Simon and Hitler Begin Conference On Arms Question

Diplomatic Circles Believe Peace or War Depend Upon Outcome of Parley at Berlin

(Copyright By Associated Press)
Berlin, March 25.—Reichsführer Hitler in intimate consultation with Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, was reliably reported today to have insisted that Germany needs adequate army and navy capable of controlling the Baltic with a good sized air fleet as well in order to defend western European civilization from invasion by Russia and Bolshevism.

Hitler is said to have claimed that Nazi Germany had saved Europe from Bolshevism.

He went into conference this morning with Sir John and at 5 p. m., six and a half hours after the meeting the discussions still continued behind tightly closed doors. It was eight hours after the meeting before the session which included a two hours lunch ended with a statement that they would confer again tomorrow.

Hitler talked today, it was said, as if Germany's regenerated army was an accomplished fact not to be changed by the present negotiations. A proposed pact for eastern European security and the question of the German army size are understood to have been discussed at length. A brief communique issued at 7:15 p. m. following the close of the first day's conversations said some topics of the Anglo-French communique of February 3 had been considered. The Anglo-French communique issued February 3 at London suggested a military aviation pact to be signed by Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium in addition to other suggestions designed to assist in security in Europe.

All today's communique said was "Conversations took place this morning and afternoon on some points in the Anglo-French communique of February 3. These conversations will be resumed tomorrow."

EXPECT EARLY PRISON CAMP PROBE REPORT

Committee Not Expected to Charge Law Violation or Criminal Action

By J. C. BASKERVILL.
Raleigh, March 25.—The report of the investigation into prison camp conditions and practices by the joint committee on penal institutions is expected to be completed by Wednesday or Thursday. Chairman R. E. Sentelle of Southport, of the House committee said today. He declines to say what the nature of the report would be, but indicated that after sifting all the evidence and testimony that had been heard by the committee, nothing to indicate any direct violation of the state laws had been found, since the law as now written gives prison guards and prison superintendents almost unlimited powers in handling prisoners. He did indicate, however, that many violations of prison regulations on the part of prison guards and superintendents had been found.

Big Truck Wrecked Near Here Today

A large freight truck belonging to the Hardee Transfer Company of Farmville, did considerable damage this morning when it swerved from the highway at the Greenwood Cemetery curve near here, cut down an electric light pole and overturned wrecking a portion of the brick wall and iron fence surrounding the cemetery. The driver of the truck skidded out of control when the tires struck the painted line in the center of the wet pavement.

JOE HATEM'S PLACE RAIDED BY OFFICERS

Federal Agents Raided Alleged Liquor And Gambling Joint Saturday Night

Federal officers on Saturday night staged a raid on Joe Hatem's filling station on the Bethel highway just north of this city, but the absence of the officers from this city today made it impossible to get the full details of the raid. It is reported that the officers captured some liquor in the raid but reports as to the quantity differ, ranging from a few pints to a large quantity.

Dr. J. W. Perkins, local United States Commissioner, stated that he was called Saturday night to fix bond for those arrested in the raid but that he was not well and could not officiate, and therefore did not know what further action was taken by the federal agents. First reports were to the effect that following the raid the operators of the station had been arrested and the place padlocked, but the station was reported to have been still in operation later Saturday night and yesterday.

No one locally, including members of the sheriff's staff and local police were in possession of the facts in the case because the matter was handled entirely by federal officers but they confirmed the report that the station had been raided.

For a long time the filling station has had the reputation of being a liquor and gambling joint, but until Saturday's raid the operators had been successful in evading capture by the law enforcement officers.

ASK PRESIDENT CONSULT HOUSE ON BONUS ISSUE

Members Feel That Any Compromise Talk Should be With The House

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—An urgent plea that President Roosevelt forego any attempts at compromise on the bonus until the Senate acts, has been made to the White House by administration leaders in the House. Close friends of this member who asked that neither his name nor theirs be used, disclosed this special plea.

Back of it is a complaint by some Representatives that the White House has done prestige to that body. These House members feel their chamber should have a share of the prestige.

With the administration standing firm in its attitude against the bonus the House passed the Patman bill to pay the bonus immediately in new money. If there are to be compromise talks, some of the Representatives feel that White House should talk first with the House.

L. Willard. The accident occurred on Fifth street in front of Quinn-Miller and Company store when the small boy darted into the street in front of the car.

ARMS CRISIS WELDS ALLIES

Hopeful of peace, yet fearful of war, the world turns its eyes to Berlin where Sir John Simon (right above), British foreign secretary, and Captain Anthony Eden (left above), lord privy seal of Great Britain, meet Chancellor Adolf Hitler for discussion of Germany's rearmament. They started their mission after a tri-power conference in Paris between Captain Eden, Foreign Minister Pierre Laval (lower left) of France and Under-Secretary of State Fulvio Surville (lower right) of Italy agreed to stand together "in complete unity of purpose" in dealing with the German arms crisis. ## Money Bills Strike Balance: Senate May Undo House Acts

By C. A. PAUL
Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, N. C., March 25.—With the two money bills, revenue and appropriations, striking a virtual balance, there is apparently little excuse for the Legislature to remain in session much longer. However, when the fact that the revenue bill has yet to run the Senate gauntlet is coupled with another factor—that the House has yet to act on the appropriations bill—there is good reason for the belief that this session will not pass into history for a few weeks.

If either House upsets the balance it means that a lot of the work must be done over again. Such an upset is highly probable. An analysis of the revenue bill discloses that "on paper" the measure will exceed expenditures now incorporated in the appropriations bill. Actually that is not the case; the Revenue Department has warned the Legislature that its figures showing collections for the present biennium are not to be taken as a reliable index of collections for the department's warning.

The only complete figures available for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934. In that year taxes collected under Schedule B, the privilege tax, reached the unprecedented total of $2,409,415.49. No one believes that collections for this year will even approximate that total. The Revenue Department in that year was a strong fight for collections—$5,900,902.66, of (Continued on Page Four)

News Behind The News.

Washington
By GEORGE DURO
SAFETY: It may be rank treason to report but one reason Washington has remained so silent in the face of Germany's announced intention to rearm is that Uncle Sam is doing the same thing. As are all other nations.
Economic necessity is the answer. Herr Hitler is finding it easier and safer to put his unemployed in the Army than on relief. To lesser degree the same is true in the United States.
Official facts and figures on file in Washington back up this picture despite all the diplomatic phrases emanating from the White House and the State Department.
TRAINING: Within three years the Navy will have 75 new fighting ships afloat. The pending appropriation bill would increase enlisted personnel from 86,000 to 93,500.
Also within three years the Army hopes to have 2,320 fighting planes in commission against the present 1,400. The pending appropriations Committee has brought out a plan that would make war so unprofitable there should be no incentive to even think about doing battle.
Down at the White House and the State Department, officials dutifully go through their paces talking about inspiring a feeling of good neighborliness by precept and example.
But also at both ends of the broad street connecting the two branches of our government money is being spent to give the United States a potential military and naval strength second to none.
The 1933 Legislature bids fair to retain its all-time record for introduction of bills and resolutions. As the Legislature starts its 76th day of the present session the records show that 1,194 bills and resolutions have been offered. Two years ago the imposing figure of 1,409 had been rolled up. At that time the House had received exactly 1,000 embryo acts, the Senate a most-modest 409. This year the House has been offered, but 323 measures, the Senate a still more (Continued on Page Two)

PRICE SAYS U. S. IS PREPARED TO STAY OUT OF WAR

By BRYON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

If official Washington were "making a book" on the German situation, it would give long odds that the United States would stay out of any European war which might ensue.

Naturally the capital is concerned—deeply concerned. When the sparks are flying in the wind, no one knows whose house is safe. There is no warrant in official thought, however, for the widely-held assumption that because we were drawn into the last great war, we would inevitably be drawn in again.

An the contrary, there are many reasons for believing it would be much more difficult to involve this country than it was twenty years ago.

Lesson Of Experience
Some of the more important factors which would be expected to influence public and official opinion are these:

- (1) We have had one experience. The private and public sorrows and privations of it are well remembered. So are the results. Europe has re-armed, repudiated its debts and trampled under foot that "democracy" which was the avowed inspiration of American war-making.
- (2) Even before this experience it took three years to get the United States into the World War, and under advanced methods of warfare it is doubted by many whether any future war of great magnitude will last that long.
- (3) We have a great deal to think about nearer home. National recovery from the depression has enlisted the efforts and anxieties of officials and public alike, largely to the exclusion of events abroad.

Other Influences
Many other influences might be named. Some think the nation's increased war strength alone would discourage any European effort to involve it. Because of developments since the World War, what international concern there is centers more in the Pacific than the Atlantic. Pending proposals to script wealth are calculated to dampen war enthusiasm in important quarters.

It is recalled that the United States entered the World War only after (and perhaps partly because) American money had been invested heavily in the cause of the Allies. Today, after the fiasco of the war debts, American capital does not appear eager to embark on another such venture.

Although Washington sees a tremendous collective force of circumstance and popular sentiment working to keep American troops out of Europe.

Will There Be War?
There appears a difference of opinion in Washington, as elsewhere, whether there will be any European war.

The caution of official comment is extreme, and understandable. At this distance, probably no one can tell how much of the present sword-rattling is real, and how much is bluff.

But the government is taking no chances. If war comes, it will be prepared—prepared to stay out.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL
The lobbyists-registration book, in which those employed to lobby for or against pieces of the legislative quilt are supposed to register their names, employers, their business, and how long they propose to remain in the book in the past two weeks. The reason: the revenue fight. Major oil companies, "limited price variety" (10 cents) stores, and insurance companies have contributed most of the new signatures. The oil companies don't like the new chain filling station tax, the insurance companies have a variety of axes to grind—they don't approve of the McDonald-Lumpkin proposal to increase their premium tax levy from three to two per cent. The reduction, which appears improbable, would play havoc with them because the first cent on retail sales would, if the rate be reduced, not be collected from consumers at the ten per cent level. Most of their sales are for ten cents. Instead of making a profit on the tax, they would show a loss.

SECOND WEEK CIVIL COURT OPENED TODAY

Venters-Harris Case Compromised; Sutton Case to Begin This Afternoon

The Venters vs. Harris case is which T. W. Venters and wife were suing Frank Harris and wife to redeem property foreclosed by Harris brought to a compromise immediately following opening of court this morning. The court then recessed until 2:30 this afternoon at which time the case of J. Y. Sutton vs. Joe Sutton and others was scheduled to begin.

The compromise in the Venters-Harris land and Harris agreed to pay the sum of $1,500 covering three years' rent on the land at $500 per year. The amount Harris holds against Venters is $3.00 plus interest since 1931, and Venters is given the privilege of redeeming his land by payment of this amount by the end of this year together with all takes on the land.

The Sutton case, coming up for trial is expected to take several days for hearing. The case is one in which J. W. Sutton is suing for recovery of property disposed of while he was in a state of non compos mentis. The suit was started some time ago by Sutton's guardian and when Sutton later went into court and was declared sound and capable of handling his own affairs, the suit was continued by him. In a former trial here the jury returned a verdict in Sutton's favor, but the Supreme Court, after reviewing the case, ordered a new trial.

THINKS SENATE MIGHT FIND MORE REVENUE

Senator Newman Believes $750,000 to $1,380,000 Can be Added to Bill

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL.
Raleigh, March 25.—Even if the Senate removes some of the taxes written into the revenue bill by the House, as many think it will, Senator Harris Newman, of the Senate Finance committee, believes the Senate can add at least $750,000 of additional revenue to the bill and possibly as much as $1,380,000, he said today.

Passage of the beer bill by the Senate—and he thinks the Senate will pass it when it comes up tonight or tomorrow—will increase the state revenue from the state beer tax at least $250,000 a year, Newman believes, in which most other observers here concur. Senator Newman is also planning to introduce a bill to facilitate the collection of the more than $750,000 of the old 15 cents school tax still owing to the state by the counties. He believes his bill will result in the collection of at least $500,000 of this $750,000 during the next fiscal year. These two items alone will, if enacted, increase the yield in revenue by $750,000.

But that is not all. Senator Newman is also going to renew his effort to divert $1,630,000 a year from the highway fund into the general fund, instead of the $1,000,000 now proposed, when the revenue bill gets into the Senate, he said today, on the basis that the general fund should be entitled to the equivalent of a 3 per cent sales tax on gasoline sales. If this effort should succeed (Continued on Page Four.)

Drunken Drivers Are Bound Over To County Court

Jesse Coburn, white man of Martin county, was bound over to County Court on a charge of drunken driving when he appeared in mayor's court here this morning. Coburn was arrested by city police Saturday.

The only other case to go to the higher court from the city court this morning was that of Mack James, negro, who was bound over on a charge of breaking into the house of Frank Sawyer, another negro.

Another drunken driver, Henry Adams, white man of the Falkland community, arrested by sheriff's officers Saturday night on a charge of drunken driving, was given preliminary hearing before a magistrate and bound over to the next term of County Court.

AS YOU DO UNTO OTHERS

One judge in Spokane, Washington, has gone about it the right way to break up reckless driving by sentencing the offenders to the same number of days in jail as persons injured by them are compelled to remain in the hospitals, or their homes, as result of the injuries. In other words if through your recklessness and carelessness you take away the freedom and liberty of some one else then the judge has decided that it is nothing but fair that yours be taken away for the same length of time. Such a plan, we believe, would work to advantage in our courts in this state where carelessness and recklessness on the part of the motorists are on the increase without regard to the rights and privileges of others.

"As you do unto others let it be done unto you," would be a good motto for the courts to practice by taking away from offenders their freedom for the same length of time that the offenders compel someone to be confined.

CONSOLIDATE TO ECONOMIZE

(Country Home)
An amazing—one might say, an appalling—amount of government is in our hands.

After counting for two years, a Minnesota professor reported that we have 175,418 local governments in the United States. He totaled up the more than 3,000 counties, some 14,000 incorporated cities and villages, 20,000 townships, 127,000 school districts, plus about 8,600 drainage districts, levee districts, sewer districts, park districts, mosquito abatement districts, and other specially created authorities with power to lay taxes and spend money.

By chipping off an expense here and clipping a cost there, a good many local government costs have been lowered noticeably. Some burdens on farm property that have not been reduced have been transferred. Nevertheless, most of the attack on excessive taxation has, after all, been mere nibbling.

Petty economies no longer will help much. It is time to talk about ridding out township and county lines where they are not needed, about eliminating and combining offices, about consolidating services and functions into larger units. It is a time to stop running public services with committees, as most counties are run; instead of depending on buck-passing boards, the management of townships, towns, and counties should be centered in the hands of single individuals, persons given enough responsibility and enough authority to act efficiently. All such moves will be resisted by those who benefit from the present status, and the obstacles will be difficult. And the numbers who thus benefit seem to grow with each year.

Revision of governmental unit lines and centralization of authority are only two of the more important steps. The greatest step of all toward tax reduction would be politics reduction. That, perhaps, is too much to expect of human nature. Nevertheless, the fundamentals of politics, such as "you do this for me and I'll do that for you," are no fundamentals of tax-wasting. Wiping out political boundaries, however economical, is hard to accomplish simply because they may

by Mabel Howe Farnham

SYNOPSIS: James Stinson, III, seems to be doing well enough in his law practice, but for the "catch" of the town to believe so he does in discovering to all his Aunt Sarah's friends. They have chosen Jane Northrup for him and he pretends Leslie Harris, although Jane's friend, and Leslie is the daughter of a drunken printer. Aunt Sarah is making a fortune in law, but she has asked Jane for James without consulting him.

Chapter 18

MOON GODDESS

THE COLLISION led to much planning and plotting and contriving in expensive but original favors between the two leaders.

James found himself evening after evening, when he wanted to be with Leslie, on his way to the Northrup in answer to a peremptory telephone call to discuss some vital matter concerning the dance.

James appreciated that Jane was giving a lot of time and attention to helping his aunt and naturally he was grateful and had to be decent about it. Jane excelled in this sort of thing and gradually fired James with her own enthusiasm and ambition to make this the most successful party ever given in New Concord.

James tried to explain all about it to Leslie and why he went so often to the Northrup, but for once he found Leslie incredibly difficult. She apparently was not at all interested in his movements or the ways and wherefores of his not coming to see her.

Indeed she had been so busy it seemed she hadn't even noticed his comings and goings. James, agitated at the callousness of woman, was so unhappy he wanted to die.

It was a very beautiful party, danced on the Stinson lawn to the soft music of violins with Japanese lanterns everywhere trying to out rival the midsummer moon. Jane was the first arrival. She had a new dress, a filmy thing of white and silver, with a circle of brilliants in her dark wavy hair.

"You look like a moon goddess," James said to her as he greeted her on the porticoed front veranda, "like Diana herself."

"And you as the perfect host have played Jupiter and provided me with my chariot," Jane laughed, waving toward the moon.

"See how clear the lady is tonight. I am certain she is pleased with our party. Look, she is telling us we must be a little mad tonight, that we must search out a moonbeam and dance up and up. Will you go with me? Will you help me search?"

"To the ends of the world," James answered gallantly. And turned and saw Leslie Harris framed in the spacious doorway, the ubiquitous Sam Fletcher just behind her carrying her wrap.

Leslie was in flesh-colored organdy ruffled from waist to hem. How sweet she looked; as sweet as a tea rose, as sweet as his grandmother. But damn it, he wished she wouldn't smile up at Sam in just that particular way... with that smile he had thought she kept for him alone....

"I hope we are not interrupting," said Leslie coming forward. "I'm afraid we are a little early and I know you and Jane have a lot of things to talk over. We'll come back later."

"YOU'RE not early," said James hastily. "Jane and I settled everything a week ago. Here, let me have your cloak."

"I'll keep it," Sam answered grimly. "Leslie and I want to take a walk, to see the grounds. This is too well a night to waste poking around indoors."

"I agree with you," Jane said lightly. "Hello, Sam. How lovely you look, Leslie. Did your mother make that dress? She's a wonder if she did."

"I made it myself," Leslie answered. "You're gorgeous tonight, Jane dear. James is right; you do look a moon goddess. The party can't help but be wonderful with Diana and," she paused and gave a little throaty chuckle, "and Jupiter in command. Come on, Sam. Let's go and explore. Perhaps if we're lucky we'll find a moonbeam ourselves."

"She caught Sam's hand and ran with him down the steps, out into the scented moon-drenched garden, her laughter floating behind her. Jane slipped her arm through James'.

"I'm afraid," she said lightly, "that Leslie is making fun of us. I'm afraid I was a little sentimental about the moon. But it's a night for sentiment. I can stand it if you can. And perhaps we ought to go in and find your Aunt Sarah. As a matter of fact, she be long established. Virginia has discovered one way around by combining FUNCTIONS, an instance being consolidation of five separate county "poor houses" into one well-run institution supported by all five counties. By contrast, in Pennsylvania, 425 "poor boards" levy taxes and spend the money; in some districts the officials outnumber their charges.

sent me out here to bring you back."

"Oh, Leslie didn't mean anything. She just likes to laugh."

"Oh, didn't she? Well, perhaps not. Leslie's head is probably turned. It will be a step up for her, a big step, if she marries Sam."

There was a call then for James from his aunt. The guests were arriving and he must go inside and greet them. He was grateful he did not have to answer Jane. A step up for Leslie! That must! But she had no right to smile at him as if she... as if she... But of course she did not. Well, if Leslie wanted to dance on a moonbeam he'd find her one. Sam wouldn't know a moonbeam from a power station.

But James had reckoned without his duties as host. He did not see Leslie again until he was on the dancing platform leading the grand march with Jane. Afterwards he made many attempts to favor Leslie.

But she never seemed to see him or catch his signals until he was right before her. And by that time Sam or Bud or Jackson had grabbed her. When James finally danced with her he found her distraught and unresponsive, vehement in her praise of Jane's beauty, Jane's charm, Jane's cleverness.

"Look here, I don't want to talk about Jane. She's all that you say, but I want to know why you are treating me like this. What have I done? You've no, so tell me. You know I'd rather cut off my right hand than..."

"Jimmy dear, don't be so tragic. You haven't done anything. And I'm not treating you any other way than I always have. But one cannot monopolize one's heart."

"Monopolize? You call it monopolizing?"

THE wait ended abruptly leaving Leslie just beside Julia Millard. Leslie linked her arm in Julia's, could not be pulled away. Time and time again during that hectic and endless evening Leslie eluded James' attempts to get her alone.

James felt he never could have endured the sharp and continued disappointment if it had not been for Jane's constant support.

Good! Jane never failed him. After every petulant snub from Leslie there Jane was, calling him to some neglected duty, claiming a favor, laughing up at him gaily, telling him how distinguished he looked... not handsome exactly but distinguished. She assured him that he was an aristocrat to his fingertips; no one could mistake it.

James, naturally enough, was diverted for the moment from thoughts of suicide on the Harris' front lawn. Nevertheless, even while he glowed and purred under Jane's flattery, he never forgot for a moment that he meant to have it out with Leslie this very evening.

It was late and supper long over before James' opportunity came and Leslie was finally persuaded to cut a dance and stroll with him to the edge of the spacious lawn to investigate whether the far famed river view was living up to expectations in the moonlight.

But luck was against James that night. Hardly had they reached the edge of the shadows when James heard his name called.

"Your aunt wants you," said Leslie.

"Oh no, she's calling Tom," lied James shamelessly.

"I distinctly heard her say James."

"That's because you wanted to hear it. And even if you did it's nothing more important than to dance with some wall flower or say goodnight to some dowager."

"But I tell you right now I am not going to let you out of my sight until you tell me why you have treated me these last two weeks as if I were some nasty little bug trying to crawl down your neck."

"Silly! I never..."

"Someone's coming this way."

Hastily James pulled Leslie into the darkest shadow and stood in front of her to shield her light dress. As he did so his heart gave a great glad leap—the first in days—for his divinity did not protest but stood as obediently still and quiet as the great black oak that sheltered them. Nor did she move when James reached back and caught one hand and held it tight.

"James, James, where are you?" called Miss Sarah anxiously. "Oh, there you are. I am so relieved. That dreadful drunken Mr. Harris..."

CONTROL: Our government is not immediately concerned that Germany has taken advantage of world-wide economic paralysis to whittle another big chunk off the Versailles Treaty.

Officials privately point out that although Hitler's ultimate objective may be war his immediate aim is to get a harassed population on a subsistence basis that will keep civil war from breaking. Patriotism and army pay are safer than destitution and dole for the German Dictator.

If American relief rolls continue to grow there are those in important official position who believe we may have to solve the problem in similar though modified form.

MILKING: A well worked-out plan for another broad inquiry into banking practices—this time affecting the railroads—has been given impetus before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee by the same group that was behind the investigation which resulted in passage of the Securities Exchange regulation bill.

A resolution to stick a finger into railroad financing was slipped in but Committee members blocked it until facts might be presented to justify.

Substantiating evidence that there has been milking of the railroads is being assembled and there may be an investigation before long. The statement by Charles A. Beard—author of the Rise of American Civilization—to the Senate Committee outlines the charges. Copies are available on receipt of postage.

DEMANDS: Taxation is beginning to worry a lot of Congressmen and Senators like a wart on the end of the nose. They can see it in spite of everything and they wonder how much it will grow.

The size of this year's money bill is having a gnawing effect on inner consciousness.

There is a strong feeling in some Congressional quarters that the situation will develop from the "wondering" stage to actual demands for additional tax levies before the session closes.

modest 368. This year's crop is about normal, although the AAA carried on no crop-reduction program among legislators. At least not in the matter of bills.

All is not acid in legislative sub-basements. Sometimes opponents go out of their respective ways to spread honeyed words. As former school superintendent and anti-sales taxer Representative R. E. Sentelle rose to interrupt House Finance Chairman Gregg Cherry for the purpose of asking a question, Chairman Cherry bowed, smiled, said: "It gives me pleasure to yield to the gentleman from Brunswick." Bowed, smiled back Enemy Sentelle: "Thank you sweetly." The House tittered at the sweet words of a school disciplinarian and a former army officer.

One anti-sales taxer has talked so much against the levy that he has a sore throat and can talk only in a hoarse whisper. He is Representative Abernathy, of Nash. Ordinarily Mr. Abernathy talks in such tones that every syllable of his orations reach every neck and cranny of the House hall.

Certain pro-sales taxers, including Representative Cherry, have yelled "Louder!" whenever the noisy

Dr. Combs Speaks To Y.W.C.A.

Dr. G. R. Combs made a most helpful talk to the Y. W. C. A. of the college last night, raising the question, "How Big Are You?" In physical development, he said, one undergoes certain definite steps, so in moral development he must undergo the same. He illustrated his point by telling briefly the story of Edna Ferber's novel, "So Big." In measuring one's size, he suggested the following questions: Are you big enough to walk? Are you big enough to see over your fence of prejudices and look upon all fellow creatures as brothers? Are you big enough to stand alone for your own convictions?

On last Friday night, the Junior "Y" cabinet of the college had charge of the services. The theme was "Making something useful out of something worthless."

Miss Margaret E. Davis spoke on "Making a Worthless Life Worthwhile." Special music was furnished by Miss Patsy Laughlin, Miss Ida Kay Hair, chairman of Junior cabinet, presided. The devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Maggie Bell Crumpler.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.

"Matter" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 24, 1935.

The golden text was from Habakkuk 2:19: "Woe unto him that saith to the wood, awake; to the dumb stone, arise, it shall teach! Behold it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And the Lord said unto Moses, Come up to me into the mount, and be there: and I will give thee tablets of stone, and a law, and commandments which I have written: that thou mayest teach them. And Moses went up into the mount, and a cloud covered the mount. And the glory of the Lord abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days; and the seventh day he called unto Moses out of the midst of the cloud. And the sight of the glory of the Lord was like devouring fire on the top of the mount in the eyes of the children of Israel. And Moses went into the midst of the cloud and got him up into the mount: and Moses was in the mount forty days and forty night." (Exodus 24: 12, 15-18).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "When apparently near the confines of mortal existence, standing already within the shadow of the death-valley, I learned these truths in divine Science: that all real being is in God, the divine Mind, and that Life, Truth, and Love are all-powerful and ever-present; that the opposite of Truth—called error, sin, sickness, disease, death—is the false testimony of false material sense of mind in matter; that this false sense evolves, in belief, a subjective state of mortal mind which this same so-called mind names matter, thereby shutting out the true sense of Spirit."

'CONTRACT'
1935 RULES EXPLAINED

This is the first of four daily articles in which the new contract bridge code, effective March 31, is explained and interpreted by a noted referee and expert on the laws of the game. Today's article described the four periods into which the laws divide the game and considers some penalties possible in the first two periods.

By ALFRED M. GRUENTHER
(Written For The Associated Press)

The new International Contract Bridge code which becomes effective on March 31st, should be enthusiastically received by all Contract Bridge players. Not only has the scoring been simplified, but the number of laws has been reduced from 65 to 39. The text of the new laws has been greatly clarified so that all of the obscurities in the present code have been removed.

It is my purpose to analyze some of the outstanding changes in the new laws.

Periods

The laws are divided into five "time" periods corresponding to the natural periods of the game, as follows:

First Period—Preliminaries to the rubber.

Second Period—The shuffle, the cut and the deal.

Third Period—The auction.

Fourth Period—The play.

Fifth Period—The score.

As the laws and proprieties of each period are complete in themselves, when consulting them concerning a point a player should refer to the laws of the period in which the incident occurred. This arrangement so greatly simplifies the finding of the appropriate law that an index is omitted.

First And Second Periods

There are only two changes in the laws pertaining to these periods which will be of interest to the average player:

(1) In drawing cards for partners a drawn card should not be exposed until all cards are drawn.

(2) A new deal is mandatory if a player looks at a card dealt to him before the deal is completed. This should definitely put an end to the objectionable habit of "peeking" at one's own cards while the deal is in progress.

Auction Period

Claiming a Penalty: When an irregularity is committed any player may call attention to it and ask his partner whether he knows his rights. Under the 1932 Code there was always a doubt whether a player was entitled to ask his partner if he knew his rights.

Under the old laws if a player claimed a penalty to which he was not entitled his side forfeited its right to exact any penalty. This provision has now been repealed, and properly so, for no honorable player would intentionally claim a wrong penalty.

Improper Call Overcalled By Opponent: There is a general provision in the new laws to the effect that if an improper call is overcalled in rotation before the non-offending side draws attention to the irregularity the auction proceeds as if the improper call had been a proper one. Superficially it might seem that this is the same as the old law. However, the important difference is that the non-offending side has the right to make an overcall of the improper bid unless a member of that side has drawn attention to the irregularity.

(Tomorrow's article will complete description of the penalties in the auction period).

Several Real Estate Transfers Recorded

More than twenty real estate transfers in this county have been recorded at the Register of Deeds office within the past few days. The transfers ranged in amounts of consideration from $10 to $2,000 as follows:

J. L. Rollins and wife to Martha L. Keel 1 lot $500.00

El Savage and wife to Emily Jenkins 1 lot $10.00

W. D. Johnson and wife to C. G. Stancil and wife 1 lot $10.00

B. A. Mooring and wife to John I. Gray and wife 90 acres $450.00

Bruce F. Hadley to W. L. Best 2 lots $425.00

Hortense F. Moyer to W. L. Best 1 lot $125.00

Hellen F. White to W. L. Best int. in lot $1,600.00

C. S. Forbes and wife to W. L. Best 1 lot $325.00

S. A. Harrington to J. S. Picklen et als 1-2 int. in lot $1,000.00

Greenville Banking and Trust Co. et als to H. L. Garris 1 lot $300.00

H. D. Stokes and wife to D. J. Spain and wife 1 lot $100.00

Thus, if East bids One Spade and South bids One Club, South has made an improper call (an insufficient bid). If neither East nor West calls attention to the irregularity, West has the right to overcall the improper One Club bid with any bid he wishes—for example with One Diamond. West still has that right even though South should quickly correct his own bid to Two Clubs. He also has the right to overcall if North, the partner of the offender, is the one who draws attention to the improper bid. However, if either East or West, that is, a member of the non-offending side, draws attention to the irregularity then of course the law pertaining to the improper call is invoked.

An Important Change

Insufficient Bid: Unless overcalled, an insufficient bid must be made sufficient in the same suit or in a different suit and if the offender

(a) makes the lowest sufficient bid in the same suit his partner must pass the next time it is his turn to call.

(b) makes another bid, his partner must pass during the rest of the auction for that deal.

To illustrate: If East bids One Spade and South makes an insufficient bid of One Club, South may now bid Two Clubs and provision (a) applies. If, however, South should make his bid sufficient by bidding Three No Trump, or Three Clubs, or Five Clubs, etc., provision (b) would apply and his partner would be silenced for the rest of the auction.

This law involves an important change from the 1932 law in that partner of the offender may now be barred for the rest of the auction depending on the manner in which the offender makes his bid sufficient. Formerly partner was barred for only one round regardless of the corrected bid.

It should also be realized that under the new code it does not do the offender any good to correct quickly his insufficient bid before an adversary calls attention to it. Under the old law there was no penalty if the offender corrected the insufficiency before it had been called by another player. Now if a player makes an insufficient bid he should remain silent and trust that his adversaries will not notice the irregularity.

(Tomorrow's article will complete description of the penalties in the auction period).

New York Cotton

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady one or seven higher on trade and spot house buying and under relatively steady Liverpool cables. After initial buying prices eased somewhat and at the end of the first half hour July was holding at 10.96 or four points net higher.

The market had a sharp rally on trade buying and covering about the middle of the morning, with October selling up to 10.74 and active months advancing 22 to 23 points in the old crop positions and seven to eight points on the new crop. The market was quiet and steady with net advances of five to 14 points at midday.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 25.—(AP)—The stock market continued to move in groups today with prices drifting quietly lower under pressure of railroad shares. While selling pressure was extremely mild aggressive leadership in most sections was lacking and action of most of the commodities tended to heighten the number of pessimistic week-end developments both at home and abroad.

Cotton was comparatively steady in response to Saturday's announcement by Secretary Wallace that loans of an unstated amount would be continued on the 1935 crop but wheat and corn slipped backward and foreign exchange markets were upset by the new slump in the Belgian franc which carried it down nearly 3-4 of a cent.

The late stock tone was heavy. Sales aggregated 450,000 shares.

measure to President Roosevelt by Saturday.

A hurried visit to the White House by Speaker Byrns and Chairman Buchanan of the appropriations committee, aroused hope of winding up congressional action this week end. It made clear also that the administration opposed some of the Senate changes for Byrns afterwards said the bill now contains some "absolutely unworkable" amendments.

Rushing back to the capitol Buchanan attempted to get the House's unanimous consent to reject the 31 amendments and send the bill immediately to conference with the Senate for adjustment of differences. But Representative Johnson, Democrat, Texas, objected and Buchanan said further House action tomorrow was impossible.

While Byrns and Buchanan were at the White House more than 30 House silver supporters agreed to demand acceptance of the Senate amendments so the bill could go direct to Mr. Roosevelt as now written. Their object was adoption of the silver inflation amendment of Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Oklahoma.

Protect Quintuplets.

Toronto, March 25.—(AP)—The Ontario government was understood today to have ordered police guards stationed at Dafoe hospital near Callander day and night to stall an alleged plot to kidnap the Dionne quintuplets.

Rumors were circulated through provincial government quarters that a plot had been uncovered to use automobiles and an airplane in order to get the five babies across the border to the United States.

The babies by law now are special wards of His Majesty the King and their control is in the hands of the Ontario government. It was rumored the kidnapping plan called for the 150-mile auto trip to Sault Ste. Marie on the Michigan-Ontario border where an airplane

SIMONS AND HITLER BEGIN CONFERENCE ON ARMS

Secretary in the conversations describe in diplomatic circles as likely to determine "whether Europe turns back toward peace or continues on toward war."

Sir John entered the chancellery accompanied by Captain Anthony Eden, Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador, and a battery of secretaries. Baron Konstantin Von Mauts, Foreign Minister, introduced the British Foreign Secretary.

Hitler previously had met Captain Eden as the youthful British diplomat who had negotiated the agreement with the Reichsfuhrer more than a year ago limiting Germany's army to 300,000 men. The agreement was subsequently turned down by Luis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, who was later assassinated with King Alexander, of Yugoslavia at Marseilles.

Foreign diplomats eagerly watched the start of the negotiations speculating on the Reichsfuhrer's ability to dicker with Sir John an old hand at diplomatic maneuvers. The air was tense and excitement prevailed in the Wilhelmstrasse government offices as the conference assembled. Several members of the cabinet dodged in and out of the chancellery before the British visitors arrived. Many provincial leaders were in Berlin, apparently to keep traffic moving in the streets about the chancellery. Police also guard the British embassy and the Adlon Hotel where the British delegation is stopping.

The first conference of Hitler and Sir John and Eden ended at one o'clock when Hitler escorted his guests into the chancellery dining room for lunch. The subjects discussed during the morning were not immediately made public, but it was officially stated that Hitler's personal diplomatic agent and Baron Von Mauts were present throughout the conference. Conversations will be resumed at 3 o'clock and continued until 5 or 6 p. m.

DANIELS TO SPEAK AT CAMPBELL COLLEGE

Erwin, N. C., March 25.—Josephus Daniels, American Ambassador to Mexico, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the graduating class of Campbell College on May 29.

This will be Mr. Daniels' second trip to Campbell to deliver the baccalaureate address, his first being forty-seven years ago when he went there on invitation of Dr. J. A. Campbell, founder and president of the college. His second invitation was extended by President Leslie Campbell, son of Dr. Campbell, who succeeded his late father as president.

ROANOKE RAPIDS MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED

Roanoke Rapids, March 25.—D. I. Kidd who operates a store and lunch counter back of his residence on Jackson street, was held up and robbed Thursday around midnight. About $40 was the amount stolen by a masked white man who entered the store from the door opening on the alley and ordered "hands up". The robber backed his way out and fled down an alley. He was described as being slim, probably weighing about 145 pounds, wore a cap well pulled down over his face and handkerchief as a mask. He was dressed in a threadbare suit of light color.

Official experiments in North Carolina showed farm land damaged by soil erosion could be terraced at a cost of $1 an acre.

The Fight

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS CROW was in a great rage with Top Notch, the rooster, for having played such a prank on him. Top

Notch had filled Christopher's little toy tank with pebbles. "The idea of watching while Willy Nilly broke open the tank for me!" exclaimed Christopher angrily. "You didn't say a word, and all the time you knew you had filled it full of pebbles."

Christopher whacked Top Notch again with his strong wings, and Top Notch tried to hit Christopher with his wings.

"Stop fighting!" cried Willy Nilly. But the rooster and the crow would not stop.

"If you don't stop," cried Willy Nilly, "I'll spread some pepper."

They fought harder than ever, so Willy Nilly scattered a little pepper over them.

Top Notch started to sneeze. Then Christopher began to sneeze, and soon they were sneezing too hard to fight.

Willy Nilly had only scattered a little bit of pepper about, and in a short time they stopped sneezing.

"I am not excusing Top Notch," said Willy Nilly, "but I am surprised at your becoming so angry over a prank. You have played plenty of pranks in your time, you know."

That was true, but it was quite a different story to have a prank played on the best prank player of all. However, Christopher began to feel a certain admiration for Top Notch. He put out his foot and asked Top Notch to shake.

"I have to hand it to you," he cawed, "or perhaps I should say 'foot' it to you."

MONEY BILLS STRIKE BALANCE; SENATE MAY UNDO HOUSE ACTS

which sum individuals contributed $817,310.43. Improved business conditions are expected to boost collections to the estimate, or beyond. Collections this month by the Department of Revenue under this sections indicate that actual collections may reasonably be expected to materially exceed the estimate.

Schedule F, the beer taxing section, yielded last year $340,471.64. Estimated for next year is a return of $350,000. Proponents of 5 per cent beer say that collections will be greater if the Senate approves the raise in alcoholic content from 32 to 5 per cent.

The most hotly contested section, the sales tax, last year brought to State coffers $6,011,700. Collections were made, however, for eleven months and not twelve. The Budget Commission's estimate for next year is $8,750,000. Included in the estimate was the anticipation that the staple food exemption would be removed. Not included in the now-added factor of application of the 3 per cent levy on hotel room rentals and cafe meals. Removal of the exemptions, says Revenue Commissioner Maxwell, should increase collections by 15 per cent. Spreading of the base to include hotels and cafes will add another $600,000, it is believed. The collections under the present law, with the staple food exemption, will yield about the commission's estimate for next year. Thus, adding the 15 per cent increase and the new levies brings the revised estimate to $10,662,500.

The administration, however, fixes its revised estimate at $9,250,000 without the cafe and hotel tax. Thus, by adding the estimated $600,000 to its estimate, the administration leaders' estimate on the sales tax revenue now stand at $9,850,000. Anti-sales taxers place their estimate at the higher figure of $10,662,500—many contend that the yield will be even greater, $12,000,000 or more.

The only great increase, other than those made to the sales tax are those on chain filling stations estimated to yield a minimum of $600,000, and the tax on dividends received from stock in domestic corporations, estimated to bring $600,000. The chain filling station tax would yield, if the major oil companies continue all their existing stations or make no changes in their contracts with agents, more than $1,250,000. Representative Barker who introduced the amendment creating the new filling station levy sets the minimum at the lower figure, will probably be somewhere between the low and high figure.

The revenue bill will now bring in approximately enough to meet the increased appropriations bill, but the balance is delicate to an extreme point. Either the House or the Senate can destroy the tight-rope act by a single vote.

EXPECT EARLY PRISON CAMP PROBE REPORT

we wish to investigate before writing report and making it public," Sentelle said. "But only a day or more will be required to do this."

The investigation which the penal institutions committee have been making into prison conditions was started as a result of amputation of the feet of two negro prisoners, in a Mecklenburg county prison camp, after gangrene had developed. They contended their feet froze during the cold weather in January when they were in solitary confinement, part of the time handcuffed to the bars of their cells in a standing position for from eight to ten hours a day. The State Highway and Public Works Commission discharged five employees of the Mecklenburg county prison camps involved and suspended a sixth as a result of the independent investigation ordered by Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the commission. Among those discharged were the superintendents of the two camps, the county physician who had also been acting as prison camp physician, and several guards. They were discharged on the grounds that they had violated or ignored rules and regulations set up by the highway commission for the prison division.

THINKS SENATE MIGHT FIND MORE REVENUE

ceed, the total in new revenue thus found would amount to $1,380,000 for the first year and $880,000 for the second year, or more than enough to offset any losses should the Senate remove any of the new sections written into the revenue bill in the House.

Indications now are that the sections most likely to be eliminated from the revenue bill in the Senate are those imposing a tax on the dividends from stock in domestic and foreign corporations, the chain store tax section and the chain gasoline filling station tax, all of which are estimated to yield approximately $1,500,000. If the Senate removes any or all of these sections, it must find other sources of revenue with which to replace them, or else throw the money bills out of balance again, it is agreed. But Senator Newman will be ready with substitute proposals if any of these sections are taken out.
