

Committee Reduces Tax To Two Per Cent

AND TAX TRUCK OUT BY FINANCE BODY

Committeemen Refuse to Eliminate the New Tax Proposed For Chain Filling Stations; Something Like $3,880,000 Knocked Off of Revenue Bill by Action

Raleigh, N. C., April 4.—(AP)—The Senate Finance Committee this morning, by a vote of 9 to 7, reduced the proposed retail sales tax rate in the biennial revenue bill from 3 to 2 per cent.

The committee also struck out a new tax provision to levy normal income taxes on dividends from stock of corporations, but refused to eliminate the new tax proposed for chain filling stations.

A motion was made to report the bill out to the Senate in its amended form, and this was discussed for 45 minutes, after which the committee recessed to meet again this afternoon.

It took the committee just about two minutes to reduce the sales tax rate and eliminate the dividend tax, knocking something like $3,880,000 in revenue from the measure.

The action was in marked contrast to the attitude the committee took yesterday when it wrote $924,000 in additional taxes into the measure by elimination of exemptions of contributions from taxable incomes and applied the 3 per cent tax to gasoline sales to increase the highway fund diversion from $1,000,000 to $1,630,000 annually.

COUNTY COURT FINISHES WORK

Total of Around 30 Cases Completed in Day-and-a-Half Sitting Around a half-dozen cases were disposed in the final day's session of County Court here yesterday, bringing the total for the day-and-a-half sitting to around thirty.

No charges of driving drunk occupied attention of the court yesterday, although six or seven were disposed of the day before with the defendants paying fines of $50 each and having their drivers' license revoked from a period of six to eight months.

The actions given hearing yesterday consisted mainly of charges of trespassing and larceny. Work was completed shortly before the noon hour.

Nelson Hopkins, local negro charged with operating an immoral house was fined $50 and given a six months' suspended sentence to the roads, the road sentence to become effective any time in the next three years the defendant is found guilty of violating any of the criminal laws.

William Meeks, colored, charged with the temporary larceny of an automobile in the Bell Arthur community, was sentenced to four months on the roads.

The whiskey charges against Guilford Webb, colored, was not pressed, and W. L. Brewer, the prosecuting witness, was taxed with the cost for failure to appear.

Judgment was suspended on payment of cost and $10 to J. T. Braxton in the case of A. B. Barrow charged with taking a tenant from another.

Lem Wilkes, colored, was sentenced to ninety days on the roads on a charge of trespassing.

TWO WOUNDED AS CONVICTS BEGIN REVOLT

Third Overcome by Tear Gas as 15 Convicts Dispute Authority in Perquimans

Elizabeth City, N. C., April 4.—(AP)—Fifteen negro convicts at Woodhill prison camp near here, in Perquimans County, were still in revolt this morning after two of the number had been wounded and a third had been overcome by tear gas thrown into the cell block they occupy in an effort to quell the uprising.

Beginning last night, the revolt broke out again this morning and continued as prisoners refused to leave the cell block in order in which Captain J. M. Tolat, superintendent of the prison camp, demanded. Captain Tolat ordered them to leave two abreast. He is afraid if they are permitted to leave all together more trouble may result.

A request for more tear gas has been sent to Tarboro. Sheriff Chas. Carmine, or Pasquotank County, arrived early this morning with gas bombs already thrown into the cell block.

Ring leaders are said to be Percy Miller, Bertie County negro serving a term for killing Pat White Windsor chief of police some years ago; Ed Steele, alias Will Brown, serving a life-term for rape; and Melvin McLaurin, of Moore County serving life-term for rape.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL

North Carolina's 25-year-old electric chair is on its way to the junk pile. In its stead will be erected a lethal gas chamber where violators of the State's capital crime laws will be put to death at a cost of 90 cents each. A preliminary survey of senatorial sentiment reveals practically no opposition to the bill which has already passed the Lower House. Rejected finally after being accepted once was the amendment by Bladen County's Representative Page which would have caused the gas chamber to be built on wheels and propelled from county to county so that those paying the death penalty would forfeit their lives in the county in which they committed their crimes.

Father of the gas chamber bill is Representative Paterson, M. D., of Mitchell County, who came to the Legislature for the express purpose of offering the measure. Dr. Paterson is a Republican and has favorably impressed the Democratic legislators despite his political allegiance. As a matter of fact, the Doctor has

Says U. S. Will Not Start Naval Building 'Race'

Washington, D. C., April 4.—(AP)—"If a naval building race is started," says the 73-year-old boss of Uncle Sam's floating defense, "it will be started by other nations and not by the United States."

This emphatic expression of American intentions not to start the thing which many observers have feared might result if a new naval treaty is not reached to replace the one Japan has denounced effective December 31, 1936, comes from Secretary Claude Swanson.

Late News Flashes

Cummings Addresses Solons
Raleigh, April 4.—(AP)—Legislators met in joint session today to hear an address by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings who devoted himself to an extemporaneous discussion of the work of his department.

Governor Ehringhaus was present by special invitation. Attorney General Cummings outlined the work of each division of his department and praised the efficient work done. He sighted the Urshel kidnapping case as an outstanding example in which federal agents combed six states or 686,000 miles to "get their man" and clean up the case. He expressed the opinion that "Scotland Yard would have been helpless in that particular case."

In Washington we have built up an astounding organization for crime detection. Our technique is largely American due to the territorial requirements. I am very proud of the work the department is doing. The attorney general paid tribute to the work of J. Crawford Bibbs, former Raleigh lawyer who recently signed as solicitor general of the United States, and Angus D. McLean, of Washington, N. C., former legislator who is now, as assistant, to Cummings.

The brief senate session was enlivened when Senator Frank of Brunswick arose to appoint of personal privilege to send forward an anonymous letter he received threatening him if he did not desist from opposing legislation offered by Rep. Page of Bladen. Frank assailed Page and said he intended to continue to oppose "such damnable bills" as the Representative had.

ALDERMEN TO MEET TONIGHT

Final Plans For Election on May 6 to be Completed by Solons At City Hall

Completion of plans for the municipal election to be held here on May 6 is scheduled to occupy attention of the Board of Aldermen in regular monthly meeting at the city hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

The election was actually called at a previous meeting along with the naming of a registrar, but the naming of poll-holders and other matters were left open until tonight.

The election will be held for the purpose of electing a mayor and six members of the board, five for terms of two years and one for one year.

Notice of the election was ordered issued by the City Clerk at the last meeting. This merely calls attention of the voters to the date and the wards to be represented in the balloting.

The last session of the board was consumed largely by the proposal for extension of the sewerage system in the western section of the city, but since that question has been definitely settled, not even an echo of it is anticipated at the meeting tonight.

Just what other issues will come up for consideration was problematical today, but as usual, the aldermen will have a number of proposals to listen to in addition to the paying of bills and okaying reports of the various city departments.

Heretofore meetings have been held at 7:30 o'clock but due to the fact that the hour changed to eight o'clock April 1, the solons will be a half-hour late, beginning their work tonight. However, they are expected to make short work of all business tonight in view of the lengthy session last time which required not only lots of time, but plenty of patience before the last word had been said.

TO GET POOL IN SHAPE FOR OPENING DAY

Huge Bowl to be Cleaned Out Preparation for Vanguard of Local Swimmers

With April here, city authorities today turned their attention to getting the municipal swimming pool in shape for swimmers who wish to be the first to take cooling plunges this spring.

Although no definite date has been set for throwing open the pool, it was said this morning that the huge bowl would be cleaned out in the next few days and gotten in condition for the opening.

Considerable rubbish has collected on the pool floor since it was closed the latter part of last summer, and as soon as this has been cleared away, and proper tests made everything will be in readiness for the vanguard of swimmers.

Naturally swimming doesn't hold much attraction during the present cold spell, but hot days are just around the corner, and the weather forecasters, and as soon as that comes, hundreds will be prepared to shed their every-day clothes for bathing suits for cooling plunges at the municipal recreation center.

The pool was not completed until the latter part of last summer and swimmers didn't have but about a month to enjoy it before the weather became too cool for swimming. But with everything in readiness the first of this summer, every minute of the hot summer days will be utilized by somebody desiring to find relief from the hot offerings of the summer sun.

Several improvements have been made to the pool grounds since last summer, chief among them the erection of a retaining wall to the "Junk bank" on Fifth Street. "Junk" also concrete steps have been placed along Fifth Street embankment to enable swimmers and the public generally to reach the pool more easily than formerly. Other things have been done to facilitate the handling of the crowd in the bathhouses and around the pool, and when the opening day roll-around swimmers will find everything possible done for their comfort and convenience.

Slayer of Youth Draws 25 Years

Shelby, N. C., April 4.—Jack Parks, 19-year-old Georgia negro, was today sentenced by Judge Don Phillips to serve from 20 to 25 years in State Prison, at hard labor with stripes, for the second degree murder of James Robert Downs, Number 10 Township youth who gave his life assisting officers capture Parks after he resisted arrest.

Solicitor L. S. Spurling went to the jury with a first degree indictment, but conviction on the second degree charge was brought in after two and a half hours deliberation.

Parks killed Downs with a .38 calibre pistol as he fled across fields and gulches after Deputy Meade had blackjacked him for resisting arrest on a charge of drunkenness. Falling in a ditch, eye-witnesses testified, he snatched the pistol from his cap and fired point blank at Downs' breast, the bullet entering near the heart.

Probe Death of Newspaper Woman

Troy, N. C., April 4.—(AP)—Officers investigating the death of Mrs. O. S. Palmer, newspaper woman of Asheville and Miami, Fla., today said the "case is not closed," although officials expressed belief the fatal pistol wound had been self-inflicted.

Mrs. Palmer was found fatally wounded Monday in a cottage on Wilderness road near here where she was spending the winter and a coroner's jury that night returned a verdict that she came to her death by a pistol wound at the hand of an unknown party or parties. Recommendation was made that fingerprints on the death gun be photographed for investigation and Sheriff Ed Newman was ordered to take charge.

Newman was in Spartanburg, S. C., today on business, but Park County officers said the investigation was being continued.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS 9-MONTH TERM FOR CITY

Resolutions Request Board of Aldermen to Call Election for Supplement

The Board of Trustees of City Schools in session today unanimously adopted resolutions requesting the Board of Aldermen to call an election in the Greenville school district for the purpose of voting a supplement for a nine months' school term.

The action in the wake of endorsement of the movement by the Park County Post of the American Legion, the Kiwanis Club and various Parent-Teachers' organization of the city.

It was stated the action was to take for adding the ninth month to this year's term, but that it would be in time for next year and succeeding years.

Resolutions adopted by the various organizations of the city declared that Greenville should enjoy the same advantages of other cities of the State which have already voted supplements to the State appropriation for an eight months' term, and urged that immediate action be taken.

The resolutions from the Board of Trustees probably will be presented at the regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen tonight, although this fact was not divulged.

Greenville has been without a nine months' school term for the last three or four years, first reducing to eight-and-a-half months because of the depressed financial situation prevailing in this section, and then to eight months when the State took over the operations of all public institutions.

With the city occupying the finest financial situation of any other city in this part of the State, it is argued by those in favor of nine months that the city is adequately able to finance the extra month and give the children the same advantages when they enter college as those from some of the other towns of the same size.

Find No Trace Of Drowned Man

Rocky Mount, N. C., April 3.—Forty eight hours after he disappeared from a motor boat in the Tar River where he was dipping for shad, no trace had been found of the body of David Watkins, 38, electrical appliances salesman.

Police said last night that they believed his body had washed far down the muddy river. In the meantime, his father-in-law, J. E. Winders, of this city, offered a reward of $50 for the recovery of his body.

Watkins fell from the boat when it collided with a concrete bridge pillar about 11 o'clock Monday night. He leaves a wife and five children.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington
By GEORGE DUBNO
EXCESSIVE: Close and well-informed Washington observers are wondering if the power interests haven't over-played their hand a bit in their fight against the administration-sponsored bill to abolish holding companies and otherwise Federally regulate electricity and gas.

For one thing, even some of the Senators and Congressmen who normally would oppose the measure are getting a bit fed up on the deluge of obviously planted mail that flows in on them daily.

These patently inspired letters of protest are swamping their offices with extra work. One Eastern Senator who is a sure vote against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill is still mad because a letter calling him to all important personal political conference got lost in the shuffle of a heavy batch of form protests. Other members, more or less on the fence, likewise are showing signs of irritation.

Conflicting Views On European Peace Noted In Various Capitals

(By The Associated Press)
Conflicting views on the best methods of guaranteeing European peace were apparent in the capitals of Europe today as statements were made ready for the forthcoming conference of the powers at Stresa April 11.

High French sources disclosed that Foreign Minister Pierre Laval will seek a double-barrelled agreement designed to frighten Germany out of creation of a formidable united front among France, Great Britain and Italy, and at the same time laying the basis for a general security pact to which the Reich could adhere.

German participation in the "Pan-European" scheme was described as unlikely by the Reich's Foreign Office statement. This source asserted that Reichsfuehrer Hitler's preference is for a crisp bi-lateral agreement clearly defining the obligations of the signatories.

The attitude of Great Britain which has repeatedly indicated its lack of sympathy for any system designed to force an iron ring about Germany remained uncertain in the

LOCAL DRIVER HELD IN DEATH OF BUCK CHILD

George Chappelle Under $1,000 Bond as Result of Accident Near Chocowinity

George Chappelle, 21, driver for the Ricks Transfer Company of this city, was being held under $1,000 justified bond today as result of running over and fatally injuring Joe Buck, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Buck, on the Greenville-Washington highway, about three miles from Chocowinity, yesterday.

The child died in a Washington hospital yesterday afternoon at 5:20 o'clock from broken legs and a fractured skull.

Patrolman Brown investigated the wreck, and eye-witnesses, it was said, told him that the car was making about 50 miles an hour at the time of the accident. The brakes were described as poor.

Joe and another small child were playing on the shoulder of Highway No. 264 in front of his parents' home, about three miles from Chocowinity on the Washington-Greenville highway when Chappelle but employed as driver for R. E. Ricks Transfer Company of Greenville, struck Joe. Chappelle stated that he was driving 35 miles per hour and tried to avoid the accident. He said he turned to the left on the center of the highway in an effort to miss them. One of the children saw the car and got out of its path and the Buck child was on the right shoulder of the road when struck. He was thrown thirty feet, witnesses stated.

There was a touch of home-sickness in the letter and the parents are expecting a return of their wandering boy at an early date.

REVENUE BILL WILL PROVIDE SALARY BOOST

Teachers Will Receive
25 Per Cent Increase In Salary During
Next Two Years

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
By J. C. BASKERVILL
Raleigh, April 4.—The revenue bill will provide enough revenue to grant a 25 per cent increase in salaries for school teachers, principals and all state employees for both years of the biennium, instead of the 20 per cent increase the first year and 25 per cent increase the second, if the senate and house will adopt the bill as revised by the senate finance committee. Senator Harris Newman, chairman of the committee, said today. He also said he hopes to have the bill in shape so that the senate can start consideration of it by tomorrow unless some unforeseen difficulties arise.

"If the senate will retain the tax on dividends from domestic corporations, as written into the bill by the joint finance committee, and adopted by the house, the retention of which I favor, and also agree to divert $1,630,000 a year from the highway fund, or $630,000 a year more than the bill now proposes to divert, the revenue bill will yield enough to grant a 25 per cent salary increase for both of the next two years," Senator Newman said today. "I am very hopeful that the senate will agree to taking this additional $630,000 a year from the highway fund, which represents only the 3 per cent sales tax as applied to gasoline sales in the states, especially since the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads has given its approval to the diversion of this larger amount and ruled that this will not affect or reduce any of the pending allotments of Federal funds for the building of highways in North Carolina."

Some days ago officials of the Bureau of Public Roads ruled that the legislature could not even continue to divert $1,000,000 a year from the highway fund to general state purposes without endangering future grants from Federal funds as the result of the Hayden-Cartwright Act, which provides that states that increase the amount diverted and hence decrease the amount from roads after the passage of the act, should be penalized by the loss of one-third of all Federal allotments to roads after June 30, 1935. But Senator Newman was not satisfied with this decision. Last week he went to Washington with Attorney General A. A. F. Scawell for a conference with officials of the Bureau of Public Roads and obtained a ruling that the diversion of $1,000,000 a year would not affect future Federal allotments. But Senator Newman still was not satisfied. Monday night he went back to Washington, this time accompanied by Assistant Attorney General John Aiken. When he returned yesterday, he had with him a letter written by the chief of the Bureau of Public Roads and concurred in by his legal department, to the effect that the North Carolina general assembly could divert up to 3 per cent of the sales of gasoline in the state, or $1,630,000 a year based on last year's sales, and still not be subject to any penalty for diversion. This, incidentally, was in accord with the opinion expressed by Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell many weeks ago and concurred in by Senator Newman.

"I do not consider the taking of 3 per cent of gasoline sales from the highway fund for state purposes as diversion, but merely the extension of the sales tax to sales of gasoline without increasing the present tax on gasoline," Senator Newman said. "In fact, I think that if this legislature will establish this precedent, it will tend to prevent any diversion of any more of the highway fund for other than highway purposes in the future."

McElroy Kidnaped Must Pay With Life

The nation's first death sentence for kidnaping was upheld by the supreme court of Missouri when it denied the appeal of Walter H. McGee, who is shown in his cell at Kansas City, alternately raged and wept over the decision. (Associated Press Photo) hydrocyanic gas will be used. It is the most deadly gas known to man, says the Doctor, and unconsciousness comes with the first whiff. Dr. Peterson gathered a mass of statistics from prison authorities in Arizona and Colorado, the only States using the gas method at present.

The measure if not retroactive, which means that the more than a score of State prisoners now in Central Prison's Death Row will not be gassed, but will meet death in the electric chair.

There will be no State axe held over the heads of insurance companies writing workmen's compensation insurance in North Carolina. That was made plain when the Senate insurance in North Carolina. That was made plain when the Senate refused by a vote of 17-25 to accept a minority insurance committee's favorable report on the bill which was designed to set up a State fund for the administration of such insurance.

The bill, if passed, would not have gone into effect until an emergency was deemed to exist by the Governor and the Council of State. The "emergency" would exist when and if the Governor and the Council considered the insurance companies' rates too high. At that time the Governor and the Council could have put into operation the State fund which would, in short, have meant that the State would have gone into the insurance business. No appropriation would have been required because employers of industrial labor would simply have paid into the State fund their premiums on compensation insurance, and the State would have paid benefits just as the commercial companies now pay them.

The State Highway Department will not be investigated, said the House Roads Committee as it struck from a bill an amendment by Senator Hurley, of Montgomery, which called an investigation of that department.

The bill would empower a commission to investigate the validity of the claims of forty-four counties that they should be repaid from the highway fund almost $9,000,000 in ten annual installments for expenses incurred in building and improving roads as a part of the State Highway System. The bill has passed the Senate and is a substitute measure for a bill which would have ordered the payments to start immediately.

Several House members interested in highway problems have expressed the belief that the House will kill the bill. It appears on the calendar of the Lower House for action tomorrow.

HILL LIQUOR BILL TO REACH SENATE TODAY

Measure to be Reported to Upper Branch
Of Legislature Without Prejudice

Raleigh, April 4.—By the narrow margin of one vote the much discussed Hill liquor control bill will reach the floor of the senate tomorrow for debate. The senate finance committee after only a few minutes of argument voted 8-7 to accord to the bill the same treatment it had received at the hands of the judiciary No. 1 committee, a "without prejudice" report.

No amendments were tacked to the bill and it will reach the senate just as it was written. Senator Harris Newman, chairman of the finance committee has a series of amendments to offer but will present them on the senate floor. His amendments are designed to make the Hill bill a budget balancer, the bulk of the funds to be placed in the general fund.

At the same time the finance committee voted to divert from the highway to the general fund an additional $630,000 above the present $1,000,000 annual diversion. The method to be used is the levying of the three per cent retail sales tax against the total sales of gasoline. This does not mean that the gasoline purchaser will pay an additional three per cent tax, but that an amount equal to such a tax will be diverted.

Boarding houses having less than 15 chairs in their dining rooms and which do not advertise were relieved from payment of additional taxes, new contained in the revenue bill as passed by the house nor will they have to collect from their customers the retail sales tax on rooms and meals.

The committee voted 9-6 to retain the committee plan to treat dividends from stock in domestic corporations as normal income for the purpose of taxation, which means that the receivers of such dividends will pay taxes on such dividends in the same manner as income from other sources is taxed. Under the existing law such dividends are exempt from taxation.

Books For Library Alove

We have received "The Great Wall Crumbles" and "Peace With Honor." We have had several requests for the Great Wall Crumbles, and were hoping it would come in the Alove books because our funds are too limited and allow us many books which cost as much as this one.

Those readers who called for this have been developed through the Alove Books. In fact I think one of them, a young business man, has read every Alove book we have. I thank you for these two excellent books.

I thank you also for the annual report. I have read not only the Alove section but the other lines as well.

We appreciate your interest in our library.

Sincerely, Mrs. W. C. Vincent.

We wish to express our appreciation to our many friends for their kindness during the illness and death of our husband and father, D. R. Carawan.

James Melton To Sing Here

Many people in this section have heard James Melton, one of the singers who will appear in the concert at East Carolina Teachers College on the evening of April 16. He holds front rank among radio tenors as a soloist. He was one of Rax's famous gang and a member of the "Revelers Quartet." He is a southerner, born in Georgia and reared in Florida, and was educated in southern schools, and then went to New York and devoted himself to music. While studying for grand opera, he worked in a college band, playing the saxophone and singing in the vocal choruses for dance numbers.

Gunda Mordan, the dramatic soprano who gives the concert jointly with Melton, while not so well known locally as he is, has perhaps a much wider reputation, as she is more of an international figure. She was born in New York City, but was taken to China when only six months old and received her education in London, Paris, and Vienna. She also attended school and received her dramatic training in this country. When she first began public singing, she appeared in dramatic roles both in this country and in the capitals of Europe. For the last three years she has been giving recitals in this country as well as in Europe. Her dramatic presentation makes her programs exceedingly popular.

Airle Gardens Open 2 Days

The famous Airle azalea gardens on Wrightsville Sound will be opened to the public again this year. It was announced yesterday that the public will be admitted between the hours of 1 p. m. and 6 p. m. next Saturday and Monday, April 6 and 8th.

Thousands of azalea plants, now in or nearing full bloom, line the maze of driveways within the gardens. Beautiful pools on which float graceful white swans, add to the beauty of the scene.

Simmons Real Potato Growers

R. N. Simmons, farmer of the Belvoir community, is a real farmer—he can grow things without planting them. He brought specimens of Irish potatoes to this office today which came up from last year's crop. The potatoes were just as sound and edible looking as if they had been planted this year, and are one up on this year's crop, coming considerably earlier.

"Nothing But the Truth"

The Little Theatre Guild's production of "Nothing But the Truth" this evening at the Pitt Theatre promises to be an event of wide interest. Tickets have been on sale by members of the Junior Woman's Club all this week. A number of supper and theatre parties are being planned by local people. Students at the college are being granted late permission to attend this popular comedy.

James Montgomery's play deals with the strange fortunes of a young man who swears he can tell the truth for twenty-four hours. The first act takes place in the office of a stock broker and truth telling and the practices of high finance do not go well together. The second and third acts are laid in a country home on Long Island. Miss Mary Dünberger, supervisor community drama, is directing the production. A number of people in the cast have appeared in some of her previous plays, and during the four weeks rehearsal period required for this show have acquired the knack of playing well together. Charles Woodard who plays the part originally created by Ned Sparks during the Broadway run of "Nothing But the Truth," is said by those who have seen rehearsals to be very outstanding.

Mrs. J. H. Rose, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore and Mrs. Wm. Taft will act as hostesses for the guild. The audience will be shown to their seats by the Misses Helen McGinnis, Frances Willard, Fannie Cooper and Lucy Clyde Blount.

Miss Louise Nagle will play previous to the rise of the curtain which is announced for 8:15 at The Pitt Theatre.

Unique Oyster Shell Uncovered

John Sizemore has uncovered, something unique in the way of an oyster shell.

The shell, bearing part of the name of Coca-Cola, was picked up in the waters of Tar River. The lettering from the bottle is imbedded in the shell, indicating that the shell had gradually grown about the bottle in the formative period. The specimen is on display in the window of The Daily Reflector where a number of curios from various sections of the county find their way from time to time.

REALTY PICKS UP AGAIN HERE

Movement Shows Pronounced Gains in Pitt County During The Past Several Days

The movement of real estate picked up slightly in Pitt County during the last several days, it was revealed today by records in the office of Register of Deeds J. C. Gaskins.

Approximately thirty transfers were made during the period, involving one of the largest made here in some time. It was that of Henry Harris Johnson to R. A. Parker and others, 607 acres of land for a consideration of $34,000.

The next largest deal was that from Annie L. Strosneder to Bryan Grimes, et als, release, for a consideration of $15,000.

There were two or three other transactions carrying sums of $5,000 and more, but the majority ranged all the way from $10 to $5,000.

Around twenty transfers have been filed here every week for the last several months, and during the latter part of last year the number was from two to three times as great. With the coming of warmer weather it was expected a revival would be noted.

GENERAL BEGINS 'NEW LIFE' MOVEMENT IN CHINA

Shanghai.—(AP)—General Chiang Kai-Shek, borrowing American propaganda methods, is pushing his nation-wide "new life" movement, which has just celebrated its first birthday.

The emblem of the drive, a compass which points steadfastly in one direction, has become as familiar in some parts of China as the blue eagle in the United States.

Business houses which display the compass are pledged to abide by "new life" rules, which aim at the moral regeneration of the Chinese. "Be Clean and Polite"

Instead of attempting to tackle the nation's morals on all fronts, General Chiang has stressed the virtues of cleanliness and good manners in the first year of his campaign.

Government officials have carried this two-headed gospel into every village of central China. Outlying regions of the country have taken up the movement less thoroughly.

Travelers are met on every hand with evidences that the movement has become a vital force. Trains on the government railways, once notorious carriers of dirt, grime and vermin, are spotlessly clean.

In the cities, the streets and public places which formerly were receptacles of filth are swept and scoured with astonishing frequency.

At banquets, two sets of chopsticks are provided for every diner, so that the guest will not have to serve himself with the same set of sticks with which he eats.

These are outward manifestations. Government officials claim that the drive has gone deeper—that it has penetrated the homes of the people. Admittedly, it is impossible to remake a nation's morals overnight, but where "new life" has been pushed, personal habits of the people shown a definite change for the better.

whereby all industry as well as men, in time of war, would be subject to the country's call upon an equal basis has been for several years and is still being fostered by the American Legion. It is our opinion that such legislation should be passed, for once the chance to make big profits out of war is removed there would be little desire on the part of our munitions manufacturers and others who in the past have made millions for themselves out of the way to try to find some pretext by which to get us into a war.

THE SUNDAY PROBLEM

The problem of what we are to do about the observance of a Christian Sabbath is far deeper than the mere issue of Sunday baseball. The whole issue is exceedingly complicated in the present order of our society and it is going to be very difficult to find a satisfactory solution. But it should not be impossible to find a solution if those who believe that Sunday should have a special meaning to morality and religion are willing to look at the problem with tolerance and realism, and those who are advocating an "open" Sunday are willing to consider the deeper issues that are involved.

But what is the tendency of our present attitude and drift in respect to the observance of Sunday? Just as surely as we live it is toward a "wide open" or "continental" Sabbath. Both sides may as well recognize that fact and then consider what a continental Sabbath will mean to the moral and religious forces of our land. I will be very grateful to Mr. Whitchard, Judge James, or some one of the others who are advocating commercialized baseball on Sunday, if they will answer clearly this one question: If we allow baseball on Sunday, with its ordinarily attendant commercial features, what right under the sun will we have to deny the movies the same privilege when they apply for it (as they surely will)? And granting Sunday privileges to baseball and the movies by what standard of justice can we deny the same privileges to pool rooms and dance halls? They, too, as many people claim, are wholesome amusements.
And allowing our amusement industries to remain on the job for seven days per week and reap the additional profits at this added time for business, by what standard of fairness can we deny the same privilege to other types of commercial enterprise; our grocery stores and clothing firms, for example. People must not only be amused on Sunday; they must also eat and wear clothes on that day. Can these citizens who are advocating this step in our community see where the whole present trend is leading? And when it has reached this logical goal let these citizens tell us in what respect Sunday will be different from any other day of the week.

This is the way in which it will be different. Sunday will be different from the rest of the week in that Sunday will be the most glossiously worldly day of the seven. It will be the day when the "lid will be off," and the passions and impulses of citizens will run free riot.
The Monday paper that even now carries its shuddering story of weekend tragedies will carry a display of news that will bring horror to those who still have regard for the decencies of an ordered society and a love for the Kingdom of God. I do not believe that I have overdrawn the picture. Do these citizens desire such a development? I cannot believe that they do.

I have given much thought to this delicate and difficult problem for,
as I have said, it has profound implications for our whole order of life and significant meaning for the causes of morality and religion. I do not favor a Puritan Sunday and I have tried seriously to face the issue in the light of our modern day.
Where can the line be safely drawn?
How far can people who are interested in preserving the sacred things upon which all Christian civilization must rest go in surrendering their traditional standards and yet not be guilty of compromise upon any vital religious or moral issue?
And just where must the forces of worldliness and secularism be told to stop; just where must we say, "thus far shalt thou go and no further?"
To my mind the line may be safely and satisfactorily drawn at the point of commercialism. Sunday must not be commercialized either by amusements or other business.
Let the line be drawn there once and for all and I think we shall see a great improvement in the whole matter of Sunday observance and the tenseness of controversy over the issue will be measurably slack-ened. Are the friends of wholesome Sunday amusements willing to meet us half-way and effect this compromise solution of a most delicate and difficult problem?

It is not enough to say that golf courses and swimming pools are open on Sunday and baseball should be allowed the same privileges. That is simply begging the question. The commercial features of golf and swimming pools should be eliminated on Sunday. Commercialism is unquestionably a desecration of a sacred and historic institution when it is allowed on Sunday. And I am willing to go the whole way in this matter. No one would be greatly inconvenienced by this regulation if it were made to apply to every phase of business. And the measurable benefits of such a procedure
would far outweigh any small inconvenience that might result.

The laws have always recognized certain "works of charity and necessity" as exempt from Sunday legislation. Commercialism is eliminated on Sunday. Commercialism is unquestionably a desecration of a sacred and historic institution when
it is allowed on Sunday. And I am willing to go the whole way in this matter. No one would be greatly
inconvenienced by this regulation if
it were made to apply to every
phase of business. And the measurable benefits of such a procedure
would far outweigh any small in-
convenience that might result.

Those who are clamoring for baseball, swimming pools and golf on Sunday are doing so from the ground that they are simply wholesome amusements and the people who want them have a right to them. If they are really sincere in this and are anxious to do a humanitarian service and are not primarily interested in large receipts and profits, let them arrange to give them to the people free from every aspect of commercialism, and here is one minister who has been trained in the older way who will swallow his predictions and stifle whatever puritanism he has left and will not say a word against it.
If the Christian forces of Greenville can join in this attitude it will be a good chance to test the sincerity of those who are advocating a procedure that means the surrender of one of the Christian institutions that the Church has always held to be of divine origin and therefore of basic importance to its life.

Of course it is pure persiflage to say that since other towns are doing it ours should fall into line.
That is the argument of a coward and weakling. I might as well argue that since my neighbor up the block gets drunk and beats his wife I must fall into line and do the same.
If this issue were based upon a mere fad or foolish taboo of society this position might have some weight.
But if the Christian Sabbath is an important institution in our Christian society and if it actually has back of it the drive of the Almighty we had better look for more important reasons for disregarding the "thou shalt" of God than the fact that "everybody's" doing it.
Neither the church nor civilization are saved by any such attitude.
Rather they are saved by individuals and communities who are willing to stand alone if such need arises and help to stem the tide.

GREAT RICHES

by Mabel Howe Farnham

SYNOPSIS: James Stinson, 17, and Jane Webster, one of the church, and in a few minutes they will be married. Both have had a difficult day. James because he cannot forget Lottie Harris and his bride's managing parents; Jane because Mabel Webster and the vector have interfered with her plans. Now Mabel Webster is discovered among the handsomely dressed crowd.

Chapter 26

MAN AND WIFE

IN a plain black and white street gown, open prayer book in hand, sat Mabel Webster, apparently studying the service and entirely oblivious of the gala clad crowd or the whispers and curious glances of the necks craning in her direction.
Bud and Nappy retired deeper into the shadows to laugh silently.
"God, but Mabel's made history this day," Bud got out. "I hand it to her. I bet Jane..."

Mrs. Northrup was now advancing majestically down the aisle on Tom Mundell's arm, her violet blue satin skirts trailing after her. Just a step behind her walked the twins, for once subdued and seemingly under perfect control.

James held his breath while Mrs.
Northrup passed so close to Mabel Webster she all but touched her.
Mabel did not look up. Mrs. Northrup, by the Grace of God, was talking to Tom and did not see Mabel.

But the twins... the twins...
The twins had stopped in their tracks and were staring at Miss Webster, up and down, down and
up. A murmur, a ripple of suppressed excitement and laughter ran through the church.

Mabel Webster flushed, glared for a moment at the twins and dropped to her knees, hiding her hot face in her hands. The twins continued their unblinking stare. Mrs.
Northrup, sensing the excitement, turned to see what was the matter, but the twins were already walking sedately down the aisle. She beckoned to them to hurry, herded them into the pew before her.

"Our cue for the sacrifice. Beat it, Nappy. Come on, Isaac," Bud commanded and James was pushed forward out of the safety and comfort of the darkness.

Here comes the bride! His bride ... Jane. But where was the bride?
Only girls, dozens of girls in yellow.
They parted at last and made a flowery aisle. And there was Jane coming towards him in a glory of whitesatin and misty lace, her beautiful head half bowed, her lovely mouth a little tremulous, as if frightened, fearful, but coming steadily toward him, to give herself... give herself...

All the miserable doubts and clogging uncertainties abruptly took flight. James felt excited. Lifting above himself, his heart wrung by tenderness for this exquisite fragile girl who was trusting him with her life... more than her life. Impulsively he made a step forward so quickly he was to stagger and comfort Jane, but Bud put a hand on his arm just in time.

THE bishop's deep sonorous voice hung for a moment over the pews of the congregation, and he dropped gently into their hearts and consciousness.

James tightened his hold on Jane's hand. To think that this exquisite creature had promised not only to love and cherish but to obey him!

James was almost light-headed with happiness as he walked down the aisle with his new wife on his arm, with Mendelssohn's wedding march thundering behind and before and above them. It was relief and joy almost beyond telling to be rid of that horrible clogging depression and those hideous gnawing doubts.
He looked up and saw Aunt Lou beaming down from the gallery and just managed not to shout at her.

The double doors at the back of the church were opened by unseen hands. There was Nappy, as dignified as a statue on a monument.

Two of New Concord's three policemen, Bill Sturges and Johnny Sullivan, were on the sidewalk keeping the crowd in check. Ed Hines had his carriage in place and was managing somehow to make his wedding hacks give an impression of pawing and prancing. Nappy had ahead, opened the carriage door and bowed.

"Congratulations and best wishes of the day," Nappy said gravely.
"Good luck, Jim. Good luck, Mrs.
Stinson," cried Johnny. "Three cheers for the bride," cried Johnny.
The carriage drove off to the accompaniment of lusty shouts. With Jane withdrawn into a corner and James hanging out into line with that will that we may claim. His favor and rejoice again under His guiding sovereignty.

It is expected about Washington that when and if the measure passes Congress Cohen is slated for appointment to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

He would take the place of Ferdi-

of the window laughing and shouting his thanks.

"I wish," said Jane petulantly,
"that you wouldn't be so familiar with common people. The idea of that policeman calling you Jim."
"Bill? Why, I've known Bill intimately since I was seven years old."

"You aren't seven years old now, but I must say you act like it."

There was a loud and uncomfortable silence for several minutes.
Then James said stiffly, "We're married now, Jane. I hardly like to begin our married life... have our first words like... like this."

Jane was immediately put in the wrong and nothing so exasperated
her. "I'm sorry," she said coldly,
"but if you had gone through half what I have today, just one horrid disappointment after another on my wedding day... everything going wrong, and you thinking it was funny... And on top of it that horrid staring crowd calling you by your first name as if you'd been a shop-keeper!"

"New Concord is a little town, not a city. Most of that horrid staring crowd has known me since I was in short pants. You too. They were there to wish us well. In a way it's a tribute. If this were Europe and you a royal princess they couldn't have done more to honor you."

PRESENTLY James felt a little gloved hand fumbling for his.
"James dear, you are sweet. And I'm a beast. Please, please, forgive me.
I've been so upset..."

"Of course you have. And I'm the beast. Do you realize, Mrs. Stinson, that you've been five minutes alone with your husband and haven't yet kissed him?"

Held close in James' strong young arms, Jane stammered out a confession. "Oh, James, I thought I didn't love you. I thought I didn't love you."

"Hush, belovedest. Not another word. Trust your old James to know all about it. We're going to be the two happiest..."

"But how do you know? Did you think you didn't love me? Didn't you want to be married?"

Confession is sweet. For a moment James was tempted to admit his doubt and reluctance of the previous night. But a saving caution closed his lips. "I? He laughed and kissed Jane again. "Didn't you see Bud yanking me back when I started down the aisle after you? I never saw so many girls in my life. I thought for a moment they'd forgotten all about the bride and I was starting to plunk my way through and find you."

"Love me?" asked Jane.

"Love her? Love her? 'Oh, my fairing!'"

When the bridal carriage drew up under the porte cochere of the bride's old home, it was noticed by the crowd of onlookers—chiefly colored—that the bridegroom waved his hand condescendingly in greeting to the Tyler house across the way.

James was telling himself how silly he had been to feel such a hatred for a mere pile of bricks and mortar. Of course they would live there a year or two because he had agreed to but, hadn't Jane of her own free will promised in the presence of at least three hundred people to obey him as long as they both should live?

He had been wise, very wise, to give in as he had in the beginning.

Women had to be handled tact-fully but firmly. Just wait till he got his hand in a little and he'd settle one and forever the matter of where they should live.

James had not expected to enjoy his own wedding reception, but to his delighted surprise no one there had a better time than he. Everyone was so kind. All the visiting notables predicted to the bride so wonderful a future for the bridegroom that James could see Jane's pride in him growing before his very eyes; and he was thrilled by Jane's pride as few things had ever thrilled him.

At supper there were toasts, one by Judge Holcomb, one by the governor in the name of Kansas' greatest governor whose name the bridegroom bore.

This latter so moved James that when he got to his feet to reply he forgot his beautiful and carefully prepared reply and was only able to thank everyone for their kindness and good wishes and remark that he already found marriage so remarkably pleasant a state that he was bowed down with regret that he had wasted so many years as a bachelor.

ous—that it can't stand a pay-roll tax for insurance while it is paying high wages under NRA and not getting higher prices.

Involved in this coming fight are industries staggering under the AAA processing tax. They are supported by influential Senators in demanding modification of the New Deal.

PENALTIES: Quite a few of us who have been buying our goods on "easy payments" will be startled and dismayed when the report of a special committee of the Wisconsin legislature makes its appearance.

Big and reputable firms engaged in installment selling and financing generally will be absolved of sharp practices, but a startling mass of evidence has been assembled to discredit any number of small chiseling dealers.

The Wisconsin committee held hearing in various cities during the past year. Testimony in the record shows that all the advantages of the law are on the side of the sharp-shooting "easy payment" firms.

It is said the investigation already has had the salutary effect of scaring rapacious dealers in certain cities into their "penalty" charges plenty.
Mention of possible government intervention is known to have decided one company to reduce "penalties" from $60 to $5 on a given contract.

DIM: The inflationists appear to have shot their bolt so far as this session of Congress is concerned.

Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, leader of the inflation bloc is good for a number more speeches, probably aided and abetted by Huey Long and a few others, but the old fire is missing.

Of course there is the bonus bill to be considered. If the Patman measure should finally become law that would mean two billion dollars in printing press currency. But as far as silver legislation and the like is concerned, chances don't look so good.

CRITICAL: Doubts and fears are expressed privately by many Democrats as Republicans when the prospect of recovery is discussed. "If we don't see workers going into industry faster, God help us," said a Democratic Senator. "I hear all this talk about 'FDR slipping,' but I'm not conceding that he will slip unless the whole work-relief plan proves a failure. What worries me is the absence of any incentive to industry to go forward. It looks like another big draft on the Treasury to keep workers from starving. After this $4,000,000,000 has been spent, no party is to blame for this, and we shouldn't hold the President responsible. Nevertheless, I can see trouble ahead for our party if this work-relief plan doesn't carry us to the

gress to offset the intensive lobbying against NRA. The idea is to stir up as many companies as possible—from all parts of the country and of all sizes—to demand that the codes be retained.

Code administrators are genuinely alarmed at prospects for a delirious price-cutting jag if NRA goes out of existence. A lot of rugged individualists can hardly wait to get into an old-fashioned competitive brawl.
These boys have been very vocal in Washington about the need for junk ing all restrictions on business—and for a while it looked as if they had Congress sold.

One New York authority—a thorough conservative by inclination—predicts that the end of NRA would inaugurate the most ruinous ride
American industry has ever taken.

VELVET: There's an intriguing difference in the tactics of the New York State Committee for the Revival of Private Enterprise and those of its parent—the New York State Economic Council. The Committee has carefully avoided taking a position of specific controversial issues.
Moreover it has so far kept away from national problems except in the vaguest terms. Its object is to draw members from as many sectors of public opinion as possible. The broader its approach, the less chance there is of offending potential recruits.

But the Council is subject to no such restraints. Its bulletin smashes vigorously at the child labor amendment, the Wheeler-Bayburn bill, the New York unemployment insurance bill, the Federation of La-

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, April 4.—The school forces are split wide open with State Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin, Secretary Jule B. Warren and other big wigs of the North Carolina Education Association on one side of the fence and with Dr. Ralph McDonald, representative from Forsyth county, most of the classroom teachers and most of the progressive county and city superintendents on the other.

The cause of the split is how the letter written by Mr. McDonald to the various superintendents of the state in which he urged them to support the move for a school appropriation of $25,000,000 a year for schools instead of only $22,000,000 a year as advocated by Superintendent Erwin and the North Carolina Education Association, got into the hands of Victor S. Bryant of Durham, chairman of the house appropriations committee, rather than the letter itself. Ever since this letter was read in the house, the school forces have been playing the game of "letter, letter, who snatched the letter" in an effort to find out how Chairman Bryant got possession of the letter he read. For it is now generally conceded by both sides that if this letter had not been read in which McDonald maintained that the $22,000,000 figure for the school appropriation had been set up as a trading figure rather than as the actual needs of the schools, that the house would have adopted the amendment increasing the school allotment to $22,000,000 a year.

It is also now generally known that McDonald did not have the support of the State Superintendent and of the North Carolina Education Association in his plan to get the superintendents and teachers to urge an appropriation of $25,000,000 a year in an effort to get at least $22,000,000 a year and that he was correct when he said in his letter that the $22,000,000 being asked by the school forces as represented by the North Carolina Education Association, was "a compromise figure" aimed at getting only $19,500,000 to $20,000,000 a year from the general assembly.

For indications are very strong to the effect that the $22,000,000 a year for school was set up by Superintendent Erwin and the school forces, with the approval of the administration, as a goal toward which they would work but with a pretty definite understanding that they would not be likely to get more than $20,000,000 a year, or at least be satisfied with whatever they would be able to get. Some also see in this move an attempt on the part of the official school spokesmen to get into the good graces of the more conservative element in the general assembly.

In other words, they were trying to ride two horses at one time by telling the teachers and superintendents that they were working for not less than $22,000,000 a year for schools, and at the same time compromising with the conservative element in the legislature by saying that while they would like to have $22,000,000 a year they might take less according to the prevailing belief here. It is also believed that in order to prove to the conservative element that they were shooting straight with them, some one double-crossed McDonald and his group by gaining possession of the letter he wrote urging $25,000,000 rather than $22,000,000 as the trading figure, in order to defeat the McDonald effort to gain the $22,000,000 as the actual appropriation.

It is now pretty definitely established that the letter which Chairman Bryant read in the house and which turned the tide against the effort to get the school appropriation boosted to $22,000,000 a year, was the one written by Mr. McDonald to Superintendent Paul Daniel of the Raleigh city school system. Superintendent Daniel admits that he received such a letter from Dr. McDonald, that he showed the letter to Jule Warren, secretary of the North Carolina Education Association to determine whether or not the association was sponsoring Dr. McDonald's move or knew of it. It appears that it did not, since Warren asked Daniel to let him have the letter so he could show it to Superintendent Erwin and that Daniel agreed to this on the condition that no one else should be permitted to see it. Daniel, Warren and Erwin admit that this is correct and an accurate account of what happened.

The invitation was extended by the Engineers' Council represented by L. I. Rankin.

Both John and his brother will enter State College next year to continue their studies, and because of the good records in the local school are expected to make a fine showing.

Their father is a veteran of both the Spanish-American and World Wars, and has been connected with the tailoring business here for many years.

BALLOT FIGHT TO BE RESUMED AGAIN TODAY

Senate Elections Committee Will Discuss Local and Statewide Repealers

By C. A. PAUL
Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, N. C., April 4.—The absentee ballot fight will be resumed here this afternoon when the Senate Elections Committee meets to discuss several local bills which would repeal the absentee ballot law in various counties. It is expected that the committee will indicate to Senator Allsbrook, of Halifax, its attitude on his promised measure to repeal the law for the entire State and permit those Senators and Representatives who wish to exempt their counties from the effect of the repealer to do so.

Six local repealers, previously reported unfavorably by the Senate Committee, will again face committee action as a result of a motion by Senator Morgan, of Richmond, who successfully proposed that the bills be taken from the unfavorable calendar and re-referred to the Elections Committee. Also confronting the committee is the bill by Senator Corey which would exempt

Pitt County from the law. The Corey bill was passed by the Senate under suspension of the rules only to be recalled upon the motion of Senate Elections Chairman K. B. Nixon, of Lincoln, who violently opposes repeal of the act even for a single county. The Election Committee has killed every repealer, both local and State-wide, to come before it.

A minority report for the repealers has been promised by Senator Allsbrook, a member of the committee and an advocate of a State-wide repealer. He told the Senate that he will introduce such a repeal bill and will bring it out of the committee with a minority report. Three signatures are necessary for such a report. Expected to join with Senator Allsbrook in signing a minority report are Senators Bell, of Mecklenburg, and Ramsey, of Transylvania.

"This Legislature ought not to adjourn without either repealing the absentee ballot law or drastically amending it so as to prevent abuses," said Major L. P. McLendon here today. He is chairman of the State Board of Elections, and says he sees no reason why the Legislature should not at least pass the Sparger bill which would limit the use of the absentee ballot to State and Federal employees and those actually ill. It is doubtful whether or not the Senate will pass a repealer even if it should be brought out of committee with a minority report.

Most people think of over drinking as the cause of hang-overs when over eating, or eating the wrong food is the big offender. Distress after eating is banished after a glass of 7-Up. The effect of 7-Up in the stomach neutralizes the acid—the CO<sub>2</sub> (Carbon Dioxide) purifies and sweetens the stomach. 7-Up does "take the 'ouch' out of grouch." You can't easily prove it. Keep a case at home.

7-Up sold wherever Bottled Drinks are sold. Order a case today from your grocer.

The next Hang-Over will be No. 2—Over Drinking.

Notice To List TAXES

List takers are now ready to list taxes at points designated by them, due notice of which having been given in notices which they have posted.

All persons having real or personal property or who should pay poll tax, are urged to list promptly. Early listing and cooperation with list takers will facilitate the work and tend to eliminate discrepancies.

All listing must be done with list takers. Late listers will be treated as delinquents and penalized as required by law.

Attention is called to the fact that the Machinery Act makes it a misdemeanor for list takers to fail to administer the oath to those listing, and they are required to use due diligence in seeing that all personal property is properly listed and valued, or report their inability to do so.

Farmers will aid greatly by preparing crop acreage reports in advance of listing. List takers are required by law to take these reports.

New York Cotton

New York, April 4.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, seven to eleven points advance in response to higher Liverpool cables and on trade buying.

July sold off to from 11.04 to 10.83 and December from 10.59 to 10.45 making net losses of about five to fifteen points by the trade buying and was renewed on the break and prices steadied up several points by the end of the first half-hour.

The earlier decline was followed by a quiet and steadier market in the morning. The market at midday was net unchanged to two points higher.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 4.—(AP)—Securities markets took a little more heart today, although cautious selectivity continued to demarcate categories.

Stocks patterned along a trial that pointed moderate upward and industrial bonds attracted some interest on the ground that first quarter reports may be better than expected. Grains again exhibited quiet strength with corn the feature.

Cotton moved hesitantly. Sterling was quiet in foreign dealings and the gold currencies were reactionary. The closing tone was steady. Transfers were 550,000 shares.

Late News Flashes

offered in some instances.

Only local bills were considered by the seat but the house got into a big long argument over a measure to provide uniform profit regulations in the state and permit motor vehicles up to 96 inches to use the highways.

Fail to Agree on Relief Bill

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—Senate and house managers of the tightly wedged $4,880,000,000 work relief bill program once again today failed to agree on a bill for final passage.

A conference lasting over an hour broke up abruptly with Senator Carter Glass of Virginia announcing "There is no agreement yet."

The Virginian despite optimistic predictions in some quarters that a compromise would be effected said he did not know when the conferees of the two houses would meet again.

Today's session was just 74 days after the money measure was first introduced.

The senate amendment under disagreement would require the spending on direct relief of 1-3 of the $4,880,000,000 allocated to states.

This was opposed by the administration and house conferees who were insisting on new language.

NRA was bombarded with criticism before the Senate finance committee by Owen Mason, former counsel of last summer's Darrow review board. He termed the recovery unit a step toward "fascism" state.

Just as vigorously Henry I. Harman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, fought the proposed abolition of utilities holding companies before the house Interstate Commerce committee.

Downtown Secretary Wallace suspended the milk marketing license of the Providence, R. I. area. Action resulted from a court decision and step in the enforcement of the milk was considered another backward agreement.

New Evidence in Hauptmann Case

New York, April 4.—(AP)—Edward J. Reilly today received notice of his dismissal as chief counsel of the defense of Bruno Richard Hauptmann and said the action "came just when we are going to make application for a new trial based on new evidence."

Reilly, who headed the unsuccessful defense of the trial of the man charged with the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby, said the new evidence would be the testimony of several persons willing to say that they had seen a strange car loitering in the vicinity of the Lindbergh estate near Hopewell, N. J., for more than four days before the kidnapping of the infant on March 1, 1932.

Four men, Reilly said, were in the car and Hauptmann was not one of them. The attorney said the license number of the machine was taken and showed the car had been stolen.

Two Killed in Rioting

Gallup, N. M., April 4.—(AP)—Sheriff M. R. Carmichael and an unemployed coal miner were shot to death and five persons, including one woman, were wounded today in a street riot precipitated by a shouting crowd of more than 300.

Disorder flared when this crowd rushed deputies, removing a prisoner from a hearing in a justice of peace court growing out of an eviction case.

The jobless man's name was identified as Ignacio Velarde, 37, a world war veteran.

Deputy Sheriff B. W. Roberts said either Velarde or another unemployed miner, Solomon Equibel, 37, shot Sheriff Carmichael through the head and the deputy then opened fire and shot both Velarde and Equibel.

Two other sheriff's deputies were wounded in the fighting. One of them suffered a bullet wound in the chest and the other was stabbed in the chest.

Woman Trained Khayyam

That same dramatic Metropolitan was won by Mr. Khayyam, owned by another woman, Mrs. James M. Austin, who has enjoyed considerable success as a trainer and developer of thoroughbreds. She has carried on her work in the face of common belief that it is impossible to raise and train first-class horses on Long Island because the grass lacks the essential lime. To overcome this deficiency Mrs. Austin imports blue grass from Kentucky and puts the lime and other necessary vitamins in the feed.

Her two daughters rank with the best women riders in the country. Each of the two girls owns and trains a race horse of her own, although to conform with the New York State racing rules, the horses are placed in the name of a male trainer.

Miss Mary Hirsch, daughter of Max Hirsch, noted trainer and developer of the great Sarazen, holds a license to train thoroughbreds in the States of Illinois and Michigan. She is one of the few if not the only woman, to be so certified.

An Early Riser

Miss Hirsch actually takes off her gloves and goes to work on her thoroughbreds. She's on the race track at sun-up with stop-watch in her hand, making suggestions here and there, with a keen and knowing eye.

When training her horses at the same track as her father, Miss Hirsch insists on being completely on her own. She refuses to quarter her thoroughbreds in the same stables with her father.

Miss Hirsch trains only her own horses, but has been unable to break down the traditions of some States where she is forced to call upon a male trainer to saddle her horses.

There are a number of women among them Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, who employ professional trainers, but actually supervise the work around the stables.

STACEY W. WADE, Secretary of State. Mar. 22-11w-4wk.

Reilly, who headed the unsuccessful defense of the trial of the man charged with the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby, said the new evidence would be the testimony of several persons willing to say that they had seen a strange car loitering in the vicinity of the Lindbergh estate near Hopewell, N. J., for more than four days before the kidnapping of the infant on March 1, 1932.

Four men, Reilly said, were in the car and Hauptmann was not one of them. The attorney said the license number of the machine was taken and showed the car had been stolen.

Two Killed in Rioting

Gallup, N. M., April 4.—(AP)—Sheriff M. R. Carmichael and an unemployed coal miner were shot to death and five persons, including one woman, were wounded today in a street riot precipitated by a shouting crowd of more than 300.

Disorder flared when this crowd rushed deputies, removing a prisoner from a hearing in a justice of peace court growing out of an eviction case.

The jobless man's name was identified as Ignacio Velarde, 37, a world war veteran.

Deputy Sheriff B. W. Roberts said either Velarde or another unemployed miner, Solomon Equibel, 37, shot Sheriff Carmichael through the head and the deputy then opened fire and shot both Velarde and Equibel.

Two other sheriff's deputies were wounded in the fighting. One of them suffered a bullet wound in the chest and the other was stabbed in the chest.

That same dramatic Metropolitan was won by Mr. Khayyam, owned by another woman, Mrs. James M. Austin, who has enjoyed considerable success as a trainer and developer of thoroughbreds. She has carried on her work in the face of common belief that it is impossible to raise and train first-class horses on Long Island because the grass lacks the essential lime. To overcome this deficiency Mrs. Austin imports blue grass from Kentucky and puts the lime and other necessary vitamins in the feed.

Her two daughters rank with the best women riders in the country. Each of the two girls owns and trains a race horse of her own, although to conform with the New York State racing rules, the horses are placed in the name of a male trainer.

Miss Mary Hirsch, daughter of Max Hirsch, noted trainer and developer of the great Sarazen, holds a license to train thoroughbreds in the States of Illinois and Michigan. She is one of the few if not the only woman, to be so certified.

An Early Riser

Miss Hirsch actually takes off her gloves and goes to work on her thoroughbreds. She's on the race track at sun-up with stop-watch in her hand, making suggestions here and there, with a keen and knowing eye.

When training her horses at the same track as her father, Miss Hirsch insists on being completely on her own. She refuses to quarter her thoroughbreds in the same stables with her father.

Miss Hirsch trains only her own horses, but has been unable to break down the traditions of some States where she is forced to call upon a male trainer to saddle her horses.

There are a number of women among them Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, who employ professional trainers, but actually supervise the work around the stables.

EXECUTORS NOTICE

Having qualified as executor on the estate of J. W. Edwards, deceased, late of Pitt County, North Carolina, this is to notify all persons having claims against the estate of the said deceased, to exhibit them to the undersigned on or before the 26th day of March, 1936, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery.
