Italy And France Continue To Add To Armed Forces

SEEK PENALTY FOR GERMANY

Italy Calls 200,000 More Men to Arms; Mussolini Declares Italy Ready For Any Threat of War

Rome, March 23.—(AP)—The entire military class of 1911, estimated at some 220,000 men, was called to arms today as a "precautionary measure" an official communique announced. The mobilization order was announced just after Premier Mussolini declared "Italy is now ready for any threat of war coming from beyond her frontiers."

He was speaking at a public celebration of the sixteenth anniversary of the founding of the Fascist party and said in the course of his remarks to the 10,000 Black Shirts:

"Our desire for peace and European collaboration is based on some millions of bayonets." Mussolini who spoke under a cloudy sky in occasional blustery rains, declared: "The European situation is as troubled as today's weather, but Italy is giving a splendid example of calm force. This is because she is strong not only in arm but in spirit."

Paris, Mar. 23.—(AP)—With her military staff of the Rhine frontier officially confirmed France proposed today a three-power conference for public discussion of penalties for Germany before the meeting of the League of Nations. It is understood, however, that Captain Anthony Eden, of Great Britain, induced Premier Laval to day any action against Germany and to go more cautiously than the French had planned.

The penalties proposed by France are understood to be economic in the main—possibly an economic blockade. It was reported that Eden succeeded in establishing an agreement that such drastic measures should be debated privately during the meeting of the powers at Compiègne, in order to lessen European friction.

The three-power conference in Italy was consequently postponed until the first week on April to await Eden's return from Moscow and the League Council sessions to be held afterward.

Strengthening of the frontier garrison was described as a "purely technical" re-arrangement of the defense forces, but the confirmation came during the meeting of the supreme council of national defense presided over by President Lebrun by the Premier Minister of War.

Imperial Chinese Pearl Sold
Peking.—(AP)—A sister-in-law of Kan-Teh, emperor of Manchukuo, the former "boy emperor" of China, recently sold to an American for $32,000 an egg-shaped pearl which was believed to be the dowry empress of China and was supposed to have the power of protecting its wearer from harm.

Would Require Utilities Body Test All Meters

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
Raleigh, March 23.—The State Utilities Commission would be required to test all electric, gas and water meters in use in the state and also require all electric, gas and water companies or municipalities selling electricity or water to keep testing meters and devices, under the terms of a bill introduced in the house by Representative Cooper of New Hanover, Alspaugh, of Winston-Salem, Carrell of Columbus and several others.

The cost of maintaining this meter testing and inspection division would be borne by a charge or tax of 20 cents per year on each meter, to be paid by the company, corporations or municipalities owning such meters.

The sponsors of the bill maintain its enactment would save the people of the state hundreds of thousands of dollars a year and also save the company a great deal by insuring the regular inspection and proper adjustment of electric, gas and water meters.

Representative Cooper also introduced a bill to transfer the weights and measures division from the Department of Agriculture to the Utilities Commission.

Pass Work Relief Bill
Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—The $4,800,000,000 work relief bill with numerous modifications, including a modified silver inflation plan, was passed today by the Senate. This ends two weeks of struggle and returns the measure to the House with the amendments.

Administration strategy called for sending the long-controverted relief measure to a conference between the Senate and House to reconcile some of the outstanding differences. Leaders expected to see struck out by the conference an amendment by Thomas, of Oklahoma, for a currency expansion of $375,000,000 through the issuance of silver certificates. ## NO DANGER OF LOSING PORT LOAN

Governor Says Differences on Morehead City Proposition Now Ironed Out

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
Raleigh, N. C., March 23.—There is no danger of losing the Morehead City port loan from the Public Works Administration, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus said today. The final details and differences between the Morehead City Port Commission, the State and the Public Works Administration are now being rapidly ironed out, with the result that a definite and final announcement concerning the port loan should be forthcoming some time next week, the Governor said. Until then, he declined to reveal any further concerning the negotiations now in progress.

The general belief here, however, is that the board of directors of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railway, in which the State owns 71 per cent of the stock, will take over the active operations of the railroad in the very near future. Until recently the road was leased to the Norfolk Southern, but the lease was cancelled several months ago because the Norfolk Southern was behind with its payments and taxes. It was believed that the State can take over the operation of the road, which shows that even under the conditions of the past few years it has made money, and operate it at a profit. An operating budget for State operation of the road has already been prepared and submitted to the Public Works Administration, which has indicated that if the State will take over its operation and pay the approximately $500,000 in interest due on its bonds, that the cash for the Morehead City port will be immediately available.

The first part of this week the outlook for getting the port loan did not seem very bright. But a series of conferences has been held here this week between the Governor, President Luther Hamilton of the A. & N. C., and members of the port commission, with the result that the result that the troubles seem to have been ironed out. The Public Works Administration will not release the cash for the port until the A. & N. C. is in active operation and its earnings pledged as partial security for the loan.

Dusseldorf, Germany.—(AP)—Nothing is too small for confiscation when it comes to property of Communists.

An official notice gives details of seizures on the premises of fifteen dissolved Communist organizations, mostly athletic, where the chief booty consisted of ten sport shirts, ten shorts, ten pairs of stockings, one sweater, and a pair of gold-keeper's pants.

77 KILLED; 482 INJURED IN FEBRUARY

375 Auto Accidents in State During February Took Heavy Toll

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
Raleigh, N. C., March 23.—Speed flouting youth, gasoline and liquor caused seventy-seven deaths and injured 482 in 375 automobile accidents in North Carolina during February, according to figures released today by Director L. S. Harris of the Motor Vehicle Bureau of the Department of Revenue. Fourteen of those killed and 58 of the injured were between the ages of fifteen and 25. Drunken drivers were responsible for five of the total and thirty of the non-fatal accidents. One intoxicated pedestrian was killed and three injured while walking along highways.

While the February list of fatalities and accidents is smaller than in January, when ninety persons were killed and 506 injured in 362 accidents, it is much larger than in February, 1934, when only fifty-three persons were killed and 433 injured in 306 accidents. In February, 1933, only fifty were killed and 280 injured in 192 accidents, while in February, 1932, only thirty-eight were killed and 328 injured in 260 accidents.

"Recklessness and carelessness combined with excessive speed, continues to be the chief cause of automobile accidents in North Carolina, the monthly records show," Director Harris said. "The only thing that will curb these accidents, in my opinion, is rigid enforcement of the new drivers' license law by means of a highway patrol large enough to make the careless and reckless drivers feel the teeth in the law."

Director Harris is so convinced that the State should have a highway patrol of not less than 250 patrolmen and officers in order to properly enforce the highway laws and the new drivers' license law.

Sixty of the seventy-seven killed and two hundred of the 482 injured were due primarily to carelessness, recklessness or too much speed, Harris pointed out. Hit-and-run drivers were responsible for eleven fatal and twenty-four non-fatal accidents; reckless drivers for thirteen fatal and seventy-six non-fatal accidents; speeding for sixteen non-fatal crashes, in addition to the five fatal and fifty non-fatal crashes attributed to drunken drivers.

Pedestrians again suffered heavily, with twenty-six pedestrians killed and forty-seven injured by being hit by cars. Of these five children were killed and nineteen injured while playing in the streets; eleven pedestrians were killed and six injured while walking on a roadway and three were killed and two injured while walking across the roadway.

Collision accidents continued to be more numerous than any others, with fifty-four killed and 399 injured in collision accidents of various sorts, and almost all collision accidents are due to carelessness on the part of the driver of one car or the other, or both, according to Harris.

There were fewer fatal accidents but more non-fatal accidents in cities than in rural sections, while there were more fatal rural accidents, as follows:

In cities: eight fatal and 157 non-fatal accidents.
In rural sections: 64 fatal and 146 non-fatal accidents.

The reason for this, according to Harris, is that people as a rule drive more slowly in the cities, with the result that if cars do collide they do not do so with as much force as on the highways outside of cities. More persons are accordingly killed and injured in the accidents in the rural sections where the cars usually travel at much higher speeds.

SENATE HOLDS BRIEF SESSION

House in Recess After Midnight Meeting to Pass Revenue Bill

TAILOR FREED IN MATRON'S DEATH

Elements of mystery in the death of Mrs. Charlotte M. Quilter at Southern Pines, N. C., were cleared away by the verdict of the coroner's jury which found the wife of the general superintendent of the Erie railroad crushed her skull in falling accidentally from an automobile. Lawrence M. McDonald, a village tailor who accompanied her on a drinking party, was exonerated. He is shown at right as he took the oath at an earlier session of the coroner's inquest that sent him to jail for a brief period while the investigation was pursued. (Associated Press Photo)

UNION SERVICE SUNDAY NIGHT

Third of Series of Union Services to be Conducted at Pitt Theatre

The people of Greenville are invited to share in the Lenten union services being held each Sunday evening in the Pitt Theatre at 7:30 o'clock.

The churches of the city are co-operating in these services in the effort to make possible a community-wide preparation for Easter, the ministers of the various congregations bringing the messages.

Mr. Ryan, minister of the Christian Church, will preach tomorrow night on "When Jesus Faced Death." There will be good music, with Miss Nagle, of the college faculty, serving as pianist, and the singing of old familiar hymns by the congregation under the direction of Professor McDougall.

These services are most helpful and your attendance will help not only you but many others. Come and bring a friend.

News Behind The News.

WASHINGTON

HERITAGE: It would be rank heresy, not to mention possible contempt of court, to even suggest that the rulings of federal jurists are influenced in any way by political considerations.

Since they've been buffeted around in the federal courts recently, however, there are any number of New Dealers who feel that the Roosevelt administration is suffering from a Republican judicial heritage.

They point out the coincidence that all of the recent important reversals of Roosevelt policy were handed down by judges appointed either by Taft, Coolidge or Hoover.

WHITLEY WINS DAMAGE SUIT

Coca Cola Bottling Company Appeals From Verdict of $250 Damage

Marvin Whitley, Belvoir township youth, was awarded $250 damages against the Coca Cola Bottling Company, in civil court here yesterday. The bottling company immediately filed notice of appeal to supreme court.

Whitley's suit for damages for injuries as a result of swallowing glass from a bottle of coca cola, was filed by his father as his next friend. The original complaint sought damages of $5,000 for temporary suffering and permanent injury but during the course of the hearing of the case the claim for permanent injury was withdrawn and damages for only temporary suffering and injury sought.

Hearing of the case was begun at the opening of court Thursday morning and went to the jury shortly before one o'clock yesterday. The jury returned its verdict awarding $250 damages after a little more than an hour's deliberation.

Yesterday afternoon's session of court was taken up with the case of T. W. Venters and wife versus Frank Harris and wife in which the plaintiffs are suing to redeem property sold under foreclosure by Harris. The case had not been completed at a late hour yesterday afternoon and the court recessed until Monday morning at which time the hearing will be resumed.

The two week's term of superior court for the trial of civil cases opened here last Monday morning with Judge M. V. Barnhill presiding and will continue through next week.

HOOVER TAKES FLING AT NEW DEAL POLICIES

Says New Deal Theories do not work; Urges Republicans To Take up Fight

Sacramento, Calif., March 23.—(AP)—Former President Hoover told California Republicans today that the country must decide a government based on American principles and liberty and not on "regimentation and bureaucratic domination."

"We stand on the threshold of a great forward economic movement," the former President said in one of his rare statements since leaving office. "If only the paralyzing effects of mistaken government policies and activities may be removed."

The Hoover statement was made in a letter to Sheriff Halbert, president of the California Republican assembly meeting here. Halbert had requested Mr. Hoover, titular head of the party, to prepare a message for the meeting.

"The administration's theories are no longer a propagandized millennium; they are self-exposed," the former President said. "The present conception of national economy based on scarcity must in all common sense be reversed to an economy based upon production or the workman, farmer and business-man alike are defeated." He called for the rebirth of the Republican of the Republican party, adding it has "the greatest responsibilities since the days of Abraham Lincoln to raise the standard in defense of fundamental American principles."

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover's militant message to California Republicans aroused conflicting conjectures today as to whether he is contemplating a political comeback attempt. Coinciding as it does with multiplied signs of G. O. P. organization activity over the country the move struck some observers at the capital as evidence of his determination to be the party leader in fact as well as in name. Others were not so sure and were adopting a "wait and see" attitude as an indication they were reluctant to be quoted on his political potentialities.

While the Democrats scoffed, such Republican regulars as Representative Snell, of New York, and Senator Hastings, of Delaware, agreed with Mr. Hoover in his arraignment of the new deal. Senator McNary, Republican leader in his branch of Congress held off with:

"I have no comment to make on anything that gentleman might say."

Although Senators who saw him recently were inclined to scoff the suggestion that the former President looks ahead to 1936, other sources in touch with him hold that he is open-minded on the question of another Presidential term.

Health Officer Urges Sanitation Program

Dr. N. Thos. Ennett, Director, Pitt County Health Department, and J. P. Stowe, Sanitary Inspector, are pushing the privy program in Pitt County.

Special attention is now being given to Ayden, but other sections are being reached as promptly as possible. Last week there were 33 privies constructed in Pitt County and during the present week 21 privies were constructed, total 54.

Mr. Stowe urges that the landlords and landowners who have unsanitary privies on their property not wait for the inspector to condemn such privies, but that they begin at once to build them in order that they may have sanitary privies before flies begin to breed.

The sanitary inspector says, however, that it is very important that these privies be built according to the State Board of Health specifications. A bulletin giving the specifications, bill of materials and full information can be secured from Mr. Stowe further says that he will be glad to assist in the construction wherever his services may be desired. This service, of course, is free to the citizens of Pitt County.

MOVE ON FOOT REDUCE SIZE SCHOOL BODY

Proposed Change Would Give School Forces Control of Commission

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
By P. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, N. C., March 23.—An under-cover move is now being made the school forces and the State Department of Public Instruction to gain control of the State School Commission and thus control of the spending of the more than $20,000,000 a year of school money appropriated by this General Assembly. It was learned today from reliable sources. For the State School Commission, like the State Board of Equalization which preceded it, has long been a thorn in the side of the city and county school superintendents because it supervises the expenditure of all school funds-a function formerly belonging to the superintendents. They have also objected to the commission because it has been composed almost entirely of business men instead of school superintendents and school people. But the General Assembly set up this commission deliberately for the purpose of taking the expenditure of school funds out of the hands of the professional educators and to put it in the hands of business men instead, in order to check the former extravagances in school. ## LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL

If Representative Libby Ward, of Craven county, isn't careful he is going to get himself labeled as a bolshevik, a radical, or somp. "Right is right," he declared heatedly during a debate on the dividend tax, "and wrong is wrong!" It is understood that his friends are working with him, hoping to dissuade him from declaring that east is east, or that white is white.

Widows and orphans, practically penniless holders of $20.00 or $30.00 worth of corporation stocks, played a prominent part in the house debate on the dividend tax. Opponents of the tax almost invariably pictured what would be the "pitiful plight" of such widows and orphans if the legislature should impose the new levy. Finally Representative Ervin, of Mecklenburg, could stand it no longer. He arose to declare himself as favoring the tax on "such widows." When heckled he reported. (Continued on Page Four)

HILL BILL TO BE REDRAWN AS MONEY RAISER

Finance Committee to Make Liquor Bill Part of Revenue Measure

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
By C. A. PAUL

Raleigh, March 23.—The much-discussed Hill liquor control bill is still in the senate finance committee files, but it is not, as has been reported, "slumbering." The bill is being rewritten solely as a revenue measure, will be offered as an amendment to the revenue bill, but will not be offered until the senate takes up the revenue bill. The finance committee will present the bill purely as a revenue measure; since that body is concerned only with the revenue angle of the bill, and because some members of the committee feel that the judiciary No. 2 committee which had previously reported the bill "without prejudice" by a 11-4 vote has passed on the merits of the bill, the finance committee will present the bill as a tax measure.

Although Senator Harris Newman, chairman of the finance committee, would make no statement on the bill, it has been learned that the course outlined will be followed.

It is certain that the bill is being redrafted and that the revenue clause of the original bill is being changed. The very likely probability is that the bill, when it finally emerges, will be without its revenue raising features, and that the revenue feature will be incorporated in a separate measure and offered as a new section to be added to the revenue bill.

It is known that many of the finance committee members will vote to offer the bill as a revenue producer, without comment as to the merits of the state system of liquor stores which the bill proposes to establish. Some of them feel that it is up to the senators and house members to decide upon the merits of the system and that it is the sole duty of the finance committee to act upon the revenue provisions of the bill.

The original bill, as drawn by Senator John Sprunt Hill, of Durham, provides that the estimated $3,600,000 revenue shall go to "relief purposes, old age and unemployment insurance." All except $1,000,000 of the amount would be allocated to the 100 counties for those purposes. The remainder, except approximately $250,000 which would be allotted for enforcement of the ray Turlington act in those counties in which no stores would be established, would be placed in the hands of the Governor to apply to the general fund or to various governmental activities.

That plan will be changed, however, in the process of redrawing the bill in the finance committee. Instead of allocating most of the revenue to be derived from the state stores system the rewritten bill will allot most of it to the general fund as a means of increasing severely-slashed school and institution appropriations. School teachers, if the revised plan should be accepted by the legislature, as well as other state employees, would be assured of substantial pay increases.

It is not definitely known whether or not the bill will contain its original statewide referendum. Perhaps, though by no means certain, the bill may include the Hill offered amendments which would provide for a county optional system of voting, with stores to be opened only in those counties which vote for the establishment of state-owned liquor stores. Under the county-option plan the act would be inoperative until at least 12 counties had voted for such stores.

That the Hill bill would be a sure-fire budget balancer no one doubts. The experience of Virginia and other states which have adopted such a system have demonstrated the revenue possibilities. It was with that thought that proponents of the bill had it re-referred, this time to the finance committee, when it came up for senate action on Thursday of week before last.

Many of the proponents of the bill believe that they will be able to enlist support from several members who ordinarily oppose the bill by offering it as a budget balancer extraordinary. Chief among these members are those who favor increased pay for teachers and other state employees, adequate financial support for state hospitals, training schools and so on. At any rate, the Hill bill will reopen when the going in the senate gets the toughest.

Despite the fact that the anti-sales taxes lost their battle in the House for elimination of the tax and for the reduction of the tax from three to two per cent, it is gratifying that both Representatives Blount and Paylor of this county preferred to be on what they considered to be the right side rather than the winning side and voted for the measures that would have given the masses of people in this state relief from at least a portion of the sales taxes.

Within the past few pretty spring days the baseball bee has begun to buzz considerably in this community and tentative plans have been completed for reorganization of the league. Certainly no town should be without baseball during the summer months and it is to be hoped that our people generally will take a hand in seeing to it that Greenville has a good club this season.

Too much speed and carelessness on the highways of North Carolina resulted in 77 deaths and hundreds of injuries during February and unless there is a let up in accidents during the balance of this present month, March might even surpass last month's record. While efforts are going forward to protect the general health and assure the well being of the people of our state little is being done to put a stop to this appalling slaughter on our highways. What we need are traffic laws that include sane speed limits and then enough highway patrolmen to see to it that these laws are enforced. The recently enacted drivers license law is a big step in the direction of controlling the operation of automobiles on our highways but it must be remembered that without adequate provision for enforcement of this and other traffic laws they are not worth the space they take up in the law books.

Chapter 17 THE TWINS

THE twins were built on the lines of a pudding and their round pink faces and round blue eyes, whenever they gazed that they were being watched, were as completely devoid of expression as figures of porcelain.

They were silent children, silent at least in the presence of their elders, but carried on a never-ending and elaborate system of communication by almost imperceptible winks, jerks of the head, twirls of the thumb and similar manifestations.

They were almost never heard criticizing grownups, yet the latter were always conscious when the twins were near of being judged and perhaps made fun of. Indeed their continued presence, except when they were actively employed in absorbing food, so embarrassed their father that he had to do with them as possible and even their mother was often uneasy under their combined impassive stares.

Jane and the twins usually maintained an armed neutrality. Jane's twelve years' seniority and her father's open favoritism gave her an apparent advantage over her brothers.

She was able for instance to have their pocket money curtailed if they offended her. At times, when the twins were serious enough, she could not them punished in the good old fashioned way; and when Mr. Northrup's secret invitation against Jane was crystallized into a whipping, it was were occasions to be remembered shudderingly.

But Jane had learned that way an unpleasantness, usually impossible to trace, happened consistently whenever she interfered with her brothers; she found it wise to leave them severely alone. Therefore, for Jane the twins had recently taken the four under layers of her gorgeous box of birthday cake, leaving the top layer untouched, and been soundly whipped for it.

For days they made no move to say Jane back. Now when she was most unhappy, fretting, as she thought, in secret over Jane's preference for the despised and detested Leslie, Jane found that the twins had neither forgiven nor forgotten.

Jane took her breakfasts in bed. The twins, passing her door in the mornings, would sing in falsetto voices, "Only a bird with a wounded heart," over and over, and then laugh stridently.

"Stop that horrible noise," Jane commanded daily, but the noise went on. Once they lingered and debated loudly whether it was a bird with a wounded heart or a wounded wing.

"The evidence points to a wounded heart," Norris snickered. "Yeah, you bet it's a wounded heart, all right, all right," Nate added, and the two leaned up against the wall convulsed with their own wit.

Jane appealed to her mother to stop the outrage. "But you sing it yourself," the twins answered in chorus. "We learned it from you."

"It's a silly song," their mother said firmly, "but if you must sing it, sing it outdoors and sing it correctly. It goes like this, 'Only a bird in a gilded cage.'"

She sang the chorus through, and made the twins repeat it after her.

and if you don't want him to use it."

At that moment the voice of the Irish cook was heard in the kitchen uplifted in song. "Only a bird, in a gilded cage," crooned hoarsely; Ellen O'Flaherty.

While Mrs. Northrup fled towards the kitchen the twins rolled on the floor, shrieking and gazing and pounding the floor and each other. Only too well they knew that Jane was laughing over the lanister. For days that memory was sweet.

The singing ceased, but except in the presence of their parents Jane never encountered her brothers but that one or both of them emitted faint little chirps that exasperated her almost to the breaking point. Family rivalry became a nightmare.

"I saw Leslie Harris walking up the street with a bunch of violets as big as a cabbage," Nate would state innocently.

Or Norris would quote Judge Holcomb as saying that these days James Stinson didn't know whether his head was screwed on behind or before, and ask his mother what the Judge meant by that.

They never made but the one remark at a meal and sometimes delayed it until the dessert, but Jane knew that it was coming and watched and waited for it, shrinking almost visibly.

She never answered her brothers, never if possible if they were locked in their dinner room. She knew well that across the table four thin, pale, blue eyes were watching her covertly. She never ordered she would feel herself being and could all but hear the words "Only a bird in a gilded cage."

Oh, to say that! The late did Leslie's child. They deserved to be beaten until the blood ran, if only she could beat them herself. She tried to do it, but her mother and her father would not let her. She would have liked to beat them with a black snake!

It should have been possible of poisoning her, might cut up needles and put them in her food. She wouldn't do it even murder beyond them. They were so careful now to do nothing of which she could complain to her father.

But sooner or later she would get even. She would turn the tables and they would laugh then on the wrong side of their mouths. She would get even, she would. But how?

Her mother told her to laugh, to pay no attention. Hadn't she tried? Wasn't she always trying? Outwardly no one could have been gay than she was that early summer.

She had given party after party, got up poodles, air rides, a tennis club. Her father grumbled that she never saw her alone for more than ten minutes at a time. No one in New Concord could say that she was grieving her heart out for that gawky James Stinson.

And she wasn't, she wasn't. Except to make the twins look silly she wouldn't have James back on a bet.

The twins and Leslie Harris! Nothing would so thoroughly spite the three of them than for James to return to his former allegiance. Perhaps her mother was right. Perhaps Leslie had said something. . . . Perhaps poor James was more victim than sinner. . . .

That afternoon Jane broke an engagement to play tennis and went to call on Miss Julia Pratt.

after over two years of investigation.

VARIETY: Field agents of the National Emergency Council—that body presided over by Chief Coordinator Donald Richberg—send confidential reports tending further to confirm the view that NRA isn't working so well.

Administration differences are hampering NRA in Ohio, South Dakota, Alabama, Maryland, Texas and Nevada. Enforcement obstacles are increasing in New Jersey, Kentucky, Wyoming, Louisiana and Connecticut.

Just to get the slant on a silver lining, NEC agents say compliance has improved in Nebraska, Wisconsin, Nevada, Alabama and South Dakota.

TROUBLE: Any idea that the Roosevelt administration was easily sledding along with the prevailing wage fight should be taken with a grain of salt.

Privately, even Senate leaders concede the reverse. They look for Mr. Roosevelt to have to battle for much of his program step by step.

There is trouble over the horizon in connection with bills he wants and bills he doesn't. Among them are the bank bill, the economic security program, bonus, the 30-hour week, inflation and the Wagner labor disputes bill.

PLUMS: Bonus agitation is much stronger in the House than in the Senate—the Senate will take the bonus after having gorged itself on other controversies. Despite efforts to substitute the Tydings-Andrews "soft-scap" bill bonuses are bent upon running through the big haul and then fighting it out with FDR on the veto.

Bonus lobbyists have carefully checked the Senate. They believe they can win against FDR now. They were not so hopeful a month ago. If the work-relief bill goes through carrying the $4,000,000,000 works item bonuses believe they will get their big plum too. "The Treasury will be open anyhow," said a veteran lobbyist. "They can't keep us out if everybody else gets in."

JOBS: Talk of immense regional projects on the line of the Tennessee Valley scheme is circulating. Plans have all been laid for beginning great works in the Upper and Lower Mississippi regions. The work-relief bill is so drawn that the President could start such work for relief purposes.

Tennessee Valley Authority waits with its mouth open for a juicy slice of work-relief cash. The states interested in additional dams under the TVA project are pressing for action. These dams include Wheeler $25,000,000; Pickwick Landing, $15,000,000; and tributary dams, $10,000,000.

NOTES: Stanley Reed as Solicitor General is conceded to be the right man. His promotion opens an opportunity for Jerome Frank to go forward. Extension of the Public Works Administration to July 1, 1937, is taken to mean that Fikes will remain boss. A provision has been prepared to bar old bondholders from starting suits in the Court of Claims. The administration expects to kill off Thomas' silver-purchase amendment to the work-relief bill.

rampage, threatening a filibuster and everything else.

"Pairing" votes is the parliamentary custom in which a senator who for one reason or another absents himself from a session pairs his name with another who holds opposite views. The effect is to nullify the votes of each.

The 'Catch'
There's a catch however. There is nothing in the rules of the senate about "pairing." The custom was borrowed from the British parliamentary system at the beginning of the republic and has been practiced since.

The Congressional Record is sprinkled with accounts of bitter debates on the subject. John Quincy Adams condemned it as a "bad practice."

In the words of Senator Ashurst of Arizona, who boasts that in all his 22 years in the senate he has been paired only once and that the custom is "contra bonos parlamentum" or contrary to good parliamentary law.

That makes on difference to the "king fish," however.

House Pairings
At that neither Long nor any other senator probably will push the matter too far. The practice of pairing is too convenient to senators to throw it into disarray.

The abuse of representatives recognize openly the validity of pairing. Provision is made for a "pair clerk" a regular employee. A member has only to have the pair clerk arrange a pair for him at the beginning of the day and it stands throughout the session.

A official survey shows the number of peach trees in the seven leading peach-growing States of the South has decreased in recent years.

Washington Daybook
By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—Many senate observers are opining that if something isn't done to stop Huey Long from shooting so consistently at personal privileges and prerogatives which senators enjoy, the members may some day find themselves without them.
There is, for example, it is pointed out, his latest thrust at the highly "convenient and enjoyed custom of the senate in pairing votes, because that "kingfish" was unable to obtain pairs for Senators Caraway of Arkansas and Overton of Louisiana for the "prevailing wage" amendment to the work-relief bill he went on a

Judges For Debate.
Misses Loraine Hunter and Lois Grigsby, of the College faculty, were among those who were judges in the triangular debates held last night. They went to the Bell Arthur School, which took the affirmative side against the Columbia team and won. This side was coached by Henry Oglesby, and the negative, which debated the Eureka school in Wayne County last night, was coached by Miss Myrtle Grey Hodges. Both of these are graduates of E. C. T. C.

Round Table Meets.
Mrs. S. J. Everett was hostess to the Round Table on Tuesday. She had as her guests Miss Hattie Everett of Scotland Neck and Mrs. G. F. Smith of Littleton, house guest of Mrs. Wiley Brown.

The newly elected president, Mrs. Herbert E. Austin presided. Mrs. W. C. Vincent is secretary for the current year.
Continuing the study of "Women Through the Century," Mrs. Paul Fitzgerald had the decade of 1903-1913. The most outstanding feature of this period was the campaign for woman's suffrage. The hardships endured, the perseverance shown, and the progress made were told in a fascinating manner.
At the close of the meeting the hostess served an attractive ice course.

Dr. Turner at College.
Dr. J. Clyde Turner, the noted Baptist minister who is conducting a revival at the Immanuel Baptist Church, made a deeply spiritual talk to the students of the College yesterday morning at the Assembly hour. He took as his subject, "The Loss of Vision."

In the threefold division he gave vision, he touched lightly on the physical as the vision which enables one to see where he is going and what he is doing; and on the mental vision, which opens up a world of knowledge and culture. He stressed the third, spiritual vision, which opens up the unseen world and enables one to look into the upper world and see God.

He illustrated his point by telling of a little boy, who, in trying to find out whether or not one could see God, had the answer "no" from every man he asked except from a poor fisherman. This man said God was the only person he could really truly see. He held up Jesus as the one who is the revelation of God, and by dying on the Cross showed the great love God has for humanity.

Dr. Turner, in closing, left this thought: "Happy is the person who has eyes to look beyond material things in life and see into the Great Beyond, and sees God."

Troop 30 Holds Weekly Meeting.
The weekly meeting of Troop 30 Greenville Boy Scouts was held on Friday night, March 22, at 7:15 o'clock at the Rotary building.

It was decided that the baseball games between the patrols of the troop would begin at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, March 30.

The meeting consisted of the treasurer's report and the collection of dues. Then we had the secretary's report. Henderson gave several announcements. Several boys volunteered to help Mrs. Moore set out some flowers at the park on Saturday morning, March 31.

A Tenderfoot badge was awarded to Thomas Swain. Then came patrol meetings and after patrol meetings Wyatt Brown gave a very interesting talk about wood carving and told a story.

Then came a rope climbing contest which was won by the Hawk patrol. Then two basketball games one between the Eagle and Raven patrols won by the Eagles with a score of 6 to 4, and another between the Hawk and Fox patrols with a score of Hawk 8, Fox 6.

The basketball standings are:
W. L. Pet
Eagles ..... 13 1 923
Hawks ..... 8 6 714
Raven ..... 4 10 345
Fox ..... 33 11 272

The standings in the advancement contest are Eagles 164, Raven 121, Hawk 111, Fox 87.

The meeting closed with the blowing of taps and the repeating of the Scout oath.

MOVE ON FOOT TO REDUCE SIZE SCHOOL BODY.

The action of previous Legislatures in removing the control over school funds from the local county and city superintendents and from the State Department of the Public Instruction hurt the pride and feelings of the school politicians more than anything else and a determined effort has been made in every session of the Legislature the past three or four sessions, to either abolish the State Board of Equalization, which was changed in 1933 to the State School Commission, or else get control of it. But so far every effort in this direction has failed, since the Legislature taken the position that as long as the State is furnishing the greater part of the money for the support of the schools, it should retain supervi-

Angry Christopher
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
TOP NOTCH had filled Christopher's bank with pebbles, nice smooth ones that he had been able to put through the slit of the toy bank.

It had been quite a job to find such smooth little stones but Top Notch had succeeded.

"You wretched rooster!" cawed Christopher angrily. "You don't want me to have any pleasure. Here you let me think my bank is filled and I have Willy Nilly break it open, only to find that you have filled it with pebbles."

"Of all the mean creatures in Puddle Muddle and in the whole world you are the meanest."

"Well, it shows I am superior," crowed Top Notch, cocking his head on one side and looking very pleased with himself.

"It wasn't very nice of you, Top Notch," said Willy Nilly.

"It was dreadful," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow. "Now I haven't any little bank. It is all broken."

"I'll try to mend it for you," said Willy Nilly.

"But he had no right to make me break my bank."

"I didn't make you. It was your own idea," said Top Notch.

Christopher Columbus Crow was becoming angrier and angrier.

"You're a wretched, good-for-nothing, vain, conceited, useless, dreadful, stupid rooster!" cried Christopher.

"Christopher, Christopher!" cried Willy Nilly. "Calm yourself, and we'll see what can be done."

"I won't calm myself," cried Christopher, and gave Top Notch a whack with his wing.

Monday—"The Fight"

ion over its expenditure. What most of the superintendents want is to have the State allot the money to them in a lump sum and then let them spend it as they see fit.

This was the system in effect before the State took over the six months' school term in 1931, when the cost of maintaining the schools, with most of them having only a six months' term was running as high as $26,000,000 a year, with most of this cost being raised from local school taxes on property. For the past two years the State has been operating an eight months' school term, without levying any local property taxes, for $16,000,000 a year. The move now under way is to reduce the number of appointive members of the school commission from eleven to five and to have State Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin, a former county superintendent, made chairman instead of the Lieutenant Governor, who now is chairman of the commission. In fact, it is generally conceded that State Superintendent Erwin is one of the chief backers of the move in that if it succeeds it would give him and the school forces virtual control over the commission, which is what they desire. They maintain that if the number of appointive members can be reduced and Edwin made chairman that they can then get the control of the board away from the "outsiders" or the business men and get it into the hands of professional school people and thus spend the State's school appropriation more as they want to spend it.

As the school commission is now constituted it is composed of eleven members, one from each Congressional district, with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Director of Local Government and Lieutenant Governor as ex-officio members, the latter also acting as ex-officio chairman. The proposal which Erwin, the North Carolina Education Association, the Institute of Government and other allied school organizations are understood to be backing, is to reduce the appointive members to five and then add the Attorney General as another ex-officio member. This would add another member of the State Board of Education to the commission, since the State Superintendent and the Director of Local Government (the State Treasurer) are already members of the State Board of Education. For it is evidently figured that with Superintendent Erwin as chairman and with two other members of the Board of Education on the commission, the school forces could manage to get two or three of the five other members appointed who would belong to their clique and thus give the school forces control of the commission. It remains to be seen, if the Legislature will fall in line behind the proposal.

More than 20,000 names have been signed to a petition asking immediate construction of the $42,000,000 Aurora Dam on the Tennessee River near Murray, Ky.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 23.—(AP)—The stock market received no fresh inspiration to bolster it today and prices were irregularly lower. Trading was about as the average Saturday short session. The closing tone was heavy. Transactions aggregated around 300,000 shares.

Indifferent week-end trading and reports coupled with sagging grain prices and the congressional snarl over the work relief bill made the share market hesitant and with the exception of a few bright spots in the non-ferrous metals and isolated cases of strength in other groups the leaders went along easily with the downward current.

ificates at $129 an ounce, the money value to the Treasury's liver stock. Just before passage the Senate accepted an amendment by McCarran Democrat, Nevada, that would require Senate confirmation of all officials receiving $5,000 or more who would have charge of expending the fund.

It rejected an amendment by Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, for four billion dollars of the new currency to finance the work program.

To Make Cotton Loans

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace announced today the cotton loans would be made on the 1935 crop. He did not give the amount that would be lent but said the 12 cents loans on 1934 cotton holdings would be extended indefinitely beyond the present maturity date of July 31, 1935.

Wallace denied the prediction by Senator George, of Georgia, that the processing taxes would be lifted from bread, meat and clothing. The secretary's announcement said: "The 12 cent loans on 1934 cotton holdings will be extended beyond the maturity date of July 31, 1935. As to loans on the 1935 crop it is the purpose of the administration to provide adequate credit facilities to cotton farmers to permit the orderly marketing of the present crop. It should be emphasized, however, that the credit corporation will make no loan on the 1935 cotton crop to any producer not co-operating with the cotton program under the AAA. Nor will any loans be made on the 1935 crop to any producer on an amount of cotton in excess of his allotment under the Bandhead Act."

Wallace also said the crop of the small producers with an established base production of not more than two bales would be exempted from the tax applied normally to all cotton produced in excess of the allotment fixed by the AAA.

Favors Army Increase

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Agreement of immediate increase of the authorized strength of the standing army by 40 per cent was reached today by the House and Senate conferees considering the $400,000,000 war department appropriation bill. The agreement came after the House conferees receded from a proposal to give the president discretionary authority as to the rate of increase of the army from the present 118,750 men to the new authorization of 165,000 men.

Signs Philippine Bill

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—The flourish of President Roosevelt's pen today brought Philippine independence another step nearer realization. Surrounded by Philippine and U. S. officials, the President approved the recently enacted insular constitution. That marked the last action necessary by the United States for establishment of home rule government in Manila on November 15.

To the assembled officials, President Roosevelt announced he would nominate Claro M. Recto to be justice of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands in recognition of his able services as president of the constitutional convention.

Social Security Bill

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee today reached what was described as a comparative agreement on the draft of an inclusive social securities bill. The committee members took to the White House the proposed measure and went over it in detail with the President. We are in comparative agreement on the legislation, Chairman Doughton said after the session.

Doughton said the bill contained the full program recommended by the President, including unemployment insurance and old age pensions.

Garner Cracks Gavel To Keep Senate Orderly

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—"Cactus Jack" Garner has begun to "crack down" as the presiding officer of the Senate.

For the first time since former Vice President Curtis surrendered the gavel to the ruddy-faced Texan, Senators and visitors in the gallery have been given to understand in no uncertain terms that order will be had.

Garner has been rather liberal in this respect since he took over the Senate. As contrasted with Curtis he has been almost lax. The latter earned for himself during the four years he wielded the gavel a reputation of being the strictest presiding officer the Senate had in recent times.

'SRO' In Gallery

It is said that when Garner succeeded Curtis several Senators went to the "Cactus Jack" with the request that he not be such a strict disciplinarian. Garner agreed.

During the last few weeks, however, he has changed his mind. Circumstances made it necessary. The number of persons flocking to the galleries of the Senate during this session has been almost unprecedented. Since Huey Long, Joe Robinson, et al., have opened up on each other the "SRO" sign has been hung up daily. On some days as many stand in line in the corridors waiting for a chance to get inside as there are in the galleries.

The majority of these people come to see a good show. They probably have no particular interest in the issues being fought out below them, but they know if Long gets into action they'll see a spectacle worth while.

'No Sideshow'

And they are seldom disappointed. The "Kingsley" makes them laugh and applaud sometimes, but always he amuses.

Garner has begged, pleaded and threatened in an effort to make the galleries observe the rules of the Senate which forbid "demonstrations of approval or disapproval" of what goes on in the floor. He has received exactly no co-operation.

Now he is determined to get results. He has ordered the sergeant-at-arms to have signs printed setting forth what gallery visitors cannot do while the Senate is in session. These signs are handed to each occupant of the galleries. Garner has supplemented these with the following warning, delivered in hard-boiled fashion: "This is not a vaudeville show. If you cannot refrain from laughter and manifestations of glee over the proceedings of the Senate, the chair will order the galleries cleared."

LOCALS BEAT KINSTON HIGH

A double, an infield hit, and two wild pitches uncorked by Haskins, Kinston pitcher, in the last of the ninth enabled the Greens to come from behind and defeat Kinston High here yesterday afternoon by the score of 6-5.

In weather that reminded the fans of snowball rather than baseball errors were plentiful. A majority of the runs made on both sides were scored by the error route. The game afforded very few sparkling plays; a beautiful running catch by Bill Clark in center field and the pitching of Ed Wells were the highlights of the game. Ed, supposedly a warm weather pitcher, did a very good job out on the mound in holding Kinston to five hits, all well scattered. Bill's catch saved our side three and possible four runs as all the bases were loaded with passengers anxious to get started on their way home.

George Lautares and Max Minges were the leading hitters for Greenville. George hit two singles while Max had a single and a double to his credit. For Kinston, Arnold and Stroud led.

The Greens made seven hits and seven errors, while Kinston had a record of five and five to their credit.

Lay Plans For Baseball For This Summer

Reorganization of the Eastern Carolina Baseball League was completed at a meeting at Ayden last night with the election of officers and discussion of adoption of rules and by-laws of the organization. The league so far is composed of Ayden, Snow Hill, Kinston, New Bern, Tarboro and Greenville. The matter of the entry of Goldsboro and Williamston into the league will be discussed at an early date.

League officers elected at last night's meeting were S. A. Eure, president, G. V. Smith, vice president and George Edwards, secretary.

HONEST BALFAST PAYS CAR FARES

Belfast.—(AP)—Officials of this city's street railways are ready to back this honesty of their patrons against that of any other city, in or out of Northern France. Here's why: Conductors are permitted to issue tickets to passengers who find they haven't sufficient money to pay their fare. Such passengers are asked to settle at the company's office.

Last year several thousand passengers took advantage of the arrangement. Only two failed to pay.

AIRPLANE CHRISTENED FOR GERMAN MISSIONS

Cologne, Germany.—(AP)—"St. Peter" and "St. Paul" airplanes, were ceremoniously christened by Karl Cardinal Schulte on the Butzweiler Hof flying grounds near here. The planes were built for the Catholic Missions Society, to serve stations in South Africa and New Guinea respectively.

Herrmann Koehl, noted ocean flier who crossed the Atlantic westward with Baron von Huenefeld and James Fitzmaurice in 1928, has entered the missions' air service as an aviation expert.

"The noblest feature of technical achievement is the spreading of Christianity by the help of modern machinery," said Cardinal Schulte in performing the baptismal act.

Bath Wins Way In Stockholm

Stockholm.—(AP)—A city wide survey discloses that 40 per cent of all apartments and homes in Stockholm are equipped with bathrooms. In 1905 only 2 per cent of the homes were so equipped. The number of bathrooms tripled between 1925 and 1930.

Awards Presented To Greenville High Players

By WM. WATSON MORGAN

At chapel period yesterday letters and stars were presented to eight girls and eleven boys for their service on the basketball teams this past season.

Miss Corinna Mial, girls' coach, presented stars to Ethel Gaston and Irma Cobb Dunn, the latter captain of the team. Those playing on the team for the first year and receiving letters were: Annie Joyner, Annie Bette Lee, Marie Simpson, Phoebe Nesbit, Jeanne Jones, and player-manager, Marian Wilson.

Boys receiving stars were Captain Carl Pierce and Ed Wells. Letters were given to John Wells, Joe Hattem, Herbert Wilkerson, Martin Swartz, DuBose Simpson, George Lautares, Harry Rountree, Tom Parrish and Manager Glenn Brooks.

The boys' team scored a total of 326 points for the season to their opponents 311. Captain Pierce led the way by scoring 76 points for the season. E. Wells, 45; J. Wells, 5; Hattem, 27; Wilkerson, 8; Swartz, 28; Simpson, 18; Lautares, 46; Rountree, 17, and Parrish 14.

The team next year should be one of the best in this section as the team will only lose one regular player, Ed Wells, and one substitute, Herbert Wilkerson. Lautares, Hattem, Pierce, Swartz, John Wells, Parrish, and Simpson should develop into a team that could win a majority of their games.

I can't give credit to the team without mentioning its All-Southern manager, Glenn Brooks.

French Air Service Lures Idle

Paris.—(AP)—General Victor Denain, air minister, has announced that unemployed pilots, mechanics and wireless operators may enlist in the air corps as non-commissioned officers while specialists in plant construction can get jobs in government factories without joining the army. The general is working for expansion and increased efficiency in the air force.
