State Asks That There Be No Mercy For Hauptmann

NOTED CASE DRAWS NEAR JURY STAGE

Attorney General
David Wilentz Calls
On Jury to Send Hauptmann to the Electric Chair; Disputes Claims of Defense That Hauptmann Did Not Kill
Baby; Says State Has Perfect Case

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Judge Thomas W. Trenchard was undecided at noon today when he would give the Hauptmann case to the jury.

Attorney General David Wilentz had completed about half of his summation. Apparently the justice felt he had better wait until the attorney general closed before deciding when to give the charge. It will be given either this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 12.—(A)—The State today asked the Hauptmann murder jury to "put him out of the way" as a "menace."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz also charged that Hauptmann's defense against the charge that he killed and murdered Baby Charles Lindbergh, Jr., was furnished "idiots, cranks and fools." He pleaded that no mercy should be shown and dubbed him Public Enemy No. 1 of the world.

He defended with vigor the circumstantial evidence on which he depends for conviction, and enumerated that part of the case which he said was not circumstantial.

Besides calling Hauptmann lower than the lowest form of animal in the animal kingdom, he compared him with an unruly bear in the zoo which had to be killed.

"Now, the defendant does not like to do it," he told the jury, "but that bear is a menace and they must put him out of the way. That's what you've got to do now with that fellow."

About circumstantial evidence, he said: "When he starts to scream all the lip evidence in the world cannot overcome it."

As not circumstantial, he listed: The identification by Hauptmann by Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon, ransom intermediary, and Joseph Perrone, taxi driver, who said that Hauptmann paid him a dollar to deliver a ransom note to Dr. Condon.

The box in the closet of Hauptmann's home with writing on it by Hauptmann; Dr. Condon's telephone number and address, as admitted by Hauptmann in the Bronx; the identification of Hauptmann by Amariel Hotchmuth, Millard Whitted and then Lupica as the man seen lurking near the Lindbergh home before the crime.

Colonel Lindbergh's identification of Hauptmann's voice as that of the man he heard say, "Hey, Doctor," in the Bronx ransom rendezvous.

The brokerage account, the sleeping garments and $15,000 in gold found in the garage of his home are not circumstantial," he said, "and any of these things is sufficient."

Picking up one of the ransom notes and pointing to the mystic symbols, he said: "And (Hauptmann) put his signature there. There it is."

"The blue circle, the red center and the holes. 'Bin Blue, for Bruno,' 'Bin Red, for Richard, 'Hole's for Hauptmann.'"

He pointed to the habit of Hauptmann of placing the dollar sign after an amount instead of before and held up one of Hauptmann's own documents to show that in this wise it compared with the ransom notes.

He defended again Dr. Condon from the defense insinuations. He contended the testimony from Dr. Condon was enough evidence to convict Hauptmann of first degree murder.

The prosecutor also defended vigorously Colonel Lindbergh's identification of Hauptmann's voice in the cemetery rendezvous.

"Why if that man said one word in this room about a whisper I wouldn't have to look around. I could tell it was Hauptmann. There is a different quality. There is something weird about it. I can't sleep after hearing that voice at night myself."

The attorney general had not finished his summation when court recessed for lunch at 12:30 o'clock.

Late News Flashes

Senate Passes Drivers' License Bill
Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Highway safety and the sales tax tied with one another today for the center of interest in the Legislature.

The Senate passed the drivers' license bill on one reading, amending it so that it makes no mention of school bus drivers and making other changes.

The measure provided for the licensing of every operator of automobiles with stiff provisions for law enforcement and license revocation. Members of the Joint Finance Committee were scheduled to hear the anti-sales taxers present their proposal for raising revenue without continuing the present 3 per cent general sales tax.

After observing Lincoln's birthday by paying tribute to Abraham Lincoln, the House passed a few minor bills and adjourned.

The Senate got a proposal to prohibit any diversion of highway receipts to any purpose other than for roads.

Fight Continues.
Washington, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Administration forces fought off an effort to split up the social securities program today as the Supreme Court quietly pushed routine proceedings that left scarcely a change.

BURLINGAME FOUND GUILTY

Fined $100 in Four Cases of Receiving Stolen Goods in County Court

L. H. Burlingame, local filling station operator, charged with receiving stolen goods, was fined $100 in County Court this afternoon and ordered to return the stolen property, allegedly purchased from a band of youthful negro thieves rounded up by police here two weeks ago, to the rightful owners.

Judge Dink James, who handed down the decision immediately after court adjourned from noon recess, also warned the defendant that if he should be found guilty of any similar charge in the future the court would order him to close his place of business.

Burlingame was found guilty on four counts of receiving stolen goods in mayors' court about a week ago and bound over to County Court under bond of $400.

The nine negro youths who stole tools from filling stations and then allegedly sold them to Burlingame were scheduled to be sentenced to schools of correction in Juvenile Court this afternoon. Decision in this case was postponed until after the Burlingame action had been settled in County Court.

The four charges were consolidated and tried as one when Burlingame faced County Court this morning. The negro youths testified they sold a grease gun and other filling station tools to Burlingame and that he knew them to be stolen.

Burlingame proved a splendid character, that he had never been arrested, in court or connected with anything of criminal nature.

GAS STATION ROBBED HERE

Small Amount of Cash and Cigarettes
Taken at Hadley
Station Last Night

Robbers entered the Hadley Filling Station on Fifth street last night and made away with 75 cents in cash and several packages of cigarettes, it was reported today by police.

It was the second time in the last few days that the filling station has been entered. The first time the thieves made away with between $10 and $15 but last night the cash drawer was virtually empty with exception of the small amount of change left for the beginning of business this morning.

As on the previous occasion, the robber or robbers gained entrance to the building by removing a glass panel in the back door.

Nothing but the money and cigarettes was disturbed and police expressed belief the robbers were after money alone although they decided to take along a few packages of cigarettes until conditions in their line improved.

Police were busy today investigating three or four minor robberies here the last several days, and hoped to be able to make a favorable report by the end of the week.

ITALY SEEKS PEACE WITH ETHIOPIANS

Conferences Under

With African Tribes

Rome, Feb. 12.—(Copyright by The Associated Press)—The Supreme Council for the defense of Italy, presided over by Premier Mussolini, met today after a government spokesman had announced that peace negotiations were continuing in Addis Ababa and that 30,000 Ethiopian troops were massing on the Italian Somali land border.

Italy was described as adamant in her previous demand for reparations for Italy as result of several recent border incidents and had prepared a neutral zone along the Eritrea and the Somali land border.

General Italo Balbo, former mass field leader of the Italian air corps, and now Governor of Libya, was present in the Supreme Council meeting. His presence was considered particularly significant because of his knowledge of colonial

The Ethiopian troops were said to be gathering near Ualual where several border incidents have occurred recently. This information was made public at 25,000 Italian reservists arrived on the border and stood ready to join possible movement on Africa. Of this number 30,000 have already been moved to other points, and it was indicated the organization of units was still in progress.

At the same time fifty Italian army planes were en route to Eritrea and Tripoli. Despite military activity on both sides, the government spokesman said it was hoped that army conflict might be averted.

School Heads Oppose Adult Truck Drivers

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Feb. 12.—Efforts to divert highway funds for school purposes by the North Carolina Education Association are being opposed by county superintendents and school principals according to surveys made by this bureau. It is understood that the Association is backing a plan to fight for adult drivers for school buses with the highway department assuming operation of the bus system. Failing in that they would express a willingness to compromise, it is reported by the diversion of $3,000,000 from the highway fund to the schools.

Operation of the school bus system by the highway department, with only adult drivers employed, would cost, it is estimated, $4,500,000. However, it is being said that the Education Association really has no desire to force the employment of adult drivers—that its real objective is division. In the meantime, many parents are getting fearful for their children's safety as a result of the numerous reports that student drivers are incompetent.

As a matter of fact, say the superintendents, student drivers are more careful than are adult drivers. Accident statistics support their contention. The most serious school bus accident last year was caused by an adult driver whose bus left the road with 41 children aboard.

This year there have been but three accidents, with two student drivers and one adult involved, although at present there are comparatively few adult drivers.

School superintendents and principals contend that student drivers are far superior to adults. They point out that almost invariably student drivers are outstanding

SOLONS VISIT COLLEGE HERE

Committee From The Legislature On In-

A committee from the Legislature made a visit of inspection to East Carolina Teachers College today for the purpose of seeing first-hand the needs of the college so as to make recommendations before the Appropriations Committee.

They met the students at the assembly hall when President Meadows greeted them and presented the member from Pitt. J. H. Paylor, who introduced the others and was spokesman for the group. They were J. C. Deas, of Pamlico, and H. R. Lindsey and T. C. Stone, both from Rockingham County. The two on the committee who were unable to come today, but who may be able to come tomorrow, were Fred Folger of Surry, and Walter Powell, of Columbus County. F. G. Folger and F. C. Harding, both of whom have served several terms in the Legislature, were on the stage also.

President Meadows presented the visitors as those who controlled the institution and had the final decision as to whether or not it could

LIQUOR ISSUE GIVES JITTERS TO POLITICIANS

Candidates For Governor Suffering From Neurotic Condition Over Fight

Reflector Bureau.
By J. C. BASKERVILLE

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 12.—The intrusion of the liquor question into the present General Assembly is making prospective candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1936 exceedingly jittery and the outcome of the General Assembly decides to submit a liquor control plan to a vote of the people, as a good many observers now likely, the future destiny of several prospective gubernatorial candidates will rise or fall with the outcome of the election, it is generally agreed.

It is already generally conceded here that Clyde Hoye, of Shelby will be one of the candidates for the nomination, that Lieut. Governor A. H. Graham will be another and that Congressman Robert L. Doughton may also decide to get into the race, although there is a growing sentiment here to the effect that Doughton will not be a candidate if Hoye becomes one. There are five or six others who are hoping to become candidates and who will run if they can get any support. But at the present time, it is generally agreed that the contest is likely to be between Hoye and Graham, or Hoye, Graham and Doughton.

If Hoye runs—and he is understood to have already asked some members of the present General Assembly to manage his campaign in their home counties—he will, of course, have the support of the United Dry Forces and the United Dry Forces and thus run on a bone-dry platform. It is also generally reported in political circles here that Hoye will have the support of former Senator Governor Cameron Morrison and his wife's bankroll and that in 1936 Morrison will run against Senator R. Reynolds, with Hoye's support and on a dry platform, in an effort to win back the Senate which Reynolds wrested from him four years ago running on a wet platform. For those known to be close to both, Hoye and Morrison say that both of them have been convinced ever since the outcome of the repeal election in 1932 that North Carolina is overwhelmingly dry and that Hoye could be elected Governor and Morrison elected Senator again on dry platforms—until the recent agitation developed in the General Assembly for changing the Turlington law setting up a liquor control law.

Cale Burgess and his United Dries are still confident that Hoye will be a candidate and be elected Governor, regardless of what this General Assembly does about the Turlington Act and the Hill bill. Burgess has intimated that one of the reasons he does not expect to be a candidate for Governor himself aside from geographical reasons, is that Hoye is already a candidate and satisfactory to the dry forces.

Word brought back here by members of the General Assembly who have been "back home" over the week-end is that Hoye and his friends are considerably disturbed over the turn events have taken in the General Assembly here as a result of the introduction of the liquor control bill by Senator John Sprunt Hill, of Durham, and the possibility that the bill, calling for another State-wide referendum, may be passed. Both Hoye and his friends are reported to be hoping against hope that the bill will not pass, since if it should pass and the people should vote wet in the election such action would just about upset Hoye's apple cart as far as running on a dry platform with the support of the United Dry Forces, especially since the Republicans could not vote in the Democratic primary, as they did in the repeal election.

As a result, the report was heard today that both Hoye and the dry would much prefer to have the General Assembly repeal the Turlington Act and set up a liquor control plan without submitting it to a referendum since they could then attack the General Assembly for acting contrary to the vote of the people in the 1932 repeal election. Another report is that if this Legislature does pass the Hill bill and submit a liquor control plan to a vote of the people, that Hoye will not run an active campaign against it, as he did in the repeal campaign.

"If this Assembly does authorize a vote on a State-wide liquor control bill and if it is approved a good many of the experienced political observers here are predicting that Lieutenant Governor Graham rather than Hoye will be the Governor."

Glee Club Pleases Audience.

The University Glee Club in their concert at East Carolina Teachers College last night presented, under the direction of H. Grady Miller, a pleasing and well-balanced program composed of four groups of different types of songs. Russian songs, Sacred songs, Sea chanties, and Southern songs with solos by a baritone and a tenor.

The baritone was a Greenville boy, James Dees, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dees. His singing of the "Open Road" brought out the excellent qualities of his voice. The audience showed their appreciation of his singing by recalling him for an encore. Paul K. Gyles, the guest artist, has a beautiful tenor voice. He sang "Hills" and an encore. He is one of Greensboro's leading singers and has sung in light opera and musical comedy in New York City. He later gave a reading and told some jokes in dramatic style, having been introduced as a versatile artist, who could do other things besides singing.

Miss Helen Glenn Powell of Greensboro, was the pianist. The favorite group of songs on the program, and the ones the glee club sang best, was the last group, the Southern songs. Their arrangement and singing of "Swing Low" was perhaps their best number. Other songs, the sea chanties, which also pleased the audience, were as follows: "Eight Bells," "Away To Rei," "Old Man Noah," "What Shall We Do with a Drunken Sailor?"

In spite of the fact that the advance press notices said there would be seven states represented in the personnel of the club, it was almost altogether North Carolinian, with only one exception, a New Yorker. Instead of having one fixed group to go out on tour, there is a large club from which about twenty-five are chosen.

Those here last night were: Bass, James Dees of Greenville, Larry Anderson of Durham, Tom Hicks of Rocky Mount, John Murphy of Charlotte, Grey Culbreth of Stedman, Herbert Stallings of Wilson, Baritone, Harold Gavin of Sanford, Bruce Culbreth of Stedman, John Wiggins of Winston-Salem, Herbert Hazelman of Andrews, Walter Henderson of Monroe, G. C. Courtney of Lenoir, Second Tenor, John Balfay of Greensboro, Ezra Griffin of Goldsboro, Willard Miller of Rocky Mount, Claude Ballard of Kinston, Bertram Winkler of New York, First Tenor, John Walker of Chapel Hill, Edwin Dougherty of Boone, Marion Savin of Elizabeth City.

An informal reception and dance in the lobby of the Campus building was given by the Senior class to the visiting musicians. About midnight the boys left in their private bus.

To Present "Fashion" At College. "Fashion" the nineteenth century melodrama that will be given by the Senior class of East Carolina Teachers College on Feb. 13 and 14 is being mounted with all the scenic embellishments of the mid-Victorian stage conventions.

The stage will be similar to the old time stage using the wings that were a part of the stage custom of that era. The college class is stage production has provided the scenery and a number of new pieces have been constructed. The colors of the period dresses and costumes are those that portray the spirit of the era.

The costumes are being made under the direction of Mrs. C. E.

Jones. The costumes are characteristic of the period and add color to the production as a whole. Part of the costumes have been made over from past years, given under the FERA, while a part of them were made especially for "Fashion." The gold and red effect of the period is enhanced by the costumes worn by the actors.

Not only has "Fashion" received favor at East Carolina Teachers College but it has been chosen for production at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro. A drama class there will produce the play sometime in the early spring.

Miss Mary Dimminger is directing the production of the play here and is also superintending the workshop.

A surcharge on one commemorative stamp has been used by Albania to create another.

The occasion observed philatelically is the tenth anniversary of the return of the government to the capital city after a revolution. The stamps selected for the observation comprise the set issued in 1930 in honor of the second anniversary of the accession of King Zogu I. The king's portrait is on four of the values, which range from 1 quintar to 3 francs.

Sweden Celebrates

In celebration of the 500th anniversary of the founding of his parliament at the little town of Arboga, Sweden, has placed in use six stamps, illustrative of the purpose of the issue.

On the highest value, the 60 ar, is pictured Engelbrekt, who led the peasants and country people against the Danes and summoned what is believed to have been the first Swedish parliament. The others, including 5, 10, 15, 25 and 35 ore, show buildings which at different times have been used for the sessions of parliament together with the present building.

World Notes

Further values of the recently presented Lichtenstein series of three for regular postage consist of a 20-rappen carmine and a 25-rappen brown. In addition the 25 is surcharged for official use.

A 15-centavo steel blue, in an unusually dark shade, has come from Spain. It bears a portrait of Conception Arenal.

Surprise Birthday Party.
Mrs. A. W. Clement delightfully entertained quite a number of friends Tuesday night, Feb. 5, from 8 to 10 o'clock, at a surprise birthday party honoring her father, who was 57 years old.

The guests all arrived and were invited into the living room where the beautiful birthday cake, with burning tapers formed the centerpiece for the table. The party which was a complete surprise and Mr. Lee was overjoyed at finding numbers of his friends there to celebrate.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Clement, hostess. Miss Myrtle Lee and Mrs. Gladys Pascal. Mr. Lee received numbers of nice and useful gifts. At the conclusion of the party when everyone was ready to leave, the three little grandchildren of Mr. Lee sang "Happy Birthday to Granddaddy."

Mrs. Josey Guest of Society.
Mrs. R. C. Josey of Scotland Neck, superintendent of the W. M. U. of the Roanoke Baptist Association, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Memorial Baptist Church yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Josey made a most interesting talk to the large number of members present, and inspired them to do bigger and better things during the year.

At the close of the program in the church, Mrs. J. L. Fleming, president of the society, graciously entertained at an informal tea at her home on Greene street, honoring Mrs. Josey.

The home was effectively decorated in keeping with the Valentine season. Guests were greeted by Mrs. John L. Winstead and Mrs. W. Z. Morton.

Mrs. Annie Kitchen McDowell of Scotland Neck, received with Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. Josey.

From the attractively appointed table, which was covered with a cloth of lace, and centered with a Valentine tree, flanked by red capdolls in silver holders, Mrs. Jesse Smith and Mrs. W. L. Hall poured tea.

Officers of the Missionary Society and chairmen of the circles assisted in entertaining the guests and passing wafers, cheese biscuits, date roll, cookies and cakes.

About fifty members of the society attended this delightful affair.

Birth Announcement.
Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bell of Belvoir announce the birth of a son on Monday, February 4th, 1935.

Mrs. Springer Guest Speaker.
Mrs. George E. Springer, for nearly a quarter of a century a missionary in India, will address two meetings in the Eighth Street Christian Church tomorrow. At three p. m., Mrs. Springer will speak to the women of the local congregation and at seven-thirty at night to the general congregation. The Greenville meetings are part of a general tour of North Carolina churches being made by Mrs. Springer in preparation for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the work of the Disciples of Christ in China. Subjects discussed will deal with world missions and members of other church groups in Greenville are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Mrs. Springer has represented the Disciples of Christ in India for almost a quarter of a century. She first went to that country in 1910. For a time she was in a language school, and then she became a zenana worker. Later she had charge of the Girls' Orphanage at Mahoba.

Mrs. Springer's first furlough year came in 1917, when our country was engaged in the World War. She immediately went to France.

Junior Woman's Club Meets.
The Junior Woman's Club had a splendid meeting Friday afternoon at the Woman's Club building. The attendance was unusually large and the program a most interesting one.

Mrs. W. C. Harris spoke on "The N. C. Society of Poetry," a society of which she has the honor of being a member. She told of the society's organization, the requisites for being a member, the "Review" and the appreciation of poetry among the members. Following her instructive talk she read several of her own poems that had been published in the Society's publication, "The Review."

These poems expressed beauty and reality. The club felt most gratified in having Mrs. Harris speak and very proud of having one in its community with the honor of belonging to "The N. C. Society of Poetry."

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Durwood Tucker and Mrs. Frances Bowen. They served delicious sandwiches, tea, olives and cakes.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. William Taft, president of the Junior Woman's Club. The members voted to sponsor the Little Theatre Guild play which will be given in March. Plans for a bridge tournament were discussed and the last of February was the date voted upon. The club voted to assist Mrs. Ed Griffin in selling the American Educator Encyclopedia. The president thanked the members of the club for selling tickets to the Roosevelt Ball.

The meeting adjourned to meet again February 22nd.—Reported.

Whitehurst-Manning.
Bethel, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Lucy Jones Manning and George Robert Whitehurst were quietly married here Saturday morning at the home of the bride, with Reverend Louis pastor of the Methodist Church of Bethel officiating. Members of the families and intimate friends attended.

Mrs. Whitehurst is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mack Jones of Bethel. She has spent most of her life in this community and enjoys a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Whitehurst is a prominent land owner and farmer of this community. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Whitehurst will make their home in Bethel.

Sophomore Tea.
The sophomore majors in Home Economics gave a delightful formal tea on Saturday afternoon in their quarters in the Science building of the college. The members of the class were divided into groups for receiving and serving, which changed each half hour. They themselves made the plans for the tea, prepared the delicious refreshments, decorated the table and dining room; received and served the guests.

The predominating color scheme was the red of Valentines, with rich red roses used as the centerpiece. Little Miss Mary Elizabeth Austin received the cards at the door.

The guests were women of the faculty and the wives of the men of the staff.

Dinner At College.
The first of a series of formal dinners in which students are hostesses and the teachers of the staff and their wives, guests, was given at the college last night.

This inaugurated a new social program which will be carried out during the remainder of the year, the purpose of which is to give the students a wider and richer social life.

Both students and members of the staff were in dinner dress last night. The lobbies presented a festive scene, as the students, as hostesses, received their guests. Each table had a student hostess and a guest. The tables were decorated in red, with Valentines as place cards.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS AGAIN

Thursday is Dollar Day in Greenville which means that opportunity to buy the best of merchandise at bargain prices is again afforded the buyers of this trade territory. These semi-annual trade events in Greenville participated in by most of the Greenville merchants, are looked forward to events and each of these events draws hundreds upon hundreds of shoppers to this city.

The merchants participating in next Thursday's Dollar Day are making a special effort to make this season's event far surpass all former ones in the way of bargains offered and the shoppers who visit the various stores next Thursday will realize great savings on their purchases. Dollar Day is for one day only and those who do not take advantage of Thursday's offerings will certainly be the losers.

Make your plans now to visit the participating stores on Dollar Day, Thursday.

PROFIT FROM SALES TAX

(The Charlotte Observer)
The corporate interests of North Carolina have prospered through the application of the sales tax.

Dr. Clarence Her, of the University family, a noted tax expert who has been called into the service of a number of States to aid them in their taxation policies, has made a study of what has happened in North Carolina since the tax on sales was instituted, to arrive at some significant conclusions.

And no discovery resultant from this research is more impressive than that corporations "have received at least 34 per cent of the total property tax relief since 1931, but have contributed little more than 18 per cent of the substitute or replacement taxes. Individuals have received about 66 per cent of the property tax relief, but have contributed close to 82 per cent of the replacement taxes."

Dr. Her's table reveals that the total tax on corporations in North Carolina last year was 24.7 per cent under 1929, 24.1 per cent under 1931 and 23.1 per cent under 1933. In the meantime, the individual's property tax bill was 46.8 per cent under 1929; 43.4 per cent under 1931; and 30 per cent under 1933. But the individual's taxes, to the State general fund went up 129.7 per cent over 1929; 229.3 per cent over 1931, and 197 per cent over 1933.

LACKING: Newsday men who have covered the House for some years say Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York could have a field day if he were back in Congress this session as leader of this old progressive bloc.

These reporters say they find a definite undercurrent of restlessness and resentment among the Congressmen over iron-handed administration rule. But no one has emerged who is able to crystallize and lead a rebellion.

The news pick LaGuardia as the ideal type but they don't find anyone who is apt to step into his old shoes and really put on a show. Therefore they conclude the House will continue to function with a fair degree of New Deal regularity.

Montana Rides Again

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

SYNOPSIS: General Estrada is torturing Mateo Rubiz in an effort to extract from him the whereabouts of the Montana Kid. Montana and Rubiz stole from the general the emerald crown of our Lady, which the general had stolen in his turn from the church. Montana escaped with his half of the crown; Mateo was captured. Now Rubiz seems to be dying under the torture—and he has said nothing at all.

Chapter 25

MONTANA AGAIN

ONE more dose of water to flow into the distorted body and there would be an end, but the general did not wish it to be so. He had staked his cards on his immense surety, and his threats and his tortures had drawn only one speech from the outlaw. He had called Estrada a dog and a son of a dog. And now he was to die, triumphant.

It was against this triumph in death that the soul of the general revolted.

And then he told himself, in an interval of impassioned cursing, that he had been a fool to think that he could wear down such a spirit as that of Rubiz in a single session.

No, little by little the steel of this spirit must be ground away until it was thin and brittle enough to snap under a finger's weight. And when the general considered how the grinding should be performed, he could think of only one safe and perfect place, because there was only one ultimate, man-made hell on earth.

That was the Valley of the Dead.

He would go with Sally for a care-

from which fools whispered that Miguel Santos had escaped.

They were fools because no man ever escaped from the Valley. And that was the perfection of its hell—its hopelessness. Out of its bounds no one was ever pardoned, because the tales which could have been told by the saved would have blackened the face of the entire world.

And when the general arrived at this conclusion, he looked suddenly up with an exaltation of his spirit.

There is no absolute hate without fear intermingled, and during the long process of the torture, he had begun to hate his victim because he could not help being struck through with a cold apprehension now and again: suppose that the man should live—should contrive an escape from the fort—should be able at some time to come inside its boundaries once more—

Well, the Valley of the Dead could receive him and hold him forever.

Should not such be the fate of those weaker creatures who venture to oppose men of destiny, like Ignacio Estrada?

FOR one whole day, Montana fled into the mountains away from Duraya. Then, for two days, he lived a quiet, idyllic life in the wilderness. He had found a bit of a valley, above timber line, where the forage was good for Sally and where he himself could catch fat fish out of a foolishly small creek.

He would lie prone for hours under the shade of a rock during the day. He had that rare faculty of stopping all thought, almost all sensation, and permitting the river of time to pick up the soul and carry it slow or fast through strange countries.

At night he built two small fires of brush and lay between them, warm, comfortable on a bed of leaves and wiry little bushes. And since he did most of his sleeping during the day, he spent the night sazing at the stars and letting whatever thoughts might come roll painlessly into his mind—and out again.

Or else he would go with Sally for a carefree cruise through the plateaus of that high country where the keen sweetness of the air gave to the body a sense of spiritual purity. The rider was always at ease, on those journeys because the wild mare was capable of being the guide and the scout.

But at the end of the third day since the flight from Duraya, Montana turned back again towards the town.

A steady preoccupation made a dark undercurrent continually in his mind.

Where was Rubiz? What had happened to him?

The question would lift him from sleep to wakefulness in the middle of the night, and it rode behind him all day long.

THAT sense of duty unperformed was not a familiar thing to Montana. He had lived as free as the wind; but savage Mateo Rubiz had laid a grip on his mind and his heart. He had to return the treasure that was in his possession; but above all, he had to find out what had become of his companion in the robbery.

He took two days, coming down from his high place. And once a day, at high noon, he took the golden ornament with the emeralds in the palm of his hand. He turned it so that the jewels flickered and glared at him like a five-eyed cat, and then he put the thing away again in its chamolito wrapping.

He wondered how long it would take for the jewels to enter his blood and become a necessity to him? As to his strength to resist, he knew that there was a border and a boundary beyond which he could not pass. That was why he was glad to see Duraya, white as snow, with the sunset gold of its river looped around.

He left the mare in a hollow at the verge of the town and made her lie down. There she would remain, according to his teaching, like a young fawn left by its mother, until he came again.

And he went on into the town in the early night, forgetting all dangers, gladdening himself with the sounds of human beings again, and the scent of the pungent Mexican cookery.

It was a night of festival. The entire population had gathered in the street that ran past the fort, past the church, past the bishop's palace. So he made a half-mask from the lining of his coat and entered the strong current of noise which flowed along the street. At last he came to the bishop's palace and from the doorway looked back on the scene, the lanterns, the laughter, the faces whose joy could not be masked.

He forgot his danger still farther. It was a cold stream, but it was no higher than his ankles. He began to laugh, himself, and he was still laughing as he went up the stairs.

LABOR: New York gets a kick out of the Federation of Labor's conventions in trying to ingratiate itself with FDR while condemning his actions in renewing the auto code. An observer remarks that the boys have discovered on which side their bread is buttered—but only after it landed on the floor butter-side down.

The knowing rate the President's "dear Bill" letter to William Green upholding Clay Williams as NRA chief a more devastating reprimand than even his endorsement of the Wolmen board. The fact that it's made public now—many weeks after it was written—is taken as a further indication of FDR's determination to scatter once and for all any ideas the Federation may have that it can dictate to the government. "What he told Bill Green in effect was to mind his own business."

Organized labor's demand for a Congressional investigation of the agree to any reasonable alternative.

auto code and alleged violations of the labor provisions of NRA will get precisely nowhere. You can bet your Sunday hat that FDR will not tolerate any such interference with his authority in the matter.

But insiders say there's unknown quantity who may upset the equation. The President is developing—Madison Secretary Perkins (She was consulted on the code renewal any more than were the Federation leaders and reports are that she isn't taking kindly to the oversight. Her annoyance—like Green's—is directed at Richberg rather than the White House. This means another of those New Deal family squabbles—and you hear the prediction that some pro-labor gesture may be made to restore peace. If so it will be in some industry other than motors.

ALTERNATIVE: A New York banker in close contact with London says that any time we really want monetary stabilization with England we can get it. He claims all that's necessary is a polite but pointed ultimatum: either agree to stabilize within 60 days or we'll divorce the dollar from gold.

Experts trace Britain's success with a managed currency to the fact that she has had two major gold currencies against which to manipulate the pound.

If we were to cut loose from gold entirely it would break the gold bloc's tenuous grip on its prevailing monetary standard. That's the last thing Britain wants to see happen. Sterling would be adrift without an anchor and a lively currency war would probably develop in which we could have the upper hand. If the threat were serious there's reason to believe that London would gladly believe that London would gladly Everybody Says...it's the Most Beautiful of All Three!

AND BENEATH
STRENGTH OF STEEL!

IT'S BIGGER, too... more room inside... more luxury in finish and fittings... all at no increase in price!

New Plymouth Called "Smartest, Most Luxurious of 'All Three' Low-priced Cars"

BEAUTY SPEAKS for itself! Just one look at this year's low-priced cars tells you Plymouth is the best-looking of "All Three."

It's bigger. Its streamlined body is smarter. Wide-vision windshield... airplane-type fenders... deep, wide doors... all suggest its speed and power.

Safety is also beyond argument. Beneath Plymouth's streamlined beauty is the strength of an All-Steel Body! And Plymouth is still the lowest-priced car with genuine Hydraulic Brakes.

As for riding comfort... the same engineers who perfected scientific distribution of weight in the famous "Air-flow" cars now give Plymouth the same "Floating Ride." New-type springs, shock absorbers and sway eliminator end bumps, jolts and lurches.

In your own way, by your own standards, compare Plymouth with the other low-priced cars before you buy. On display at all Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler dealers. Ask about the Official Chrysler Motors Commercial Credit Plan.

URGES SMALL POTATO CROP

Congressman Warren Sees Ruin For Irish Potato Producers in N. C. This Year

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Congressman Lindsay C. Warren stated today that based upon the most reliable information he could see nothing but ruin for North Carolina potato growers this year. He said that all indications pointed to potatoes selling for $1 per barrel, and that it was inconceivable to him how after the farmer had gone through a disaster in 1934, that he would deliberately stick his head in the fire in 1935. "And that is exactly what he is preparing to do," said Mr. Warren.

Mr. Warren had the following to say on the potato situation: "Beginning at the meeting held in Washington, N. C., in September, 1934, and on many occasions since then, I have frankly told our potato growers that no legislation that Congress might pass can effect the 1935 crop. This has also been said time after time by all others interested in the subject. Therefore the farmer is the only one who can help himself this year. Based upon reliable information I see nothing but disaster ahead. All indications point to the fact that potatoes will sell in North Carolina for $1 per barrel. In the face of this it is inconceivable to me how our farmers can go ahead and again stick their heads in the fire. Yet they are preparing to do exactly that thing.

"I hope that the Potato Control Bill will be ready for introduction in Congress by me this week. It has been the most difficult of all crops bills to prepare, but at last it is about ready and we have built up a nation-wide organization of growers in its behalf. It will not become effective until one hundred days after it has passed through Congress. No one can even guess when that will be. If we are successful it may apply to Maine and some Western States this year. We hope and believe that it will raise the price of potatoes in North Carolina in 1935.

"It has come to my attention that some contractors and some fertilizer dealers are telling growers that unless they plant a large crop this year they can get no proper base period under the bill we hope to pass. This is utterly false. Let me again say as I have said on so many occasions that there is not a member of Congress who would vote for a measure carrying 1935 as a base year. It is now very doubtful if even the year of 1934 will be used in determining the base period.

"Although the planting season is near at hand, the grower still has a chance to save himself. I beg and plead with him to cut this crop under last year. It is his one and only hope. If he will do this there is hope for him in 1935."

Legislative Ramblings

tors are not good workmen.

The 1935 crop lobbyists beats the variety record of a famed pickle company by one vote—58 lobbyists have enrolled in the book reserved for them in Secretary of State Stacey Wade's office.

All of which does not extricate some of the lobbyists from their respective pickles. They still have to see that certain pieces of legislation are not, or are, as the case may be, enacted into law.

Some lobbyists in the capital city have not even registered. Their pickles, if any, will probably be sour pickles unless they get sweet and sign that book. It is a misdemeanor not to sign. There is no penalty for lobbying.

Determined to have ready $150,000,000 or projects for North Carolina to be built with federal funds from the new proposed appropriation of $4,880,000,000 Congress is expected to pass for presentation to Washington by March 1, the "State Planning Board" is in session here today in the office of its chairman, C. M. Waynick, Chairman of the State Highway and Public Works Commission. This board was appointed about two weeks ago by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, with Waynick as its chairman, to develop needed and worthwhile projects in North Carolina for inclusion in the work and construction program President Roosevelt is expected to launch as soon as Congress makes the requested appropriation of $4,880,000,000 which he has requested and which he will personally administer.

It is estimated that on a per capita basis, North Carolina's share of this fund will be at least $100,000,000, according to Waynick. But in order to have a chance to get $100,000,000 the planning board is convinced it should formulate at least $150,000,000 worth of projects, since some of the projects submitted and allotments requested will undoubtedly be turned down in Washington.

"We realize we have a big job on our hands in formulating a program for the expenditure of $150,000,000 of Federal money in North Carolina," Waynick said. "But we are going to dump our program for spending that much money in Washington's lap by March 1 if at all possible, since indications are that by that time the appropriation of $4,880,000,000 will have been passed by the Senate. The House has already passed it. So in order to get in on the ground floor and have our requests and projects in, we will need to get them to Washington by March 1."

"It is better to have a 17-year-old boy with a mental age of 17 than to have an adult with a mental age of 10 or 12," said one principal. He pointed out that adults who would be of low mental caliber because, he said, mentally bright adults would not drive a bus for $30 or $40 a month. He added that "this boys" would drive their buses for nothing if necessary. Several others pointed out that student drivers are better because they are under the immediate supervision of principals. Those principals have authority to discharge at any time any student driver whom they regard as incompetent. Such supervision would be impossible if adults were employed. One case was cited where an adult driver, who had

ROTES HAVE DRAMA NIGHT

One Act of College Senior Play Presented at Weekly Meeting of Clubmen

The members of the Greenville Rotary Club and their wives had a rare treat last night at their weekly dinner.

Miss Mary Dierberger, director of dramatics at the East Carolina College and member of the senior class, put on one act from "Fashion," a nineteenth century melodrama which will be presented by the senior class at the college February 13.

The scene was laid in the elaborate conservatory of the fashionable Fifth Avenue home of Mrs. Tiffany, who considers herself a social leader.

"These taking part in this act were: Mrs. Tiffany, played by Miss Elizabeth Crawford of Kingston.

Count Jolmaire, by Paul Fitzgerald of Greenville.

Gertrude, the swooning heroine played by Miss Martha Hart Peel of Wilson.

Prudence, a maiden lady of a certain age, by Miss Bettie Carswell of Georgia.

Adam Trueman, an upstate New York farmer, played by Jack Humphrey of Beaufort.

These young people gave as smooth and flawless a performance as old troupers and much credit is due Miss Dierberger for the manner in which she has trained them in the dramatic art, and then when this presented on February 13 by the full cast, with stage settings and the proper effects that go with them, it will no doubt be enjoyed by a large and enthusiastic audience.

The whole performance was much enjoyed by all the Rotarians who had the good fortune to be present as was the talk made by Miss Dierberger before the play started.

There are approximately one to one and a fourth gallons of blood in the human body.

MERIT BADGE For The WEEK

BOOKBINDING

To obtain a Merit Badge for Bookbinding a Scout must:

- Rebind in boards with leather or cloth some rare old book or a volume of a magazine.
- Make a scrap-book bound in boards and cover with leather or cloth.

The Trojans named the mouse as a symbol of Apollo, because of a legend that Apollo sent mice to gnaw the leather from the enemy's shields.

The most spectacular performance of the famous Pony Express to California was the carrying of Lincoln's first inaugural address nearly 2,000 miles in a little more than seven days.

A unique copy of La Fontaine's Fables, illustrated with fifty-seven originals by Fraconard and bound by Derme, brought $130,000 at a recent auction in Paris.

The average American in pro football gets $100 a game while the backs average $150 per contest.

Louisburg To Play Teachers Here Tonight

Louisburg College Trojans will meet the East Carolina Teachers College basketball team tonight at 8 o'clock in the college gymnasium.

The Teachers have been improving steadily, and they have three victories to show for their last four starts. Johnson, captain of the locals, and Davis are the big guns in the offensive play of the locals. Richardson, a new comer to the varsity, has shown steady improvement in the way of defense. Good play by Stowe and Ferebee has rounded out the improved work of the No. 1 quint.

The Teachers have two more home games this season. They are: Wingate College here next week and William and Mary College, Northern Division, here March 1.

Fair College Cagers Facing Hard Schedule

The Ramblers of E. C. T. C. have five hard games ahead. Four of these will be played on the local court. The local girls will go to William and Mary College to play the varsity team on Feb. 20. The remaining games on the local girls' schedule are home games.

Friday night of this week, Wingate plays here. This game will surely result in a stiff fight. The Wingate girls handed the Ramblers their only defeat in two years' competition a few days ago. They will try to make it two straight to even the score for the two defeats that the local girls gave them last year. The E. C. T. C. girls will not yield a second time without a hard fight.

On February 28th Appalachian Teachers College girls play here. This team recently defeated Wingate by a ten point margin on the Wingate home court. Thus it appears that the hope favors Appalachian. Then? Lenoir Rhyne girls here for a series of two games March 5 and 6. CHILD LABOR LAW FAVORED

Ministerial Association of This City in Favor of Ratification of Amendment

At the monthly meeting of the Greenville Ministerial Association on Thursday of last week the members voted unanimously in favor of the passage of the Child Labor Law and denied the many fantastic and hysterical arguments now being used against the ratification of the amendment. The members were particularly surprised at the injection of the race and religious and sectional issues into the matter, pointing out that such charges as that made in 1933 by Clarence E. Martin, then president of the American Bar Association, that "It is a communistic effort to nationalize children making them responsible primarily to the government, instead of parents. It strikes a blow at the home," were hysterical and without sound basis in fact. That the present codes are a protection to children in industry was adjudged untrue since in May 1934, as pointed out in the current issue of the Christian Century, the National Child Labor Committee estimated that while the codes had taken 100,000 children under sixteen out of industry and had removed 50,000 from hazardous occupation, a total of 640,000 other working children were not affected by the codes. For the benefit of North Carolinians who may be misled by some of the present opposition to the passage of this law, it was suggested that they recall what happened a decade ago when the fight over ratification had just begun. Rural editors were deluged with opposition propaganda from Farmers States Rights League, which pretended to present the opinion of the farmers of the South. When exposed, this organization was found, according to the Christian Century "to represent not farmers at all, but a group of cotton mill operators in the Carolinas who were anxious to keep the operation of their textile mills with child labor."

The members of the association voted to conduct a series of Pre-Easter Union services on Sunday evenings. Six such services will be held, closing on the evening of Palm Sunday. Each member of the association will either deliver one sermon of the series or provide an outside speaker.

Rote Exhibition And Fair Opens At Farmville

The Rotary Exhibition and Fair opened at Farmville last night with good crowds in attendance. Dances will be held at the fair each night under the auspices of the Farmville Post of the American Legion. Music is being furnished by Hal Thurston's Orchestra.

The fair is marked by splendid exhibits, automobile displays, in addition to an entertaining stage show. People from many sections of the county were on hand the opening night, and promoters were looking for continued large attendance during the remainder of the fair.

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 12.—(AP)—"There may be some questions you can answer," He gestured toward Hauptmann.

"You can't compromise with murder and murderers," said Attorney General David T. Wilentz, in his plea to the jury to send Hauptmann to the electric chair for the kidnapping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

"If you get the idea that this case is what 'Mr. Edward J. Reilly says is a perfect case, it is your solemn duty to return a verdict of first degree murder."

"He has what he called a perfect case of mercy and the Hauptmann case was not of that kind."

"There may be some questions you can answer," he gestured toward Hauptmann.

"But there sits a man who can answer them. He will be thawed out. He is cold, yes, but he will be thawed out when he hears that switch. That's the time he will talk."

At Wilentz's request the court admonished Hauptmann and wife to make no outcry at anything he said.

He swung his hand in that direction of the defense staff.

"There is nobody there that does not believe he is guilty. I don't care what they said."

He denied Reilly's contention that the State had to prove Hauptmann was alone in the crime.

"He could have had fifty to help him. If he participated in this murder, that's all you've got to deal with."

Wilentz asked himself, "What kind of a man would commit this crime?" He also answered himself.

"He would not be an American. No American gangster or American racketeer would sink to the level of killing babies. It had to be someone with ice water in his veins and no blood. It had to be a fellow that was an egomaniac and who thought he was omnipotent. It had to be a secretive fellow that wouldn't tell his wife about his money."

of man that would hold up women at the point of a gun, women wheeling baby carriages—the lowest form in the animal kingdom. Public enemy No. 1 of this world, Hauptmann," assassinate character under the protection of the court, referring to Reilly's charge that police framed the evidence and that Lindbergh servants were implicated in the crime.

The prosecutor turned to Colonel Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey police.

"Colonel Schwarzkopf, stand up." The police officer came to his feet.

"Does he look like a crook?" the attorney asked.

"A man who served against his Fatherland for the security of Europe."

He reported the talks with Henry D. Bruchmann and Willie E. Frank, Federal agents, who testified about Hauptmann's brokerage accounts. They, one by one, he defended the State's witnesses and charged the numerous of Reilly whose summation was delivered yesterday.

In answer to Reilly's charge that Bruchmann framed the views from the Hauptmann home—about bearing the telephone number and address of Dr. John Condon, ransom intermediary, Wilentz read a transcript of Hauptmann's examination by the district attorney when he answered "yes" to admit he had made the notations.
