DEATH CLAIMS NOTED JURIST EARLY TODAY

Funeral For Oliver Wendell Holmes to Be Held at Washington on Friday

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(AP)—A soldier's funeral was prepared today for Oliver Wendell Holmes, great dissenter of the Supreme Court, who died from bronchial pneumonia at 2:15 o'clock today just two days short of his 94th birthday.

On Friday, which would have been his birthday had he lived, the nation's leaders will gather in All Saints' Church to honor the man, who almost universally was well-known as America's foremost liberal.

Chief Justice Hughes and other men who served with him on the nation's highest tribunal will be honorary pallbearers. The burial in Arlington National Cemetery will be a military one in recognition of his military service in the Civil War.

The full rich life of the retired justice ended serenely this morning in his old red brick house a few blocks from the White House. His physician, Dr. Thomas A. Clayton said it was the "most peaceful death I ever saw."

Holmes had dissented smilingly almost until the last. Until he fell yesterday into the deep sleep from which he never roused he had scoffed at the anxiety of his doctor and friends over his condition and weakly joshed his nurses.

The attack of bronchial pneumonia developed from a cold contracted February 23 on one of his frequent drives through the country in a rented car.

When Mark Howe, one of his former secretaries, stepped to the door of the old house at 2:20 a. m. to tell reporters of his friend's death, grief was written deeply on the young man's face. He read a brief announcement of the funeral plans and then rejoined the saddened friends inside.

Of all America's great, probably none lived more aloof from his fellowmen than Oliver Wendell Holmes. For almost three-quarters of a century, the celebrated Massachusetts jurist, scholar and soldier, devoted his tremendous talents and energy to the service of his country, and its citizens. Yet he almost always looked out on life from the seclusion of the Supreme Court or through his study windows.

He kept step mentally, however, with the mighty panorama of a changing civilization—in touch with the progress and problems of the plain citizen and jealously watchful as a Supreme Court Justice of the rights of the individual under Constitutional guarantee.

Keynote to the Holmes manner of living was one of his few precepts: "A man of high ambition must leave his fellow-adventurers and face the loneliness of original work."

In the study of his graciously old-fashioned home a short distance from the White House the snow-haired justice spent much of his time in "original work" and in association, through the medium of his books, with the great in law and in literature.

There, rising tier upon tier to the ceiling, were books by the hundreds, a legal tomes and the works of the classicists of many ages and countries. Far from the turmoil of politics and commerce, he read his beloved volumes and wrote the opinions that were said to have made the Supreme Court reports literature.

Even in the prime of his life, he apparently had little personal need or desire for the companionship of other men. While traditional Supreme Court isolation, of necessity kept him away from lawyers and men in politics, he remained aloof even from his colleagues of the bench. Only Justice Brandeis, who often saw eye to eye with him in "human" interpretation of the law could be called a close associate.

At his summer home at Beverly Farms, Mass., where he worked hard on court cases during vacation periods, he made frequent trips to the station to visit an old enemy, the station master. With him he discussed affairs of State as well as local gossip.

Even at ninety it seemed he never would grow old. At that age the man who had conversed with Emerson and was three times wounded in the Civil War, appeared to be more vitally youthful than many men of thirty years his junior.

The son of the author of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," he was considered the perfect symbol of Supreme Court dignity and learning.

'NO COMPROMISE ON BONUS'

Open warning that the American Legion has no intention of accepting a compromise on the $2,000,000,000 bonus payment has been given to congress by Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., national Legion commander. Belgrano served the notice after he had urged the house ways and means committee to approve the Vinson bonus payment bill instead of the Patman measure. Belgrano is shown (right) with Col. J. T. COTTON HEADS TO MEET HERE

Township Committees to Gather Here Tomorrow Prior to Opening of Signup

Pitt county cotton committeemen are scheduled to meet here tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of receiving instructions for the new sign-up to begin immediately. It was announced today from the office of E. F. Arnold, director of the local Farm Department.

After the gathering here, Mr. Arnold said, the committeemen would be at their usual places in the various townships to take contracts for new signers and to make adjustments in other cases.

A list of contract signers will be posted in the various townships for inspection and for the purpose of making adjustments wherever such is found justifiable.

Mr. Arnold said he expected that between 250 and 300 new contracts would be signed this year because of the new ruling providing for growers of less than five acres. In other words, the "little man" is given a chance to take part in the program this year and enjoy the benefits denied him under the first sign-up a year ago.

The farm head expressed belief the sign-up would be completed in a comparatively short time. He stated growers coming under provisions of the new contract to contract committeemen at once and are lined up for the new planting season just around the corner.

WASHINGTON

By George Burns

CROSS-FIRE. Washington is trying to fathom the change in surface sentiment between the election figures of November 6 and the rumblings of March 6. There are many indications—these past few weeks particularly—that the New Deal is finding the snow very thin on parts of the totem pole and even an upgrade in sight.

Deep in the background are men representing very big business interests who might tell where some of the backbone originated—but they don't for the very good reason they never like to appear publicly.

Much more in the open are efforts being put forward by left-wing groups, organized by such men as Senator Huey Long and Father Coughlin, who want to lead the masses well beyond the New Deal formula.

At the moment Mr. Roosevelt is suffering a sustained attack when comes jointly from the extreme right and the extreme left.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL

With a full head of steam up and the pop-valve wide open, Representative Tam C. Bowe, of Ashe, made his first real fight of this session against any major bill offered in the House Tuesday—and was decisively defeated by a vote of 86 to 15 when the final vote was counted. The bill was introduced by Representative George Cherry, of Gaston, for whom the Ashe County Representative has very little love. "I was one of the regular routine bill introduced every two years to permit the Governor and Council of State to authorize the State Treasurer to issue tax anticipation notes for short-term loans whenever it may be necessary, if there are not sufficient funds in the State Treasury to meet the regular operating expenses of the State government."

Similar bills have been passed by every session of the Assembly for years, so that in case of emergency the State may borrow funds for operating purposes by issuing short-term notes. If it had not been for the bill, He maintained the governor had to clean up various departments and institutions and would have been able to pay in full.

For between 1931 and 1932, a loaned money of $1,000,000 in short-term notes for operating expenses when the revenue slumped so badly and was not adequate to the State's expenses.

The Representative Bowe said it was a bad bill. The State should live within its means, even if it meant, through and that the State should not have to borrow any money. He asserted and showed and waved his arms as he raved against the bill.

ANGLO-FRENCH NEGOTIATIONS DECLARED OFF

German Officials Admit British White Book Caused Postponement of Talks

Berlin, March 6.—(AP)—German officials admitted today that the British white book on German armament rather than the throat trouble of Reichsfuhrer Hitler was the leading influence behind Berlin's postponement of Sir John Simon's visit.

There was little effort today to conceal the fact that Hitler's cold was more diplomatic than real.

Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, was scheduled to come to Berlin to discuss European peace problems with Hitler.

"It was blow for blow," one of the officials of the German government said.

"The white book was a blow for us and we replied with another blow."

The Foreign Office said the negotiations growing out of the Anglo-French negotiations in London are off, "and it is impossible to foresee when they will be recommenced."

The white paper "made it quite evident the Simon-Hitler talks would be difficult and unproductive and the leaders needed to be in tip-top condition before undertaking them."

The tone of the whole undertaking has changed and Germany welcomed the Anglo-French accord with the growing hope for something definite, he said.

LIQUOR BILL STOCK RISES AFTER SLUMP

Visit of Judge E. Yates Webb to Capital City Causes Much Speculation

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, N. C., March 6.—(AP)—The Hill liquor control bill is optimistic again after a very perceptible let down over the past week.

Senator John Sprunt Hill, author of the much discussed bill, was out of town Saturday and Sunday, having gone to his Durham home. Upon his return to the state capital he confessed that the bill looked for favorable passage of his bill was not so bright as it has been on Friday.

It has been learned that while Senator Hill was absent that someone else was here during the week-end. Judge E. Yates Webb, of Shelby, brother-in-law of the all but formally announced and United Dry endorsed candidate for the governor ship, Clyde Hoy, also of Shelby. While political outsiders here did not learn the reason for the eminent jurist's visit they did observe that sentiment for the Hill bill suffered a sharp decline. Some several depositors were inclined to believe that perhaps political pressure had been judiciously applied to certain legislators, and, in particular, senators.

Judge Webb, by virtue of his relationship to the dry Hoy, of course has his every act closely scrutinized. Not that observers are willing to express the opinion that the Judge would stage a lobby for his brother-in-law or for the dry, but that they are unable to forget that the relationship does exist. None of the observers, for example, will believe that the Judge would exactly throw stones in Hoy's gubernatorial path. They wonder if the visit of Judge Webb to Raleigh did have any connection with Hoy's candidacy or the Hill bill, vigorously denounced by the United Drys, or perhaps both. Judge Webb is known all over North Carolina as both personally and socially dry.

Simultaneous with the absence of Senator Hill and the sudden appearance of Congressman "Farmer Bob" Daughton, also a reputed candidate for the governorship.

Congressman Daughton is known to be considering very strongly his candidacy for the post to which Clyde Hoy aspires. It is also known that if the veteran Congressman does make the race that he will, although he is a personal dry, attempt to espouse the United Dry cause. It is generally conceded that Hoy has preempted the teetotal dry field. For that reason and because the United Dry Forces have virtually promised their support to Hoy it is certain that Daughton, if he runs, will not run a dry-dry.

Huge Sum Sought For Highway Improvement

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, N. C., March 6.—(AP)—The Highway Department is asking an appropriation of $10,000,000 a year for maintenance, which was the usual appropriation for this purpose before 1925, when it was reduced to $5,000,000 a year. It is also asking $10,000,000 a year for new construction, since no State funds have been available since 1931. It will need addition to this an average of $10,000,000 a year for debt service, or a total of at least $31,000,000 a year for the next two years.

SENATOR LONG SEES DEFEAT OF SEN. BAILEY

Louisiana "Kingfish" May Campaign Against N. C. Senator Next Year

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(AP)—The spectacle of a Huey Long campaign against Senator Josiah W. Bailey in North Carolina next year became a definite possibility today.

Continuing the heated exchange of words, Senator Long made the prophecy that Bailey would not be re-elected.

"I am utterly indifferent to the Senator's judgment concerning me or my prospects of coming back," jested Bailey, who said he had spoken the truth when he said he was "utterly unwilling to take Long's words for anything."

The two Senators clashed after Long pointing at Bailey, said "Americans have starved because the Senate has failed to help them," adding, "and you can take my word for it."

"I am utterly unwilling to take your word for that or anything else," Bailey shot back.

"Well, I guess the Senator thinks that is very smart," rejoined Long. "I do not think it is very smart, but it is honest utterance and based on utterances," the North Carolina Senator said.

"Yes sir," added Long, "but I bet he will not come back to the United States Senate next year."

"What about that? I just made a prophecy that you will not be re-elected to the Senate."

Long added that Bailey had hurled an unnecessary insult at him and "I do not answer it except by saying I bet you do not go back to the Senate."

Dozen-Odd Cases Completed in Single Day Sitting Here Yesterday

After completing its docket of a dozen-odd cases, County Court was adjourned yesterday afternoon.

Four of the actions involved charges of driving drunk and all defendants were fined the usual $50 and ordered not to drive again from six to eighteen months.

While cases of this nature are before the court at each sitting yesterday saw the largest number for a similar sized docket in some months, indicating an increase of this form of violation in spite of the unusual efforts of law enforcement officers for a reduction.

Wiley Bland was fined $50 and cost, and ordered not to drive again in eighteen months. The revocation of license, however, was reduced to eight months with condition that he pay Jack Collins $15 for damage to his car.

Three other defendants paid fines and had their licenses revoked for six months during the morning session.

Lee Duncan, colored, was sentenced to 90 days on the road on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Henry Atkinson, colored, involved in the same case, was ordered to pay cost, and also to pay Miles Swinson $3.75 for doctor's bill. The two were alleged to have been involved in the shooting of another darky named Miles Swinson, who although painfully wounded, was not considered in a serious condition.

The court dealt leniently in the case of Jarvis Parker, arrested here last Saturday by police on a charge of stealing two pairs of overalls from the Winslow store in the western part of the city. A 90-day road sentence as suspended on good behavior when it was revealed that the defendant had a wife and several children depending upon him for support.

GREECE OPENS FINAL 'DRIVE' ON REVOLTERS

Government Forces Eager to Renew Battle After Success of Last Night

Athens, Greece, March 6.—(AP)—Loyalist troops opened the final drive today to grind the east Macedonian revolt into the mud of Salonika plain.

Exultant over success in last night's battle in the blasting the rebels from the town of Seres, forty-five miles northeast of Salonika, the government forces were eager to renew their offensive.

General George Kondylis, minister of war, commanding the loyal troops, chafed at the bitter weather conditions which temporarily held his massed military strength in check. With decisive developments expected in Turkey and Bulgaria, the government forces were uneasily guarding their frontiers.

The tension caused by the massing of 80,000 Turkish troops on the Turko-Greek and Turgo-Bulgarian frontiers was temporarily relieved as the Turkish government informed Greece through its minister at Ankara that it hoped the revolt would be soon quelled.

Premier Tasildaris voiced the government's optimism in a statement, saying:

"From today the movement takes a decisive turn. I can say categorically that victory is absolutely assured."

While General Kondylis reported the morale of his forces to be high, he said the wintry weather conditions prevailing in the battle area were causing the rebels acute suffering and interfering with transportation of their supplies.

Active to deprive the insurgents of their support from behind the lines, the government announced in its official gazette the goods of all persons who participated in the revolt would be confiscated.

GOOD REPORT ON ROLL CALL

Total of 679 Members Obtained by Red Cross in Drive Here Last Year

Wvatt Brown, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and Julian White, roll-call chairman, today announced the results of the recent membership campaign conducted throughout the county last November and December.

The standing in members enrolled by towns is as follows:

Greenville, 367 members; Ayden, 67; Farmville, 66; Bethel, 58; Grifton, 42; colored teachers, 32; Grimesland, 18; Falkland, 15; Winterville, 11; Chicof, 3. County total, 679 members.

This is the largest roll-call the chapter has had since the World War and the chapter's heartfelt thanks is extended to all who worked to enroll members and all of those who joined. Many of the white schools enrolled the teachers 100 per cent, and the Eastern Carolina Teachers College faculty made one of the best showings of any group in the county.

The Farmville unit has begun home hygiene classes in the high school under the direction of a Red Cross nurse and first aid classes will start shortly. In both Greenville and Farmville life-saving courses will be conducted during the coming summer. Greenville is planning to hold first aid courses and Bethel has announced similar plans.

A program of pellagra prevention and cure is now in progress with the Red Cross supplying free powdered yeast to those suffering from pellagra. Persons unable to buy yeast may obtain from the Pitt County Chapter in Greenville by presenting a signed order from any doctor showing that he has the malady and is unable to buy it.

Police Court Again Without Docket Today

Finding itself again without a docket, the regular Wednesday morning session of police court was adjourned this morning.

It was the third time in less than two weeks the court had found itself caseless, and law-enforcement officers scratched their head meditatively, wondering what would turn up next.

A fairly large docket was disposed of Monday morning after officers picked up a number of violators over the week-end.

Mayor Flen gart, who was unable to appear in court Monday because of illness, was reported able to be up today, and is expected to preside over the regular sitting scheduled for Saturday morning. In the absence of the mayor Monday morning, Mayor Pro Tem H. H. Duncan presided.

Currituck Man Is Held For Robbery

Elizabeth City, N. C., March 6.—(AP)—Gallop, 41, of Currituck County, is being held in Pasquotank County jail awaiting preliminary hearing on a charge of breaking into the Point Harbor postoffice and stealing a pistol and about $4 worth of stamps.

Bond has been set at $1,000 pending the preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner J. P. Thompson here next Monday morning at 10 a. m. The postoffice was broken into and robbed on the night of November 24, 1934.

Gallop's arrest in Currituck two weeks ago for the theft of an automobile resulted in his being charged with the postoffice robbery.

When arrested Gallop had in his possession the pistol taken from the postoffice, according to officials.

PUSH WORK ON NEW PARK HERE

Actual Planting of Shrubbery Scheduled to Get Under Way During the Day

The actual planting of shrubbery in connection with beautification of the public park adjoining the municipal swimming pool is scheduled to get under way today, it was made known this morning.

With the grounds cleared of all rubbish and placed in condition for planting, George Clark, who with Mayor R. C. Flanagan, is assisting the Garden Club of the Woman's Club in putting the planting program over in a big way, said the work would be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible so the park will be ready to receive thousands of citizens during the summer months.

The park planting program has been made the principal objective of the Garden Club this year, and its members recently conferred with a landscape gardener regarding general arrangements of the shrubs and flowers.

The general plan for planting was scheduled to reach the city today, Mr. Clark said, and the ladies were ready to begin operations immediately upon its arrival.

The work is being done by the city government under direction of the Garden Club, and the park will be furnished with lights and seating accommodations by the municipality as its attempts to provide ample recreational facilities for the public during the hot summer months.

The ground upon which the park will be located was loaned to the city by East Carolina Teachers College. Part of it is situated on a hillside overlooking the new swimming pool and affords a splendid vantage point for citizens desiring to go out into the open for a breath of air when temperatures sizzle throughout the city and recreation is fought along with the ailing.

As playground for children of the city will be conducted in connection with the park. This is located on the old Model School site and several devices for entertainment of the juvenile element will be provided.

Both park and playground will be ready to receive the public by the time thoughts turn to outdoor sports, and members of the Garden Club are pushing work ahead as rapidly as they can with this end in view.

STRICKEN ARAS NEED BIG RAINS FOR 1935 CROPS

By F. B. COLTON
(Associated Press Science Writer)
Washington, D. C. (AP)—The dust storms which have raged in the Western Plains States are sinister reminders that drought still is a very real danger in many regions where it struck last year.

The dust clouds, swept up by winds from parched fields, emphasize the fact that the drought of 1934 actually never has been broken in a region roughly embracing the eastern part of the mountain States and the western portion of the great plains, says the Weather Bureau.

The only hope of a large part of this area for successful crops and sufficient grazing during the coming season lies in the spring rains, according to J. B. Kincer, Weather Bureau climatologist.

Much Moisture Needed

Even if the spring rains are normal, he points out, much of the area will enter the growing season "on a shoestring." If crops are given a good start by spring precipitation they still will be in danger of disaster if rains later in the season should prove to be poorly distributed because in the dry area the reserves of moisture in the ground are so seriously depleted.

While painting a none-too-optimistic picture of the immediate future for the "dry belt," Kincer emphasizes that this is not a forecast, and that spring rains are not normal in the northern part of this section at least, starting usually sometime in April.

However, the drought still rages in eastern Colorado, Wyoming and Montana and western North Dakota and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. Rains broke the drought at the end of the sizzling summer in the eastern part of the plains, but in that part only.

Drier Now Than Ever

The "dry belt" is actually drier now than it was at this time last year, three months before the 1934 drought broke in full force, Kincer says. Rains have been only from one-half to three-quarters of normal. Little snow has fallen in the area.

The long-continued lack of rains, dating from the beginning of last summer, has left a serious deficiency of reserve moisture in the subsoil. In the eastern part of the great plains the moisture reserve is slightly larger, enough on which to "get by," Kincer says.

Rains in the Mississippi Valley, on the other hand, have been about normal since last summer, and this part of the country which was in the drought area last summer now is well watered. A somewhat isolated dry area exists in the eastern part of the Ohio valley, especially within the State of Ohio.

The recent dust storms in the Plains States are not the first that have occurred this season, Kincer points out. Many of them can be blamed directly on the fact that the land has been cultivated, removing the grass cover that formerly held the soil in place, even when it was dry.

DUST STORMS OFTEN BLANKET DRY BELT

The map shows that section of the 1934 drought area where lack of moisture still is a vital issue. Even with spring rains the "1935 drought sector" will go into the growing season with uncertain prospects, Federal weather officials say. The dust storm pictured below is typical of storms which have blanketed many sections of the drought area.

the bill. He maintained the Governor had the power to reduce appropriations to stay within revenues, even if the revenue does slump.

Representative Cherry, however, can follow just about as loud, wave his arms just as vigorously and stir up as much fuss generally as can Bowie. He started replying to the Ashe count in the same style and without waiting for Tam to finish. Those who witnessed them in action for the first time this session feared for a time that they might have a physical encounter. But they confined the contest to noise. Cherry must have shouted louder than Tam. His bill passed.

"Yellow dog" contracts are scheduled for a public airing on March 15 when the House Judiciary Committee No. 2 will hear arguments for and against a bill to outlaw such contracts in North Carolina.

The bill, introduced by Representative Scholl, of Mecklenburg, is strongly endorsed by the State Federation of Labor. It would prohibit the insertion of the famed "yellow dog" provision in labor contracts. The yellow dog clause is the provision often included in labor contracts and is an agreement between employer and employee that the latter shall not join a labor union. The Scholl measure would nullify such agreements and make the inclusion of yellow dog clauses a violation of the law. In short, all workers would be legally free to join labor unions.

The Scholl measure goes even further and would limit the use of court injunctions in labor disputes. The bill is loosely patterned after existing laws in other States.

There is a great deal of opposition to the proposed law. Whether that opposition will come to the surface at the public hearing is not as yet known. Representative Scholl, while not of the crusading type, is vitally interested in reform legislation and is the introducer of the bill to repeal outright the absentee ballot law and on which a public hearing was held last night.

It is pointed out by proponents of the bill that the outlawing of the yellow dog contract has the approval of the national administration.

The hearing on the bill is scheduled for 9:30 a. m., March 15, and will be held in the Supreme Court library. Representative Sullivan, of Buncombe, is chairman of the Judiciary Committee which will conduct the hearing and later decide on the merits of the bill.

A total of $104,000 a year more than he had previously requested for the operation of the State Hospital for the Insane in Morganton was asked by Dr. John McCampbell, its superintendent, when he appeared before the Appropriations Committee her yesterday. It was learned from a reliable source today, although the committee session was executive and behind locked doors with all newspapermen excluded. Dr. McCampbell had previously requested $346,815 for the first year and $342,030 for the second year of the next biennium. The Budget Commission reduced these requested amounts to $307,000 and $285,000 for the first and second years of the biennium, respectively.

The additional $104,000 a year will be necessary to operate the hospital for each of the next two years if he is required to reduce the working day of the nurses and attendants from fifteen hours a day to twelve hours a day. Dr. McCampbell is reported to have told the committee. When asked if he thought this increase necessary, he is reported to have said that it was if the demands of the employees were met for shorter hours, but indicated he did not think either the larger appropriation or the shorter hours were needed.

"Dr. McCampbell was as uncompromising and cold-blooded in his position with regard to the nine hours for employees and treatment of patients as he was last week," a member of the committee. "He seems to feel just as he did last week when he admitted that the nurses and attendants were working under the same rules and regulations drawn up between 40 and 50 years ago, and when he said his idea about operating the hospital were the same now as they were forty years ago. He still seems to think the nurses and attendants should continue to work fifteen hours a day with only two days off a month."

Members of the Appropriations Committee as well as of the Committee on Insane Asylums are continuing to get letters urging the passage of the resolution which has already passed the Senate, calling for an official investigation of the Morganton Hospital. It is understood that the several members of the board of trustees have written urging its passage.

Present King Arthur Stories.

The fifth grade from the Training school, taught by Miss Rainwater, presented three scenes from King Arthur stories, at the regular assembly hour of the college yesterday morning in Austin auditorium.

This group had been studying about knighthood and castle life. The children themselves, under the guidance of teachers, selected the parts to be given, the cast of characters and arranged the scenery which also was made entirely by them.

The scenes presented were these: how Arthur became king; how he got his sword from the lake; and how the Round Table was organized.

The boys as knights and followers of King Arthur, carried swords and shields, and the three queens of the court and the Lady of the Lake wore dresses in medieval costumes. The costumes as well as the scenery were planned and made by the group.

The program was an excellent demonstration of work actually done by the children and student teachers, and showed how dramatization can be used to bring all types of work together.

Endorses Cancer Lecture.

Doctor Ennett, Pitt County Health Officer, when informed by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, chairman of the Greenville Woman's Club that the club had planned to bring a well-known cancer lecturer, Dr. W. D. James, to Greenville, expressed great interest in the occasion, stating that cancer is a disease in which every adult should be vitally interested.

According to Doctor Ennett, cancer is not a hopeless or incurable disease, but that the public should understand that the chief hope of cure for cancer patients lies in having treatment during the first stages of the disease.

Cancer may be external or internal; the external cancer, or cancer outside the body, may begin as a wart, mole, scab, sore or lump in the breast. Lumps on the breast are especially suspicious, as are lesions in smokers caused by irritation of the pipe.

Internal cancer is not so easily diagnosed, but there are certain danger signals which your doctor will understand if you consult him early. But under no circumstances should you go to a doctor who advertises a "cure" for cancer. No medicine has yet been proven to be a cure, but surgery, X-ray and radium are our chief means of curing cancer. Remember that cancer is always a local disease, that is, it is confined to a small area, and if it is to be cured, you must see your doctor before it spreads.

Doctor Ennett further stated that the death rate from cancer is increasing from year to year, and will continue to increase until the public is educated both as to its early symptoms and the importance of early treatment. He expressed the hope that the citizens of Greenville and Pitt County generally, would avail themselves of this unusual opportunity to learn something about a disease which is responsible for one death out of every 14 in men past 40, and one out of every eight women past 40.

The lecture will be illustrated and is free.

Third St. P. T. A. Meets.

The Third Street Parent-Teacher Association held its regular monthly meeting on Monday night, March 4th, in the school auditorium.

An attractive program was presented by the first three grades. It consisted of living pictures from the following stories: Goldilocks, Peter Pan, Snow-White, Cinderella, Painted Pie, Robinson Crusoe, Red Riding Hood, Hansel and Gretel, and the Pied Piper of Hamelin. The children of these grades played an active part in selecting the stories and scenes to be made into living pictures and carried the pictures out in a charming manner. Each picture was announced by a child from the grade portraying it.

Dr. N. T. Ennett of the health department gave a very instructive talk on "Malnutrition." This talk will be a great help to both parents and teachers.

The final treat on the program was when Miss Agnes Fullilove, Mrs. Dink James and Mr. McDougall, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ray Tyson, sang "Pale Moon." These musicians are adding much to the life of our community and all being connected with the city school system add to the significance of the program.

The second grade won the attendance prize, however the first and third grades gave a close run.

After the program was concluded everyone was invited to inspect our newly equipped rest room. The school is proud to have a room where children or teachers may go to pause and rest during the day's work or when suddenly sickness comes.

Plans were made to supplement or give lunches to those needing them.

It is very encouraging to teachers and pupils to have so many parents and friends of the school come to these meetings, thus showing their interest in our school.—Reported.

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL DRIVES STOCK HUDSON

Seven new official stock car records were established on the Daytona Beach sands last Monday when Sir Malcolm Campbell, driving a Hudson sedan, fully equipped stock model, broke the previous flying start marks for one to five miles and one to ten kilometers. Softness of the beach cut at least two miles an hour from the new record. Sir Malcolm stated, but the attempt could not be delayed for more favorable conditions on account of preparations for his world speed trials in the Bluebird. Beach conditions made the stock car runs even more tests of ruggedness than of speed, it was stated.

Shortly thereafter the famous Britisher set the new speed marks. Buddy Marr, of Detroit, took the same Hudson sedan on the Daytona course for new stock car records for the mile from standing start and for both the kilometer and mile in second gear. These two latter tests in which Marr sent the sedan over a measured mile in second gear at the phenomenal speed of 70 miles per hour, was considered the most punishing of the entire series. It shattered the previous record by more than 7 miles per hour.

Sir Malcolm was enthusiastic over the Hudson's performance, stating at the conclusion of the run, "It is a remarkable motor, very smooth and powerful. What amazes me most is the way the car is unaffected after the way it has been slammed around in preparation for the run. I want to congratulate the Hudson Company on the performance of the car."

SCHOOL SAVINGS UP. U. S. SURVEY SHOWS

New York.—(AP)—School savings deposits are "decidedly on the upgrade," W. Epsay Albright, deputy manager of the American Bankers' Association, says in a report on savings bank projects conducted in schools throughout the United States.

"The net increase—the difference between the amount deposited and the amount withdrawn—during the year closing June 30, 1934, was $3,690,560 over the volume of the preceding year," the report said.

School savings in the two former years had fallen off, pupils a year ago having withdrawn $2,250,000 more than they had deposited during the preceding twelve months, thus using their reserves set up in former years, according to the report. Two years ago the loss reached almost $3,000,000.

PUBLIC BORE NO. 1 IS TITLE VOTED TO SHAW

London.—(AP)—Elected England's "Public Bore No. 1" by an overwhelming majority in a competition conducted by a London newspaper, George Bernard Shaw feels he is approaching true fame.

"That's really wonderful," exclaimed the famous author, "I feel truly distinguished."

Shaw received 226 votes in the adverse popularity contest compared to 186 for his closest rival, Amy Molisson, the aviatrix. Third place was decided when 181 professed boredom at reading about Sir Oswald Mosely, leader of England's fascists.

Others in the list included Greta Garbo, with 166 votes; Hitler, 164; Lady Astor 150; Doug Fairbanks, Sr. 136; Max Baer 110; the Midway 80; Mae West 68; Mary Pickford 64; and Almee MacPherson 61.

BATTLE BUDGET INDICATES

Oslo.—(AP)—Norway with a distinct improvement in national economy reported at the recent opening of the parliament, will continue to combat the depression in much the same manner as during the past year, with a budgeted appropriation of $10,000,000.

This amount will be used to aid prices and marketing in agriculture and fishing, help communities in the conversion of loans, provide loans at lower interest rates and, on relief projects, directly fight unemployment.

The proposed budget for the fiscal year 1935-36 is balanced at a total of about $100,000,000, or an increase of less than 4 per cent.

The national debt will be increased by $2,500,000 under the proposed new budget. A good increase in revenue is reported.

An increase of $162,000 in the appropriation for the army, to a total of $4,363,775, is proposed, while the naval appropriation would be raised by $194,500 to $2,775,000.

What amazes me most is the way the car is unaffected after the way it has been slammed around in preparation for the run. I want to congratulate the Hudson Company on the performance of the car."

SCHOOL SAVINGS UP. U. S. SURVEY SHOWS

New York.—(AP)—School savings deposits are "decidedly on the upgrade," W. Epsay Albright, deputy manager of the American Bankers' Association, says in a report on savings bank projects conducted in schools throughout the United States.

"The net increase—the difference between the amount deposited and the amount withdrawn—during the year closing June 30, 1934, was $3,690,560 over the volume of the preceding year," the report said.

School savings in the two former years had fallen off, pupils a year ago having withdrawn $2,250,000 more than they had deposited during the preceding twelve months, thus using their reserves set up in former years, according to the report. Two years ago the loss reached almost $3,000,000.

PUBLIC BORE NO. 1 IS TITLE VOTED TO SHAW

London.—(AP)—Elected England's "Public Bore No. 1" by an overwhelming majority in a competition conducted by a London newspaper, George Bernard Shaw feels he is approaching true fame.

"That's really wonderful," exclaimed the famous author, "I feel truly distinguished."

Shaw received 226 votes in the adverse popularity contest compared to 186 for his closest rival, Amy Molisson, the aviatrix. Third place was decided when 181 professed boredom at reading about Sir Oswald Mosely, leader of England's fascists.

Others in the list included Greta Garbo, with 166 votes; Hitler, 164; Lady Astor 150; Doug Fairbanks, Sr. 136; Max Baer 110; the Midway 80; Mae West 68; Mary Pickford 64; and Almee MacPherson 61.

BATTLE BUDGET INDICATES

Oslo.—(AP)—Norway with a distinct improvement in national economy reported at the recent opening of the parliament, will continue to combat the depression in much the same manner as during the past year, with a budgeted appropriation of $10,000,000.

This amount will be used to aid prices and marketing in agriculture and fishing, help communities in the conversion of loans, provide loans at lower interest rates and, on relief projects, directly fight unemployment.

The proposed budget for the fiscal year 1935-36 is balanced at a total of about $100,000,000, or an increase of less than 4 per cent.

The national debt will be increased by $2,500,000 under the proposed new budget. A good increase in revenue is reported.

An increase of $162,000 in the appropriation for the army, to a total of $4,363,775, is proposed, while the naval appropriation would be raised by $194,500 to $2,775,000.

NO NEED FOR IT

We agree heartily with the Wilson Daily Times in the following editorial concerning the Flanagan bills now before Congress, and what that paper says regarding the situation is equally true in this section and in every other community where bright leaf tobacco is produced and sold. We pass this editorial on to our readers and join the Times in urging you to get in touch with our representatives in Washington and urge that they do not support such a measure.

There are at present before a sub-committee of the Agricultural Committee of the House at Washington two Bills—House Bill 2778 and House Bill 3258, known as the "Flanagan Bills," which Bills provide for the compulsory Government grading of tobacco before same is offered for sale on the warehouse floor.

The Bills further provide that here shall be paid by the buyer five cents per hundred pounds to take care of the grading services.

They likewise place absolutely in the hands of the Secretary of Agriculture the opening or closing of tobacco markets, the opening or closing of individual markets or warehouses and impose heavy fines or imprisonment or both on those who unduly criticize the Government officials and in many other ways interfere generally with the present system of marketing tobacco.

The farmers in this immediate territory have for generations past adhered to the auction system of marketing their tobacco with but a slight interval on the part of a few of them in 1921 and 1922, but in many sections, the farmers have tried various ways of selling tobacco—sometimes in the country, sometimes in pools or associations and other sections have tried still other ways, and there has never been a time that any other method has been found so satisfactory as the auction system where the farmer first grades his own tobacco, arranges with the warehouseman as to where he shall place it for sale, then the farmer is usually present when his tobacco is sold; where the buyers representing all buying interests gather around each and every lot and make such bid as they are able to make on the tobacco. After it is sold, it is still the farmer's privilege to accept or reject the bid and the warehouseman always being found willing to assist the farmer and cooperate with him in every way if he decides to reject the bids made. It would be absolutely impossible for the Government to obtain any such men who could possibly grade in a satisfactory manner Bright Flue Cured Tobacco in order to make their gradings fit the standards of the various manufacturers of tobacco in this country and the exporters to foreign countries.

Tobacco is not like cotton. Cotton has only a few principal grades and there are literally hundreds of different grades of tobacco sold on our market and the types on other markets do not always fit the types on our market and it requires years for men to be trained to buy satisfactorily for any given concern. An experienced tobacco man will admit that it is practically impossible to standardize the grading of Bright Flue Cured Tobacco.

The Flanagan Bills are not presented by farmers but by men who have no experience in tobacco and have for their objective eventually the complete revolutionizing of the sale of our tobacco.

Our farmers, warehousemen and buyers work together harmoniously for the best interest of the Trade generally. The farmers are satisfied and there is no earthly reason why any politician or group of politicians, who know little or nothing about the tobacco business, should try to disrupt and disorganize our present method of marketing our tobacco.

We suggest to the farmers that they as individuals and as groups in various localities send letters, telegrams and signed petitions to their Congressmen and Senators urging that they defeat these Bills. No real good can come to the farmers from the passing of the Flanagan Bills.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

less summed up the sentiment of a sufficient number of his Democratic colleagues when he said, in offering a substitute he hoped would be acceptable all around:

"We are not going to straddle any fence. I hate a straddler. I hate a man who stands so that the people can not tell where he stands. We should stand on one side of the fence or the other, or else take the fence away and then the people can not tell where we are standing."

He added that if the Senate adopted his compromise it would "take the Senators out of the hole and everybody will be sitting on top of the ground."

EMERY: The winning of this battle over the $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill has some uncomfortable angles, however.

If sufficient fire is placed under certain Democratic feet in the Senate the administration thinks it can come through. Trades will have to be made involving future legislation. Even so, those switched over would be mad privately.

But if the White House should by any chance decide to step back and let Congress stew in its own juice the precedent would have been established and the recalcitrants would feel free to continue pouring emery into the New Deal crankcase.

HUMIDITY: A veteran member of Congress after watching developments in the last month predicts it will be July 1 before the Honorables finally hear the adjournment gavel.

Thus far the House has passed six of the nine regular appropriation bills and the work-relief bill. The Senate has passed two appropriation measures. That is the sum total of major legislation to date. Everything else is in a snarl.

Some of Washington's warm weather may speed the boys up a bit if it arrives in time. Old Man Humidity has been on the President's side in this town more than once when he needed action.

FIGHT: Social security legislation is providing another ingredient for the political stew now on the fire.

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee tried to strike a middle road between those who want the federal government to have control of unemployment payments and old age pensions and those who feel the states should regulate such vital matters. The Committee compromise succeeded in satisfying neither side and eventually was tossed back to a drafting clerk for complete overhauling.

No matter how it hits the floor there will be a fight. A gas rule may take it through the House but the Senate will be waiting.

MACE: The word goes around that utility holding companies have been overplaying their cards. They will survive, although their wings may be clipped. President Roosevelt was careful to correct a slip of speech at the opening of Congress which was taken to mean that he planned destruction of these concerns. He is after the "evils," which means that regulation is coming.

Two lobbies, one of public utility executives and the other utility stockholders, have been active and well financed. The better prospects for holding companies are not credited to the lobby workers but to the new spirit which seeks to make laws straight. In this field as in all others, there is now a wholesome dread of the "petrified mace" of judicial power.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN

INVERTED: Take it from New York circles, the next important check to be heeded from the New Deal will be monetary. They expect that such a move is under private discussion in high Washington circles. The weakness of sterling would give it a convenient perch. Financial experts agree that a sharp rise in gold prices and trade would be a boon to the United States. It is so much more widely used in international trade than any other currency that would give it a ready market. They are all for it, they say. They are all for it, they say.

So London figure a bold step by our government to convert the dollar into a floating unit would be wise. It would mean that the dollar would be a floating unit. It would mean that the dollar would be a floating unit. It would mean that the dollar would be a floating unit.

It is noted that the White House has had no serious arguments with Congress on monetary matters for some time. The informed suggest that a quick change of focus to the dollar would be the likeliest way to divert public attention from the painful work-relief impasse and adverse decisions.

GREAT RICHES
by Mabel Howe Farnham

SYNOPSIS: James Stimson, III, is a perfectly good little boy who has the misfortune to be brought up among doting grandparents and aunts and family friends in New Concord, N.C. None is more doting than black Aunt Lou, who just has explained that James' father went to join the boy's mother in a very handsomely furnished heaven because the mother "carried on" so that those in charge had to send for the father to quiet her!

Chapter Three
JUDGE HOLCOMB

"I SHOULD think mother'd carry on a little longer until he sent for me, too," said James practically.

"I told you it wouldn't be manners," Aunt Lou replied. "And enny ways how could I and your grandma and your Aunt Sarey git along without no little boy in the house?"

"But I'd come back and visit you, often and often, Honest I would."

Aunt Lou explained that anyone allowed the great privilege of entering Heaven was never permitted to depart. "Cepting a corse the Devil, and you know what happened to him."

Sitting at the kitchen table with his face cupped in his small hands James decided after mature deliberation that it would be impossible to live with his father and mother. Grandmother could not go along without him and he could not go along without Grandmother.

James was a little boy and an active little boy with few pay for his nature. He had to have a job to look up to and worship. It was his father, Lancelot. And his great father sprang to life and reached Lancelot off the pedestal.

James decided that he too would be a doctor. He told Aunt Lou so and she, without a moment's hesitation, next to the Lord God on High, they agreed, however, that a father doctor also took care of the sick angels in his spare moments and especially of the little boy angels who had eaten too much "embroidered" ice cream.

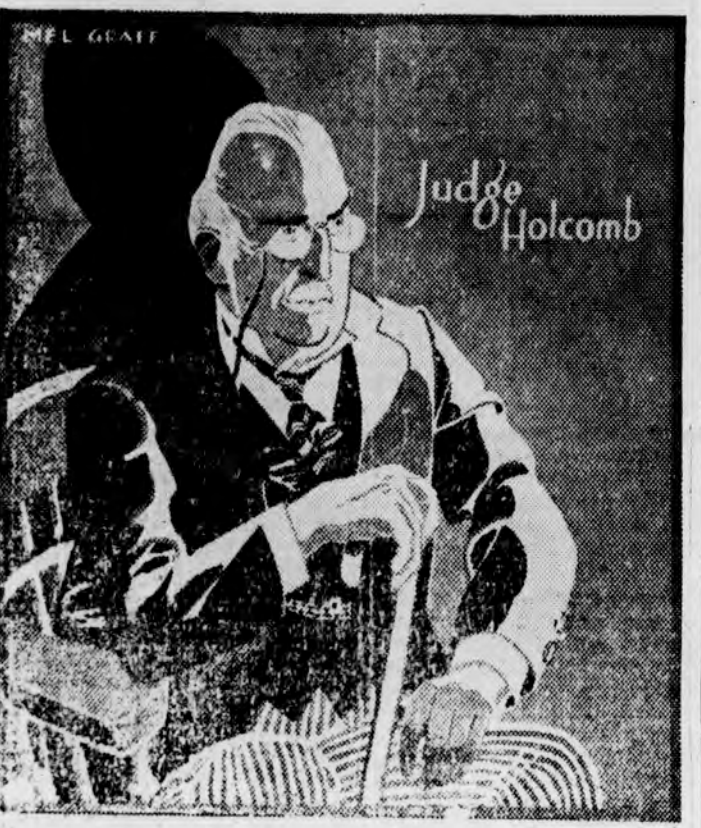

James, however, found it wiser not to discuss the delightful state in which his father dwelt with his grandmother and grandfather or even with Aunt Sarah. Aunt Sarah was somewhat shocked, feeling "surely that it was irreligious, and so grandmother cried a little when he mentioned it to her.

Even his grandfather, though he doted on him, changed the subject as soon as he decently could. Grandfather always changed the subject when Father was mentioned by anyone except Grandmother.

JAMES was an engagingly homesick little boy with bright, curly red hair, wide apart gray eyes with gold lashes, and a wide band of brown freckles straight across his rather nice little nose.

But in spite of all that was afterwards claimed for him he was in no way an angelic child except that he had a rather remarkable memory. He remembered people by name even if he had met them most casually and could repeat quite long poems word for word after they had been read to him once or twice.

However, he was only seven or eight and his gift of memory hardly remarked upon when Judge Holcomb made the flat statement that little James Stimson was not only uncommonly and mightily gifted, but beyond the shadow of a doubt one of those rare darlings of the gods, predestined by the Powers on High to great riches and sure and easy fame and success.

Although the Judge joked irreverently about the sainted dead he was as one with the women in their interest in Dr. Jim's orphaned son. Indeed the Judge became so besotted that the story, probably entirely apocryphal, spread through New Concord that he had been in love with Molly Ewing Stimson.

A more likely explanation is that the Judge was meant to have at least a dozen children. As the ex-governor's law partner he was often at the Stimsons and saw much of the little boy; the prodigious affection that should have been scattered among a dozen centered on James.

Most of the women accepted the Judge's pronouncements concerning the hope of the Stimsons without cavil or question. Not so Miss Julia Pratt, his great friend and near neighbor. Miss Julia gave it as her belief that the poor child was pursued by a Jinx, losing his father and mother so early and all. The Judge pooch-pooched this as the reasoning of a nitwit and entirely unworthy of MISPLAY: New Yorkers in close touch with Congress say the tension between the White House and Capitol Hill has been heightened by an apparent triviality. Last year when FDR got into a dispute with the solons he went off on a yachting trip with Vincent Astor. This year—under similar circumstances—he visited the Fly Club at Harvard. It is reported here that a number of the lawmakers feel that their dignity—or something—has been affronted.

Conservative Republican Senators who voted for prevailing wages are hearing from their New York contacts—and the boys aren't saying it with flowers.

They are being pointedly asked whether they don't realize the staid, starchy caused by their "pure obstructionism" plays squarely into the hands of the radicals.

CUBA: There are signs that the general strike agitation in Cuba has a distinctly reddish tinge behind the scenes. Communist agents have been busy plowing hosiery soil. The strike probably won't come to head just yet. The sugar-grinding season is on and a number of workers know they are holding the only jobs they are likely to have all year. But there's plenty of excitement in the office.

If Mendieta is forced out you can bet your Sunday hat the next government will swing for the left. Confiscation of foreign properties will be about the mildest plank in its platform.

The informed say the only reason Mendieta is still on deck is because he has been able to pay his army regularly. That's something of a miracle in itself—and it may not go much longer. Also the would-be rebels have been handicapped by lack of funds.

TIES: The mission which has come to New York to induce American holders of Chilean bonds to accept 1-2 of 1 per cent in place of the promised 6 to 7 has a counterpart on the way to London.

In England they will deal with an established organization—the British Foreign Bondholders' Council—which can speak with authority. The American Council of Foreign Bondholders has no authority at all.

The Chileans will have to approach thousands of individual security owners. It's a cinch the bankers who floated the issues cannot be persuaded to act as intermediaries. They're in a bad enough spot already without courting extra trouble. The bondholders are out of luck whether they accept or refuse. There isn't a thing they can do to enforce payment.

Keen observers doubt that it's pure coincidence which times these aggressive gestures toward the United States and Great Britain with a Chilean move for much closer trade ties with Japan.

JOBLESS: Well-posted sources criticize the latest unemployment figures of the National Industrial Conference Board. They rate the estimated allowance for jobless new workers (out of school) since the 1930 census—1,642,000—as much too optimistic.

But if the movements now on foot to divert various sums from the highway fund to other objects succeed, the Highway Department will have a total availability of only $15,703,500 a year, instead of $31,000,000, including debt service. If the debt service item of $10,000,000 a year is deducted, only $4,603,500 a year left for both highway maintenance and construction from the estimated current revenue of $22,303,500 a year for the next two years.

There are four definite and separate proposals for the diversion of highway funds now under consideration which a good many observers believe the House will probably approve and perhaps the Senate as well, which if they go through will take $6,500,000 out of the highway revenue. This amount, plus the $10,900,000 a year needed for debt service, leaves only $4,603,500 of highway revenue available for maintenance.

The diversion effort regarded as most likely to succeed is that embodied in a bill to reduce the cost of automobile licenses for passenger cars from a base rate of 55 cents per 100 to 40 cents per 100 pounds. This bill is still in the House Roads Committee, but will be reported before long. Most observers predict that it will pass the House with very little opposition and probably pass the Senate also. It will reduce the expected revenue for the highway fund by at least $1,500,000 a year.

It is also admitted that there is very strong support in the House for the Bowie bill which would direct the Highway Commission to remit the proceeds from one cent of the gasoline tax back to the one hundred counties for the purpose of assisting the counties pay off their road indebtedness, debt service or any "necessary expense of said counties." This bill would divert at least $2,500,000 a year from the highway fund back to the counties to be used by them for virtually any purpose they might desire. Some reports are that fully 50 per cent of the House members have already agreed to support this bill. It is conceded that it will be very difficult for many members of both Houses to vote against this bill which would divert at least $2,500,000 a year in cold cash to carry back to their counties, even if it is cash paid by the motorists in automobile license gasoline taxes.

There is virtually no doubt that both the House and Senate will approve the recommendation of the Budget Commission to again divert $1,000,000 a year from the highway to the general fund, as has been done the past two years. There is already strong sentiment in the Finance Committee to boost this to $1,000,000 a year, while the school forces want it increased to $2,500,000 a year so that the school appropriation can be fixed at $22,000,000 a year.

When these four diversion moves are tallied up, they stand as follows:

Lower license fees.....	$1,500,000
Bowie bill to counties.....	2,500,000
To general fund.....	1,000,000
For schools.....	1,500,000

It is not expected that all of these diversions will succeed. But there is a real likelihood that enough of them will succeed to materially reduce the highway fund below the amount needed for highway purposes, a good many here are convinced.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

RETIRED RAILWAY ENGINEER COLLECTS ENGINE PICTURES

San Diego, Calif.—(AP)—For nearly forty years, although he never weighed more than 100 pounds, W. E. Butler fired roaring locomotives or rode at the throttles of crack passenger trains. Now in retirement at the age of 72, the "Little Giant," as he was known to the brotherhood, is still passionately fond of railroading.

His interest finds a less strenuous outlet but the fascination, he says, is as great as ever. He has assembled a collection of nearly 2,000 photographs and more than a thou-

The Rescue

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

RIP stumbled and fell. But as he fell he realized that he had fallen against something rather soft. An even stronger smell of burning filled his nostrils—the smell of burning wool.

"Sweet Face!" gasped Rip. "A low, sad, mournful little wall came to him."

"I thought—I had—gone," came the timid, small, frightened voice of the lamb.

"Rouse yourself!" cried Rip. "Take hold of me and I'll lead you to safety."

"I—can't—do—"

Sweet Face was overcome again as he had been before when Rip was looking for him.

Rip dug his teeth into a great wad of wool at Sweet Face's neck, and pulled and pulled and pulled.

"I don't know how I'll ever get him out," thought Rip desperately. "Rip! Rip!" cried Willy Nilly, who now wanted to rush into the building. If Rip would not leave, and if Rip still thought Sweet Face was there, Willy Nilly was not going to let him remain by himself.

"The building is going to collapse!" cried Quick-Dick. "Don't go in there. Neigh, neigh, neigh. Rip! Rip! Come out!"

"Don't come in, Willy Nilly!" shouted Rip. "I'm coming out!" In speaking Rip's throat became so filled with smoke he thought he would choke.

He might and he might not escape with Sweet Face who was too far gone now to know what was going on. But Willy Nilly must not lose his life too!

WITH strength such as Rip did not know he had, he pulled Sweet Face over the hot floor and out of the door.

And just as he had accomplished this tremendous thing the building collapsed.

Rip had rescued Sweet Face just in time.

"I have him here," breathed Rip, hardly knowing what he was saying. And now a great weakness came over him. His body pained with burns, his eyes smarted, his throat was full of smoke, but all of these were mixed up in his thoughts which were becoming less and less clear.

"He—was—there—all—the—time."

Rip fell over.

"I'll get them back to the house," cried Willy Nilly. "Run for the liniment, Mrs. Quacko, and get out the old soft bandages and everything. You, Quick-Dick, and Fire Chief Quacko stay here and see that the fire is out so it will not spread."

Willy Nilly lifted Rip up into his arms and hurried to the house with him. Then he rushed back and carried Sweet Face, the lamb, to his house, too.

Sweet Face was the first to open his eyes.

"Am I alive, bleat, bleat?" asked the lamb.

"Rip rescued you," said Willy Nilly.

Now Rip spoke:

"I've got to get him. Let me go! I know he is there! I feel sure of it. Let me go." Rip tried to jump out of Willy Nilly's arms.

"He doesn't know what he's saying," Willy Nilly cried.

REALTY MOVE SLOWS DOWN

Property Transfer Not as Active Here Now as During Last Of 1934

Over twenty realty transfers have been reported in this community the last week or so, it was revealed today by records in the office of the Register of Deeds.

The batch isn't quite as large as usual, of course, but it is of sufficient scope to convince even the most doubtful that real estate is on an upward movement and is destined to show much activity in coming months.

From fifty to sixty realty deals have been reported here from week to week for the last several months and a revival of business is expected to be experienced with the coming of springtime when the minds of home lovers turn to building operations.

Construction activities have been much improved in Greenville for some time, and many new homes probably will go up during the spring and summer in addition to other kinds of structures. Nearly a hundred thousand dollars worth of building contracts have already been issued here since the first of the year and this bespeaks great things for the future.

Deeds recorded here during the past week follow:

F. M. Wooten and wife to Ella V. May, 1 lot.

THE STORE FOR MEN

New York Cotton

New York, March 6.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, two to five points decline owing to poor Liverpool cables, easy sterling exchange and liquidation.

May sold off from 12.36 to 12.31, and October from 12.28 with active months generally showing net losses of four to seven points at the end of the first half-hour.

Buying for local and New Orleans became more active with May selling up to 12.34, or nine points from the early low with active months showing about net unchanged, to three points higher at midday.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 6.—(AP)—Just as the stock market was preparing to receive another downward pitch today, help came from the White House in the form of remarks by the President at his press conference which were interpreted by some as presaging another cut in the value of the dollar.

Equities reversed themselves and jumped ahead when the tickers reported the chief executive had said the value of the monetary unit was still too high in relation to debts.

Grains easy at the start, came back with commodities and the British pound off nearly four cents at one time, recovered the loss. Gold currencies were firmer.

Secondary bonds were weak after the opening, turned around and followed stocks, while United States government securities were inclined to sag.

The late tone was steady. Transfers were 900,000 shares.

In Congress

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(AP)—Official appreciation of the career of Oliver Wendell Holmes, who died early today surmounted political displeasures and governmental controversies in the national capital.

"The nation has lost one of its best citizens," President Roosevelt said of Holmes, who spent twenty-nine years of his 93 years as associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Awaiting Congressional activities—the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill and the $2,000,444,444 cash bonus measures—demanded attention.

The work relief bill without the prevailing wage amendment opposed by President Roosevelt was scheduled for Senate consideration late today or tomorrow.

Administration leaders expressed confidence of beating back amendments as opposed to the White House substitutes as wanted by President Roosevelt.

The House Ways and Means Committee voted 14 to 11 to consider the Vinson bill of cash bonus payment through organized financial arrangement as opposed to the Patman currency expansion plan. It will be reported to the House floor after study of amendments.

The Senate's official business was the War Department's appropriations bill. The House was engaged with miscellaneous measures.

Coroner Holds Inquest.

Pinehurst, March 6.—(AP)—A millionaire bride, weeping and intending to get tight at what was supposed to be a gay party, was a picture given of Mrs. H. Bradley Davidson, Jr., today as a coroner's jury resume the inquest into her death.

Contradicting other witnesses who said they saw little unusual in Mrs. Davidson's attitude at a spaghetti supper a few hours before her body was found, two witnesses said they saw her in an outburst of weeping, and Bernard Freeman, Pinehurst business man, said he heard Mrs. Davidson say, "I'm going to get tight."

He said he noticed her drinking wine, but there was a high ball before her at the table. All witnesses have testified to what they termed "extremely light" drinking the night of the party.

Pat Frank reported at the inquest that Emanuel Birch, the Davidson butler, told him Mr. and Mrs. Davidson sometimes quarreled. The butler had told the inquest jury earlier that he had not known his master to quarrel with the Statter heiress.

Mrs. Jane McMullen of Hyannisport, Mass., a member of the party, and John Notragiacchio, waiter at the spaghetti club, both said they saw Mrs. Davidson weep at the hotel. Shortly thereafter, at 4:30, according to witnesses, who said the party broke up, Davidson said he and his wife argued in front of their home over who should place the car in the garage, but later left it in front of the house where they had been preceded by house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Campaigne of New York. Davidson said his wife apparently went to bed.

platform as will the Shelbyite. His position is more than likely to be a liberal attitude.

Thus it is quite plain that Douglas did nothing over the weekend to lessen sentiment for the Hill bill. The assumption in the capital is that he did precisely nothing about it.

That someone did something is, however, very evident. Many individuals coming to Raleigh early this week have asked observers the same question: "What's responsible for the sudden switch on the Hill bill?" Apparently no one knows the answer to the degree of certainty. There was no dry rally, Cale Burgess, executive president of the United Drys, stays in Raleigh all the time except on Sundays when he travels to various sections of the state to make bone dry talks in churches. He is busy lobbying for the retention of the Turlington act all the time. It is hardly likely that his influence reached any sudden peak over a single Sunday.

Observers are still wondering about Judge Webb's visit. They would like to know if he really did talk politics or liquor, or both, during his brief stay in the capital.

Senator Hill has, however, regained his confidence and believes his bill will pass the senate. Observers noted yesterday and today a revival of sentiment for the measure. One senator who has been listed all the time as a "doubtful" yesterday came into the Hill fold and will vote for the bill. Even many opponents of the bill are saying that the local option amendment to the bill supplanting the statewide referendum feature, strengthens the bill considerably.

The senate devoted so much time yesterday to discussion of a bill to regulate the practice of optometry that the Hill bill was not reached. It is on the calendar for today.
