashness" and also that Washington is far more active in currency stabilization than it cares to let on just yet.

New York insiders learn from their European contacts that informal views on monetary matters have already been exchanged between Washington, London and Paris and that the groundwork for an understanding has been laid. Reports are current that more pointed discussions are scheduled soon with our unofficial ambassador-at-large Norman Davis—who despite his job as chief liaison officer despite Congressional opposition.

The dope is that Davis will be allowed considerable freedom in his unofficial but authoritative presentation of Washington's views. He will of course not be empowered to conclude any definite arrangements. His assignment is to find out whether Europe—and especially Britain—is ready to play ball on terms satisfactory to the administration. It's understood that actual stabilization depends chiefly on whether London is willing to cooperate without trying to run the show.

Advantages: Screwed observers believe that America and England have much to gain by making common cause on monetary matters. They point out that the pound and the dollar are now at virtual parity—so that neither the British nor the American price level is being undermined by the other through abnormal cost disparities due to exchange differentials. On the other hand the depreciated Japanese yen is a threat to the trade of both countries.

They note Neville Chamberlain's protest about keeping Britain off gold but the fact is that the pound is already indirectly tied to gold through its use by the British Equalization Fund. It is less difficult than it appears for Washington and London to find a common denominator.

An Anglo-American combination could easily dominate world exchange. France and her gold bloc allies would practically be compelled to join the party as a matter of self-preservation.

Harmony: New York gets word that Francis M. Law—recent president of the American Bankers' Association—almost had the heebie-jeebies on the opening day of the bankers' convention.

His well-laid plans to create an atmosphere of sweetness and light were nearly knocked cockeyed right off the bat by several small-town bankers who insisted on airing their grievances against the administration. That wasn't on the program at all but the boys simply refused to be steam-rolled.

Nobody from New York or any other large city joined in the avil chorus—though many of them probably sympathized silently. It's a curious fact that the big-town bankers are much more thoroughly sold on the necessity for cooperating with FDR than their brethren from the open space. They've had a closer look at what might happen if they don't.

There was some private grumbling at Jesse Jones' reiteration of the threat that the banks had better get busy and lend or the government would have to do it for them. One banker remarked: "It's easy for him to talk. He isn't lending other people's demand deposits." But despite this sort of sub-surface friction you can be quite sure that the large banks will take care to inject no static into the new close harmony between federal and financial leaders.

Tightrope: Governor Lehman is having a tough time trying to keep his balance between the various factions of the Democratic party in New York. Tammany is furious because he agreed to appear at a Liberal party rally. The Liberals have endorsed Lehman but their main object in life is to lick the stuffing out of the Tiger. Lehman tried to appease the Wiseman's wrath by insisting that Fusion Candidate McGoldrick—also endorsed by the Liberals—must not appear on the same platform. All that maneuver accomplished was to make the Liberals mad.

Political insiders say that Lehman's personal inclination is to tell Tammany to go climb a tree but he doesn't dare risk the kick-back. Tammany knows that and secretly gloats. Jim Farley will have his troubles keeping the Tiger's claws clipped until 1936 is safely past.

Contest: Meanwhile Robert Moses' outspoken campaign methods are giving his supporters heart failure. He refuses to heed orthodox political advice. It's generally agreed that he picked the worst possible time and place to come out for a sales tax.

A keen observer remarks: "This New York election is an unpopularity contest. It won't be decided on the basis of whether the voters like Lehman or Moses the best. The victor will simply be the one they dislike least."

BANK DEPOSITS HIT NEW HIGH

Occasionally we hear someone say that the tobacco market is nearly over and all the money has gone from here for automobiles, but a glance at the bank statements appearing in this paper today show that those who make such statements don't know all they should know about the money situation in this city.

Never before in the history of Greenville has there been so much money on deposit in our banks at the present time and one of our banks passing the Five Million Dollar mark in deposits has achieved a goal that a posit in our banks as at the most optimistic would even dream of and still fewer thought would come to pass here.

Certainly if banks in any community were ever in position to take care of the needs of their community our Greenville banks should be, for each of the banks has on deposit more than twice as much money as at any time in the past and more money than has ever been on deposit in all the banks of this county combined at any one time.

If money in the banks is any sign of a future prosperity certainly Greenville and Pitt County should have a continued period of prosperity in store.

PAY FOR THE ROADS FIRST

With the drive being made here by the Automobile Tax Reduction Association for reduction in the price of license tags and the gasoline tax, let us again urge that no reduction whatever be made in this line until the roads are paid for, and by this we mean until the state pays the counties for those highways that were built by the counties and taken over by the state, leaving the bonds on the roads to be paid by the counties.

We have always been and are still opposed to diversion of highway funds to other sources, but certainly the taking over by the state of these county highway bonds or aiding the counties to pay these bonds is not a diversion of highway funds. Those counties who issued bonds to pave their own roads and then saw the state pave roads in other counties out of the state funds collected from all the people have a just kick coming to them if the state does not

As a witness speaker for the United States, Great Britain and Japan was assembled at London a week or so ago it was advertised as a preliminary get-together to the 1935 World Naval Conference.

Since Japan announced flatly that she wants no more of the 5-5-3 naval ratio, insisting that any future treaties limit navies on a basis of total tonnage, world leaders know the big conference is on right now. If no Anglo-American-Japan agreement is reached at London there won't be any 1935 conference.

The Japs made their move for naval parity in bold fashion. Usual diplomatic finesse was lacking, apparently deliberately.

TAR HEELS MEET TECH SATURDAY

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 29.—The Carolina football squad journeys to Atlanta Saturday to engage Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado with indications that the Tar Heels will lead a heavy invasion of Georgia by Carolina students and alumni.

Only a small band of the faithful followed the team on its previous sortie into Peachland. Those who stayed home went wild when the news arrived that Carolina had upset Georgia 10 to 0 and cowed the next trip to Georgia would find them anywhere except home.

The Tar Heels know they will find a fine team and a tough game awaiting them. They say enough of Tech when it was up to meet Duke to expect that. But they figure that the Tar Heels are going to give the Tornado a whale of a scrap and want to be on hand for the fireworks.

This will be Carolina's first appearance in Atlanta since 1931, when the two teams fought four furious quarters to a 19-19 deadlock. On the visit before that in 1929, the Tar Heels gave Tech's 1929 team its first licking of the season, 18-7.

They won the two games played in Chapel Hill in 1932 and 1933 by scores of 43-14 and 10-6. Carolina gave the Tornado a great fight last year and came within inches of winning when Brandt dropped Jackson's pass in the end zone.

The licking they took in 1932, however, still rankles and the seniors on the club can be counted on to play their hearts out in an effort to day the Yellow Jackets back.

The Tar Heels offer a new coach, Carl Shaver, formerly of Bucknell, with a veteran team. Eighteen of the twenty-seven men who played against Tech last year are back, including Jackson of the brilliant passing; Bell, who scored Carolina's one touchdown, and Captain George Barclay, who played such a brilliant game at guard.

The line is identically the same from tackle to tackle that was starting the games at the close of last season. Daniel is at center, Barclay and Kahn man the guards, Tatum and Evans are at tackle, and only the ends, Buck and Childers, are new.

Charlie Shaffer, Don Jackson, Herman Snyder, and Jim Hutchins have been standing out in the backfield. Shaffer averaged 45 yards for his punts against Kentucky.

Scouting Tech this year has been a problem. After playing at Michigan last week, the Tornado jumped to Tulsa today. And Carolina sent Athletic Director R. A. Fetzer all the way to New Orleans to get the dope.

Coch Fetzer and Coach Bill Alexander, the Tech coach, are great friends as well as intense rivals. And Coach Bill is a great admirer of George Barclay, the Carolina captain.

"That boy is dynamite. He is All-Southern, All-American, All-Amy things," he said of Barclay after the Carolina captain stopped three-fourths of Tech's rushes single-handed last year.

Baseball Season Not Over For Hard Working Inventors

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Dizzy and Daffy Dean and the other luminaries of the diamond can rest on their laurels until the call for 1935 spring training, but baseball's unsung inventors work the year round.

Records of the United States patent office reveal that hundreds of patents have been issued, in season and out, on baseball equipment and devices ranging from balls, bats and gloves to special gadgets designed to improve the batter's eye and the pitcher's delivery.

Paul Boone, of the classification division of the patent office, says there are a few batting practice cages and strike zone target devices but the mechanical baseball thrower seems to be the favorite vehicle of ingenuity along that line.

Robot Pitchers
There are about thirty-five patents on these robot pitchers which are said to have all of the "stuff" employed by the best flesh and blood moundmen with the additional asset of never "blowing up" in an imaginary "hot spot."

These mechanical throwers are fabricated, Boone says, to simulate the throws of the big league pitchers. The ball is projected at the home plate at a speed approximating the normal pace of a pitched ball and the path of travel is so controlled as to produce "in" and "out" curves, drops and other ruses of the professional hurler.

Bats Improved
Forty-seven patents have been issued on baseball. The first was granted to J. H. Osgood in 1876 for "a baseball covering made of two pieces of leather united by a double-herring-bone knotted lock-stitching."

The first United States patent on a baseball bat appeared in 1869. G. W. Hill being the patentee. "The most recent on record was issued in November, 1933, to C. R. Beck and Garnett L. Back, of Anderson, S. C. The patents on bats represent a variety of ideas, the most outstanding being the prevention of splintering or checking.

113 Glove Patents
Most of the attention of the inventors has been directed, however, to improving gloves and mitts, a total of 113 patents being issued of such devices. At first the needs of the catcher received the most attention, only seven of the first fifty patents being for fielders' gloves. But of the last forty, only six applied to the catcher or the first baseman's mitt.

Features of the glove devices are the prevention of fumbling between the first and second fingers, holding the mitt firmly on the hand and relieving the strain exerted on the thumb and index finger of a glove by a caught ball.

Things we would like to do something about but can't.

The promoter who announces "the public will decide the heavyweight champion's next opponent" while knowing full well that old Gus H. Fan will have no choice except to take what's foisted upon him by the combined fruits of some pugilistic master-minding.

The football coach who doesn't see how it's humanly possible for Jar-jar Zelig to be in the line-up for the next big game, only to find that Joe can throw away his crutches with great alacrity on Saturday morn'g and perform with heroic enthusiasm nearly all afternoon.

The grillion mentor who's building character one year, when the material is running well below par, and gumming for an invitation to the Rose Bowl the next when a fresh crop of hard-running halfbacks is yielding a touchdown harvest.

The golfer who concedes himself all those three-foot putts or develops a short memory on the green after emerging from a couple of traps.

New Deal For Pros
Speaking of golf, which is fast fading into an autumn background of falling leaves, the $10,000 Miami Biltmore Open tournament will develop an unusual battle for the winter's biggest pot of gold if its sponsors adopt the idea of splitting the money, $5,000 to be divided among the professional ranks and another $5,000 to be split by the "unknowns."

To establish a dividing line, the idea is to confine Group No. 1 to those professionals who finish among the first 30 and ties in the National P. G. A. championship this year. All others automatically would play in the second group.

Pelling the sentiment among its members, P. G. A. so far has found the pros voting six to one in favor of the "split-purse" proposal, with a top price of $2,500 golps to the winner in each group.

It's interesting to note that in the group of "big shots" concentrated in Group No. 1 only fourteen pros had the distinction in 1934 of being within the top thirty at the National Open and likewise among the P. G. A. qualifiers for match play. They are Ky Lafont, Tom Creavy, John Golden, Ted Luther, Harry Cooper, Bill Burke, Johnny Revolta, Horton Smith, Herman Barron, Eddie Loos, Orville White, Paul Runyan, Lec Diegel, and Gene Sarazen.

Several of these struts, including Sarazen and Runyan, won't be at Miami because of their current junket to Australia.

These Southern Stars
Mentioned in our dispatches from the Southern gridiron front: Billy Chase, Florid halfback, looks like one of the finest passers in Dixie since Spears was tossing 'em for Vanderbilt. Chase completed 14 out of 25 throws against Tulane.

Wally Brown, high-scoring for the "Gators, is another fine back. . . . Abe Mickal of Louisiana State, cutting standing last year, again is giving an outstanding all-around performance. . . . Homer Robinson, Tulane center, has been performing in a manner reminiscent of Proacher Roberts, All-Southern pivot man for the Green Wave in 1929-1930. . . . Claude (Little Man) Simons, 195-pound Tulane halfback, who understudied the great Don Zimmerman two years ago, is being boomed for All-Southern as well as All-American nomination. . . . He can block, tackle, pass, kick and run, which makes him a quintuple threat.

Thin Your Paint
When paint is sprayed on an object, it should be of thinner consistency than paint applied with a brush.

Greenville Boy Wins Eighth Fight In Row

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—Bud Bullock, lightweight from Greenville, N. C., is still stepping forward along the professional boxing trail.

The Tar Heel youngster won his eight consecutive fight by defeating Angelo Meola in the main preliminary to the Mickey Walker-Natie Brown scrap this past week. Meola, who fights out of Baltimore formerly scraped as "Ace Dundee of New York." Bullock is managed by Harry Groves.

Replace Rickety Steps

One should always think of safety as well as appearance when planning modernization under the Federal Housing Program. Rickety front steps are a constant cause of injury and can be economically replaced with a durable substitute, a change which invariably improves the appearance of your home.

A tasty and inexpensive soup can be made in this way: Turn a can of tomatoes into a sausagepan and bring to a boil. Fry cubed bread in butter until a golden brown, place in the bottom of soup plates. Rub the tomatoes through a sieve, add one cup water, one tablespoon butter, pepper, salt and a little sugar. Pour over the bread cubes, sprinkle with minced parsley and serve at once.

Wade Takes Duke Team To His Old Stomping Grounds

Durham, Oct. 29.—Wallace Wade, who in the past has invaded many sections as the man from Alabama, this week invades Alabama as the man from Duke.

The head boss of the Blue Devils takes his 1934 edition back to the section of the country where he made his name and where he won fame as coach of great University of Alabama teams.

It is the occasion of Duke's annual game with the Auburn Planesmen, or the Tigers of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and will be the third game in a modern series of hard-fought contests.

In modern football history, Duke and Auburn first met in 1932 but started relations back in the '90s in those old round-robin football matches for the southern championship that were held in Atlanta.

In fact, the Planesmen defeated Duke down there in the early '90s to eliminate the Blue Devils and then "borrowed" one of Duke's star players—Tom C. Daniels of New Bern, to use in their next game.

In 1932 when Wade made his first return to Alabama, his Duke team was defeated by Auburn, 18-7 stopping their victorious march of that season. Last year, the Blue Devils got revenge by taking the Tigers, 13-7, after a great battle in Durham.

It will be another tough eleven that Duke will go against in Birmingham. The Tigers are rated probably the most improved team in the south as a result of their great game against Vanderbilt week before last, which the Commodores were able to win only by a touchdown and extra point in the final two minutes of play. The final score was 7-6 and from reports the Tigers played rings around the Commodores.

A team does not have to rise to such heights but once a season to give the opposition a scare. The Tigers did it against Vanderbilt and are likely to do it again; Duke.

Scotland Yard adds 20,000 fingerprints of convicted and suspected criminals to its files annually.

Senator Loses Money
Greensboro, N. C., Oct. 29.—(AP)—State Senator A. E. Woltz, of Gastonia, was robbed of $1,400 at a tourist camp near Sanford the night of September 29 according to disclosure made here today by State Highway Patrol Lieutenant W. J. Croom. Raymond Riddle and C. C. Kelley, operators of the camp, along with a woman whose name was not known here, have been arrested and will be charged with the theft.

According to Croom, Woltz stopped over for the night at the tourist camp with the money on his person and next morning he found both money and woman missing.

Teacher Says College Boys Really Desire Education

Mount Vernon, Ia.—(AP)— Dr. Chester L. Rich, of Cornell College here, believes the average student goes to college for one purpose only—an education.

On the basis of a survey of the application blanks of the current freshman class, Dr. Rich says only a scattered few admitted being lured to college by the social advantages offered. None of the men students indicated that athletic participation was their goal.

OLD WRITINGS SUPPORT BIBLE STORY OF ISAAH

on ancient stone fragments brought here for deciphering tend to support the Bible story of how the Prophet Isaiah cured King Hezekiah, of Judah, of boils.

According to II Kings, Chapter 20, Isaiah, cured a malignant boil on King Hezekiah by applying "a cake of figs."

Cuneiform inscriptions on two slabs unearthed near Ras Shamra, northern Syria, tell that ancient Phoenician doctors cured boils with a mixture of figs, flour and dried raisin as early as 14 B. C.

VALUABLE CLAY PRODUCT JUST PAINT TO NATIVES

Manila, P. I.—(AP)—The discovery that a small island in the eastern Philippines is a mass of kaolin, the white clay used in making porcelain and chinaware, has caused comment here on the lack of commercial values among many primitive natives.

Nearby villagers had been using the clay for years to paint their houses, little knowing its worth to industry.

The island, Cagbalsay, is in the province of Camarines Sur. Its kaolin deposits were reported among the largest and richest in the Philippines. Eleven persons staked a group placer claim.

TRANSFERRED TO LOCAL UNIT OF COLUMBIAN PEANUT CO.

Williamsen, Oct. 29.—Mr. John L. Hassell, Jr., has been transferred from a Virginia plant of the Columbian Peanut Company to the Williamsen plant, where he will be assistant to Mr. W. S. Pritchard.

Mr. Hassell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hassell, of Greenville. His father was purser on the old boat line from Williamsen to Edenton years ago, and later was located at Greenville as agent of the Norfolk Southern Railroad, which position he held until his death a few years ago.

HIT-RUN CAR WRECKS TOURIST AUTOMOBILE

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 29.—Three tourists received minor injuries yesterday afternoon when the car in which they were riding was knocked off the highway near Cary by a hit-and-run driver. They were carried to Mary Elizabeth Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

The injured: Mrs. Frederick Bouchard, 731 Elmwood Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Killin, 35th Street, Woodcliff, N. J.

The car, which was traveling southward, was driven by Frederick Bouchard, head of the Bouchard Transportation Company, 17 Battery Place, New York City. He said a small car, going at a rapid rate, sideswiped his automobile, causing it to overturn. Mr. Bouchard's car was badly damaged.

He reported that a motor stole a gold watch from his person of Mr. Killin as he lay unconscious near the wrecked auto. The watch, carrying Mr. Killin's full name, was a gift from the Loyal Order of Moose.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Financial markets did little more than go through the motion today as prices generally gave no clue as to impending trends. Stocks were comparatively steady although trading was the dullist in several weeks. The ticker tape was motionless for minutes at a time.

The public had apparently little taste for equities speculation and the few usually active operators stood aside to watch signs and portents. Most commodities were apathetic. Grains held to a restricted quiet and prices were irregular. The dollar at the same time moved somewhat higher in terms of leading exchange. Transfers which approximated only 350,000 shares were the smallest in nearly a month.

Mihaloff Arrested.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Ivan Mihaloff, leader of the dreaded Macedonian revolutionaries who has been sought in connection with the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, had been arrested in Turkey, it was said in advices reaching diplomatic circles today from Istanbul. Both Mihaloff and his wife were taken into custody according to the advices.

They recently fled from Bulgaria to Turkey. It was reported that both Bulgaria and Yugoslavia are demanding Mihaloff's extradition for murder on charges that he prepared King Alexander's assassination at Marseille.
