GOVERNMENT OF HUNGARY STEPS DOWN

Another Government Formed Under Direction of Premier Julius Goemboes

Budapest, Hungary, March 4.—(AP)—The government of Hungary, headed by Premier Julius Goemboes, resigned today and was immediately succeeded by another government headed by Goemboes.

The premier made a few changes in his cabinet and it was apparent that Admiral Nicholas Horthy, the regent of Hungary, has succeeded in forming a new cabinet for Goemboes.

Admiral Horthy did not even bother to confer with party leaders following the government resignation, but was immediately commissioned by Goemboes to form a new cabinet.

The semi-official version of the cabinet shuffle is that it is necessary to stabilize the Hungarian political situation and particularly to show that the government had Horthy's confidence.

TEN CHINESE DEATHS PAY FOR BUSH OF RICE

Huangkang, Hupeh, China.—(AP)—A loan of a bushel of rice to a family of famine-sufferers led to the death of ten persons here.

The rice was loaned to a school teacher by the wife of a neighbor. When the husband of the woman returned home and found what she had done he criticized her severely. She took his words so deeply to heart that she hanged herself.

On finding the body of his wife, the man was seized with remorse. He also took his own life by hanging.

The news of the double tragedy reached the ears of the school teacher who immediately guessed its cause. To atone for his part in the tragedy, he swallowed poison and died.

The widow of the scholar, unable to face the future with her six children, mixed poison with the family rice. The entire family of seven was wiped out.

Old Shell Perils Czech Trains.

Praha, Czechoslovakia.—(AP)—A repair gang on the Praha-Liberec railway discovered, buried in clay beneath the track, a live shell shot in the Austro-Prussian war of 1866. Thousands of trains had passed safely over the "dud" in the course of 69 years.

Berlin Cuts Wilhelm Platzes.

Berlin.—(AP)—Seven of the eight Wilhelm plazas in Berlin are to be given other names. One has been named Richard Wagner Platz. The only Wilhelm Platz to retain its old designation will be the one where the reich propaganda ministry is located, close to the Wilhelmstrasse.

OFFICERS RAID 'POKER' HOUSE

Six Gamblers Arrested in Raid in Bethel Community Yesterday; Seek Operator

Another gambling "joint" along with six gamblers were captured by county officers in a raid in the Bethel community yesterday, according to information given out by the sheriff's office this morning.

A warrant was issued today for the arrest of Charlie Lewis, alleged operator of a filling station on the highway between Bethel and Conee Creek, who was not present when officers raided his place and found a spirited game of poker in progress.

The gamblers were: M. C. Whitfield, S. W. Briley, Ezel Briley, W. C. Whitehurst, R. C. Keel and W. C. Carson.

Officers expressed belief that although the place was apparently being operated as a filling station, it was used mainly as a gambling house.

This was the third gambling house falling before raids of county officers the last month or so. The first of the raids was in Greenville in which both county and city officers participated, and the second was in Ayden. Operators and gamblers were arrested in both cases and either required to pay fines or found their way to the roads.

Considerable public sentiment has developed against operation of places of gambling throughout the county, and the concerted drive started against that form of vice is expected to bear much fruit against the good start made in the three communities so far affected.

N. C. Labor Federation Seeks Much Legislation

Raleigh, March 4.—(AP)—A large number of bills introduced have the backing of the State Federation of Labor, which still others are to be introduced soon with the backing of the Federation, it was learned here today.

The Federation has been known for some time to be urging the removal of the sales tax, in order to reduce the taxes paid by its members and to be advocating an appropriation of $22,000,000 a year for schools.

According to the bulletin sent out under date of Feb. 28 by the legislative committee of the Federation to its members, they are asked to see their members of the legislature who are home for the week-end, or to write to them urging the enactment of the following bill:

The anti-injunction bill, now in the House.

The bill to set up a state insurance fund for workmen's compensation insurance.

The bill to bring numerous occupational diseases under the workmen's compensation law and make them compensable.

The bill to appropriate $75,000 a year for state-federal employment service.

The steam boiler inspection bill, to require regular inspection of boilers.

The Hill liquor control bill to set up state liquor stores.

The rental textbook bill, to decrease the cost of textbooks, now in the House committee on education.

In addition to these bills already introduced, the bulletin says that the Federation leaders expect to have introduced soon a pick clock bill affecting textile workers, a bill to license journeymen plumbers, a bill to change the barbers' board, and several others.

The bulletin also asks Federation members to write to Senator Robert R. Reynolds to thank him for his vote for the McCarran prevailing wage amendment to the President's public works bill and also to Senator J. W. Bailey expressing their disappointment at his failure to vote for the same amendment and requesting him to change his position on this amendment. The McCarran amendment would require all those engaged on public works projects to be paid the "prevailing wage" which in most cases is the union wage.

ETHIOPIA AND ITALY REACH AN AGREEMENT

British Quarters Say Italy Has Agreed on Proposed Neutral Zone Issue

London, March 4.—(AP)—Authoritative British quarters stated today that Italy had reached an agreement with Ethiopia on the proposed neutral zone between the African empire and the Italian colonies of Somaliland and Eritrea.

These quarters understood that the Italian envoys to Addis Ababa had been instructed to consult the government immediately regarding limits of the zone.

An official source said that although Italy's action meant only an acceptance in principle of the neutral zone idea, it was believed that it would lead to settlement of the dispute between the two nations thereby averting hostilities.

Stancill Stocks Dies From Auto Wreck Injuries

Stancill Stocks, 28, son of N. S. Stocks, who was injured in an automobile accident on the Greenville-Ayden road several days ago, died at the local hospital today at 1:15 p. m. Funeral services will be conducted from the home of his father tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. Mr. Moyer of Snow Hill. Burial will be made in the family burying ground on the Heber Forbes farm on the Winterville road.

John Allen Jones Dies Here Today; Funeral Tuesday

John Allen Jones, 65, died at noon today at his home on Evans street. Funeral services will be conducted from the William Funeral Home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made in the McGowan family burial ground on the Cox Mill road.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington By GEORGE DIERNO

GALE: "A1 is excitement" can send nothing. So a cub reporter assigned to cover a big disaster wired his office, the old New York World.

In many respects this brief dispatch covers the current situation in Washington with the cub a memory and President Roosevelt very busy crossing a one-way street looking both ways.

White House secretaries continue to report valiantly that the country is pouring in stand-by-the-President messages. Up on Capitol Hill the Democratic Senators who have stymied the Roosevelt program temporarily insist that the overwhelming bulk of the mail they are getting urges them to "go to it."

As the old seafaring man said:

MASKED MEN WHIP STRIKE LEADER IN GA.

J. W. Stroup Reported Under Care of Physician After Being Taken for Ride

Manchester, Ga., March 4.—(AP)—A textile strike leader was found beaten on a roadside near here today and told police he had been kidnapped from his home and taken to a "four or five" masked men. Police Chief T. C. Moore said the man was J. W. Stroup, chairman of a union committee directing a strike in a local plant of the Calloway group of mills where a strike is in progress.

Chief Moore said Stroup, 35, and hands bore no marks of violence, but that he was under care of a physician.

"Stroup told me a group of four or five masked men took him from his home about 3 o'clock this morning, carried him in a car across Pine Mountain, in Taber County, and struck him," Moore said.

Moore alleged that the strike situation here was otherwise peaceful and that he planned to question Stroup during the day.

Chinese Soldiers Must Dig.

Amoy, China.—(AP)—Chinese government troops stationed in Fukien province have been ordered by General Chiang Kai-Shek to spend their time in building roads in this comparatively undeveloped area. The orders specify 16 miles of road a month for each division of troops.

APPEALS FOR LENT SEASON

Rev. A. W. Fleischmann Asks Support Of Lenten Services To be Held Here

The pastors of the city churches are endeavoring to lead our Christian forces in a fine fellowship of Christian love in the series of services announced for the next six Sunday evenings. The auditorium of the Pitt Theatre building has been secured for these services.

My appeal is as follows:

"Will every earnest Christian, who loves the Lord and loves men, pray for God's blessing upon these services? First, that God's people may be revived, that cold indifference may be warmed into a flaming, passionate love for Christ and His cause; Second, that all others be led by God's Spirit through the personal testimony of Christians to accept Christ as their personal Saviour and Lord.

"Will every earnest member of our churches accept these services as a personal challenge to demonstrate to all men that they love Christ, that they are not ashamed of His Gospel, and loyally support them by their presence? Your stewardship responsibility of your 'influence' demands this loyalty. Your faithfulness will greatly encourage your pastor. Will every earnest, praying Christian seek to bring at least one unchurched or unsaved person under the influence of the Gospel message during these six weeks? Do so in your morning hour of worship, and also at these special services. God will bless your effort according to promise! Let us unitedly present God's message of infinite grace through the combined use of the personal witness of individual Christians and the public declaration of His saving truth by God's men."

This appeal is made under the impression of God's Spirit to all fellow Christians of our city.

A. W. FLEISCHMANN, Pastor, Memorial Baptist Church.

Beaufort Editor Laid To Rest Today

Beaufort, N. C., March 4.—(AP)—Funeral services were held today for William Giles Mebane, publisher of the Beaufort News, who died early yesterday at a Morehead City hospital after a long illness. He was 62 years ago and a native of Fayette County, Tennessee. He was a candidate for Congress in 1932 on the Republican ticket. Burial services will be in Raleigh.

Hen Probably Cackled.

Chimney, Pa.—(AP)—An egg laid by a hen on the farm of Harry Bowen near here, weighed a quarter of a pound and measured eight inches in circumference.

Accuses Cobb's Son

The mother of Julia Conner, 19, (above) has brought charges of assault and battery against Herschel Cobb, 19, son of Ty Cobb, the "Georgia Peach" of baseball. She alleged young Cobb attacked the girl when she resisted his advances. He denied the charge and was freed on $250 bond. (Associated Press Photo).

PATMAN SAYS BONUS BILL WILL 'PASS'

Believes Sufficient Votes Will be Obtained to Override Presidential Veto

Washington, D. C., March 4.—(AP)—A prediction by Representative Patman, Democrat of Texas, that two-thirds of the House and Senate would vote for a bonus payment bill—enough to override a Presidential veto—was made today as the opening of the committee hearing on two billion dollar bonus issue.

Patman, the first witness before the House Ways and Means Committee, appeared after Chairman Doughton of North Carolina, said sessions would be held at night if necessary to complete consideration of the bill tomorrow.

"I feel sure," Patman said, "that two-thirds of the members of the House and Senate will vote for this legislation."

Striking at criticism that his measure which proposes the issuance of new currency is inflationary, Patman said:

"This isn't an inflationary bill. There is no danger of inflation."

NEGRO NABBED FOR SHOOTING

Lee Duncan, Who Shot Man Here Last January 6, Arrested Latter Part of Week

Lee Duncan, colored, who escaped last January 6 after shooting another negro named Miles Swinson with a shotgun, was captured by city officers the latter part of last week. It was made known today by George Clark, chief of police.

Duncan escaped after firing a charge into Swinson's face and body and apparently had made good his escape until officers nabbed him here last week.

Duncan was given preliminary hearing here today and bound over to the next sitting of County Court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Although painfully wounded, Swinson's injuries were said by officers not to have been serious.

The shooting was reported to have resulted from an argument between the two men over a woman.

Holmes Reported Near Death Today

Washington, D. C., March 4.—(AP)—His mind alert and his 93-year-old body weakened by the throes of pneumonia, Oliver Wendell Holmes lay secluded from all callers today in his red brick home.

The last word from the sick room was that the former Justice of the Supreme Court was in a disturbing condition with no signs of improvement. A close friend said regarding him:

"It is just a matter of waiting."

Husky Rattler Slayed

Crestview, Fla.—(AP)—A rattlesnake measuring 7 feet, 10 inches, with 17 rattles, was killed near here recently by W. J. Edge.

GREEK TROOPS MOVE AGAINST REBEL FORCES

Warships, Artillery And Airplanes Rushed For Action in Aegean Sea

Athens, Greece, March 4.—(AP)—Harrassed to two fronts like a nation at war, the Greek government today dispatched artillery, warships and airplanes into Macedonia, Crete, and the Aegean Sea against rebels who had thus swept all before them.

Twenty-two bombing planes manned by loyal fliers took off from Athens to bomb warships that took the sea under the command of rebel forces. Loyal government troops in Eastern Macedonia marched on Drama, the village on ancient Saloniki near the Plain of Philippi.

It was one of the oldest battlefields in the world. It was there that Brutus and Cassius were defeated in 42 B. C.

Across the Yugo-Slav border heavy firing was reported, heard, the Yugo-Slav saying that both the Greek government forces and rebels were using artillery and that the engagement had taken on the characteristics of a major battle.

Government pilots reported that they had wrecked the home of the leader of the rebellion, former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos. They flew over his estate at Canea, Crete, and dropped bombs.

Another alleged rebel leader, General Nicholas Plastiras, who ran a Greek revolution in 1922, was reported as missing from his hotel in Cannes and it was rumored he might have sailed for Greece.

General George Kondylis, Minister of War, took special command of the government campaign in an effort to force an end to hostilities which broke out Saturday.

The military restrictions at Athens were tightened and all residents were forced to stay silent. Automobiles were ordered not to circulate.

The government ordered that it would open court-martial trials tomorrow and that rebels would be tried solely by army officers.

The Bourse was closed and business came to a standstill.

THREE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Wilson Men Injured When Blowout Causes Car to Overturn Near Chocowinity

A blowout caused a Wilson automobile to overturn on the Chocowinity-Aurora highway about four miles from Chocowinity, yesterday afternoon, injuring the three occupants, two probably seriously.

Bud Jones and Walter Finch were rushed to a Washington hospital suffering from cuts on the head and face which investigating officers described as serious, although not believed of a fatal nature. L. W. Rogers, the third occupant, escaped with minor injuries.

The men were enroute to Wilson from a fishing trip in the Aurora vicinity when the tire collapsed, causing the driver, Bud Jones, to lose control. The machine was traveling straight in the center of a straight stretch of road when the accident occurred.

Picked up by passing motorists, the occupants were rushed to Washington where they were given medical attention. Rogers, it was understood, was able to get home during the evening. The car, investigating officers said, belonged to Rogers' wife.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

The House of Representatives resumes its sessions here at noon today. It is the first time this session that the body has met during the day on Monday; both the Senate and House have been starting the week within 8 p. m. meetings. The cluttered calendar of the House is responsible for the decision to start at noon. This means that many representatives, if they want to be present, will have to cut short their week-ends.

The Senate, with only three bills on its calendar, will meet again tonight at 8 o'clock.

No bills of State-wide importance face either legislative body as yet. (Continued on Page Four)

Carolina Chain Gang Fugitive Captured

Alvin Eiler (above), 25-year-old North Carolina convict who fled from a chain gang rather than testify against a pal, was captured in Spokane, Wash., where he was working as a janitor. BLIND TIGER NABBED HERE

Negro Operator and Five Gallons of Contraband Whiskey Captured Yesterday

Another "blind tiger" that proved literally blind fell into the toils of the law yesterday when police raided a place in Allen's Alley operated by Harvey Reed, colored, and obtained a keg allegedly containing five gallons of contraband whiskey.

Allen was taken into custody and held for preliminary hearing in police court this morning. He was bound over to the next session of County Court.

Police said Reed attempted to cover up his activities with the claim of operating a restaurant, but that very few things indicating extensive eating operations were found during the raid.

Number of similar raids have been made here in recent months, and a score of more of what police described as old offenders either were released on payment of fines or found their way to the roads. As a general thing, however, they were sent to the roads to consider the advisability of taking part in the liquor traffic.

Along with the legalization of whiskey in neighboring States, North Carolina illicit dealers are bolder than ever before. It is said that liquor in numbers of cases is sold over the county by the drink with cuposts on the outside watching for the "law." Despite such precautions officers have broken up a number of places in recent months, but almost as fast as one disappears another takes its place. It is a business that thrives in spite of "bone-dry" legislation, and probably will continue to thrive as long as there are enough consumers to make it profitable.

ONE KILLED BY TORNADO

Several Others Injured as Wind Roars Through Forney District of Texas

Forney, Texas, March 4.—(AP)—A tornado ripped through this farming community just before dawn today and roared away to the north leaving one reported dead, several injured and property damage that amounted into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Communications were disrupted in the rural section through which the storm lashed its way, but from the damage incurred it was considered probable that heavy loss had been inflicted elsewhere along the coast.

A negro farmer was killed. In Forney only one was injured. Mrs. B. G. Edwards was hurt badly.

Seven large buildings were wrecked in Forney and about one hundred warehouses containing 1,000 bales of cotton were ripped to pieces. The depot was unroofed.

Forney has a population of about 1,000 and is a farming center about

RATE OF TAX ON TOBACCO IS INCREASED

Proclamation Extending Kerr-Smith Act Becomes Effective May 1

Acting on referenda which resulted in an overwhelming affirmative vote for continuance of the Kerr-Smith Tobacco Act, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has signed a proclamation making the act applicable for the 1935-1936 crop year to practically all important types of domestic tobacco it was said today by E. F. Arnold, head of the local Farm Office. The rate of the tax on the sale of tobacco produced in 1935 to which the act is made applicable will be 33 1-3 per cent of the price for which such tobacco is sold, instead of the 25 per cent in effect for the 1934-1935 dahrdlaahrdril aradl 1934-1935.

The proclamation extending the act is effective at the beginning of the crop year, May 1, 1935, but as markets for some types of tobacco grown in 1934 will not close until after that date, the Secretary signed a second proclamation leaving the tax rate as 25 per cent for the period commencing May 1, 1935, and ending June 30, 1935. In this two months' period it will not be possible for any tobacco grown in 1935 to be marketed.

The Kerr-Smith Act levies on the sale of tobacco with respect to which the tax is applicable a tax at the rate of 33 1-3 per cent of the price for which such tobacco is sold; provided, however, that if the Secretary of Agriculture determines and proclaims that the declared policy of the act is best effectuated thereby, the rate of tax shall, for such period as the Secretary designates, be at such lower rate (not less than 25 per cent of the price for which such tobacco is sold) as he may prescribe.

The tax was fixed at the lower rate last year because the 1934-1935 crop of tobacco was all planted when the act was approved and it was determined that a rate of 25 per cent would better effectuate the declared policy of the act. As the Secretary did not prescribe in today's proclamation a rate of tax lower than that fixed by the act, the rate of 33 1-3 per cent is effective for the 1935-1936 crop year.

The 1934 programs under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, supplemented by the Kerr-Smith Act, made possible the liquidation of all surplus of some types and a considerable part of the surplus of other types. In formulating the 1935 adjustment programs, this improvement in the supply situation was taken into consideration and allotments to contracting growers of all

JAIL NEGRESS FOR ASSAULT

Rena Little Bound Over to County Court For Cutting Mary Parker, Colored

Rena Little, colored, who did a little carving on Mary Parker, also colored, when they engaged in an argument over the ever present trouble of "man," was given preliminary hearing before Mayor R. C. Flanagan this morning and bound over to the next term of County Court. She was unable to post bond and was remanded to jail to await trial.

The women, police reported, engaged in the argument while partaking of a sociable drink at Lena's home last Saturday night. One word brought on another and at the height of the verbal battle, Lena found the other woman getting the best of her in the matter of words, pulled a pocket knife and did a piece of carving that would have done credit to a veteran of the carving business. Although painfully injured, police said Mary Parker was not seriously hurt.

Jarvis Parker, colored, who "switched" a couple of pairs of overalls from Winslow's store Saturday and escaped, only to be captured several hours later, was bound over to County Court on a charge of larceny. He was unable to give bond and was remanded to jail to await trial.

The two cases were the highlight of the regular sitting of police court, the first session since last Monday. Sessions scheduled for last Wednesday and Saturday were abandoned because of the paucity of cases. Two other actions involving a bootlegger and assault case were also given hearing this morning with both defendants being bound over to County court.

Chapter One

"LITTLE JAMES"

THERE were three James Brewster Stimsons. The third James had a great deal to live up to. Not only was he the grandson of New Concord's only ex-governor and most eminent citizen but, as Judge Holcomb so frequently pointed out, the son of the one entirely satisfactory husband Kansas had ever produced. The Judge usually added, "or any other state."

Everyone in New Concord suspected, and all the women knew positively, that this paragon, Dr. Jim Stimson, the second James, had refused to be vaccinated during the smallpox epidemic in 1883 because he could not bear to go on living after the death of his wife, Molly. Molly died in giving birth to the third James.

Dr. Jim at the time was not yet thirty, handsome, talented, an only son and heir to a fortune. Apparently nothing counted but Molly. He died murmuring her name and was canonized overnight. His little son was then six months old.

The women were entirely responsible for Dr. Jim's posthumous sainthood. The men had liked Jim well enough living. They grew fearfully tired of him dead. Judge Holcomb, a bachelor, claimed that whenever a New Concord husband caught his wife looking at him with a peculiar gleam in her eye he knew that he was being compared to Dr. Jim and that the comparison was hideously unsatisfactory.

The women sniffed at these jokes of the Judge. Like a certain royal contemporary they were not amused and made no bones about showing it. They actually seemed to feel a vicarious pride in Dr. Jim's almost deliberate death and never seemed to tire of discussing it.

Beyond irritating their husbands this would have been harmless enough, if the interest in the father had not inspired them to an interest in his son. It was the third James Stimson's great misfortune that the women of New Concord, particularly the intimates of his Aunt Sarah, maintained for more than twenty years an actively and possessively maternal concern in his development, his career, and most of all, in his marriage.

Probably no little orphan was ever more tenderly loved and cherished. The night of his father's funeral Sarah, his grandmother, said to her husband, "The tenderness of God has left us little James."

The Governor made no answer. In his heart was the bitter cry that a god capable of tenderness would have taken him and spared his son. Later, when Time had softened that bitterness, he remembered and was comforted.

"The tenderness of God," he would whisper, watching the child asleep in his cradle or playing by his side. Sometimes as the boy grew older he seemed both son and grandson. He was called James to distinguish him from his father. But more often than not the Governor thought of him as Jim.

THE Governor was a born romantic. James was to carry on the name, continue the family tradition of service and leadership, live in the house his grandfather had built with such loving pride and care, of these documents to Huey.

the whole world—and as far as her husband was concerned Mrs. Stimson was not far wrong.

ALL the countryside knew and was interested in the two Jameses and their rides often partook of something of the nature of a triumphal progress. The Governor, as owner of several fine farms, was keenly interested in the crops and the weather and all that pertains thereto so that he and his farmer friends had a great deal to discuss.

It was small wonder then that little James preferred the River Road where it was lonelier and there were fewer long talks about manure, the condition of the wheat and other uninteresting things not designed for the entertainment of small boys. James was a born chatterbox, but his grandfather was very strict about not letting him interrupt when his elders were talking.

James liked it better when his grandfather took him fishing. Dressed in their oldest clothes they would scramble down the river bank just below the Mansion and fish in a slough a mile or two further on near the Leavenworth Road. It would be impossible to explain just why James always caught a little fish and his grandfather a big one, but this seemed natural and fitting to both.

The Governor had become more and more silent as he grew older, but on these fishing trips he often talked to his grandson for hours at a time. "Did it hurt an awful lot when they cut your arm off?" James would ask anxiously as if for the first time. The Governor would reply that it had hurt pretty badly, though he spared the child the hideous details of an amputation without anesthetics.

Perhaps the story James liked best was the one about the swarms of grasshoppers which in 1868 settled over Kansas like a plague of Egypt and literally ate up every spear of grass and blade of leaf of green.

The account of the grasshoppers appearing as his grandfather said, "Like a cloud between us and the sun," covering the streets and sidewalks of New Concord to the depth of a foot and being shoveled by the citizens into enormous horse-drawn dumps and dumped into the river by the ton, was to James a tale so delightfully awful that he fairly shivered with joy every time he heard it. He could not look with equanimity upon even a tone grasshopper until he was quite a big boy.

Almost, but not quite as thrilling, were the stories of the dark days after the Civil War when settlers came flocking in expecting to find a new Utopia only to face years of heart-breaking drought. But as these tales made James and the Governor cheer him up by telling of the discovery of alfalfa and dry farming in the Western portions of the state, emphasizing the stupendous strides forward Kansas had made in consequence.

So like a bard of old the first James Brewster Stimson sang his sagas of long ago to an enthralled and enraptured audience of one. And deep in the heart of his small grandson was planted a love for his state, a reverent admiration for his grandfather and an unconscious desire to make both proud of him. This was to influence his entire life. (Copyright 1935 Mateel H. Farnham)

Montana Rides Again
 A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS.

LOVE SONG

ROSITA reached out her right hand, shouting. Every sound of her voice struck through the heart of the Kid like a mighty chord sung by a thousand sweet voices.

"The black horse for you, Pascual!" he called over his shoulder. "Steady all, I throw on the brake!"

It scratched, the wooden blocks grinding on the iron tires as the Kid checked the rush of the horses with all his might. And then down into the tangle. He caught the knife from the hand of the girl and slashed.

The leather traces were short, the long reins gashed in two, and in a moment Mateo Rubiz, on the bare back of the white wheeler, was galloping straight ahead down the road.

For he knew that the girl's mustang, the red mare, and the black horse were all fresh, but the white was tired, very tired, already and with no feather's weight on its back.

They raced their horses for distance. And then they were running for time, with a sun that sloped with a maddening slowness towards the western horizon. For the pursuit could not gain and the weary white horse held back the four fugitives.

More than once, bullets sang in the air, but the distance was entirely too great; only a random shot could strike them.

At last the Kid brought Sally close beside the white. He took the hand of Rubiz and lifted twenty pounds, thirty pounds, forty pounds of the bulk of the big rider, transferring it thus to the strong back and the tireless, iron legs of red Sally.

There was no faltering in her, and it was her strength that carried them into the red of the sunset, and suddenly into the quick twilight that securely covered them from further pursuit at that moment.

All pursuit was not ended, of course, unless those savage riders from the Valley of the Dead gave a little more thought to their memory of Juan-Silva, smiling open-eyed at the sun. But the truth was that they had neither sight nor sound of an enemy all the way to Duraya.

But the taste of life was so exceedingly sweet to them all, after the Valley of the Dead, that the precious trinket inside the bit of chamois was never unwrapped once during the entire journey.

Perhaps there never was a happier journey, in spite of the sand-filled winds that whipped and choked them, and the foul water, and the starvation rations most of the way, and the reason for that happiness was that here were four who had been through fire together, so that they knew the temper of one another. And what is happiness in this world?

They had come into the green of living mountains—living with grass and with trees and with water after the naked desert they had crossed.

The Kid himself as the evening closed in, had brought down with two shots from one of Estrada's revolvers a deer that leaped out before them from a thicket.

ROSITA stood leaning against a tree, just then, tapping with her slender fingers against the rough of the bark.

"Tell me, Mateo," she said, "if you have forgiven this gringo? Have you forgiven him, and forgotten?"

"If?" exclaimed Rubiz—but even he guarded his voice so that it might not enter the sleep and disturb the dreams of Pascual. "If I forgive him, may San Juan of Capistrano never forgive me or be aiding me again! What? A man-stealer who caught away from me? Forgive him? I'll see him damned before I forgive him."

He half raised himself and glared at Montana, who lay flat on his back now, with his hands cupped at the back of his head.

"Ay, Mateo," said the Kid, dreamily. "I've always known it. Some day I'll have my thumbs in the soft of your throat and break your wind-pipe between them."

Rubiz made a sound as though he were drawing water, not air, through his set teeth.

"But when you are dead," said Rubiz, "San Juan strike me if I shall not be a little sad."

"Well," said Montana, in his gentle voice, "when I've buried you, I'll get a thick-headed bulldog and call him Rubiz, and that will take your place well enough."

"Ah-h-h!" murmured Rubiz, coming softly, catlike, to his knees and one hand.

"Be still, Mateo!" commanded the girl.

"You would help him, eh?" demanded Rubiz. "And yet God knows how many of your countrymen he has butchered like sheep."

She went to Montana and leaned over him.

"What am I to you, devil of a gringo?" she asked.

"Sit down here and I'll tell you," said Montana.

She sat down at once, and he moved until his head rested in her lap.

VOLTAGE: Big business circles weren't nearly as cheered by Judge Nields' decision favoring Weirton Steel in the collective bargaining case as utility men by Judge Grubb's ruling. Both have the appearance of outstanding conservative triumphs—but there's a vital distinction.

Anti-utility leadership comes from the White House. In its present frame of mind Congress is unlikely to break its neck to counteract the setback to New Deal legislation. The blow to labor is a different case of sardines. The current breach between FDR and the Federation of Labor brings the Senate to life as organized labor's chief defender. New York insiders expect to see it smartly in that role—if only to show the White House where it gets off.

All of which puts fresh voltage behind industry's worst nightmare—the Wagner labor bill. It may turn out that Judge Nields' endorsement of company unions will be the costliest victory conservatives have won.

Things are beginning to break their way on several fronts.

Their most trusted scouts report that the holding company bill—while it may rip through the House—will either be entombed or emasculated out of all recognition by the Senate. The word is that several key left wing Senators—who might normally be expected to rejoice in passing a death sentence on the power chains—have privately expressed the opinion that the bill is much too drastic. The Senate-White House wrangle frames the picture to the utilities' advantage. Implied administration sponsorship is no asset to the Wheeler-Rayburn measure at this stage.

Also the disclosure that brain trusters Ben Cohen and Thomas Corcoran are the real authors of

WHY NO TRY THIS?

It has been suggested that judges in this state adopt the plan of a Minnesota judge in dealing with drunken drivers and other serious violators of the traffic laws. This judge, instead of fining the offenders, ordered their cars impounded for a specified length of time in a local garage, with the cost of storage being borne by the offender at the time the car was ordered released by the court.

It is pointed out that under this plan the offender, while he walks for a period of thirty days, has plenty of opportunity to regret his violation of the law and will be less likely to do so again when his car is returned to him. Such a practice by the courts would likewise make it hard for offenders to borrow the cars of others because no one would lend a car and take chances of having it locked up for a period of thirty days.

The plan might sound like a novel one, but honestly we believe it has merit and will do a lot toward cutting down willful violation of the traffic laws.

ous opposition on the part of the mine owners and big business generally, it stands a good chance of passing the Senate—particularly since President Roosevelt's NRA message which contained a cryptic sentence indicating the New Deal wanted to take hold of coal, gas and oil.

Lewis demanded that the operators in the Appalachian bituminous district give him a new two-year contract embodying a 30-hour week and wage increases which the owners say cost him $13,000,000 additional annually. The operators contend the last wage boost and hour cut they granted put them $13,000,000 in the red and they have rejected the mine workers' proposal.

PURGING: NRA quietly is conducting an investigation of code authorities. The idea is to eliminate a lot of chiseling on the part of smart Washington lawyers and lobbyists who have been cutting in and costing industry a pretty penny. The National Association of Manufacturers recently estimated that it was costing business $41,000,000 annually to maintain the code authority offices here and elsewhere.

Already one code chairman has been asked to resign. It so happens he is not one of the heavy-salary-and-expense-account boys, but a big manufacturer drafted by his industry. NRA is not satisfied with the manner in which he has been conducting his job.

There may be a kick-back from this one. The ousted gentleman may bear heavily on the fact S. Clay Williams, Chairman of the NRA Board, was cigarette code authority for many months before accepting government service an dffailed to draft an acceptable code.

SEPARATION: Senate Progressives chuckle whenever Huey Long jabs Jim Farley—which is daily when Huey takes time from his bayon dictatorship to act as Senator. Huey is obtaining possession of highly embarrassing letters which he reads to the Senate. Senators and members who are sore over patronage rebuffs are feeding some of these documents to Huey.

Progressives expected the administration to throw the lifeline to Senator Cutting in his hard New Mexico campaign, as it did to Johnson and LaFollette. Farley stood behind Dennis Chavez. The contest filed by Chavez against Cutting is supposed to have some Democratic sympathy and support. Cutting played along with the administration on the world court vote, but on the relief bill he took the opposition side.

FEATHERS: One of the gentlemen standing in line waiting for Congress to resolve is Governor Marriner S. Eycles of the Federal Reserve Board. He hasn't yet been confirmed. Unless he can run the gamut where Carter Glass waits with a tomahawk he must quit. Like all descendants of Pocahontas Carter wields a wicked weapon. The banking bill is the bone of contention. Glass accuses Eycles of his authorship and/or sponsorship—and when Glass says "and," or it's a sign he's fighting hard. The bill rips to pieces Carter's before child, the Federal Reserve system.

It's a fair guess that the bill will lose some feathers and that Eycles will get through without amendment.

MOONSHINE: It sounds like old times. Secretary of the Treasury

Morgenthau recently reported at a meeting of the Executive Council that in a two-week period 499 stills and $230,000 worth of bootleg liquor had been seized. Arrests of 1,101 persons were recorded.

This moved Attorney General Cummings to get up and say that of 89 men recently indicted in Virginia for violation of the internal revenue law which prohibits distillation, storage and transportation of untaxed liquor, 8 were present or former state or federal officials. Now that whiskey is legal the big distillers don't like that moonshine competition.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.

"Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 3.

The golden text was from Psalms 37:23: "The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord, and he delighteth in his way."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Fear not; for I am with thee; I will bring thee from the east, and gather thee from the west; I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, Keep not back; bring my sons from afar, and my daughters from the ends of the earth; Even every one that is called by my name: for I have created him for my glory, I have formed him; yea, I have made him." (Isaiah 43:5-7).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is the creator of man, and the divine Principle of man, remaining perfect, the divine idea of reflection, man, remains perfect. Man is the expression of God's being. The relations of God and man, divine Principle and idea, are indestructible in Science, and Science knows no lapses from nor return to harmony, but holds the divine order or Spiritual law, in which God and all that He creates are perfect and eternal, to have remained unchanged in its eternal history."

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Entertain.

On Thursday evening at their home near the Country Club, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Garrett were gracious hosts at a brilliant reception, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Folger, Jr. of Charlotte.

The home throughout was beautifully decorated with profusions of pink roses, pink and yellow snapdragons, sweet peas, Easter lilies, pink carnations and pink and lavender stocks. Greeting guests at the door were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ficklen, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hodges and James T. Little.

In the receiving line which stood in the living room, were Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Folger and Miss Eula Folger of Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Folger, Jr., Miss Jane Garrett and Master Ralph Garrett, Jr.

Assisting in receiving in the living room and throughout the home were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Garrett, little Miss Ann Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dudley, Richmond, Va., Mrs. Charles Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kilgo, Miss Louise Troy Kilgo, Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Troy, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Watson, Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Phillips, Tarboro, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Moseley, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Scales, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Smoot, Mr. and Mrs. John Flanagan, Rocky Mount, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. James, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. H. Dail Laughinghouse, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Batchelor, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Park, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Arthur and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Arthur.

In the sun room forming another receiving line, were members of the younger set, including Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Skinner, Jr., Williamston, Tom Turnage, Ayden, Dick Patterson, Danville, Va., Stuart Carr, Jr., Miss Helen White, Edward Ferguson, Jr., P. T. Anthony, Jr., Rex and John Hodges, and Robert Arthur.

In the dining room the table was attractively appointed, covered with an imported cloth of lace and centered with an exquisite arrangement of roses, lilies, sweet peas, snapdragons and stocks in the pastel shades. Ivory candles in silver holders were placed at either end.

Mrs. E. B. Ficklen and Mrs. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse seated at the table, served from silver platters, the ices which were in shapes of flowers, cups and wedding bells.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Ferguson, Miss Mary Jenkins, Miss Ann Lee Hooker, Miss Margaret Bostie and Miss Elizabeth Kasey passed decorated cakes, mints and salted nuts. Punch was served in the den from a table banked in the vari-colored flowers. Several hundred guests enjoyed this delightful affair.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Folger which was announced the past week, came as a complete surprise to relatives and friends. The marriage was solemnized on October 6, 1934, in South Boston, Va.

Mrs. Folger, the former Miss Eloise Garrett, is pretty and attractive and a popular member of the younger set. She was educated in the city schools, Salem Academy, Winston-Salem, Duke University, Durham, and East Carolina Teachers College.

Mr. Folger is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and a member of the Zeta-Psi fraternity. He is associated with the Mills Supply Company in Charlotte, where he and Mrs. Folger will make their home.

To Give Cancer Lecture.

Dr. W. D. James of Hamlet, will be at the Woman's Club on Thursday evening, March 7, at 8 o'clock, to give an illustrated lecture on Cancer.

Dr. James has been cooperating this year with the Health Department of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs in a fight against cancer. He has given his lecture in many parts of North Carolina and those hearing him have been very enthusiastic about the wealth of information he gives concerning cancer.

One of the leading newspapers of the state has said that no finer piece of public health work has been done in North Carolina in years than this fight against cancer being waged by the club and Dr. James.

Dr. James comes to Greenville at the invitation of the Health Department of the Woman's Club and the lecture will be given free of charge.

The public is not only invited but urged to hear him.

Mrs. Spilman Speaks At College.

In the series of talks on "World Problems and Their Solution," to the study group of the college, Y. W. C. A., Mrs. J. B. Spilman on last Friday evening, presented "What Education Has Done to Help Solve the World Problems."

She stated that all education to accomplish any good must have a religious significance. She pointed out the following steps in civilization and progress that were accomplished through education: it emancipated woman; brought refinement, helped the helpless; brought about medical science; had given health, and had brought about great inventions, such as the radio and the motion picture.

It is her opinion that this college generation must see to it that through Christian education the world is to continue.

Rev. J. A. McIver, on the Friday evening preceding, talked on "What Politics Can Do To Solve the World Problems." He explained that politics means social science, and that social science has done much to solve world problems, no one can doubt.

Adult Study Group.

Miss Mary Dimberger met with the Adult Study Group at their regular meeting on last Tuesday afternoon and selected the play to be presented by the class on the third Friday night in March. The play requires six people for the cast, but many members aside from these will aid in its production. Two rehearsals have been given, and there will be a third one in the home of Mrs. M. E. White tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

This play is being given as a portion of the work of the study class, which is conducted by Miss Mary York of the high school home economics department, and will be directed by Miss Mary Dimberger, PERA dramatic instructor.

The class meets on each Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the West Greenville School and anyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

World Day of Prayer.

"Bear Ye One Another's Burdens" is the subject of the World Day of Prayer service which will be held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Friday morning at 10:30.

Under the auspices of the three national and interdenominational bodies, namely, the Council of Women for Home Missions, the Committee on Woman's Work of the Foreign Missions Conference and the National Council of Federated Church Women, there is observed on the first Friday in Lent of each year a World Day of Prayer for the world-wide missionary enterprise.

This will be a continuing in prayer from the rising of the sun in the Fiji Islands and New Zealand to the setting of the sun in Honolulu many hours later. In more than fifty countries Christians will have prayed for each other and will have pledged themselves to the bearing of one another's burdens.

All of the women of Greenville are invited to attend this service.

U. D. C. Meeting.

The meeting of the George B. Singletary Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy for March, was held with Mrs. L. A. Stroud at her home on Fifth street, Friday afternoon, March first. The meeting was well attended, and was presided over by Mrs. T. A. Person, first vice-president, in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. P. Moore, who is ill at this time. The chapter opened with all members repeating the twenty-third Psalm. The treasurer's report was then given. Forty dollars and ninety-four cents recently paid out for floral design, contribution to the nurses' fund, etc. Several other reports were given. A letter from our state president, Mrs. Bernard, of Chapel Hill, was then read by Mrs. J. L. Fleming, chaplain for the Division. It was voted to contribute liberally to the Norman B. Randolph Relief Fund this month. The chapter decided to wait until next month to contribute to the Memorial Loan Fund. It was decided to place the South-ern Magazine in the library of the Greenville High School at once. The lists of General Historical prizes and Essay prizes for 1935, to be published in our local newspaper right away, was asked to be looked after by Mrs. P. E. Wells. The speaker for Memorial Day was not decided on, and Mrs. J. L. Fleming asked to secure Prof. R. L. McMillan of Raleigh. The program for the afternoon was given by Mrs. Wells. The topics, "The Memorial Pavilion to be Erected in the Confederate Cemetery at Raleigh," and the "Soldiers' Home and Confederate Cemetery in Raleigh," proved most interesting. Mrs. Stroud then served a most delicious ice course.—Reported.

My Beauty Hint

By MADEIRA CARROLL (Actress)

In selecting rouge, give a thought to your clothes. Remember, dark red makes one paler; greens bring out natural rosy; beige calls for deeper raspberry; grays require more brilliant coloring; and black is more effective with mandarin or orange tones, but requires less color than white.

Birthday Of J. S. Congleton Is Celebrated

A birthday dinner for J. S. Congleton, probably the oldest native of Greenville, was given at the home of his son, J. W. Congleton, in Kingston, yesterday, and all members of the family, with the exception of one daughter, Miss Jennie Congleton who lives in Memphis, Tenn., were in attendance.

The celebration took on the nature of a family reunion, and sons and daughters and their children were present to help pay tribute to the celebration of anniversary of the 80th birthday of their father and grandfather which fell on last Friday.

An elaborate dinner was served and as the family gathered around the table they wished Mr. Congleton many more happy birthdays. He was also the recipient of many useful gifts.

Sons and daughters attending the celebration follow:

J. W. Congleton and family, Kingston; A. G. Congleton and family, Liberty; Miss Stead and family, Liberty; Miss Addie Congleton and John Congleton, Greenville.

Born here March 1, 1855, Mr. Congleton is believed to be the oldest native Greenville. He spent all of his life here and is held in the highest regard by hundreds of friends.

When a boy in his teens Mr. Congleton's father was postmaster of Greenville. In addition to attending school, the youth aided his father in distributing mail in the post-office. Following his father's death he, as a boy, had complete charge and handled all mail until a new postmaster was appointed. This was around the year of 1871.

Mr. Congleton has been a member of the Methodist Church here over seventy-five years. Over a long period of years he has been employed by the same firm or its successors. He was with J. B. Cherry & Company until Mr. Cherry's death, after which the firm became J. R. & J. G. Move.

When the Moves retired from business the firm became what is now known as Blount Harvey Company. Mr. Congleton continued with this firm until the first of the year when he retired from active employment.

He is fully familiar with the struggle of this city from a thriving small town to one of the leading cities in this part of the State, and is proud of the fine record because he has always been in the thick of the fight doing his bit for a greater and better Greenville.

Late News Flashes

meeting of the finance committee was called off.

The House got a new bill proposing the abolishment of the position of the state commissioner of banks and bestow its duties on the state utilities commissioner. The utilities commissioner would handle the corporation commission did before the bank commission was established in 1931. The salary of the utilities commissioner would be set at $6,000 annually, instead of $500 as now.

Consideration of a bill for the House to allow the state association of photographers to name a board of five members to govern the practice of the profession in the state was postponed until tomorrow. The bill was once tabled but was revived and given favorable report by the committee.

Measures passed by the House today included one by Blount of Beaufort to permit the commissioners of Beaufort county to cooperate with other counties in seeking equitable freight rates.

To Investigate Davidson Death. Pinehurst, March 4.—(AP)—Legal representatives of the State interests announced today that a detective from a private agency had been called in to probe the strange death of Mrs. Elva Stalter Davidson, talented young actress and bride of two months.

William L. Marcy, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y., counsel for Mrs. Catherine Stalter of Tucson, Ariz., said that L. P. Whitfield, detective of Atlanta, Ga., began work on the case early today. He said that the Stalter interests were not altogether satisfied with local handling of the case. He was joined in this statement by Edwin Jackie also of Buffalo, N. Y., and the legal representative of Ellsworth Stalter, 22, of England.

Two Workmen Electrocuted. Goldsboro, N. C., March 4.—(AP)—Two workmen engaged in construction work on a road between Faison and Clinton were electrocuted today when a crane came in contact with a high tension wire.

The victims were Odel Mercer, 25, of Mount Olive, and Solomon Rogers, 35, of Delco. Rogers was foreman of the gang which was at work at about a half mile from Faison when the crane operated by Mercer struck the wire. Mercer apparently was killed instantly and Rogers was killed as he grabbed Mercer in an effort to pull the workmen from the crane.

New Troubles Face Relief Bill. Washington, March 4.—(AP)—New troubles for the administration in connection with the $4,880,000,000 relief bill appeared today with a Democratic demand that the Treasury furnish the Senate with a list of projects for which public works money had been allocated but unexpended for other purposes.

Senator Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, a critic of the bill, presented a resolution calling for the data and complete balance sheet of PWA. Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, looked for immediate consideration by saying that the resolution go over a day under the rules. President Roosevelt entered on the third year in the White House today. It was a far cry from inauguration day two years ago after which Congress met to vote readily as Mr. Roosevelt will do.

Other developments today: A statement by Senator Long of Louisiana that he had information from "close to the throne" that Postmaster Farley's resignation had been arranged and Governor Frank Murphy of the Philippines would succeed him, was heatedly denied by Democratic leaders.

Long made the statement in resuming his attack on Farley as the Senate waited for the vice-president to hand down a report from Secretary Ickes on investigations his department had made on PWA project contracts in which Long charged Farley was interested.

Missing Fliers Located Alive. Bulawayo, South Rhodesia, Mar. 4.—(AP)—Lady Young, lost since last Thursday on an airplane flight over the jungles was reported today to have been found alive by searchers.

First reports were hazy as to details of the reported rescue. Major Sir Herbert Young, the governor of northern Rhodesia and husband of the lost woman, directed searching activities after her disappearance.

The fragmentary reports said that Dr. J. Kirby, the government physician who accompanied her on the flight, has also been found alive. Lady Young and Dr. Kirby were said to have been discovered near southern Rhodesia and it was reported that neither was hurt.

Hero Rip

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

IN THE thick smokiness of the burning building Rip could hear nothing, nor could he see anything. With burning, watering eyes, he felt his way around.

The flames singed his coat, but now they were not quite so high as when he first entered.

He Puddle Muddlers were pouring water over everything.

Now Willy Nilly was calling to Rip, and Rip managed to shout:

"Don't come in here, I'll find him! One of us is enough."

The other Puddle Muddlers were keeping Willy Nilly with them, letting him help them with the hose, and Quick-Dick, the horse, and Fire Chief Quacko Duck were working for all they were worth.

Streams of water were now making some headway against the burning building, but the smoke that was going up was terrible in its thickness.

"I'm afraid the building is going to collapse," called Quick-Dick, the fire horse. "I've seen so much of fire I can always tell just about when that will happen."

"Rip, Rip!" called Willy Nilly. "You cannot find Sweet Face. You must save yourself. I'm sure he can't be there. He probably was wandering around somewhere."

"Rip, Rip!" Willy Nilly was almost certain that the lamb could not be in the burning building for he had left it and probably hadn't gone back, or they would have heard cries for help from him.

But Rip was not so sure. In fact he had a feeling he couldn't explain that the lamb was here and must be rescued. Rip did not heed the calls for him.

types, with the exception of burley which has been increased for 1935.

The types of tobacco to which the Kerr-Smith Act will apply in 1935-1936 crop year are as follows:

Blue-cured tobacco, types 11, 12, 13 and 14; grown in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

Fire-cured tobacco, types 21, 22, 23, and 24; grown in Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee.

Burley tobacco, type 13; grown in Kentucky, Southern Ohio, and Indiana. West Virginia, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, Missouri, and Arkansas.

Dark air-cured tobacco, types, 35, 36, and 37; grown in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and Indiana.

Cigar binder and filler, types 41, 42, 43, 44, 51, 52, 53, 54, and 55; grown in Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota.

The Kerr-Smith Act was approved by President Roosevelt on June 28, 1934. It was passed by Congress at the request of tobacco producers who were co-operating in the production adjustment programs of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

It provided that all tobacco of the types specified in any agreement between the Secretary of Agriculture and contracting producer, except Maryland tobacco (type 32), Virginia snuff (type 37) and cigar leaf tobacco, grown during the 1934-1935 crop year should be taxed, but authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to issue tax payment warrants covering tobacco grown by contracting producers and producers who receive allotments.

The act further provides that its provision may be made applicable to any type of tobacco in the 1935-1936 crop year provided the Secretary determines that "the persons who own, rent, share crop or control three-fourths of the land customarily engaged in the production of any particular type of tobacco favor the levy start their forty-seventh working day of the 1935 session. The House calendar, while lengthy, is made up largely of such measures as proposals to establish a committee to study mental defectives, increase in salaries for solicitors in Superior Courts and regulation of steam boilers. Over in the Senate two bills of interest to the judiciary and another concerning the registration of trade-marks complete the docket. The Hill bill appears on the Senate calendar for Tuesday. It is expected to occupy a prominent place for two or three days because amendments to the measure are almost certain to be offered. In fact, some amendments are expected to be presented by Senator John Sprunt Hill, author of the measure.

Regular night sessions of either the House or the Senate are not expected until the revenue bill reaches the floor of the House.

A total of 811 bills have been presented in the 1935 Legislature thus far, a decline of 212 from the all-time high record at the same time two years ago when .023 measures had been tossed in the legislative hoppers. The Senate this year has received 269 bills, a decline of seven from 1933, while the House has been offered 542, a drop of 185.

This session of the General Assembly is not through with the State Hospital for the Insane at Morganton or with Dr. John McCampbell, its superintendent, even though the House declined to pass the resolution already passed by the Senate calling for an official investigation, according to members of both Houses of the Assembly. The reason the House declined to pass the resolution, according to several members, was not because it thought an investigation was not needed, but because it thought such an investigation would be futile and a waste of time and money.

"This Legislature already knows as much about the Morganton Hospital and Dr. McCampbell's administration of it as it needs to know and as much as any special committee could find out," a member of the House said today. "We know that while his administration has been honest and efficient from a business standpoint, we know from his testimony before the Appropriations Committee last week that he is stubborn, bull-headed, unprogressive, cold-blooded and calloused and determined not to change his system of operating the hospital from the way he has been operating it for forty years."

Several members of the committee also said that in their opinion the members of board of trustees of the hospital are just about as stubborn, bull-headed, cold-blooded and uncompromising as Dr. McCampbell and that what the hospital needs is a new board of trustees as well as a new superintendent.

Dr. McCampbell bluntly admitted to the committee that the regulations governing the nurses are the same now as when drawn up fifty years ago, that he could not operate the hospital without working the nurses fifteen hours a day unless the nursing staff was doubled, that social life for the nurses was discouraged and that his ideas about operating the hospital were the same now as they were forty years ago.

"It is not what Dr. McCampbell has done, but what he has failed to do, together with his uncompromising antagonistic attitude that we do not like," said Representative Andrews of Wayne County, who is taking the lead in an effort to change things at this hospital. "If he and the board of trustees will not change things at the hospital, I think the Legislature will."

New York Cotton

COTTON New York, March 4.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady three to nine lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and nervous tone in the foreign situation.

Initial pressure sent active months 7 to 11 points lower right after the call, with May declining to 12.37.

At midday May was around 12.38 with the general list showing net losses of 7 to 10 points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 4.—(AP)—While financial markets were not excited today over the further unsettled condition of currencies traders found the sidelines much to their liking and prices were inclined to sag.

With London gold being marked up to a new seasonal high and sterling climbing nearly five cents at one time stocks were notably cool. Wall street however seemed to be more confused than down hearted and merely equities yielded only small fractions. The selling pace was about as low as that of Saturday.

United States government securities firmed on announcement of the treasury's new yield terms for March 15 financing.

Commodities including grains and cotton pointed down along with stocks.

The late tone was steady. Transfers were 430,000 shares.
