EXECUTE MAN FOR DEATH OF AGED WOMAN

Sidney Etheridge, of Chowan County, Electrocutted For Slaying Woman

Raleigh, N. C., March 15.—(AP)—Sidney Etheridge, 45-year-old native of Chowan County, who lived in Portsmouth, Va., in recent years, was electrocuted at State Prison this morning as he contended he was innocent of the murder for which he died, the killing in Onslow County of Mrs. Mamie Moore, 76-year-old reclus.

Two shocks or current were administered before Etheridge was pronounced dead.

Dr. C. A. Peterson, Representative from Mitchell County, who has a bill before a legislative committee proposing the substitution of lethal gas for electricity, witnessed the electrocution.

"I still personally would rather have lethal gas used than the electric chair," Peterson said afterward.

Up to the end Etheridge refused to allow a minister to talk to him. Usually prisoners want the last mile accompanied by a pastor and in nearly every case since the chair has been used at the prison, condemned men have died professing they believed they would be saved due to their faith in God.

"I want you to know I am an innocent man, and I didn't have nothing to do with this whole thing, and I don't know anything about it," Etheridge said after he had been seated in the chair.

He made no last statement concerning the $31,000 which he once said was taken from Mrs. Moore at the time she was killed. He contended he did not do the slaying. Etheridge said the money was buried somewhere in Onslow County.

"You can electrocute me if you want to, but I'm telling you, you are killing an innocent man," he declared before the current raced through his body.

Representative Williams, of Hyde County, of Scotland, and Thompson, of Robeson, all members of the Legislature, were among the witnesses.

Secretary To Pres. Roosevelt Seriously Sick

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, is seriously ill at the White House.

Howe, who is 64, was taken sick following his trip with the President on February 23, to Boston.

His condition, it was learned, was regarded as critical early this week by the White House, but reported today he was improved.

Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, has diagnosed the illness as a recurrence of an old bronchial trouble complicated by cardiac weakness.

Mrs. Howe is with her husband. It was believed Howe overtaxed his strength on the Boston trip. He has been confined to his bed almost constantly since his return.

He has been secretary to the President since 1915, leaving newspaper work to join Mr. Roosevelt, who was then Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Storm Carries Robeson Mule Into The Air

Lumberton, N. C., March 15.—How he felt the wind take a mule into the air as he was carrying the animal to shelter during the severe wind storm that struck Robeson County Tuesday afternoon was related by Clyde Brewington, Indian agent, tenant on the Caddletree section, near Lumberton.

Brewington was harrowing in a field when it became so dark he could not see how to work. He unhitched the team and started to shelter. On the way the wind overtook him. He said he felt one of the mules being lifted into thin air and that he felt the ground, face downward, grasping a bush onto which he swung. His hat disappeared with the wind, and he hasn't since seen it.

KNIFE STAB IN LEG IS FATAL TO NEGRO

Kinston, March 15.—A murder charge confronted the wife of John Hyman, Negro, today. Police said she stabbed him fatally in their home in South Kinston.

The couple quarreled, according to officers who investigated, and Hyman was stabbed in the leg with a pocketknife. The femoral artery was severed.

Hyman dragged himself a few feet and died from loss of blood.

The woman, Susie Hyman, was held pending a coroner's inquest.

AUTHOR FIGHTS DEPORTATION

Arrested in Glencoe, Ill., Chicago suburb, on charges of entering the United States through false statements and preaching communism after he came, Evelyn John Strachey, noted British author and former member of parliament, said he would fight the government's attempt to deport him as an undesirable alien. This picture shows him in Cleveland, O., where he lectured after he was released on $500 bond. (Associated Press Photo)

YOUTH ADMITS KIDNAP STORY TO BE A 'HOAX'

Chester Hyde, Found Bound and Gagged, Said He Faked Abduction to Get Money

Wilmington, Del., March 15.—(AP)—Public Safety Superintendent Geo. Black said today that Chester Hyde, found bound and gagged here after being reported kidnapped, has admitted the abduction story he told was a fake.

"The boy has admitted it was a fake," Black said. "He said he had been writing letters to his stepfather asking for money."

Hyde, 18, was reported kidnapped after being missing from his Woodridge, N. J., home since last Monday.

Police reported William Lella, horticulturalist, had received a note demanding $10,000 ransom and threatening the youth with harm.

The youth was found bound hand and foot with an electric wire early today alongside the road in a residential suburb by two policemen making their rounds. At first police said he told them of having been held captive by three men and a woman.

Taken to the Wilmington police station, the boy said he was dragged into an automobile at Woodbridge by a man who showed a handkerchief into his face.

"I don't know what happened after that until I woke up in a room I think it was Tuesday morning," he said, in an interview.

After questioning him for several hours, Police Captain Edward Lewis said he doubted the youth's story.

A short time later Superintendent Black said the boy admitted it was false.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington By GEORGE DUNNO

CRASH: Organized minorities, several of which have nothing particular in common, are welded into a temporary bloc here that has upset the entire White House legislative program. As a result, much of it promises to go overboard for the session.

Reading from left to right—and the expression is used advisedly—are Long, Coughlin and Co., spearheading the whole anti-administration drive; the Townsend Plan and EPIC backing; the inflationists; the American Federation of Labor, which feels it has been sold down the river; the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, demanding cash bonus; the American Bankers' Association and the American Liberty League, opposing bank reform legislation; and the power lobby, which very much doesn't want the Wheeler-Rayburn bill abolishing holding companies passed.

Add to this, where it doesn't naturally synchronize, the Republican minority which has been giving aid and comfort to the extent of normally unexplainable votes. And then toss in the Progressives, who have now decided to go their own way.

FREEDOM: The 40 left-wing liberals who organized into a bloc in the House under guidance of Rens Paul Kayle (F.L.), Minn., Gerald J. Boyleau (P.), Wis., and Merin Hull (P.), Wis., are indicative of the new political order—although this group concedes it won't be able to do much but make noise. Existing House gag rules will limit that.

When Boyleau finally produces a statement of policy, he being in charge of that, it will bear a preliminary allowing any bloc member to dissent from legislation generally endorsed therein.

Those who are everything else will not stomach the Frazer-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill. A (Continued on Page Four)

Late News Flashes

Senate Passes Beer Measure—Raleigh, N. C., March 15.—(AP)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate a bill to legalize beer with 5 per cent alcoholic content and voted to take up the biennial revenue bill Monday at noon.

House passage of the beer measure, 55 to 34, came after it had killed a similar proposal containing taxing machinery some weeks ago revised it and sent it back to committee. The bill passed merely increased alcoholic content from 3.2 per cent to 5 per cent.

Representatives voting for the measure were Barnes of Wilson, Blount of Wilson, and O'Berry of Wayne. Blount of Pitt County voted against it.

The senate slowed but passed a measure to put occupation diseases under the Workmen's Compensation act to remove the double liability provision from bank stockholders and to appropriate $75,000 for a federal state reemployment service.

As on recent Fridays local bills were hurried through to passage in large numbers as lawmakers prepared to go home for the week-end.

Representative Day of Onslow offered the house a bill which would have the legislature order reappointment of the house membership on the basis of the 1930 census. Mecklenburg, Guilford and Bamcoke would each gain a representative with Nash, New Hanover and Rockingham being losers. Other counties were unchanged.

Under the banking bill passed by the senate the stockholders of a bank would be relieved of the double liability now existing in the stocks provided they properly advised their intention to remove the provision and notify all debtors prior to May 1. The measure will become effective on ratification as it was passed by the house.

SEEK NEGRO FOR ROBBERY BETHEL MAN

George Teel Hit on Head With Hammer And Robbed of $72; Bud Taylor Sought

Bethel and Edgecombe County authorities today were seeking a negro who last night held up and beat George Teel, Bethel marketman into unconsciousness with a hammer and robbed him of a sum of money estimated at $72, on the Bethel-Hassell highway, several miles from Bethel.

The negro, identified by Teel as Bud Taylor, a former employee of the marketman, escaped after the robbery and police were scouring the countryside today in an effort to capture him.

Teel, who was returning to Bethel from Hassell, where he had been on business, consented to give the negro a ride back to Bethel. Several miles from Bethel a tire on Teel's car blew out and both he and the negro got out to fix it.

As Teel was bending over the car wheel, he said, Taylor hit him on the head with a hammer two or three times, knocking him unconscious, and then left him on the roadside.

Suering from a possible fracture of the skull, Teel later regained consciousness, drove into Bethel and informed officers of the crime.

Chief of Police Martin immediately started an investigation, along with Edgecombe county officers and expressed belief he would be able to take the negro into custody in a few hours.

Although suering from a possible fracture and shock, it was not believed Teel's injuries were serious.

YEGGS CRACK OIL CO. SAFE

Between $70 and $80 Taken From Texas Oil Company Office Here Last Night

Robbers chiseled their way into a safe in the office of the Texas Oil Company plant in the western part of the city last night and made away with between $70 and $80, it was made known this morning at the police department.

Chief of Police George Clark, who investigated the robbery early this morning, stated that his men had been unable to obtain a single clue. Not even a finger print was found on the safe, he said.

Climbing the high picket fence surrounding the plant, the robbers made their way to the office, removed a rear window, turned the safe over on its top and then chiseled their way into it. A place about the size of a hand was cut through the bottom and the money removed through this.

There were several checks in the safe but these were not molested.

The police head attributed the job to experts by reason of the way the safe was entered. He said the safe was constructed of sheet metal and each layer of metal was carefully cut and folded back as if the robbers had been accustomed to doing this kind of thing for sometime. Lack of fingerprints also confirmed this theory.

In fact the officer believed the robbers were member of a band which has been breaking into gas station offices in this part of the state over a period of several weeks. It is believed there were at least two men on the job, judging by footprints discovered outside the building.

The robbery was discovered when the office was opened for resumption of business this morning. The police department was immediately notified and the investigation started.

The sum of $3,000 in bills of large denomination was found in the home of the late W. H. Murphy, of McMinville, Tenn., who died without leaving a will.

Mistakes Again Worth Money

Owing to the popular demand for another misspelled word contest this year, it has been decided to carry this interesting feature in The Daily Reflector.

The first page of this contest will appear on Wednesday, March 20.

W. G. Abbott has been placed in charge of this contest, and any of the business men, who have not been contacted by him, that desire to sponsor this feature, will kindly call the office, phone 56, and Mr. Abbott will call.

Senate To Investigate Break In Cotton Prices

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—The Senate Agricultural Committee voted today to investigate the recent break in cotton prices.

It agreed to report favorably to the Senate the resolution by Senator Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina, proposing the inquiry.

The resolution would direct the committee to "probe the causes of the rapid decline of the price of cotton on the cotton exchanges on or about March 11, 1935."

It would authorize the calling of witnesses and require production of books and paper as it seemed available.

Cost of the investigation would be limited to $25,000.

WILEY POST COLLEGE HERE BEGINS FLIGHT GETS BOOST IN TO NEW YORK STATE MONEY

Los Angeles, Calif., March 15.—(AP)—Wiley Post, round-the-world flier, took off from the Union Air Terminal at Burbank today on his second attempt to span the continent in eight hours or less, in a 2,447 miles of flight through the stratosphere to New York.

The Oklahoma pilot waved "so long" to a group of sleepy-eyed well-wishers at the field and roared away in the globe-girling plane, the "Winnie Mae."

Post's first cross-country dash several weeks ago ended abruptly when he set his motor-troubled plane down on the Mojave desert less than an hour away from Los Angeles.

He expected today to travel through the region of the upper air at a speed of around 250 miles an hour, "or more"—something like six miles a minute.

Post's takeoff had previously been cancelled today because, he said, of unfavorable local weather conditions. Toward dawn, however, fog from the Pacific Ocean rolled off the coast told of fair weather.

A tail wind—something the pilot has been waiting for—will speed his trip.

Child's Death Laid To Meningitis Attack

Durham, N. C., March 15.—The autopsy performed at Duke Hospital on the body of the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Huswirth, residents of Carr Township, near the Wake County line, revealed that the child died Tuesday night from meningitis caused by ear infection. Coroner A. S. Campbell, of Durham County, said today.

It was first said that the child succumbed to injuries received in a fall from a chair a week ago. The preliminary examination of the body showed that the child received a broken leg and other injuries, and that the child had received no medical attention.

Burial services for the infant were held yesterday afternoon at the Mangum graveyard in Wake County near the home of the Huswirth family.

Sent To Roads For FERA Scrip Change

Wilson, N. C., March 15.—Isala Gillian, negro, was sentenced to six months on the roads by Judge O. P. Dickinson in County Court here on Wednesday for changing the amount of an FERA scrip check from $2 to $20.

Gillian attempted to buy a suit of clothes at a local store with the changed scrip when he asked the FERA office here for the $2 for coal.

Collie Ward, charged with the same offense except in a smaller amount, was released and his case nolle prossed. He was charged with changing the scrip in his possession from $1 to $150.

CRASHES INTO GUARDS AT RAILROAD CROSSING

Wilson, N. C., March 15.—Wilford Kinney, negro of Durham, decided on Tuesday night, late, that the guards at the crossing of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad at the Nash Street crossing here didn't mean so much. So while train 82 was at a standstill Tuesday night at the station, Wilford approached the grade crossing in his car and kept right on going through the guard rail and all.

He was arrested by officers and charged with driving while intoxicated, but Judge O. P. Dickinson ruled Wednesday in County Court that there wasn't enough evidence to convict the negro of this and dismissed the case.

The guard rail at the crossing was broken in two and Wilford's car was smashed badly. He wasn't hurt.

DIES FROM INJURIES IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

High Point, N. C., March 15.—Vernon (Bud) Brooks, 21, of Thomasville, died today in a local hospital as a result of injuries suffered last night in an automobile accident on the Asheboro road. Randolph county authorities are holding Mrs. J. C. Irving, of near Asheboro's companion at the time of the tragedy, pending investigation and probable lodging of a charge of manslaughter against her.

Brooks, an employee of a filling station near here, is said to have accepted a ride with Mrs. Irving late yesterday afternoon. Witness said another man was with her at the time but that he left the car shortly before the accident. The collision occurred at a highway intersection just across the Randolph county line when Mrs. Irving's car and a car driven by William Stephens, Winston-Salem, Negro, crashed.

Brooks suffered a brain hemorrhage. Mrs. Irving said Brooks was driving, but police say several witnesses told them Mrs. Irving was driving at the time.

Theft of Jewels Charged to Actor

Arriving in New York from Europe, George K. Arthur (above), motion picture actor, was arrested at the docks on a charge of smuggling a diamond bracelet stolen from a British banker at Cannes, France. Police said Mary H. Jopling (bottom), New York society girl, innocently brought the bracelet to this country after Arthur convinced her it belonged to his mother and asked her to keep it safely. (Associated Press Photos)

The response was made by Dr. DeWitt Klutz, of Washington, who expressed the pleasure of the society at the hospitality shown them by the community, and particularly the Pitt County Medical Society, hosts to the visitors.

Dr. P. F. McCain, president of the North Carolina Medical Society, was among the distinguished guests present and read an interesting paper dealing with "Some Problems of the Physicians."

He discussed the Epstein bill which embodies compulsory health insurance and pointed out the advantages and the disadvantages of this bill. He explained the Wagner bill which is before Congress at this time. He went into the plans of the N. C. Medical Society in its efforts to perfect a Hospital Insurance plan, whereby every person may be assured of proper hospitalization.

In conclusion he urged the members of the Second District to attend the meeting of the N. C. Medical Society at Pinehurst this year.

Dr. Benj. J. Lawrence, Secretary of the N. C. State Board of Medical Examiners, Raleigh, discussed current legislation and the bills before the State Legislature at this time.

Dr. Lawrence's paper "Traumatic Surgery" dealt principally with Highway accidents and their treatment. He especially stressed the value of the X-ray in dealing with fractures.

Dr. Chas. H. Ashford, of New Bern read an interesting paper on "Trigeminal Neuralgia."

Dr. J. N. Johnson of Goldsboro discussed the social-economic questions before the medical and dental professions.

Dr. S. L. Edwards, President-Elect of the N. C. State Dental Society brought greetings of the N. C. State Dental Society to the Second District Medical Society.

Dr. Chas. F. Strozier of Goldsboro brought greetings of the Fourth District Medical Society.

Retiring officers of the Society are President, Dr. K. B. Pace, Greenville; Vice-President, Dr. S. M. Crisp, Greenville; Secretary, Dr. Paul Fitzgerald, Greenville.

A delightful supper was served by ladies of the Episcopal church.

Greensboro Man Held At Wilson

Wilson, March 15.—Paul McKeel, 30, of Greensboro, was arrested here Wednesday night in a room over a restaurant where he had gone to hide from police. He secreted himself in the place while it was open Wednesday afternoon, and after it had closed up for the night attempted to rob it of merchandise. A bag of cigarettes, candy and other merchandises belonging to the place was found in his room.

Acquire Land For Relief Use

Plymouth, March 15.—It is reported that the FERA has purchased the Magnolia plantation on Lake Phelps just over the Washington county line in Tyrrell for use in selling tenants who will work for the government under the "New Deal."

It was understood that about 1400 acres was included in the deal with more than 1,000 acres cleared and ready for cultivation. Already, tenants have been moving in.

It has also been reported that the FERA officials are on a deal for the purchase of additional land on the Somerset plantation.

DR. N. M. GIBBS ELECTED HEAD OF PHYSICIANS

Second District Medical Society Votes to Hold Next Meeting At New Bern

Dr. N. M. Gibbs, of New Bern, was elected president of the Second District Medical Society at the annual meeting of the organization at the Rotary club here last night. He succeeds Dr. K. B. Pace, of Greenville, who presided over the session after serving for the usual term of one year. The next meeting will be held at New Bern next March.

Other officers elected were Dr. L. H. Swindell, of Washington, vice-president, and Dr. Charles H. Ashford, of New Bern, secretary.

Convening at 7 o'clock the physicians and dentists representing a dozen counties in this immediate part of the state were extended a cordial welcome by Dr. H. M. Bonner, of Greenville, who presided over the session after serving for the usual term of one year. The next meeting will be held at New Bern next March.

The response was made by Dr. DeWitt Klutz, of Washington, who expressed the pleasure of the society at the hospitality shown them by the community, and particularly the Pitt County Medical Society, hosts to the visitors.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL

Representative White, of Cowan of Chowan, and Abernathy of Nash are tied at one-all in their friendly feud. Last week Representative White perceived that Representative Abernathy was talking with a pretty girl in the House lobby. Up he jumped. "Mr. Speaker," he said "I move that the courtesy of the lobby be extended to C. C. Abernathy of Spring Hope." The House cheered mightily. Representative White grinned like a Cheshire cat.

Mr. Abernathy awaited calmly his turn. He arrived with the shaving of Mr. White of his mustache and the simultaneous appearance in the House lobby of Mrs. White. Up jumped Mr. Abernathy to the old familiar point of personal privilege. "Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Abernathy, "I see that the wife of the gentleman from Chowan is in the lobby and I want to take this opportunity of pointing out that Representative White grows younger at an alarming rate. Not so many days ago he openly supported the cosmetologist (beauty parlor) bill and now he seems to be beauty-conscious; he has shaved his mustache completely off." Later Representative White said "Abernathy knows darned well I did not work for the cosmetologist bill." With a mischievous look in his eye, he promised to get one up on his friend at an early date—he's simply waiting for an opportunity.

"I am glad to meet you, Representative White," said Lieutenant-Governor "Sandy" Graham. Representative White, who has a sense (Continued on Page Four)

Bonus Passage Over A Veto Seen Possible

By BRYON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

They will not acknowledge it openly, but various administration advisers are making plans on the assumption that a bonus bill for World War veterans will be passed at this session of Congress over a Presidential veto.

Until quite recently, the Roosevelt men had been confident they had the proposal beaten. They banked chiefly on the Senate, however, and the situation there has been changing steadily.

The Republicans generally have agreed that this is one of the issues on which they can afford to stand against the Democratic administration. The left-wing Democrats are out of control. A third group which will vote for the bill is composed of Democrats who ordinarily would be with Mr. Roosevelt, but who feel that in this one instance they must be with the organized veterans.

The combination of these three Senate elements had been too much for some, at least, of the administration stalwarts. They are ready to give up.

Don't Want Inflation

It is still the conviction, or at least the strong hope, of these leaders that no mandatory inflation provisions will be attached to the bill when it emerges in final form.

A forced issue of some $2,000,000,000 in new currency would, they say, seriously derange the whole administration plan for currency management. The step would be so far-reaching that those who oppose it think its advocates can either be reasoned or frightened off.

The tentative plans now being discussed—and apparently none has been adopted—are based on the belief that the final bill will leave the financing up to the President. Several alternatives are possible.

Mr. Roosevelt could ask Congress for new taxes to provide the $2,000,000,000 needed to pay off the bonus certificates. No one sees any likelihood, however, that Congress would pass a tax bill of such proportions.

Or he could, unless some technical barrier were raised, use $2,000,000,000 of the $4,380,000,000, which the administration still expects to get in spite of the present controversy, for work relief. That course also would have its obvious drawbacks.

May Use Tax Threat

Finally, he might propose to borrow the money, adding another $2,000,000,000 to the public debt.

Already the Treasury is heavily in the money market. Administration critics have been saying the government's credit cannot be strained much further. This Mr. Roosevelt's partisans dispute, yet they manifestly have no relish for piling on another $2,000,000,000 now.

Although it is a prospect of serious potentialities. No hint of final outcome is expected for some weeks. Doubtless the administration will make good use of the threat of increased taxes, but with Congress manifestly unwilling to take that way out, some other must be found eventually.

And the economic side of the case is only one of several aspects. The political side, with its difficulties and its potentialities, may turn out to be even more interesting.

MR. HOOVER KNEW ALL THE ANSWERS

Palo Alto, Calif.—Little Ruth Slenczynski, the piano prodigy, and Herbert Hoover fought a duel of wits at the Hoover home here the other day. It was a draw.

"Mr. Hoover," said Ruth at dinner, "I've got a conundrum for you."

"So?" said Mr. Hoover.

"What's a President?" asked Ruth.

"Anybody that be one is a fool I expect," suggested the former President. But Ruth was not satisfied and her host gave up.

"He's a cabinet maker," said Ruth.

Bears And Lamb

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"THEN if you're so hungry," said Jelly Bear to Blacky, "you'd better hurry outside. There is nothing to eat in here."

"I'm hungry," said Blacky. "I don't look well at all when I'm so thin. It's not becoming to me."

"It's not becoming to any of us, growl," growled Honey Bear.

"What do you think it would be nice to have for breakfast?" asked Jelly Bear. "It's a lovely thing to plan for a meal when we haven't had one in so long."

"I," said Jupiter Bear, "could eat anything."

"I feel the same way about it," growled Honey Bear.

"So do I, wolf, wolf," said Blacky Bear.

"As for me," said Honey Bear, "I won't be fussy."

Jelly Bear stretched himself, so did Honey Bear, so did the cubs Blacky and Jupiter.

They started to crawl out of the entrance of their cave.

The talk of their appetites and that they would be willing to eat anything had made Sweet Face, the lamb, almost die of fright.

And yet he couldn't move. As he saw the four bears coming out of the cave, two grown-up ones and two one-year-old cubs, he felt that the end had come.

At last he found his voice.

"Oh save me, save me! Please do not eat me, please, I beg of you."

Sweet Face was shaking all over. "Who said anything about eating you and who are you anyway?" growled Jelly Bear in a voice that made Sweet Face tremble more than over.

FROM overhead Christopher Columbus Crow had discovered that the bears were up.

He went around Puddle Muddle cawing at the top of his crow lungs: "Puddle Muddlers! The bears are up. I've just seen Jelly Bear and Honey Bear and the cubs Blacky and Jupiter. I've not even stopped to speak to them."

"Let's all give them a welcome," Top Notch hurried away from his general store, the ducks all left their pond, and Willy Nilly ran right out of the house. Even Rip, the dog, jumped, and told Willy Nilly that this bit of news now made him feel completely well again.

Rip's tail was wagging for all it was worth as he followed Willy Nilly up to the cave, and Top Notch came fluttering along, in so much of a hurry that he didn't even stop to see if he looked his best. And the ducks were quacking and their wings were waving with excitement.

Only Sweet Face, the lamb, was trembling with fear. Had the Puddle Muddlers gone mad?

Did they realize that four bears were up here, wide awake and very, very hungry?

But the Puddle Muddlers only came rushing on. Willy Nilly flung his arms around each bear in turn. The bears gave Willy Nilly great enormous hugs. Rip barked and jumped around the bears. Top Notch perched on Jelly Bear's shoulder, and the ducks sat on the backs of Honey Bear and the cubs.

"Oh, we're so glad to see you," shouted and quacked and cawed and barked the Puddle Muddlers.

Bethel Honors Basketball Team

By R. O. MOYE

The citizens of Bethel and of the Bethel community paid a fine spirit of appreciation to the boys' basketball team and the girls' basketball team for their fine records established this season and members of the school system in the form of a banquet given last night in the basement of the Methodist Church at Bethel.

Approximately 150 guests were present for the joyous affair and to partake of the delicious barbecue with all its trimmings. W. J. Manning, one of the leading citizens of Bethel, had charge of the arrangements for the banquet and there was not anything lacking as every one present had a most enjoyable time.

After everyone had eaten all they could stand, Henry Stoen, prominent business man of Bethel, acted as toastmaster for the affair and called on various guests present for short speeches.

Among those who made responses were W. J. Manning, Donald Conley, superintendent of the Pitt County school system; Walter Latham, athletic coach of the Bethel High School; Mr. Bosticher, superintendent of the Bethel schools, and many other leading citizens of the town.

Each spoke of the fine work in boys' and girls' basketball team, and the splendid record which the teams had made during the past season. They also spoke of the fine spirit of sportsmanship that prevailed among the citizens themselves and called attention to the coming season in the High School and asked that the same spirit be shown in this sport.

delphia he finished a close second to Roger F. Turner, the defending titleholder. He continued to improve and this year turned the tables on Turner.

Two years ago his father reluctantly consented to his going to New York City as a protégé of W. Hunt Hall. Robin became a member of the Skating Club of New York and continued his schooling at Erasmus Hall high school in Brooklyn.

He's Not Spoiled

Early one morning before the national championship meet I met the little fellow hurrying to the Ice Club rink for a practice session. He stopped for a moment to explain, in answer to my question about his chances in the "nationals," that he felt he was steadily improving and was working hard to make a good showing at New Haven. Not a word about winning. Not the least bit boastful. It was evident the adulation heaped on him had not spoiled him.

A normal boy, his interests are those of most boys of his age.

sumption goes up with the synthetic product. Thoren's mixture was obtained by blending 20 per cent alcohol with third rate fuel. The resulting product has an anti-knock value equal to that of first grade gasoline. Another drawback, however, he says, is that it is more difficult to start an engine with it than with regular gasoline.

Mrs. James Hostess to Sans Souci

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. J. B. James in her usual charming manner was hostess to the members of the Sans Souci Book Club.

The beautiful home on Fifth Street was lovely in its artistic arrangement of early spring flowers.

Mrs. W. L. Hall was program reader for the afternoon, her subject being Letters as Literature, which she handled in an unusually interesting manner. She read letters from the following: Lord Chesterfield to his son, showing the difference in his time and the age we now live in; Robert Brownings love letters to Elizabeth Barrett; Robert Louis Stevenson, showing cheerfulness and his bright disposition; Walter Hines Page, showing President Wilson's unwillingness to enter the World War; and Theodore Roosevelt's ever interesting letters to his children, showing the great love of a great man for his family. This program was well given and thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Following this Mrs. J. L. Kilgo gave the club a current affairs test on national affairs, foreign news, science, books and music and art, proving that the members were keeping in close touch with world affairs.

At the end of the program Mrs. James served her guests a delicious salad plate with ice tea bringing to a close one of the most delightful meetings of the year.

"Crazy Politics" To Be Seen Here

Thursday and Friday evenings, March 21st and 22nd at the High School auditorium the Eighth Street Christian Church is sponsoring a three-act comedy with music, "Crazy Politics."

"Crazy Politics" is a Whoopie Political Campaign with a woman candidate up for the office of mayor. This is an unusual and unique type of performance, truly a Master Stage Show. Forty chorus girls support Mrs. Van Dyne during all of her political campaign; singing politicians leave their kitchens and bridge tables to go out and sing Mrs. Van Dyne into the hearts of the people.

But then there is also a faction which is running against our woman candidate. The all men's caucus of Centerville is bitterly opposed to her and attempt to run the campaign their way.

Spider McGinnis, leader of the underworld is up for office, and it's surprising how many are actually supporting him.

Then we have Ivan Awfulch, leader of the Social Party, breaking into the orderly political meetings and upsetting all plans with his eternal cry: "I Ivan am the man."

Lest we forget—Mrs. Van Dyne is not really a woman but a man and her entire party is made up of men impersonating women. That's where the fun really begins. Seeing your well known citizens of Greenville strutting their stuff in satin dresses and plumed hats. Don't miss it, join us and learn to vote the laughing ticket. By the way we suggest that anyone suffering from a heart condition had best stay away for there's two full hours of hilarious entertainment for any one who sees "Crazy Politics."

Announcement of Poetry Contest

The Poetry Contest held in connection with the Spring Festival of Fine Arts, sponsored by the Literature Department of the Woman's Club, is now in progress.

Any one living in Greenville or Pitt County is not only eligible to enter this contest but is hereby solicited to submit either one or two original poems, neither of which should exceed thirty-two lines in length. Poems should be brought or sent to either Mrs. Leo Burks, 509 E. 8th street or to Mrs. Selma Carson Moore, 400 E. 8th street, on or before April 5th. Name and address should accompany all entries which may be sent in legible script. From these the committee in charge will type and number copies which will be presented to the judges without the names of the writers.

Misses Emma Hooper and Lucile Turner of the College faculty will be asked to act as judges.

A beautiful three-dollar volume of American Lyric Poetry, an anthology published last year by the Gale Press of New York and donated by Mrs. W. C. Harris will be awarded the winner in this contest.

Announcement of the winner will be made April 11th, the day the festival is to be held.

Signed,

Mrs. Leo Burks,
Mrs. Selma Carson Moore.

Ball Fans to Meet

A meeting of baseball fans will be held tonight at the City Hall at 7:30 to discuss Greenville's participation in the Coastal Plain League this year. G. V. Smith will preside.

Quinn-Miller Co. Force Enjoys Fine Barbecue Supper

The regular meeting of employers and employees of Quinn-Miller & Company, local furniture dealers was held at the Yum-Yum Barbecue Palace last night and a delightful barbecue supper was enjoyed. L. A. Stroud, manager of the store, presided and conducted a round table discussion dealing with the various phases of business of the firm, looking to improvements wherever possible.

The meetings are held by the company in an effort to improve general service to the public, and many matters of business are settled during the round table discussions.

Acting as toastmaster, Mr. Stroud called on various members of the firm for expressions regarding conduct of the business, and numbers of facts were brought out that proved of great value both to employers and employees.

Those attending the meeting were: L. A. Stroud, Harry Bostic, O. P. Clark, Miss Nell Eason, Van Station, A. T. Denton, T. E. Thorpe, L. C. Smith, Miss Doris Nichols, R. L. Manning, Joe Cook, and Stewart McArthur.

Science Stops The Clock Of Death
By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)
New York.—(AP)—Medical science is revising death. This is the real significance of the mounting numbers of "dead" reported brought back to life.

The portal of death for man, the last door which cannot be re-opened, is no longer his heart. Medical men have known for years that the real portals was elsewhere.

But the last heart beat was a sufficient sign to be used as official. Because from it there was so rarely any call.

This has changed. Between 500 and 1,000 persons "dead" by the stopped heart sign, have been

WEEK

Wood Work

To obtain a Merit Badge for Wood Work, a Scout must:

1. Design and construct a small piece of furniture in which mortise and tenon and doweled joints are used, such as a tabouret, a small table, a chair, a foot-stool, a writing desk, etc.

2. Make plans or rough sketch drawing of the piece selected.

Germans See Long Electric Lines

Berlin.—(AP)—German railroad authorities predict that by 1939 the lines between Berlin and the southern tip of Italy will be electrified. Plans for electrifying German roads have progressed to the announcement that 17,500 men will be employed and that the cost will be $70,000,000.

Serbs Fence Polish Border

Vino, Poland.—(AP)—Poles living on the Soviet Union frontier report that Russian officials are building high fences at certain points to prevent dissatisfied Russians from crossing into Poland.

Bread Earns Students' Bread

Budapest.—(AP)—Law students of Budapest have established a bakery in connection with their welfare kitchen. The bakery is operated entirely by students and its modest profits go to needy fledgling law-lawyers.

Serbs Smoke Up Bonds

Belgrade.—(AP)—Peasants in the Serb mountains near Kolashin have burned thousands of dollars' worth of war reparations bonds by using them as cigarette papers. The discovery was made when a peasant tried to cash interest coupons from a bond retired a year previously.

DOES OUR STATE PAY ITS DEBTS?

Information from Raleigh is to the effect that the bill that seeks appointment of a commission to investigate the claims of counties for refunds of money paid to build state highways might die in the committee or in the last rush of business be included among those measures getting an unfavorable report. Despite the fact that the governor has joined hands with the highway commission in opposing any efforts seeking repayment to the counties, there are some of the counties that are entitled to repayment. More than half the counties in the state have already been repaid around $15,000,000 and agreement has been made to pay the same counties about $3,000,000, yet the other counties are listed as having made gifts of their advances to the state.

If any county in the state was entitled to payment for the state highways it built, then all the counties were entitled to the same treatment and the state can never justify its action by claiming that part of the counties made gifts to the state while the others were smart enough to make the state sign an agreement to repay them.

The present bill before the roads committee calls for a commission to investigate the claim of each individual county and compel the state highway commission to settle with the counties on the basis of the findings of the commission. Certainly no proposition could be fairer and unless the governor and the highway commission believe the claims of the counties are just and are afraid of the state having to pay for these roads, we see no ground for their opposition to the measure. If the claims are unfounded or unjust the commission would certainly find them so and the matter would end without the state having to pay.

As the matter now stands it looks like a number of the counties have been discriminated against by the state and now the governor is backing up the highway commission to save the state having to pay its just debt to these counties.

GREAT RICHES

by Mabel Howe Farnham

SYNOPSIS: James Stimson, III, lost of the male line of the New Concord, N. C. Stimson, returns from preparatory school in the East to find that his guardian, Aunt Sarah Stimson, has lost most of the family fortune. He cannot go to medical school, when he thinks it over, he decides he had rather be a lawyer, anyway. So he visits Judge Holcomb, his best friend, and tells him his decision.

Chapter 11 NAPPY

"I'm glad you've come to your senses," the Judge growled. "I'm glad, too," James grinned enigmatically. He knew very well that he was the apple of the old man's eye.

"Of course I can't afford to go to law school," he went on, "but I thought perhaps you'd allow me to study here with you. I'd like it better than anything."

The Judge grinned back at James delightedly. "I'll think about it," he boomed. "If Nappy's willing I shouldn't be surprised if we could manage it." (Nappy was the colored office boy.)

It was the happiest day in the old Judge's life when James came into the office which had been his grandfather's and began his study of law. For forty years black letters on the frosted glass of the front door and gold letters on the windows had proclaimed to a small but interested world that the firm of Stimson and Holcomb, Attorneys-at-Law, practiced their profession therein.

Perhaps some of Dr. Jim's old admirers, the women, were disappointed that his son failed to follow in his medical footsteps, but to the rest of New Concord it seemed eminently fitting that the third James should be sitting at the first James' desk in the first James' building. The Judge, of course, had known James for years and admired and looked up to him from the first. James had been installed in the office scarcely a day when Nappy surrendered body and soul to his charms. There is no denying that Mr. Stimson, even though he failed to make much impression upon his classmates in the elite East had a way all his own with his colored brethren.

When Nappy had need of a lawyer he ignored the Judge altogether and went straight to Mr. Stimson. Like the first Napoleon, Nappy was possessed of a boundless energy, and was therefore not satisfied with ten hours' daily labor for the glory of Stimson and Holcomb and Hanley.

One morning when James had been with the firm about six months, Nappy came into his private office and mysteriously closed and locked the door.

"Mister James," he said in a low voice, "I've brought you a little legal matter I'd like to talk over between ourselves."

"Fire away," said James, glad of an excuse to lay down his law book. "Well, it's this way. I've been nothing for years as how this white man and that white man what has come in here to our firm asking our advice, is making money all the while without working nothing but they hands and I've figured me out a scheme to do likewise."

"That's a fine idea," said James. "How are you going to work it?"

"I'm promoting a company," said Nappy proudly, "but I don't want no news of it spread about until you and me has my papers of incorporation drawn up and sealed tight as the law can do it."

"Legal business is, of course, sacredly confidential," said James gravely. "But just what are you going to promote?"

"Drift wood," whispered Nappy impressively. "Nothing more nor less. The old Missouri River is full of it springs and falls. Now my idea is to form me a company to catch that drift wood what's going to waste and saw it up and sell it by the cord."

"But, Nappy, that drift wood is free to anyone who goes after it. You can't get men to catch it for you and then give you a share."

"I certainly kin," said Nappy indignantly. "Ain't it my idea? Didn't I think it up, and ain't I employing em and carrying all the responsibility? Why shouldn't I have my rewards same as any other promoter? That part ain't a worrying me a-tall."

James needed no further argument and so the Afro-American Reclamation and Development Company, Incorporated under the laws of the sovereign state of New Jersey, was duly floated and incorporated.

before a stranger had got both feet over the sill of the outer office door whether or not he was a person of importance to be greeted accordingly or tactfully steered toward the street. Nappy, moreover, seemed to know by sheer instinct just when to admit that the Judge was in and when to say that he was out.

It was Nappy again who soothed the ruffled feelings of his firm's fair clients and who escorted them to the hall or into their carriages after the Judge had banged the door behind them. And after that new and intriguing instrument, the telephone, was installed it was Nappy as a matter of course who answered it and decided whether or not the Judge should be called or only given a message.

The telephone was Nappy's particular pet and pride and not for anything that he could think of would he have surrendered the precious privilege of answering it. First, Mr. Hanley was a musician born and played the trombone by ear in New Concord's Fishers of Galilee Colored Benefit Society Band, but the most magnetic tune on earth was but as sounding brass to his ears compared to the alluring tinkle of the telephone bell.

Nappy, of course, had known James for years and admired and looked up to him from the first. James had been installed in the office scarcely a day when Nappy surrendered body and soul to his charms. There is no denying that Mr. Stimson, even though he failed to make much impression upon his classmates in the elite East had a way all his own with his colored brethren.

James needed no further argument and so the Afro-American Reclamation and Development Company, Incorporated under the laws of the sovereign state of New Jersey, was duly floated and incorporated.

The A. A. R. and D. Company remained therefore under the control of one head. Mr. Hanley as general manager directed all operations and peddled out concessions among the chosen few. As he had predicted he had no trouble in inducing his friends to catch the wood for him and give him half.

The editor of the New Concord daily paper was so impressed with James' account of Nappy's adventure in high finance that he not only wrote up the Company in his paper but never failed thereafter to include it in his list of the town's prominent industries—to Nappy's vainglorious pride.

ical history. Now by the same token, it is witnessing the end of some beautiful friendships.

Witness the verbal battle between Senator Bill Borch and Chief Coordinator Don Richberg over the future of NRA. This pair of former liberals who saw eye to eye for years have gone to the mat like a couple of gladiators.

Ever since Borch came roaring out of the West to blarney trusts and special privilege during consideration of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, he has been lifting his eloquent voice against monopolies. So it is small wonder that Don penetrated Borch's epigrams when he hung the "friend-of-monopoly" tag on the Idahoan because of his fight against NRA.

On the other hand, Richberg rose to rational notice as a labor attorney although he now makes it clear he always was on a straight razor and a supporter of the late "Fighting Bob" LaFollette. For years he was regarded by many as a flaming radical if not a "dangerous Red". Now Borch says he is the friend of Big Business, and the pair are stirred to bitter words.

WATER: It makes a lot of difference whose ox is being gored. Under ordinary circumstances the "fast and able" Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, would fight with all the amazing strength within him against any proposition to apply gas rule to that greatest deliberative body on earth, the U. S. Senate.

But when a man's pet aversion happens to be Huey Long, and the Louisiana Kingfish takes up hour after hour of the Senate's time talking about ships, shoes and sealing wax, that makes a difference.

The Glass proposal to make Senators confine themselves to germ-mare subjects when debating appropriation bills is doomed to failure, but it partially expressed the Virginian's views on what should be done about the Delta Dictator. It was so much water off a Kingfish's back.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN

DESERTER: Pacific Gas and Electric's $45,000,000 refunding bond issue fits two separate curves of the Washington jig-saw. One is the added impetus given to Joe Kennedy's drive to step up corporate financing as rapidly as possible.

The other is the indication that Pacific Gas—unlike the bitter-end elements in the industry—is trying to cooperate with the government's utility policy. The announcement that the interest saving of $400,000 on the new issue will be applied to rate reductions is significant. You hear charges in other utility circles that the company is aiming to become teacher's pet.

Despite the tide running against the holding company bill, New York observers say that this may not be a bad thing to be. A number of other utilities with Secretary of the Navy are on the callable bonds could follow Pacific Gas' example to advantage—but darned few of them will for the present. Why? Because—although they believe the holding company bill is licked—they still figure the wisest technique is to keep on yelling murder until it's disposed of. Otherwise aroused security holders might lose interest and a Congressional reaction set in.

A bond issue offered to the public at lower interest doesn't fit this technique at all. It implies confidence that everything is going to be all right—on the part of purchasers as well as the issuing company. Extremists privately and bitterly remark that Pacific Gas has deserted the cause and broken the united front. The informed are confident that Joe Kennedy had more to do with this than he's telling.

COMPROMISE: The power people have certainly done a thorough job of mobilizing objectors to the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. Wall Street gets a chuckle from the protests of several State Public Service Commissions—including those of Connecticut and Georgia—on the ground that the pending legislation infringes on state's rights. Insiders understand that the most effective protestants—though they have not appeared in that capacity publicly—are the life insurance companies. They don't agree at all with the Federal Trade Commission that the gradual extermination of holding companies wouldn't hurt them.

Ironically there's one class of security holders who would like to see the holding company death sentence carried out. They are the people who sold small operating properties to the big groups and were paid in stock. The stock isn't worth much now—but the properties might be if they could get them back. But there are too few of them to make a dent politically and their chances are slim.

While the Wheeler-Rayburn bill as written is dead New York seems report enough anti-utility sentiment still alive in Washington to make some legislation probable. The best-informed sources believe it will shape toward the compromise which would convert the holding companies into investment trusts. If this goes through they will continue to exist and receive dividends from their operating properties but will be practically stripped of management rights. Moderates among utility leaders are not at all averse to this solution.

CHAOS: General Batista—President Mendieta—is the real power behind the existing Cuban government. New York sharps say he can keep the whip hand as long as his army obeys orders. The test will come when the soldiers are ordered to fire into a mob. Killing of friends and relatives is likely to breed disaffection. And if a single regiment lays down its arms or deserts to the rebels it will be like touching a match to a celluloid collar.

Insiders understand that ex-president Grau San Martin has more to do with the current disturbance than is generally known. New York investors in Cuban properties see a complete and final washout ahead—especially in the utility field. Sugar investments may be an exception. Confiscation of sugar properties might close the American market to Cuban sugar—and even the bitterest leaders of anti-Yankee sentiment realize that would be suicide. Informed circles predict chaos in Cuba for months to come—ending in domination by left wing extremists and devastating losses to foreign capital.

WAGES: Insiders say that nobody but Uncle Sam has paid prevailing wages in the construction field for the past four years. They add that there would have been no private construction at all if the theoretical wage scale had been enforced.

The Federation of Labor—for all its bold words on the subject—has privately acquiesced in this chiseling. It had no choice if it wanted to keep its membership in the building trades alive. Carpenters and bricklayers have much preferred to accept pay below the union scale rather than hold fast and starve.

FORGOTTEN: A New York banker with excellent Washington contacts predicts that Title I of the Bank Reform Bill—involving changes in the permanent deposit insurance law—will be passed at this session. He prophesies further that Title II—amending the Federal Reserve System—will be conveniently forgotten in the shuffle. If it works this way smiles for bankers will be back in fashion.

SENSITIVE: Wall Street used to jump like a nervous kitten at every faint breeze from Washington—but not more. Comment runs that nobody short of the President or the Supreme Court can draw any response now—and they're only good for half a day. A disgruntled broker complains that the markets are about as sensitive as a stevedore under ether.

SHARED: New Yorkers are intrigued to note that Huey Long evidently believes in sharing expense as well as wealth. They observe that his best brand of propaganda goes out over his Congressional frank—and they wonder what Jim Farley thinks of that.

SIDELIGHTS: A Stock Exchange seat was recently sold for a net loss of almost $400,000 from the purchase price. New York sharps can't figure Congress going home before mid-June at the earliest. Bad news from their viewpoint.... $800,000,000 private refinancing is in sight now that Swift and Pacific Gas have set the pace.

Legislative Ramblings

of humor, said "Oh, you must be thinking of my brother who is in the Legislature," replied the gentleman from Chocoma. "He has a mustache. As you can see, I have none."

"Indeed!" said the Lieutenant Governor. "Well the resemblance is certainly remarkable. I certainly thought you were in the Legislature."

"Not I," said Representative White who only that morning had shaved. "Well," said "Sandy." "I'm glad to know you, anyway. And I'd like to meet him."

"I'll tell him that," answered Representative White as he departed.

"For statistical purposes I would like to know how many negroes are members of your State Legislature," runs a letter received by Senate Principal Clerk LeRoy Martin from William Anderson, of Washington, D. C. The letter was written on a sheet of plain paper, but was mailed in an envelope bearing a U. S. Patent Office return address. LeRoy hadn't made up his mind about answering the inquiry—if he does, or doesn't, William Anderson will draw a blank.

"No one in my county believes that our dog-catcher will ever get to heaven," said Senator Sprunt Hill of Durham, during debate on the rabies bill which would require all dogs to be inoculated against that disease. The Senator added that he said dog-catcher was "an estimable gentleman" but that dog-catcher in any wise remove the hatred of the dog-catcher from the public mind. "Nannis and Hennie ought not to be subjected to such treatment, though the silver-haired Durhamite. Just in case you are wondering 'Nannie and Kenzie' were supposed to be the names of typical dogs. The introducer of the liquor bill is original as even his opponents would admit. No sir, no Towlers or Fidoes will be considered by him."

"When this Legislature adjourns there won't be any part of either human or animal anatomy as big as a silver dollar left untaxed or untitled," said Senator Brock Hurley on the floor of the Senate. He, too was opposing the rabies measure. "We ought to draw a half somersault," said the portly Montgomery mountain, as he waggled his anatomy sat down amid laughter.

LOW BIRTH RATE WORRYING NORWAY

Oslo, Norway, March 15.—(AP)—Norway, Oslo in particular, has become involved in predictions of racial suicide, with extremists insisting that the city before long will be peopled by greybeards.

The number of births has decreased enormously in recent years; from 8,000 in 1900 to only 2,000 in 1934.

A heated discussion followed the publication of the statistics. Some persons maintained the decrease means only that "human breeding has become cultured," and that national economy will be the better for it.

Conservative groups, however, insist that the decline spells catastrophe for the nation and that national economy is threatened.

Widespread propaganda for birth control was regarded as the chief cause of the lowered birth rate. Health Commissioner Andreas Diesen insisted that the decrease had gone far beyond the limits of reason.

"He'd better be a plumber nowadays," returned Mr. Hoover.

Washington Daybook

By HEABERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Observers here, including government officials with cabinet rank on down the line, can't get very excited over the controversy between Secretary Swanson of the navy and Comptroller General McCarl.

They've seen the silver-haired, blue-eyed, genial little man, whom not even the President of the United States can remove from office, win out too often before in similar encounters with the "big shots."

The row with Swanson "will be just another notch in McCarl's desk top," is the way one describes it. Other "notches" to be found there include:

General John J. Pershing. Once the General lost the vouchers accounting for money spent on an official business trip. Did he get the money back? He did not.

A Boston Federal District Attorney. He won a $1,000,000 tax suit for the government and spent $2 for air-mail postage in doing so. He had to pay the $2.

May Be Different

Swanson is endeavoring to have the government pay traveling expenses of dependents of navy officers ordered home to await retirement. McCarl has ruled it can't be done. Swanson, backed by a ruling of Attorney General Cummings, ordered the disbursing officers of the navy to do it anyway. The Comptroller General warned the Secretary. "It is assumed you fully appreciate the seriousness of your proposed action."

It is admitted in some quarters, however, that McCarl, charged with the duty of seeing that not a nickel of government money is spent unless he rules it legal, may be up against a different proposition in his tilt with Swanson than in previous instances. Suppose the naval secretary should hold his ground.

The Comptroller General has no direct method of giving force to his decisions. He could bring suit against the disbursing officers who expended money against his ruling. Such suits, however, would have to be prosecuted by the government of justice.

In this particular instance, apparently, the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Navy are on the same side. Such suits might be ignored.

Not a Personal Question

It then would be up to Congress to settle the question. That body could so clarify the law, which it passed in 1921, as to remove all doubt, as to what authority the Comptroller General has.

As for John Raymond McCarl, the whole affair is impersonal to him.

"Such questions must be authoritatively decided," he says simply "else there would be confusion."

With him the law is first. He is concerned with it and not the individual who interprets it.

He simply feels that he has no enemies—people may bear him good or ill will, but he himself bears no grudges (recognizes none).

In July, 1936, he will have completed fifteen years as Comptroller General—the first and only man to hold the office. Only Congress can remove him, by impeachment, and when his term expires next year, he is not eligible for reappointment.

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—When 35-year-old Jennings Randolph of West Virginia came to the House in the last Congress to represent the Second District of his State, he boasted of two distinctions.

First, that he was named for William Jennings Bryan, the great "Copperhead."

And second, that he had completed a course in public speaking to equip himself better for his duties as a member of Congress.

The youthful and handsome West Virginian, like many other first-terms, went comparatively unnoticed during his first session. He returned to the present session, however, re-elected by a 15,000 majority, determined to make a name for himself.

He aimed high at the start, striking out for a berth on the ways and means committee. He failed to obtain an assignment on this powerful House group and remained the only member of the West Virginia delegation without major committee membership.

Became Crime Investigator

Young Mr. Randolph was not to be dismayed, however. He popped up shortly thereafter with a resolution calling for an exhaustive investigation of crime conditions in the national capital. His membership on the House District Committee paved the way for such a move.

The inquiry was voted and Randolph moved into action. He was made chairman and, as such, virtually bossed the whole show. From "I take Theodor's Black-Draught for dizziness, headaches, bad taste in the mouth, a dull, tired feeling and for any bad feeling that comes from a clogged system," writes Mr. D. M. Minton, of Chieffland, Fla. "Soch I am feeling good as new. I only take a dose once in a while."

the very beginning his committee moved onto the front pages of the five newspapers in Washington to stay there. Randolph and his colleagues were fairly deluged with publicity.

In some sense the Randolph committee was dealing with a purely local problem, but anything concerning conditions in the national capital is news for the rest of the country. Such was true in this instance.

Then, too, there are scattered around Washington hundreds of native West Virginians working for the government in various capacities. The activity of young Mr. Randolph didn't go unnoticed by these people, many of whom are absentee voters.

May Head For Senate

Those familiar with West Virginia politics attach an even deeper significance to Randolph's parade in the limelight.

Political gossip in West Virginia has it that Randolph has an eye on running for a seat in the Senate. He personally will not discuss the question, but others do.

The Democratic Senator, Matthew N. Neely, comes up for re-election next year. West Virginia politicians say that he might not be able to dislodge Neely, but they concede there's nothing to keep him from trying.

The State has set a precedent by sending youngsters to the Senate. Rush D. Holt was elected last November before he had reached the Constitutional age of thirty, and is now marking time until June 19 when he can take his seat.

Randolph at least wouldn't have to worry about his age.

Globe Encircling Air Race Plan Of French Aero Club

Paris—(AP)—A new international air race—this time around the world—is the dream of the French Aero Club.

Spurred by the brilliant success of the London-Melbourne race and humiliated by the absence of French machines from that test, French air enthusiasts are hopeful of again putting France's wings high in international ranks by a breath-taking global dash.

The French project, which has received the support of the International Aeronautic Federation is being studied. A full report will be made at the September meeting of the Federation in Yugo-Slavia.

So eager are the French to make the race a success that they have provided for more than two years of organization and it will be early in the summer of 1937 before it can be held.

Meanwhile the co-operation of national air bodies, including the United States, will be asked before the final date, route, prizes and rules are determined.

THE HAT SENSATION THAT STARTLED THE WORLD.....

Showing Now for March to November Wear

YET Neither STRAW NOR FELT

An amazing new process of hat manufacturing has been discovered... a process which produces a hat of straw-like texture that is easily sponged clean, yet has all the appearance of the smartest felt. It is waterproof and flexible. It wears indefinitely without losing its shape. It's a year-round hat, styled for March to November wear. It is sold at your favorite hat store at a price that will greatly surprise you. Strawfel Hat Manufacturers, Hatters Bldg., St. Louis, U. S. A.

The manufacture of Strawfel Hats is protected by U. S. Patent No. 1,953,697. Look for this trademark on the hat you buy. It identifies the genuine.

a better-balanced FERTILIZER

"LAST YEAR I used extra NV Sulphate of Potash with my regular tobacco fertilizer," says A. T. SUGG, of La Grange, N. C. "I used enough to bring the potash up to 8% and I made more pounds and more dollars. My tobacco was decidedly better than average. The fertilizer with 8% potash worked fine on good land and on a poor sandy hill it made almost 1,200 pounds per acre. I am planning to keep the potash in my fertilizers high because it pays. I also put extra Kainit to my cotton along with nitrogen and this is a good practice. My cotton with the extra potash didn't RUST and it picked fine."

3-8-8 FERTILIZER is not the particular brand of one fertilizer company. All leading fertilizer companies have 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER and 3-8-8 COTTON FERTILIZER on sale. Ask your fertilizer man about the very small extra cost of this better-balanced fertilizer. 3-8-8 contains 35% more actual plant food than 3-8-3 yet its extra cost is so low it will surprise you.

Extra NV POTASH in your fertilizer will probably be the best investment you have ever made. Many leading farmers have used it with outstanding success. Extra potash gives tobacco a better grain and increases yields. It does not make the crop rough and red. On the average the man with the most pounds makes the most dollars per acre. Extra pounds this year will give you the chance to grade your crop closer and sell more pounds of high-quality leaf. POTASH PAYS!

FOR COTTON: To help your cotton prevent rust, control wilt and produce vigorous, healthy plants with less shedding, larger bolls that are easier to pick and better yields of uniform, high-quality lint... USE 3-8-8 COTTON FERTILIZER.

BILL SEEKS TO OMIT COUNTY SCHOOL UNITS

Consolidation of School Supervision Sought by New Measure now in Making

By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, N. C., March 15.—A bill to abolish the county as the unit for school supervision and to divide the State up into four supervisory units, is now being prepared and will be introduced soon. It was learned here today. It was also learned that the bill will have the support of a large number of teachers and a good many superintendents who realize that this move will not only decrease school costs but increase efficiency by assuring better school supervision.

The bill, if enacted, would decrease the number of county superintendents and virtually abolish the jobs of county superintendents as much and set up instead for forty districts, with a district superintendent in charge of the schools in each. This would make the State-wide school system similar to the set-up of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, which was advocated by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin several years ago when he was president of the North Carolina Education Association. When the State took over all county roads and placed them under the supervision of the Highway Department, it did not attempt to retain a county engineer or road supervisor in each county. Instead, it divided all the one hundred counties in the State into twenty-five districts and placed a district engineer in charge of each district, and eliminated all the former county engineers and county road supervisors. As a result of doing this, it reduced the cost of maintaining the county to less than $4,000,000 a year to less than $6,000,000 a year and then down to less than $4,000,000 a year.

It is not expected that either Superintendent Erwin or the North Carolina Education Association will be in favor of the proposed bill, for the reason that it will reduce the number of county superintendents in the State. This was the reason that both Erwin and the N. C. Education Association fought a bill both years ago. For the North Carolina Association is conceded to be controlled by the county and city superintendents rather than by the teachers, although the teachers supply the money for its propaganda and lobbying activities. So it is expected that this association will again throw the full forces of its 200,000 teachers and the allied parent-teacher associations against any move to reduce the number of county superintendents.

Late News Flashes

Today in Congress
Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—Victory earned by a week of waiting and political maneuvering today appeared in the grasp of the Senate administration guides of President Roosevelt's $4,800,000,000 work relief program.

The confidently predicted that the McCarran prevailing wage amendment which the House flatly refused to pass would be defeated. They resaw adoption of the Senate resolution of a compromise proposal requiring adoption of the Senate resolution of a compromise proposal requiring payment of the prevailing private wage in permanent public building and security wages on other work projects unless the private scale should be endangered.

Drive Against Narcotic Peddlers
Washington, March 15.—(AP)—Thousands of law enforcement agents today were unleashed by Secretary Morgenthau in a nation wide drive seeking to stamp out every type of law violation in the treasury's jurisdiction.

Big forces of the Coast guards, custom service, secret service, narcotics bureau, alcoholic taxing unit and the internal revenue bureau's inheritance unit were directed against liquor and dope smugglers, counterfeiters and other who sought to evade the treasury's laws and regulations.
