Ethiopia Charges Italians Menace Peace Negotiations

SECOND NOTE DISPATCHED TO MUSSOLINI

Il Duce Maintains Silence Following Receipt of New Communication; Plans to Confer With Fascist Grand Council; No Change in Plans to Send Troops to Frontier

Rome, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Charging Italy with aggression and threatening her troop movement a menace to peace negotiations, a second Ethiopian note added today to the uncertainties of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

Premier Mussolini maintained note and his silence conferred with members of the Fascist grand council. It was indicated that the Ethiopian question would come up in another meeting of Italy's highest legislative body later in the day.

After Negrad's Yesus, the Ethiopian emissary, made public King Selassie's original message of defiance, a government spokesman characterized it as "undiplomatic procedure." The tenor of the second message was much like that of the first.

Besides accusing Italy of prejudicing the prospect of a special settlement of the dispute in direct issue with Italian claims of Ethiopian aggression at Addis on January 29, it charged instead that the Italians were guilty of a provocative attack at the time.

Ethiopians, the communication said, not only refrained from hostilities themselves, but has not even massed its forces near the frontier since the clash at Ualul on December 5.

While Italy simply awaited developments, official circles said, any announcement must be held in abeyance until a definite verdict is reached by Premier Mussolini.

Meanwhile there appeared to have been no change in plans to dispatch the first contingent of African expeditionary forces from Sicily to Eritrea and Italian Somaliland tomorrow.

Paris dispatches said the French government is also planning to reinforce troops in the French Somaliland where more than thirty French soldiers were slain in a border clash on January 18.

PUSH MALARIA FIGHT IN PITT

Nearly Three Hundred Blood Tests are Made In First Two Clinics

Two hundred and ninety-seven blood tests were made yesterday in the first two of a series of clinics being held at this time in a concerted effort to relieve districts along Swift Creek of malaria, it was announced today from the office of Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, director of the Pitt County Department of Health.

The clinics were carried to Axton and Venter's Cross Roads today and will be concluded in the office of Dr. J. S. Livelyman at Winterville Monday, February 18.

The Health Department is attempting to obtain 500 blood tests in an effort to convince the Federal Government of the existence of malaria in extensive form in the flood area along Swift Creek. When this is done, the government has said it will begin work looking to complete drainage of the creek.

The elimination of mosquito breeding places along the stream, it was said by health authorities, will virtually eliminate malaria and greatly improve the health situation throughout the area. It will also be of economic value to this populace because of the reclamation of thousands of acres of valuable farm land.

Tests yesterday were conducted at Hugh Stokes' store by Dr. W. K. McDowell and Dr. F. P. Brooks, of Greenville, assisted by Miss Edna (Continued on Page Two)

AREA COUNCIL New Chain Store Tax Proposal Eliminated

Salvation Army Officials From Several Towns Attend Session in Greenville

An Area Council of the Salvation Army Corps Cadets was held in Greenville on Tuesday, being one of a series of four such meetings being held in North and South Carolina under the direction of Adjutant W. W. Bouterse.

The opening session was a dinner meeting held in the building of the Rotary Club, which was followed by a session held in the Third Street school building. Present at the sessions were nineteen officers and 93 Cadets from posts located in Rock Mount, Goldsboro, Raleigh, Wilson, Fayetteville, New Bern, Kinston and Greenville, and four local guests.

Mayor R. C. Flanagan, Supt. J. H. Rose, Prof. Herbert R. Barker and Rev. Wm. A. Ryan. Each of the guests brought a message to greeting and spoke of the excellent work being done by the Army, particularly that being done locally throughout the efforts and under the direction of Captain Stratford in charge of the local Post.

The purpose of these councils is the examination of Corps Cadets and awarding of certificates to those who have passed examinations in their work preparatory to the taking of Places of Leadership in the work of the Army. The Corps Cadets, whose ages range from fourteen to eighteen, undergo a six-year period of training and from time to time are subjected to careful examination to determine their fitness for the work and progress in their studies.

To pass an examination an average of not less than 70 per cent must be made to receive the lowest certificate. Of the ninety-eight taking the examinations on Tuesday ninety received passing grades.

The guests attending the dinner meeting were impressed with the splendid type of people making up the personnel of the group and with the unmistakable earnestness and capability of both leaders and cadets.

CORONER'S JURY HOLDS WRECK UNAVOIDABLE

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict that Charles Benjamin, 21, of Candler, who died Wednesday from injuries he received Saturday in an automobile accident, came to his death as a result of an automobile accident.

Benjamin was injured when the car he was driving collided with a machine driven by O. B. Lively, of Canton. The accident occurred on Highway No. 10 near Candler.

Kansas and Tennessee first observed Arbor Day in 1875; North Dakota and Ohio in 1882.

Bills To Set Up Rental System In This State Act As Magnate To Sellers

Reflector Bureau. Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 15.—Textbook lobbyists are flocking here by the score as the result of the two bills introduced within the last few days to set up a State-wide rental textbook system. They seem to be especially worried by the bill introduced in the House Tuesday by Representative Gregg Cherry, of Gaston County, and some six or seven other House measures which would not only set up the machinery for a rental of textbook system for every school in the State beginning with the school year of 1935-1936, but which would also change the method of selecting and adopting textbooks.

The Cherry bill, if adopted, would eliminate the North Carolina School Book Depository here, owned by Alfred Williams & Company, through which almost all of the adopted school books in the State are now distributed and which collects 10 per cent on every book sold through its process.

The State-wide rental system would also eliminate the sale of textbooks except to those children or parents who prefer to buy them. It would also mean that fewer books would be used from year to year since the same books would be used over and over while under the present system hundreds of thousands of usable books are discarded every year.

As a result it is expected that the textbook publishers and distributors will vigorously oppose the Cherry bill or the Gravelly-Griffith bill in the Senate, since either of them would greatly reduce the year-to-year presumption of textbooks in the State.

The Cherry bill provides that the State Textbook Commission which it creates to administer the State-wide rental system shall also select and adopt all the textbooks in the State, including supplemental textbooks, and thus consolidate into one commission the work now being done by three separate commissions and boards. It also provides that three members of the new commission shall be business men. At present the State Textbook Commission is composed exclusively of school superintendents, principals or professors.

The prospect prepared by Representatives McDonald and Lumpkin who have submitted their series of new tax plans as a substitute for the present 3 per cent sales tax on retail sales, estimated that this new property tax will bring in $1,488,261 a year in excess of the $796,230 which is now being collected from domestic corporations from the tax of $150 per $1,000 of stock and undivided profits. Thus the average property tax of domestic corporations under this new plan would be $150 per $1,000 of stock and undivided profits.

For in addition to taxing all domestic and foreign corporations at the rate of $150 per $1,000 of capital stock and surplus, the McDonald-Lumpkin plan would levy a property tax of one-half of one per cent on the assessed valuation of all domestic and foreign corporations. This would mean that merchants who are incorporated as either domestic or foreign corporations would have to pay a State property tax of 50 cents per $100 of their assessed valuation in addition to the gross receipts tax of one-fourth of one per cent and in addition to the local city and county property taxes.

Indications now are that many merchants are also coming to vigorously oppose the additional plan proposed by the McDonald-Lumpkin anti-sales tax group to impose a gross receipts tax of one-fourth of one per cent on the gross receipts of all retail merchants, a similar tax of one-eighth of one per cent on wholesale merchants and to levy in addition a property tax of 50 cents per $100 valuation on the stocks, fixtures, equipment and buildings of all merchants whose business is incorporated.

In the December number the industrialists discovered a chart showing net business profits and losses of major industries during the first nine months of 1932, '33 and '34. It showed, for example, that the automobile industry lost $18,700,000 in 1932 but made $82,500,000 in 1933, while in 1934 the profit mounted to $86,600,000.

There were other notes but they were all part of the one song.

Late News Flashes

Assembly Busy With Several Issues. Raleigh, Feb. 15.—(AP)—State highway patrol enlargement, regulation of motor vehicles, and special fisheries, salary increases for state employees and other sundry matters occupied the attention of legislators today.

Both divisions of the assembly held long sessions and then adjourned for only local business tomorrow.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to amend the laws on optometrists by tightening present regulations. It also put back in its calendar a bill regulating photographers which it passed yesterday.

The Senate got two bills to enlarge the state highway patrol, one to make it have 127 members including officers, and the other to fix the personnel at 208.

The House got a measure to require vehicle operators to show their financial responsibility and (Continued on page six)

HAUPTMANN TO GO TO PRISON AT MIDNIGHT

Convicted Slayer of Lindbergh Baby to Be Transferred After 11 o'Clock

Flemington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted slayer of baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., will go to the death house at state prison sometime tomorrow. His attorneys worked today on an application for a writ of error which they may file next Monday.

A published report that federal authorities had evidence of an accomplice was denied in Washington by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Department of Justice division investigation.

The district attorney of the Bronx where Hauptmann was indicted for extortion said all the evidence was to the effect that Hauptmann was alone in the crime.

Edward J. Reilly, Hauptmann's defense counsel, said he heard nothing had even worked on an accomplice theory and that even if it might find in his own theory that the kidnapping and murder was done by a gang of at least four persons.

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted slayer of baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., will not be removed to the State Prison at Trenton until sometime after 11 p. m. tonight.

Sheriff Don Curtiss and State Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies William Ellis conferred by telephone today with the sheriff. Sheriff Curtiss informed Commissioner Ellis he did not plan to send Hauptmann to Trenton until after 11 p. m.

The sheriff said a conference probably would be held sometime tomorrow.

The State Prison comes under Ellis' authority as commissioner of institutions of agencies and it was in that capacity he conferred with the sheriff.

Sheriff Curtiss informed Ellis he planned to confer with State Police Superintendent Norman Schwarzkopf before making any definite plans for removal of Hauptmann.

Efforts to reach Schwarzkopf at State police headquarters in Trenton were unavailing. Troopers on duty there said he would not be in all day.

Commissioner Ellis cited an 1892 statute which provided that a prisoner under sentence of death must not be removed from the scene of his crime in less than 48 hours. Sheriff Curtiss said the 48 hour law would not be out until approximately 11 p. m.

At Trenton some officials expressed uncertainty as to whether the law was still effective. One opinion was that it had been repealed.

The outlook is decidedly gloomy for the bill which would require the State Highway and Public Works Commission to maintain the streets in cities and towns traversed by state highways, despite the fact that the highway department is not expressing the measure, it was learned here today from members of the North Carolina Municipal League, which is composed of city officials of 106 cities and towns in the state.

The principal opposition to this bill is coming from the rural counties whose representatives feel that it is more important to spend highway revenue in building new roads or maintaining present ones out in the country districts than to build new streets in cities. It is agreed that it would cost the highway department at least $1,000,000 a year to maintain the streets traversed by state highways.

MEDICOS HOLD MEETING HERE

Reports and Election Of New Member Feature Monthly Gathering

Featured by several reports and induction of a new member, the regular monthly meeting of the Pitt County Medical Society was held in the parish house of St. Paul's Episcopal Church last night.

Dr. S. M. Criss reported that the Public Health Relations Committee had appointed physicians to administer treatment to indigent patients in the county, this taking the place of the venereal disease clinic which has been conducted at the courthouse the last several years. The action becomes effective March 1.

Dr. Carl Adams, member of the faculty of East Carolina Teacher's College, was a guest of the society and presented the loan fund sponsored by the Medical Society to aid some Pitt County girl in obtaining an education at the college.

Dr. F. B. Hiar, who recently became associated with Dr. T. M. Watson, was elected a member of the society and was inducted with appropriate ceremony.

THREATEN TO DESTROY 1935 AGREEMENT

Hutson Tells Carolinians He Will Have To Consult Other Growers Before Reaching a Decision; Conference Also Planned With Flue Cured Tobacco Advisory Committee

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A new sign-up of flue-cured tobacco growers may be the answer to protests from North Carolina that the acreage allotment for 1935 is too large and if carried out will result in prices so low as to wreck the control law.

The suggestion for the new sign-up came late yesterday after J. B. Hutson, Farm Administration tobacco chief, and a delegation of North Carolina growers had debated for hours the 1935 acreage.

Hutson said contracts for producers to grow 85 per cent of their base acreage in 1935 instead of the 70 per cent as in 1934, already had become binding.

In answer to this, Governor E. M. Broun of North Carolina suggested that Tar Heel growers be prepared to tear up their contracts and sign new ones. In event of the new sign-up, the program would be extended through 1936.

Hutson said he would have to consult with other growers before reaching a decision, naming specifically the Export Tobacco Association of America. He also planned to confer next Saturday or Monday with the flue-cured advisory committee which recommended the 85 per cent planting in 1935.

The North Carolinians differed with Hutson on the amount of tobacco and that 85 per cent planting would produce more than 800,000,000 pounds when planting by growers not co-operating in the control law.

TO TALK NEW HOG CONTRACT

Field Man To Explain Corn-Hog Program At Gathering Here Saturday At 2:30

E. F. Arnold, director of the local Farm Department, announced today the opening of the corn-hog program in this county at the courthouse here next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

At that time a representative of the State Department of Agriculture will explain the 1935 corn-hog contract and other features of the campaign. Mr. Arnold said today invitations had been sent to between 200 and 300 hog growers in the county to be on hand and hear what the field man has to say about the program.

Mr. Arnold also made known that $3,825 was paid to growers who took part in the program last year and that about $10,000 more was yet to be paid to those who took part in last year's activities.

This farm head expressed the hope that growers would attend the meeting here Saturday in large numbers and fully acquaint themselves with provisions of the contract so that they will know what to do when they are approached for signatures.

The campaign in this county the past year was regarded as highly successful. Production of hogs is small in this section compared with other parts of the country, but the two or three hundred growers think right much of the industry and are planning to stick by their guns and back the government in its effort to lift prices to a living level.

GOVERNMENT PAYS BIG SUM TO FARMERS

Over Half Million Dollars Paid To Pitt Growers In Rental-Benefit Checks

Around April 1 approximately a half million dollars will be poured into the pockets of tobacco growers of this county who are co-operating in the Federal Government acreage control program.

E. F. Arnold, director of the local Farm Department, said this sum would come to the growers in the form of rental and benefit payments and that distribution of the payment would be made by his office as rapidly as possible.

In making known the date the payment is expected, Mr. Arnold also gave out figures in connection with the amount of money paid to Pitt County growers who co-operated with the tobacco, cotton and hog-corn program last year. The total amount paid out for all purposes was $527,481.32 in rental and benefit checks.

For those who took part in the cotton campaign the government mailed checks for $191,628.90 but the amount will be increased to some extent by the arrival of two hundred additional government checks in the near future. The checks are for no large amount, the farm director said, but they will do a big part toward carrying cheer to the grower whose pockets are empty and who needs some extra money to help him get things right for the next planting season.

The total amount paid out to tobacco growers was given as $392,027.24 but there is about $1,000 yet to come before the payment has been completed.

Mr. Arnold said his office would notify growers immediately upon receipt of the additional cotton checks, so that delivery may be speeded up as much as possible. Payments previously have been made rapidly; in fact, so much so, that virtually the total amount of each batch of checks was in the hands of growers within a few days after receipt at the farm office.

FOREST FIRES HELD DOWN
DESPITE SEVERE DROUGHT

Missoula, Mont.—(AP)—Though the northern Montana Rockies with their pine-clad slopes last summer experienced the most dangerous drought season in many years, fire losses in Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks were held to a minimum.

The national forest service here announced also that in Yellowstone there were thirty-nine fires with but 500 acres of burned land, only one-seventh the area fire-scarred the year before. In Glacier Park the losses were negligible.

Utmost caution by forest visitors plus stringent regulations, held down the losses, officials said.

SEEK DELAY IN HEARING ON HILL BILL

Dry Forces of North Carolina Try to Capitalize On Sentiment In Alabama

Reflector Office, Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 15.—Dry forces in North Carolina would capitalize on dry sentiment in Alabama. The plan became known here today when it was inadvertently learned that certain dry leaders are attempting to delay the hearing on the Hill liquor bill until after Alabama votes on the 29th of this month on a similar bill.

So sure are the dries that Alabama will reject a State-controlled liquor system that they are willing to take the gamble so that they may use Alabama's alleged dryness as a psychological whip over the North Carolina General Assembly. They think it would be a fine thing if they could point with pride to Alabama as a barometer of whiskey-humility. The Senate Judiciary Committee No. 1, headed by Senator Horton, of Chatham, had planned to hold the hearing next Wednesday if it is suitable to those who appear most concerned. That would be six days before Alabama referendum.

Just what the dries plan to point to with pride if the hearing is postponed and Alabama goes wet instead of dry could not be learned. Most certainly they cannot follow a famous saying: "Thank God for South Carolina." For statistics reveal that North Carolina now leads the nation in number of stills seized.

A poll of the Judiciary Committee, which holds the hearing shows that the Hill bill will be favorably reported unless certain members change their minds. Most of the committee members have said that they want the hearing to be short because the arguments both pro and con will be the same as always.

"As Alabama goes, so goes North Carolina," is not become an axiom. That is the opinion of most observers here who feel that Alabama's action will not affect the Legislature's opinion, whatever that is.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE
Chief Of Bureau, The Associated Press

The senate's world court flip-flop has provided an enigmatically-minded national capital with an interlude of many strange aspects.

Why did Mr. Roosevelt, at a moment when popular discussion of the court was at a low ebb and many domestic issues were pressing, suggest that ratification be put at the head of the calendar of the new congress?

What was the real significance of the many mysterious comings and goings among senators and others high officials while the debate was in progress?

What was it, basically, that turned what appeared a certain court victory into a stunning defeat?

Now the protocol is rejected, what happens?

These are a few of the questions which even members of the senate are asking one another. The whole proceeding was so replete with surprises that all Washington is wondering what it all means.

SALE OF LAND

Under and by virtue of power vested in me by that certain Deed of Trust executed to me by J. R. Tucker and wife, Sarah A. Tucker, et al, dated January 1, 1923, and appearing of record in the Pitt County Registry in Book T-14, page 203, I shall offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, 21 January, 1935

at 12 o'clock noon

at the Courthouse Door in the Town of Greenville, N. C., the following described parcels of land, lying, being and situate in Chirod-Township, Pitt County, State of North Carolina, to-wit:

Lots Nos. 17 and 18 in the Town of Simpson, on plat of land formerly owned by W. E. Tucker, which said plat appears of record in the Pitt County Registry in Map Book 1, page 34, to which reference is made for a more particular description, and being the same lots conveyed to J. R. Tucker by W. E. Tucker and wife by deed of record in Book S-12, page 147, of said registry. And being the land designated as the "First Parcel" described in the deed of trust above referred to.

This 20 December, 1934.

derive and whispering.

Connivance Suspected

It is no violation of confidence to say that some of the whisperings hint at extremely dirty work at the cross-roads.

Justly or not, one or two who are very highly placed in administration circles and generally have been accused to favor the court sincerely, are under suspicion of having connived at its defeat.

Majority Leader Robinson, who put up a battle which won the admiration of everyone, openly suggested that some very deep political finagling had been going on somewhere. He may have been thinking a great deal more than he said.

There were hard feelings, too, about the continued presence during the debate of a former senator in his day a bitter enemy of the court.

Although the debate and its denouement left the Senate in a particularly bad state of nerves.

Not Tied To New Deal

The defeat of the court apparently meant little in relation to the fortunes of the "New Deal" generally, with which it had no direct connection. The protocol was negotiated by republican officeholders, and three republican presidents had urged its ratification.

Time alone can tell, however, what indirect effect the battle may have on "New Deal" morale. The President is asking the senate majority to team up behind certain highly important domestic policies. Division, recrimination and suspicion, for whatever unrelated reason, do not ordinarily make for teamwork.

It is because of this indirect implication that Washington is asking why the President, with his usually astute sense of political and psychological reactions, took the risk of bringing into the picture such a dynamic-laden issue as the world court right at the opening of the session.

Not All-Important

Now that the court has been defeated, what of the future?

It would deny the lessons of history to suppose the issue will not come up again, after a reasonable lapse. Court advocates already are preparing to renew the battle.

Meantime, the significance of the defeat easily could be exaggerated.

After so many years of wrangling over courts and leagues and confederate agreements, there are those who think it may not be so all-important after all, what treaties are signed and what are not.

The United States had no treaty obligating it to settle the Russo-Japanese war, or enter the world war. Yet it did both. The whole world gazed the Kellogg anti-war treaty. Put to the test, it collapsed; as has many another writing on paper.

Hutson estimated the crop at around 720,000,000 pounds. It was pointed out by Governor Ehringhaus the record of flue-cured crop was only slightly in excess of 800,000,000 pounds and said it brought starvation prices.

The tobacco chief said the acreage was increased because consumption has increased, surplus stocks reduced and lower production would hurt exports. He explained that about half of the flue-cured crop is exported.

He estimated that 25 per cent of the flue-cured acreage in North Carolina last year was more than the Farm Administration had anticipated, declaring that the adjustment act was its purpose the establishment of a balance between production and consumption to insure parity prices.

NEW CHAIN STORE TAX PROPOSAL ELIMINATED

twice what they are now paying the State in franchise taxes. The estimate also that more than three times as much would be collected from foreign corporations under the plan as they are now paying in franchise taxes, or that for every $1 they pay in franchise taxes under the present plan, they would pay $3 in property taxes.

The new taxation plans which Representatives McDonald and Lumpkin and their anti-sales tax group would substitute for the sales tax are so cleverly drawn and worded that as yet most of the members of the General Assembly, as well as most merchants, do not realize just what they would do. This was true at first of the chain store tax section which was suggested by the same group and intended to be a partial substitute for the sales tax. But when the substitute was analyzed it was found that it hit North Carolina chain stores harder than the national chains, with the result that the merchants succeeded in getting the finance committee to take this chain store tax section out of the revenue bill, at least for the time being. As soon as the merchants wake up to the fact that they will have to pay more than $1,000,000 a year in direct taxes under the one-fourth of one per cent of gross receipts and an average of 50 cents per $100 of valuation on their property as well they are expected to make a strong protest against this plan.

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. John Hodges have returned from Carrollton, Kentucky, where Mr. Hodges has been on the tobacco market.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McCormack have returned from Gallatin, Tenn., where Mr. McCormack has been on the tobacco market.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Higgs and little grandson, Joe Goodson, returned yesterday from Florida.

Entertain At Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Scarborough were complimented last evening when Mr. and Mrs. Milo Smith entertained at bridge at their home on Cotanche street.

After several progressions of bridge, the guests were served delicious refreshments.

The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations and refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Scarborough were remembered with attractive gifts. G. C. Honeycutt was presented high score prize for men, and Mrs. J. C. Cockrell high score prize for the ladies.

Catches Weasel.

James Edward Manning, 3, son of J. E. Manning, who resides about a mile and a half from town, caught a weasel in a rabbit box last night.

The animal was brought to town in a box this morning and displayed to many persons who had heard of weasels all their lives but never had seen one before.

Mrs. Smith Improving.

Friends of Mrs. Joseph Smith will be glad to learn that she is recovering from an attack of influenza.

Service At Piney Grove.

Marshall Joyner of this community will preach at Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend this service. We feel you will be benefited.

Mrs. Bowling Club Hostess.

Mrs. L. H. Bowling was hostess yesterday afternoon at a very delightful meeting of her bridge club.

At the conclusion of a number of interesting games of contract, Mrs. John Mitchell was awarded an attractive prize for high score. The hostess served a tempting salad course.

Early spring flowers were used for decorations.

Third Street P. T. A. To Meet.

The Third Street Parent-Teacher Association will meet Monday evening at 7:30 in the school auditorium. Mrs. Corey's room will give a George Washington program. Dr. L. Meadows will be the speaker. All parents are urged to attend as important matters pertaining to school work will be discussed. Members of other P. T. A.'s are cordially invited to attend.

Hostess To Bridge Club.

On Thursday afternoon at her home on Elm street, Mrs. N. S. Beard was hostess to a very enjoyable meeting of her bridge club. Tables were placed in a setting of early spring flowers, and a number of games were enjoyed. At the end of the game Mrs. D. M. Clark was given bridge cards for high score.

The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Senior Play A Success.

The second performance of the college senior play last night was even better than the night before. The lighting effects showed great improvement, the stage and costumes showed up better, and the actors played with even greater ease and abandon.

The selection of the play was a happy choice, the revival of an old play new to the audience and peculiarly appropriate for the group of producers. The cast was well-chosen.

The members of the Drama Classes taught by Miss Dirmberger took the lead in the planning of the play, but all in the Senior Class had practical demonstration of what can be done in play-producing.

This is the third public production by Miss Dirmberger since she came to Greenville last fall as Director of Community Drama under the FERA. The drama classes in the college form a part of this work.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends for their kindness and many expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of our daughter and sister, Miss Charlotte Starkey.

Mrs. J. L. Starkey and Sons.

Miss York Bridge Hostess. Miss Mary York was hostess at a lovely bridge party last evening at her home of Mrs. O. G. Guiley. Seven tables, attractively appointed for bridge, were placed in a setting suggestive of the Valentine season.

At the conclusion of the contract among Mrs. Luther Herring and R. Coburn were presented prizes for high score. In the game of "Crazy Bridge" Mr. and Mrs. Dink James were awarded prizes, and the heart prize was won by Mrs. C. A. Bowen. A delicious salad plate with speed was served.

A South American insect that can take its diet entirely off the prick-pear may help Australia rid itself of this widespread troublesome pest.

Social Calendar

FRIDAY

6:30 p. m.—The Kiwanis Club will meet in the Woman's Club building.

8:00 p. m.—Misses Dorothy and Ruth Willard will entertain at bridge honoring Miss Frances Willard, bride-elect.

Visits Relatives In County.

Rev. Claude Smith of Middleboro, Kentucky, is the guest of his sisters, Mrs. B. T. Cox and Mrs. J. D. Cox in Winterville, and other relatives in the county.

Mr. Smith is a native of Pitt county and is the son of the late Mrs. Polly Smith, one of the pioneer educators of the county.

On Mars Hill Honor Roll.

Mars Hill, Feb. 15.—(Special To The Reflector)—Miss Eleanor Harrington of Greenville, was one of the thirty-six students making the first honor roll out of a total of 508 enrolled in Mars Hill College at the end of the first semester.

Miss Harrington is a first year student at Mars Hill, having entered the senior class of the high school department of the college. She has already become well-known and respected as a student by those who are acquainted with her and her work on the campus. The scholastic ability she has shown by making the first honor roll, one of the highest honors a student may attain at the college, goes a long way toward success for her while she is a student at Mars Hill.

The first honor roll is comprised of the names of students who maintain an average of not less than "B" on any subject. There were 98 names on the second honor roll, which includes all students whose averages are not less than "C" on any subject. The honor rolls are compiled at the end of each semester.

High School News

Valentine Buffet Luncheon.

The second year Home Economics class entertained at a buffet luncheon at the High School on Thursday afternoon at 12:45. It was given to teach the girls the etiquette of buffet service. The menu and its preparation, the arrangement of the table and room decorations and favors, were arranged by committees of girls.

This activity was supervised by Miss Tyndall, practice teacher, and Miss Mary York, critics teacher and head of the Home Economics Department.

The class invited Mrs. Coleman, Mr. Rose and Mr. Mulholland as guests.

New Materials Acquired.

Recently new material for the junior and senior English class-room has been acquired. Two pictures, "Sir Galahad," by Watts and an autumn scene, "A Bend of the Road," are making Room 39 more attractive than it has ever been heretofore. A set of fine literary maps, which has just been purchased by the school, is proving a valuable aid in the study of literature. These additions to the class-room have been greatly needed for some time, and students are thoroughly enjoying them.

—Geraldine Harris, '36.

Junior Dance.

The Junior Class of Greenville High School will sponsor another dance in the school auditorium on Friday evening, February 15, from 9 till 12 o'clock.

Lillian Jones and Hazel Brown will appear on the program in a top dance, and James Dudley Simpson and Mr. MacDougall in an instrumental duet.

All of the High School dances have been unusually successful this year and all those who attend will be assured of a good time. A number of parents and teachers have been invited as special guests.

—Carl Abbe, Jr., '36.

Basketball Notes.

The two basketball teams of the Greenville High School have seemingly had a jinx the whole year, not faring so well in the win column; but there is some fine material in both the boys' and girls' squad and they resolved to win every game from now until the end of the season.

The boys have won four games and lost eight. The girls have won only one and lost four. In most cases these defeats have been by a bare margin. Tonight the boys journey to New Bern to take on the strong quip which has defeated us once before this season. The girls play Tarboro in Tarboro Tuesday night. Fans are assured of snappy playing no matter when they see either team in action.

London Society Glitters With Pastel Jewels

London.—(AP)—Glittering diamonds ablaze at the throats of Mayfair socialites, these days, more often than not are paste.

Hard times, a wave of gem thefts and the high cost of insurance have combined to banish many of the world's most famous jewels to the dark security of bank vaults, while their owners—not always consciously—display ingenious imitations.

"I think it is safe to say that most of the world's great stones have now been copied," said one of the leading jewelers of London. "When they are worn only the owners know which is which—and not always then."

Insignia of Garter Copied.

"The extraordinary improvement made in the last few years in the reproduction of gems has brought about this situation. Today there is no jewel which cannot be copied so faithfully that even experts are deceived."

A London firm now makes facsimiles of the highest honor within the gift of the king—the insignia of the Most Noble Order of the Garter—for $150. The genuine insignia, made of gold set with diamonds and fine emeralds, cost at least $22,500.

A reproduction of one of the world's most famous ropes of pearls recently completed, cost $300. By contrast, the original was insured for $85,000.

Husband Fools Wife.

On London hostess who travels extensively and always takes her jewels, was paying premiums amounting to $4,000. She still flashes jewels at Biarritz, Cannes and Monte Carlo.

As far as she knows, they are worth tens of thousands of pounds. But her husband no longer pays that $4,000 insurance a year. He and a certain jeweler alone know they are paste.

MARRYING PARSON WEDS 400 COUPLES IN A YEAR

Rockford, Ill.—(AP)—The Rev. Hugh M. Banner performed upwards of 400 marriages in 1934.

Not since 1928 had the "marrying parson," pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, enjoyed such a busy twelvemonth. In that year he tied the knot for 358 couples.

In the thirty-five years he has been a clergyman here, Dr. Banner has officiated at more than 6,500 weddings.

The upturn in marriages he attributes to a restoration of confidence in the future on the part of the young people in the immediate vicinity.

Saar Refugees Worry In France

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Paris.—(AP)—Homeless, jobless and mostly penniless, 3,000 Saarlanders refugees are, camping in a score of French towns, waiting for the League of Nations to settle their fates.

Their womenfolk try to make temporary homes of the single room assigned to each family in some improvised dormitory, children attempt tashfully to play with staring French youngsters, and young men who are in the majority, pass the days idly.

Worry is in the face of each of these fugitives from Adolf Hitler's Nazi Germany, self-exiled to southwestern France where the countryside, the Latin people and the language are completely foreign to them. They live in anxious uncertainty of the morrow.

Slap Brings Safety In Cell.

One refugee has become insane. Others wander through the refugee camps seeking wives, husbands, parents and friends lost in some momentary separation.

A Saarlander chauffeur, who said his former employer had threatened him with internment in a German concentration camp, slapped a French army officer as soon as he crossed the frontier so that he would be imprisoned safely on French territory.

France has told the League that the task of caring for these emigrants is too much for her to handle in the midst of depression. Geneva's clearing house of international problems has been asked to provide permanent plans.

French officials report that 3,000 Saar refugees filtered into France within two weeks after the plebiscite. By that time the exodus from the territory recovered by Germany had dwindled to an imperceptible trickle, surprising those who had expected as many as 40,000 to cross the frontier.

Strictly Germans Halted.

The French consulate at Saarbrücken granted 8,000 visas or safe-conduct permits, immediately after the plebiscite. Many of them may yet be used before the Saar reverts to Germany on March 1.

France, however, has admitted only bona fide Saarlanders with good records and good excuses for fleeing Nazism. Turned back are suspected criminals, German anti-Nazis, including Jews, who fled into the Saar when Hitler attained power, and former Rhineland separatists who left Germany when their movement failed in 1923.

Preference has been given Saarlanders who had applied for French citizenship or sent their children to French schools in the Saar, thus incurring Nazi wrath.

After having trudged the snow-packed frontier roads to Forbach and Sarreunimies, lugging suitcases or sacks of meager possessions, the accepted refugees are started southward on the hard wooden seats of third-class railroad cars, within twenty-four hours, to avoid any congestion of frontier posts. War days, when frontier towns were evacuated ahead of the advancing German army, are recalled as the fugitives are given hot chocolate soup and sandwiches at Red Cross canteens.

No Tarrying At Border.

Most of them would rather live where German is spoken. But France has a policy of keeping political refugees away from frontiers to avoid espionage, agitation, propaganda and border incidents. Hence all but those who have relatives in France with whom to live are sent to Toulouse or Montauban and from there scattered, in groups of thirty to 300, among near-by towns.

Employment is virtually denied the refugees, for aside from their ignorance of French, they must cope with the regulation that foreigners may hold only those jobs for which no French unemployed are available. With more than 400,000 Frenchmen on the unemployment dole, work is scarce.

"The future of these poor people certainly is not enviable, although we are doing everything possible to soften the hardship of their exile," said a French official.

"Having left everything behind them, they must endure a life similar to that of a soldier in camp."

SHELBY MILL STRIKE CONTINUES PEACEABLY

Shelby N. C., Feb. 13.—(AP)—The strike at the Dover and Ory Mills continued today with strikers forming picket lines about the plants. There was no disorder.

Part of the forces of both mills went on strike yesterday as the result of what they said was discrimination by the mill management against union employees. Strikers said more than half the 500 employees joined in the strike.

So far as could be learned, there has been no move looking to a settlement of the strike.

Puddle Muddle Valentines

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WILLY NILLY and his animal friends had been so busy that they had hardly had time to think about Valentine's Day, but early in the morning they arose and were very, very busy.

"Can't I have those scissors for a moment?" asked Christopher Columbus Crow.

"No," said Top Notch. "If you have them you'll forget to return them. You'll put them in your nest so you can look at them when the sun shines on them."

"I will not," cawed Christopher. "I'll cut out some valentines for you," whispered Willy Nilly. And not only did he cut out red pieces of paper in the shape of hearts for Christopher, but for all of them.

Then they went into different corners of the room and covering up what they were doing so no one would see, they began marking the valentines and writing messages in their own strange writing.

When it was time for dinner each one had a pile of valentines in front of him, while Mrs. Quacko Duck had it seemed, an extra supply.

Willy Nilly had written a lovely little verse for each of his animal friends, in which he said how fond of each one he was.

They had each written a fine valentine for Willy Nilly, too, but they had not been so polite to each other.

"I'm not vain," said Top Notch as he opened a valentine which said:

"A rooster we know is very vain. He thinks he's handsome; he's really plain."

Top Notch scowled. "Besides it's not true. I'm really handsome!"

"Tee-hee-hee," laughed the Puddle Muddlers.

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I CAN see that I'm handsome," said Top Notch, as he pulled forth his little mirror and looked at himself.

"It shows that valentine is true and the sender knew a thing or two," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow. "Did you send me that valentine?"

Top Notch asked, but Christopher did not answer for he was looking at one of his own which said:

"Some creatures we know can get into trouble. But Christopher knows how to get into double."

"At least it shows I know a good deal," laughed Christopher, who had learned before this that if you didn't show anyone you minded teasing you were left alone.

Mrs. Quacko Duck, who had been so pleased because she thought it showed her popularity when there was a great pile of valentines before her place was becoming more and more ruffled.

"This is an outrage!" she exclaimed. The valentine showed a picture of a duck with a very large mouth and underneath it said:

"Attention, Mrs. Duck. We recommend our latest styles in large mouths. Gives you plenty of room so you can swallow gossip and plenty of space in which to hold gossip until you can find someone with whom to talk."

And now the Puddle Muddlers were walking around looking angrily at each other.

"We'll have jelly now which I have made as a surprise for dessert," said Willy Nilly, and eating dessert made them forget their little huffs.

NOTICE OF SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION

North Carolina—Pitt County. In the Superior Court. Town of Greenville vs. Ellis Nassif and wife, Mrs. Ellis Nassif.

The defendants above named will take notice that an action entitled as above has been instituted in the Superior Court of Pitt County for the purpose of foreclosing certificates of tax sales and liens for the years 1930 and 1931 held by the plaintiff against the property of the defendants; and they will further take notice that they are required to appear before the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County at his office in Greenville, N. C., and plead to the complaint heretofore filed in said Clerk's office within 30 days after service of this summons, or the relief therein demanded will be granted.

This the 30th day of January, 1935.

J. P. HARRINGTON, Clerk Superior Court.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—The hectic closing hours of debate in the Senate over whether the United States should enter the World Court were not without domestic political significance.

Politicians in the capital were struck by the manner in which Joe Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, to whom the administration turned to obtain Senate ratification of the court, "opened up" on Huey Long.

It seemed at times that Robinson temporarily shelved the court to strike out at the Louisiana "Kingfish."

Long publicly has threatened to invade Arkansas in 1936 in an attempt to defeat Robinson for reelection to the Senate.

Six times in two days the Democratic leader unleashed his full command of sarcasm against Long. And six times the "Kingfish" ignored the verbal attacks.

Laughter in the Senate.

With brevity and directness, Robinson's observation "What does the Senator from Louisiana know about the true spirit of religion?" rang out. The Congressional Record notes there was "laughter" in the Senate. The observation was made just after Long concluded a speech calling on the Senate's religious connections to defeat the court.

At another point Robinson, discussing Father Coughlin, who only a short while before had announced ratification of the World Court protocols, quoted the priest as saying the chief support of the World Court comes from plutocrats and international bankers.

"That," observed the Democratic leader, "is the Senator from Louisiana talking."

"The truth is," Robinson contin-

"Bilious attacks," dizziness, spots before the eyes, a feeling of fullness after ordinary meals, belching up of gas, a dull, sluggish feeling—due to constipation—are usually driven away by a dose or two of old, reliable Theodor's Black-Draught.

"I take Black-Draught for biliousness, dizziness, and when I feel dull, tired and stupid," writes Mr. M. D. Simmons, of Pickens, S. C. "It seems to cleanse the system and make one feel a hundred per cent better."

used in the same vein, when he made that statement he seemed to enjoy it so much I was reminded of the methods of statement and declarations commonly employed by the Senator from Louisiana."

'Consider Long's Troubles'

Referring at another point to the Ten Commandments, Robinson sarcastically noted that the Senator from Louisiana "observed" them.

Still at another point Robinson's exasperation plainly was revealed when he said all Long's talk of war "has nothing in God's world to do with the World's Court," and suggested the Senate might enjoy temporary if not permanent peace if it could persuade the World Court to consider Long's various troubles in Louisiana.

It's not like the "Kingfish" to pass up such obvious invitations for a scrap. As a rule he is the quickest man in the Senate to accept such challenges. He permitted all these remarks (and he heard them all) to go unanswered, however, and when

TIME TO MAKE GOOD THOSE CAMPAIGN PLEDGES

There is before the legislature at this time a measure
that would substitute other
sources of revenues in place
of the sales tax and a bill is
to be introduced whereby
the counties that have outstanding bonds for roads,
that are now a part of the
state highway system, would receive aid from the state toward maturing these bonds.

Both these measures are
of vital importance to our county and we do not feel
that it is amiss at this time
to bring to the attention of
our legislators their expression of views on the subject
prior to their nomination in
the primary last June.

Here are some of the
questions we addressed to
each legislative candidate:

TAXATION AND REVENUES

(a) Do you favor the flat sales
tax as a permanent part of our
tax system, or do you prefer to derive
the needed revenues from other sources, without increasing the present tax on real estate?

(b) If elected to the legislature,
do you promise to diligently seek
those other sources most able to pay the tax and refuse to vote for
the sales tax until and unless these sources are properly and adequately
taxed?

(c) Do you favor repeal of the statute that now exempts stocks in
foreign corporations from ad valorem
taxes and would you vote to have these stocks taxed on the basis of their actual value rather than upon the present basis of a maximum tax of six per cent on the dividends only?

(d) Do you favor a constitutional amendment that would increase the
present maximum of six per cent
tax on incomes?

(e) Do you favor reducing the
gasoline and automobile license
tax; or do you favor retaining this
form of taxation upon its present
basis and return to the counties a certain portion of the gasoline tax
to be used to retire road and bridge
bonds for highways and bridges constructed by the counties and now a part of the state highway system; or do you favor retaining
the present tax and diverting any
highway department surplus to be used for other purposes not connected with the highways?

(f) After exhausting all other sources, if it is found that some form of sales tax is necessary will
you favor a luxury or selected commodity tax rather than a flat sales
tax?

Here are the answers to these questions submitted by
the three candidates who represent us in the General Assembly:

Senator A. B. Corey

(a) I favor obtaining the necessary revenues from other sources
than a flat sales tax, without increasing the present tax on real estate.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) I favor a reduction of gasoline and automobile license tax, unless a return is made to counties
carrying their own highway bonds,
of a certain portion of such taxes
to be used in retiring such bonds.

(f) After exhausting all other sources, and if it be found necessary to have some form of sales tax, I
would prefer or favor a selected
commodity or luxury tax.

Representative M. O. Blount

(a) The flat sales tax was enact-

ed by our last session of the General Assembly as a temporary measure and for the purpose of obtaining additional revenue to meet the large deficit of our state. I would not favor, as a permanent part of
our tax system, a flat sales tax, until all efforts have been exhausted
to obtain the necessary revenue
from other sources better able to
pay. Under no circumstances would
I favor increasing the present tax
on real estate.

(b) If elected to the legislature,
it will be my purpose to diligently
seek those other sources most able
to pay the tax and refuse to vote
for the sales tax until those sources
are properly and adequately
taxed.

(c) I favor the repeal of the statute
that now exempts stocks in foreign corporations from ad valorem
tax, and would vote to have these stocks taxed on the basis of their actual value, rather than upon the
present basis of a maximum tax of
6 per cent on the dividends only.

(d) I would favor a constitutional amendment that would reasonably
increase the present maximum of 6 per cent tax on income. I believe that the fairest method of taxation
is one based upon income and ability to pay.

(e) If, after examining the financial condition of our state, I find it possible to reduce the gasoline and
automobile license tax, I would
favor a reduction in these taxes;
however, if it becomes necessary to retain this form of taxation upon its present basis, I would favor and
use my best efforts to have a portion of this tax allocated to the
counties to be used to retire road
and bridge bonds, provided these
highway and bridge bonds were
used in the construction of highways which have been incorporated
into the State Highway System. At
the commencement of the road
building program in this state, several counties, including Lenoir, Pitt,
Beaufort and others, had gone forward to a very large extent in the construction of hard-surfaced roads.
Large bond issues were voted, and
we have been under burdensome
property tax in order to pay for these roads. Many other counties in the state voted no bonds and obtained their roads without cost. The state is now receiving the gasoline
and license tax brought about by
the construction of these highways.
Thirty cents out of every tax dollar
on real estate in Pitt County is used to pay off these road and bridge bonds. This is grossly unfair
and certainly, in my opinion, the
surplus created yearly in the highway department, or a goodly portion
thereof, after setting aside a sufficient amount for maintenance and
payment of bonds issued by the state, should be returned to these
counties which have spent large sums in the construction of these main highways. Of course this should be done in an equitable
manner upon the basis of population and income from the gasoline
and license tax. I do not favor diverting any of this highway department surplus to other than a return of this surplus to the counties
for the purpose of reducing the ad
valorem tax on land.

(f) After exhausting all other sources of revenue, if it should become necessary to have some form
of sales tax, I would prefer ex-
empting many of the articles now
classified as necessities of life.

Representative John Hill Paylor

(a) I do not favor the flat sales
tax as a permanent part of our tax
system. I prefer if possible, to derive the needed revenues from other
sources, without increasing the present tax on real estate.

(b) If elected to the legislature,
I promise to diligently seek and inquire into all sources most able to pay the tax and to give due consideration to these sources in preference to a sales tax.

(c) I favor repeal of the statute
that now exempts stocks in foreign corporations from ad valorem
taxes and am in favor of having these
stocks taxed on the basis of their
actual value rather than upon the
6 per cent on the dividends only.

(d) I favor a constitutional amendment that will increase the
present maximum of six per cent
tax on incomes.

(e) I favor reducing the gasoline and automobile license tax.
(f) After exhausting all other
sources, if it is found that some form of sales tax is necessary, I
will favor a commodity tax.

We bring to the attention
of our legislators these campaign pledges they made to
the voters of this county
through this paper on May 23, 1934, and now urge them to carry out these pledges with reference to the above mentioned legislation.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

That's the record that wouldn't
make Father Coughlin mad.

The Kingfish is bearing down relentlessly on the two big broadcast companies for time on the air.
Before he spent half an hour on one chain last Sunday night charging President Roosevelt with failure

produce results and promising $3-000 incomes to those who stuck by
him. Huey already had demanded
half an hour from the other chain
within 10 days.

The broadcasters are trying to discourage Long. They have made a rule, however, that any member of Congress who demands time to deliver a message is entitled to it.

MEXICO: American protests
against denial of religious liberty
in Mexico may not cause the U. S.
Government to interpose an objection, but threatened confiscation of American owned property is another matter. The socialist national program in Mexico aims directly at distributing lands, some of which
are owned by Americans. Pretense
is made that owners will be compensated, but the compensation may
consist of doubtful bonds. The attention of the State Department
has been called to this subject by American oil companies.

Mexico's experiment in the distribution of wealth has some similarity to Huey Long's program, and
may furnish a guide to American
in sizing up the value of the plan
to make every man a kingfish.

PSYCHIC: J. F. T. O'Connor,
Comptroller of the Currency, must
be reading with much personal satisfaction the administration's proposed bill to make a virtual control
bank out of the Federal Reserve Board.

This bill abolishes the job of Federal Reserve Agent, which pays double the Comptroller's salary. Before
the New Dealers tossed this one in
the hopper they offered O'Connor
the Agent's job at San Francisco.
With psychic foresight he turned it down.

NEW YORK

By James McMulinn

PROPAGANDA: Watch for the forthcoming report of the McCormack-Dickstein Committee on Un-American Activities. Insiders say
it will contain several suggestions
for legislation which are likely to cause a stir.

A law will be recommended which
would require all publicity or propaganda agents—whether native or
alien—who represent a foreign government or political party, or a foreign industrial or commercial organization, to register with the Secretary of State. They would be obliged to file details as to the
identity of their foreign employers,
the nature of services rendered and
the compensation received. Inclusion of foreign business clients is urged because these have frequently been used as a smoke screen to clear official and semi-official propaganda activities.

A second recommendation would
give the Secretary of Labor power
in his (or her) discretion to cancel
immediately the visa of any alien
visitor who engages in the promulgation or dissemination of propaganda or takes part in political activities. No appeal would be allowed.
The idea of the broad discretion
is to enable the prompt ejection of
an unwelcome guest without the need for lengthy legal process which
give him time and opportunity to sow his seed.

An additional law to be suggested
would make it a penal offense to advocate or incite overthrow of the government by force. At present
this is punishable only if accompanied by a provable overt act. Still another would make it a crime to solicit American soldiers and sailors
to join the communist party.

IRONY: Ostensibly these laws

would be aimed at Red and Nazi propaganda. But as drafted they would also include alien proponents of debt cancellation or American participation in the World Court.
Informed comment runs that if they are enacted we may learn
something about subtler French
and Polish publicity methods as well
as the more obvious breeds.

There's no guarantee that Congress will heed the committee's advice. But if it does take hold the potential encroachments on free
speech and a free press will start
a honey of a debate.

That would please William Randolph Hearst and Colonel Robert
McCormick in a rather ironic spot.
The suggestions will appeal to them
as tending to suppress radicalism.
But how to square their pleasure
with their frequently expressed concern about dangers to the constitutional guarantee of a free press?

LABELED: The committee may go even further and advise some sort of curb on radio propaganda. Will-posted New Yorkers say this idea traces to Herbert Moore's Transamerica Radio News—which used the Havas Agency as a news

source without telling listeners about
it. Havas is known to be very close to the French government.

It's understood that Havas was quietly dropped by Transamerica
after heated private protests from
newspaper publishers backing their own radio news services. But the purpose is to apply truthful standards of labeling to news dissemination so that people will at least
know who packages their mental
fare.

ASSIMILATION: Insiders say the
committee's report will call public
attention to the activities of Italian
vice-consul Ungarelli in Detroit and Mexican consul Torrio in San Bernardino, California.

Ungarelli has been trying hard to organize Detroit residents of Italian blood into Fascist groups. Torrio has utilized Spanish language newspapers, radio and handbills to get Mexicans in his neighborhood to boycott a local Catholic festival.
This last may have an important
bearing on the Congressional attitude toward religious strife in Mexico. Many legislators who have thought it was none of our business may change their minds when they discover that part of the war is being fought on our own soil.

The committee will stress the point that assimilation of aliens into the American scene is seriously obstructed by such nationalistic pressure on the part of foreign agents.

BETTER: Railroad circles are much intrigued by coordinator East-man's proposal that fixed charges
should be reduced to "not over 80 per cent of average income" for three poor years. If such a reduction can be effected it would mean a much better break for the old (or reorganized) preferred and common stocks of the carriers as business improves.

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

SYNOPSIS: The Montana Kid and Mateo Rubio have entered the governor's apartment at Durango, recovered the emerald crown of Our Lady which the governor stole from the church, and Montana has returned his half of the crown to the bishop. But Mateo has been caught, tortured, and is to be sent to the Valley of the Luch. Rostita, who betrayed Montana and Mateo to the governor, just has insulted the governor on the street. Montana is following Rostita.

Chapter 30

PASCUAL'S STORY

THE rage of the governor at this public thwarting had come to a white heat. The others of the crowd could see the girl refuse the immense honor he offered, to make her the queen of the festival by placing her at his side in the carriage, the humbling of Ignacio Estrada by making such an offer to a girl in the street—but none of them could have heard the murmur which she placed between two lines of her song.

"Blood-drinker! Man-eating
swine!"
She had said it for his ear only,
and still smiling.

The madness that entered his brain kept it whirling like black smoke.

But through the crowd that came
laughing around the girl, congratulating her, wondering over her, the taller figure of the Kid stepped with a singular ease. He never seemed to jostle man or woman, but, as though
he knew magic spots where his feet
should rest, he glided through the press and came to her.

There was something about this
man, dressed like himself, masked like himself, that made the other youths lose heart, and they gave back a trifle from around him as though they wanted to hear him
and see him better.

For he had begun to sing in a
good, rich, ringing baritone, that
fantastic old Castilian song, " Weave Me a Mantle." With the very first strains, the girl struck up the accompaniment on her guitar and
gave the song her own voice, so that
they walked on slowly, surrounded
by their own music as by a wall
of quiet, leaning their heads a little
to one another.

So long as the song continued, the
crowd kept its distance, moving
slowly with the slow pace of the
singers, but as the song ended the tide of the festival rushed over the place and the level-streaming heads
began to bob irregularly up and
down again.

So, in a moment, the girl and Montana were more alone, more private in that crowd, than they would have been in the most secret of gardens.

She caught at his arm so that she walked close to his side, but she
said, with her face upturned to him:
"If you knew me—if you knew what
I have done—"

"I saw Estrada pull his hat over
his eyes."

"But before—long before—there
is a thing I have done—"

"Look!" said the Kid.
He held a gold piece in his hand.
"This is the past," said he. "Watch
it!"

And he tossed the coin high over
his head, so that it winked in the light of the lanterns.

SHE, over her shoulder, saw the gold flicker, arch up, fall. And the slim hands of a girl flashed up
and caught it.

Rostita laughed. She had no envy
for that lucky finder!

"That's the past—and let it go!"
said Montana.

"Do you know?" she asked.
"Enough to make it worth the for-
getting," said Montana.

"Governors come and governors
go, but Montana rides forever," said
the girl.

They began to laugh together until he cried out: "There's Brother
Pascual grinning his big grin over
the heads of the people! What a man that is, Rostita! Let's go to him, because he can tell me about Rubriz!"

She made the Kid pause.
"You don't know about Rubriz?"
she gasped.

She began to read his face from
side to side, up and down, as though somewhere in it she must find the knowledge.

"Don't know. What is it?"
"God forgive me!" cried the girl.
"I can't tell you. No one dares to speak of it, but everyone knows—
Brother Pascual—he can tell you."

"Rubriz?" said Montana. "Has something happened to him? Mateo?"

He looked down at the agony in
the eyes of the girl and then he went

Wingate Girls To Play College Cagers Tonight

Wingate College girls' team will try to make it two straight over the Ramblers in the college gym tonight. The local girls are ready to put up a real fight. A fast and hard-fought game is in prospect. Several former Greenville High School stars will likely see action during the game. Captain Louise Briley, Anne Askew, Elizabeth Overton, Mae Hearne and Mary Shaw Robeson represent a group of the best players ever graduated from Greenville High.

Others who will likely take part in the contest are Florence Sinclair, of Wilson; Margaret Fulton, of Walnut Cove; Mary Ella Bunn, of Rocky Mount; Helen Wilson, of Woodland; Ruth Eleanor Parker, of Woodland; and Margaret Martin, of Conway. The game will be called at eight o'clock.

GREENVILLE WILL PLAY BETHEL IN TITLE GAME

Bethel, N. C., Feb. 15.—Victorious last night in a pair of thrilling contests, Greenville and Bethel teams will meet tonight in the finals of an invitational tournament for all-star basketball teams.

Greenville edged a 40-38 victory over Aurora, and Bethel had an even closer shave before taking a 41-40 decision over Williamston in last night's semi-finals. The tournament had opened yesterday with a field of eight teams.

Barrett, with 15 points, and Bostic, with 13 points, led Greenville's scoring in the semi-finals battle. Stubbs, with 14 points, and Hooker, with 10 points, featured for Aurora. Greenville, far behind in early stages of the game, rallied to force into a 17-13 lead before the close of the first half.

Williamston staged a good rally in the second half of its game with Bethel, but the home team managed to nose a win. Bethel had a 27-16 lead at the half. Gaylord, with 14 points, was high for Williamston. Wallace made 13 points to lead Bethel.

Tonight's title game will start at 8 o'clock. In addition to the awards to finalists, players named to the all-tournament team will receive awards.

purposes. Several months ago overtures were made to the league by the administration, asking it to take a definite stand against diversion of highway funds or a reduction in highway revenue. The league refused to do this. As a result of this when its representatives recently sought the assistance of the administration for its proposal to have the highway department take over the maintenance of all city streets traversed by state highways, they got rather a cool reception.

Officials of the League of Municipalities apparently have now waked up to the fact that if any of the present highway fund is diverted or if the movement to reduce the automobile license cost succeeds, there will be no possibility of getting factor could be used which would be equitable. "I ask the committee here and now," he declared, "to tell the subcommittee whether it also disapproves of the floor space factor that it will under no condition accept it. If you won't accept it I want to be relieved of any subcommittee dealing with chain store taxes. You can not write an equitable chain store tax section without it." His views were supported by Senator Mason, of Gaston, also a subcommittee member and others.

When the vote was taken Senator Bailey had his way, and more. The subcommittee was told to rewrite the chain store tax section using any factors they thought suitable. Anti-sales tax members and others joined in endorsing Senator Bailey. Previously the finance committee had rejected, after hearing many protests from department stores, the recommendation of the subcommittee that chain stores with more than 500 square feet of enclosed floor space pay additional taxes on a square footage basis. Chain stores fighting most vigorously against the floor space factor were North Carolina-owned department stores.

The floor space plan was first conceived as a method by which chain filling stations exempt under the existing chain store tax might be "equilibrated" taxed as other chain stores.

What has become of the resolution authorizing the appointment of a joint senate and house committee on the reorganization of state governmental agencies?

The House several weeks ago by Rep. Laurie McEachern of Hoke county and immediately passed by the House. But it has never emerged from the Senate committee on Finance, of which Senator Paul Grady of Johnston county is chairman. When questioned today as to what had become of this resolution, Rep. McEachern said that it was still in the rules committee in the Senate but that Chairman Grady had told him he would hold a hearing on it any time he might desire it. He said he expected to ask for a hearing sometime soon.

When asked if there was any opposition to the resolution from any of the state departments or department heads, McEachern said:

"No one seems to be afraid of the resolution or of any reorganization that might be recommended by this committee, if it is appointed, except the Commissioner of Agriculture, who seems to be opposed to it. However, he should not be worried about this bill, since the Department of Agriculture is a constitutional division of the state government and cannot be abolished or consolidated with any other department."

a better-balanced FERTILIZER

W. CHRIS TAYLOR
of Wilson
North Carolina

Ask your fertilizer man about the small extra cost of 3-8-8

"I DON'T KNOW how many years I have been using extra potash on my tobacco, but it's a long, long time", says Chris Taylor, of Wilson, N. C. "Counting the records my father left me I now have sales tickets for most of the tobacco on my farm since 1896.

"The first thing I remember about tobacco fertilizer was that my father used the old 8-2 3/4-2 mixture and about 1900 he began to experiment with potash, first using muriate and then sulphate of potash. It improved his quality and yields and has done the same thing for me.

"During the last four years I have settled on 8% potash as best for my conditions. Sometimes I use extra sulphate of potash around my tobacco at the first working. My sorriest crop in 1933 brought $219.83 and in 1934 I had one light, poor crop of four acres that brought only $413.19 per acre after deducting charges."

3-8-8

The biggest and best news you will find in the new fertilizer price lists is the very small difference in cost between a low-potash fertilizer and a fertilizer well balanced with plenty of NV POTASH. For example, compare 3-8-3 fertilizer with 3-8-8 fertilizer. The 3-8-8 contains 35% more actual plant food, yet it costs you very little more than the 3-8-3. Figured in terms of an acre the extra cost is so small it will surprise you.

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER has proven its value throughout the entire bright tobacco belt. Many leading farmers in this section use 3-8-8 or increase the potash in their regular fertilizer to 8% or even more by using extra applications of potash.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the North Carolina State College of Agriculture recommend a fertilizer containing 8 to 10% potash for bright tobacco.

Chemical analysis of high-quality tobacco plants proves that a 1,000-pound crop contains more than three times as much potash as 500 pounds of 3% potash fertilizer contains.

Fertilizer containing too much nitrogen produces rough, bony tobacco. Avoid this by selecting a fertilizer mixture in which the nitrogen has been well-balanced with plenty of potash.

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER gives best results with closer rows, closer spacing, ridge cultivation and late topping. Set more plants per acre and top after about half the crop is gathered.

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER holds the tobacco on the hill after it matures without burning, producing a thin, grainy leaf with "high-dollar" quality.

Remember that 800 pounds of 3-8-8 usually costs less than 1,000 pounds of 3-8-3, yet 800 pounds of 3-8-8 contains more actual plant food and is a much better balanced fertilizer.

Plan now to produce a thin leaf on the bright side. Use the best cultural methods, correct spacing, high-topping and the proper amounts of 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER. The extra potash in this fertilizer adds the extra quality that brings more on the floor.

Have you been missing something by not using more potash in your tobacco fertilizer? Many leading tobacco growers have found that extra potash pays extra cash. Potash is the quality-producing element in fertilizer. Tobacco removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined.

Extra potash gives tobacco a better grain and increases yields. It does not make the crop rough and red. On the average the man with the most pounds makes the most dollars per acre. Extra pounds this year will give you the chance to grade your crop closer and sell more pounds of high-quality leaf.

Your fertilizer man knows about the outstanding results obtained from using plenty of potash. That is why he is featuring 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER this season. Tell him that you want to produce "high-dollar" tobacco in 1935. Tell him you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER.

GOVERNMENT PAYS BIG SUM TO FARMERS

Over Half Million Dollars Paid To Pitt Growers In Rental-Benefit Checks

Around April 1 approximately a half-million dollars will be poured into the pockets of tobacco growers of this county who are co-operating in the Federal Government acreage control program.

E. F. Arnold, director of the local Farm Department, said this sum would come to the growers in the form of rental and benefit payments and that distribution of the payment would be made by his office as rapidly as possible.

In making known the date the payment is expected, Mr. Arnold also gave out figures in connection with the amount of money paid to Pitt County growers who co-operated with the tobacco, cotton and hog-corn program last year. The total amount paid out for all purposes was $527,431.32 in rental and benefit checks.

For those who took part in the cotton campaign the government mailed checks for $191,628.90 but the amount will be increased to some extent by the arrival of two hundred additional government checks in the near future. The checks are for no large amount, the farm director said, but they will do a big part toward carrying cheer to the grower whose pockets are empty and who needs some extra money to help him get things right for the next planting season.

The total amount paid out to tobacco growers was given as $392,027.34, but there is about $1,000 yet to come before the payment has been completed.

Mr. Arnold said his office would notify growers immediately upon receipt of the additional cotton checks, so that delivery may be speeded up as much as possible. Payments previously have been made rapidly; in fact, so much so that virtually the total amount of each batch of checks was in the hands of growers within a few days after receipt at the farm office.

DESPITE SEVERE DROUGHT
Missoula, Mont. (AP)—Though the northern Montana Rockies with their pine-clad slopes last summer experienced the most dangerous drought season in many years, fire losses in Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks were held to a minimum.

The national forest service here announced also that in Yellowstone there were thirty-nine fires with but 500 acres of burned land, only one-seventh the area fire-scarred the year before. In Glacier Park the losses were negligible.

Utmost caution by forest visitors plus stringent regulations, held down the losses, officials said.

SEEK DELAY IN HEARING ON HILL BILL

Reflector Office,
Sir Walter Hotel,
Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 15.—Dry forces in North Carolina would capitalize on dry sentiment in Alabama. The plan became known here today when it was inadvertently learned that certain dry leaders are attempting certain dry leaders are attempting Hill liquor bill until after Alabama votes on the 29th of this month on a similar bill.

So sure are the dries that Alabama will reject a State-controlled liquor system that they are willing to take the gamble so that they may use Alabama's alleged dryness as a psychological whip over the North Carolina General Assembly. They think it would be a fine thing if they could point with pride to Alabama as a barometer of whiskey-humidities. The Senate Judiciary Committee No. 1, headed by Senator Horton, of Chatham, had planned to hold the hearing next Wednesday if it is suitable to those who appear most concerned. That would be six days before Alabama referendum.

Just what the dries plan to point to with pride if the hearing is postponed and Alabama goes wet instead of dry could not be learned. Most certainly they cannot follow a saying: "Thank God for South Carolina." For statistics reveal that North Carolina now leads the nation in number of stills seized.

A poll of the Judiciary Committee, which holds the hearing shows that the Hill bill will be favorably reported unless certain members change their minds. Most of the committee members have said that they want the hearing to be short because the arguments both pro and con will be the same as always. "As Alabama goes, so goes North Carolina," will not become an axiom. That is the opinion of most observers here who feel that Alabama's action will not affect the Legislature's opinion, whatever that is.

POLITICS at random

(Chief Of Bureau, The Associated Press)

The senate's world court flip-flop has provided an enigma-mind-boggling national capital with an interlude of many strange aspects.

Why did Mr. Roosevelt, at a moment when popular discussion of the court was at a low ebb and many domestic issues were pressing, suggest that ratification be put at the head of the calendar of the new congress?

What was the real significance of the many mysterious comings and goings among senators and others high officials while the debate was in progress?

in progress?

What was it, basically, that turned what appeared a certain court victory into a stunning defeat?

Now the protocol is rejected, what happens?

These are a few of the questions which even members of the senate are asking one another. The whole proceeding was so replete with surprises that all Washington is wondering and whispering.

Connivance Suspected
It is no violation of confidence to say that some of the whisperings hint at extremely dirty work at the cross-roads.

Justly or not, one or two who are very highly placed in administration circles, and generally have been accused to favor the court sincerely, are under suspicion of having connived at its defeat.

Majority Leader Robinson, who put up a battle which won the admiration of everyone, openly suggested that some very deep political fissures had been going on somewhere. He may have been thinking a great deal more than he said.

Not Tied To New Deal
The defeat of the court apparently meant little in relation to the fortunes of the "New Deal" generally, with which it had no direct connection. The protocol was negotiated by republican officeholders, and three republican presidents had urged its ratification.

Time alone can tell, however, what indirect effect the battle may have on "New Deal" morale. The President is asking the senate majority to team up behind certain highly important domestic policies, Division, rearmament and suspicion, for whatever unrelated reason, do not ordinarily make for teamwork.

It is because of this indirect implication that the Washington is asking why the President, with his usually astute sense of political and psychological reactions, took the risk of bringing into the picture such a dynamite-laden issue as the world court right at the opening of the session.

Not All-Important
Now that the court has been defeated, what of the future?

It would deny the lessons of history to suppose the issue will not come up again, after a reasonable lapse. Court advocates already are preparing to renew the battle.

NEW TOBACCO SIGNUP MAY FOLLOW N. C. PROTEST

trial plan was taken into consideration.

Hutton estimated the crop at around 723,000,000 pounds. It was pointed out by Governor E. B. Ewing that the record of flue-cured crop was only slightly in excess of 800,000,000 pounds and said it brought starvation prices.

The tobacco chief said the acreage was increased because consumption has increased, surplus stocks reduced and lower production would hurt exports. He explained that about half of the flue-cured crop is exported.

He estimated that 26 per cent of the flue-cured acreage in North Carolina last year was more than the Farm Administration had anticipated, declaring that the adjustment act has as its purpose the establishment of a balance between production and consumption to insure parity prices.

McKee, of the public department of health. It was said that 154 tests was made at this point.

The other clinic was held in Quinry's store by Dr. E. V. Tucker, of Grifton, and Dr. N. T. Ennett, assisted by Mrs. J. P. Stowe, volunteer nurse.

Clinics today were to be held in the Apden community. Dr. G. G. Dixon was to be in charge of tests at his office and Dr. G. H. Sumrell was to direct work in his office. Dr. Ennett and Miss Edna McKee were scheduled to go to Venter's Cross Roads. All clinics begin at 2 o'clock.

Dr. M. T. Frizzelle had agreed to assist in the clinics at Ayden, but was called to Washington, D. C. unexpectedly.

The health workers will go to the office of Dr. Liverman in Winterville Monday afternoon for completion of the tests. They will be assisted there by Dr. Liverman and Dr. N. E. Ward, of Greenville.

NEW TOBACCO STORE TAX PROPOSAL ELIMINATED
twice what they are now paying the State in franchise taxes. The estimate also that more than three times as much would be collected from foreign corporations under the plan as they are now paying in franchise taxes, or that for every $1 they pay in franchise taxes under the present plan, they would pay $3 in property taxes.

The new taxation plans which Representatives McDonald and Lumpkin and their anti-sales tax group would substitute for the sales tax are so cleverly drawn and worded that as yet most of the members of the General Assembly, as well as most merchants, do not realize just what they would do. This was true at first of the chain store tax section which was suggested by the same group and intended to be a partial substitute for the sales tax. But when the substitute was analyzed it was found that it hit North Carolina chain stores harder than the national chains, with the result that the merchants succeeded in getting the finance committee to take this chain store tax section out of the revenue bill, at least for the time being. As soon as the merchants wake up to the fact that they will have to pay more than $1,000,000 a year in direct taxes under the one-fourth of one per cent of gross receipts and an average of 50 cents per $100 of valuation on their property as well they are expected to make a strong protest against this plan.

After so many years of wrangling over courts and leagues and conference agreements, there are those who think it may not be so all-important after all, what treaties are signed and what are not.

The United States had no treaty obligating it to settle the Russo-Japanese war, or enter the world-war. Yet it did both. The whole world judged the Kellogg anti-war treaty. Put to the test, it collapsed; so has many another writing on paper.

Hutton estimated the crop at around 723,000,000 pounds. It was pointed out by Governor E. B. Ewing that the record of flue-cured crop was only slightly in excess of 800,000,000 pounds and said it brought starvation prices.

The tobacco chief said the acreage was increased because consumption has increased, surplus stocks reduced and lower production would hurt exports. He explained that about half of the flue-cured crop is exported.

He estimated that 26 per cent of the flue-cured acreage in North Carolina last year was more than the Farm Administration had anticipated, declaring that the adjustment act has as its purpose the establishment of a balance between production and consumption to insure parity prices.

McKee, of the public department of health. It was said that 154 tests was made at this point.

The other clinic was held in Quinry's store by Dr. E. V. Tucker, of Grifton, and Dr. N. T. Ennett, assisted by Mrs. J. P. Stowe, volunteer nurse.

Clinics today were to be held in the Apden community. Dr. G. G. Dixon was to be in charge of tests at his office and Dr. G. H. Sumrell was to direct work in his office. Dr. Ennett and Miss Edna McKee were scheduled to go to Venter's Cross Roads. All clinics begin at 2 o'clock.

Dr. M. T. Frizzelle had agreed to assist in the clinics at Ayden, but was called to Washington, D. C. unexpectedly.

The health workers will go to the office of Dr. Liverman in Winterville Monday afternoon for completion of the tests. They will be assisted there by Dr. Liverman and Dr. N. E. Ward, of Greenville.

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. John Hodges have returned from Carrollton, Kentucky, where Mr. Hodges has been on the tobacco market.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McCormack have returned from Gallatin, Tenn., where Mr. McCormack has been on the tobacco market.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Higgs and little grandson, Joe Goodson, returned yesterday from Florida.

Entertain At Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Scarborough were complimented last evening when Mr. and Mrs. Milo Smith entertained at bridge at their home on Cotanche street.

After several progressions of bridge, the guests were served delicious refreshments.

The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations and refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Scarborough were remembered with attractive gifts. G. C. Honeycutt was presented high score prize for men, and Mrs. J. C. Cockrell high score prize for the ladies.

Catches Weasel

James Edward Manning, 3, son of J. E. Manning, who resides about a mile and a half from town, caught a weasel in a rabbit box last night.

The animal was brought to town in a box this morning and displayed to many persons who had heard of weasels all their lives but never had seen one before.

Mrs. Smith Improving.

Friends of Mrs. Joseph Smith will be glad to learn that she is recovering from an attack of influenza.

Service At Piney Grove.

Marshall Joyner of this community will preach at Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend this service. We feel you will be benefited.

Mrs. Bowling Club Hostess.

Mrs. L. H. Bowling was hostess yesterday afternoon at a very delightful meeting of her bridge club. At the conclusion of a number of interesting games of contract, Mrs. John Mitchell was awarded an attractive prize for high score. The hostess served a tempting salad course.

Early spring flowers were used for decorations.

Third Street P. T. A. To Meet.

The Third Street Parent-Teacher Association will meet Monday evening at 7:30 in the school auditorium. Mrs. Corey's room will give a George Washington program. Dr. L. Meadows will be the speaker. All parents are urged to attend as important matters pertaining to school work will be discussed. Members of other P. T. A.'s are cordially invited to attend.

Hostess To Bridge Club.

On Thursday afternoon at her home on Elm street, Mrs. N. S. Beard was hostess to a very enjoyable meeting of her bridge club. Tables were placed in a setting of early spring flowers, and a number of games were enjoyed. At the end of the game Mrs. D. M. Clark was given bridge cards for high score.

The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Senior Play A Success.

The second performance of the college senior play last night was even better than the night before. The lighting effects showed great improvement, the stage and costumes showed up better, and the actors played with even greater ease and abandon.

The members of the Drama Classes taught by Miss Dirnberger took the lead in the planning of the play, but all in the Senior Class had practical demonstration of what can be done in play-producing.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends for their kindness and many expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of our daughter and sister, Miss Charlotte Starkey.

Mrs. J. L. Starkey and Sons.

Miss York Bridge Hostess.

Miss Mary York was hostess at a lovely bridge party last evening at the home of Mrs. O. G. Guiley.

Seven tables, attractively appointed for bridge, were placed in a setting suggestive of the Valentine season.

At the conclusion of the contract game, Mrs. Luther Herring and R. L. Coburn were presented prizes for high score. In the game of "Crazy Bridge" Mr. and Mrs. Dink James were awarded prizes, and the heart prize was won by Mrs. C. A. Bowen.

A delicious salad plate with speed tea was served.

A South American insect that can make its diet entirely off the prickly pear may help Australia rid itself of this widespread troublesome weed.

Visits Relatives In County.

Rev. Claude Smith of Middleboro, Kentucky, is the guest of his sisters, Mrs. B. T. Cox and Mrs. J. D. Cox in Winterville, and other relatives in the county.

Mr. Smith is a native of Pitt county and is the son of the late Mrs. Polly Smith, one of the pioneer educators of the county.

On Mars Hill Honor Roll.

Mars Hill, Feb. 15.—(Special To The Reflector)—Miss Eleanor Harrington of Greenville, was one of the thirty-six students making the first honor roll out of a total of 508 enrolled in Mars Hill College at the end of the first semester.

Miss Harrington is a first year student at Mars Hill, having entered the senior class of the high school department of the college. She has already become well-known and respected as a student by those who are acquainted with her and her work on the campus. The scholarship she has shown by making the first honor roll, one of the highest honors a student may attain at the college, goes a long way toward success for her while she is a student at Mars Hill.

The first honor roll is comprised of the names of students who maintain an average of not less than "B" on any subject. There were 98 names on the second honor roll, which includes all students whose averages are not less than "C" on any subject. The honor rolls are compiled at the end of each semester.

London Society Glitters With Pastel Jewels

London.—(AP)—Glittering diamonds ablaze at the throats of Mayfair socialites, these days, more often than not are paste.

Hard times, a wave of gem thefts and the high cost of insurance have combined to banish many of the world's most famous jewels to the dark security of bank vaults, while their owners—not always consciously—display ingenious imitations.

"I think it is safe to say that most of the world's great stones have not been copied," said one of the leading jewelers of London. "When they are worn only the owners know which is which—and not always then."

The extraordinary improvement made in the last few years in the reproduction of gems has brought about this situation. Today there is no jewel which cannot be copied so faithfully that even experts are deceived.

A London firm now makes facsimiles of the highest honor within the gift of the king—the insignia of the Most Noble Order of the Garter—for $150. The genuine insignia, made of gold set with diamonds and fine emeralds, cost at least $22,500.

A reproduction of one of the world's most famous ropes of pearls recently completed, cost $300. By contrast, the original was insured for $85,000.

Husband Fools Wife
One London hostess who travels extensively and always takes her jewels, was paying premiums amounting to $4,000. She still flashes jewels at Biarritz, Cannes and Monte Carlo.

As far as she knows, they are worth tens of thousands of pounds. But her husband no longer pays that $40,000 insurance a year. He and a certain jeweler alone know they are paste.

MARRYING PARSONS WEDS 400 COUPLES IN A YEAR
Rockford, Ill.—(AP)—The Rev. Hugh M. Banner performed upwards of 400 marriages in 1934.

Not since 1928 had the "marrying parson" pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, enjoyed such a busy twelvemonth. In that year he tied the knot for 358 couples.

In the thirty-five years he has been a clergyman here, Dr. Banner has officiated at more than 6,500 weddings.

Basketball Notes
The two basketball teams of the Greenville High School have been having a jinx the whole year, not faring so well in the win column; but there is some fine material in both the boys' and girls' squad and they resolved to win every game from now until the end of the season.

The boys have won four games and lost eight. The girls have won only one and lost four. In most cases these defeats have been by a bare margin. Tonight the boys journey to New Bern to take on the strong quint which has defeated us once before this season. The girls play Tarboro Tuesday night. Fans are assured of snappy playing no matter when they see either team in action.

Saar Refugees Worry In France

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Paris.—(AP)—Homeless, jobless and penniless, 3,000 Saarlanders refugees all, are camping in a score of French towns, waiting for the League of Nations to settle their fates.

Their womenfolk try to make temporary homes of the single room assigned to each family in some improvised dormitory, children attempt bashfully to play with staring French youngsters, and young men who are in the majority, pass the days idly.

Worry is in the face of each of these fugitives from Adolf Hitler's Nazi Germany, self-exiled to southern France where the countryside, the Latin people and the language are completely foreign to them. They live in anxious uncertainty of the morrow.

Slap Brings Safety In Cell
One refugee has become insane. Others wander through the refugee camps seeking wives, husbands, parents and friends lost in some momentary separation.

A Saarlander chauffeur, who said his former employer had threatened him with internment in a German concentration camp, slapped a French army officer as soon as he crossed the frontier so that he would be imprisoned safely on French territory.

France has told the League that the task of caring for these emigrants is too much for her to handle in the midst of depression. Geneva's clearing house of international problems has been asked to provide permanent solutions.

French officials report that 3,000 Saar refugees filtered into France within two weeks after the plebiscite. By that time the exodus from the territory recovered by Germany had dwindled to an imperceptible trickle, surprising those who had expected as many as 40,000 to cross the frontier.

Strictly Germans Halted
The French consulate at Saarbrücken granted 8,000 visas or safe-conduct permits, immediately after the plebiscite. Many of them may yet be used before the Saar reverts to Germany on March 1.

France, however, has admitted only 10,000 Saarlanders with good records and good excuses for fleeing Nazism. Turned back are suspected criminals, German anti-Nazis, including Jews, who fled into the Saar when Hitler attained power, and former Rhineland separatists who left Germany when their movement failed in 1923.

Preference has been given Saarlanders who had applied for French citizenship or sent their children to French schools in the Saar, thus incurring Nazi wrath.

After having trudged the snow-packed frontier roads to Forbach and Sarreguemines, lugging suitcases or sacks of meager possessions, the accepted refugees are started southward on the hard wooden seats of third-class railroad cars within twenty-four hours, to avoid any congestion of frontier posts.

War days, when frontier towns were evacuated ahead of the advancing German army, are recalled as the fugitives are given hot chocolate soup and sandwiches at Red Cross canteens.

No Tarrying At Border
Most of them would rather live where France is spoken.

But France has a policy of keeping political refugees away from frontiers to avoid espionage, agitation, propaganda and border incidents. Hence all but those who have relatives in France with whom to live are sent to Toulouse or Montauban and from there scattered, in groups of thirty to 300, among near-by towns.

Employment is virtually denied the refugees, for aside from their ignorance of French, they must cope with the regulation that foreigners may hold only those jobs for which no French unemployed are available. With more than 400,000 Frenchmen on the unemployment dole, work is scarce.

"The future of these poor people certainly is not enviable, although we are doing everything possible to soften the hardship of their exile," said a French official.

"Having left everything behind them, they must endure a life similar to that of a soldier in camp."

SHELBY MILL STRIKE CONTINUES PEACEABLY
Shelby, N. C., Feb. 13.—(AP)—The strike at the Dover and Ora Mills continued today with strikers forming picket lines about the plants. There was no disorder.

Part of the forces of both mills went on strike yesterday as the result of what they said was discrimination by the mill management against union employees. Strikers said more than half the 500 employees joined in the strike.

So far as could be learned, there has been no move looking to a settlement of the strike.

Small high schools in Nebraska where husky material is limited, last fall played a game that had six men to a team in football.

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
WILLY NILLY and his animal friends had been so busy that they had hardly had time to think about Valentine's Day, but early in the morning they arose and were very, very busy.

"Can't I have those scissors for a moment?" asked Christopher Columbus Crow.

"No," said Top Notch. "If you have them you'll forget to return them. You'll put them in your nest so you can look at them when the sun shines on them."

"I will not," cawed Christopher. "I'll cut out some valentines for you," whispered Willy Nilly. And not only did he cut out red pieces of paper in the shape of hearts for Christopher, but for all of them.

Then they went into different corners of the room and covering up what they were doing so no one would see, they began marking the valentines and writing messages in their own strange writing.

When it was time for dinner each one had a pile of valentines in front of his place, while Mrs. Quacko Duck had, it seemed, an extra supply.

Willy Nilly had written a lovely little verse for each of his animal friends, in which he said how fond of each one he was.

They had each written a fine valentine for Willy Nilly, too, but they had not been so polite to each other. "I'm not vain," said Top Notch as he opened a valentine which said:

"A rooster we know is very vain. He thinks he's handsome; he's really plain."

Top Notch scowled. "Besides it's not true. I'm really handsome!" "To-be-hee-hee," laughed the Puddle Muddlers.

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
CAN see that I'm handsome," said Top Notch, as he pulled forth his little mirror and looked at himself.

"It shows that valentine is true and the sender knew a thing or two," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow. "Did you send me that valentine?"

Top Notch asked, but Christopher did not answer for he was looking at one of his own which said:

"Some creatures we know can get into trouble. But Christopher knows how to get in double."

"At least it shows I know a good deal," laughed Christopher, who had learned before this that if you didn't show anyone you minded teasing you were left alone.

Mrs. Quacko Duck, who had been so pleased because she thought it showed her popularity when there was a great pile of valentines before her place was becoming more and more ruffled.

"This is an outrage!" she exclaimed. The valentine showed a picture of a duck with a very large mouth and underneath it said:

"Attention, Mrs. Duck. We recommend our latest styles in large mouths. Gives you plenty of room so you can swallow gossip and plenty of space in which to hold gossip until you can find someone with whom to talk."

And now the Puddle Muddlers were walking around looking angrily at each other.

"We'll have jelly now which I have made as a surprise for dessert," said Willy Nilly, and eating dessert made them forget their little huffs.

Jack Ray, negro paroled from Missouri penitentiary after serving 17 years of a life sentence for murder, accumulated $1,445 from shoe tips and operating a pool-room while in prison.

NOTICE OF SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION
North Carolina—Pitt County. In the Superior Court. Town of Greenville vs. Ellis Nassif and wife, Mrs. Ellis Nassif.

The defendants above named will take notice that an action entitled as above has been instituted in the Superior Court of Pitt County for the purpose of foreclosing certificates of tax sales and liens for the years 1930 and 1931 held by the plaintiff against the property of the defendants; and they are required to appear before the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County at his office in Greenville, N. C. and plead to the complaint before the 30th day of January, 1935, or before the relief therein demanded will be granted.

This the 30th day of January, 1935. J. F. HARRINGTON, Clerk Superior Court.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C.—The hectic closing hours of debate in the Senate over whether the United States should enter the World Court were not without domestic political significance.

Politicians in the capital were struck by the manner in which Joe Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, to whom the administration turned to obtain Senate ratification of the court, "opened up" on Huey Long.

It seemed at times that Robinson temporarily shelved the court to strike out at the Louisiana "Kingfish."

Long publicly has threatened to invade Arkansas in 1936 in an attempt to defeat Robinson for reelection to the Senate.

Six times in two days the Democratic leader unleashed his full command of sarcasm against Long. And six times the "Kingfish" ignored the verbal attacks.

Laughter in the Senate
With brevity and directness, Robinson's observation "What does the Senator from Louisiana know about the true spirit of religion?" rang out. The Congressional Record notes there was "laughter" in the Senate. The observation was made just after Long concluded a speech calling on the Senate's religious connections to defeat the court.

At another point Robinson, discussing Father Coughlin, who only a short while before had announced ratification of the World Court protocols, quoted the priest as saying the chief support of the World Court comes from plutocrats and international bankers.

"That," observed the Democratic leader, "is the Senator from

TIME TO MAKE GOOD THOSE CAMPAIGN PLEDGES

There is before the legislature at this time a measure
that would substitute other
sources of revenues in place
of the sales tax and a bill is
to be introduced whereby
the counties that have out-
standing bonds for roads,
that are now a part of the
state highway system, would
receive aid from the state
toward maturing these
bonds.

Both these measures are
of vital importance to our
county and we do not feel
that it is amiss at this time
to bring to the attention of
our legislators their expression of views on the subject
prior to their nomination in
the primary last June.

Here are some of the
questions we addressed to
each legislative candidate:

TAXATION AND REVENUES

(a) Do you favor the flat sales
tax as a permanent part of our
tax system, or do you prefer to derive
the needed revenues from other sources, without increasing the present tax on real estate?

(b) If elected to the legislature,
do you promise to diligently seek
those other sources most able to pay the tax and refuse to vote for
the sales tax until and unless these
sources are properly and adequately
taxed?

(c) Do you favor repeal of the statute that now exempts stocks in
foreign corporations from ad valorem
taxes and would you vote to have these stocks taxed on the basis of their actual value rather than
upon the present basis of a maximum tax of six per cent on the dividends only?

(d) Do you favor a constitutional amendment that would increase the
present maximum of six per cent
tax on incomes?

(e) Do you favor reducing the
gasoline and automobile license
tax; or do you favor retaining this
form of taxation upon its present
basis and return to the counties a
certain portion of the gasoline tax
to be used to retire road and bridge
bonds constructed by the counties
and now a part of the state highway
system; or do you favor retaining
the present tax and diverting any
highway department surplus to be
used for other purposes not connected with the highways?

(f) After exhausting all other
sources, if it is found that some
form of sales tax is necessary will
you favor a luxury or selected commodity tax rather than a flat sales
tax?

Here are the answers to these questions submitted by
the three candidates who represent us in the General Assembly:

Senator A. B. Corey

(a) I favor obtaining the necessary revenues from other sources
than a flat sales tax, without increasing the present tax on real estate.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) I favor a reduction of gaso-
line and automobile license tax,
unless a return is made to counties
carrying their own highway bonds,
of a certain portion of such taxes
to be used in retiring such bonds.

(f) After exhausting all other sources, and it be found necessary
to have some form of sales tax, I
would prefer or favor a selected
commodity or luxury tax.

Representative M. O. Blount

(a) The flat sales tax was enact-

ed by our last session of the General Assembly as a temporary measure for the purpose of obtaining additional revenue to meet the large deficit of our state. I would
not favor, as a permanent part of
our tax system, a flat sales tax, until all efforts have been exhausted
to obtain the necessary revenue
from other sources better able to
pay. Under no circumstances would
I favor increasing the present tax
on real estate.

(b) If elected to the legislature,
it will be my purpose to diligently
seek those other sources most able
to pay the tax and refuse to vote
for the sales tax until those sources
are properly and adequately
taxed.

(c) I favor the repeal of the statute
that now exempts stocks in foreign corporations from ad valorem
tax, and would vote to have these
stocks taxed on the basis of their
actual value, rather than upon the
present basis of a maximum tax of 6 per cent on the dividends only.

Much of our wealth has been invested in foreign stocks in order to escape taxation. This has very largely contributed to the low price of farm lands and real estate. All wealth, in whatever form it may be found, should bear its proportionate part of the tax burden.

(d) I would favor a constitutional amendment that would reasonably
increase the present maximum of 6
per cent tax on income. I believe
that the fairest method of taxation
is one based upon income and ability to pay.

(e) If after examining the financial condition of our state, I find it
possible to reduce the gasoline and
automobile license tax, I would
favor a reduction in these taxes;
however, if it becomes necessary to
retain this form of taxation upon its
present basis, I would favor and
use my best efforts to have a portion of this tax allocated to the
counties to be used to retire road
and bridge bonds, provided these
highway and bridge bonds were
used in the construction of high-
ways which have been incorporated
into the State Highway System. At
the commencement of the road
building program in this state, several counties, including Lenoir, Pitt,
Beaufort and others, had gone forward to a very large extent in the construction of hard-surfaced roads.
Large bond issues were voted, and
we have been under burdensome
property tax in order to pay for
these roads. Many other counties in
the state voted no bonds and obtained their roads without cost. The
state is now receiving the gasoline
and license tax brought about by
the construction of these highways.
Thirty cents out of every tax dollar
on real estate in Pitt County is
used to pay off these road and
bridge bonds. This is grossly unfair
and certainly, in my opinion, the
surplus created yearly in the high-
way department, or a goodly portion
thereof, after setting aside a sufficient amount for maintenance and
payment of bonds issued by the
state, should be returned to these
counties which have spent large
sums in the construction of these
main highways. Of course this
should be done in an equitable
manner upon the basis of population and income from the gasoline
and license tax. I do not favor di-
verting any of this highway department surplus to any other governmental function, other than a return of this surplus to the counties
for the purpose of reducing the ad
valorem tax on land.

(f) After exhausting all other
sources of revenue, if it should be-
come necessary to have some form
of sales tax, I would prefer ex-
empting many of the articles now
classified as necessities of life.

Representative John Hill Paylor

(a) I do not favor the flat sales
tax as a permanent part of our tax
system. I prefer, if possible, to derive the needed revenues from other
sources, without increasing the present tax on real estate.

(b) If elected to the legislature,
I promise to diligently seek and in-
quire into all sources most able to
pay the tax and to give due consideration to these sources in preference to a sales tax.

(c) I favor repeal of the statute
that now exempts stocks in foreign corporations from ad valorem
taxes and am in favor of having these
stocks taxed on the basis of their
actual value rather than upon the
present basis of a maximum tax of
6 per cent on the dividends only.

(d) I favor a constitutional amendment that will increase the
present maximum of six per cent
tax on incomes.

(e) I favor reducing the gaso-
line and automobile license tax.

(f) After exhausting all other
sources if it is found that some
form of sales tax is necessary, I
will favor a commodity tax.

We bring to the attention
of our legislators these campaign pledges they made to
the voters of this county
through this paper on May 23, 1934, and now urge
them to carry out these
pledges with reference to the above mentioned legislation.

That's the record that wouldn't
make Father Coughlin mad.

The Kingfish is bearing down relentlessly on the two big broadcasting companies for time on the air.
Before he spent half an hour on
one chair last Sunday night charging President Roosevelt with failure

produce results and promising $3-000 incomes to those who stuck by
him, Huey already had demanded
half an hour from the other chair
within 10 days.

The broadcasters are trying to discourage Long. They have made a rifle, however, that any member
of Congress who demands time to deliver a message is entitled to it.

MEXICO: American protests
against denial of religious liberty
in Mexico may not cause the U. S.
Government to interpose an objection, but threatened confiscation of American owned property is another matter. The socialist national program in Mexico aims directly at
distributing lands, some of which
are owned by Americans. Pretense
is made that owners will be compensated, but the compensation may
consist of doubtful bonds. The attention of the State Department
has been called to this subject by American oil companies.

Mexico's experiment in the distribution of wealth has some similarity to Huey Long's program, and
may furnish a guide to American
in sizing up the value of the plan

PSYCHIC: J. F. T. O'Connor,
Comptroller of the Currency, must
be reading with much personal satisfaction the administration's proposed bill to make a virtual control
Board.

This bill abolishes the job of Federal Reserve Agent, which pays double the Comptroller's salary. Before
the New Dealers tossed this one in
the hopper they offered O'Connor
the Agent's job at San Francisco.
With psychic foresight he turned it
down.

NEW YORK

PROPAGANDA: Watch for the forthcoming report of the McCornack-Dickstein Committee on Un-American Activities. Insiders say
it will contain several suggestions
for legislation which are likely to
cause a stir.

A law will be recommended which
would require all publicity or propaganda agents—whether native or
alien—who represent a foreign government or political party, or a foreign industrial or commercial organization, to register with the Secretary of State. They would be obliged to file details as to the
identity of their foreign employers,
the nature of services rendered and
the compensation received. Inclusion of foreign business clients is urged because these have frequently been used as a smoke screen to conceal official and semi-official propaganda activities.

A second recommendation would
give the Secretary of Labor power
in his (or her) discretion to cancel
immediately the visa of any alien
visitor who engages in the promul-
gation or dissemination of propa-
ganda or takes part in political activities. No appeal would be allowed.

The idea of the broad discretion
is to enable the prompt ejection of
an unwelcome guest without the
need for lengthy legal process which
give him time and opportunity to
sow his seed.

An additional law to be suggested
would make it a penal offense to
advocate or incite overthrow of the
government by force. At present
this is punishable only if accompanied by a provable overt act. Still another would make it a crime to
solicit American soldiers and sailors
to join the communist party.

IRONY: Ostensibly these laws
would be aimed at Red and Nazi
propaganda. But as drafted they would also include alien proponents of debt cancellation or American participation in the World Court.
Informed comment runs that if
they are enacted we may learn
something about subtler French
and Polish publicity methods as well
as the more obvious breeds.

There's no guarantee that Congress will heed the committee's report. But if it does take hold the potential encroachments on free
speech and a free press will start
a honey of a debate.

That would place William Randolph Hearst and Colonel Robert
McCormick in a rather ironic spot.
The suggestions will appeal to them
as tending to suppress radicalism.
But how to square their pleasure
with their frequently expressed concern about dangers to the constitutional guarantee of a free press?

LABELLED: The committee may
go even further and advise some sort of curb on radio propaganda.
Well-posted New Yorkers say this idea traces to Herbert Moore's Transamerica Radio News—which used the Hayes Agency as a news
source without telling listeners about
it. Hayes is known to be very close to the French government.

It's understood that Hayes was quietly dropped by Transamerica
after heated private protests from
newspaper publishers backing their
own radio news services. But the
purpose is to apply truthful standards of labeling to news dissemi-
nation so that people will at least
know who packages their mental
fare.

ASSIMILATION: Insiders say the
committee's report will call public
attention to the activities of Italian
vice-consul Ungarelli in Detroit and Mexican consul Torrio in San Ber-
nardino, California.

Ungarelli has been trying hard to organize Detroit residents of Italian birth into Fascist groups. Torrio
has utilized Spanish language newspapers, radio and handbills to get Mexicans in his neighborhood to
boycott a local Catholic festival.
This last may have an important
bearing on the Congressional attitude toward religious strife in Mexico. Many legislators who have

Montana Kid

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

SYNOPSIS: The Montana Kid and Mateo Rubra have entered the governor's apartment at Durango, recovered the emerald crown of Our Lady which the governor stole from the church, and Montana has returned his half of the crown to the bishop. But Mateo has been caught, tortured, and is to be sent to the Valley of the Dead. Rosita, who betrayed Montana and Mateo to the governor, just has insulted the governor on the street. Montana is following Rosita.

PASCUAL'S STORY

THE rage of the governor at this public thwarting had come to a white heat. The others of the crowd could see the girl refuse the immense honor he offered, to make her the queen of the festival by placing her at his side in the carriage, the humbling of Ignacio Estrada by making such an offer to a girl in the street—but none of them could
have heard the murmur which she
placed between two lines of her
song.

"Blood-drinker! Man-eating
swine!"

She had said it for his ear only,
and still smiling.

The madness that entered his
brain kept it whirling like black
smoke.

But through the crowd that came
laughing around the girl, congrat-
ulating her, wondering over her, the
taller figure of the Kid stepped with a singular ease. He never seemed to jostle man or woman, but, as though
he knew magic spots where his feet
should rest, he glided through the
press and came to her.

There was something about this
man, dressed like himself, masked like himself, that made
the other youths lose heart, and they gave back a trifle from around him
as though they wanted to hear him
and see him better.

For he had begun to sing in a
good, rich, ringing baritone, that
fantastic old Castilian song,
"Weave Me a Mantle." With the very
first strains, the girl struck up the
accompaniment on her guitar and
gave the song her own voice, so that
they walked on slowly, surrounded
by their own music as by a wall
of quiet, leaning their heads a little
to one another.

So long as the song continued, the
crowd kept its distance, moving
slowly with the slow pace of the
singers, but as the song ended the
tide of the festival rushed over the
place and the level-streaming heads
began to bob irregularly up and
down again.

So, in a moment, the girl and Montana were more alone, more private than that crowd, than they would have been in the most secret of gardens.

She caught at his arm so that she
walked close to his side, but she
said, with her face upturned to him:
"If you knew me—if you knew what
I have done—"

"I saw Estrada pull his hat over
his eyes."

"But before—long before—there
is a thing I have done—"

"Look!" said the Kid.

He held a gold piece in his hand.
"This is the past," said he. "Watch
it!"

And he tossed the coin high over
his head, so that it winked in the light of the lanterns.

SHE, over her shoulder, saw the
gold flicker, arch up, fall, and
the slim hands of a girl flashed up
and caught it.

Rosita laughed. She had no envy
for that lucky finder!

"That's the past—and let it go!"
said Montana.

"Do you know?" she asked.

"Enough to make it worth the for-
getting," said Montana.

"Governors come and governors
go, but Montana rides forever," said the girl.

They began to laugh together until he cried out: "There's Brother
Pascual grinning his big grin over
the heads of the people! What a man that is, Rosita! Let's go to him, because he can tell me about Rubriz!"

She made the Kid pause.

"You don't know about Rubriz?"
she gasped.

She began to read his face from
side to side, up and down, as though
somewhere in it she must find the
knowledge.

"I don't know. What is it?"

"God forgive me!" cried the girl.
"I can't tell you. No one dares to
speak of it, but everyone knows—
"Rubriz?" said Montana. "Has something happened to him? Mateo?"

He looked down at the agony in
the eyes of the girl and then he went

Wingate College girls' team will try to make it two straight over the Ramblers in the college gym tonight. The local girls are ready to put up a real fight. A fast and hard-fought game is in prospect. Several former Greenville High School stars will likely see action during the game. Captain Louise Briley, Anne Askew, Elizabeth Overton, Mae Hearne and Mary Shaw Robeson represent a group of the best players ever graduated from Greenville High.

Others who will likely take part in the contest are Florence Sinclair, of Wilson; Margaret Fulton, of Walnut Cove; Mary Ella Bunn, of Rocky Mount; Helen Wilson, of Lenoir; Ruth Eleanor Parker, of Woodland; and Margaret Martin, of Conway.

The game will be called at eight o'clock.

GREENVILLE WILL PLAY BETHEL IN TITLE GAME

Bethel, N. C., Feb. 15.—Victorious last night in a pair of thrilling contests, Greenville and Bethel teams will meet to night in the finals of an invitational tournament for all-star basketball teams.

Greenville edged a 40-38 victory over Aurora, and Bethel had an even closer shave before taking a 41-40 decision over Williamston in last night's semi-finals. The tournament had opened yesterday with a field of eight teams.

Barrett, with 15 points, and Bostic, with 13 points, led Greenville's scoring in the semi-finals battle. Stubbs, with 14 points, and Hooker, with 10 points, featured for Aurora. Greenville, far behind in early stages of the game, rallied to forge into a 17-13 lead before the close of the first half.

Williamston staged a good rally in the second half of its game with Bethel, but the home team managed to nose a win. Bethel had a 27-16 lead at the half. Gaylord, with 14 points, was high for Williamston. Wallace made 13 points to lead Bethel.

Tonight's title game will start at 8 o'clock. In addition to the awards to finalists, players named to the all-tournament team will receive awards.

factor could be used which would be equitable. "I ask the committee here and now," he declared, "to tell the subcommittee whether it also disapproves of the floor space factor that it will under no condition accept it. If you won't accept it I want to be relieved of any subcommittee dealing with chain store taxes. You can not write an equitable chain store tax section without it." His views were supported by Senator Mason, of Gaston, also a subcommittee member and others.

When the vote was taken Senator Bailey had his way, and more. The subcommittee was told to rewrite the chain store tax section using any factors they thought suitable. Anti-sales tax members and others joined in endorsing Senator Bailey.

Previously the finance committee had rejected, after hearing many protests from department stores, the recommendation of the subcommittee that chain stores with more than 500 square feet of enclosed floor space pay additional taxes on a square footage basis. Chain stores fighting most vigorously against the floor space factor were North Carolina-owned department stores.

The floor space plan was first conceived as a method by which chain filling stations exempt from the existing chain store tax might be "equitably" taxed as other chain stores.

What has become of the resolution authorizing the appointment of a joint senate and house committee on the reorganization of state governmental agencies?

The resolution was introduced in the House several weeks ago by Rep. Laurie McEachern, of Hoke county and immediately passed by the House. But it has never emerged from the Senate committee on rules of which Senator Paul Grady of Johnston county is chairman. When questioned today as to what had become of this resolution, Rep. McEachern said that it was still in the rules committee in the Senate but that Chairman Grady had told him he would hold a hearing on it any time he might desire it. He said he expected to ask for a hearing sometime soon.

When asked if there was any opposition to the resolution from any of the state departments or department heads, McEachern said:

"No one seems to be afraid of the resolution or of any reorganization that might be recommended by this committee. If it is appointed, except the Commissioner of Agriculture, who seems to be opposed to it. However, he should not be worried about this bill, since the Department of Agriculture is a constitutional division of the state government and cannot be abolished or consolidated with any other department."

a better-balanced FERTILIZER

W. CHRIS TAYLOR
of Wilson
North Carolina

Ask your fertilizer man about the small extra cost of 3-8-8

"I DON'T KNOW how many years I have been using extra potash on my tobacco, but it's a long, long time", says Chris Taylor, of Wilson, N. C. "Counting the records my father left me I now have sales tickets for most of the tobacco on my farm since 1896."

"The first thing I remember about tobacco fertilizer was that my father used the old 8-2 1/4-2 mixture and about 1900 he began to experiment with potash, first using muriate and then sulphate of potash. It improved his quality and yields and has done the same thing for me."

"During the last four years I have settled on 8% potash as best for my conditions. Sometimes I use extra sulphate of potash around my tobacco at the first working. My sorriest crop in 1933 brought $219.83 and in 1934 I had one light, poor crop of four acres that brought only $413.19 per acre after deducting charges."

3-8-8

Have you been missing something by not using more potash in your tobacco fertilizer? Many leading tobacco growers have found that extra potash pays extra cash. Potash is the quality-producing element in fertilizer. Tobacco removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined.

Extra potash gives tobacco a better grain and increases yields. It does not make the crop rough and red. On the average the man with the most pounds makes the most dollars per acre. Extra pounds this year will give you the chance to grade your crop closer and sell more pounds of high-quality leaf.

Your fertilizer man knows about the outstanding results obtained from using plenty of potash. That is why he is featuring 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER this season. Tell him that you want to produce "high-dollar" tobacco in 1935. Tell him you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER.

The biggest and best news you will find in the new fertilizer price lists is the very small difference in cost between a low-potash fertilizer and a fertilizer well balanced with plenty of NV POTASH. For example, compare 3-8-3 fertilizer with 3-8-8 fertilizer. The 3-8-8 contains 35% more actual plant food, yet it costs you very little more than the 3-8-3. Figured in terms of an acre the extra cost is so small it will surprise you.

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER has proven its value throughout the entire bright tobacco belt. Many leading farmers in this section use 3-8-8 or increase the potash in their regular fertilizer to 8% or even more by using extra applications of potash.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the North Carolina State College of Agriculture recommend a fertilizer containing 10 to 15% potash for bright tobacco.

Chemical analysis of high-quality tobacco plants proves that a 1,000-pound crop contains more than three times as much potash as 800 pounds of 3% potash fertilizer contains.

Fertilizer containing too much nitrogen produces rough, bony tobacco. Avoid this by selecting a fertilizer mixture in which the nitrogen has been well-balanced with plenty of potash.

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER gives best results with closer rows, closer spacing, ridge cultivation and late topping. Set more plants per acre and top after about half the crop is gathered.

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER holds the tobacco on the hill after it matures, without burning, producing a thin, grainy leaf with "high-dollar" quality.

Remember that 800 pounds of 3-8-3 usually costs less than 1,000 pounds of 3-8-8, yet 800 pounds of 3-8-8 contains more actual plant food and is a much better balanced fertilizer.

Plan now to produce a thin leaf on the bright side. Use the best cultural methods, correct spacing, high topping and the proper amount of 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER. The extra potash in this fertilizer adds the extra quality that brings more on the floor.

E. Y. Floyd To Speak At Meeting Here On Feb. 19

E. Y. Floyd, State tobacco specialist, will speak at a meeting of the Farmers' Co-operative Exchange, which will be held in the courthouse in Greenville Tuesday, February 19 at 1 o'clock. He will discuss the importance of proper tobacco fertilizers for making both quantity and quality tobacco. Mr. Floyd is recognized as a leading tobacco expert in the bright leaf tobacco belt. He has gained his knowledge of tobacco from both scientific and practical experience.

For the past year or more Mr. Floyd has not had the opportunity of getting out in the State very often because he has held a very important position with the control of tobacco acreage reduction work in this State. He will probably have something to say about the acreage reduction for 1935.

The farmers of the county are invited to take advantage of the opportunity of having Mr. Floyd discuss the latest scientific facts found in the use of tobacco fertilizers.

M. G. Mann, general manager of the Farmers' Co-operative Exchange will accompany Mr. Floyd at this meeting and will discuss the Farmers' Exchange as it pertains to organized agriculture in North Carolina.

This is one of a series of meetings that the local FCE Service will have in order to bring information of this kind direct to the farmer.

New York Cotton

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady today with two points advance in response to higher Liverpool cables and on trade buying.

The market was a bit quieter after the call. Prices held fairly steady with May ruling around 12.45 at the end of the first half hour or about 3 to 6 points net higher.

At mid-day May was ruling around 12.45 and October 12.36, making net advances of one to five points on the general list.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The fog appeared to be lifting in the financial market today but visibility was still far from satisfactory to speculative growers.

A steady to firm tone in stocks was encouraging to protectionists of the advance.

Although there was little news of an especially stimulating nature a more cheerful atmosphere seemed to pervade the board rooms. Moderate advances predominated in the bond division where equities declined as a rule but most commodities as a rule including grains and cotton exhibited an upward slant.

Only slight variations were evidenced by leading foreign exchanges. The closing tone aside from utilities issues was firm. Transfers were 720,000 shares.

A House committee approved a bill to increase 20 per cent as of January 1, the salaries of state employees getting less than $720 annually, with employees getting from $720 to $1,500 yearly to 10 per cent.

The House was given a proposal for a constitutional amendment to raise the limit on taxation of incomes from six to ten per cent, to a low classification of private property for taxation, and to exempt homestead tax up to $1,000.

Nine Britishers Perish In Crash
Mesima, Sicily, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Nine British officers and men were reported killed today in the crash of the seaplane Singapore enroute from Naples to Malta.

The plane burned immediately after the crash. The plane was one of the four tri-motored class flying from London to Singapore.

The squadron reaches Naples two weeks ago and was forced to land because of engine trouble in two of the planes.

The squadron waited at Naples for arrival of replacement parts.

Late today one of them crashed to earth. Reports from Naples said the plane started with engine persons on board, all British aviation officers and men.

SCHOOL BUS WRECK VICTIMS IMPROVING
Burlington, N. C., Feb. 15.—Harrell Whitesell, eight-year-old school boy who was injured yesterday when a county school bus was wrecked on Highway No. 10 three miles west of here, was reported improving at the Rainey Hospital today.

Whitesell was thought to be the most seriously injured of the nine children hurt in the wreck, with possible internal injuries. Hospital physicians, however, reported today that further examination disclosed that he suffered from two broken ribs in addition to minor cuts and abrasions. His condition today was not critical as was at first thought.

Each of the remaining eight were reported to be receiving from minor hurts today.

MAKE A LIST OF ALL THE ENGLISH WORDS YOU CAN SPELL WITH THE LETTERS IN THIS NAME:
SMITH-DOUGLASS

Read the simple rules at the right. Then pick up your pen and go! It's easy—it's fun to play this game, and the winner gets $250 cash! The 372 runners-up will get $1750 in prizes.

In one evening's play, you yourself may find enough words in the name Smith-Douglass to capture a big share of this $2000. Enough money to buy a good used car, to go away to school for a term, or pay all expenses for the trip of a lifetime.

Everyone stands a full chance to win! And 373 boys and girls like you will win enough money to make some dream come true before this contest closes.

This contest is offered to you by Smith-Douglass who, as your parents know, make fertilizers that produce big yields.

It is Smith-Douglass' way of saying "thanks" to the farmers of Virginia and North Carolina for the loyal support they have given to the S-D line. Now if you get busy and play this word-game, Smith-Douglass may give you a good yield of cash all your own! Remember the contest closes March 20th!

READ THESE SIMPLE RULES:
List all the words of three letters or more, that you can make from the letters contained in the name SMITH-DOUGLASS.

You may use the same letter more than once only if that letter occurs more than once in the name SMITH-DOUGLASS. For example, three s's but only one t, one d, etc. Foreign words may not be used. Proper names may not be used. Hyphenated words count as one word.

Use only the singular, or the plural, of any word; do not use both. For example, put dog or dogs on your list, but not both.

You may use more than one tense of a verb. For example sit and set count as two words.

The contest is open to boys and girls, age eighteen and under, living in a family whose chief livelihood is farming and who are residents of Virginia or North Carolina.

Children of employees of the Smith-Douglass Company are not eligible to enter the contest.

Write your list in ink, in alphabetical order, on one side of the list bearing postmark showing earliest mailing date will be selected.

In the upper left-hand corner of page one of your list put: Your name—Your address—Total number of words on your list—Your age on your last birthday—Name of parent, or one person in your family, whose occupation is farming, and number of acres under cultivation—List in the order of their interest the daily and weekly newspapers and farm magazines that your parents read most.

The judges of this contest will be the Executives of the Smith-Douglass Company. Their decisions will be final, and no entries will be returned.

Address the envelope containing your entry to: Contest Dept.—Smith-Douglass Company, Inc., Norfolk, Virginia. Contest closes at midnight, March 20, 1935. Entries must be postmarked on or before this date and hour.
