FIVE MEN FLEE AFTER TAKING CASH IN SIGHT

Dozen Customers Forced into Another Room at Point of Pistol as Bank Employees Are Ordered to Lie on Floor; Police Flash Calls to Adjacent Towns

Mooresville, N. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Five bandits held up and robbed the First National Bank of Mooresville about 11 o'clock today and escaped with between $3,000 and $4,000. The bank lobby was well filled with customers, and the bandits forced these about a dozen men and women, into another room, flourishing pistols and ordered employees of the bank to lie on the floor. Those ordered promptly obeyed and bandits scooped up all the cash in sight and fled in a green Ford V-8 heading toward Charlotte. Police immediately flashed calls to adjacent towns and a dragnet was laid down by officers.

Lower Freight Rates Ordered On Potatoes

Lower freight rates involving an annual estimated saving of a minimum of $200,000 annually to the early Irish potato growers of Eastern North Carolina, together with reparations covering the past four years, are involved in the decision of the entire Interstate Commerce Commission, according to official communication and decision of that body received by the Eastern North Carolina Association today.

Dickerson, traffic manager, filed claims before the Interstate Commerce Commission on behalf of members of the Association. Since that time the association has pressed continuously the claims of the potato industry of Eastern Carolina in a number of hearings. At one time a division of the Commission dismissed claims but the association filed an appeal for re-hearing before the entire Commission which culminated in the Commission's decision of November 12th after a two years' continuous struggle.

CITY SET FOR CELEBRATION THANKSGIVING

Banks, Public Buildings and Schools Closed for Observance of Holidays. Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day and Greenville and Pitt county like the remainder of the nation will turn their thoughts to expression of thanks for the many blessings bestowed upon the section during the past year.

The tobacco market, banks and other public buildings will be closed tomorrow in celebration of the occasion. The tobacco market closed today until Monday but banks and other public buildings will be closed for only one day.

The only outstanding event of the day was the special services of Thanksgiving to be held at the Presbyterian church at 10:30, sponsored by the Ministerial Association. The service is an annual affair and a large crowd was expected to be on hand to help express gratitude for the best year the country has enjoyed in the past several years.

College Also Suspended Today for Observance Thanksgiving

While a number of teachers left for their homes in various sections of the country to spend the holidays with relatives, the majority remained in Greenville.

Mrs. C. A. Bowen, Miss Mary York and Vester Mulholland went to Washington, D. C., where they will attend the National English Conference.

East Carolina Teachers College also suspended work at noon to give students an opportunity to spend the holidays with relatives. Several members of the faculty also were planning to go home to take part in observance in the occasion.

ITALY DENIES THEIR EXTRADITION

Openly defying Yugoslavia's attempt to investigate the plot that resulted in the assassination of King Alexander at Marseille, Italy refused France's demands for the extradition of the two alleged principals, Dr. Ante Pavelich (left), suspected terrorist leader, and his supposed assistant, Egon Kvaternik (right). Both have been under arrest in Italy. With a war threat hanging over Europe, the action was seen by diplomatic observers as complicating the situation. (Associated Press Photos)

RYAN TO SPEAK DR. COBB DIES THANKSGIVING AT CHAPEL HILL

Christian Church Pastor to Deliver Sermon at Presbyterian Church Tomorrow. The program had been completed today for the annual Thanksgiving Day service to be held at the Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The sermon will be delivered by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church. His subject will be, "Iconoclasm as a Cause for Thanksgiving."

The musical program will be in keeping with the significance of the occasion and will be one of the most impressive parts of the service.

The service is sponsored annually by the Ministerial Association with the hope of bringing the people together in one great attempt to express gratitude for the many blessings bestowed upon the community and nation.

Services in past years have been largely attended and members of the association today expressed the hope that representatives of all denominations would be present to help make this year's service even greater than those in past years.

The celebration of Thanksgiving actually got under way here last Sunday when the Masonic lodge of Greenville sponsored a service of Thanksgiving at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Masons from all over the county were on hand to hear Rev. Perry Case, of Grifton sum up some of the reasons why this section of the State should be thankful.

Funeral services will be held here at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and burial will be made in the Chapel Hill Cemetery.

Late News Flashes

Tobacco Act Attacked. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Kerr-Smith tobacco control act was attacked as unconstitutional and an injunction was sought to restrain collection of its 25 per cent tax on growers who failed to sign the government crop reduction contract, in a suit filed in U. S. District Court here today.

The suit filed in the behalf of W. E. Franks and Oscar Penn of Fayette county, Kentucky, tobacco producers doing business under the name of Penn Brothers, named as defendants Seldon R. Glenn, U. S. collector of internal revenue here, and Mac Swinford, U. S. district attorney for the Eastern Kentucky District.

The suit charges: "The act is not a revenue measure and was not enacted for the purpose of raising revenue. It was enacted for the purpose of regulating, restricting and controlling acreage and the quantity of tobacco raised."

"It constitutes an effort on the part of Congress to regulate beyond its power under the construction to do so. The act exceeds the power of (Continued on Page Six)

GUN BATTLE TAKES PLACE NEAR CHICAGO

Samuel Cowley and Herman Hollis, Ace Man Hunters, Die in Clash With Remnants of Famous Criminal Gang; Police Comb Bad Land In Effort to Capture Nelson and Man Believed to be John Hamilton. Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—"Baby Face" Nelson was found dead in an automobile at Niles Center, Illinois, this afternoon.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The remnants of the Dillinger gang, led by Geo. (Baby) Face Nelson, have struck back at the government with a deadly vengeance, yesterday killing two of its ace man-hunters during a furious gun battle at suburban Barrington.

Victims of the gang's new outburst of gunfire were Sam. T. Cowley, 35, in command of the local office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Federal Agent Herman E. Hollis, 28, the fatal shooting at whom resulted in an intensive man-hunt today in which the government was throwing the full power of its ace investigators.

Cowley died in an Elgin, Ill., hospital at 2:17 o'clock today, approximately twelve hours after Nelson and an unidentified companion, believed in some quarters to have been Dillinger's lieutenant, John Hamilton, had wounded him and killed Hollis when the two Federal officers fought with them in a showdown fight inside the city limits of Barrington.

For hours after the new outburst of warfare between the government and the remnants of the Dillinger gang, police combed the "bad land" of the city, striking here and there for clues to the whereabouts of the pair.

Two arrests were made by raiding squads of police and Federal agents. Chester Leader, a garage owner and Lester Van Houston, operator of a tavern, both described by police as associates of Nelson, were seized for questioning. The detective bureau also raided the home of Nelson's mother and sister, but found no trace of him.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News.

Washington By GEORGE DURNO. Compromise: Nobody seems to be able to read President Roosevelt's mind except FDR himself. Today the fat boys are having a fit trying to figure out whether or not the New Deal intends to ask Congress to set up a Central Bank of Issue.

Before election inspired sources scoffed at the idea. Now that the people have come through with another vote of confidence it is cropping up again. Smart money here is betting the Central Bank plan has been repudiated as a scare-crow to worry the bankers into acceptance of a considerable widening of the Federal Reserve Board's powers.

Reflector Will Not be Issued on Thanksgiving Day

The Daily Reflector will suspend publication tomorrow for observance of Thanksgiving. It has always been the custom of the paper to suspend publication on this date, and all departments will be closed as employees take part in the local celebration.

Work will be resumed Friday morning and the regular edition will appear in the afternoon as customary.

STATE-DUKE ALL SET FOR TIGHT CLASH

Durham, N. C., Nov. 28—Duke and N. C. State, whose past games have been the lozest in the history of North Carolina football, will bring the 1934 football season in this section to a glorious finish in Duke stadium tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock.

It is expected to be bitter, spectacular battle. The Wolfpack has the habit of annually playing its best game against Duke and this year is expected to be no exception to the rule. State's team here tomorrow will be a truly powerful one—just as it always is against Duke.

Just as State has displayed its best in practices preparing for this game, so have the Blue Devils shown marked improvement over any practice showing they have turned in since early in the season. The blocking, which has been poor since early in the campaign, has been much better this week, and it is hoped that the Blue Devils will take that showing into the game with them. If they do, the brilliant Duke running attack, bogged up recently because of lack of blocking, should click against the Wolves.

Individual battles are promised in the game that will be of the highest rank. Headlining these are the Earle Wentz of Duke-Raymond Redding of the State clash on the ends; the Jack Alexander of Duke-Ray Rex of State duel at fullback; the punting and passing engagement of Venice Farrar of State and Clarence (Ace) Parker, sensational Duke sophomore.

Carl Isaacs will be State's big hope in crashing through the line to stop Duke running plays. He has done that consistently all season. Side-wheeling Corky Cornelius of Duke will finish his brilliant football career as will the Dunlap brothers, Jack and E. B. Wentz, and Elmer Tarrall, the ends; Nick Porreca, guard; O. C. Britton, tackle; Arlington Kelley, the midget "Graveyard," and Al Keller.

Kinston High To Play Ayden Thanksgiving

The Ayden "Tornadoes" will meet the Kinston High School football team on the Ayden Athletic Field Thanksgiving Day at 2:15 o'clock. This will be the great game of the season, and the "Homecoming" event for all Ayden fans.

SPORT SLANTS

There seems to be some feeling in various parts of the South, particularly in Alabama, that the Tuscaloosa Terrors or the Crimson Tide—in short, the University of Alabama football team—has not been given its just due, full recognition of merited share of praise for a season of impressive performances. For one thing, our late November ranking of Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Alabama—in that order—expressed to a sharp cross-fire from points south. This particular company, Minnesota and Pittsburgh, is so good that Alabama doesn't need to make or seek any apology. To avoid pussy-footing, it's necessary to rank them 1-2-3. We happen to think that the season's record is sufficient basis for the order given but that neither makes trifling nor does it, by any stretch of imagination alter the well known fact that Alabama has done all that could be expected of any football team so far—and this is written prior to the final game with Vanderbilt.

Not Huey's Idea! Not because Huey Long made the criticism but because it is a point of discussion, the fact is that Alabama has not had what the boys described as a "suicide schedule" for 1934. The Tide beat Tennessee but so did Fordham, which is by no means around the top of the eastern list. There is considerable question about the severity of the tests given this Alabama team but there is doubt that it ripped apart such good teams as Georgia, Clemson and Kentucky. The Tide doesn't play Tulane or Louisiana State, the two rival contenders for the South-eastern Conference title.

If and when Alabama gets the Rock Bowl assignment—as seems likely—it will be an excellent opportunity to pass something like final judgment on the Tuscaloosa Terrors. Alabama has not been beaten in the west coast classics and it's fair to expect that players like Dixie Howell, Don Hutson, Bill Lee and others will be well equipped to carry on the traditions set up by Poole Hubert, Johnny Mack Brown and John (Hurricane) Cain.

It seems that the reports about Stan Kostka either became magnified in filtering eastward or that out scouts used their imagination. Anyway the battering-ram fullback of Minnesota's Maulers doesn't weigh 232 pounds and to make it official we submit herewith the ringside report of Les Etter, writing on behalf of the University of Minnesota News Service.

"As officially listed on our roster, Kostka's weight is 210 pounds," writes Etter. "This was taken several weeks after the season was under way. Tuesday, as the result of an argument over his weight, Kostka's high school coach and myself asked him to step on the scales stripped after practice. His weight was 205 1-2 pounds. As both of us had weighed ourselves on this scale previously we agreed that it was accurate. Felix Wold, The Associated Press correspondent on the campus, happened along and had Kostka step on the scales with the same result.

"We have a good-sized team and have no wish to conceal the fact but in the interest of accuracy and in fairness to Kostka I thought you might like to know the facts.

Good Track Man "Incidentally, he is of Polish-Bohemian extraction and was known perhaps more widely for his shot-putting ability than for his football playing in high school. He has a mark of 51 feet some odd inches with the 12-pound shot in high school and won the State championship. For his weight and general build he can run remarkably fast and seems to have improved his speed under Bierman's coaching.

Navy Not Best Another subject that seems to be troubling some of the gridiron observers, down around the Washington-Baltimore district, is the high rating of the Navy's great team to the implied submerging of Western Maryland and George Washington to rivals of the Midshipmen for sectional prominence. From several sources I have the expressed and published opinion that both are stronger than the Navy, although there is no immediate way of proving it.

"Were one to read only the jottings from New York columnists, one would think the Navy is the only big-time football team in this area," writes a Washington f.a. "Why, that is laughable! Not only do local 'wise ones' rate Western Maryland and George Washington in advance of Navy, but with Catholic University and the Tars about level University and the Tars about level even."

"Also, in Tuffy Leeman's GORT Washington has the best halfback in this region, Buzz Borries of the Navy not excepted."

Man's Explosives Surpassed by Action Of Ginat Meteors

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor) Iowa City, Ia.—(AP)—Explosives more terrific than anything man-made, when solid iron vaporizes with one hundred times the force of detonating nitroglycerin, are described by Prof. C. C. Wylie, University of Iowa astronomer. He finds evidence of these explosions in some of the craters left in the earth by the impact of giant meteors. In connection with recent military advances, these astronomical figures suggest a type of solid explosive in future warfare.

Professor Wylie calculates that an iron meteor traveling 23 miles a second would completely vaporize upon impact with the earth. The newest muzzle velocities of rifles are about 6,000 feet a second, more than a mile and more than a third of the speed which may convert metal into an atomic explosive.

20-40 Miles a Second At 23 miles a second, Professor Wylie computes the explosion of an iron meteorite as approximately equal to its own weight in nitroglycerin. But at 25 miles a second the same meteor would explode with 120 times more energy. Meteors travel with known velocities of 20 to 40 miles a second. Usually the atmosphere slows them down by the time they hit the ground. But not always, according to Professor Wylie's calculations of what struck the earth at Coon Butte, Ariz., centuries ago to make a crater nearly a mile wide and a fifth of a mile deep. Further evidence that some meteors strike as super-explosives is found in the craters made in 1908 in Siberia by a meteor which laid forests flat in an area of about 20 miles.

Meteor Metal Sought A more prevalent explanation has attributed the great craters to the enormous size of the meteorites. This belief has led to mining for valuable nickel-iron, of which giant meteorites are made. To date these mining ventures have not been successful.

The explanation is offered by Dr. Wylie in Popular Astronomy, with vaporization explosion the crater-forming fireballs would not need to be so gigantic.

Dr. Wylie cites military experiments with high velocity lead bullets to back up the solid metal explosion theory. "At about 4,100 feet per second," he states, "lead bullets fired against armor plate explode, blasting out fairly large pieces of the best armor plate. Armor plate 1 1/2 inches thick, which is only slightly denser than armor-piercing bullets fired at 2,700 feet per second, is wrecked by only a few rounds of the small lead bullets at this velocity.

"Pieces of steel are thrown 60 to 70 yards by the explosion of the bullet as it is vaporized by the impact. Even if the bullet strikes the plate at a rather low angle, it explodes, tearing out some of the plate."

A steamer recently rescued three German canoeists who had been cast ashore on one of the Andaman Islands in this Bay of Bengal without guns, but with a kerosene can which they beat continuously to scare away tigers.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-four Emporia, Virginia At Home Greenville, North Carolina

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon were married today in the Christian Church in Emporia, Va., in a quiet but impressive ceremony.

For the wedding the bride wore a most becoming suit of brown, with harmonizing accessories, and a corsage of tansman roses.

Immediately following the ceremony they left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., after which they will make their home in this city.

Five tables, attractively appointed, were placed in a setting of yellow and pink chrysanthemums and snapdragons.

Concluding a number of spirited games, Mrs. W. L. Whedbee was awarded perfume for high score, and Miss Flora Yeager, dusting powder for low score. The hostesses presented Miss McGowan with a silver sugar and creamer and Mrs. Bostic presented her a piece of pottery.

A tempting salad course was served.

American Legion Auxiliary.
The American Legion Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Hicks Corey, with Mrs. Sudie Corey, Mrs. A. B. Corey, Mrs. R. D. Whichard and Mrs. G. A. Taylor assisting hostesses.

Mrs. R. S. McGeachy, former president of the unit, made a very interesting talk on the recent national convention which was held in Miami, Florida. It was quite a pleasure to the Auxiliary to have Mrs. McGeachy with them. This was her first visit since moving to Weldon a few months ago.

J. H. Rose, commander of the local post of the American Legion, also made a talk which was very much enjoyed. A committee from the Auxiliary was appointed to meet with the Legion on December 18th to make plans for a membership drive.

Plans were made to send gifts to Oteen for Thanksgiving and Christmas. As the next meeting date is December 24th, Christmas Eve, the date has been changed to Monday, December 17th. The place and hostesses will be announced later.

Holiday Notice.
The postoffice will be closed Thanksgiving day. There will be neither city nor rural delivery.

T. T. Hollingsworth, P. M.

Thanksgiving At College.
The town has been filled with cars from all parts of the state today that are here to take the college students home for the Thanksgiving holidays.

The Thanksgiving dinner and the decorations in the college dining room last evening started the festivities.

The holiday extends over the week-end and on Monday morning at 8:10 classes will be resumed. There will be only two weeks and two days before the Christmas holidays, which begin at the close of school on December 17.

Other guests of honor were the sisters of Mrs. Rogers, Mesdames R. O. Lany, Sallie Horton, and Wade Holston of Farmville.

Mrs. Hooker's home was decorated with autumn leaves and flowers which under the glow of many candles presented a most pleasing and festive appearance.

Assisting Mrs. Hooker and Miss Davis in serving sandwiches and tea were Mrs. W. A. Darden, Mrs. W. H. Bradsher and little Miss Ione Hooker Bradsher.

Beaver Dam Grange Meets.
The Beaver Dam Grange met in the Arthur school building and was opened in due form by the Master, Mark H. Smith. The regular form of business was transacted and a new member was given obligation and welcomed into the order.

A donation was turned over to the secretary to be delivered to a member who suffered a great loss when his home was destroyed by fire.

This Grange is participating in a state-wide contest in which the Grange in each county that shows the greatest net gain in membership during November will receive a prize by the State Grange.

At this time Mrs. O. M. McLawhorn, county juvenile deputy, perfected an organization for children from 5 to 15 years. This is in keeping with Grange principles, for it is a farm fraternity for every member of the family—from 5 to 105. Thus Bell Arthur gets the honor of being first in organization of Juvenile Grange, having been the first subordinate in Pitt county.

Miss Lewis Speaks At College.
Three great American artists were presented by Miss Kate Lewis in a most interesting talk at the assembly period of East Carolina Teachers College this morning. Winslow Homer, Ennis, and Couch were the three painters she chose as representatives of the best. A number of copies of their pictures were exhibited in the art classrooms and corridors near, and attention was called to certain pictures which were the best examples of the pictures of each artist.

The most natural and the one most representative of American artists, is Winslow Homer, called the "Millet of America." His pictures deal with sea-faring people, as he loved the sea and spent much of his life by the sea with his work. "Fog-Warning" was the picture selected for analysis.

The most typical of the landscape artists is Ennis, whose pictures express the movements of nature. His desire was to paint nature so that other people would get the same impression of nature that he himself had.

Indian life as he saw it, was what Couch painted, such as the hunting, the home life, and fishing.

Sans Souci Book Club.
Mrs. W. I. Wooten was hostess to the Sans Souci Book Club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Greene street. She had as guests for the afternoon Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Miss Jane Lyerly.

Miss Jenkins of the college faculty, reviewed the Pulitzer Prize novel, "Lamb In His Bosom." It is always a pleasure to hear Miss Jenkins on any subject and she was particularly pleasing in her review of this novel. At the close of the program Mrs. Wooten served a delicious turkey dinner.

On Tuesday, November 20, Mrs. Frank Wilson entertained the club in a most delightful way by taking the members to see that beautiful picture, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Before entering the theater each person was given a box of home made bon bons and candy. This variation in the form of entertainment was greatly enjoyed.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Soul and Body" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 25.

The golden text was from Hebrews 4:12: "The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people." (Matt. 9:35.)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy: "The real man being linked by Science to his Maker, mortals needs only turn from sin and lose sight of mortal selfishness to find Christ, the real man and his relation to God, and to recognize the divine sonship. Christ, Truth, was demonstrated through Jesus to prove the power of Spirit over the flesh—to show that Truth is made manifest by its effects upon the human mind and body, healing sickness and destroying pain."

Entertains Philathea Class.
Mrs. Frank Wilson entertained the Wesley Philathea Class of the Methodist Church Monday evening in her home on Fifth street. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. A. C. Tadlock, Mrs. T. A. Person, Mrs. Swain and Mrs. S. T. Hooker.

The devotional was led by the president, Mrs. Wiley Brown. After the business was dispensed an offering was taken for the Methodist Orphanage at Raleigh.

First on the program for the entertainment of the evening were three beautiful solos by Mrs. Herbert Waldrop accompanied by Mrs. Ray Tyson, all of which were enjoyed to the utmost.

Edward Hearne then gave several humorous readings, pantomimes, etc. which were quite entertaining. Last on the program was an account, given by Dr. Lucile Turner, of a part of her trip abroad last fall. The trip was made on two liners, Saurinia and Camaronia. A distance of 8,000 miles was made in twenty-six days. Her description of the boats showed that they were cities within themselves, with their various stores, markets, infirmaries, jails, etc., also swimming pools, gymnasiums and entertainments of all descriptions. People of all ages from eighty-six years to ten weeks of age, were aboard. One of the most interesting of her experiences was the passage through the Strait of Messina between Sicily and Italy when the boat would roll heavily from side to side in a huge ground swell. One side of the deck, then the other, would tilt precipitously.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses. All present declared a most enjoyable evening.

Womanless Wedding.
The Womanless Wedding created a lot of merriment last night among the college students and quite a scattering of townspeople. Members of the Varsity Club, which is composed of the boys who made letters in any one of the three sports last year, should feel gratified at the success.

Miss Lorraine Hunter was the director. The selection of the principals, the dresses and the happy idea of having movie stars as guests of honor, were all very clever. This type of entertainment is always popular and lots of fun, especially to those who know the boys, but the show last night had additional features.

The impersonations were fine. Mae West, by Francis Sinclair, was perhaps the one that would take the prize if any were given, but Tom Dunn, as Steep-and-Fetchit, would be a close second, with Charles Cobb as Aunt Het, and Jack Dunn as Clark Gable close to these. Lester Ridenhour as Hambone, James Joyner as Flapper Fanny, James Joyner as Will Rogers, Hyatt Forest as Tilda, and Nathan Epstein as Doctor Del Rio, were all good.

The bride, Robert Dowd, is the tallest boy in the college and John Jenkins, the groom, is the smallest boy on the campus. The bridesmaids all large boys, were dressed in flowing evening gowns with hats to match, and slowly proceeded down the aisle as Billy Tolson played the Funeral March from Chopin. The bridesmaids were Olive Jolly, Primrose Carpenter, Theo Eason, Baxter Ridenhour, and Jimmy Johnson.

It cuts down starting wear—saves repair bills!

Conoco dealers and stations have the new Winter Grades, namely, 10W and 20W—heavier grades, too—in refinery-sealed cans and in bulk. Consult the Conoco chart, fill with the proper grade—and stop worrying!

LET US GIVE THANKS

(Psalm 100) Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing.

Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name.

For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations.

THE PUBLIC MUST HELP

If the present trend continues to the end of the year, the automobile death rate for 1934 will be about 20 per cent higher than that of 1933, according to President John E. Long, of the National Safety Council.

There has been a startling increase in every kind of automobile accident. In Mr. Long's opinion, a variety of causes are responsible. Thousands of automobiles now in use are in so poor a condition as to be absolutely unsafe.

New York Swap: The steel labor tang is getting as involved as the plot of a detective thriller. Two things have happened which would seem impossible a few months ago.

And to these figures, Mr. Long says, is the crucial problem of drunken driving—with us during prohibition as well as now. While statistics so far available have not proved drunkenness to be the outstanding cause of accidents, many cities have reported substantial increases in accidents involving persons who have been drinking.

Lastly, Mr. Long believes that there has been a relaxing of law enforcement in many cities. Appropriations have been seriously reduced, many departments are inadequately manned, and morale has suffered.

bring the functions of the Comptroller of the Currency's office under his management. Finly, Mariner Eccles, newly appointed Governor of the Federal Reserve Board favors re-encoding the Federal Reserve system into a Central Bank without actually giving it that name.

Senator Fletcher of Fla., chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, announced several times before election there would be no "revolutionary" banking reforms attempted by the coming session. Recently he has sent out a questionnaire to the Nation's leading financiers asking for their reactions to the idea of a Central Bank.

Concentrate: At present, the boards of directors of the twelve Federal Reserve banks elect their own Governors, or executive officers. Those who should know say Congress is going to be asked in January to provide that the President make such appointments.

The grapevine says the New Dealers count on the Central Bank threat to scare the bankers into accepting these Federal Reserve reformers—which would concentrate banking control under the government equally as well. It is being pointed out that many members of the incoming Congress favor a Central Bank, with only President Roosevelt's personal influence to block it.

And to these figures, Mr. Long says, is the crucial problem of drunken driving—with us during prohibition as well as now. While statistics so far available have not proved drunkenness to be the outstanding cause of accidents, many cities have reported substantial increases in accidents involving persons who have been drinking.

Lastly, Mr. Long believes that there has been a relaxing of law enforcement in many cities. Appropriations have been seriously reduced, many departments are inadequately manned, and morale has suffered.

This brief survey shows the gravity and complexity of the automobile accident problem. If it is to be solved, the aid of every person must be enlisted in a great war upon the reckless, the incompetent and the drinking driver—a war that will get results. The pressure of public opinion would be the most

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Trench goes home, after being acquitted of the charge that he murdered his former school-fellow, John Osborne, only to find a mysterious letter from the chemical engineer, Sir William Alton, asking an appointment. These two strangers arrive, threaten his life, and demand a paper he is supposed to have stolen from Osborne.

Chapter 11 LONG SEARCH "WHEN things were settled up," my visitor went on, "I found that I should have quite a lot of money—enough to travel where I liked and pay for any help or information I wanted to get."

"I felt almost sure that Osborne would go to England. I knew, of course, that it would be a terribly difficult business to find him, but I had got just one tiny little clue which gave me a certain amount of hope. Twice, when he had been at our house, I had heard him mention a place called Aubrey's. He said both times that it was the best and cheapest restaurant in London, and I guessed that if he ever found himself back home, he would be certain to look in there if only for the sake of old times."

"Well, I came over as soon as I could get away, and I took a bedroom at a small private hotel which was almost next door to this place. Every day I used to lunch and dine there on the chance of seeing him, and at last—at last one evening I did."

"He came in with someone else—a tall, good-looking man with white hair. They sat at a table in the other end of the room, and although I kept my back to them so that he shouldn't recognize me, I was able to watch them in a looking-glass. They seemed to be talking very seriously as if they were discussing business."

"When they got up to leave I followed them out. The tall man had a car waiting for him and went off in it, then I saw Osborne call a taxi and give some address which I couldn't hear. I got into another and told the man to stick as close to the one in front as he could, and when it pulled up to drive on slowly past it."

"I didn't know London at all well, and I had no idea where we were until we came to Osborne's house. My man put me down at the next corner. Then I walked back and made a note of the number and the road."

"I looked at her admiringly. "Women are wonderful," I remarked. "I've always thought they'd make much better detectives than men."

"That part was easy enough: the difficult thing to decide was what I should do next. I had no actual proof that Osborne had taken the paper, and although the police at home had tried to help me, I didn't believe for a moment that they would go so far as to ask for his extradition."

"Besides, it was the formula I wanted, and I knew that directly he thought he was in any real danger his first idea would be to hide it or destroy it. I spent all the next day thinking things over."

"We'll make a kind of triple alliance of it," I went on, "like the three musketeers—you and I and Jerry. We can call ourselves the A. D. Syndicate; that will do either for Anti-Dimitri or Assassination Detectives."

Chapter 12 THE SYNDICATE I STARED at the girl for a moment, without speaking. "To judge by appearances," I said finally, "it looks to me as if our friend Osborne had been chattering."

"He may have known Dimitri and he may have told him something. Perhaps they had arranged to work together, and then, at the last moment, when father died..."

"That must be it," I cut in. "Osborne saw his chance and suddenly decided that if he were going to be a thief there was no point in sharing the plunder. I'm not surprised that the other lad was a trifle annoyed. He probably—by Jove! yes—now one comes to think of it that would explain everything!"

"How do you mean?" "Put yourself in Osborne's place. Supposing you'd played a dirty trick on a man like Dimitri, and somehow or other you found out that he'd managed to get on your track. What would you do—what would anyone do?"

"Run away," she said. "Exactly. And if somebody hadn't scattered Osborne's brains over the hearth-rug..." I stopped. "But let's finish your story."

"There's not much more to tell. I'd already made up my mind that you were innocent, and I wasn't going to stop in there and see you tortured. I was waiting until Dimitri turned his back to me. Directly he did I meant to shoot him, and then I suddenly caught sight of the telephone by your bed, and that gave me the idea of pretending to ring up the police."

"I didn't even go near it as a matter of fact. I stopped just where I was, and if Dimitri had come upstairs as he wanted to, I should have fired at him as soon as he opened the door. With a man of his kind there was nothing else to do."

"I entirely agree with you," I said, "but, taking it all round, perhaps we're better off as we are." I got up, and walking slowly across the room, stood for a moment looking down into the empty stove.

"Oh, I forgot you didn't know him," I came back to where she was standing. "Jerry's a rather particular pal of mine. His full and proper name's Sir Jerrold Mordaunt—we were up at Cambridge together—the same time that Osborne was there. I got a wire from him this evening to say that he'd just arrived back in England and that he'd be round here first thing tomorrow."

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria! Shivering with chills one moment, and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tannic quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been used as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 21-2 times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25 per cent more for your money.

PILOT JUMPS FROM PLANE IN DENSE FOG

Eastern Airline Mail Plane Burns After Crashing Near Scottsboro, Ala.

Scottsboro, Ala., Nov. 28.—(AP)—An Eastern Airline pilot bound for Atlanta from Chicago with mail mailed out at 5,000 feet about eight miles north of here at 5 o'clock this morning when his motor went dead.

The pilot, R. G. (Bob) Chew, was hurt in the leg in landing. The plane caught fire and burned with its cargo.

R. D. Hager, Eastern Airline traffic manager, said Chew made his way to a telephone and reported he had abandoned the ship when his fuel supply gave out after he got off his course in a dense fog.

Hager said the pilot jumped 2,000 feet after flying through the fog for several hours. All mail aboard was destroyed in the fire which enveloped the plane as it struck the earth.

Murderer of Gallaher Girl Call Menace To Children; At Large

Detroit.—(AP)—A two-months search for Merton Ward Goodrich, charged with the murder of 11-year old Lillian Gallaher, continues—spurred by the statements of psychiatrists that he is a menace to children.

Lillian Gallaher, known to her chums as Lily, walked from her home in Detroit the afternoon of September 20, a charity punchboard under her arm. She was one of many children going from house to house selling chances to aid their parish school.

Six days later police found her body in a trunk behind a bed in a small two-room apartment here. Evidently she had been slain by a fiend. In the apartment was found a file of photographs, all of little girls, obscene scribbles on them.

Goodrich, a trap drummer in a beer garden orchestra, and his crippled wife had lived in the apartment. They were last seen one day after Lily disappeared. He is charged with murder, and his wife is wanted for questioning.

Records showed Goodrich was released from a hospital for the criminal insane at Lima, Ohio, in January; that he had been committed there twice for molesting school children.

A manhunt was organized; rewards amounting to $3,500 were posted; descriptions of Goodrich and his wife were printed and broadcast—but there are no clues to the Goodriches despite the peculiarities that marked the two.

Goodrich, 26 years old, is thin-faced and tall, with protruding ears and bad, broken teeth. His wife, Florence, is small and has brown, bobbed hair. She has a small mole on her upper lip and limps perceptibly because her right foot was crippled by infantile paralysis.

Goodrich was not believed able to raise enough money to leave the country.

HEAVY DOCKET BEFORE COURT

Around Twenty Cases Given Hearing in Weekly Session of County Court

John Diggins, colored, charged with hit and run, reckless and careless driving, as result of an automobile crash in the western part of the city the first of last week, was fined $25 and cost in the regular sitting of the County Court here yesterday.

The defendant was also required to pay $35 for damage done to John Mazingo's car. He was given preliminary hearing in Mayor's Court the latter part of last week and bound over to County Court.

Diggins was alleged to have crashed into Mazingo's car after virtually forcing the machine off the road. A child of Mazingo's who was riding in the machine at the time of the accident sustained minor injuries Diggins allegedly fled after the accident, but was taken into custody very shortly afterward by police.

Sitting for the first time in two weeks by reason of the one-week term of civil court which closed here the latter part of last week, court yesterday disposed of approximately twenty cases sent up from various parts of the county. Unlike the previous session, the majority of defendants yesterday were colored with a sprinkling of whites.

The docket was composed largely of charges of larceny, violation of whiskey and traffic laws in addition to a case or two of assault.

The following cases were given hearing:

Tom Vines and Charlie White, colored, selling whiskey, six months each to the roads; notice of appeal filed to Superior Court under bond of $300 each.

Ab Baker, driving drunk; adjudged guilty of violation of a former court order revoking his driver's license for twelve months and contempt of court, six months on the county roads.

Larry Moore, colored, selling whiskey; six months on the roads; notice of appeal filed under bond of $300.

George Tyson and Helene Knight, colored, selling whiskey; Tyson six months on the roads; the woman six months at the County Home Tyson appealed under bond of $300.

Tom Andrews, colored, driving drunk; $50 and cost and license revoked for six months.

Allen Speight and Spenser Newton, colored, selling liquor; Speight six months on the roads; Newton was not captured.

Sundown Stories

Inside The Cave

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
When Honey Bear saw the beds of soft, old leaves in the cave she growled happily.

"Oh, doesn't that look comfortable!" she said, and at once she went inside, with the cubs Blacky and Jupiter following her.

She snuggled up in a corner with a cub at either side, and Jelly Bear took a place nearer the entrance of the cave.

But the opening was such that no snow could get in far enough to bother him—and how they did look forward to a long, delicious sleep!

"Good-night, good-winter, quack, quack," quacked the ducks.

"Good-night, good-winter, bow-wow-wow," barked Rip.

"Good-night, good-winter, cock-a-doodle-do," crowed Top Notch.

"Good-night, good-winter, caw, caw, caw," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

And then Christopher sang a little cawing lullaby; and Top Notch tried one, too, but the bears were too sleepy to notice that he didn't keep any particular tune.

All of a sudden Willy Nilly cried: "We've almost forgotten! You mustn't go to sleep quite yet."

"Why not?" sleepily growled Jelly Bear.

"Because tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day, and I put aside some special things to eat for all of us."

"Couldn't you bring it up here to the cave?" asked Jelly Bear. "I'll rouse Honey Bear and the cubs. I think they might stay awake for just one more meal."

So Willy Nilly and the others went for the food and they celebrated Thanksgiving at the cave.

American-Wed French Women Told 'No Jobs'

By ALEXANDER H. UHL
Paris.—(AP)—An urgent warning to French-born women who have lost their nationality through marriage to France in the hope of finding jobs has been issued to American authorities in Paris.

Twelve such women with a total of 21 children have been repatriated by the American Aid Society during the past year. They could get no working permits here and didn't have money to get home.

Herman C. Huffer, Jr., president of the society, has written Ambassador Strauss urging the authorities to discourage women in such a position from wasting $500 or $600 in railroad and ship fare for themselves and their children only to discover that nothing awaits them in their former homes.

Advice Held Wrong

"These people should never have been advised to come to France," Huffer said. "The mother had no way of getting a working permit even though she was French-born, yet at least $1,000 was wasted in shutting them back and forth across the ocean."

The American Aid Society, which was founded by the late Ambassador Herrick and Herman C. Huffer, Sr., in 1922 has repatriated since then 2,659 persons at a total cost of nearly $250,000 all privately subscribed by American in France and the United States.

The fund was designed to repatriate Americans living in France who had fallen upon hard times. It does not apply to transient visitors.

SLOW POPULATION GROWTH REVEALED IN AUSTRALIA

Canberra.—(AP)—The population of Australia has increased to 6,656,912, according to government figures for 1934, but the dwindling birth rate, always notoriously low, and the cessation of immigration have slowed the increase to a scant 50,000 a year.

The birth rate in 1933 was 16.78 a thousand, the lowest on record and one of the lowest in the world. The average Australian mother has 2.89 children.
