NO SIGNS OF PEACE SEEN IN REVOLUTION

Greek Forces Continue to Harass Rebels in the Struma Battle Zone Today

Ghevghelli, Greek - Yugo - Slavia Frontier, March 11. —(AP)—The Greek government entered the eleventh day of its revolution today with apparently no more signs of peace than when the insurrection began.

Government infantry, artillery and airplanes continued to harass rebels along the Bemirhissar-Seres frontier without decisive results.

Reports were circulated that the government troops had captured Ceres, but these reports were discounted by observers of the situation here.

It is still uncertain whether the loyalist forces had even crossed the River Struma.

In Athens the cabinet appeared to be in a dilemma, not knowing whether General Kondylis, commander of the loyalist forces, would attack the rebels with his five divisions of the national army or continue merely to worry the insurgents with the single division, hoping to disrupt their morale.

The government was remaining hesitant to test the loyalists, its soldiers and aviators, in the opinion of some observers, fearing they, too may join the revolution.

In the absence of impartial and reliable reports from the front, the whole situation remained obscure and uncertain. Both sides claimed overwhelming victory.

Not a single American or foreign correspondent has succeeded in reaching the government or rebel lines, although British and French military attaches are reported to have gone to the front by permission of the government.

Mrs. E. L. Wooten To Be Buried Today

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Wooten, aged 66 years, died last night at 9 o'clock at the home of her son near Falkland.

Mrs. Wooten had been suffering with heart trouble for some time but had only been confined to her bed a week.

Funeral services were conducted from the Otter's Creek Primitive Baptist Church this afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. Ernest Cobb of Pine-top.

Mrs. Wooten is survived by one son, Ernest, with whom she made her home; also one brother, J. H. Forbes, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Webb and Mrs. D. R. Mercer, all of Macfield community.

Demand $60,000 In Three Suits

Williamston, March 11.—Twenty-four cases have been placed on the civil calendar for trial in the Martin County Superior Court convening here on the 18th, with Judge Clayton Moore, local jurist, presiding. Probably the most interesting case coming up for decision is that of the three suits growing out of the fatal wreck near Robertsonville on the September 6 last, in which Marshall Andrews and John Leavister were killed.

J. Lloyd Corey, Pitt county white man and owner of the truck driven by Ollie Page, colored, figuring in the wreck, is defendant in two suits, one asking $15,000 and another $50,000 damages. Corey is plaintiff in a case asking $150 damages of H. F. Leavister, owner of the car figuring in the death of Marshall Andrews and John Leavister. Roy Andrews, administrator for Marshall Andrews' estate is asking $15,000.

NOBILITY OF THE FLOW TITLE FOR NAZI BARON

Berlin.—(AP)—The Reich's foreign minister, polishes and suave Baron Constantin von Neurath, has been elevated to the Nazi nobility—that of the furrow, in other words, has become an "Erbschauer" (hereditary peasant).

For one hundred years or more the Neuraths have owned the Lottfelder Hof, a farming estate in Württemberg, hitherto leased to tenants.

But because of new farm laws, the baron has now shouldered the responsibilities of an "Erbschauer." Being otherwise engaged, he is allowed to leave the actual farming to a steward.

He has a 32-year-old son, so the succession is assured.

Threaten Daughters Of N. Y. Police Head

Coincident with the start of a policy racket investigation at New York, kidnapers threatened the daughters of Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, Miriam, 16, (above) and Ruth, 18. Detectives have kept a ceaseless vigil over the girls for several days. (Associated Press Photo)

PLANS READY FOR REVIVAL

Dr. J. Clyde Turner to Begin Revival at Immanuel Baptist Church next Monday

Preparations had been completed today for the series of revival services to be conducted at Immanuel Baptist Church the week of March 18 by Dr. J. Clyde Turner of Greensboro. It was announced today by the revival committee.

The services will begin Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Special musical programs will be rendered each evening the services are in progress.

Dr. Turner, former chairman of the State Baptist Convention, will be remembered with pleasure by Greenville people as he presided over the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the birthday of the State Baptist Convention here several years ago.

Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of the local church, said this morning elaborate preparations are being made for the meeting, and the public is given a cordial invitation to attend.

Names Committee On Bank Measure

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Appointment of a bankers' committee to confer with Congressional leaders and administration officials on changes in the proposed banking act of 1935 was announced today by Rudolph S. Hecht, president of the American Bankers Association.

Hecht in a statement declared the administrative committee and the executive committee on banking studies of the association approved in substance title I and title 2 of the proposed act covering deposit insurance and Federal Reserve changes, but the committee believes changes should be made in title 2 covering proposed changes in the Federal Reserve system and centralization of banking control.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington By GEORGE DUBNO

PRESSURE: The heat has been turned on beneath the Rayburn bill which would legislate utilities holding companies out of existence in five years. As a result it's a good bet that if Congress takes any final action this session it will be in the nature of a much modified act of regulation and control.

Methods of the power lobby in stirring up voter interest in the measure have been exposed on the floor of the House but they are proving highly effective.

Sensators and Congressman alike are being swamped with mail-much of it couched in identical language—protesting enactment of the bill.

HOUSING BODY TO BE SET UP IN GREENVILLE

R. L. Powell Says Federal Housing Movement Will Begin Here in Ten Days

R. L. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, left today for Raleigh where tonight he will attend a meeting of chairmen of the State Federal Housing Administration to be held at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Powell is chairman of the Housing Administration here and said before leaving for Raleigh that a local organization campaign would begin in the next ten days or two weeks.

The object of the Administration is to loan money for repairing and remodeling houses in all sections of the country. The movement has already been started in some sections of the state, and will be gotten underway here as early as possible.

The meeting tonight is being held for the purpose of informing the various chairmen of the program so that when they return home organization plans may be started immediately.

A considerable sum of money will be made available to property owners for improvement of their property when the organization begins functioning here. Mr. Powell said, and it is expected scores will take advantage of the government move to spread employment and at the same time improve the condition of houses which have been allowed to run down during the pronounced shortage of money in recent years.

THREE JAILED IN MEAT THEFT

Two Colored Men and Woman Nabbed After Stealing 400 lbs. Of Meat Near City

Three colored persons, one a woman, were being held in jail here today charged with stealing approximately 400 pounds of meat from the smokehouse of Warren Bell, colored operator of a store at Bell's Cross Roads, about three miles from Greenville.

Ernest Hines and Matthew Barnes are charged with breaking into the smokehouse and stealing the meat and Max Hines is charged with receiving stolen property. They are to be given a preliminary hearing in a magistrate's court probably this afternoon.

Chief of Police George Clark said this morning the bulk of the meat was recovered Saturday. Two of the three large hams had been sold to local grocery stores, but the remainder of the meat was found at the home of Mrs. Hines.

Chief Clark said Bell reported the theft Friday night and an investigation was started immediately. He said the thieves had tunneled under the smoke house and broke through the floor.

The theft was one of the largest of the kind reported here in the last year or so, although numbers of minor thefts have been investigated by city and county officers during the year.

Over Two Million In New Revenue Is Found

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. By C. A. PAUL

Raleigh, N. C., March 11.—A total of $2,506,750 in new revenue has been "found" by the joint legislative committee and schedules for the collection of that amount have been approved by the finance body.

An analysis of the sources reveals, however, that the increases are "on paper" and can hardly be figured to actually yield that much. The largest single item was obtained by striking out the exemptions of staple foods such as sugar, meal, salt and so on as provided for in the present revenue act which was framed in 1933. A total of $1,271,250 would be added to collections under the retail sales tax, it is estimated by Revenue Commissioner A. J. Maxwell, by removal of the exemptions. He estimates the average exemptions under the present schedule at 15 per cent of total retail sales. The sales tax as now collected will yield, at the present ratio, $8,475,000 this year. Fifteen per cent of that sum is $1,271,250, which would bring total collections, if the 15 per cent figure is accurate, to $9,746,250, or approximately to the $10,000,000 estimate of Senate Finance Chairman Harris Newman, although the revenue department estimates collections more conservatively under the exemptionless tax at $9,250,000.

The next largest item a new revenue is also a by-product of the sales tax and is the imposition of the 3 per cent retail sales tax levied on sale of food and room rentals by

J. W. EDWARDS BURIED TODAY

Final Rites Held for Grimesland Man at Burial Ground Near Old Home

Funeral services for James W. Edwards, 77, prominent farmer, of Grimesland, who died at noon Sunday at the home of his son, J. E. Edwards, of Belhaven, were conducted from the late home this afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. D. G. Sanders, pastor of the Belhaven Christian Church. Burial was made in the Edwards' family burial ground near Grimesland.

Mr. Edwards, who had been in ill health two weeks preceding his death was born and reared in Grimesland. He spent all of his life there with exception of the four years he lived at the home of his son at Belhaven.

He was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends who received news of his death with sorrow. He is survived by two sons, S. M. Edwards, of Ayden; J. E. Edwards, of Belhaven; by one daughter, Mrs. N. C. Tripp, of Ayden; two brothers, W. T. Edwards, of Greenville; R. D. Edwards, of Grimesland, and one sister, Mrs. Frank Bell, of Rocky Mount.

NEGRO ENTERS GIRL'S ROOM

Many Homes Reported Entered at Smithfield Over the Week-End

Smithfield, March 11.—(AP)—Several homes were visited by burglars here during the week-end and in one instance a negro invaded the bedroom of the daughter of John Ellington, who was asleep but he fled in great haste when the young woman awakened and screamed loudly.

In addition to the Ellington home the homes of R. E. Gillette and Rev. C. E. Massey were also visited. At the Gillette's home a small safe was broken into and the Gillette's trousers were ransacked. No arrests have been made yet.

Protest Annual Naval Maneuvers

New York, March 11.—(AP)—An appeal to President Roosevelt protesting the holding of the naval maneuvers in the Pacific next May and June was forwarded to Washington today by 198 prominent churchmen from all parts of the United States.

The letter, made public by Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, secretary of the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, asserts the maneuvers, if held, "will seriously complicate the task of maintaining peace in the Pacific."

The President was urged, as the Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces of the United States, and in the name of peace, to alter the plans for these maneuvers so that they may be held, if at all, under such circumstances as will not occasion suspicion and ill will in the Far East.

FIVE INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Sheriff Investigating Collision of Two Autos at Cox Mill Saturday Night

Five persons were injured, one probably seriously, in an automobile collision on the Greenville-Vanceboro highway at Cox Mill Saturday night, it was reported here today.

The injured were: John Hughes, Washington, broken ribs and lacerated head; K. R. Wiggins, Grimesland, lacerations of head; Harry Brown, Washington, lacerations; Heber Haddock, Sheldahl line, and Pigg Mills, lacerations of body.

All were rushed to the Washington hospital where they received medical aid.

Haddock's car, driven by Brown, a Washington attorney and occupied by Hughes and Wiggins, was traveling in the direction of Greenville when it collided with another machine driven by Mills and traveling towards Vanceboro. The Haddock machine was said to have been badly demolished as it turned over two or three times before coming to a halt. Mills' machine was also damaged, although not as badly as the other.

Responsibility for the accident had not been determined today, although Sheriff Sam Whitehurst, who started an investigation yesterday morning, said the inquiry was being continued today.

Smithfield Man Drowns in Neuse

Smithfield, N. C., March 11.—Paul Egan went to his home Saturday afternoon, placed his money, watch, cigarettes, papers and ring on a table, walked up Neuse River about a third of a mile, stepped into a deep hole in the river and drowned. His body was recovered this morning by his nephew, Raymond Woodall.

TWO HELD ON RUM CHARGE

Colored Men, Father And Son, Nabbed by Sheriff's Officers Saturday

Two negroes, father and son, were taken into custody by sheriff's officers here Saturday on a charge of possession of whiskey for the purpose of sale.

Jim Sumrell and son Harold were arrested at their home on the Falkland road near the city limits after officers allegedly discovered five gallons of contraband whiskey hidden in their home and burned back of the house in a field.

Both were held for hearing in County court here tomorrow. Jim Sumrell obtained his release under bond of $200 but the son was unable to post bond and was remanded to jail to await hearing.

Sheriff Sam Whitehurst said this morning the bulk of the liquor was buried back of the house with a small amount being located in the house.

Forty-one steamers touched at Spitzbergen during the past season and carried 177,000 tons of coal from the island's mines to Archangel.

PRaises PLAN TO CUT PUBLIC DEBT OF U. S.

Senator Thomas Disagrees With Treasury On Using Devaluation Profit on Debts

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—The government decision to use part of its $2,612,000,000 devaluation profit to reduce the public debt led to conflicting interpretations today.

The Treasury held that the total amount of outstanding currency should not be changed as result of the plan to retire some government bonds with $642,000,000 of the profit arrived from tripping the dollars gold value last year.

On the other hand, Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, a leader of the currency expansion in Congress, foresaw $46,000,000 increase in the amount of money in circulation.

Declaring that for the first time the public debt would be cut by the issuance of government obligations which bear interest, Thomas praised the measure by saying:

"It is a long line of what we have been clamoring for."

He also praised the plan as a step toward one single type of currency and concentrates in the hands of the government the power to issue money.

DR. COMBS IS SPEAKER HERE

Methodist Pastor Delivers First of Series of Pre-Easter Sermons.

Between five and six hundred people attended the first of a series of Pre-Easter Union Services which are being held at Pitt Theater each Sunday evening for the next six weeks as a means for preparing the community for the coming of Easter, one of the most important periods in religious history.

The service, sponsored by the Ministerial Association, of which Dr. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, is president, was marked by a delightful musical program by a choir composed of members of the various churches of the city. H. A. McDougle, director of the Memorial Baptist Church choir, directed the musical. A diat was sung by Mrs. Dink James and Miss Anna Bell as a climax to the program. Miss Neale of East Carolina Teachers College played for the service.

During the six weeks the services are in progress ministers of the participating churches will deliver the sermons. Last night the sermon was delivered by Dr. G. R. Combs, who spoke on the subject of "The Inevitable and Changeless."

The sermon was a fitting climax for the impressive musical program. Dr. Combs impressed his hearers with the changes always in evidence in material life and that persons who give themselves to this form of existence eventually find themselves swept away in the gradual, inexorable shifting of things.

He held up Jesus Christ as an example of the changeless, declaring that the spiritual never dies. He called attention to the value of virtue, truth and honesty and said that these live regardless of the inevitable changes of the material.

Fire Damages King Home Here Sunday Afternoon

Fire believed to have resulted from a spark from a chimney yesterday afternoon caused damage of $600 to the roof of the home of Mrs. R. W. King at the corner of Dickinson Avenue and Washington Streets. The flames burned through a large place in the shingle roof before finally being brought under control by firemen.

Although uncertain how the blaze started, firemen today expressed the opinion that it originated from a flying spark from one of the chimneys in the front of the house.

The fire department raced to a negro home in the western section of the city Saturday night only to find the trash fire under control.

Mendieta Takes Action To Save His Government

Late News Flashes

In Congress Today

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—Louisiana's Huey Long emerged a second time today as the major threat to administration hopes of speeding the $4,880,000,000 work relief program to the White House.

Once before Long's use of the veto power of Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, was credited with securing the one vote necessary to attach the McCarran prevailing wage amendment to the relief bill over President Roosevelt's opposition.

Today after a week of the relief bill was back in the senate without the prevailing wage amendment. But this time Long threatened new delay by renewing his demand for a senate probe of Postmaster General (Continued on page Six)

DR. GORDON TO HOLD REVIVAL ON MAY 12-17

Noted Author and Speaker to Appear at Memorial Baptist Church for one Week

Dr. S. D. Gordon, noted author and speaker, will conduct a series of revival services at Memorial Baptist church beginning the week of May 12, it was announced today by Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of the local congregation.

The services will last for a period of one week and hundreds of people are expected to be on hand each evening to hear the distinguished author of "Quiet Talks" in his first appearance before a congregation in this immediate part of the state.

Dr. Gordon is one of the leading members of the Baptist church in the South and is a speaker of national religious subjects. He is widely known for his ability to attract attention of college groups to spiritual truth.

Speaking of the coming of Dr. Gordon, Mr. Fleischmann said: "Memorial Baptist Church believes it is most fortunate in being able to bring Dr. Gordon to our community and trust the opportunity will be most freely by all our Christian people."

Dr. Gordon for years has been one of the chief speakers at the Raleigh Assembly held at Pinecroft, N. C., is added to an ever increasing number of his past appearances.

He is considered probably the most outstanding member of the denomination here to conduct a series of services in this part of the State and members of the congregation were looking forward to his coming with more than usual interest.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL

Only five other states have a larger yearly tax budget than North Carolina, when the general fund and highway fund budgets are combined. State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson pointed out today.

The annual state tax budget of North Carolina is now about $75,500,000 a year. This is almost twice as large as the total taxes collected for state purposes in Virginia and about three times the amount of state taxes paid in Georgia and South Carolina, Johnson said.

The five states with larger annual tax budgets than North Carolina are New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, California and Illinois, all with populations and per capita wealth far in excess of North Carolina's, Johnson pointed out.

There are two reasons why the (Continued on Page Two)

ALL PERSONS ORDERED TO STAY INDOORS

Full Effect of Fast-Spreading Strike Felt With Additional Walkouts; Government Business at Standstill as Result Of Walkout of Workers; Half of Dock Workers Remain Out

Havana, March 11.—(AP)—The government of President Carlos Mendieta, seizing a link forged by one of its enemies more than a year ago, decreed the existence of war throughout Cuba today in its grim battle to escape overthrow.

The decree provides for trial in a council of war all persons arrested for acts against the public order, prohibiting all persons from appearing in the streets at night without special military pass and gives the military power of almost unlimited authority. It was made effective immediately.

The decree is one used for the first time in Cuban history by order of Dr. Antonio Guterres, secretary of war in the cabinet of the former President Raymon Grau San Martin in November, 1933, at the time the Grau government was beset by difficulties akin to those the Mendieta regime now faces.

The cabinet action in mentioning Guterres by name was regarded as consummation of reports that the government believed the former war secretary is a leading factor in the outbreaks which have arisen and affected other factions as well as the administration for the last two days.

The full effect of the fast-spreading strikes was felt this morning after a week-end suspension of commercial activity. Railroads and other forms of transportation were proceeding.

The government business was at a standstill since most of its employees left their posts. At least half of the dock workers remained away from their posts and more were expected to join them during the day.

Only two newspapers were publishing and virtually every other line of commercial activity was affected.

Tax Delinquency Shows Decrease

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Tax delinquency, the nightmare of all city governments, was sharply checked in 1934 for the first time in five years, a survey by the municipal services department of Dun & Bradstreet said today.

The study showed that of 153 cities with more than 50,000 inhabitants for which figures were obtained, 127, or 83 per cent, had more taxes flow into city coffers in 1934 than in 1933.

"While in many instances the gain was negligible, in a few outstanding cases it was sufficient to reduce tax delinquencies to the 1931 or 1930 levels," the survey found.

The initiation of tax sales, after a lapse of years, and the adoption of strict tax lien laws were probably the two "hoses" sticks brandished at the taxpayers.

In addition to these threats there was the moral suasion exercised by "pay-your-taxes" drives and other movements.

It was found that sixteen cities throughout the country had turned in unusually good tax-paying scores—excellent general tax collections and low delinquencies.

Free State's Numbers Increase

Dublin.—(AP)—Restrictions on emigration increased the population in the Irish Free State by 21,000 in the first nine months of last year. The census announces a total of 3,013,000, of whom 1,535,000 are males.

SPORT SLANTS

It might be a good idea for the Madison Square Garden folks to give a bit of thought to reinforcing their ring before they allow those two super-dreadnaughts, Primo Carnera and Ray Impellittere, to crawl through the ropes to do battle.

The meeting of these two should set some sort of ring record. Probably never before have two such immense specimens of homo sapiens put up their fists in formal fistic combat.

The Jess Willard-Carl Morris fight in the old Garden was quite a bulk-battle but Morris pulled the average down considerably for he was a mere 6 feet 4 inches in height—hardly in the same class with the Imp or Carnera.

Carnera, as the world well knows, weighs some 265 pounds and stands six feet six inches in his enormous, stockinged feet. Impellittere reaches up 6 feet 7 inches into the stratosphere and will crush any bantamweight scale that registers under 250. Physically the Imp appears to be a match for the huge former title-holder.

Bill Brown 'Ain' It

Just why Bill Brown, of the New York Boxing Commission, tried to prevent this match is difficult to understand. Perhaps he was trying to protect Impellittere from Carnera. On that score one might be tempted to venture the guess that a 260-pounder ought to need little in the way of protection from any unarmed human.

Burdly Carnera's recent South American effort against the leering tower of the Andes, Vittorio Campolo, was nothing to stamp him as a menace to the present crop of heavyweight pretenders.

Using their respective bouts with Tommy Loughran as a yard-stick, it must be admitted that the Imp made a better showing in his bout with the clever Philadelphian than did Carnera in defending his heavyweight championship against Loughran in Miami.

Would Learn the Worst

Facing an opponent his own size will be a new sensation for Impellittere. He has been forced to fight shotter men because there was no one his own size to pick on.

Campolo had departed for his native South America before the Imp was ready for the big leaguers. Until now Carnera had no time for the likes of Impellittere and told him to get a reputation before he would care to meet even socially.

For years Impellittere's manager and coach, Harry Lenny, has worked patiently to school his charge and equip him with the tools to win the heavyweight championship. He taught the youth along slowly and with extreme caution. Lenny feels his boy is now ready to take on the best in the game.

Tourney Final Scheduled For Tonight Here

The finals of the annual high school basketball tournament sponsored by East Carolina Teacher's College will be played tonight beginning at seven o'clock in the Campus Building at the College.

Play will be both in the Class A division and Class B division. At seven o'clock the Lillington girls' team will play the Smyrna girls in the opening event. At eight o'clock West Edgecombe boys' team will meet the Dover team.

In Class A play only one game will be played and this will be between the Washington and New Bern boys' team. This game is scheduled for nine o'clock.

Only two girls' team was entered in the contest and this was New Bern and Greenville, but Greenville forfeited its game to New Bern thus giving New Bern the undisputed championship in that division.

Baer-Schmeling Ring Battle Now Considered Sure

Hamburg, March 11.—(AP)—A Max Baer-Max Schmeling fight of New York in June is absolutely set, Joe Jacobs, the German manager, told The Associated Press today after a telephone conversation with Colonel John Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden and Joe E. Johnson, his match-maker.

"I agreed to terms for Schmeling," Jacobs said, "and Baer has already settled his terms with the Garden."

"It will be a great fight. Schmeling will sure be the winner by a knockout because he is better than ever."

Local All Stars To Play Final Game Tuesday

The Greenville all-star team will play its final game of the season here Tuesday night when they meet the strong team of Williamston at the High School gymnasium. Williamston defeated Greenville by a one-point margin in the recent all-star tourney held at Washington in the semi-finals play. A close game is anticipated.

An uncommon number of famous names were on the Bremen's list when she docked in New York. Here some of the visitors are shown arriving. H. G. ## Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—It is becoming more apparent daily that unless something is done to break the legislative jam on Capitol Hill soon there's likely to be an explosion resulting in damage no one dares to estimate.

Everyone seems to be suffering from an extremely bad case of the jitters. The fact is evidenced by such scenes as that enacted by Huey Long and Joe Robinson, majority leader of the Senate, when it looked as if the two would actually come to blows on the floor.

It further is evidenced by the concern members of Congress show privately and publicly on the way they are being bombarded by the folks back home.

One newcomer to the Senate observed ruefully that when he took his oath of office, one of his friends congratulated him with the words: "I hope you die a member of the Senate." His reply was made some time later as follows: "My heavens, what a friend!"

Too Much Politics?

There are many reasons advanced for the present state of things.

One frequently heard is that too many members of Congress are playing politics and the vote in the Senate on the "prevailing wage" amendment to the five-billion-dollar work relief plan is cited.

Some place the blame on President Roosevelt. They say his failure to indicate clearly the bills he does and does not want or what modifications would be acceptable to him causes confusion in the minds of administration leaders in Capitol Hill, and many misunderstandings.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, appears content to remain calm over the

Back-Scratching

The legislative game is one of the plays a tremendous part. Often it resolves itself into simply the old practice known as back-scratching.

Frequently a measure is permitted to pass one House and blocked in another. Then always there are the carefully laid plans of the bosses to refashion a measure to their own liking in conference.

Probably that's the real reason the President flatly has declared to Washington newspapermen and others (with a hint of impatience, incidentally) they must not expect him to comment in advance on proposed legislation.

There'll be time enough for talk when a measure has run its course through Congress has gone to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue for his signature.

Legislative Ramblings

tax budget in North Carolina is so far in excess of that of other states of similar population and per capita wealth, according to Treasurer Johnson as follows:

1. North Carolina is the only state in the United States supporting and maintaining both the state school system and state road system entirely out of state taxes without levying any property taxes for either schools or roads. In almost all of the other states the cost of maintaining both roads and schools is paid from local city and county taxes on property.

2. North Carolina has one of the largest state bonded debts for roads and other state purposes, requiring about $18,000,000 a year of the state's tax revenue for interest and bond retirement.

The cost of maintaining the schools and county roads last year and this year will average about $21,000,000 a year, while the proposed outlay for schools and roads for the next two years in the proposed appropriations bill will amount to about $27,000,000 a year. Until four years ago all this cost was formerly borne by the counties, cities and towns from property taxes levied and collected locally.

The state would be able to operate on a general fund budget the next two years of only $12,500,000 a year for the next two years instead of the $32,500,000 being requested, but for the cost of operating the schools.

No further diversion of highway revenue to the general fund in addition to the $1,000,000 a year recommended by the budget commission will be recommended by either the finance or appropriations committees until more definite information is obtained as to what effect any such additional diversion will have on future allotments of federal funds to the state, it was learned today. In fact, it is expected that a special subcommittee will go to Washington today or tomorrow to confer with government officials on this question.

The appropriations committee had decided to appropriate $1,650,000 from the highway fund to the general fund and the finance committee were counting upon this additional $650,000 (until it was pointed out to the committee last Friday that such diversion might cost the state anywhere from $1,000,000 to $6,000,000 in Federal funds. For under the terms of the present Federal law, any state which diverts any more of its highway revenue to other purposes than highway work than was being diverted at the time the Federal law was enacted, "will be penalized by having its allotment reduced by one-third. Under the present law, North Carolina is scheduled to get approximately $3,000,000 a year in Federal funds for highway construction for each year of the next biennium, provided the state also puts up $3,000,000 a year for new construction. But if this legislature should increase the amount being diverted from the highway fund into the general fund in excess of the $1,000,000 a year which was being diverted when Congress passed this law, the allotment will be reduced one-third, or about $1,000,000 a year. If this same law applies to the allotments expected to be made from the requested Federal public works appropriation of $1,880,000,000, the state might lose as much as $6,000,000 a year in Federal funds.

These facts were discussed in the conference Saturday between the chairman of the finance and appropriations committees and Governor Ehringhaus. It was learned today. As a result of this conference the committee chairmen agreed to postpone any further action on diversion until a subcommittee could be sent to Washington to confer with government officials in this matter.

The World of Stamps
By QUINTON JAMES

The Vatican City's second group of postage stamps coming within the classification of commemoratives has just been issued. Their appearance was in connection with the International Judicial Congress.

Six items comprise the set, including a 5-centesimo orange red, a 10 dark violet, a 25 green, a 75 green, an 80 green and a 125-lire blue. Only two designs are used, illustrative of historical events at the Vatican. The reproductions are from Raphael's paintings now hanging in the Vatican.

Vatican City has been issuing stamp only since it became a half-mile square independent state in 1929. Its previous commemorative set was the Holy Year issue of 1933.

Philippines Ready
Stamps of four sizes have been adopted for the new Philippine series just prepared by the Bureau of Engraving at Washington for use in the islands. In addition, the high values are bi-colored with the centers black and the frames of various colors.

A wide variety of designs is employed to make up an attractive whole, historical and present-day scenes being intermingled.

The smallest of the stamps, similar in shape to the ordinary U. S. lower values, include the two-centavo carmine on which is pictured Jose Rizal, Philippine patriot and writer, and the 20-centavo olive green showing a native.

The next size, a lone 6-centavo brown, with a native girl is slightly larger, with the design printed upright. The third group, containing seven values, consists of oblongs about the dimensions of a U. S. special delivery. They embrace a 4-centavo dark green, a 8 violet, a 10 carmine, 12 black, a 16 blue and a 20 dark blue and a 30 orange red.

Among the historical scenes pictured are the landing of Magellan on the 16 and the signing of a blood compact on the 30. Included also is Ft. Santiago on the 10.

The four high values are still larger, almost approaching the size of a small label. If anything they surpass the lower denominations in general appearance, largely due to the use of two colors. For instance the frame of the 1 peso is orange with a black center illustrating Barasmanian church. The Battle of Manila bay is on the black and brown 1-peso and Montalban gorge is pictured on the 4-peso black and blue.

Tipped the list is the five-peso light green and black. It presents the familiar drawing of Gen. George Washington, sword in hand and mounted on his white horse. Besides some of the lower denominations have been surcharged "O. B." for official use.

Manchukuo Again
Further values in the reprinted series of Manchukuo containing the word "empire" inserted in the inscription between "Manchukuo" are now at hand. All of the inscription "is in Chinese."

These stamps, 15-fen red, 18-fen blue green and 30-fen brown bear the portrait of Emperor Henry Pu Yi. They are not a part of the set issued solely for mail going to China which have been designated as the "stamps without a country" because they contain no indication of their point of origination. This plan was adopted to permit resumption of postal service with China although that country has never recognized Manchukuo, formerly Manchuria, as a separate state.

World Notes
Belgium is preparing a special 5-franc adhesive in connection with the coming stamp exhibition at Brussels. It will illustrate Philip the Fair prince of Thurn and Taxis.

In the special set of Columbia marking the third national Olympic games at Barranquilla are 16 stamps starting at 2 centavos and terminating with 10 pesos. There was no indication as to how long they would be on sale.

John Olsen Declared Fugitive From Justice

Washington, March 11.—John Olsen, alias Michael Machon, charged with being implicated in the robbery of the Basnight Company's store, is a fugitive at large, who escaped from the Norfolk city prison farm March 11, 1934. He was formerly doing time for breaking and entering.

Olsen and his accomplice Ellis sent the man's fingerprints to Washington, D. C., and the authorities there notified the Norfolk police as to Olsen's whereabouts. T. L. Petty, inspector of detectives at Norfolk instructed Singleton to "take a doctainer" following the trial here.

Olsen and his accomplice Ellisworth Evans were arraigned in the recorder's court here charged with breaking and entering, receiving and the larceny of goods from W. H. Basnight's wholesale store. Probable cause of their guilt was established each." Dr. McDonald, co-leader of the anti-sales bloc, estimated the return the cafe-hotel tax at "nearer a million."

The third largest item is the chain filling station tax, an entirely new section because chain filling stations are specifically exempt from the present chain tax. The new schedule, drawn by a sub-committee which availed itself of precise figures on the number of filling stations owned or controlled by all companies engaged in that business would bring to State coffers $437,000 in new revenue.

Representative Oscar Baker, of Durham, tried unsuccessfully to insert in lieu of the sub-committee's schedule a copy of the West Virginia act which would penalize large chains severely and would yield, on the same basis, $1,293,000. The Barker proposal failed of adoption by an 18-20 vote. It is agreed that he will again offer it when the revenue bill reaches the House.

Experts in the oil and gasoline field say, however, that the schedule will actually yield far less than $437,000. They argue that the major oil companies, by a readjustment of contracts with filling station proprietors and managers, will avoid payment of much of the new levy. Some of them place the yield from the new tax as low as $150,000.

Deviating a tax of $1.75 instead of the present $1.50 on each 1,000 of corporate net worth the committee plans to raise $250,000 in new franchise revenue. Present collections total $1,500,000 under that section.

The anticipated decrease in valuations resulting from a change of the base for figuring the net worth of corporations will thus be made up and increased by the estimated $250,000.

Department stores which are units of a chain will contribute $44,000 in addition to the present chain store tax because of the tax on floor space of such stores. All floor space of such stores in excess of 2,500 square feet is taxed under the new section at $15 per 1,000 square feet.

An installment paper tax, admittedly aimed at investor's syndicates, will yield another estimated $10,500.

About $100,000 has been lost through minor reductions, the largest of which was caused by the outlawing of slot machines by the Legislature. Last year slot machine owners paid the State $25,000.

policy seems about as remote as ever.

Republican national headquarters in Washington is listening and waiting, saying little. What it is concerned about immediately is money to pay its rent and keep its skeleton organization together.

No one professes to know how long National Chairman Fletcher will stay in office, and no formidable candidate to succeed him has appeared on the horizon.

Altogether, it would be difficult to imagine a situation of greater party uncertainty. Few politicians expect anything exciting to happen for some months to come.

The Letter Deluge
It appears that the country no longer takes Washington for granted. Letter-writing among the voters is distinctly on the increase.

Of course many of the letters deluging congress are devoted to specific issues and obviously are part of organized campaigns on the part of special groups.

It is the other kind, however, which are causing comment—the kind which obviously are not inspired, which do not hold up one single issue as all-important but speak generally of the state of the Union and what should be done about it.

"At no previous time since this administration began," said one senator recently, "have so many people in my state taken the time to sit down and write out—often in longhand—their ideas about the basic trend of national affairs."

This began long before both sides more or less appealed to the country in the work-relief deadlock. In the abstract it has represented one of the most notable political surprises of 1935.

Whatever it may mean, it prevents members of congress from forgetting that they will be on the spot in 1936.

Brain Trust Unhappy
Many of the brain-trusters in Washington are growing more and more discouraged as they think over what recently has happened to them.

One of them is openly suggesting that the school of young liberals brought to Washington by Mr. Roosevelt has been employed chiefly to give "face" to policies which really have not turned out to be liberal after all.

The dissenters are convinced that the administration is turning further and further to the right, taking greater pains every day to placate business and keep undisturbed many of the old relationships which the brain-trusters want to destroy.

Special Meals

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"THIS is a wonderful bone," said Willy Nilly. "Put it on Rip's tray, Mrs. Quacko." They were all busy preparing special meals for the two patients, Rip and Sweet Face.

"I'll certainly do that," said Mrs. Quacko. "I just found some pussy willows when I was out for a breath of air. I thought I'd put a bunch on his tray so it would look pretty."

"Oh, that will be lovely," said Willy Nilly.

"And I found some green grass, I really and truly did. I'm going to put that on Sweet Face's tray."

"He'll love it!" agreed Willy Nilly. "They both slept pretty well last night," Mrs. Quacko continued.

Just then Top Notch, the rooster, came in carrying some maple sap he had found oozing from a tree, and he had used a little cup in which to catch some of it.

"That will be a treat!" exclaimed Willy Nilly.

"That's what I thought," said Top Notch.

Christopher Columbus Crow came hurrying along.

"I've got some very good early spring buds which should give them appetite," he said. "There's nothing like something fresh and tasty at this time of the year."

Oh, when the trays went up to Rip and Sweet Face they were certainly well filled.

And while they ate the Puddle Muddlers sat around and told the news of out-of-doors, telling what birds had arrived, how nest building was coming along.

The conversation helped the patients in enjoying their food.

By BYRON PRICE

Within a year republican aspirants for the presidency will be testing out their respective strength in many states, but today the party outlook remains almost as indistinct as it was a year ago.

If any candidate is setting up even the beginnings of a campaign organization, he is doing it so silently that his rivals have been unable to find it out.

In congress the several republican blocs continue to travel their several ways, and a unified party policy seems about as remote as ever.

If the Congressmen and Senators want to carry out the wishes of the majority of the citizens of this country they will vote favorably on the measure for the immediate cash payment of the soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates. Most of the organized fight against the measure is coming from a small group of citizens who have profited out of the war and are now afraid that they might have to turn loose some of their profits in the way of taxation if the soldiers are paid. We believe that a poll of the citizenry of this country would find a tremendous majority in favor of the soldiers being paid now.

In view of our long legislative sessions in this state, as a result of long drawn out hearings on appropriation and revenue measures, it seems to us that a change in our present legislative schedule that would permit these hearings in advance would prove a big help. We believe some change could be made whereby the legislature could meet, let the money-spending and revenue committees be appointed and get to work and let the other legislators return home for a recess until these committees have completed their hearings and have their bills ready for presentation to the General Assembly as a whole. Then let the legislators return to Raleigh, take action on the money measures and such other measures as might come before the assembly, complete their work in short order and return home. A change worked out along this line would, we believe, prove beneficial to the state and the legislators.

President Roosevelt attempted to fast the propaganda that passage of the bill would hit life insurance holders and "widows and orphans" by making public a detailed report of Chattanooga—many of them employees of the Federal Power Commission.

GREAT RICHES

by Mabel Howe Farnham

SYNOPSIS: Being James Stinson, III, of New Concord, N.C., a considerable fortune, especially now that the death of his grandparents has made the boy head of his family. But James believes that their death has also robbed him of his faith in a comfortable and Judge Holcomb, his good friend, is explaining a similar situation in his own youth to the boy.

Chapter Seven HOPE AGAIN

"AND you went on believing in God?" asked James. "In a pitying God?"

"I went on hating Him," the Judge said. "I strutted around hating Him like a pompous little bantam cock. It gave me an enormous satisfaction, I can tell you."

"And then what?" James asked, interested.

"Then I grew up and realized I was a confounded ass and that my playboyish hates and despairs mattered no more to the Almighty than the love affairs of a louse mattered to me. It was highly unpleasant, but extremely educational. I've never been much more than ace high in my own estimation since."

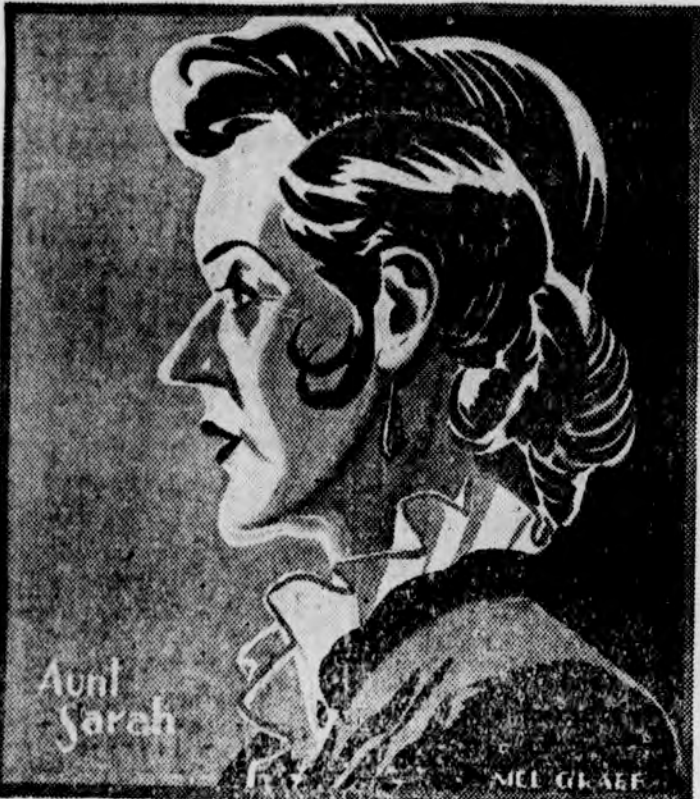

James laughed. He said shyly: "It was kind of you to tell me. But I don't hate God. I just don't believe in Him or in a Hereafter. I think men just Remember that nothing is or can be wasted. The best of the old gentleman may be changed, undoubtedly is changed beyond human understanding, but damn it boy what does that matter? It cannot be lost."

James went home whistling, head thrown back, arms swinging free. The black hound of despair which for weeks had dogged his footsteps had proved but a shadow after all. James laughed aloud from sheer relief. At least he had a hope, more than a hope. After all he might cheat the grave. He might go on . . . somehow.

He was too excited that night to eat his dinner and Aunt Sarah suggested a dose of castor oil. Castor oil? How like a woman! He teased her into cheerfulness. It was their first cheerful evening since his grandmother died. Later he lay sleepless in bed watching the stars.

But the following Spring when there were only the two of them to be considered, his Aunt Sarah, out of a clear sky, decided that she was being selfish and standing in James' made him up because he was a year not to."

"There are a lot of arguments I might give you, but you probably know most of them. Here's the best one, one I got hold of a thousand years ago and leached out and never let go."

He leaned over the desk, tore a sheet off a pad, held it over Lulu's black and crimson beak and lighted it, letting the ash fall into the tray.

Speaking slowly and authoritatively the Judge went on to explain the law of physics that nothing in or on or under this earth can be lost or done away with, only changed as the paper had changed under their eyes to gases and ash, but never by any possibility blotted out or annihilated—all a commonplace to any but a school boy.

To James it was both new and revolutionary. With his quick intelligence he grasped it instantly and a God-given hope sprang to life in his heart. If even his flesh could only be changed into its original elements would his intelligence, his personality, his change in some unimaginable manner, but still survive? Uncountably he did not like to ask the Judge.

"BUT how about goodness and honor and intangibles like that?" he finally questioned.

"I believe that the things of the spirit count on. They are stronger, more powerful than greasy matter. The faith that moves mountains, turns earthquakes . . . I am certain that they are not lost, though I am not so much with my finite mind to understand how. Your grandfather, for instance, was an inspiration to everyone who knew him well. Never doubt my boy that though we cannot see it or touch it that inspiration is still here, all about us."

"But . . . but his personality? Grandfather himself?"

Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah of New Orleans is a brother of Senator Borah and is regarded as an able jurist. His decision holding unconstitutional the application of NRA codes to business within a state is added to those of Judge Grubb and several others. If the legal controversy were a race between Cavalcade and Equipoise in their prime the lawyers of Washington couldn't be more excited.

BUSY: The Democratic high command has passed word down the line that Senator Huey Long is to be strafed every time he takes the floor with a New Deal attack. The silent treatment has failed to work and the powers that be are getting a bit alarmed over the strength he is developing with the masses. This is going to make it tough on the Kingfish in one respect. Up to now his answer to the two or three Senators who have dared debate with him was a promise to go into their states and beat them for reelection.

If all of the loyal administration Democrats pitch in, however, Huey will need a bicycle to go around in the next campaign.

DIVERSIONS: Senators are waiting for a detailed statement by Secretary Ickes dealing with public work funds, as called for by Senator Byrd's resolution. Congress as well as the public is ignorant of these details. Several Senators hint that they will try to dawdle along with the work-relief bill until they can get a peep at Ickes's handling of the huge $3,300,000,000 fund.

Ickes was in a tight hold before a House committee which pressed him regarding diversion of some of this fund to naval construction by somebody "higher up." The Senate wants to know all about all diversions, and by whom made. Ickes denies that funds have been held back in order to exert pressure for passage of the work-relief bill "as is."

NEW YORK
By JAMES McMULLIN
GOLD: The President's recent statement that the dollar is still too high in relation to the debt level and that we are not yet ready for stabilization—which had Wall Street hopped up in the good old-fashioned way for all of three hours—lies in with the prediction in this column that the next New Deal chick would be monetary. The subsequent assurance from Washington that immediate devaluation is not in the cards fits also. The contradiction is only apparent.

Few people realize the vital distinction between the President's power to cut the dollar's gold value and his power to order the Treasury to pay a higher price for gold. The latter doesn't necessarily connote the former. Moreover, while there's a legal limit of 50 cents on domestic devaluation—there's nothing to prevent the Treasury from going beyond the corresponding price of $41.34 for an ounce of gold to $50 and $60 and even higher if its boss sees fit. It's perfectly possible for our government to bid the metal way up in foreign markets and still be legally correct in maintaining that our currency has not been inflated at home.

DOLLAR: This anomaly is the key to the whole situation. New York sources are confident the President had two purposes in mind when he dropped his "casual" remark at a press conference. One was to serve notice delicately on the British pals that they had better quit greasing the chutes for the pound—or else. The other was to test the popular reaction to the idea of further monetary maneuvers.

Important American interests are yelling their heads off—behind the scenes—for drastic action to halt the menace to exports. The cotton textile industry, for instance, has already taken a lot of punishment since sterling hit the toboggan. Cancellations of foreign buying orders—especially from South America—are rolling up like a snowball. Foreign purchasers will chisel any price advantage they can from exchange fluctuations.

Assuming that the public likes the looks of the trial balloon insiders expect a minor experiment shortly with a higher official bid for gold in the London market. If that seems to work all right they anticipate bolder steps on the same path—and probable emanation of the British example in divorcing our currency from gold.

This can—and probably will—be done with no official change in the dollar's domestic valuation. There would be no inflation technically. But experts agree that such a course would eventually and inevitably lead to formal devaluation—unless an international stabilization agreement were reached first. The latter is quite possible—as London would hardly relish the prospect of prolonged jockeying against a free dollar.

BOUNCE: Signs multiply that "Pied Pipers" Long and Coughlin

England is having a lot more internal trouble than the world knows. New York sharpshooters interpret the British government's willingness to discuss Lloyd George's "new deal" formula as a desperate effort to find an out. The informed prophecy that unless mounting unrest can be somehow appeased the MacDonald-Baldwin setup is likely to be given the bounce in no gentle manner.

BULLETS: Financial circles are surprised at the skill with which Premier Flandin of France has confounded his critics by strengthening his political position. But they figure his severest test lies ahead when resounding proclamations about defending the gold standard must give way to realities.

"Anything done to the franc will be a swell excuse for the numerous French groups which specialize in raising hell to start getting promiscuous with bricks and bullets. If Flandin can get by then he will be in a class by himself as a magician."

K. O.: New Yorkers observe that Bill Green's celebration of Clay Williams's resignation from the NRA Board as a great labor triumph is like a rooster claiming credit for the sunrise. The word here is that Williams saw his job fading to less than a shadow and simply decided to call it a day. The NRA is already three dead letters where code enforcement is concerned and the chances that it can be pulmotored back to life look very slim.

Comment runs—in the light of administration concessions to Congressional critics—that the Blue Eagle is like a punch-drunk boxer who suffers the ironic fate of a final knock-out by his own manager.

COPPER: All the published optimism about the international copper conference finds no response among New Yorkers who know how those things work.

They remark that the three big Canadian producers are not represented at all and that any agreement which fails to include them is worth about as much as a Confederate greenback. They also doubt that Katanga interests—on which the whole Belgian Congo virtually depends for existence—will take kindly to the idea of restricted production.

Cynics also observe that—even if an agreement is reached—the copper people have frequently proved themselves past masters at sidestepping.

OIL: There are indications that the Federal Tender Board is getting down to cases with the hot oil problem since it was given fresh authority by the Connally bill. Illegal production has already been out from about 75,000 barrels a day to about 60,000 in the East Texas field. New York experts believe that further tightening of the screws may cut it down to from 10,000 to 20,000 barrels more—which is rated an irreducible minimum.

PIECES: New York cheered Hugh Johnson's blistering assault on but there are no signs that his castigation of right-wing obstructionists will start a parade of conservatives to the mourners' bench.

There's a general feeling that radical defections from the New Deal banner will be a big help to a conservative comeback next year. Every possible aid to Long—without publicity—is being and will be given by men who are shaping the comeback they foresee.

Johnson is still no favorite in the financial district. "If he and Long and Coughlin could only be gotten together for a scrap which would end with each of them being carted off in three pieces it would be just grand."

New York Cotton

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Cotton futures held steady 2 to 10 lower under liquidation and foreign selling of new crop positions.

After working off 10 to 12 points lower prices rallied moderately on trade buying and covering.

May broke to 11.82 and December to 11.70, or 28 to 30 points net lower and the tone of the market was fairly steady at midday at rallies of 5 to 6 points from the best.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The further quickening of steel in auto production gave cheer to the securities market today.

Stocks pressed a little higher and bonds quiet, but maintained a good undertone, and United States government was helped by the treasury plan to retire the national bank note. In foreign exchange trading the clump of the pound was once more checked and it recovered when the gold currencies turned downward. Commodities were mixed with cotton and grains in the decline while hogs and cattle made an advance.

The late tone was heavy with losses of one or two by Case, U. S. Smelting, and Union Pacific. Santa Fe, U. S. Steel and Dupont yielded major fractions. American Telephone held steady.

Transfers were 680,000 shares.

Two Held in Woman's Death
Raleigh, March 11.—(AP)—A Wake county coroner's jury today ordered Luther Landin, 23-year-old member of the Rocky Mount fire department, and Willie Bryant, negro, of Raleigh, held for the grand jury in connection with the death here last night in an automobile accident of Miss Ruth Ellis, 24-year-old policeman.

Landin, who is under treatment at Rex Hospital, and Bryant were ordered held under $1,500 bond by Coroner L. M. Waring on a manslaughter charge.

Miss Ellis, who was in the car driven by Landin, was fatally injured when the automobile driven by Bryant collided at the intersection of Davis and East streets.

After Compromise in Reynolds Case

Winston-Salem, March 11.—(AP)—If the compromise advanced by the Reynolds heirs is not accepted by the other litigants, the surviving brothers and sisters of Z. Smith Reynolds will lay claim to the entire $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 fund, T. D. Womble, one of the Reynolds' attorneys declared at a hearing on the compromise here this morning.

Attorneys argued that under the terms of the trust fund set up by the late R. J. Reynolds and his wife for their children, the Smith Reynolds estate is not an estate at all, but a trust fund held jointly for the benefit of the Reynolds heirs.

Womble pointed to affidavits which, if true, disqualify Smith Reynolds, son of the late Smith

If the compromise is not accepted, Polkoff intimated that he will take other action.

Prisoners Rebel at Farms

Raleigh, March 11.—(AP)—A mild rebellion of prisoners against work duties assigned to them at convict camp 413 in Mecklenburg county where two negro prisoners recently were held in solitary confinement, and later had to have their feet amputated was reported to the penal division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission today.

At the same time a number of white convicts at the Cary prison farm became unruly and boisterous and penal division officials this afternoon were considering sending extra guards there for duty. E. P. Berry, of the staff of the penal department here was enroute to Charlotte this afternoon to probe the situation there.

At the Cary farm which lies several miles west of Raleigh, the prisoners this morning invited guards to "come in and get us." Later they went to work J. B. Roach, superintendent of the penal division said.

The Mecklenburg prisoners refused to eat at breakfast.

"The prisoners think they have the sympathy of the public and as a result many of them are becoming unruly," Roach commented.

"We might have serious trouble at Cary," he commented. "There are about 200 white prisoners up there."

Five Killed in Cuba

Havana, Cuba, March 11.—Five bodies of persons killed in Cuba's wild week-end of fighting were found today in the exclusive residential section on the outskirts of Mariannao, and Havana itself lapsed into practical calm despite a state of war.

Woman Acquitted Of Manslaughter

Fayetteville, N. C., March 9.—Mrs. H. W. Thames was found not guilty of manslaughter by a jury in Superior Court here yesterday afternoon after several hours' deliberation. Mrs. Thames was charged with driving a car belonging to W. H. Boone, local salesman, in a collision which caused Boone's death. The wreck occurred on the Raleigh road last December, when Boone's car collided with a truck.

Disposal of the Boone case cleared the docket of the criminal court which Judge N. A. Sinclair was holding in exchange with Judge Thomas M. Shaw.

PROMINENT DAY IN HIS DIARY

Huntington, Tenn. AP—The fifth day of the month has played a prominent part in the life of Berry D. Wiles. On June 5, 1917, he registered for the World War draft. On January 5, 1918, he was classified by the draft board and was reclassified on August 5 of the same year. On September 5, 1918, he left for a training camp, reached France May 5, 1919, and came back home June 6.

...and back of Chesterfield there is more than 85 million dollars invested in mild ripe tobacco... for milder better taste

Because you cannot make a good cigarette from just one year's crop there are today 4½ miles of warehouses filled with cigarette tobaccos from the crops of 1931-32-33-34—most of it for Chesterfield cigarettes. Just as money accumulates interest, two and a half years of ageing makes these tobaccos milder and naturally sweeter.

Think what this means—an eighty-five million dollar reason why men and women who smoke Chesterfields will always enjoy a milder, better-tasting cigarette.
