JAP FREIGHTER FLOUNDERS IN MID ATLANTIC

Temperatures Fall to Below Zero in New England; Cold Wave Reaches Florida With Heavy Frost; Other Areas Affected by Stinging Temperatures

(By The Associated Press) Winter spread its cloak of gales, icy temperatures and snow over the eastern United States today.

In mid-Atlantic the Japanese freighter Victoria Maru floundered helplessly, her rudder being torn away, her captain and chief officer dead, and another third officer missing. Other liners were behind schedule.

One man was frozen to death in New York City where the temperature rivalled that of yesterday which went down 11 degrees above zero. A six-year-old boy was burned to death making a fire to keep warm in his home.

Temperatures fell below zero in New England, Mount Washington reporting a low to 20 degrees below. It was eight below at Northfield, Vermont, and three above at Boston.

Virgin snow sparkled in Cleveland where ten inches fell. Two inches or more fell in central Indiana, the first of the season, and Kentucky had an inch of snow.

The cold wave spread down the Atlantic Coast into Florida where Miami Beach had a minimum temperature of 41, the lowest in three years, and Miami experienced a heavy frost.

AUTO WRECKS FEW IN PITTS

Three or Four Accidents With no Serious Injuries Reported by Patrol

Despite rain and snow in this section Friday and Saturday, the highway patrol today reported no accidents of any consequence in this territory.

Lieutenant Lester Jones said this morning there were three or four minor accidents in this immediate section, but occupants of the cars escaped with minor injuries.

This situation was in striking contrast to some other sections of the State where several were killed and numbers injured on the various highways.

Other law-enforcement agencies reported very few arrests during the period. In Greenville a few persons were taken into custody on charges of drunkenness and other minor charges, but other than that the city was very quiet.

Sheriff's officers also reported very little doing in their field, and the same word came from police departments in the various other cities and towns of the county.

With the run running business always at its height this season of the year, officers were keeping a keen lookout for violators of the prohibition law. Thousands of gallons of liquor are being moved from stills in Pitt and surrounding counties at this time in preparation for the holidays, and the flow of the beverage probably will hit its peak probably the latter part of next week as bootleggers and manufacturers make an effort to supply their patrons at the last minute.

Revamp Plan To Bring Peace In Foreign Scrap

Geneva, Dec. 10.—(AP)—European statesmen revamped today a plan to solve the Yugoslav-Hungarian dispute, thereby increasing the hope that Hungary would accept it.

It was reported to involve an invitation to Hungary to conduct a rigid investigation of the murder of King Alexander of Yugoslavia at Marseille and to punish anyone found guilty in connection with the crime.

This proposal was first made by Pierre Laval, French Foreign Minister, in a speech to the council of the League of Nations. Provisions of the plan have been accepted by Bogoljub Yevetich, Yugoslav Foreign Minister, which is being pressed hard by his government to get concrete action in Yugoslavia's complaints against Hungary.

Yevetich told leaders of the major European powers he preferred to withdraw the matter from the hands of the League and to deal directly with Hungary rather than accept a mere platonic condemnation of terrorists.

"Our moderation has mistakenly been conceived to be weakness," he asserted. "The session of deportation of Hungarians from Yugoslavia has released a situation which was so serious that Laval told a colleague: 'This conflict should be settled and must be settled to maintain the peace of Europe.'"

SURPLUS POOL FOR COTTON IS RE-OPENED

Government Announces Week Extension of Time For Filing Certificates

County Agent Arnold has been informed that the government surplus certificate pool at Washington, which was closed on November 24, has been re-opened for one week ending December 15. During this week producers who received their tax-exemption certificates after the twenty-eighth of November may bring such certificates as they still have on hand to the county assistant in cotton adjustment for surrender to this pool, if they so desire.

The pool does not purchase these certificates, but it does agree to pay for that portion of them which it is able to sell at the fixed government rate of four cents, and then to re-issue the balance, if any, in the name of the producer who surrendered them.

The county agent is informed that it will be necessary for each producer who desires to surrender a certificate to call on the assistant in cotton adjustment in person and sign the "Trust Agreement to Place Certificates in Pool." Landlords may not sign for tenants. If the tenant is unable to write his name, he must make his mark.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the vote to be taken next Friday on the Kerr-Smith and Bankhead acts. Producers should remember that all tenants who grew either tobacco or cotton are entitled to vote, and that failure to cast a vote amounts to the same thing as voting against these control measures. It is up to the landlords who favor these measures to see to it that their tenants appear at the polls and cast their ballots.

NEGRO CHARGED WITH MURDERING HIS WIFE

Williamston, N. C., Dec. 10.—Oscar Lewis, 45, itinerant negro preacher, was jailed here today charged with killing his estranged wife, Katie Dell Lewis. The woman's body was found last night in the yard of Levi Jones, colored, at whose home near here she lived. She had been shot in the head with a shotgun and apparently was instantly killed.

HALL TELLS OF COMING VOTE COTTON-LEAF

Head of Flue Cured Tobacco Board Explains Provisions to Be Voted Upon

By CLAUDE T. HALL, Chairman Flue-Cured Tobacco Board

For the first time in the history of the tobacco growing industry, we have an effective operating system of acreage and poundage control, which insures a more uniform price. For the first time in the same period, the tobacco growers even to the smallest and the most ignorant growers, will have an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of the system under which they are working.

Now since you have this opportunity to express your sentiment on this all-important question, I desire to take this opportunity to solicit your most serious and sober consideration of just what you are voting for, and what it may mean to you, your family, your neighbor, and your State.

Under the bill, known as the Kerr-Smith bill, the Secretary of Agriculture is empowered to impose a general tax of not less than 25 per cent nor more than 33 1/3 per cent on the gross sale of a non-signer, or on vines, and requires that in order for a grower to be in force in 1935, that a referendum or vote must be obtained, and that growers controlling three-fourths of the acreage planted in 1934 must indicate their desire for its continuance. You have had the opportunity to observe one year of its successful operation.

Therefore, may I urge you to take an active part and interest in this campaign to see that every grower has an opportunity to vote and understand the principle the bill. There are a lot of growers who cannot read nor write and do not understand just what it is all about. These are the ones who will not bother themselves about voting.

Prospects were never better brighter for the tobacco growers, but for us to follow up the great victory which we have won, there must not be jealousy, selfishness, nor dissension among our ranks; but co-operation supported by protection from the outsiders who seek their own selfish interest to the detriment of us all. I am thoroughly conversant with the fact that there are lots of individuals who did not get a fair or just allotment for one reason or another; or there may have been some things which you did not approve. May I beg of you to not be over-impetuous, but be patient and give those in power time to work out our salvation; for I am certain they are anxious to perfect a workable plan as fast as possible.

Remember, that if you do not support the A. A. in their effort to work out a satisfactory plan, your second state may be worse than the first one, yet you are invited to give constructive criticism.

Little have you thought, perhaps about this great project, but may I remind you that this great work is destined to mold and shape the financial destiny of your children and your State. All growers with a base acreage who have not signed a contract to sign for 1935 with the same rental and benefit payments as old signers.

Remember, that if you do not support the A. A. in their effort to work out a satisfactory plan, your second state may be worse than the first one, yet you are invited to give constructive criticism.

Remember, that if you do not support the A. A. in their effort to work out a satisfactory plan, your second state may be worse than the first one, yet you are invited to give constructive criticism.

Mrs. Nellie Keinart Takes Stand in Trial At Goldsboro This Morning

Goldsboro, N. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The trial of Mrs. Ruby Grice and her brother, Donald Sasser, for complicity in the slaying of her husband, was resumed today with Mrs. Nellie Keinart on the witness stand.

Rufus Satterfield, professed lover of Mrs. Grice, and convicted slayer of her husband, Herbert Grice, an iron worker, was brought here this morning from State's Prison at Raleigh.

Solicitor Clawson Williams has indicated the Satterfield, who is to be electrocuted next Friday, will be the State's principal witness. The condemned man was not brought in court, but was held in an anteroom.

NEGRO HELD FOR LARCENY

James Redmond Being Held for County Court on Eight Different Counts

James Redmond, colored, arrested here the latter part of last week on eight counts of larceny, was given preliminary hearing in police court this morning and bound over to the next sitting of County Court under bond of $100. He was unable to provide bail and was remanded to jail to await hearing at the regular sitting of County Court tomorrow.

Redmond was taken into custody here last week and charged with stealing goods from automobile parked in the heart of the business district. A considerable number of coats, overcoats, dresses, shoes and blankets were reported to have been recovered by police after Redmond told where they could be found.

Chief of Police George Clark said this morning that eight persons had identified articles recovered by his men during an investigation lasting from two to three days.

The negro denies he actually did the stealing, telling police the goods could be found at different places where other people carried them.

COTTON-LEAF GROUP MEETS BEGIN TODAY

Speakers to Inform Growers of Provisions to be Voted on December 14

The campaign to inform farmers what they are to vote upon in the forthcoming referendum on the Kerr-Smith tobacco control act and the Bankhead cotton reduction legislation got under way in Pitt county last Saturday at a public meeting at the court house and will be continued with group meetings in various sections of the county until the 14th—the date of the referendum.

With several hundred growers on hand, E. F. Arnold, director of the local farm department explained the various provisions to be voted upon in the referendum and the important part which the two pieces of legislation have played in the life of farmers—especially toward lifting prices to away above anything received in recent years.

Mr. Arnold said that everybody engaged in the cultivation of cotton and tobacco, both landowners and tenants, were entitled to cast their ballots and urged them to go to the polls and let their sentiment be known. Failure to vote, he asserted, will be a vote against the legislation.

Growers, who have been greatly impressed by the changes which have taken place under the two crop control acts, listened attentively to what the farm head had to say, and indications point to a tremendous vote in this county.

At the series of group meetings speakers will be acquainted with the provisions to be voted upon and the important part the acts have played in boosting prices of the two crops will give detailed explanations.

Farmers are urged by Mr. Arnold to attend the gatherings and inform themselves concerning an issue of the most vital concern not only to the growers themselves, but to every other industry in this section of the country.

Meetings will be held at the following places: Bethel, Community Building, 10 a. m., Monday, December 10. Stokes, Christian church, 2 p. m., same date.

Farmville, City Hall, 10 a. m., Tuesday, December 11. Black Jack, Store, p. m., same date.

Winterville, school, 10 a. m., Wednesday, December 12. Ayden, school, 2 p. m., same date.

TOBACCO CONTRACTS TO BE CONTINUED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Production adjustment contracts for burley, fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco will be continued through 1935, but fire-cured tobacco growers, the first to sign the government contracts, today awaited Secretary Wallace's decisions about their crop.

A movement is under way to have a new sign-up of fire-cured growers to extend their program for three weeks.

The reduction in burley for 1935 was set at 40 per cent from base acreage and production contract signers. The reduction of fire-cured was set at 20 per cent and the reduction of dark air-cured at 20 per cent.

Pour Oil On Hungary Trouble

Geneva, Dec. 10.—Nicholas Titulescu, Foreign Minister of Rumania, poured oil on the troubled waters of Hungarian-Yugoslav relations today by telling the League of Nations Council that Yugoslavia's appeal against Hungary in no way questioned the national honor of Hungary. Since Titulescu is a recognized leader in the Little Entente of Yugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia, his words were regarded as in the nature of an official olive branch.

The statesmen present in the council chamber were hopeful that Hungary would follow Yugoslavia's lead in accepting the League plan for settlement of the dispute between Yugoslavia and Hungary.

HARRIS AGAIN MADE HEAD OF COUNTY HOME

Three Other Applicants Lose Out in Race For Important County Post

J. O. Harris was re-elected superintendent of the county home at an adjourned meeting of the Board of County Commissioners here the latter part of last week.

It was the third sitting of the board since last Monday when the new members were inducted into office. The two adjourned meetings were held because of liability of the board to straighten out all business at the initial meeting.

Three others sought the position held by Mr. Harris. They were: C. C. Parkerson, J. L. Anderson and John Hardy.

Mr. Harris has been superintendent of the county home for the last several years and during the time considerable progress has been reported especially in the agricultural department. This department has turned out bumper crops each year and inmates of the home have not suffered because of lack of food or anything else for that matter.

The naming of the county home head was the only matter taken up by the commissioners who adjourned until the first of next month when the usual run of business, such as paying debts, hearing reports from the various county departments and straightening out odds and ends will be given attention.

LEAGUE ACTION NOT TO CHANGE YUGO POSITION

Spokesman Tells Associated Press Independent Action Not Contemplated Even If League Rules Against Yugoslavia; British Intervention Thought to Have Brought About Decision

Belgrade, Dec. 10.—(AP)—High government officials told The Associated Press today that Yugoslavia will take no independent measures against Hungary should the League of Nations rule against Yugoslavia and in favor of Hungary in the two nations' present dispute.

This declaration, it was said, was to dispose of the widespread fear abroad that war might break out if the League ruled against Yugoslavia.

The intervention of the British government through Prince Paul, regent of the crown, was said to have been responsible for this decision. It was also said that an unfavorable reaction to Yugoslavia's mass deportation of Hungarians—now ended—had a distinctly restraining effect on the Belgrade government, which seemed at first inclined to take matters into its own hands respecting Hungary regardless of international opinion.

Prince Paul is known to have discussed the English opinion of Yugoslavia during his recent visit to London, but it was feared here that much of his good work had been marred by the precipitate action of home authorities in expelling Hungarian residents from Yugoslavia at a time when the case against Hungary for its alleged harboring of terrorists was being heard in the judicial attempted here at Geneva. Yugoslavia suddenly ended the mass deportation of Hungarians abruptly today, apparently averting the possibility of a border fight. Diplomatic quarters said they understood the government had been prevailed upon by European powers, chiefly Britain and France, to cease expelling the Hungarians.

TAX PAYMENTS SHRINKING

December Collections Of City Not Expected to Total $26,000 As in November

On the basis of revenue received the first eight days of the month, it was indicated today that tax collections in this city for Greenville would be slightly under the previous month when the best record in recent years was hung up.

J. O. Duval, city clerk, said today collections for the first eight days were around $4,000, and taking this as an index to the remainder of the month, it was believed the total would fall well under the $26,686 collected during November. The November collection was $5,000 ahead of the previous month.

Mr. Duval stated that collections during December were always less than November because of the enormous amount of money spent for Christmas.

Basing his estimate upon past years, he said he felt confident the total would fall under November, although he still has a number of large sums scheduled to be paid during the month.

Persons who have not paid their taxes were urged by the City Clerk who is also head of the tax department, to get busy and do so and get the matter out of the way until another payment period rolls around.

TO SWITCH ON YULE LIGHTS HERE TONIGHT

Hundreds of Multi-Colored Lights to Tell of the Coming of Christmas

Christmas lights will be switched on in the business district tonight and from then on until Santa actually comes around the section will be ablaze with hundreds of multi-colored bulbs.

The strings of lights were thrown across street intersections the latter part of last week, and it was announced today from the Water and Light Commission, in charge of the display, that everything was in place and ready for the turning on the switch illuminating the business area.

It was said today the decorations would be virtually the same as last year, augmented probably by a few additional displays of various stores and business houses.

It had been hoped to make the decorations more extensive this year, but inability to provide additional funds caused the commission to use the same lighting effects of last year.

Business houses were called upon to decorate the front of their places in an effort to make the decorations as extensive as possible. Homes also have been joined by those in charge of brightening up the city for the holiday to display as many electrical features as convenient.

Other towns and cities of the territory turned on their lights several days ago. They have improved upon their decorations also, and in the heart of business districts special features have been provided to climax the lighting effect.

Five Points, which in past years has been given additional touches by the decorators, will carry out the usual strings of lights across the intersections. Years ago large electrically lighted trees added to the attractiveness of this important location, but even that is being abandoned this year.

the next Congress as strong a leadership as possible—a leadership capable not only of putting through its program but doing it quickly. There will be 76 new Democrats in the next House—a bloc of votes which conceivably could turn the trick for any of the leading contestants for the speakership. A word from the Democratic National Committee—the patronage distributing agency of the administration—probably would be heeded by all of them.

Vice President Garner's return to Washington almost a month before Congress is convened and his intention to stay there have aroused all sorts of speculation.

Politicians say that more is behind "Cactus Jack's" return than merely a desire to be present at the newspapermen's annual dinner.

They know how much he dislikes Washington when Congress is not in session. For years he has arrived only a few hours before a session actually opens.

Insiders say Garner is more interested in the selection of the next speaker than he has been in anything for a long time. An old-timer of the House himself, he still numbers as his best friends those high in the inner council there.

Garner's influence must be reckoned with. The candidate who gets his support—even though it be tacit—will have a powerful card in the hole.

The Sly Enemy

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
While Santa Claus was eating his supper in Willy Nilly's house surrounded by the other Puddle Muddlers something terrible was happening outside.

The squirrels were the first to notice the enemy, Santa Claus, and the little man Willy Nilly, had left bread crumbs on the snowy ground for the birds who had flocked to Puddle Muddle. The squirrels had taken the nuts that had been given to them up to the branches of the trees where they were so much at home, and the reindeer were resting in Willy Nilly's shed eating lichen, or northern moss, which Santa had brought in his sleigh for them.

"Do not waste a second!" commanded Captain Bushy Tail Squirrel, who had started at once to lead the attack against the sly enemy.

For a big gray cat, with gleaming yellow eyes, had seen all the birds flying in the direction of Puddle Muddle, and had waned over from an old barn where he 'ved, far out in the country.

"I haven't seen so many birds in a long time," said the cat to himself, as he walked and walked and walked until at last he reached Puddle Muddle.

"Scold!" commanded Captain Bushy Tail to the other squirrels. "Downward Jump! Now for the attack! Peck at him!"

In a flash the whole army of squirrels were after the cat and they were not a minute too soon. He was just about to grab the first bird.

"Retreat, Cat, while you yet have time!" cried Captain Bushy Tail bravely, and his little squirrel heart was beating wildly.

CHAPTER I A DOLL IS BORN

Once upon a time and long ago Santa Claus took a few minutes one day to rest from painting bright blue suits on tin soldiers. He stood in the doorway of his toy-shop at the North Pole and puffed on his pipe.

"Who-o-o!" said a bunch of little breezes whisking through his long, white beard.

"What's this?" he chuckled. "Ne-e-ews for you," said the little breezes. "We've just been down to the world and saw a little girl throw the doll you gave her last Christmas on the sidewalk and break her. Her name is—," and they whispered her name to Santa.

"Gracious!" he said, "isn't that dreadful?" He felt so badly he stopped smoking and went in to sit by the fire. You see, Santa makes all his toys so they will love little boys and girls. And he knows the toys feel badly when the little boys and girls don't love them back.

This day he felt more and more sad. The fairies and gnomes noticed him, and they stopped hammering and painting and sewing until the toyshop became very quiet.

But one little fairy was wiser. She was just finishing a pretty, thin, graceful doll with flying, yellow curls. She tied a red ribbon in the doll's hair and whispered in her tiny, pink ear. "Your name is Dagmar. You will always love Santa most."

Now that was against the rules. The fairies with their pretty wings and little pink and blue dresses had been told to whisper to dolls: "You will always love little boys and girls."

As the fairy whispered the doll came alive, hopped off the workbench, and ran to Santa Claus. She climbed his big boot with the white fur, tweeked his long beard and cried, "Hello, hello. I'm finished. My name is Dagmar. But I'm not like other dolls. I'm always going to stay right here with you. I'll never be a Christmas present."

Santa smiled and then shook with laughter.

"Ho, ho, ho," he said. "You'll see when Christmas comes, you'll want to belong to some little girl. But meanwhile you may ride in my pocket."

Santa winked to the other toys, and poked Dagmar into his pocket until only her smiling face showed. You see, the doll had made Santa happy again.

It was a good thing she was finished when she was, because Santa had some trouble the next morning, and Dagmar helped him. When the toyshop woke there was a queer noise outside. It sounded like, "drip, drip, drip." It couldn't be rain, Santa knew, because it only snows around the toyshop. He ran to the door to look.

And there he saw all the holly trees which grow in a forest around the toyshop dropping their bright red berries as fast as they could. It looked as if there would be no Christmas wreaths for people to hang in their homes that year.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK
By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—(AP)—The fight for leadership of the House of Representatives has taken on a different aspect as the result of two developments.

The first is the rumor that some undesignated agent of the Democratic National Committee is quietly passing the word along to both new and old members to be wary of committing themselves in advance for any one of the candidates for speaker.

The other is the announcement that Vice President Garner accepted an invitation to quit his Uvalde retreat and returned to Washington in time to attend the Gridiron dinner.

If it be true that the Democratic National Committee, the political agency of the administration, officially or unofficially, has interested itself in the question of House leadership, it must be construed as highly significant.

Just what is portended no one here seems to know. It seems fairly certain, however, if it be true, that regardless of how much the administration desires to play hands-off in the fight it is finding it increasingly difficult to do so.

The contention all along has been that the administration has a vital stake in the question. For obvious reasons it is to its advantage to have at the helm of the House in

Masquerade Ball.

The Masquerade Ball given for the college people by the Student Government Association Saturday night was a big success. Students, officers and teachers wearing various costumes filled the Campus building auditorium and their gay costumes made the scene look festive. Six prizes were awarded for unusual and outstanding costumes. J. B. Cummings, as Father Time, won the faculty prize; Miss Molly Langston, as the devil, the girls' prize; Nathan Epstein and Primrose Carpenter, mother and baby, the co-ed prize; Francis Sinclair, as Santa Claus; and W. O. Jolly, as a baker, received special prizes. The judges were Misses Katherine Holtzclaw and Mary Green, and P. W. Picklesimer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cummings led the grand march. The decorations consisted of varied colored balloons, Christmas lights and a Christmas tree, which added color and gaiety to the occasion. Miss Eugenia Thomas' orchestra and a combined radio-victrola band by the Carolina Kelvinator Company, furnished the music.

Vesper Service At College.

The senior class had charge of the Y. W. C. A. vesper services Friday evening at East Carolina Teachers College. The service was in the nature of a Christmas program.

Miss Emma L. Hooper read a Christmas story, "Mary of Nazareth" in a most interesting and impressive manner. The story pictured the human side of Mary's life. She was not unlike the women of today in her joys and sorrows and in the sacrifices and hardships she had to go through for her child who was to become the Saviour of the world.

There was no service last night because there were no lights in the auditorium.

End of the Century Club.

The End of the Century Club held its regular meeting with Mrs. J. L. Hassell on Tuesday. Mrs. J. B. Spilman, the president, presided.

After the routine business had been disposed of, the Bowen Shelf was discussed. This shelf was placed in the old library which was in the graded school, by the End of the Century Club, in honor of Mrs. W. A. Bowen, who served as librarian so long and faithfully.

When the school building was destroyed by fire, this shelf as well as the whole library, was a total loss. The library commission decided to replace this shelf with the insurance money, and the club selected a set of books which will be added to from time to time.

Mrs. Charles Laughinghouse was on the program—the subject being the "Pulitzer Prize Biography" of "John Hay." Mrs. Laughinghouse was very fortunate in securing Mr. Mulholland of the English department of the high school, to give a synopsis of the life of John Hay.

He pictured Hay's career as a very colorful one. He said Hay possessed political and executive ability of the highest order, a personality of unusual charm, a literary artist and an excellent letter writer.

He belonged to the Lincoln circle, and spent much of his time with Lincoln and at this time began to record his admiration and affection for him.

Later these notes were incorporated in the famous biography of Lincoln by Hay and Nicholas. Hay served as secretary of the legation in Paris and as ambassador to England. In 1871 fame came to him as a literary artist—published "Little Breeches," Jim Bludson and numerous magazine articles.

In 1874 he married, and after which he wrote "I never found life worth living before." Then came the "Breadwinners," in which his social philosophy was expressed.

He was secretary to state under McKinley and Roosevelt.

Mr. Mulholland gave the highlights of Hay in a most entertaining manner.

The Ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal Church will have a sale of articles suitable for Christmas gifts on sale in the parish house Wednesday.—(Adv.)

Christmas Seal Sale In Full Swing.

It is estimated by Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, that three million people are engaged in the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals and bonds in one way or another in the United States at this time. The roster begins with President Roosevelt and his fine endorsement of tuberculosis work and the Annual Seal Sale and extends down to the six year old ragamuffin newsie, who said "please let me buy a penny's worth of seals, my father died of tuberculosis and my mother had it but she was sent to a sanatorium and got well."

The magazines are contributing space for page advertisements, the broadcasting stations both locally and with nation-wide hook-ups are contributing broadcasts, some daily and others less often. The newspapers everywhere with their usual fine support for every good work, are using cartoons, many write-ups both local and national. The Women's Clubs, Parent Teachers Associations, Labor Unions, fraternal organizations, American Legion, the churches and many other organizations are helping in the Seal Sale. It is fashionable. Everybody is doing it, either buying or selling seals or both.

In North Carolina the Seal Sale was launched by Governor Ehringhaus buying the first sheets of seals. No better endorsement could be given.

Dr. L. B. McBrayer, managing director of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association, says 193 organizations, county, city or local are in charge of the Seal Sale in their respective localities. Ten million seals were distributed to these 193 organizations and they began their work on Thanksgiving day and will continue until Christmas. Requests for additional seals have come in even in the first three days totalling more than a million. The people in our state are interested in finishing the fight against tuberculosis, and with the encouragement of a reduction of the death rate of more than two-thirds in the last twenty years, saving the people of our state more money every year than we pay our school teachers, they have a right to be. And the Christmas Seal will lead them.

U. D. C. Meeting. The George B. Singletary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held its December meeting at the home of Mrs. J. H. Randolph last Friday afternoon, with a large attendance of members present. The home was attractively decorated with red and white flowers.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. T. A. Person, the first vice-president presided over the business session.

The chapter voted to send Christmas donations as it has heretofore to the Old Soldier's Home at Raleigh, the Confederate Woman's Home at Fayetteville, and Christmas remembrances to two Confederate widows.

Mrs. S. T. White gave a most interesting report of the general convention that was held in New York City Nov. 18-24. She showed a picture of Robert E. Lee, the fourth, 12 years old, who gave one of the most cordial welcomes to the convention. She told of one of the outstanding events of the convention, historical evening, when all delegates appeared in colonial costumes. This concluded with a beautiful costume parade of the '60's. Mrs. J. L. Fleming, delegate also to the convention, added many interesting facts to this report.

At the conclusion of these reports the hostess, Mrs. J. H. Randolph, assisted by Miss Sonora Moore, served delectable refreshments.—Reported.

STEALS FAGS GOES TO JAIL

John Kelly Bound Over to County Court for Theft Here The Past Week

Charged with stealing cigarettes from C. L. Warren's store here, John Kelly, colored, was bound over to County Court this morning following preliminary hearing in police court. He was unable to give bond and was remanded to jail.

The negro, an employee of the store, was charged with stealing five cartons of cigarettes and selling them at reduced prices to members of his race. He was tracked through the sales and arrested Saturday. Two cartons were recovered.

Lee Taylor, charged with driving drunk, was given hearing this morning and bound over to County Court under bond of $300. He was unable to provide bail and went back to jail to await hearing.

Several other minor cases, such as charges of drunkenness, were before the court, the docket being one of the longest in several days.

Return From Education Meet

Dr. Leon R. Meadows, Dr. J. H. McGinnis and R. C. Deal returned Saturday from their trip to Georgia and report a most important and interesting meeting of the South Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which was held in Atlanta last week.

Admission of membership into this organization, in 1927, was one of the most important events in the history of East Carolina Teachers College, as it gives official recognition as a college of Class A rank.

NEUSE RIVER FLOODS SUBURBS OF KINSTON

Kinston, N. C., Dec. 10.—Neuse River, now flooding suburban Happersville and thousands of acres of nearby farm and swamp lands, had apparently reached its crest here today. It rose four inches during last night.

The rise ceased four feet short of the record flood several years ago, said Happersville residents. Yet, there was hardly a dry spot in the village today. Homes could be reached only by boat or by wading through icy waters. Because of the slow falling of the river at this point, several families are expected to be marooned for days. Steps will be taken to prevent suffering, said officials.

Lowgrounds south of Happersville, together with hundreds of acres of farm lands, were under water today. Very little damage was reported. The present flood is believed to be the first that this section has ever had in December.

ANOTHER MILESTONE

The Daily Reflector with today's issue again celebrates its birthday and begins its forty-first year as Pitt County's daily newspaper.

On December 10, 1894, after The Reflector as a weekly publication had been issued for nearly thirteen years, the first issue of The Daily Reflector appeared.

That same would be published as an experiment for a period of one month, and if at the end of that time the people of Greenville and Pitt County had shown by their response in the way of advertising and subscriptions that they desired a daily newspaper the publication of the daily would continue.

That announcement was made forty years ago today and since that time with the exception of Sundays and holidays, The Daily Reflector has been a daily visitor to the homes of a large number of our citizens.

During that forty years, including extras, there have been published approximately 120,500 issues of The Daily Reflector. The exact circulation figures over the complete period are not now available, but based on an estimated average, close to two hundred million copies of The Daily Reflector have been published.

The Daily Reflector was established with the view of serving Pitt County in the way of a daily newspaper and we hope that on this our fortieth birthday, the fact that we are still in existence is evidence that to a degree at least we have rendered a worthwhile service to the community.

Those who founded The Reflector both as a weekly and a daily publication have already passed on to their reward but to their pioneering spirit and their determination to carry on in the face of odds belongs the credit for Greenville's having had the benefits of a daily newspaper over this long period of years.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

Chapter 22 SINISTER VOICE

I SAT back and regarded Sir William with interest. For a baronet and a highly respected leader of British industry, Sir William was certainly a curious mixture.

"Well, we know where we are now, anyhow," I remarked. "Perhaps you're right in what you propose, but I take it that in the meantime you've no objection to our making a few investigations on our own account."

"You must please yourselves. If you are prepared to run the risk and if you think you have the smallest chance of success, go ahead by all means. Have your definite idea as to where you propose to start?"

There was a faint suggestion of irony in his voice which gave me the impression that he attached very little importance to our projected efforts.

"The first thing I want to do," I said, "is to see the place where Osborne worked. I should like to have a chat with those people who looked after him. If he talked to them at all it's quite possible they might be able to give us some useful information."

"I fully expected it," I said. "All the same, just for my own personal satisfaction, I should prefer to have a prow around myself."

"What's the name of the place?" I inquired. "and how does one get to it?"

"It's called Hambridge Ferry. The easiest way is to go to Eastminster. Anyone will direct you from there."

Grid for the crossword puzzle with numbers 1-73 indicating starting positions.

ator William E. Borah of Idaho best say he is taking his last shot at reorganizing the Republican Party to fit his personal measurements. Also they say he is sort of whistling past a graveyard.

Borah always has known how to command front-page publicity. He has become known as the Lone Wolf from Idaho. Quite a few Washington observers are wondering whether the sobriquet should not be changed to "Sick Wolf".

A canvass of Progressive Republicans shows he is standing almost alone. Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota is about the only one who continues to take counsel from the oracle. Nye is making a name for himself but he is not outstanding on the Republican side of the corridor.

Reckoning: Cousins of Michigan is mad at Borah because back in 1934 the wealthy Detroitier offered to support the Idahoan for President with all the cash and political persuasiveness at his command. Borah promised to take the proposition under advisement but forgot to give an answer one way or the other.

El Johnson of California has never forgotten the way Borah dramatically announced to hoodlums Roosevelt back in 1912: Colonel, we have come to the parting of the way. Borah used to eat at the so-called Progressives' table in the Senate restaurant until Johnson made life miserable for him by inquiring daily: "What has our spearhead leader to say today?"

Norris of Nebraska has never taken an open stand against Borah but he was decidedly cold when Borah's friends tried to start a presidential boom for the Lone Wolf in 1931 against Herbert Hoover.

steps in that direction. Barometer: Some folks wonder why the government should borrow nearly a billion dollars new money no instead of using its cash reserve of more than two and a half billion.

Shrewd New Yorkers call that reserve a quiet and inconspicuous barometer of the government's state of mind. They say it's being conserved as a safety measure as long as Federal authorities believe there's any possible chance of an emergency—just as a prudent corporation hangs onto its surplus in times of stress.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE Having qualified as executors on the estate of Emma J. Batchelor Bros. No Gift Giving Period Can Compare With Christmas Time. And no gifts are more fitting to the occasion than those from our store. Discriminating shoppers select exclusive, but inexpensive gifts for a man, because of the fine impression carried to the recipient. That's good judgment. We urge unsparing comparison of our gifts for a man. You may choose the lowliest or the loftiest with the utmost assurance that it will please the man who receives it. That's the ultimate aim of all gift giving. We have a most varied stock and prices are moderate.

inside, I was in a distinctly elated mood. The knowledge I had acquired, if it did not enable me to prove my innocence to the world, at least provided a promising starting point from which to commence our researches.

I had a queer unreasoning conviction that somewhere or other down in those lonely Essex marshes lay a clue to the mystery of Osborne's death. Jerry, as I was well aware, knew that particular district inside out. Pottering about the East Coast in a small sailing boat was one of his favorite hobbies, and as far as that part of the work was concerned, there was no one alive who was better qualified to assist me in ferreting out the truth.

The elevator came to a halt, and escorted by a uniformed attendant, Sir William and I advanced to a stately procession towards the revolving glass door. Outside stood a magnificent limousine. A chauffeur with a rug over his arm was awaiting our arrival, and I was on the very point of taking my seat when I heard a remark which made every muscle in my body suddenly stiffen.

"How do you do, Sir William? It is quite a long time since I had the pleasure of meeting you."

I jerked my head around, scarcely able to believe my ears. Two paces away from me a tall, clean-shaven, middle-aged man, dressed in a smartly cut grey suit, was shaking hands with my companion.

On this super-committee would be placed such sociologically-minded members of Congress as, for instance, Senator Bob Wagner, (D) of New York, and Senator Bob LaFollette, (Prog.) of Wisconsin. This would serve to keep the individually ambitious members of Mr. Roosevelt's official family always conscious of the will of Capitol Hill from whence all appropriations flow. If you get the idea, the vari-

New York By JAMES McMULLIN Carried: You may have noticed signs of budding disagreement in the huddles of the President's all-American team. Business is resuming outspoken criticism of the quarterback's signals and urging that they be changed to suit its own ideas. It would be hard to find a program more completely at variance with New Deal policies than the platform evolved by the National Association of Manufacturers as its contribution toward helping the common cause. There are several reasons why big business is feeling its oats and becoming a lot franker in stating its demands. One is the increased sense of security that comes with rising earnings. Another is the conviction that Washington's drift towards the right can be accelerated by firm insistence that the time has come to cancel the New Deal features which business dislike. This psychology is fed by concessions made to

ALTAR MARCH STILL LIVELY

Ten Couples Granted Licenses to Wed in Pitt County Over the Week-End

Interest in matrimony continued in Pitt County over the week-end and records in the office of the Register of Deeds indicated today that ten couples obtained licenses to marry during the period.

The average was slightly under the previous period a week ago when sixteen couples obtained licenses to wed.

The pre-Christmas rush, which is always the largest of the year, started about three weeks ago, or before Thanksgiving, and there was every indication today the record for the previous year would be surpassed.

Pitt County last year led the State in the issuance of licenses, and J. C. Gaskins, Register of Deeds of Pitt County, commenting on the situation several days ago, said he was confident the distinction would be maintained this year.

Colored people forged away ahead of the whites Saturday, nine of the licenses being issued to members of the colored race and one to whites.

With slightly over two weeks to go before Christmas, the office force of the Register of Deeds was preparing to handle record business this week and next. The old saying that "in the springtime thoughts of theyoung turn to love," is not altogether applicable these days as the most approved season for marriages is Christmas, and for the last several years the month of December had out-classed all others.

Those obtaining licenses to marry Saturday were:

John Harris to Moss Mattie Brantley, of Pitt County.

Colored

Charlie McCafferty to Cella Joyner, Craven County.

Will Smith to Josephine McCarn, Farmville.

Willie Wooten to May Alice Barnes, Greenville.

James Joyner to Mamie Bryant, Greenville.

James Joyner to Rena Crandall, Carolina.

Willie Dawson to Annie Bullock, Greene County.

Jesse Stocks to Bessie Foreman, Greenville.

James May to Annie Arnes, Pitt County.

Gus Anderson to Ella Lloyd, Bethel.

Standard Oil Men To Gather Here

A sales meeting at which dealers and service station salesmen of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will be given technical details on the company's new Aerotype Esso will be held December 13 at the Woman's Club, Greenville, N. C., at 7 o'clock p. m.

Some one hundred dealers are expected to attend the meeting, which will be conducted by F. T. Baynor and will be addressed by C. M. Byers, Division Manager, in charge of company's sales in this State. Other sales executives from the main office in Charlotte, and F. A. Jones of New Bern; C. A. Hall, of Washington; W. B. McDonald, of Wilson; J. M. Jones, of Edenton, and H. G. Bland, of Kelford, will attend.

The oil men will see talking motion pictures and a sound slide film which will describe in detail the new motor fuel which was placed on the market on December 1, and which will outline plans for promoting its sale. Instruction will be given in methods of selling the fuel and question on its characteristics will be answered. Refreshments will be served.

This is the third sales meeting which the New Jersey Company executives have held with dealers and service station men in this area this year. All meetings have been feature by talking motion pictures. Similar meeting will be held throughout the State at the same time.

splashed with drama, Mrs. Smith who also divorced her second husband, today went into Forsyth court with a plea that the proposed Reynolds share settlement be disallowed and that the $25,000,000 estate be distributed according to law and fairness. She presented herself as the lawful widow of the young tobacco heir.

The claim she set forth included the charge that the Cabarrus Bank & Trust Company, which she termed the instigator of the proposed settlement, is not the actual guardian of her child, Ann Cannon Reynolds second, as the bank has already claimed, but was appointed merely to look after the accounts of the actual guardian, Mrs. J. P. Cannon, her mother.

She charges that neither she, her child, nor any member of her family knew anything about the proposed settlement until it was offered in court, although, she says, the Cabarrus Bank & Trust Co., has negotiated for months with the Holman and Reynolds families to obtain such a proposal.

Discover Evidence of Graft

Washington, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A DuPont company official frankly conceded to the Senate munitions committee today that graft had been paid in connection with powder sale to China but conceded that was an exception to the company's usual practice.

K. K. V. Casey, sales manager for the powder company, said he had been told it was "an old Chinese custom."

The committee failed to disclose graft or bribery in sales to Poland but found an Argentine agent of the company had been discharged for indiscriminate offering of bribes.

The committee heard evidence the DuPont company was forced to dismiss its agent in Argentina more than ten years ago because of complaints from Argentina of its methods of attempting to pay bribery there indiscriminately.

Son Of Oil Millionaire Held.

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Homer F. Wilcox, Jr., 17, son of a wealthy Tulsa oil man, was arrested by city officers today after he and his father appeared at police headquarters for a conference in connection with the slaying of John Gorrell. He was booked on charges of "malicious mischief."

Asked what would constitute malicious mischief in this instance, Police Chief Charles Carr said: "Well, shooting our street lights in the vicinity of the spot where Gorrell was slain by Phil Kennemer would be it."

Earlier in the case Chief Carr said he had found two street lights in the vicinity of the fatal shooting of Gorrell had been broken by bullets, leaving the scene in darkness overnight.

Kennemer, 17, son of District Judge Franklin Kennemer, is held in jail charged with the murder of Gorrell, 23 year old dental student. Holly Anderson, district attorney, said Kennemer said he killed Gorrell in self defense November 29.

The father posted bond of $500 for the boy and they left headquarters together.

Slayer Goes On Stand.

Goldsboro, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Rufus Satterfield, 42 year old married man under sentence of death for the slaying of Herbert Grice, today began his story of his affair with Mrs. Grice in her trial with her brother, Donald Sasser, for complicity in the killing.

Under questioning of Solicitor Clawson Williams the condemned man related the developments of his intimate relationship with Grice's wife but had not reached the time of the killing—October 22, 1933, when Judge R. Hunt Parker recessed court for lunch.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Futures opened steady unchanged to four points higher on trade and commission house buying owing to more favorable retail trade reports.

Active months showed net advances of three to five points right after the call with March selling at 12.59 on a moderate demand from trade and commission house sources. Offerings were generally light with the market quiet and steady at the end of the first half hour.

The market was very quiet later and prices moved within a range of five or six points. At midday March was holding around 12.54 with active months generally about net unchanged to one point higher.
